A Trip to the Old Volunteer State

Like our trip to California in February, we find that we have a number of readers that are following us on this trip. Some may not appreciate it; we are sure some don't, but as we said last week, they need not read this, as they will likely find something else more interesting to them. But we do find that a number of people, especially middle aged and older, who either once lived in the old states, or at some time made a trip back there, are interested in these articles, and have urged us to continue them.

Little Rock—looked like a heluva big'un to us—was reached about noon, and all hands were ready for a lunch. One stop had been made on the about half way ground between Hot Springs and Little Rock for ten minutes for refreshments. Most anything you want can be had in Arkansas in the way of refreshments at these stopping places, but we noted that very few wanted beer, choosing instead either Dr. Pepper or Coke, as beer is harder on the kidneys. A few would grab off a sandwich or hot dog and maybe a hamburger, but a full meal was not expected until Little Rock was reached, where something like an hour was to be spent.

Little Rock is a fine city, much larger and more metropolitan than when we saw it last. There is much manufacturing going on there, especially as regards hard wood, and many seemed to be employed by railroads and their machine shops. Great office buildings pierce the sky and we noted particularly that so fast has modern Little Rock encroached upon the old southern city, that many costly churches with their spires shooting into the sky, were rubbing elbows with tall and modern office buildings. To our notion, some day the noise and confusion of traffic, will induce these churches to sell their property for commercial purposes and move to a quieter and more desirable part of the city. Little Rock has one of the best and most modern bus stations that we saw on the trip, and one need not leave the station for anything a traveler needs. Red Hat boys are on hand to assist you or give you any information you may need, and a good cafe is under the same roof with good food no higher than elsewhere. Here you can catch a bus to most any place in Arkansas, not to mention Memphis, St. Louis, Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Dallas and Fort Worth, and connections in these cities with other points all over the country. Here the Arkansawyer is no different from any other citizen of the good old U. S. A. He may live in parts of the mountain sections with high props under the front of his residence, with the hounds, hogs, chickens and goats occupying with more or less peace the space under the front of the house, but in Little Rock or any other town and city, the Arkansawyer is no different from the man over in Texas, Oklahoma or Missouri, some writers to the contrary notwithstanding.

About one in the afternoon, about a dozen busses lined up to leave the station, and the writer along with about half the rest of the travelers tried to board everyone that came up, but the drivers and Red Hats always ask where you are going, and keep you from boarding one headed for Podunk when you aimed to land at Skee-dunk. It is the same way at railway stations, it takes a guard at the gate and a crew at the steps of the train to keep people from getting on the wrong train, and even then they get by and get on a train headed for a place they never heard of before. People are a lot like sheep—they'll follow a leader—and we're all alike—we all think we are about to get left and we get as nervous as a sick kitten on a hot rock when trains and busses begin to move about. Even a freight train will cause us to grab our bag and baggage and hustle out toward the sound. Oh! Yeah! there may be the old dignified, scholarly man with a tomtit hat, or the very aristocratic old dame with the one-eyed specks on a pole that don't stir every time

Government May Tag Food Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Profiteering in food prices as a result of the drought is going to be about as unlucky as jumping in front of a freight train. The administration has made up its mind about that.

For months it has been trying to get farmers to see that the reason their crops are so cheap is because they grow a lot more than the people eat. It has underwritten the reduction of surplus acreage and the slaughter of surplus livestock, paying farmers out of a processing tax charged the consumers.

Don't want Program Blamed Now the drought has done what Secretary Wallace had given crop control measures at least two more years to complete. As a result, he says, food prices should rise about 6 or 7 per cent. That is about as big an increase as farmers can expect to get. If those who process or distribute the farmers produce jump their prices too much, the administration expects its critics to cry. "That's what comes from plowing under wheat and cotton and killing pigs."

Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace still believe crop production should be controlled through the agricultural adjustment administration, alternately increased and decreased according to market requirements, and they don't propose to have unduly high prices blamed on their program.

To Try Publicity At first the government will try to publicize "unfair" practices. There may be no need to do any more than that. Consumers councils eventually are to be set up in every city and town to advise the public on food prices.

If appeal to popular sentiment against profiteering does not keep prices within a range the administration considers equitable or if combined interest corner a commodity of which there has developed an insufficient supply, the president may lower the import duty on it by as much as 50 per cent. In numerous instances that would permit the profitable entry of a similar foreign product at prices which might dictate domestic values.

A second avenue of control lies in the NRA codes prescribing "fair practices" for the processors and handlers of foodstuffs.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heartsill have moved back to Brownfield from DeQueen, Ark.

We only live once, but if we live right, once is enough.

a train howls out near us, but us common herd heed the call and make for the opening. Hellandmariah, we aint got enough money along to stay at any of those darn tall hotels. Let us on the darn train or bus no matter where it is headed.

But when we get on the right one—and in our case it was a big one with a sign in front that read—MEMPHIS—we got dignified, too and were really sorry for the poor and ignorant. We simply reclined in our seat and pretended that we snored. By that time we could tell by the sun that we were headed east, and the time table said we'd reach Memphis at "persackly" 5:55 P.M.

We didn't 'possum long, however, for we were interested in where in the "Sam Hill" our corn and 'taters were coming from this winter, and our eyes shot out on the vista. Still the corn was yellow, burned and twisted, and the cotton yelling for the rain that would not come. It was low for that section, with burned leaves half way up the stalk, and the small premature bolls, few in number, opening. My Lord! had old god Pluvius neglected the whole country?

But as we neared the "Old Man River" the stuff looked better. Tens of thousands of acres where once grew the mighty oak, the stately cypress and the hardy gum, had been cleared. Uncle Sam had thrown up a big bank on this side of the great Mississippi, and the farmer had cleared up the land and amid the jetting knees of cypress and stumps of the oaks, cotton and corn was growing, and it looked better than anything we saw after leaving grand old Terry.

Presently, we were in a fairly nice little city, we had never seen before, the driver yelled "West Memphis," and we came to a stop! Thirty-one years ago, where it stood, was a swamp—now a hustling city in Arkansas. Episode No. 3 ends right here.

Dallas Awarded Major Centennial Exposition in 1936

The major celebration of the Texas Centennial in 1936, will be held in Dallas. The Centennial Board made the announcement Sunday in Austin after giving lengthy consideration to bids of Houston, San Antonio and Dallas. Along with the major exposition, other celebrations will be held over the state at points of historical interest, such as Brenham, Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Goliad, Gonzales, Huntsville and other cities. Above is a new airplane view of downtown Dallas. The exposition will take place on the State Fair grounds (greatly enlarged,) a scant two miles from the center of the area pictured above. Good Horse Racing at South Plains Fair

LUBBOCK, Sept. 10.—Horse racing, one of the most thrilling sports of all times, will be a feature of the Panhandle South Plains Fair here, September 24 to 29, inclusive.

