Our waste basket is only about half full of chain letters. So don't become discouraged and stop them.

We heard one man say recently that radios were one of the causes of dry weather. Wonder how he accounts for the floods in the east where they have two or three radios to our one?

The O'Donnell Index came to us last week dressed in royal purple. Whether this is the future color of attire, or they ran out of regulation white and substituted poster, our copy saith not.

The Snyder Signal informed us last week that the South Plains bankers would meet in Plainview for the fall meeting. No more fall meetings for the bankers, Dear Smith; they are too busy at that time, and no attendance. They quit fall meetings more than a year ago. Next San Jacinto day, Bro. Smyth, is the time.

It is reported around here that rabbits and prairie dogs have been blinded by sandstorms. Well, we have three witnesses that a prairie chicken that was crossing the road about ten miles east of town Sunday afternoon just barely walked out of the way of the car. If it was not blind, it was certainly woefully indifferent to danger.

Ladies all hate the dust storms, says Jean Suits in the Lockney Beacon. So do the men. You have heard the old rhyme about "the same wind that lifted the ladies' skirts, blew dust in the bad man's eye." By the way, we heard a good lady say one day last week, when one of the real ones was raging, that "a man has mighty little sense that would raise a family in this country." Did our face turn red?

We know that FDR is right in his stand against the holding companies and banking legislation he is asking for. The reason we are sure he is right, we notice where the United States Chamber of Commerce is opposing the President in regard to these measures. Always go opposite to the United Chamber of Commerce and you will be right 99 times out of a 100. This organization favors legislation for a few individuals, and those individuals are the big, big boys.—Lockney Beacon.

Many papers brag of their "coverage." We cover the country like a blanket with the Record and that's not all! The Record also covers numerous pantry shelves hither and thither and yon. It covers pans of bread dough and milk. It covers cracks in the window panes and the brooder floor. It covers the bed springs to keep the cold from creeping through the thin mattress. It covers the hen house well and broken places in the plaster. And sometimes it covers a multitude of sins by not mentioning them.—Rooks County Record.

tel, honoring the retiring Highway Commission Chairman, Hon. W. R. Ely, who has given Texas, and especially west Texas, eight years of faithful service in that office. Whether we attend or not, the Herald agrees with his home town people at Abilene, that a man of Judge Ely's calibre should be honored for the good he rendered the state, and to encourage other office holders of our state to emulate his example by rendering honest and courageous service to the great state they are serving.

Col. J. C. Estlack, editor of the Clarendon Leader, recently sent us a program of the Panhandle Press meeting at Amarillo, which was held the past week end. Col. Estlack was secretary of the association. What a contrast this program was to those we have seen of the Texas Press association in the past few years. The Panhandle boys still think they can have great fun, speeches, and advice enough from men of their own fraternity, without inviting in all the railroad and utility executives to tell them how to run their papers. The Texas Press Association as it is now run, is just another "holding company"—holding the hot end of the poker for the utilities.

On August 24th, Texas will vote on repeal of the Dean Law that has been on the statute books as a constitutional amendment since the World War. It is the consensus of opinion that Texas will vote wet, even by such conservatively dry papers such as the Dallas News, as it will go to the people without being harnessed to any proposition of how hard liquor, in case of repeal, shall be handled. That to our mind is one of the weaknesses of the bill. Some provision for control and dispensation should be assured before the measure is ever voted on. In the case of beer there was no machinery set up to dispense it, and as a consequence, in the cities, many places jumped the gun and went to selling immediately, without other than a Federal license. In the general election in 1936, the people will have a say, also, on whether or not the state sets up a handling monopoly. Of course the legislature can be called in special session just as soon as results are known, if need be, after August 24,

COLUMBUS A DEMOCRAT

We clip the following from the Amarillo News and we really believe he was, if we are to judge by the present administration: "Dear Tax: Here is one I think is good. It has been discovered that Christopher Columbus was a true Democrat running absolutely true to form. He started off, not knowing where he was going. He landed not knowing where he was, he came back not knowing where he had been and pulled the entire stunt on borrowed capital.—A Reader.

The above was clipped from the Lamesa Reporter. Both the Reporter and Amarillo News are "half cocked" Republican papers in Democratic communities. Being, thus, they fail to see what Columbus' ramblings, and borrowed money means to the world. He got the crowded world and Europe especially, somewhere. Where would he be today if Columbus had been a Herbert Hoover sort of fellow, refusing to believe the world was round. Yes, we claim all such men as Columbus, as Democrats, although he borrowed expense money from royalty.

