BROWNFIELD, TERRY COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1934.

NUMBER 17.

How Old Terry Looked 25 Yrs. Ago

This week, we are going to leave Tennessee and the Tennessee folks alone, let them finish gathering their corn, scrap up their remainder of cotton, hill the yams and turnips, make an extra pot of lye soap to run through the winter, make some persimmon beer, kill a porker for the Christmas holidays, and do what ever else is necessary to a good old fashion Christmas holiday as they see fit including some that will make a trip over in McNary county to lay in a supply of the makings of eggnog and tomanderry. Most of those good old citizens of the New Hope community, however, will be satisfied with coffee, milk, or good old persimmon (non-toxic) beer, not to mention some good old hard apple cider. We have a new subject assigned us this week.

Sixth Grade Gives Us Subject
Yes, the Sixth Grade of the Harmony school gives us a real subject for this week, and we hope they enjoy the weak effort we devote to it. Their secretary, Iva Eathern Hobbs, writes in for them, and asks us how Terry county looked when we came here, and then tried to draw us out on that old question: "Are the sandstorms more severe now on account of so much more land in cultivation?"

In the first place, boys and girls, or rather girls and boys as we should address you, there has been a radical change in the looks of the country since we came here. In fact, the day that we arrived overland from Big Spring in a two-cylinder Maxwell in late January 1909, there were less houses from the top of the caprock this side of that city, to Brownfield, than there is today between Brownfield and Union. At that time, Big Spring was our nearest railroad and trading point, and it took a freight wagon ten to twelve days to make the round trip, and the freight on stuff was often more than it cost in Big Spring. For instance, the first winter we bought coal at $8.00 per ton in Big Spring, but the freight on it to Brownfield and in our bin was $17.50, making the coal cost us $25.50. Then, is it any wonder to you children that most farmers grubbed their own firewood, or went to the big ranches after cowchips?

Taking that section of Terry near where you go to school, and long before Harmony was ever heard of, there were just two or three houses. The old Cardwell place still stands near you, and the nearest house to it was the Dock Walker and Uncle Bill Howard places in the Needmore community. In those good old days, there were not even any lanes to travel. You just cut across the prairie, following dim trails wherever you wanted to go. When you arrived, if the family was not at home, and it was meal time, you cooked what you needed if there was nothing already cooked, left a note for the family, and went on your way. Of course the big open spaces of grama and mesquite grass was beginning to be dotted with a few farms and settlers were coming in. Some farms in the Gomez, J-Cross and Johnson communities were opened and being opened, but perhaps not more than ten on the road from Gomez to Plains.

The next year after our arrival, the Federal census gave Terry county slightly over 1400 people; she has nearly 10,000 now, nearly 9,000 four years ago in 1930. So you can see the population was not dense then by any means. Brownfield and Gomez each had some 200 people each, with Gomez in the lead in number of business establishments, but with Brownfield leading in the number of residences. Meadow had a store and post-office, and was said to be the farthest postoffice from a railroad in the United States at that time. Lubbock was a thriving village of some 1000 people, as it got a railroad late in 1909, but Lubbock county had a very few more farms than Terry. Tahoka had 300 or 400; Lamesa slightly more, and like all other pioneer towns were all built up with wooden shacks around the square; each had an old ramshackle wooden

Huge Crowds Invade City Saturday-Mon.

Again the merchants of the city put up the prizes. Again they filled the Herald with some of the biggest bargain events seen in this section in some years, and the crowds came to gather in the harvest of good things, and to mix and mingle with their friends from every portion of Brownfield's huge trade territory. There is absolutely no use going farther to buy goods—any old kind—for you will find them equally good, and in most instances cheaper right here in Brownfield than anywhere in this section. The selections, too, are in keeping with the best towns.

All the merchants we have talked with had a splendid business Saturday, but Monday was just a bit disappointing to some of them, owing to the fact that it was a rather raw day, and the ladies did not come to town like they did Saturday. But taken all in all, the two combined days moved thousands of dollars worth of merchandise from the shelves of our stores, and taken as a whole, most everyone was well pleased.

Christmas time is right here with us, and the merchants are well stocked not only with toys for the children, but in addition, have some of the best and most sensible line of gifts we have ever seen offered here, for the grown-ups. No use to go elsewhere to do your Christmas shopping. But remember—shop early.

Long Service

Here is A. E. Camp of Weatherford, Texas, who has been superintendent of the Courts Memorial Methodist Sunday school for 33 years. He has just been re-elected to serve the 34th year. This is believed to be the longest term of service in this capacity in Texas. (Texas News Photos.)

courthouse, including Lubbock.

The first brick in Brownfield was the State Bank building and the second the Brick Garage, which were built after the railroad came in 1917, but there was no great building much until after the World War was over and the great drought of 1917-18 were kinder forgotten. The great building boom came in 1923-24, when most of the brick and concrete buildings were erected.

In the early days when the writer first came here, there were plenty an telescope out around where you go to school, and some few little speckled deer further west in the sandhills. Prairie chicken infested the whole country. We have killed many of them in the draw in what is now the south part of the city. We have even seen them killed in the courtyard where they would come seeking protection in among the then small trees from hawks.

Now, as to sandstorms. Personally they don't seem as severe to us as then, and perhaps more often than now. We can't believe but that putting land in cultivation has to some extent had a mellowing effect on our climate, with the day and night temperature nearer the same, and extremes of temperature is said to be a big item causing sandstorms. We know that we have fewer of them in summer when the day and night temperatures run more nearly even. Maybe, though, we are becoming more used to sandies, or perhaps we have better and tighter houses. Anyway we had them then—bad ones—and do yet.

Business Trend Is Now Steadily Upward

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 1.—Substantial improvements have been noted in business sentiment during recent weeks as a result of conferences of bankers and industrial leaders with government officials, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"The outlook with respect to public utilities and railroads is still clouded, however, and the attitude of organized labor toward these newer developments remains uncertain," Dr. Buechel said. "As a result, business statistics have recently shown a reversal from the downward trend which began in June, and the trend at present appears to be definitely upward although until now the improvement has been at a very moderate rate. Moreover, no sharp rise is expected until early spring at best since several months must elapse before the new relationship between government and business can be more fully clarified and confidence developed."

"Recent reports of proposed changes in the National Recovery Administration by Donald Richberg, executive secretary of the National Emergency Council, indicate a genuine effort to separate the chaff from the wheat as a result of the experiments of the past eighteen months and to reconstruct the National Recovery Administration upon a few principles which reason and experience have found to be sound.

"Encouraging reports also continue to come from the National Housing Administration.

"It is becoming apparent to an increasing number of people that our economic plight is not the result of superabundance but rather of scarcity; that the solution lies not in higher hourly or daily wages for labor, but in higher annual incomes expressed in goods

Vote On Bankhead Bill December 14

The referendum on the proposal to extend the provisions of the Bankhead cotton reduction program another year will be held in Terry County, on Friday, December 14th. The polling places will be at the school houses in the various districts.

All land owners on whose ground cotton is produced, tenants and other producers of cotton will be entitled to vote, and the results together with those from other cotton growing districts of the South will determine whether or not the plan will be utilized in the reduction of cotton acreage during 1935.

There is much opposition to the plan in many sections, but when the drought throughout this country is taken into account, it will be seen that it was a great advantage to cotton growers in this particular part of the country during the present season.

It is thought that should the Bankhead Bill be again made effective for the coming year that the plan will provide for much a greater acreage than was allowed this year

RELIGIOUS CENSUS OF TEXAS TECH COLLEGE

Lubbock, Texas, Nov. 26.—Methodists lead in the number of students attending Texas Technological College according to the religious affiliation survey made by Registrar W. P. Clement.

The 2431 students now in attendance are classified as follows: Baptist, 756; Baptist Missionary Association, 2; Primitive Baptist, 7; Catholic, 42; Christian, 127; Christian Science, 2; Church of Christ, 188; Congregational, 2; Episcopal, 32; Greek Orthodox, 1; Jewish, 2; Lutheran, 8; Methodist, 877; Mormon, 3; Nazarene, 5; Presbyterian, 191; Cumberland Presbyterian, 15; no preference 171.