"Many race horse owners have made entries for the six day racing card and we are interested in having other entries in advance of the fair," A. B. Davis, Lubbock, secretary of the Fair Association, has announced.

There will be races for sheldahl ponies, for kid ponies, and for saddle horses, in addition to the regular quarter mile race horse runs.

There will be no extra charge for the races and thousands will be on hand each afternoon.

In the evening, fireworks and free acts will be provided for entertainment and on Thursday and Friday nights, Sept. 27 and 28, a horse show will be held with the better horses of Lubbock, Sudan, Amarillo, Panhandle and other points, entered for competition. Mason King will judge.

The Jack T. Wortham Shows will play the midway and among the many educational features of the fair will be the exhibits in the agricultural building, in the three livestock barns, in the poultry building, in the women's building, industrial building and outdoor exhibits.

Merchants Report a Smart Pickup Lately

Most any casual observer could have noticed without much trouble last Saturday that the merchants were busier than common on Saturday, and even Monday, the third week of district court was no mean day for business. This especially applies to the dry goods stores, as the groceryman has had a fair run all the year, but even they had a decided pickup Saturday and Monday.

Several of the older stores were frank to admit a better showing in business, some of which they attributed to the early start in cotton gathering, a great deal of which is now coming in to market. The managers of the two new stores, Mr. Bob Cobb of The Fair, and Mr. Latham of the Stephens-Latham store informed us that they were very agreeably surprised by the volume of business they are already getting.

As the season advances, business of course will grow in volume, and the business men have good stocks that have mostly been purchased before the rise, although new goods are arriving daily. But on account of the short crop, the price on even new goods will be held to the minimum.

Small Grain Pastures Prevent Feed Shortage

The serious feed shortage which is threatening Texas can be at least partially averted, according to crop specialists of the A. and M. College, if farmers will plant small grains, such as wheat, oats, and barley, for winter pasture as soon as good rains are received.

Farmers in the Panhandle and in North Central Texas, who regularly grow these crops for grain, have long recognized their value as winter pasture crops. Recent experiments conducted by the Texas Experiment Station indicate that these grain crops and other grasses are well worth planting for pasture alone, even in regions where they will not make grain. At the Denton Station wheat clipped at regular intervals to stimulate grazing by livestock, has produced 17,000 pounds of green forage per acre, while at the Angleton Station a mixture of oats and Italian rye grass has produced 11,000 pounds of green forage. This green feed is not only very nutritious and palatable, but high in protein and vitamin A.

Winter grain pastures may be grown in almost any region of the State where other crops are grown. They can be planted from September to December, whenever the soil is moist enough to germinate the seed. Because of the mild winters, growth continues almost without interruption so that winter grain pastures in Texas are much more productive than in the northern states.

Which grain to plant depends upon the region. In the Panhandle—Plains wheat is the only suitable winter grain. Recent rains in some counties of this region have made it possible to start planting wheat immediately.

Ford Building His Own Steel Mills

Dearborn, Mich., Aug. 30.—Henry Ford is today in full swing on the final move that will give his industry an absolutely independent supply of the 36 different kinds of special steels which it requires.

The move involves the building of two huge new steel mills, installation of a vast amount of special machinery and sufficient additions to his present power equipment to drive the new mill.

The construction will require eight months to complete and will cost between $12,000,000 and $13,000,000. When the new mills are ready, Ford can produce 3,000 cars a day without buying a pound of steel in the market.

He will have attained a position, so far as steel supply is concerned, achieved by no other private manufacturer in the world. All other great manufacturers using steel are dependent on outside producers—even the great European and American ordinance and railroad equipment manufacturers.

Ford's move will tend further to make the Detroit area a great steel producing district by the addition of 1,500 tons of finished steel a day.

Friendship is one fire that will never burn the fingers of those who hold it.

No Loss of Cotton Seen in the AAA Plan

College Station—The South is not about to lose its cotton markets to foreign countries because of the Bankhead act and the cotton adjustment program, according to reliable facts gathered by the United States Department of Agriculture. Material furnished by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration clearly shows that foreign countries have increased cotton production to the limit for years. A careful study of each of America's cotton growing competitors indicates that the possibility of further increases are very unlikely in the near future.

If American cotton prices were to go to very high levels and remain there for 15 or 20 years foreign cotton production would increase, it is believed. As matters now stand, America has a large available surplus of cotton to more than satisfy all foreign markets. American cotton exports for the two years 1931-32 and 1932-33 exceeded all exports for the last 13 years except for one year. The exports for the cotton year recently ended are expected to be nearly as high as those of the years just preceding.

It has been said that every time we reduce acreage foreign countries increase their cotton acreage. Figures do not bear this out. The whole cotton world seems to move more or less together in increasing or decreasing acreage. It is said that last year we plowed up 10 million acres of cotton and foreign countries promptly increased their cotton 4 million acres. The foreign increase was planted before the American plow-up. Cotton planting dates are about the same all over the world. America increased planting 4 million acres in 1933 and so did the rest of the world.

Foreign cotton production steadily increased from 1890 to 1933. Some people are alarmed about this because they think this increase will continue indefinitely. As a matter of fact, foreign countries have nearly reached their limit of profitable cotton competition. It will take very high prices over a long period of years to bring forth much more competition. The Agricultural Adjustment cotton program merely aims at preventing towering surpluses that bring poverty to the South. It plans always to have plenty of cotton to sell at home and abroad. A reasonable American price is too low to encourage unlimited foreign production.

It should always be kept in mind that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration cotton program does not aim at permanent reduction. It does propose to help farmers to cooperate to adjust the supply of cotton to effective demand. For the first time in history the Southern farmer and business man has the opportunity to work out a long-time plan that will avoid most of the tail spins in cotton price which have periodically depressed the South for 50 years. The plan has not surrendered to foreign markets and is not likely to do so.

In succeeding articles facts about cotton growing conditions in India, Egypt, Russia, China and Brazil will be presented. The first four countries furnish nearly 85% of our foreign competition, and Brazil is the one country which might give real competition in the future. When these are studied there will be less alarm about the foreign situation.

Terry to Head Cotton Production this Year

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Revising his estimate of July 30th and a later one which was practically half that of the first one for 1934, V. O. Jennings, local representative of Neil P. Anderson last week estimated the production of cotton for 18 South Plains counties will be 92-300 bales. The first estimate was 120,000 bales and the second one 65,000 bales, made following several weeks of drought in early August.

Mr. Jennings had placed the probable production at 65,000 bales just prior to the rains of late August. He made the sharp reduction because of severe weather conditions that had prevailed during the first several weeks of the month.

Terry County Leads Terry county, in the new estimate, is the bright spot of the South Plains, that county's crop being estimated at 20,000 bales. This includes Yoakum county, without a gin and with only a small production.

