April 1 Last Date to Register Motor Cars

Bulletin No. 286—State Highway Patrolmen

Within the last few days many inquiries have reached this office from Tax Collectors regarding the date that 1935 automobile license plates should be attached to motor vehicles.

House Bill 6 passed by the Second Called Session of the Forty-third Legislature changed the automobile registration year from January to April first. The latter part of Section 1 of this Bill states that wherever the current year or calendar year are used in the statutes relating to the payment of registration fees, it shall mean the motor vehicle registration year. Therefore, the current registration year does not expire until midnight, April first.

Section 5 of this same Bill provides in part that "Any person who operates a passenger car or a commercial motor vehicle or truck-tractor upon the public highways of this State any time during any month of a motor vehicle registration year without having displayed thereon and attached thereto two license number plates, one plate at the front and one at the rear, which have been duly and lawfully assigned for said vehicle for the current year, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

It is, therefore, unlawful to operate an automobile in this State during the months of February and March of this year unless it has been registered for the unexpired portion of the 1934 registration year and has attached thereto 1934 license plates. It is unlawful to attach 1935 registration plates before midnight, April first. However, 1935 plates may be obtained at the present time through any of the County Tax Collectors' offices.

You will please give this bulletin all the publicity possible through your local newspaper.

Yours very truly,
L. G. Phares, Chief
State Highway Patrol.

7,500 Birthday Parties Net Million For Charity

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—More than 4,000,000 Americans in the United States and all its possessions danced and made merry last night in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday. They contributed approximately $1,000,000 to a national campaign for the treatment and study of infantile paralysis.

The balls were held in more than 7,500 cities, towns and hamlets. One was held in Little America where the Byrd Antarctic expedition is preparing to return to civilization.

Through an extensive radio hookup, the president addressed the far-flung celebrations. He expressed his happiness in the national interest in infantile paralysis education and thanked the celebrants and the thousands who sent telegrams felicitating him on the anniversary.

The New York party attracted 15,000 persons to the Waldorf Astoria when Mrs. James Roosevelt, the president's mother, was guest of honor. More than 200 other balls were held in the metropolitan area.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wearing a blue chiffon evening gown with silver girdle, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, attended the Washington ball where more than 3,000 persons including high government officials, members of the diplomatic corps, and social leaders, danced until an early hour.

The Boston ball was attended by the president's sons, Franklin and John and 15,000 others. The boys cut pieces from the giant birthday cake to send their parents and grandmother.

The Chicago ball was attended by more than 35,000.

Seventy per cent of the receipts will be retained in the communities of origin for infantile paralysis treatment. Thirty per cent will go to the president's birthday committee for infantile paralysis research for allocation to various scientific groups studying the disease and its cure.

Union Polling Only Five Percent of Vote

By Clarence E. McConnell
Detroit Free Press Labor Editor

Detroit automobile workers have written the first chapter of their declaration of independence from the rule of all union organizers.

Free, unaffiliated labor stood 90 per cent strong Friday on the face of returns from eight major factories in which the Automobile Labor Board has conducted elections by direction of President Roosevelt.

The combined strength of eight unions totaled only 10 per cent. Most aggressive in attempts to organize the industry, the American Federation of Labor had suffered perhaps its greatest loss of prestige. Slightly more than 5 per cent of the vote was cast with allegiance to that organization.

The Mechanics Educational Society of America and six other unions shared another 5 per cent. The Communist Auto Workers Union garnered just 14 votes.

Statistically, the story reads: Free, unaffiliated labor, 34,273; union pledged, 4,063.

If you owe a man he is always in sight and is very frequent. If he owes you, he stays out of sight and is very few indeed.

Trained to Save Lives

First aid certificates were issued by the Red Cross last year to 130,972 persons who finished the course of instruction put on by the chapters. Included in this list were more than 70,690 foremen, time clerks and other key employees on Federal Civil Works projects. Further evidence of the government's endorsement of the first aid program is found in projects now under way where Red Cross chapters, at the request of the War Department, are giving first aid instruction in CCC camps. Where it has been requested by Army engineers the same instruction is also made available to key men working on federal water conservancy and flood control projects.

War Veterans' Problems Increase

Last year American Red Cross chapters dealt with the problems of nearly 400,000 veterans and their families. The workers find that as the years go on their responsibility increases rather than decreases. Changes in legislation, the increasing age of veterans and the consequent increase in physical ills, bring new needs for sympathetic treatment by trained Red Cross workers.