A large bunch of members of Foreign Wars legionnaires of Lubbock invaded our little city with their band Tuesday night, and later a meeting was held at the American Legion hall, for what purpose we failed to learn. Anyway, they were a lively, good natured bunch of men and women, and our beer parlors seemed to do a good business while they were here. Come up again, sometime, but let us know and we will give the idea some publicity.

As the Herald propeller was on the sick list over the week-end, local news will be scarce.

Stable Cotton Reduction Plan Sent Secretary Wallace

Quite a good deal has been said and put in print relative to the cotton business and Bankhead Bill. A plan follows (which I believe if adopted and carried out) will solve the situation, and we will not need the Bankhead Bill.

All lands do not produce cotton alike, neither will acreage reduction reduce bales materially. Explanation: If a man's average crop is 60 acres per year, and if you cut him to 40 acres, nine out of ten chances, he'll prepare, plant, cultivate, and care for it well enough to make practically as much cotton, or as many bales, as the whole 60 acres, and reduction of bales is what we're driving at.

Now my plan is this: Let us plant in proportion to our obligations, regardless of acres. Each man knows, under ordinary conditions demand 10 bales at 13 cents. My brothers obligations demand 20 bales at 13 cents

Obligations meaning: Land notes, interest, taxes, and general overhead expenses. Let each of us plant enough cotton to produce those bales regardless of acres under ordinary conditions. Then when we go above that number of bales, tax the first bale $5, the second $10, third $20, fourth $40, etc, by so doing you'll get the man that is commercializing the cotton world with cotton for gain, doing so with productive tenants and cheap labor. It is not the little man that's hurting our cotton market, but the hortation man. If no farmer had planted or was permitted to plant more than 50 percent of his land to cotton, as I've always done, the cotton market would never have suffered.

The Human Race Hates Taxation

Some say that will not work; each man's obligations can't be known. Why not? By interrogation it can be determined, as the government seeks to find, and does find out, all other matters.

I have discussed this plan with quite a few men who say I am right. To this end I pray you consider; maybe it will help to devise your 1935 cotton plan. I would like to see this in print and reach each cotton producer in the cotton world. I shall take it upon myself to pass it to several newspapers for print.

Sincerely,
W. R. MANGUM.

Ex-Rotarians Gathered In For Social Meal

We neglected to mention last week that on Friday, Nov. 23, just about all the old Ex-Members of the local Rotary Club were invited out and given a real good feed by the present membership, which by the way is a hustling body of the younger business and professional men.

The membership left no doubts in anyone's mind that the exes were really welcome. The Exes were then left to tell why they quit the club. Some explanations were laughable, some ludicrous, but all really faulty. In fact there was not a legal excuse for quitting the club given that day. All had fun together.

MARKET: As the local exchange has been closed, all the quotations we can give this week is New York Cotton, for March, opened at 12.57; high 12.63; low 12.55; close 12.62.

Airplane Inspector Here From Dallas

Mr. R. W. DeLaney, of Dallas, Department of Commerce Inspector of airplanes, came in Tuesday afternoon in his private plane to make an inspection of the plane wreck which caused three deaths, including the pilot of the plane, here Sunday afternoon. Mr. DeLaney visited the scene of the wreck, made the best inspection that he could under the battered circumstances of the wreckage.

He asked several questions of eye witnesses of the accident, including E. L. Redford and T. C. Hogue, the latter of which, the plane fell in his back yard. Mr. DeLaney stated that apparently the propellers, wings and controls were in fair shape, and that the engine appeared to be alright. However, the former owner of the plane, Mr. Renfro will take the plane to Lubbock, where the engine will be taken down, the gas lines examined, etc., after which Mr. DeLaney will likely make his official report.

There are rumors abroad here that the plane was out of gas; how true we do not know. Mr. DeLaney was flying one of the best equipped planes that has ever landed on the Brownfield field. There have been larger ones, but his had the best finishing and with all the latest equipment, including a radio.

DR. DEAN HERE

Dr. H. T. Dean, who is with the United States Public Health Service was in Brownfield recently. While here he made a cursory inspection of the teeth of some of the children who have been living in Brownfield all their lives. He is making a survey preparatory to beginning a study of the cause of "brown stain" or mottled enamel on children's teeth.

The present idea of the cause of mottled enamel is the presence of fluorine in the water. Calcification of the second teeth occurs around the ages of six to seven years and the mottling is believed to occur at those ages.

Keeps Records

Here is Robert Randow, D-Witt County farmer who lives near Yorktown, Texas, chalking up milk weights in his dairy barn. By keeping complete records of production and costs of upkeep, feeds, etc., Texas farmers may learn whether they are making money or not, and if not, discover where their losses are occurring. (Texas News Photo.)

W. F. Murphy and wife of Munday, Texas, came in last week to visit with their sons, the Murphy Bros., Sam, John and Dewey, and attend the bedside of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Murphy, who underwent an operation at the local hospital. Mr. Murphy is doing nicely.

Three Killed Sunday In Airplane Crash

Relatives Monday buried one and prepared for rites of two other victims of the crash of an unlicensed airplane near here late Sunday.

The dead were: Manuel Klem, 24, the pilot, of Littlefield; John Alexander, 24, a passenger, of Frederick, Okla.; James Benton, 26, a passenger of near Brownfield.

A biplane carrying the three on a short sight-seeing flight pancaked and nosed over in a dry water-tank on the T. C. Hogue farm a mile northwest of Brownfield at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. There was no fire.

Funeral rites for Benton were conducted at 2:30 p. m. Monday at his home. Burial was in the Union Community Cemetery.

Funeral of Mr. Klem was conducted at the home of his parents in Littlefield at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

The body of Alexander was sent to Frederick for burial, but arrangements had not been completed Monday.

Brought to a hospital here in private automobiles, Benton died about 5 p. m., Klem at 6:10 p. m., and Alexander at 7:50 p. m. Only Alexander was able to speak and he only to murmur his name.

Flying For Short While

Neither the plane, an American Eagle that Klem had bought second-hand, nor the pilot was licensed. Manuel Klem had been flying about 4 1-2 months, had some private instruction, and had about 100 hours in the air, a brother, Herman Klem, said.

The amateur flyer was to have married Miss Lena Ruth Harris of Sudan after she was graduated from high school there next spring, Herman said.

Sheriff J. S. Smith procured two certificates that were taken from the wrecked plane. One was an unlicensed aircraft identification mark assignment, and the other showed that Klem had bought the ship from Clyde Renfro of Hereford, and that when Renfro owned it the craft carried a commercial license.

Klem and an acquaintance, Floyd Daniels of Floydada, also a pilot and owner of a ship, came to Brownfield last week and took up passengers on short flights, charging children 50 cents and adults a dollar each. Both flyers returned to their homes for a short time in the week then returned to Brownfield.

Several persons had ridden in Klem's plane Sunday before the fatal crash, it was said.

Spectators said the plane seemed to be out of control at an altitude they estimated at 200 to 300 feet. The pilot evidently attempted to straighten out, and nearly had succeeded while the ship lost altitude rapidly, when it struck the brow of the tank. There it nosed down, tail in the air.

Motor Driven Back

The motor was driven backward into the passengers cockpit by the impact. Benton's feet and upper legs were crushed. Alexander's lower jaw and his feet were crushed and his right upper leg was broken.

Klem's head struck the instrument board, forcing it forward perhaps a foot. An object, perhaps the stick, penetrated his right side and the pleural cavity. His head and jaws were crushed and his left upper arm was fractured.

All probably suffered internal injuries.

Tank Is Near Home

The accident occurred about a quarter of a mile from the field used for landing and taking off.

Only a few yards separated the dry tank into which the ship plunged and the back of the farm house of Hogue, who is Terry county tax assessor.

Alexander, whose home was at Frederick, Okla., recently had worked on the W. A. Brock farm, 3 miles south of that of the Bentons. He and Benton had become acquainted.

South Plains Ginnings Short of Last Year

Ginnings as of November 14th for 18 counties on the South Plains were 70,146 bales, or approximately 22.5 percent of the ginning for the corresponding date a year ago, bureau of the census, report just received here shows.

Only Terry county shows an increase over the corresponding report of a year ago, there being an increase of 133 bales over the 1933 report.