Lamb county is placed second with 15,000 bales; Lynn a close third with 13,000 bales and Hale fourth with 10,000 bales. Other counties rank below that figure.

Crosby and Lubbock counties tie for the next place with 6,000 bales each, with Bailey ranking next below with 5,000 bales.

Makes Personal Investigation Mr. Jennings made his estimates after a careful investigation of conditions, personally, backed by reports from ginners, cotton men and farmers over the territory.

The following is the Caprock estimate as prepared by Mr. Jennings for his house:

County	Estimate
Bailey	5,000
Borden	300
Briscoe	1,000
Castro	1,000
Cochran	1,000
Crosby	6,000
Dawson	3,500
Floyd	2,000
Gaines	1,000
Garza	2,500
Hale	10,000
Hockley	4,000
Lamb	15,000
Lubbock	6,000
Lynn	13,000
Swisher	1,000
Terry	20,000
Total	92,300

Roughly, the better crop area is west of Lubbock, with Terry showing a larger crop and the crop area running north to Lamb and hence east to Hale.

Most of Lubbock's crop will be in the south and western sections with the greater part of Lynn county's crop north of Tahoka. The Crosby county territory where the crop is best, is south of the Santa Fe railroad.

Cubs Open Grid Season With Cowhands Tonite

Coach Daniell's 1934 version of "Those Fightin' Cubs" will play their first football game tonight under the lights at Tech Field with the Lubbock High School Cowhands.

The Cowhand team is composed of players who are not eligible to play on the Westerner team on account of the transfer rule, failure to pass class work, or lack of experience. They have always been considered worthy opposition by schools who have a Class B rating in football, however.

The coach and boys have been working hard in preparation for the game, and whether the Cubs are victorious or not the Cowhands will know that they have either been placed or have been taken places when the final whistle blows.

Better than two dozen men have been working out daily, and they are likely to finish the season. As most of the culling out process is over.

If everything develops as it is expected to, Coach Daniell will have one or two very pleasant surprises for the local fans tonight. So this game should not be missed by any means. If you are planning to go to the game and have room for a player or two, please get in touch with James Harley Dallas at the State Bank or Coach Daniell at the High School building, if someone has not already seen you about this.

Husband (coming home late): Can you guess where I've been?
Wife: "I can. But go ahead and tell your story."

Pick Your Cotton this Year is Advisable

The Herald never advises its farmer friends much, as most of them have farmed about as long as we did. Indeed, we never say very much about how to prepare the ground, sow the seed, cultivate and harvest. Most all farmers are familiar with all such operations. It is a fact that we are a little critical occasionally, when we see a farm grown up in weeds so badly that the little old plants have no chance on earth to do anything, even if we have a seasonable year. But this is pure dogged trifling and not lack of knowledge on the part of the farmer.

But here is a little advise we are hating out entirely free. The farmer can take it or leave it just as he likes; it is just this: This is one year if we were farming ourself that we would pick and not pull cotton. In the first place, they tell us that at its best, the staple is none too good this year, and with having to use machinery to tear the bolls and trash out, it will naturally injure the staple to some extent. We are not making a world of cotton, and we should try to make every bale bring every dollar it will.

In the second place, there are hundreds of people that want work, and naturally picking as against pulling will give more employment, and in view of the fact that picked cotton will or should bring enough difference to pay the cost of the extra labor.

Thirdly, cotton is opening early this year, and there is no special hurry to get it out, as the price will, we believe advance as the season progresses, and the world realizes that there will be a short crop.

S. P. Fair Boosters Here Last Friday

A large bunch of the Lubbock Fair boosters were here for about an hour last Friday afternoon, on their swing back toward home after a jaunt of more than 200 miles, that took in Slaton, Post, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamasa, Seminole and Seagraves, with another bunch splitting off at Seminole and going via Hobbs, Lovington and Tatum, N. M.

Talks were made by one of their speakers, after being formerly welcomed by P. F. Lawlis, superintendent of the local schools. Also, the Lubbock high school band rendered a number of selections that were well received. Souvenirs were scattered to the children by the visitors. One thing they did not get this year was the annual watermelon feast. Just been too dry this year, and most of the melons eaten here are brought in, which makes them too high to distribute to our visitors.

One very sad thing occurred as they returned home, was that one of their cars made collision north of here with a returning truck that had been to Lubbock, and driven by the Bruce boys. Four of the Lubbock people were badly hurt, and we understand that one has not to this time gained consciousness. The Bruce boys were shaken up but not hurt, as their truck was heavily loaded, but they are having to have the truck worked over this week.

According to the Bruce boys, there was a heavy dust on the detour made by the several Lubbock cars, and the first they knew, they had hit one of the cars, that appeared to have gotten over on that side of the road, whether to try to pass or get out of some of the dust, will probably never be known.

Sacred Harp Singers to Meet at Anton Sep. 23

Sacred Harp Singers of the South Plains will meet at Anton Sunday, September 23, for a regular convention, H. M. McEachern, Woodrow, president, announced Saturday.

Invitations have been sent to residents of a dozen counties to attend. The program will begin at 10 a. m. and there will be the usual basket dinner for all attending.

Solo numbers, duets, quartets and class numbers will be given. The meeting is open to any who desire to attend. A crowd of several hundred out of town people are expected to be in Anton for the occasion. Place of the meeting will be announced following a conference by President McEachern and others with Anton people.

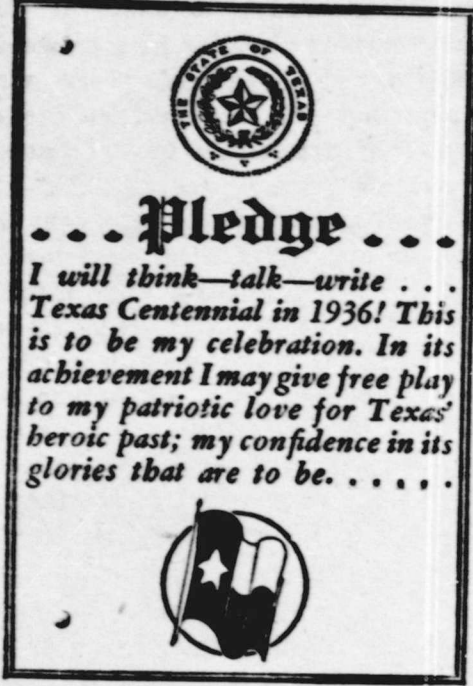

Work is never half as hard as you think it is.

RED GOOSE—THE OJIBWA INDIAN BOY

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls
By Carlyle Emery

Red Goose had saved a Sioux boy, Raven Feather, from drowning, but once on shore, the Ojibwa lad had been knocked unconscious by a falling tree. Altho the Sioux and Ojibwa were bitter enemies, neither one of the boys could harm the other. Now go on with the story.