In addition to this service to veterans the Red Cross served as the official medium between the people and the men in military and naval service, giving aid through this service last year to 6,979 men in the army, navy and marine corps.

Fires on Morro Castle and at Nome, Alaska, Received Help of Red Cross Workers

A number of tragic and unusual disasters have recently called for Red Cross relief.

Included in them have been a flood in Kentucky, following a series of cloudbursts in August; epidemics of disease which threatened several sections, including some caused by drought conditions. Red Cross workers found much to do for the survivors of the Morro Castle fire and for those engaged in rescue work; and Red Cross relief went by airplane to Alaska when the famous old gold camp, Nome, burned in September.

SENATE HAS FEW VISITORS TO HINDER

AUSTIN.—South Plains citizens visiting in the Capitol during the current session of the Legislature will find gaining admittance to the Senate Chamber charged with difficulties for which there is no precedent. The Senate is literally working behind closed doors.

Residents of the 19th District, wishing to confer with their Senator, Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, will be admitted at the outer door and there directed to a reception or conference room. The Senator will be summoned from the floor by a page.

Formerly an elderly custodian attempted to enforce Rule 92 of the Senate Code Book which forbids privilege of the floor to any same members of the Legislature and their families, employees of the Legislature, heads of state departments and newspapermen. Now able-bodied young men are stationed at all the entrances to the Chamber.

ADVERTISING GAINED 10.6 PERCENT IN 1934

NEW YORK.—During 1934, advertisers spent about $490,000,000 for space in American daily newspapers, according to an estimate made from returns from 52 cities, appearing in Editor and Publisher, a newspaper and advertising publication.

The lineage figures for the year showed a gain of 10.6 percent over 1933, and 1.2 percent over 1932. They were 37.9 percent below 1929 the peak year in newspaper advertising. For the last 15 months, according to the article, each month's lineage has been greater than that for the corresponding month of the previous year.

The Editor and Publisher's lineage index shows that advertising volume mounted steadily for the first 6 months last year. Then it dropped and wavered within a narrow range until October, when it rose from 88.2 to 94.4 in November, and 97.1 in December.

BANK RESERVES REACH FOUR AND HALF BILLION

WASHINGTON.—Latest compilations put the total reserves of member banks of the Federal Reserve System at $4,400,000,000, and excess reserves at $2,100,000,000 the highest on record.

In some quarters it was held that this would make possible an increase of loans and investments to about $55,000,000,000, as opposed to the present level of $28,000,000,000, an expansion of $27,000,000,000 with out resort to inflation.

Lack of more rapid expansion of loans was laid partly to inertia, partly to hesitation on the part of banks to take the normal risk, and partly to hesitation on the part of borrowers to assume the liability.

GETTING AWAY WITH CANNED SPEECHES

AUSTIN, Texas.—The practice of using "ready-made" debate speeches has brought commercialism to the Inter-scholastic League debate platform it is pointed out in an editorial comment in a recent issue of the Inter-scholastic League, published for the University of Texas Bureau of Public School Interests. The editorial decries this element of "dishonesty" as follows:

"Debate has its commercialism no less than football. The selling of ready-made speeches, both main and rebuttal, and the use of them by high-school debate coaches very seriously threatens the educational value of this time-honored contest. The rule against this practice is exceedingly difficult to enforce. Teams some way manage to get by with memorized rebuttal which is the work of others. The plagiarism rule is intended to afford a means of punishing this form of dishonesty. But judges are frequently inexperienced and the gibes of memorized rebuttal often deceive them. The use of such material teaches dishonesty, and it is difficult to see how the conscientious coach can yield to the seductions of the commercial bureau."

Judge Lynn was over from Plains, Wednesday.

50c GOATSKIN IN TEXAS BECOMES $50 FUR IN N. Y.

Striking illustration of how Texas loses in furnishing raw materials for Eastern manufacturers to fabricate into something else was related to Progressive Texans by J. Russell Wait, chairman of the Houston Port Commission.

"Thru the Port of Houston each year go many thousands of goat-skins from the Edwards Plateau region of Texas," said Mr. Wait. "Most of them are shipped to New York for transforming into 'furs' for milady's wardrobe.

"That transformation is so complete that what was a 50-cent goat-skin to the Texas producer becomes a $50 'fur' after it has gone thru the processing in a New York factory. In other words, the $49.50 'value added by manufacture' accrues wholly to the New York furrier and the 50c the Texas producer gets represents his entire share that Texas receives from the bargain."