Lamb county leads, with Terry second, Scurry third, Lynn fourth and Hale fifth. All these counties had turned out over 5,000 bales. Hockley was sixth with 53 bales under that figure.

Private reports from Terry county indicate that county will be expected to show substantial increases, probably after the first of the year. Farmers there are gathering their feed and have not been paying much attention to cotton picking.

Swisher and Gaines counties do not show in the report this year, probably due to the fact that only one gin is reporting in each county. Yoakum and Borden counties do not have gins.

Comparative statements for the two years are:

| County | 1934 | 1933 |
|---------|--------|---------|
| Bailey | 3,343 | 9,257 |
| Briscoe | 908 | 7,278 |
| Castro | 566 | 2,319 |
| Cochran | 1,114 | 2,356 |
| Crosby | 3,660 | 35,405 |
| Dawson | 3,660 | 5,386 |
| Dickens | 3,455 | 22,021 |
| Floyd | 1,770 | 18,973 |
| Garza | 1,534 | 14,321 |
| Hale | 6,070 | 12,744 |
| Hockley | 4,947 | 11,253 |

CALIFORNIA PASSES THIS STATE IN POPULATION

From the Literary Digest:
Since its annexation in 1845 Texas has consistently gained in population rank among its sister commonwealths. It reached fifth place in 1910, held it in 1920 and 1930. But the 1933 Census Bureau population estimates show that California has outstripped Texas. The ranking now is New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, California (6,062,000), Texas (6,023,000).

Patriotic Texans are all asking: "Can California stay ahead?" In neighboring Oklahoma a newspaper suggests that this humiliating estimate will be forgotten if Texas catches up with California before the 1940 census.

The favorite suggestion of The Texas Weekly and Texas dailies is that Texas try to attract population by a grand and glorious celebration of Texas independence in 1936.

The Florida Times-Union has promised that the other Southern States will help her, and indeed "will generally do whatever is possible to help Texas get back its place in the list." Favorable factors cited in Texas press talk are the fact that 85 percent of all native Texans live in Texas today and that Texas apparently has considerable lead over California in the number of people under 30 years of age. The obvious conclusion is that with all these young people and with the Texan habit of staying in Texas, the young married couples of the Lone Star State will attend to California in the next few years.

Editor Chas. A. Guy of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal was a pleasant caller for just a few minutes at the home of the writer Sunday night.

West Texas and the Plains section in particular was bereft of two outstanding men last week, both of whose wisdom and advice had meant much to the development of this section.

Another thing that we can't understand is why the code authorities try to make the newspapers in small towns under 2500 comply, and at the same time exempt all the other business men of small towns. It seems to us like that Uncle Sam is determined to give the paper man a raw deal every time he can.

Thanksgiving, which in early times meant giving thanks to God for the preservation of life, for health, and strength of body and mind, for family ties and abundant harvest, has been so changed that the Pilgrim fathers would hardly recognize the day. Now it means to gorge oneself at a huge, rich banquet at the noon meal, and attend a rousing football game in the afternoon; attend parties more or less wild until midnight, and get up Friday morning with a hangover feeling.

Some one wrote into the Crosbyton Review office last week and wanted to know if Santa Claus was coming this year. The Review replied that it hoped so, that they were expecting him in the form of a lot of renewals and new subscriptions, and that the Review also hoped that the merchants would play old St.
Nick in the form of increased advertising lineage. Such a visitation of old Santa is to be desired by every newspaperman.

We note from the Seminole Sentinel that Sam Malone was back recently on a visit down there. Sam used to edit the Sentinel 25 years ago, when the writer was new to this section. Both of us were younger men then, and battling in a new country, and he always had a word of encouragement for his contemporaries.
He later moved to Abilene and edited the West Texas Baptist while preparing himself for the ministry, and they tell us he made a real good preacher. We hope Sam comes up to see us sometime.

Conservative-Accommodative-Appreciative

It is commonly said that the merchants of any town are judged by the newspaper of that town. Those who have made a close study of the matter declare they can tell almost to a certainty the prosperity of the business institutions in it by scanning the advertising columns of the newspaper. Judged by that standard, the grocery business of Lovington is almost nil, which, of course, is not true Yet it is a fact that every day sees much grocery business go away from Lovington that should remain here.

HE HOWLED—SO HE MUST HAVE BEEN HIT

Some two weeks ago, Abilene's leading bootlegger was sent to the Federal penitentiary. The Snyder Editor in commenting on the fact asked the question "How long would Snyder put up with their leading boot-legger?" and made a few comments on the subject. The Snyder paper went into the mails Thursday afternoon, and Friday morning the writer of the editorial was jumped by two different parties, had two fights with one of them but managed to come out on top both times. Its funny how a hit dog will howl, they must have been hit or why would they have howled and attempted to whip the editor. In giving a report of the affair the editor of the Times closes with this question—"Who is Snyder's leading bootlegger? And why in the world should one West Texas' leading poultrymen and one of my erstwhile friends take exception to the editorial?—Evidently the hit dog howled."—Jayton Chronicle.

THE MINISTER'S DUTY

As a minister and a good citizen it is not only expected of me, but is considered my duty as a loyal citizen to patronize home industry by purchasing the necessary things of life from local firms who pay our taxes, support our schools, and build our community, yet, this same merchant or business firm who frowns upon me if I patronize the mail order houses sits comfortably and complacently in his easy chair, at home, turns on the radio, and gets his Chained religion from the same mail order house in some far away city. The only difference between that man and the man who orders his goods from the mail order houses is that the latter pays for what he gets while the other gets him for nothing at the expense of an institution, the church, "without which no town could prosper."

As one who believes in a square deal, I appeal to the people of Monahans to support the church of your choice and do not teach your children to get their religion from Mail Order Radio houses. Play square with your preachers and your churches and prove your appreciation of this indispensable institution.—Gus Ramage minister Christian Church, in Monahans News.

THE TRUTH ABOUT SNAKES

While hunting on the Circle Bar ranch Wednesday, Nov. 21, Odie and D. C. Williams found a den of diamond back rattle snakes, twenty-five in number, without any trouble they pulled them out with a stick, one at a time until the 25 were pulled out and killed. The largest snake was about five feet long with twelve rattlers, the smallest was three and one-half feet long with four rattlers.—

Chamber of Commerce

J. E. Shelton, Secretary

Several weeks ago I mentioned that I had drawings of an implement or attachment, that was not only inexpensive, but was said to conserve moisture and prevent excessive blowing of land and in view of the fact that we usually had considerable trouble in getting cotton and feed-stuff up to a stand I was of the opinion that it would be good business for us to make use of this attachment.

A few farmers have come in and examined the drawings and all agree that it is calculated to do what is claimed for it and are going to give it a trial. I would be glad if more farmers would come in and examine these drawings and see what they think of them. I am not trying to tell our farmers how to farm, but think that this is something that will prove to be of great value to everyone who makes use of it.

Judge Barret and the writer have made a number of trips during the last few weeks in the interest of our highways and think that much good has been accomplished. We have the promise of Judge Ely, that Highway No. 51, which is the new number that has been given to the route running to Seagraves, that as soon as the second course of caliche has been placed upon it, that the highway department will give it a complete hard-surfacing job. He also promised us a survey on No. 84 and commencement of construction on it as soon as funds were available. Preliminary steps toward a survey as it concerns Lynn and Terry County, has been ordered by the commission and as soon as Yoakum and Garza request it, a survey will be ordered for them. Garza, however, has only about seven miles that has not been surveyed and 84 east of Post is now under construction.

Several days ago, the writer addressed a letter to Hon. C. A. Cobb, Cotton Section Agricultural Adjustment Administration and requested him to advise us as to why his organization had commenced the distribution of the Second Cotton payment checks before they had completed the First payment. We did not receive any reply from him, but we did get most of the checks and are expecting the remainder within the next few days. Personally I don't care whether those fellows ever answer a letter or not, but we do want some action when it is coming to us.

I am not connected in any way with the reduction program, resigning from some of it by request and the remainder on my own motion, but the farmers and others interested, can depend upon it that I am going to keep in line and be able to dip in my "oar" at any time that I think that it is to our benefit.