Red Goose made up his mind, and turning suddenly to his companion said:

"No! I will not kill you. Here—take this knife. It is warrior's knife. Take this food my father gave me, and this warrior's robe."

Raven Feather trembled with excitement. He couldn't believe that an Ojibwa would be kind to him.

"You—Ojibwa. I—I Sioux."
"Yes. You my friend."

"Friend?"

"We touch hands. Now you go I not tell my people. You go that way and find Sioux camp. Then you safe."

"You—you set enemy free?"
"Yes. I am son of Chief."

"Raven Feather owes his life to Red Goose. I will not forget. Some day Raven Feather will pay back."

"You go now."

"I go. I tell my people all Ojibwa are brave. I tell them not to make war on Ojibwa. I go."

This was the end of the unusual conversation between the two Indian boys, and without looking back even once, Raven Feather disappeared in the great forest.

And so, Red Goose found and saved a friend who was to be a very good friend indeed, years later when the Sioux and Ojibwa fought to the death.

Raven Feather had not been gone more than two or three minutes when Red Goose heard a long drawn hail which told him Ojibwa were approaching from the opposite direction. And so, it wasn't long before he told his father the story of his capture and escape.

Red Eagle was much impressed with his son's bravery, and asked: "You were one against many Sioux?"

"Yes, father."

"And you say you saw many Sioux drown trying to catch you?"

"Yes, Father."

"Humph! Red Goose is true blade of Red Eagle."

Once back in the Ojibwa Village, the news spread rapidly how Red Goose had not only saved his people from an attack by the Sioux, but how, tho he had been capture and bound hand and foot, he had managed to escape. For this experience, the boy was given three Eagle Feathers—one for bravery, one for escaping from the Sioux, and one for saving the Village from an attack.

But no one ever knew that Red Goose had made a friend of a Sioux boy, or that he had deliberately saved his life.

Mrs. Geo. W. Neill and children, Jim and Mary Jo, moved this week to Lubbock, to make their home. Geo. W. has been there something like a year in the abstract business and now the children are ready for college. They rented their home here so we understand to Geo. Warren and family.

Some of our readers in other states have written in to ask about oil leasing. There is none that we know of in Terry county at present; some in Yoakum and pretty active in Gaines county.

Tom Thompson and sons, Thomas and Johnson, were in Tuesday.

Colds are the general complaint, and some of them are proving to be real stubborn to stop. The general cause seems to be so much difference between day and night temperatures.

District court is grinding away this week mostly on bootleg cases. One case of driving while intoxicated was transferred here from Yoakum county.

Mr. D. M. Saunders of Bonham was here this week prospecting, and called on the Herald, and informed us that Zack Smith of that city was a good friend of his. Mr. Saunders was an old time cowboy on a ranch in the Clarendon section some 40 years ago, he informed us.

The Herald will appreciate it very much if the merchants will get their ads in to us just as soon as possible each week. Being late with ads has caused the Herald to have to work nights a good deal lately.

There is no time like the present.

THE "FALL" OF THE FERGUSONS

Somewhat of the caution that accompanies omniscience is displayed by the New York Times in commenting upon the "fall of the Fergusons" aspect of the late Texas primaries. It says: "Pa and Ma have solemnly declared that they will be through with politics after Jan. 1. The vow may not be irrevocable. Were it kept, Jim's health would suffer. Much of the delight of battle would be lost, and the acreage of 'invective vituperation' be alarmingly reduced."

Any optimistic proclamation of a Ferguson fall needs to be accompanied with a precise statement of the proclaimer's idea of what "fall" means. If the thought is that Mr Ferguson is no longer to be estimated as an influence in Texas politics, then the wary will fear that it is but a case of the wish being the father of the thought. There will be no last round-up for "Fergusonism" as long as Jim is able to contemplate some 150,000 votes that will follow him wherever he leads.

The Times errs in saying that the "Ferguson candidate" was overwhelmingly defeated in the run-off primary. The candidate to whom Jim turned after losing out in the first primary was indeed defeated, but a margin of less than 60,000 in a total vote of 1,000,000 can not rightly be termed overwhelming. Star-Telegram.

VENOM CURES EPILEPSY

With broken health and a scar covered left arm showing upon whom he has conducted his experiments Dr.

F. W. Fitzsimmons, director of Port Elizabeth Hospital, in South Africa, recently made the claim he has developed a cure for epilepsy from snake venom. He says experiments on animals indicate that the venom is also a cure for cancer but since it has never been tested on a cancerous human he does not make this claim for it. He was very firm however, in his statement regarding epilepsy, citing several cases where cures have been effected.

Dr. Fitzsimmons has been experimenting for years with the different snake venoms at his laboratories in South Africa and has produced many successful remedies for snake bite. Some years ago he heard of 2 cases in which accidental snake bites cured epilepsy. From then on his experiments were turned in that direction and he is now sure that he has finally achieved his end. He carefully pointed out that the cure is not a serum but a pure venom which has been rendered harmless by chemical treatment.—Patent holder.

THE TEETH SHOULD BE CAREFULLY GUARDED

A fact that is not generally understood, according to Dr. John W. Brown, is that diseased teeth frequently may be associated with disease manifestations in other parts of the body. The inter-relation and inter-dependence of the various parts which comprise this miraculous bodily mechanism are so sensitive that in instances when matters go amiss not only is the location of the infection affected but other parts become involved also.

Thus diseased teeth or gums may directly develop an infection of the nose, eye, head sinuses, the stomach and even the intestinal tract. Again, germs from a diseased mouth may be transported by the blood stream to the kidneys or heart, thus causing serious trouble frequently ending fatally. Even such extremely painful and tenacious conditions as neuritis and arthritis can often be directly traced to infections in and around the teeth.

The man or woman who respects health as the greatest of all earthly assets will do well to heed the ordinary principles of mouth hygiene; being conscientiously adhered to, they can be relied upon to protect against the conditions that take such a tremendous and unnecessary toll.

Thoroughly to cleanse the teeth daily by toothbrush and dental floss, and religiously to seek a periodic dental examination at least semi-annually, oftener if required, is merely practicing a common sense procedure which returns incalculable dividends.

WEEKLY COTTON GRADE AND STAPLE REPORT

The report released today by the Division of Cotton Marketing at Austin, Texas giving the quality of cotton ginned in Texas, shows a wide range of grades for this time of the year. All are grades represented from Good Middling Extra White, and better to low grades in the colored standards. The predominating grade to date is Strict Middling White with about 27 per cent. Only 13 per cent of the cotton is Middling White, while Strict Low and Low Middling White is about 10 per cent of the cotton classed to date. The proportion of higher grades is somewhat larger this week than was noted last week.

The black land belt of Texas is producing a high proportion of Strict Middling and better grades and very little spotted cotton, while the Coastal Prairie is ginning a higher percentage of low grades.