Mr. Wait is a firm believer in the doctrine that Texas should develop itself industrially as the first step toward stable prosperity and growth.

RED GOOSE—THE OJIBWA INDIAN BOY

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls
By Carlyle Emery

On the return trip to the Ojibwa Village with supplies for the winter, Red Goose discovers a band of Sioux warriors approaching. Red Eagle and Bear Cat unload the pack horses, using the kegs of powder and boxes to form a barricade.

Quietly, the little party of four waited for the coming of the Sioux and just as Red Goose was about to go out and reconnoiter, a single shot rang out.

"That was warning shot by Sioux scout," whispered Red Eagle. "They have seen us."

"Let them come," answered Red Goose bravely. "Let Sioux learn how Ojibwa die."

"If Sioux take our powder and guns, Ojibwa starve through winter," sobbed Little Beaver.

"Down! Duck down—quick!" commanded Bear Cat, suddenly, as a dozen or more Sioux appeared at the top of the hill not the flight of three arrows in front of them. At the same moment, he fired in the direction of the approaching Red Skins.

Then a strange thing happened. With yells of defiance, the Sioux turned about and disappeared, riding for all they were worth.

"Heyyyyyaaaa! Run, Sioux! Cowards! Run like women!" shouted Red

Goose, jumping to his feet and waving arms in the air. Then, turning to his father, he said: "Father, we fire only once and Sioux braves run away. They fear Ojibwa."

"No, Son," said Bear Cat grimly. "The Sioux won't run away. That was just their first guard. They will ride back and get the rest of the tribe. Then they'll talk to their Thunder God. After that—well—things will begin to happen."

"Bear Cat is right. The Sioux will come back—many Sioux. How many do you count?" asked Red Eagle.

"A hundred horses are in the Valley," answered Red Goose. "Look! There are three braves at top of hill now."

"They know our guns won't carry that far, the varmints! I'll try, any way. Hand me that rifle." As Bear Cat spoke, Little Beaver passed his rifle to him and, taking careful aim, the brave Scout fired straight at the enemy.

The shot was followed by a shrill yell, and the cries of—"KI-YI-YI!—KI-YI-YI!", which is the Sioux battle-cry.

"Missed!" growled Bear Cat. "And they knew I'd miss."

The Great Emancipator

Abraham Lincoln was the fourth President to die in Washington and the third to pass away while holding that office. He was also the first to die by the hand of an assassin. He was six feet four inches in height, and was the tallest man who has been President of the United States.

To Guarantee Pupils High School Education

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—Three emergency measures introduced in the Senate this week would insure high school educational advantages for every boy and girl in the state, would make tax liens eligible for investment, would require Texas courts to place injunction hearings at the head of their dockets.

The bills were submitted under the co-authorship of A. P. Duggan of Littlefield, Senator from 30th district.

Perfection of rules as to transfer of students from one school district to another and a guarantee that high schools will be paid tuition allowed by law for pupils from other districts are sought in a bill which would give, "to any pupil between (the ages of) six and twenty-one . . . who has been promoted to a high school grade not taught in his home district . . . the right to attend a standardized, classified and affiliated high school at the expense of his home district if such district is financially able to provide tuition; or, . . . at the expense of the state . . ."

Teeth were put in the measure by a provision which invests the state superintendent of public instruction with authority to withhold current per capita apportionment from districts which fail to accept eligible transfers or sending districts which fail or refuse to pay transfer accounts after a designated period of time.

Besides placing tax liens on a par with other investments, a proposed act which went through the Senate hopper as Senate Bill No. 114 would provide for appointment of deputy collectors of delinquent taxes in counties or other taxing subdivisions harassed by mounting totals of past due taxes.

Senator Duggan, T. J. Holbrook of Galveston and Grady Woodruff of Decatur are sponsors of the bill.

Tax-payers would be given authority to borrow money to pay current or delinquent taxes and, "upon payment of the delinquent taxes, the tax collector shall, at the request of the owners of the property, execute a written instrument transferring the tax lien to the lender. In such case the tax lien . . . shall be superior to any other lien except such as may accrue to the state or its political subdivisions . . . Such lien may be emergent into a deed of trust lien or chattel mortgage lien upon the property involved, may at maturity be foreclosed after the manner of a deed of trust or chattel mortgage. Such tax liens are . . . eligible for investment by banks . . . buildings and loan as-

Lincoln's early reading

THE education of Abraham Lincoln is a subject of interest to every one, from the scholar who studies the many influences which left their imprint on his personality to the schoolboy who tries to work out an argument for not going to school because Lincoln did not, writes Esther Cowles Cushman, custodian Lincoln collection, Brown university, in the New York Times.