Brownfield has been in need of a Band for the last several years, but the time has not seemed propitious for an organization until recently, but when it did arrive we took advantage of it, so the band has been organized or rather organization will be completed Thursday night of this week. Superintendent Lawlis and the writer got together on the organization and he had a man come down from "Tech" and we made a deal with him to take charge of a band and undertake to put it over, but he is not to receive any salary until he shows his ability, at which time we expect to get out and see if the town will "kick in" with subscriptions sufficient to make it interesting. As stated above, the next meeting for a completion of the organization, will be had next Thursday night, at the high school building and we believe from the interest that has been manifested that we will be able to work up a band that will be a credit to us. Membership is not confined to Brownfield and anyone who resides in the county will be welcomed as a member.

After the New Judge and Commissioners are installed in office and after No. 51 is completed in the county and after we get all of the CWA highway work that is coming to us, it is on the program of the chamber of commerce, to undertake to get some projects on lateral roads, that are requested by farmers who do not have any direct route to Brownfield and whose trade would be a valuable adjunct to us.

Work toward lateral projects would have been taken up before this time, except that we are having some difficulty in securing sufficient equipment and labor on the highways and do not believe that it is best for all concerned to get too many irons in the fire at one time. As soon as feed hauling and gathering is over, it is expected that our applications for work will be greatly increased and we can then take up the lateral road projects.

The writer, Marion Craig and Chester Gore of the City Commission, were appointed several weeks ago to work out a traffic and parking proposition and have reported their recommendations to the Council, but they have not been adopted in full, but we are going to have traffic lights on Main Street—one at the State Bank corner, one at the First National Bank corner, and one at the Gracey & Mullin. These lights have been ordered and will be placed as soon as they arrive from the factory. Traffic jams on Main became so frequent that city officials arrived at the conclusion that traffic lights were an absolute necessity.

LONG PERIOD OF READJUSTMENTS IN FARMING PREDICTED

DALLAS, Dec. 6.—Predicting that agriculture will be readjusting itself for many years to come, Frank W. Peck, Cooperative Bank Commissioner of the Farm Credit Administration, today told 1,800 delegates of the Texas Agricultural Association gathered here for their annual meeting that farmers must be prepared to meet changing conditions. Many experiments will be tried, he declared, and efforts made to place agriculture on a parity with other industries and to maintain it in such a position.

Without discussing the exact types of readjustment that will be necessary, Mr. Peck pointed out three broad lines of preparation. Farmers must organize into effective association with each other, he said. Education must go beyond the schoolroom and academic training of the young, and continue into objective forms of adult education and training. There must be the development of cooperative business enterprises designed to bring distribution of farm products

Leaders in Texas Soil Erosion Fight

Here are two leaders in soil erosion work in Texas who were interested participants in the recent field day on the Cal McCurdy farm near Rhomoe, Texas. At the left is U. S. Allison, state technician in soil erosion control. At the right is M. R. Bentley, engineer in charge of erosion control work. and purchasing of farm supplies into the control of and for the benefit of agricultural producers.

Mr. Peck paid tribute to the work of the Texas Agricultural Association and urged the delegates to continue their cooperation with educational institutions in an effort to promote education among the young people on farms, as well as adults.

"There is no substitute for understanding," declared Mr. Peck. "There is nothing as destructive as organized ignorance; nothing more futile than attempting to deal with important economic and social forces without facts or with misinformation and consequent prejudice."

Discussing the work of the Farm Credit Administration, Mr. Peck said "there has been no attempt in history comparable to it as a complete cooperative enterprise with its major elements controlled by farmers and eventually to be owned by the borrowers of the system. The motive underlying the system is that of permitting good farmers to work themselves out of debt."

"This credit system," he continued, "represents the first attempt by any country to develop a cooperative system of farm credit adapted to the varying needs of agriculture operated on a business basis and supplying credit at the lowest possible cost to farm producers."

SPECIAL TEACHER PROJECTS HELPED BY TEXAS RELIEF

AUSTIN, Nov. 30.—Checks totaling $120,914.92 were mailed last week from the Texas Relief Commission to counties to cover the special emergency teacher project expenses for the month of December.

This project is sponsored by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration through the Texas Relief Commission in the state, and supervised by the State Department of Education at Austin. The December allocation will bring benefit to approximately 2,000 formerly unemployed teachers in Texas. About 500 more will take an active part as soon as classes can be organized. They already have been approved for participation. Approximately 50,000 students also are receiving benefits from the program.

To participate in a teaching capacity in the emergency education program in Texas, a person must show that he has no other source of income or support, and must have a regular license to teach in his chosen field from the State Department of Education or show that he is competent to teach. Many of the teachers are taken from the relief rolls. All the students are taken from the relief rolls, the only other requirement being a minimum age limit of 16 years. Many of the students are more than 50 years old.

PELLAGRA TIME

Now is the time for the prevention of Pellagra, says Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. This disease is generally noted in increasing frequency following the winter months. In Texas it is the cause of more than 700 deaths each year.

Pellagra is not a germ disease and it is not contagious. It is caused by deficiency of certain important elements in the dietary, as has been proved by years of research by the authorities of the United States Public Health Service. It is generally believed that restricting the diet too largely to refined cereals, fat meat, molasses, etc., is contributory to causation of Pellagra. These foods are lacking in the so-called Vitamin G, (the Pellagra Preventive Vitamin), and people whose diet is primarily made up of these foods are the easiest victims of Pellagra.

It seems to be demonstrated that the inclusion in the diet of food rich in Vitamin G serves to prevent the development of Pellagra. Diet is also the chief factor in the cure. Pellagra (rough skin) shows itself by a peculiar redness and breaking out or peeling of the skin, particularly the exposed surface. This is accompanied by weakness, nervousness, indigestion, headaches and a burned feeling of the mouth or tongue.

Pellagra may be prevented by eating

MARRIED

Mr. Harvey Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Davis, and Miss Delphia Durham, both of the Harmony community, were married last Sunday, J. E. Shelton, J. P., officiating. We understand they will make their home in the Harmony community.

The Herald has recently put out the December semi-annual edition of the Brownfield telephone directory. If you did not get a new one, call Miss Laura Lee Jones, and she will see that one is soon in your hands.

Hostetter—Is Quiggle what you call a typical American?

Kumquat—Yes; he likes baseball, is buying an auto on time, has his home mortgaged for more than it is worth, pays alimony and has got seven different kinds of loans from the government.

Head Man of Oil Industry Comes to Texas

The head man of the petroleum industry, Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, oil code administrator, came to Texas last week to attend the annual national A. P. I. convention in Dallas. He is pictured here in center with E. G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, left, and E. B. Reeser, president of the Barnsdall Oil Co., right. Ickes told the oil men that unless something is done about control of production, the oil industry may be made a public utility. (Texas News Photos.)

EVERY MAN HIS OWN DR. DANGEROUS

Austin, Nov. 12.—"He Who Treats Himself Has A Fool For A Doctor." This motto might well be displayed in every home in the State, as many people indisposed jump at conclusions as to what is wrong with them, go to a drug store for a bottle of advertised medicine. For a time they feel exceedingly clever but later they may discover that instead of getting better, they have become worse. Eventually the physician is bound to be called, in some instances too late.

There is no desire on the part of the Texas State Department of Health to insinuate that all, or the majority who use patent medicine to cure their ills, will suffer greatly by so doing. The point is that there is a sufficient number of self doctors who pay a big penalty for their practice to guard every one against it.

The body is the most wonderful piece of mechanism in existence. To tamper with it in any particular without due professional knowledge is running a great risk. When one's car is not working properly, you do not take it to any one but a mechanic who knows how to repair cars. It is remarkable that a person thinks less of the service his body needs in comparison with his car. If one is sufficiently ill to feel the need of treatment, it should be sought in its professional form. Avoid self doctoring.

M-10001

Recently a blunt-nosed train, looking much like a rocket on wheels, rolled into the Grand Central Station in New York. Bearing the name, "M-10001", it brought with it, in the words of the New York Herald Tribune, "the railroad's answer to aviation." Only 57 hours before, it had left Los Angeles—a continent away. Counting all stops, it averaged almost a mile a minute on the run—and those aboard spent but two business days in transit.

M-10001 is a new development by the Union Pacific Railroad, which has pioneered so many phases of transport in the past. Stream-lined to the highest practical degree, and built of aluminum, the train represents the ultimate in comfort, speed and efficiency. It marks a new forward step in the long march of development of surface transportation.