The report this week shows that a larger percentage of 7-8 inch cotton is being ginned than was ginned last week. The percentages for staple length for this week are 7-8 in 47.7 per cent; 15-16 inch is 43.6 per cent; and one inch staple is only 6.3 per cent. There is a noticeable shortage of inch cotton ginned to date. The Flat Woods is producing the largest amount of 1 inch cotton to date. 11 per cent of the cotton ginned in the Edwards Plateau is shorter than 7-8 inch. The total teneable cotton ginned to date is 96.5 per cent.

An Irishman who worked for the city came home one evening after a very hot summer's day and began to kick at his wife for not having his supper ready.

"What do yer mane by talkin' to me that way?" she said to him. "Here I am all day slavin' me health an' strength away over the washtub on a hot day like this, and you down in your nice cool sewer."

Dealer: "Let me sell you some of our new patent bait, sir."
Fisher: "Is it effective?"
Dealer: "Effective? Why, I sold a man some of it last week, and he got turned out of the church for telling the truth about the fish he caught."

SPLASH
Mary: "Have a good time last night?"
Sally: "Yeah, but take my advice and never slap a fellow when he's chewing tobacco."

DROUGHT MAY BRING PROFIT FOR TEXAS

All winds of drought may yet blow some profit to Texas growers of cotton the state's only $100,000,000 farm crop, J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, predicted yesterday.

Despite a crop one-third short of normal, farmers may receive as much or more for their crop than they did last year, he said. The result of a short crop may be a higher price. In addition, farmers would save on harvesting cost and also receive government benefits.

The situation is grave, however, in some section in which the crop was a total failure he said. The drought hit in some areas before cotton plants reached sufficient growth to bloom.

Lack of rain has caused 70 per cent of the cotton to become "woody" a condition which will prevent additional fruiting, he said, continued lack of rain will make bolls open prematurely, causing a short staple.

In her school essay on "Parents," a little girl wrote: "We get our parents at so late an age that it is impossible to change their habits."

Only ignorance despises education.

Chamber of Commerce

If any reader of the Herald knows of a large watermelon, pumpkin or kershaw I would appreciate it if they would let me know about it, or better still, bring it in next week. We are going to be able to show a pretty good exhibit, with the exception of these items, but if we go to the Amarillo Fair, we are going to take the smallest specimens of the three, than has ever been the case. We could use some popcorn and sweet potatoes, but can manage with what we have.

Several farmers have asked the writer whether the chamber of commerce was going to undertake to secure a supply of cotton pickers to take care of the crop and one farmer said that he was advised that we were undertaking to do. Now this is to advise that it is not our intention to have people from other sections come in, as we believe that the supply of home labor is sufficient and if we did bring them in, the chances are that our relief load this winter would be greatly increased and we are having a hard enough time taking care of the present list. So if the readers of the Herald hear anyone say that we are undertaking to load the country with cotton pickers, you can advise them, that the chamber of commerce IS NOT going to do anything of the kind.

Within a very short time, deeds will be prepared to cover the needed right of way on Highway 84 and efforts made to get them signed as soon as possible, as we have reason to believe that if we can get everything properly signed up, that this highway will get the same sort of construction that is being done on 137, especially the West portion of it and maybe the other.

HARDIN-SIMMONS U. EXPECTS BIG INCREASE

ABILENE, Sept. 10.—The thirty-third annual session of Hardin-Simmons University will open here on Tuesday, September 18. Registration will occupy two days and classes will begin on the 20th. The opening convocation will be held at the university chapel at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

With dormitory reservations far ahead of what they were at this time last year, authorities anticipate a large increase in enrollment. Requests for catalogues and their information have been unusually heavy this year.

He had purchased a parrot which was rather a young bird and was trying to teach it to talk. He walked close to the cage and said in a loud clear voice:

"Hello! Hello! Hello, there! Hello!" He yelled until tired, the parrot paying no attention to him. But when the man stopped for breath, the parrot opened one eye and said, "Line's busy."

PRINTER'S ERROR ENLIVENS PREACHER'S SERMON

St. Petersburg, Fla.—A printer's error might have embarrassed if Rev. James A. Mc Clure had not been the sort who sees the funny side of things.

As pastor of the First Presbyterian Church he sent to the paper the announcement that his sermon topic the following Sunday would be "The secret of Power."

The typesetter hit the wrong letter, the proof reader failed to catch it—and so it was chronicled that Rev.

Mr. McClure would preach about "The Secret of Poker." "Oh, that's all right," laughed the clergyman. "Perhaps I'll have the church overflowing."

Miss Kathleen Hardin left for school at A. C. C. Abilene this week. Her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Webb took her down. Miss Hardin is a sophomore.

"Twas in a restaurant they met, Romeo and Juliet. He had no cash to pay the debt, So Romeo'd for what Juliet's."

Texans Wedded For Sixty-Nine Years

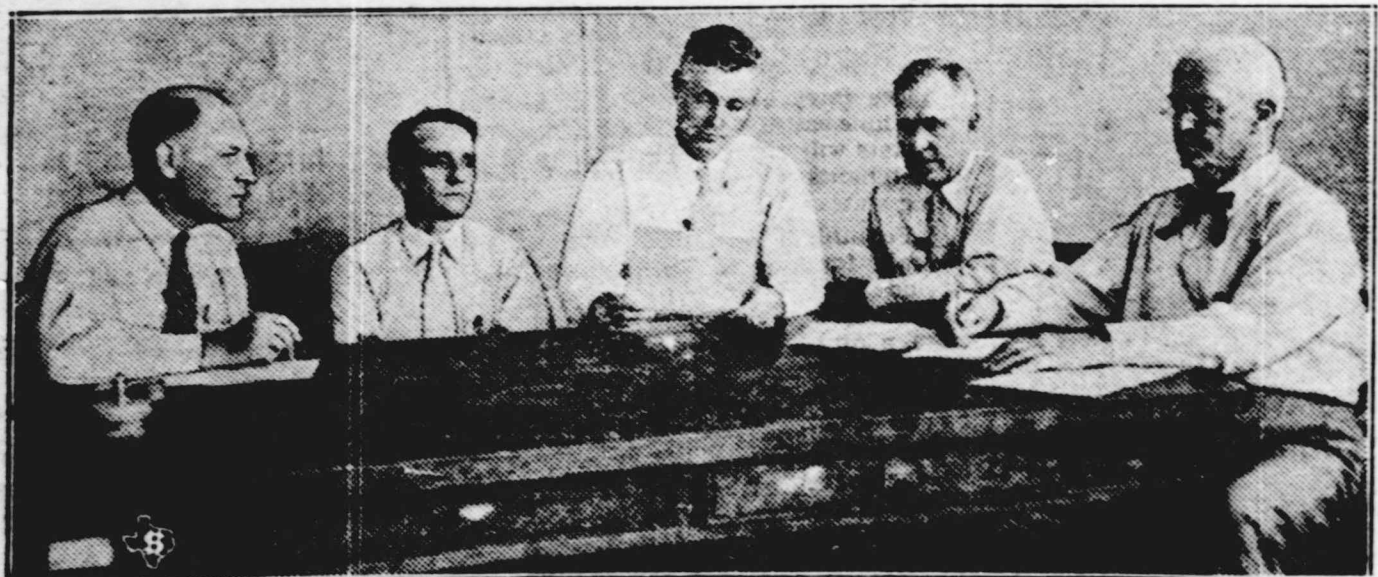

Golden wedding celebrations are rather rare, but Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Keys of Larue, (Henderson county,) Texas, have bettered that venerable mark by 19 years. They celebrated their 69th wedding anniversary recently and it is believed that they hold the state record for length of wedded life. Mr. Keys is 88; Mrs. Keys 84. (Texas News Photos.)