W. C. Edwards was down this week from Lubbock installing one of the very newest things in automatic thermostat thermometers on the Herald Linotype. This is one to be a great improvement over the old model, being so much more sensitive to heat and cold, and will last a lifetime almost.

THE OJIBWA INDIAN BOY

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls
by
CARLYLE EMERY

Red Eagle, Red Goose, and Little Beaver have come upon the huge black bear. Little Beaver is terrified because their powder is wet and their rifles are useless. "Look!" she screamed. "He is coming this way!"

Now go on with the story.

As the huge bear began to shuffle toward the little party of three, Red Goose again raised his rifle, but the hammer fell noiselessly and harmlessly every time he pulled the trigger. The powder was still too wet to explode and the boy threw his gun to the ground in disgust.

But Red Eagle realized there was no time for further thought. "Quick!" he commanded. "We go back. Bear comes. He is too big. Arrows will not kill him. No arrow could stop him. Our knives will not save us. If he finds us, he will kill us.

With one accord, Red Goose and Little Beaver turned and followed Red Eagle away from danger. The bear growled but stopped in his tracks.

"Bear is old," whispered Red Goose. "He is full of wisdom. He does not see us or smell us but he knows danger is near. Good medicine gives me a plan. Father, here is tall young tree. I have rope. We will snare bear like rabbit."

Little Beaver said nothing, but climbed up into the tree as gracefully as a cat. With strong, nimble fingers, she tied the rope securely to a top branch of the tree.

In the meanwhile, the great bear was coming closer and closer. He was so old, his eyes were not good; so, at least for the moment, he did not realize he was walking straight into a trap.

Red Eagle looked up into the tall young tree and asked quietly: "Is rope fastened well, Little Beaver?"

"Rope is strong. I come down now was the answer; but next moment, the limb on which Little Beaver was standing, broke with a loud snap, and with a dull thud the brave little Indian girl fell to the ground.

"Little Beaver! Little Beaver! Are you hurt?" exclaimed Red Goose, rushing quickly to her assistance.

"I cannot move. My leg is hurt," answered his companion, struggling in vain to get to her feet.

Another low growl, this time much louder, told the boy there was no time to lose, for the bear would soon be upon them.

"Father, Red Eagle!" he exclaimed. "Pull on rope quick! Bend tree top down!"

For a few seconds, Little Beaver was forgotten as Red Goose and his father pulled the tree way over and brought the top branches down to the ground. This done, the Ojibwa boy tied the loose end of the rope to a tree stump, and then, making a big loop in the slack rope, he competed a trap such as he used to make when hunting rabbits.

"There! Trap is ready," panted Red Goose, breathing heavily from his exertion.

"Good!" answered his father. Then he added, "Quick Red Goose take Little Beaver and carry her out of danger. I will stay and drive bear into trap, then I will cut rope and perhaps he will be caught."

But Red Goose would not have it this way. "No," he remonstrated, "You are Chief—I am only boy. Ojibwa need you—not me. You take Little Beaver—I stay. Ah—quick! At last bear sees us!"

And as Red Eagle picked up Little Beaver and carried her out of danger the huge bear uttered a furious growl and, with head down, plunged straight at Red Goose.

Milk and Explorers

That was the problem bothering one little girl who was convinced of the value of milk. "What do Arctic explorers do?" was the question put to her school teacher. And again "Do they take cows on ocean liners carrying little boys and girls?"

She was thought, doesn't it? As a matter of fact, it's the keystone of the educational arch. Curiosity. And that very wise teacher took advantage of her opportunity. So the class was launched upon a series of investigations and live discussions. They discovered the meaning of pasteurization, bottling, germ free milk, refrigeration on board ship and in dining cars. And in a most convincing way they reassured themselves of the importance of milk to adults as well as to children. For they learned that explorers and sailors do indeed use milk in huge quantities.

How should you protect your child's health in summer? Dr. Ireland will discuss it next week.

JUST AS WE SUSPECTED

As noted in this column yesterday, the Editor of The Morning Avalanche "smelled a mouse" Thursday morning upon reading a news story from Ft. Smith Ark., to the effect that "six families from the vicinity of Spur, Texas had stopped at a federal transient camp there, "refugees from the dust storms."

The story told of their "pastures being ruined beyond reclaim," and of their not being able to feed their cattle, due to the "terrible drouth conditions around Spur." One "rancher," said the Ft. Smith yarn, said, "the only way we could tell when we were in the house was from the dim glow of the electric lights."