It is a far cry from the day when the golden spike was driven, marking the completion of the first transcontinental railroad, and a wheezy locomotive moved forward to the shouts of jubilant thousands, to the day when the M-10001 pulled triumphantly into New York. The best in railroad travel of that time was much inferior to the worst of the present. Yet, as time is measured, the spike was driven only yesterday—almost all of the major progress in railroad transport has taken place within living memory. The American railroads have shown a spirit of aggressiveness and the "will to achieve" that constitutes one of the most dramatic and inspiring pages in our industrial annals.

To quote the Herald Tribune again "It is hard to doubt that passenger travel on the railroads is entering a new period." When the M-10001 crossed the United States, clipping off a mile every sixty seconds, it made transportation history.

ZAVALA, ONE OF TEXAS PATRIOTS

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 25 (Special) Mis Adina De Zavala of San Antonio, granddaughter of Lorenzo De Zavala patriot of Spanish descent, who supported the Texan cause in the fight for independence from Mexico, has been visiting in Dallas, and has expressed her active interest in the Texas Centennial celebration to be held in 1936.

As president of the Texas Historical and Landmarks Association, Miss De Zavala has urged every section of the State to mark its historical landmarks adequately.

Lorenzo De Zavala was not only a statesman who served as first Vice President of Texas Republic, but he actively engaged in the military campaign to free Texas from Mexico domination. He was one of the heroes of San Jacinto, and served as interpreter when Santa Anna brought before General Houston.

It was the day following the battle of San Jacinto. Houston was lying under one of the great, moss-covered oak trees which dotted the plain of San Jacinto. His ankle had been splintered by a bullet the day before and he was weak from pain and loss of blood.

Just then cries of "El Presidente" were heard from the prisoners of war, as a little ragged Mexican appeared being led to General Houston.

The prisoner admitted that he was Santa Anna, and General Houston, who could not speak Spanish, called upon De Zavala to act as interpreter. Santa Anna affected polite surprise when he found De Zavala with Houston.

"My friend! The son of my early friend!" he exclaimed, with lifted eyebrows.

REPUBLICAN PARTY NOT GOING TO DIE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—A challenging insistence that the Republican party is not dead and is not going to die was flung at Democrats Saturday in answer to Postmaster General Farley's attempt to read that result into the G. O. P. defeat in Tuesday's elections.

Taking notice of reports that a new party might be formed on the wreckage of the G. O. P., Henry P. Fletcher served warning on Democrats that "we will continue to fight."

Furthermore the Republican chairman predicted the new deal will topple because of its paternalistic and socialistic policies and that the G. O. P. will carry on.

WINTER PROOF SERVICE OFFERED BY MAGNOLIA

"Every fall shows an increasing number of people preparing their cars for winter driving, according to information coming through our dealers and service stations," said E. P. Angus, Vice President in charge of sales of the Magnolia Petroleum Co. "These people," Mr. Angus explained, "know that much of their pleasure and economy of winter driving is lost with a car lubricated for summer driving." With the first chill mornings comes hard starting. Motors warm up slowly. Batteries get their hardest use.

It was for the purpose of making cold weather driving more economical and more pleasant that Magnolia's Winter-Proof Service was first offered.

Heck—Yes, I have met your wife. In fact I knew her before you married her.

Peck—Ah, there's where you have the advantage of me.

MAN'S MOST STUPENDOUS FOLLY

Beyond all argument war is the most stupendous folly of which man is guilty. No profit is ever derivable from folly, therefore only death and destruction can be the results of war either individually, nationally or internationally.

Bleeding wounds and bleeding hearts, bleeding bodies and bleeding minds, grief and woe, death and destruction—these are the fruits of war always have been, are now, must always be.

Only reason can settle questions, and war is anything but reason.

War not only does not settle questions but brings about still more problems which have to be solved by intelligence and good judgment.

DROUTH HURTS HOME

Five hundred homeless boys and girls are cared for and educated annually in the Christian Home Orphanage, Council Bluffs, Iowa. This institution was founded fifty-two years ago, and is non-sectarian. It receives children from all parts of the United States and is one of the largest institutions of its kind in the middle west. It is supported entirely by voluntary contributions of people from all sections of the country. It receives no appropriations of any kind, and employs no traveling agents but depends upon the goodness and generosity of kindly-disposed people. It conducts its own hospital, and also a department for dependent, aged women.

Because of the serious effects of the drouth throughout the midwest the Home's receipts have been greatly affected, and the Home finds it necessary to appeal to the public for liberal Thanksgiving and Christmas offerings to enable it to properly provide for the little army of helpless children under its care. This work sorely needs prompt and liberal help in its commendable efforts in behalf of the children, and whatever amount you are able to send now will be the means of helping to keep the doors open and of providing food and care for the greatly increased number of destitute children who constantly apply for help.

Please send all contributions to the Christian Home Orphanage, Council Bluffs, Iowa, and the same will be duly acknowledged and credited in the official publication of the institution, in which all financial reports appear, a copy of which will be mailed to you.

Success sometimes comes without being sought. That's the wonder of life.

Shoot Eagles and Coyotes From Airplane

These two men, E. G. Pope, left, and Ray Bumgardner of Fort Stockton, Texas, have developed a new sport, and at the same time have done sheep men of Far West Texas a real favor. They successfully hunt eagles and coyotes from the air. Their bag of 45 costly hunt eagles and coyotes over the Guadalupe mountains definitely establishes man's superiority over birds in the air. The flying hunt eagles are pictured with their prize bird, an old Mexican brown eagle with a wing spread of eight feet. Eagles have been particularly bad about carrying off lambs in this area. RED CROSS RELIEF GIVEN TO VICTIMS IN 103 DISASTERS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

A history of the disasters in the United States in any year is written annually by the American Red Cross, according to Chairman John Barton Payne, commenting on the report for the year ending June 30, 1934, which has just been issued in Washington.

"Because of the charter provision which places upon the Red Cross the responsibility for disaster relief, our chapter and staff workers are notified of all calamities of storm and fire and flood," he continued. "The emergency period may prove to be brief, in cases where the victims have their own resources to draw on. While it lasts, however, whether it brings the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter for the homeless, or entails a program of investigation and rehabilitation, the Red Cross is the official director of all relief."

A great variation in type, and a wide geographical distribution, characterize the 103 disasters reported last year. Tornadoes, hurricanes, hailstorms and other storms made up almost one half of the total. Especially numerous were the tropical storms which swept in from the sea to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast region. There were 21 storms of this type, establishing a new record for frequency.

Next in number to storms were disasters of fire, the report shows. Red Cross aid was given following 25 fires in the United States and insular possessions. The most spectacular was the Chicago stockyards fire, where Red Cross workers arrived shortly after the fire started, administering relief until the emergency period passed, giving first aid to about 1,000 persons.

Floods caused serious damage in some sections, 17 calling for Red Cross relief. Three epidemics of malaria and typhoid fever. A school bus wreck was one of the year's tragedies for which Red Cross funds were needed for relief and rehabilitation.

"Technique acquired by the Red Cross in these disasters and the hundreds of others we have handled is at the service of the public," Chairman Payne said. "To make this possible, the disaster relief service has issued a manual containing instructions to chapters interested in advance preparations for emergencies. Disaster situations were held last year in 2 strategic locations, to enable Red Cross and civic workers to formulate plans for possible disaster emergencies in their communities."

Support of the disaster relief activities of the Red Cross comes from the annual roll call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Economist Finds Hope for Future In Ford Farm Exhibit at the Fair

Jui-Jen Yu, famous Chinese economist, pictured in the patch of growing soy beans which is a part of the agricultural exhibit of the Ford Exposition at A Century of Progress.

ALTHOUGH Henry Ford is recognized by Chinese students of western civilization as the greatest industrialist of his time, his fame as a student of social problems and as a daring economic innovator will live long after his record as an industrial leader is forgotten, in the opinion of Jui-Jen Yu, noted economist of Hangchow, China, who visited the Ford Exposition at A Century of Progress recently.