New Bill May Complete Colorado Dam

They Control Working of Bankhead Cotton Law in Texas

A COWBOY'S VISION
 By Marion McGinty
 Last night as I lay on the prairie
 Silent in sweet repose,
 The stars twinkled brightly to cheer me,
 The dew drops kissed the rose.
 I looked into the Heavens,
 A vision I saw to inspire;
 That the love of God is kindness,
 His wrath is a flaming fire.
 You talk of Hell and of Heaven,
 You mention the soul to save;
 Heaven is the space above you,
 Hell is the depth of the grave.
 Why do the Clergy teach us
 That when we come to die,
 Our souls will take wings like the Angels
 And ascend to the Home on high.
 Jesus paused while here to tell us
 In words that did blend
 That "no man has ever ascended into Heaven
 Except Him who did descend."
 The Scripture plainly tells us
 In giving out God's plan,
 That Heaven is the Home of the Angels,
 The Earth was made for man.
 In them we find the promise
 That God has given to men
 Eternal life for obedience,
 Death; the penalty for sin.
 Will some one kindly tell me,
 Will some one please to show,
 Where the bible ever tells us
 That we will to Heaven go?

963,000 Miles OF ROAD TESTS!

NEW and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil is the most thoroughly tested oil ever put on the market! And every test proved that it gives greater motor protection and lower oil consumption!
 First, it was tested in more than a hundred cars, trucks and tractors for 963,000 miles of road tests.
 Then it was tested against five other nationally known oils in the Destruction Test at Indianapolis Speedway. One fill of this new, patented oil carried a car 4,729 miles—outdistancing the best of the competing oils by 1,410.2 miles!

 Drive into a Conoco Red Triangle Station today and fill with New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil—the oil that every test has proved is a better oil!

owes these children a great responsibility—that of providing them with maximum protection from fire. The tragic records of the past show how badly we have failed in discharging that duty. The history of every state contains black pages which recount school fires resulting in deaths of helpless children. In some disasters as many as 200 children have perished—needlessly.

Past surveys have demonstrated that the average school is literally a fire-trap—and some of the newest and most expensive schools are as dangerous in this respect as those built 30 years ago. Improper doors, faulty construction, inadequate exits, carelessness in the storing of inflammable supplies—here are menaces to life that exist in thousands of school buildings, unknown to the parents who send their children to them. The National Board is considering a survey of schools throughout the United States, as a preparation for a general report on school properties, construction and equipment. If that survey is made, it will produce much valuable new data—data which should be immediately acted upon in the interest of protecting invaluable lives.

40 of St. Louis' Prettiest Girls Chosen From Among 500 Contestants to Model at Fall Fashion Pageant

1. A chic polka dotted satin dress that promises to be popular this fall. 2. Girls chosen from among 500 contestants to model at the fall fashion pageant to be held in conjunction with the semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association in St. Louis, August 6 to 20. 3. A trim, smart dress good for any time of the day. 4. Dame Fashion's decree in fall footwear. 5. An attractive frock of the shirtwaist style will be one of milady's favorites this fall.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Dame Fashion will hold the center of the stage in St. Louis during the two weeks from August 6 to 20, when a bevy of manikins chosen from among 500 of the city's prettiest girls will present glittering previews of feminine styles for the coming fall and winter.
 The fashion shows—the most elaborate ever to be staged in St. Louis in recent years—will be outstanding features of the convention of the American Retailers' Association which has more than 5,000 members in forty-one states. Fashion pageant performances will be presented by the forty "Queens of Fashion" on the nights of August 6, 8, 10, 13 and 15, with the ornate Gold Room of the Jefferson Hotel providing an appropriate stage setting. Styles from "head to foot" will be shown by the galaxy of girls chosen by rigid tests of pulchritude and grace from among the 500 who sought the privilege of displaying the feminine apparel for fall and winter. Interspersed each promenade will be an elaborate program of entertainment.

 Plans are being made for the largest delegation of retail merchants ever attracted to a convention of the American Retailers' Association. Three fashion shows were the most ever held during a previous convention, and sessions of the Association heretofore have been confined to one week.
 The enlarged program was decided upon by officials of the Association in view of the improvement in general business conditions and the increase in retail trade in virtually all parts of the country. The business sessions of the convention have been designed to be of maximum help to the attending retail merchants in meeting problems confronting them.
 Reduced railroad rates of a fare and one-third the round trip will be in effect during the convention for merchants of thirty-four states and the District of Columbia, and reduced fares, on the basis of 2 cents per mile each direction on round trip tickets will be in effect for the retail merchants of nearly all the remaining states.

 Features of the convention program for the visiting retailers include A. R. A. nights at the St. Louis Municipal Theater on August 9 and 16, a dinner dance at the Meadowbrook Country Club on the night of August 14, and a steamboat excursion on the Mississippi River the night of August 7.
 The open-air municipal theater in Forest Park is the home of the St. Louis Municipal Opera, the best known institution of its kind in the country. The productions by A. R. A. nights will be "The New Boat" on the night of August 13, "The Show Boat" on the night of August 14.
 Mayor Bernard D. Baskin of St. Louis joined with Association officials in urging all retailers to come to St. Louis for the convention.

 "As Mayor of St. Louis, I take sincere pleasure in inviting the people of your community to visit this city," the Mayor's letter said. "See our parks and public gardens; world famous Zoo; Art Museum; Lindbergh's trophies; our great Municipal Opera; and enjoy while you are here the convention program of the American Retailers' Association."
 Officers of the American Retailers' Association for the coming year will be elected at the final session of the convention. Julius Dupont, of Houma, Louisiana, is the present president.
 Vice Presidents are W. F. Beall, Jacksonville, Texas; M. E. Forester, Ottawa, Kansas; B. F. Hart, Harrisburg, Illinois; John F. Lotter, Perryville, Missouri; L. K. Sharpe, Checotah, Oklahoma, and Louis Weisberg, Longmont, Colorado. Scott R. DeKins, of St. Louis, is secretary and treasurer of the Association.