A group of books in the Lincoln collection at Brown university at Providence, R. I., which attracts much attention, consists of copies just like those Lincoln used when he was a boy in Kentucky and Indiana. These books, mostly in old calf or sheepskin bindings, make a row less than two feet long, yet a thorough familiarity with what is there would give a boy an education not to be despised.

In commenting on only a part of these books—the Bible, "Pilgrim's Progress," "Aesop's Fables," "Weems' Washington," "Robinson Crusoe" and "The History of the United States"—Dr. William E. Barton says: "If we could substitute a better life of Washington and a modern history of the United States it would be for the profit of any American boy if he were shut up with these half dozen books and no others until he thoroughly mastered them. They were an almost ideal selection. Of the Murray's 'English Reader' Lincoln himself said that it was the most useful book ever put into the hands of an American youth."

Thomas Lincoln's old Bible, the one that his son, when a boy, kept always at hand along with Aesop's Fables, and read over and over again, has been preserved and is now one of the treasures in the Oldroyd collection in Washington. It was the custom of Nancy Lincoln, on Sundays when there was no preaching service in the community, to spend part of the day reading the Scriptures to her family, and after Abraham and his sister, Sarah, learned to read they took turns in assisting her.

It is thought that Lincoln's first textbook, the one he used while attending the schools in Kentucky taught by Zachariah Riney and Caleb Hazel, was Dilworth's speller. This was much more than a spelling book. The title reads: "A New Guide to the English Tongue, in Four Parts." The Brown university copy is the eighteenth edition, published in 1786.

There is a surprising amount of material in this little book, 6½ by 4 inches, with 192 pages. First is the alphabet, then are tables of the simplest words followed by reading lessons of the same words. The tables of words increase in difficulty up to eight syllables and the reading lessons correspond. These lessons are extremely religious and moral in tone. The first simple sentence states: "No man may put off the law of God." A number of proverbs are quoted from the Bible. Many admonitions like the following are used: "Liberality should have such a mixture of Prudence as not to exceed the Ability of the Giver; and be rightly suited to the Circumstances of the Receiver."

Part III of this versatile book is "A Practical English Grammar," and is arranged by question and answer. For example: "Q—What is Grammar? A.—Grammar is the science of letters, or the art of writing and speaking properly and syntactically." Following the grammar are sentences in prose and in verse, all of a religious nature, and a number of select fables; and finally, "A short introduction to geography" in twelve pages. There is plenty of subject-matter for a pupil to use for several years.

Pike's arithmetic and that by Daboll were in common use at the time Lincoln was studying. Herndon states that Lincoln used Pike's; a casual reference has been found to his use of Daboll's. Neither book seems to have been used to copy the examples that the boy wrote in his famous copybook. Apparently the Lincoln family did not own an arithmetic, and he had to copy what he wanted to keep for reference.

Dennis Hanks, the cousin who supplied so much information about Lincoln's early years, said he bought the paper for him to make the copybook, leaves of which are to be found in many collections of Lincolniana. The leaves, dated 1824, are headed "Multiplication" and "Simple Interest." Another is on compound multiplication and compound division, still another on compound interest and long division. On more than one page of this book is a verse of doggerel:

Abraham Lincoln his hand and pen. He will be good but God knows when.

One of the most famous books that Lincoln had is Weems' "Life of Washington." It is thought that he may have had a copy in Kentucky before the family moved to Indiana, when he was seven years old; at all events, in a speech in New Jersey in 1861 Lincoln said he got hold of it in the earliest days of his reading.

This is the book that tells the famous story about the cherry tree. There is a strong moral tone running throughout, but there was much to kindle the imagination of a boy, such as the account of the capture of Trenton.

Tradition says that Aesop's Fables belonged to Lincoln in Kentucky. At any rate, we are sure he had it in his early years and probably could repeat most of it word for word. The copy in this collection is "with Instructive Applications and a Print before each Fable." In the frontispiece the scribe is seen surrounded by all the animals he has written about, and the little cuts above each fable show much imagination.