On his way back to China after several months spent in Europe, where he was sent as an emissary of the Chinese government to study European economic trends and their effects on Chinese foreign trade, Mr. Yu found the Ford Industrialized Barn at the motor exhibit, where Ford's ideas for a closer cooperation between agriculture and industry are presented to World's Fair visitors, "the longest look into the future" he had seen on the grounds of A Century of Progress. "The encouragement of soy bean culture and the development of the simple extraction methods shown in this barn may easily mean the beginning of a word-wide change in farm practice," Mr. Yu stated. "The idea of the marketing by the farmer of finished products, rather than raw materials is one which, if followed out extensively, will add immeasurably to the farm income of any country; and the other half of the Ford plan, which calls for the literal 'farming out' of the finishing operations on small parts to give farmers paying work during the winter season may also work a tremendous change in the economic and social history of the world."

The Ford Industrialized Barn, which Mr. Yu found so significant, is interesting from a sentimental as well as a scientific and economic standpoint. It is the barn built by Henry Ford's father, William Ford, on the Ford homestead at what is now Dearborn, Michigan, in the year of Henry Ford's birth. Before the opening of the 1934 Fair in Chicago, it was torn down, shipped board by board and single by single, to Chicago, and re-erected to house the Ford farm-industrial exhibits.

Since the opening of the Fair last May, almost two million visitors, including farmers, city dwellers, students of agriculture and economics, and leaders of agriculture and industry, have visited the Ford Industrialized Barn, with the result that the Ford farm theories are now being discussed in every part of the nation and the world.

TEXAS HISTORY IN THE MAKING

No. 7—Gonzales, the "Lexington" of Texas

—Think—Talk—Write—Texas Centennial in 1935—
In 1834 Mexican authorities at San Antonio gave colonists at Gonzales, Texas, a cannon for protection of the settlement against Indians. Four years later, when relations between Texans and Mexicans became strained, authorities demanded that the "loaned" cannon be returned. Their demand refused, 150 Mexican dragoons came to take it by force. The first battle of the Texas Revolution resulted on October 2, 1835, and the upper left picture shows the little monument erected by Gonzales school children in 1903 on the exact spot of this battle. The Mexicans were put to flight. The cannon's whereabouts are unknown, but below is an accurate reproduction. Beside it is the flag displayed by brave Texans at the battle—the first Texas flag. Upper right is the Texas Harcus Monument erected by the State in 1910 on spacious Gonzales Plaza. (Texas News Photo.)

COMPTROLLER COMMENDS INSTITUTE OF BANKING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American Institute of Banking, said to be the most successful project of its kind in the field of applied adult education, has performed a valuable function in training bank clerks for "sound public service as well as personal success," J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, said here in a recent radio address. The institute is a section of the American Bankers Association.

"While imparting useful knowledge, it has improved the morale of banking personnel and has stimulated in its members an intelligent interest in national and international monetary problems," Mr. O'Connor said. "Its courses cover a wide field in banking. Among the subjects, one finds Bank Organization and Operation, Commercial Law, Negotiable Instruments Law, and Economics, in the Pre-Standard Division; followed by such subjects as Money and Banking, Credit Management, Financial Statement Analysis and Bank Management, in the Standard Division.

"Each and every subject is one which is necessary to a knowledge of banking. However, the institute does not stop here, but encourages graduate study in Corporation Finance, Trust Service, Farm Credit Administration and Business Forecasting. Again it emphasizes in special courses the importance of the less technical but highly beneficial study of Constructive Customer Relations, Banking Fundamentals and Public Speaking. No comment is necessary on these courses: their value is at once apparent."

The Red Cross enrolled 3,802,384 members in last year's roll call. Join in the 1934 roll call—Armistice Day to Thanksgiving.

BANK DEPOSITS WERE SAFEST INVESTMENTS

High Government Official Says No Investments Except U. S. Bonds Suffered as Little Loss as Deposits in Closed Banks

WASHINGTON, D. C.—No form of investments except Government bonds suffered as little loss as deposits in closed banks during the years 1931-32, Jesse H. Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, declared in a recent address.

"A point generally overlooked in connection with bank failures in this period, is that upon the whole, deposits in closed banks will get a somewhat larger percentage than has been true in bank failures over a period of say twenty-five years," Mr. Jones said. "Heretofore they have gotten about 58%, but in these wholesale bank closings, my estimate is that they will, upon the average, get about 65% of their deposits."

"Another point worthy of mention is that a depositor in a closed bank loses only a part of his deposit, while the bank stockholder loses all, plus a stock assessment."

"No form of investment, except Government bonds, has suffered as little loss as deposits in closed banks, and while I appreciate that there is little consolation in this fact, those who had their savings invested in stocks, bonds, mortgages, real estate, industrial investments, or in businesses of any kind, have had losses very much greater, and in a much larger percentage, than have depositors in closed banks."

"It is for these reasons, and others not necessary here to enumerate, that it is not possible to justify paying depositors in closed banks with the taxpayers' money."

Another Drought Next Year Feared

Washington, Nov. 26.—The spectre of another drought has some departments of agriculture officials fearful for the future of the nation's agricultural "bread basket."

No official predictions have been made but men concerned with AAA plans for 1935 acknowledge they are worried. Daily reports showing abnormal temperature and light rainfall over parts of the midwest are being scrutinized as never before.

The fall, since the nation's worst drought was partly broken in September, the temperature has been considerably above normal, and rain and snow is considerably below normal.

Some department of agricultural officials recalled Secretary Wallace's observation early last summer that dry periods "breed on themselves."

One economist admitted he was "praying that the midwest got a lot of snow and that the country freezes tight for the winter."

Such weather would be severe on livestock, officials admit, but the contention is that the cattle situation would be much easier to meet than another drought.

POLICE CATCH A FEW IN NET DURING WEEK

A Federal secret service man was here (Levelland) Saturday investigating the counterfeiting of small coin. A party was arrested who claimed that he made a few spurious nickles for the purpose of playing slot machines, but after further investigation was released and no charges filed.

Two parties drove up to a cafe last week and deliberately took a slot machine away with them without asking permission or making any other explanation. Nothing was done about this either. The operation of a slot machine is said to be illegal, and perhaps as long as the racketeers confine their activities to one another, other people should be content. When you can play a slot machine with a slug, we certainly don't see any sense in putting good money into it. Another thing is that it seems to be a perfectly legitimate pass-time.—Levelland Herald.

We are having considerably more farm sales than usual this year, the most of them wanting to go to the valley and get rich growing vegetables, and healthy on the sunshine. There are two families wanting each of these vacated places, and as one man said last week, perhaps we will do better with a little new blood in the communities.

We are very sorry to report that Grandma Barret is very ill, and has been moved to the home of her son, Judge Jay Barret.

The pens at the Babicora Development Co., just north of the city are fast filling. A few more train loads and the capacity of some 9600 will be reached.

Snobber—Well, what did you find out about my family tree? Genealogist—That the entire crop was a failure.

Freddy Martin is Given Radio Newcomers a Chance

Different Cities Sending Best Local Talent Each Week

FOR the first time in the history of radio broadcasting newcomers from different parts of the country are being given an opportunity to display their ability on an important program. Each week Freddy Martin, nationally known orchestra leader, is inviting a different city to send its representative to appear with his orchestra during the Sunday "Open House" broadcasts over the Columbia network.

One of the chief criticisms leveled at the broadcasting companies is that they are overlooking great talents in not picking more of their artists from among the local performers in various communities who have established important followings. Many radio critics and listeners contend that these local entertainers are superior to some of those now recruited in New York.

Freddy Martin, who is in an excellent position to appreciate what it means to be given a good "break," wants to test the validity of this criticism through the "Open House" programs. Every Sunday he will present some local star in a first shot at a nationwide hookup. Newspapers and radio stations are being asked to cooperate in finding an outstanding representative from each city.

The performers that Freddy introduces each week on "Open House" may well be the stars of the future. Martin got his start in the entertainment world through a similar "break." Brought up in an orphan asylum, he organized his own orchestra shortly after leaving high school. It wasn't very successful in securing engagements until he had an opportunity to substitute for a famous orchestra, con-

Freddy Martin, popular young conductor, who is giving newcomers their first "big chance" during his Sunday programs over the Columbia network.

In giving these newcomers an opportunity, Martin, therefore, is not only offering listeners some new fare but he may also be helping some worthy, but little known, artists reach their goal. All kinds of performers will parade before the microphone on the Sunday programs. The chance is available to singers, instrumentalists or actors, men and women, solo performers or teams.