Dewey Granberry, up-and-coming secretary of the Spur Chamber of Commerce, swung into action when he read the story. He checked up on the whole affair and, in a long-distance telephone call to The Avalanche yesterday, told the story. Here it is:

The "Spur dust refugees" at Ft. Smith consisted of four families, that of an older man, together with the families of three sons-in-laws. None was a "rancher." None was a landowner "forced to leave his home and lands." All were tenant farmers with no investments, between them having under terms of their rentals 100 acres of land in the north part of Dickens county.

None of them was a Dickens county resident of more than a few months standing. The entire group migrated there after having rented some Kent county acreage and having left it after a disagreement with the landowner. According to Mr. Grandberry, their "cattle," for which their "pastures" had no feed consisted of one milk cow and it was borrowed!

Oldest of our oldtimers say they have never seen anything like them before and although dust has not ravaged this territory to the extent it has many others, the swirls have brought much discomfort.

But we have yet to get any concrete evidence of land-owning farmers and ranchmen "fleeing from the dust" as virtual "refugees."

And until we do we will continue to greet reports, such as the Ft. Smith "fairy story," as plain "hokum and hokey," dished up by the disgruntled.—Lubbock Avalanche.

WHITE LIGHTS FOR BLACKS

Periodically the News has been critical of the 43rd legislature, alleging waste of time. A hearty pat on the head now, for enactment of one of the vitally needed pieces of legislation in the "must" classification.

It is the bill signed yesterday by Governor Allred appropriating $200,000, a goodly sum as a start, for establishing a tuberculosis sanatorium for negroes. The governor's statement, upon signing the bill, aptly shows the necessity for passage

"In my judgment," he said, "this is one of the most meritorious measures passed by the legislature. The tubercular mortality rate among negroes is far higher than with any other race. Strange as it may seem, Texas now has no hospital for the treatment or isolation of negro tuberculosis.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

There is a story from Cleveland that tells of a visiting professor witnessing the modern type show in which beautiful and alluring girls surprise the audience with what they forget to wear. After the performance the professor was missing. For a day and a night he absent mindedly wandered about the streets of the place, forgetting his name or what he was doing there. Then he recovered and got in touch with friends. The story intrigues. Where could the good professor have been living, up to this time, that he could be so affected by such a performance? Has he not seen the screen cuties or the local beauties at the beach, or perhaps, witnessed some of the sights that have fascinated the eyes of men for the past decade or two? A most interesting case, surely! It demonstrates again that truth is stranger than fiction. Imagine some gay boy around town getting by with a story like that! It requires at least a very abent-minded professor.

Mrs. Frank Wier and little daughters have returned from Fort Worth and Itasca, where the eldest, four-year old Frances Jane, underwent a serious operation for the third time in succession. It is said she is apparently cured now, and is able to play around.

Hobby Horse
To ride a hobby horse is becoming quite the stylish thing to do. And not to do it may be indeed a serious matter. Look at it in this light. Where are the jobs for the rising generations? What are the boys and girls leaving school going to do? Where are they going? What will satisfy their natural eagerness for life, activity, and adventure? Facing that problem brings more than a little worry. It should and does give cause for concern. The only solution facing the school is to go into the hobby business seriously. Give those restless hands and idle minds something to do, something interesting, appealing. Radio making. Dramatics. Music. Art. Sports. Clubs. The list is long. Ask help of your local or county library or state department of education. Write to the National Recreation Association or the Leisure Time Institute, both of New York City.

Education takes place on the playground as well as in the classroom. Dr. Ireland explains how in his next article.

Hunter News

Miss George visited the Carlsbad Cavern over the week end. Mrs. E. L. Williams left Tuesday to attend the funeral of her father at Cleburne, Texas. We had church last Sunday and Sunday night. The sermons were enjoyed by all. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Johnston visited her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Brazzale over the week end. This community was blessed with a half inch rain last week. Mr. John Hill spent Monday night with Mr. Homer Sudderth. Everybody is invited to Hunter Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. We are going to organize Sunday school and will need your presence. Mr. and Mrs. Hollieman and family Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Hester and family and Miss Geneva Williams attended the play at Forrester Friday night. Several students from Wayland College will be at Hunter Sunday afternoon. They will render a Mothers Day program. Everyone to come. The community owes its praises to the primary teachers for the nice operettas, Thursday night. The little children sure did fine. Next Friday our school will close. The teachers have been very faithful. And we know they must be glad for a vacation. To our notion the school has been a success and very tiring for the teachers. We have never taught school, but teachers have our sympathy, and we wish them a quite rest this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Crestman took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Sudderth Sunday. Mrs. W. O. Johnston from Post, spent the week end with her daughter Mrs. McClellan. Mr. J. M. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brazzale and son, W. E. took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roberts of Brownfield, Tuesday.