Lincoln's first law book he found in Indiana. David Turnham, for whom he worked, was a prosperous farmer and a justice of the peace, and so had a copy of the "Revised Laws of Indiana" published at Corydon, Ind., in 1824. As Turnham needed the book often for reference, he could not lend it, and Lincoln had to visit his house to read it. This he did, spending his time, when Turnham needed the book, in reading Scott's lessons and "Sinbad the Sailor," which he also found in the Turnham home.

Commissioners' Courts would appoint the deputy delinquent tax collector, with approval of the Comptroller of Public Accounts and the deputies' compensation would be a percentage of the delinquent taxes which he actually collects, not, as the bill says, "to exceed 10% of the sum collected and in counties where the amount of delinquent taxes exceeds $1,000,000.00 not more than 5%." Bond of the deputy is to be filed with and approved by the county judge, shall be of an amount fixed by the Commissioners' Court, but not less than $2,500.00.

Also by Senators Duggan, Holbrook and Woodruff is the bill requiring a quick consideration by state courts of record of injunctions to enjoin the collection of any State Taxes and requiring a final determination of such injunctions before disposing of any other business pending before the court. The term "emergency" is applied to the bill because, "injunctions may be secured against the collection of taxes . . . and the hearing postponed for such a period of time, after a temporary restraining order has been issued, that it seriously embarrasses the State in the collection of revenue."

ADJUSTMENT RAISES HOG INCOME

Inspected Hog Slaughter, and Total Paid by Packers, for first 8 Months, 1933 and 1934

PRELIMINARY studies indicate that a substantial increase in hog income is resulting from the adjustment in hog marketing effected by the 1933-34 emergency hog-buying programs and the 1934 corn-hog production adjustment program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The graph above shows that the total estimated cost to packers for hogs slaughtered under Federal inspection during the first eight months of 1934, including the processing taxes due, was approximately $100,000,000 larger than for the corresponding period in 1933. This represents an increase of about one-third in total cost and of more than one-half in the hundred-weight cost of live animals. At the same time, the total inspected slaughter of hogs for the first eight months of 1934 was about 13 per cent under the total for the corresponding period for 1933. A part of this gain has been due to an increase in consumer's income and to some adjustment in tonnage effectuated by the shortage of feed supplies resulting from drought, but production control under the Agricultural Adjustment Act has been a large factor. Hog prices throughout the current marketing year are expected to average higher than for several seasons. Corn-hog farmers of the United States will have an opportunity to hold gains made this past year by cooperating in the 1935 corn-hog program now being offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Our 23 Year Column

Farmer J. L. Bartlett got quite a write up. He came to town driving a good span of horses. But that was not all. He had the following produce in his wagon, valued at $44: five bushels of shelled maize, a 200-pound porker, 10 gallons of lard, and 10 dozen hen eggs. The county trustees, consisting of J. L. Randal, president, H. T. Day of Pre. 1; W. H. Gist, Pre. 2; W. D. Winn, Pre. 3, and J. C. Lewis, Pre. 4, had met. J. C. Lewis resigned and J. B. Nichols was elected in his place. They found all schools of the county in fine shape. R. M. Kendrick was making the race for State Representative. Chas. Boone made a trip to Lubbock after freight. J. E. Woodard had sweet potato seed for sale. Lee Allmor was helping S. E. Hamilton erect a residence on his farm. Uncle Matt McPherson was visiting in Comanche county. The bank directors held their meeting and pronounced the bank in fine shape. A fine boy was born the 28th to Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Adams. Mr. Duke was up from south Terry, shopping. Timms Bros. had completed a well for E. L. Thompson. V. E. Hargett had shipped his large bronze tom turkey to central Texas parties. Carpenters Byrd and Miller were making rapid headway on the Ote Copeland ranch home. Coble &

W. C. Smith had handed in a silver dollar on subscription. (Those old wagon wheels were plentiful then). Wiley Bridges, candidate for sheriff, was in town. Lester McPherson had left for Post to run a big gasoline engine used by contractors in building the Postex Cotton Mills. Hogs were quoted at 6c gross. The Gomez Merc. Co., had a page ad about their clearance sale. Judge Neill had gotten 28 chicks out of his first incubator hatch.

One of the many surprises of the season was when Prof. Tom F. Hunter and Miss Vera Scott hid themselves to Tahoka in a livery stable rig and became man and wife. It is said that they went by the home of the bride in east Terry, and that in all probability is why Hon. Tom became a lawyer. He had to make a great plea with the mother of the girl before getting her consent to the marriage. R. R. Hughes had sold his cows to J. W. Black, and was about ready to light out for California.