TREMBLING BALANCE

The great will not condescend to take anything seriously—Emerson.

Did you ever meet one of these students who takes himself so seriously that he becomes an ever-present cause of worry? Did you ever want to take him by the nape of the neck and chuck him overboard? Well, so have we.

Some people take themselves so seriously that any slight, intended or otherwise, deeply offends. They go about with feelings out, expecting to get hurt. In the presence of these "sensitive brothers" the normal human being is ill at ease. He does not wish to offend, so he is afraid to laugh or speak his opinion lest he "hurt somebody's feelings."

We call special attention to the fact that the Juniors have been winning the contests toward determining the Cub King and Queen, and expect to keep up the good fight!

CUB COMMENT

Although the Seniors of B. H. S. are behind in the present contest for the King and Queen of the Cubs they are not behind in their high standard of scholarship. We understand that they put scholarship first.

All the students came back to B. H. S. Monday morning ready for work after the Thanksgiving holidays. There are three more weeks of work and studying for the faculty and students of B. H. S. before the Christmas holidays begin. Why not make these next three weeks count?

The crowning of the King and Queen of the Cubs is only 3 weeks off. There is only one contest left, the four one-act plays. The program of the plays is to be presented Tuesday night, December 11, in the high school auditorium. The Coronation will be Tuesday evening, December 18th.

What is wrong with having a Pei Squad all through the basketball season? We ask this question because there are some students of B. H. S. that are not on either squad of players.

We call special attention to the fact that the Juniors have been winning the contests toward determining the Cub King and Queen, and expect to keep up the good fight!

MRS. WINGERD SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

On Wednesday morning, November 28, the students of B. H. S. assembled in the auditorium for chapel. Mrs. Roy Wingerd gave a talk which was of interest to both the boys and girls.

She raised the question: "What does it take to make a successful woman?" She answered by saying that happiness was essential if anyone would be a success. But what things are essential for happiness? She gave illustrations to show that neither fame nor wealth brought happiness.

Another point she brought out was of ambition, which she illustrated by naming some ambitions she has for her daughter. She wants her to have a desire to learn, to push forward, to seek the better things of life. She wants the teachers to fire her imagination and make her eager to know and learn. She has an ambition that her daughter will have the quality and appearance necessary for every person.

In judging a person, their appearance is considered, so to have others believe in you and to be respected by them you must so live that others may see your good qualities. You can build for yourself an appearance. "If a woman is not pretty at forty it is her own fault."

Mrs. Wingerd's talk was enjoyed by all who heard her. The students of B. H. S. invite her back.

ADJUSTING BANKING TO CHANGING NEEDS

By ROBERT M. FLEMING Vice President American Bankers Association

BANKERS recognize that changing conditions require new methods of doing business. However it is their responsibility to retain those essential and sound financial principles upon which this country was founded and has grown to be what is still the richest nation in the world.

R. V. FLEMING

Many of our difficulties have arisen from lack of confidence and from misunderstanding of the banker. Therefore it behooves the banker to bend every effort to create a better public understanding of sound banking and thereby bring about that united effort and cooperative spirit which will hasten the day of national recovery and restore to the banker the confidence of the public to which he is entitled.

As an approach to the realization of this ideal, bankers should carefully scrutinize every application for a loan to see if it is bankable and, if it is not in bankable form, then make further examination to see if the loan can be made so, in order that the uses of credit may be stimulated.

Explaining Loan Factors to Customers We must not expect our customers to be bankers and understand all the factors which we must consider before granting a loan. If we find that a loan is not, and cannot be made, bankable, then I think we should take pains to explain to the applicant the reasons why it cannot be granted.

There are other measures which I think it important for the banker to undertake in order to eliminate the misunderstandings which have arisen and overcome the sentiment which exists. Under present conditions we have to operate under many laws and regulations, and also watch what further legislation is being proposed which affects our methods of operation and may not be in the best interest of the communities we serve. Nowadays it seems at times we must sit with a law book in one hand and a book of regulations in the other in order to make certain we are discharging our daily duties and functioning strictly in accordance with the law. All of this is very trying, yet I think in the end we shall become better bankers.

I believe it is the duty of every banker today to endeavor to understand the public he serves. In addition to his daily duties, trying as they are, he should participate in the activities of his community, so that, with the fund of information available to him, he may be as helpful as possible in all public and civic matters.

Moisture in Grass, Plants The average small suburban lawn transpires from 10 to 15 gallons of water daily into the air. In this way it moistens the air and makes it more fit for human breathing. In that same connection, sunflower plants have been known to transpire a quart of water daily. Plants absorb water from the ground and then pass it on to the air through the process of transpiration after the individual requirements of the plants have been taken care of.

Largest Rock Gardens Cornell university at Ithaca, N. Y. has what are perhaps the largest rock gardens in the world. Two gorges, the one of Cascadilla creek and the other of Fall creek, each more than a mile long and with banks sometimes rising 250 feet from the water's edge, constitute these gardens. They are the two gorges which bound the university campus.

Reveals Character of Birds When placed before a mirror, birds and animals show up their characters interestingly, reacting with rage, jealousy, friendliness, or curiosity as their dispositions decree.

Long Range Forecasting According to scientists the next few winters will be mild because of increasing sun spots. Very cold winters will be experienced about 1970 to 1980.

Thanks Legionaires

To The American Legion: I wish to thank you one and all for building my little house. The furnishings, shingles and lumber needed built a comfortable 16x18 3-room house for me. I sure appreciate all of this very much, but the spirit in which the gift was made I do so certainly appreciate. May it be as bread cast upon the waters.

Espada, Where Texas' First Gathered

In 1731, two hundred and three years ago, the Franciscan fathers built Mission San Francisco de Espada near San Antonio. Continuously since that time, Mission Espada has been used for worship. The top picture shows the mission at the close of a recent Sunday service, while below is its interior. Here, in Espada's court yard, the first army of Texas gathered under James W. Fannin and James Bowie during October, 1835, and from here 300 men were sent to capture San Antonio. A glorious victory resulted, the Texans routing 1,600 Mexicans with the loss of only two men, one of them Ben Milam, whose infectious enthusiasm had initiated the assault. The brick and adobe houses bordering the large Mission de Espada courtyard are still intact and occupied. (Photos by R. M. Hayes, Tyler.)

CICERO SMITH LUMBER COMPANY

Our 23 Year Column—

In our issue of December 8, 1911 we used most of the space on the front page telling about Lence Price coming by Sunday morning and asking the editor and wife to take a buggy ride with him to the Primrose community in Hockley county, to the home of one, Lee Cowan and family, where lived the girl of Lence's dream, and he was going to ask for her that day. Well, we had a nice time that day with lots to eat, and the old folks were just as nice to Lence as they could be, and really were expecting him to ask for Grace, but you know that lad didn't ask until after dark that night. Mr. Cowan wanted to show us his orchard, we gave some excuse to stay in the house to give Lence a fair shot, but both insisted that we go. About the time we were to return to the house, Old Lence with a trembling voice asked Mr. Cowan to one side, and we beat it for the house. They married the following Sunday, we believe.

One of O. M. Daniel's boys had fallen from a horse while practicing roping and broke his thigh. Mrs. J. W. Ellis was hostess to the M. & M.

Club. They studied Corolinus. Tom May and J. R. Hill were Lubbock visitors. Even in that early day, Terry county lint was noted for its beauty and length, and brought a half cent above the market at Tahoka. Atty. Roscoe Wilson was a visitor in our city. Will Adams was nursing a lame knee. Two polo men were here and purchased two ponies from John C. Scudday at a fancy price. Mr. L. L. Cobb was up from Seminole visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bynum. Percy Spencer represented a client in the Lubbock court.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Bell had returned to Marshall. J. C. Green, J. W. Welch and Clyde and Jim Lewis carried 18 bales of cotton to Tahoka. A thresher was busy at the Burnett Bros. ranch. Mr. Harrison of Sligo, had purchased a gasoline engine from the Brownfield Hdw. Co. Bernice McClung was here from Springtown, visiting his uncle W. G. Hardin and family, and prospecting. Jim Walker of the Groves community, was interested in peanut culture. Uncle Joe Fisher brought in two, 250 lb. dressed porkers that netted him $45.