DEALEY PRIZE CONTEST TO BE HELD IN OCTOBER

Elimination contest are to be held at Lubbock in October to determine the music students who shall represent the Nineteenth District in the Dealey Prize Contest finals to be conducted when the Texas Music Teachers' Association meets in annual session November 30-December 1 in Lubbock, according to Miss Carrie Bier of Plainview who is in charge of elimination contests in the district.

Miss Bier will be assisted by Guy Woods of the Wayland College Music Department. Miss Bier states that she will soon have definite information as to the date in October when the preliminary contest will be held in Lubbock to determine the two winners to represent each classification in behalf of the South Plains Music Teachers' Association.

In order to make the competition available to every eligible young musician the state has been divided into twenty-one districts, corresponding to the newly reapportioned congressional districts.

Counties in District 19, are: Bailey, Lamb, Floyd, Hale, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Andrews, Martin, Howard, and Mitchell.

The contest numbers are as follows:

Piano—"In the Night" (Schumann) and one other number of the grade of difficulty of a Chopin or Liszt Etude or movement from a standard sonata.

Violin—"Zigeunerweisen" (Sarasate) and a number of the contestant's choice.

Voice, female—"O De Mio Voce Ardor" (Gluck). Published by G. Schirmer. Also one number of the contestant's choice.

Voice, male—"Where'er You Walk," from "Semele" (Handel). Published by G. Schirmer. Also on number of the contestant's choice.

REVIVAL IN BUILDING INEVITABLE

In a recent article in the Annalist, Walter Renton Ingalls says that the nation's residential building between 1920 and 1929 was not in excess of requirements. Even though the high average total of 5,000,000 new residences were erected each year, changes in population density, increases in the total population, and obsolescence of old dwellings, prevented overproduction of housing.

Since 1929, residential building has dropped from 5,000,000 homes a year, to less than 100,000.

The shortage is especially acute in rural districts, inasmuch as depression forced an exodus from cities to the farm. Also, the rural homes offer the greatest field for raising the standard of housing through introduction of labor saving conveniences.

It seems inevitable that the United States, within the comparatively near future, will witness heavy increases in building and remodeling.

Oscar Jones is just about through with the remodeling of his new residence out near the golf course, and will move in as soon as it is finished.

I. A. Stephens of Lubbock, was down Tuesday looking after his interests in the Stephens-Latham store here.

Shoots Bomb—Mob Jeers—Showers Fall

Mr. James A. Boaz, self-styled rainmaker, has finally made it rain. But the 15-minute shower he brought down in Waxahachie, Texas, Saturday with a ground bomb like that shown in the picture is nothing compared to what he plans to do with the aid of five airplanes. The Saturday bomb went up 200 feet, popped, and exactly 10 minutes later a nice little shower fell. Boaz is pictured holding the fuse of the bomb while admirers stand about. (Texas News Photos.)

Do You Know?

WHAT the Royal Coat of Arms pictured above once hung in the council chamber of the old State House in Boston? On the evacuation of the city during the revolution, Judge Edward Winslow, a direct descendant of Governor Edward Winslow who came over on the Mayflower, removed the coat of arms and the records from the State House and took them to Halifax. After the revolution the records were returned to Boston but the coat of arms found a lodging place on the inside west wall of Trinity Church, Saint John, New Brunswick, where it is still to be seen. It is carved out of wood and only six are known to have survived the revolution, the balance being publicly destroyed. There is one in South Carolina, moulded in plaster and one in the Province House at Hartford, Conn., painted on canvas.

WEEKLY COTTON GRADE AND STAPLE REPORT

The report released today by the Division of Cotton Marketing at Austin, Texas giving the quality of cotton ginned in Texas this week indicates a little smaller percentage of Extra White cotton ginned this week than last week. The percentage of spotted cotton is slightly higher than last week. Strict Middling and better grades are in predominance. About two-thirds of all cotton is Strict Middling Extra White and Good Middling Extra White, and these grades are nearly equally divided in percentage.

There is only one appreciable difference in the percentages of the various grades produced in the state this week over those representing the respective grades produced from the beginning of the season to date. This difference is found in the increase of the proportion of Good Middling and Strict Middling, Extra White Cotton, the balance of which is absorbed by a decrease in the white grades of Strict Middling and below.

There is a larger percentage of cotton having a staple length shorter than 7-8 this week than was shown last week. About seven per cent of the cotton classed this week is 7-8 inches long and slightly less than one third is 15-16 inches this week. The percentage of one inch cotton is less than four per cent.

Only a slight shift is noticed in comparing this week's state-wide production of staple lengths to that of the same staple lengths produced to date. This is an increase in the lengths of 13-16 inch and 7-8 inch at the expense of the length of 15-16 inch and longer.

The largest percentage of untenderable cotton is found in the Red Lands and Plains and Cross Timbers, while the smallest percentage is found in the Black Belt, Flatwoods, and Mixed Black and Sandy Lands. The Flatwoods is the area that produces the largest proportion of such cotton to date. The tenderable cotton this week is 92.4 per cent.

DEATHS

John F. Brigrance, 84, of Bowie, Texas, died at the home of his son, W. P. Brigrance, about six miles northwest of this city last Saturday, following a stroke of paralysis that lasted several days, giving all the children time to reach his bedside before he passed away.

This old gentleman was here visiting the children that live in this county. It is said that he was really a pioneer Texan, and engaged in Indian fights and the settlement of the frontier in his young days. The body was carried to Lubbock by the Brownfield Undertaking Co., and shipped to Bowie, for burial.

Besides his second wife, he leaves several children and grandchildren, and many friends to mourn his passing.

WORLD FAIR ENDS OCT. 31, THIS YEAR

Many Unusual Gala Events Planned for Last Two Months.

Chicago (Special).—With the announcement that Chicago's new World's Fair, A Century of Progress Exposition, closes its gates forever on October 31st, and the advent of cool September weather, attendance figures at the exposition are steadily soaring to make new records for all American fairs.

The management of the Fair has accomplished the purpose desired by President Roosevelt when he requested that the fair operate a second year so that those who could not come last year would be given an opportunity to see it in 1934.

With all indications pointing to the probability that the attendance in September and October will outstrip the combined totals of the first three months of the Fair, exhibitors, concessionaires and the exposition itself are extending every effort to amuse and entertain the huge throngs that daily fill the magic streets of the fair, to an extent even greater than before.

Fair to Close Oct. 31. In making the announcement that the Fair will have accomplished its aim by closing date, and therefore would not reopen, President Rufus C. Dawes said:

"A Century of Progress in its present form will not be in existence next year. If the Fair or any part of it is to be maintained it would have to be by outside sources. The Chicago park board to demolish all buildings the board names, and the board also has the right to name any buildings which it wishes to retain and maintain.