Gomez: A bad sandstorm Saturday and thick ice Sunday morning Bert Shepard was on the sick list. Boss Key went to Lubbock with cotton and other farm products. Jim Moore left for Comanche county to make that his home. W. C. Mathis and family had moved to Brownfield. Mesdames Hargett and Stricklin were Gomez visitors Sunday. The Spaulding man was delivering buggies in Gomez. L. B. Minor was visiting relatives in Gomez. Gomez market was overstocked with eggs, and they were bringing them to Brownfield.

Harris: The wagons from the Ivey ranch had passed through with cake from Lubbock. Singing at the Harris residence Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lupton of Sligo, were visiting Brit Clare and family. Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Ivey attended the funeral of Mr. Hamilton of Plains, who died suddenly. W. H. Harris was killing his hogs. Jack Mahoney was working for the Mallet ranch. All for this week.

The path of least resistance leads to least success. Who makes an exhibition of his temper gives a poor show.

Many Building Relief Projects For Texas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A $50,700,000 construction program of roads, streets and grade-separations for Texas has been presented to the finance committee of the United States Senate by highway advocates as a sound way to employ part of the huge federal public works fund, Col. Ike Ashburn of Houston, manager of the Texas Good Roads Association said today.

The Texas program is part of a nation-wide plan worked out by road leaders from many states. They listed for the committee 23,192 specific projects, to cost $1,700,000,000 which the various state highway departments can initiate immediately or within the year.

There are 975 projects on the Texas list, Colonel Ashburn said, including 75 underpasses or overpasses, 26 eliminations of dangerous highway intersections, 650 federal aid or secondary roads, and 200 within cities or towns.

LUBBOCK POLICE MAKE LIQUOR HAUL SATURDAY

LUBBOCK, Feb. 2.—Lubbock police today made the largest seizure of bonded liquor in the city's history. After arresting two men, police raided a warehouse, confiscating 39 full cases and about 100 other pints of whiskey, 22 pints of gin, and 16 full cases and 21 other bottles of beer. Tom Case and Y. Onstott, both of Lubbock, were charged with liquor law violation and released on $1,000 bail each to await action of a grand jury which convenes Feb. 11. Better birth control than peopling asylums and poor houses.

Officer Empties Gun At a Man, Tuesday

Deputy Sheriff C. T. Pendergrass of Meadow happened to be in the courthouse and thought Mr. Storie was trying to escape, and called out for him to halt, but Storie either did not hear, or did not know an officer was talking to him, whereupon, Pendergrass emptied his revolver at Storie, as he went diagonally across Main Street toward the city offices in the Hotel Brownfield building, where he submitted his case and immediately paid a fine.

In the meantime, Pendergrass is said to have stopped to reload his gun, and he was caught by some of the citizens. There were hundreds of people on the streets, and it is a thousand wonders some innocent person was not hurt in the shooting, and there certainly were a lot of mad citizens here following the shooting. Luckily no one, not even Storie was hit.

Colonel Ashburn urged all influential Texans who favor the plan to so advise their senators and representatives in Washington. "This program meets all the President's policy demands for public works," the Texan said. "These are useful and permanent improvements, with more than 80 per cent of the money going to wages. The projects are efficiently planned, they do not compete with private enterprise, and they add to the economic resources and stability of the nation."

BULL FIGHT WON WITH SMALL POCKET KNIFE

Claude, Texas.—An interesting and exciting event in Armstrong county recently was a bull fight staged by J. L. Pafford, county commissioner-elect, with a neighbor's 2-year-old 800-pound bull. While strolling through his pasture one morning recently, Mr. Pafford noticed the stray animal among his herd and decided to separate it from the herd by driving his cattle into another pasture. But the bull objected and proceeded to drive Mr. Pafford out of the pasture. The nearest protection was a barb wire fence, under which Mr. Pafford rolled as the bull plunged thru the fence. His next and only refuge was a bois d'arc fence post which he reached in time to get his pocket knife open for the next round. The last charge broke the post off at the ground, knocked Mr. Pafford to one side and let the bull pass. It was then the county commissioner had his inning. He jumped to his feet, grabbed the enraged animal by the horn (the other horn had been broken off) and with a bulldog grip pinned the animal to the ground with one hand while he sank his knife into its throat with the other, finally puncturing the jugular vein. And there the two wrestled until the bull bled to death.