Gomez News: The gin was running full time as the farmers were trying to get out their cotton by Christmas. Mrs. Will Snodgrass had received a message that her father was dangerously ill in Okla. The Thanksgiving services were held at the Baptist church. Mr. Rowe and Miss Susie Carpenter of Plains, passed through on their way to Brownfield to get married. Mr. Thompson was up from Brownwood visiting his daughter Mrs. Oscar Adams. A family was moving through Gomez to their farm three miles west they had never seen. All this week.

Also, as Rev. Ed Tharp was returned to this charge, the Herald was again given the contract for several thousand programs to be used at the Methodist church from Sunday to Sunday throughout the year. Two pages were entirely printed, and two are left to be printed each week, including the day's program.

London-Bound for Love

By KAYE WOODROW

HELEN HOLMES didn't feel so happy. She had a romantic nature and she longed for a cozy, rose-covered cottage in the suburbs, a flower garden to cultivate, and a tall, broad-shouldered, tanned man to welcome home each night. It so happened that Helen was really what some old maids would call a model young girl—that is, she didn't smoke or drink, nor did she enjoy petting. But every night—at least almost every night—she dreamed some modern specimen of Lochinvar would appear from somewhere and claim her as his bride.

Of course it was only a dream. Day after day she conscientiously typed away in a Wall Street brokerage firm and calmly refused the dinner invitations tendered her by one of the elder men of the office force.

She felt pretty bitter about life in general when a friend, Blanche Young, returned from a cruise to Bermuda with an engagement ring in the proper place. And to make it worse Blanche informed everyone that the newly-discovered male—one Eddie Williams—and she were to be married within a month.

Here was what she had dreamed of for so long, enacted in real life—but, to somebody else. But after a few days she grew less bitter about it all and decided that if such things did happen, perhaps her time would come before too long. She knew that she was every bit as attractive as Blanche. And she had some money saved, so why not a cruise to Bermuda or some such place for herself?

Blanche Young's luck at catching a good looking and sensible man had exercised a great influence over Helen. She realized that Blanche had really taken the right way. She knew that if she continued working year after year in torrid New York, she would soon lose all hopes of marrying. Her attractiveness and her disposition as well, would be all shot.

So, one day, when she was feeling exceptionally carefree and jubilant, she asked the office manager for a six weeks' leave of absence for a long cruise. As luck would have it, her request was granted. Immediately she withdrew all her savings—six hundred dollars. For two hundred dollars she secured passage to London on a small but respectable merchant steamer.

The first day at sea was ideal. Helen was so happy and relaxed after years of work in an office that she almost forgot the main reason why she had staked her all on the trip to London and back.

Nevertheless, as she watched the deck tennis and shuffle-board games on the deck, Helen took accurate regard of all the young men present. Of the ones she scrutinized there were only two, she decided with a woman's intuition, that would take the place of all the Lochinvars she had dreamed of. And only one of the eligible males, Helen decided, was the type that would want a home with a pretty wife to prepare his meals. He was a serious looking man of about thirty-five, tanned, well built and genial in appearance. The other man who qualified was busy playing deck tennis. He had all the appearance of a college athlete, intent upon having a swell vacation at his father's expense. But the fact must be told, that he alone of all the men on deck, had seemed to notice Helen and be impressed by her appearance.

Then, all of a sudden, the other man whose appearance Helen had admired, turned to her and said, "Shall we take the winners on for a game of deck tennis?"

"I'd love to!" replied Helen, saying to herself that Lady Luck at last was her good friend.

As the trip progressed Helen and her newly found, tanned, thirty-five-year-old male acquaintance played deck tennis together every day. He was always polite and courteous—yes, even friendly. But that was as far as things went. Nights, instead of being with the older man, she danced and walked on deck with the young, sentimental college youth.

Things went along like that until the night before they docked at London. On that night Helen missed her college student-dancer at the farewell dance. Feeling a little disappointed, she retired to the deck where she sat in a deck chair and admired the stars and the moon.

Suddenly from nowhere came "Hello, Helen!" She lifted her glance from the stars to discover who had approached her. And it was her deck tennis partner—the one man who seemed anxious to find a young woman to share his home.

"Helen," he said, as he dragged her out of the deck chair and over to the rail, "I've been looking for you. It's too late for deck tennis—so I thought you might play a game of love. I want you for my partner always."

"Do you like rose-covered cottages with gardens, and with a wife waiting there nights with a home-cooked meal for you?" whispered Helen, as she edged closer to her friend.

"Darned right I do," was his ready response.

"Well, I guess this game of love is all right, then. But let's make it soon." "Tomorrow we'll be in London, and that's where I'm stationed for a year or so. You won't mind living in London, will you, Helen, darling?"

"Never—you see, I only purchased a one-way ticket."

Plant Grows From Caterpillar
The aweto, a New Zealand caterpillar, develops with a parasitic fungus in its body that eventually causes a vegetable plant, sometimes eight inches in height, to grow from the back of its neck.

Ignorance Never Bliss
"Ignorance is never bliss," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown. "It is only an anesthetic which prevents a person temporarily from being aware of a painful condition."

The customer in the grocery was hopping mad because he had got his clothes all covered with paint. "Didn't you see that sign saying 'Fresh Paint'?" inquired the grocer.

"Yes," said the victim, "but I had seen so many signs hung up here announcing something fresh which wasn't that I didn't believe it."

Some very amusing reports are sent to Washington by the owners of the little "Class 2" railroads. One question that has to be answered each month is this: "Have you had any collisions?"

One magnate gave the answer: "How in the devil can we have collisions when we have only one train?"

Pat—The Lakes of Killarney, sor, have no bottom.
Tourist—What makes you say that?
Pat—Why, sor, Felix O'Garrahaa was reported drowned in there while he was in swimming last year and about six months after that his mother had a letter from him from China asking her to send him his clothes.

Laura—Weren't you surprised when he proposed to you?
Lucile—Yes, it was a total surprise. I hadn't even looked up his financial standing.

Angler—Why, you see he's been taking my bait all morning and I just tied him up until I get ready to go home.

RED CROSS AGENCIES SAFEGUARD HEALTH

First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 750 nurses in 424 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the World War and the ravages of the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life."

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United States. Many services we established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected."

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their own homes and to recognize symptoms of illness early enough to prevent serious consequences."

"Our courses in first aid have been instrumental in saving lives of the injured, in safeguarding the accident victim until the physician arrives, and in reducing time lost by workers in factories, mines and other industries. We are also giving the course extensively to police and fire departments throughout the country, and to state highway patrols."

Everyone is invited to join the Red Cross during the annual membership roll call which continues from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, to have a part in the health program and the other humanitarian services of the Red Cross.

Matching Shade
At a soiree Dumas was wearing the ribbon of a certain order, having recently been made a commandant, and an envious friend remarked upon it. "My dear fellow," he said, "that cordon is a wretched color! One would think it was your woolen vest that was showing!"
"Oh, no, my dear d'E—," replied Dumas with a smile, "you're mistaken: it's not a bad color; it is exactly the shade of the sour grapes in the fable."—Golden Book.

Advertisers Told of Business Gain

ATLANTIC CITY.—A general business rise was reported at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Association of National Advertisers here. Bernard Lichtenberg, of New York, vice president of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, reported a survey of 20 large manufacturers in the food, drug-store products, electrical appliance and other fields. He said it showed from 6 to 50 per cent trade improvement in the last year.

"Our own business," he declared, "rose 31.4 percent in the last three months over the same period a year ago, the first substantial rise since 1930. We consider this something of a barometer, since business employees do not sign up for a year's installments on a commercial course unless fairly sure of their jobs." This optimistic view was expressed by other delegates also.

Mitzi—Why did you leave your boarding house? I heard you had beat at every meal.

Itzi—We did have meat at every meal. First it was beef, beef, beef; that was the month that their old cow died.

"Why did you leave your last job?" asked the boss.

"I didn't leave it, it left me," said the applicant.

"How could that be?"

"I worked in an ammunition factory and it went up in the night."

Nit—Why is there such an affinity between a colored man and a chicken?

Wit—Because one descended from Ham and the other from eggs.