"If you want to see Chicago's great Century of Progress Exposition you must come this summer or fall. It will not be here next year. Come and we shall do our best to make your visit pleasant, interesting and profitable."

With the closing, wreckers will come in and the enchanted city whose streets transported visitors into the mysterious realms of scientific research, art, music, industry, light, color, entertainment, education and commerce will come down. Officials, however, carefully pointed out that demolition will not begin until after the closing on October 31st.

Big Times for Two Months. The fantastic buildings will be leveled. The Street of Villages with its fifteen perfect reproductions of as many foreign lands will be no more.

The largest and most beautiful fountain will no longer throw its scintillating spray skyward. The gay cafes will not echo the laughter of happy people. The famed Avenue of Flags will be stripped and the greatest and most beautiful of all major exhibitions will be history.

It has been currently rumored that the Fair would remain as a permanent Chicago attraction; that each year henceforth it would reopen on the lake front. Now that people have realized that this is their last opportunity to see it, attendance totals have increased by leaps and bounds. The great free attractions are constantly choked with people.

The final two months of the Fair will see the greatest collection of talent, spectacles and amusements ever seen anywhere. All existing entertainment will be expanded and new attractions added to the daily programs. Events appealing to every class of person have been scheduled at a cost of thousands of dollars.

mourn his passing. The writer of this article having known Mr. Adair the last few years found him to be a very dependable citizen having done his part toward building up our community. Served on the school board for 10 years. He was a member of the Methodist church but funeral services were conducted at the Wellman church of Christ by Rev. Tharp of Brownfield last Sunday afternoon, Sept. 2, after which he was laid to rest in the Brownfield cemetery.

Pall bearers were Messrs. Mack Thomas; L. D. Ham; Roy Mullins, of Stonewall county and the deceased three nephews of Stonewall county: Jessie, Weiton and Link Adair.

Other than those mentioned attending were Mrs. T. A. Adair and children of Stonewall county and S. H. Winn jr. and family of Toyah, Texas.

To the bereaved we extend our deepest sympathy in this trying hour. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Green spent the day with A. A. Lawrence and family Sunday.

Mrs. L. P. Adair visited in the home of Mr and Mrs. B. F. Little, Sunday. The revival meeting closed Sunday night at the Baptist church

NEW ENGLAND YELLS "The President is very much interested in the development of water power for huge dams," said Senator Daniel O. Hastings, chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee, in a speech at Bridgeport, Conn. "The East will pay for this new and latest inconsistency in the New Deal's program, just as it must pay for alleged benefits to farmers of the West and South, benefits which in many instances are not wanted. The people of New England will not submit without complaint and protest to the effort to tax them for the benefit of people in other States."

Apart from the attempt to arouse sectional feeling at a time when public spirited citizens everywhere are pulling together for national recovery, the real significance of this partisan outburst is that Connecticut is a leading industrial State and Delaware, which Mr. Hastings represents in the Senate, is another. Hence the speaker and every adult member of his audience was conscious of the fact that hundreds of their factories were either closed down entirely before the advent of the New Deal or they were working with skeleton crews. And very largely those in the West and South, being unable to dispose of their products at cost, could no longer buy the products of Connecticut and Delaware.

Mr. Hastings would have as much difficulty proving his point that "benefits in many instances are not wanted" as in establishing the accuracy of his assertion that development of water power is in the slightest degree inconsistent with Franklin D. Roosevelt's record as Governor of New York and as a candidate for the Presidency.

OLD TIMER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mrs. J. T. Gainer celebrated her 74th birthday Wednesday, Sept. 5th from 2 to 6 o'clock. The lobby of the Smith Hotel was made into a room of pioneer days by pictures, rugs, quilts and various other antiques owned by the honoree. Mrs. Simon Holgate and Mrs. Gainer received the guests and attended the register book. Punch was served by Miss Gray and Miss Randle. The following program was rendered; Mrs. Homer Winston acting as master of ceremonies:

Biography — Mrs. Winston
Song — Home On The Range
Mrs. W. W. Price, Mrs. Holgate
Mrs. Winston
Contest — Old Sayings
Song—Happy Birthday — By All
Guessing Contest — By All
Song — Love's Old Sweet Song
Mes. Price, Holgate, Winston
Reading — Garland Gainer
Song — When Grandma Comes
Garland and Francell Gainer
The birthday cake decorated with candles was cut by Mrs. C. L. Williams and a toast was given by Mrs. G. S. Webber. Many beautiful gifts were received by the honoree and old times were reviewed by all. Hostesses were Mesdames Randle, Winston, Holgate, Price, and Greenfield. About 40 persons registered.

MRS. DOCK PALMER SHOWERED

The church of Christ ladies honored Mrs. Dock Palmer, a recent bride, with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Redford Smith, Thursday p. m. with Mrs. Basil Webb and Kathleen Hardin assisting in the entertaining. The honoree was asked to go on a Treasure Hunt and the following instructions were followed:

1. My dear a hidden treasure lies within these walls a glad surprise, and she who would its secrets hold must search each nook as she is told. The crystal globe makes known to me that you the lucky one may be. So haste ye now as I direct, each nook and cranny to inspect. But if you heed not what I say, "As if with wings, 'twill fly away."
2. A place I see all tucked away; Where souls repose at close of day. Just search in haste where of tis said Both rested many a tired head.
3. Now in that self same room is hid Tucked deftly neath a massive lid Where hosts of things are wont to lie Some tiny parcels you will spy.
4. Now next a tiny nook we seek Some use it only once a week The more fastidious each day For abolutions step this way.
5. Then in a closet white hard by 'n that same room you now will spy Open a drawer and there you see Another message hidden will be.
6. The crystal ball doth now direct That in the parlor you'll inspect A piece of headgear stark and still 'Vorn in the army of Kaiser Bill.
7. Now the place where magic charm

Meet Joy, Bundle of Sweet Songs

Petite Joy Hodges, lovely radio star, is now singing on the Rice Roof in Houston with the brilliant Carol Lerner West Coast band, and from the acclaim which greets her there she is on her way to fame and fortune. Joy says her hobby is sleeping, which is admittedly hard to understand after witnessing such vivaciousness in action. (Texas News Photos.)

Both foods to edibles transform Here you will open a door and see Hid where the roast is wont to be. 8. Your treasures open and behold This wish which wells from hearts of gold.

Tis that your life all smoothly runs And all your cares be little ones. Mrs. Webb gave a story of objectives about everyone present. Kathleen Hardin sang "Always" and Laverne Collier gave the reading Home. Punch and cake was served.

C. C. Prim and Murphy May visited friends in El Paso last week.

Miss Louise White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. White reentered A. C. C. at Abilene for her second year's work there, this week.