LARGEST PRINTING JOB

What is perhaps the largest single order of printing matter ever produced began rolling out of Chicago a few days ago, being the spring mail order house. The first shipment to be distributed, which was only one-third of the total, filled 102 freight cars and consisted of 3,000 tons of catalogues. The entire issue will weigh approximately 9,000 tons or 18 million pounds. This supreme advertising effort, that these large concerns believe that there is trade to be had, and that the way to get it is through advertising. In combating the encroachments of the mail order houses, local merchants have the advantage that the customer can see the goods before he buys and there are no long waits for delivery. Quality considered, the local merchant's prices are often as reasonable as those of the mail order house. The average local merchant's handicap consists chiefly in his own failure to go after trade through persistent and adequate advertising, and the mail order houses take advantage of his failure to use this effective defense and offensive weapon. Grandma Lee, of Spur, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Williamson and family, has returned home. County Agent McClain had his tonsils removed at Lubbock, last Sunday, and is doing nicely. Miss Montgomery had her tonsils removed at the local hospital Wednesday morning. We understand that Ray Brownfield Jr. is getting pretty well on the road to an appointment at West Point this summer. A brother of Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, was killed in an auto wreck at Midland this week.

The Spring Play Day

It's time to be planning the spring play day. Give thought to making it a happy, joyous occasion. To do that, provide some activity or job for every child. No one likes to be left out. If one can't run, play, or dance, he can serve in some useful capacity. A large share of the planning should fall to the pupils. Let them organize committees and hold regular meetings with discussions of program, costumes, picnic luncheon and so on. Play up the health factor, for this is opportunity. Talk about training through observance of the health rules. And give a prominent place to sportsmanship, for these occasions are truly laboratories of citizenship. For the program, stress the dances and the simple games and stunts dear to children. This calls for minimizing the old type of athletic field day, but in the end you will be more content. What about the boy who is called a sissy? Dr. Ireland will tell parents how to deal with him next week.

JUST A TRUNKFUL!

Dance, beauty, mirth, and song are the four effervescent ingredients in "George White's 1935 Scandals," the latest Fox Film production, in which Alice Faye and James Dunn sparkle among the ten stars. 2PB

THREE smiling young stowaways demonstrate the ample space available for luggage, golf clubs or trophies of a shopping expedition, found in the trunk compartment of the new Ford V-8 Touring Sedans, two of the new de luxe types recently announced by the Ford Motor Company. The trunk compartment — with 13 cubic feet of space — is an inherent part of the design of the Tudor and Fordor Touring Sedan body types. All the space is used for luggage, the spare tire being carried conventionally at the rear, while an inner compartment under the floor provides space for tools. The trunk compartments may be locked with the same key that fits the tire lock. The new touring sedans were designed to provide ample luggage carrying facilities for families doing extensive traveling who wish to utilize the car interior for passengers. They have proved this far to be among the most popular Ford body types.

New Fields Opening for Teaching Profession

CHICAGO, Ill., May 7.—Opportunities in the teaching profession for able, well trained young people today greatly differ from what they were four years ago.

"There is a chronic need for good English teachers," he continues. "Not a high school, not a college is satisfied with its teaching of our mother tongue. There will be thousands of excellent openings for competent teachers of social science.

The pioneering mind with a bent toward teaching may look with profit toward two vast unexplored domains radio education and adult education.

"The high school is the greatest opportunity for superior teachers," concludes Dr. Pitkin. "It continues to grow and to demand more and more instructors. After the present crisis passes we may be sure that older teachers will be rapidly replaced by younger and better trained people.

Mesdames Endersen, Cave, Wingerd and Herod attended the bridge tournament at Abilene the past week, and we understand Mesdames Herod and Cave were in the semi-finals.

Mrs. G. W. Graves and son Jim, also son-in-law, Jack Holt, left last week for Arkansas where Jim's grandfather lays at the point of death.

U. S. Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, was killed in a plane accident Monday in Missouri, while returning to Washington, in a dense fog, making a forced landing.

Some one handed us a dollar on subscription on the street in front of the State bank, Monday, which we failed to make note of.

Renewals for this week: Ward's Shoe Shop, T. L. Lanious, Dr. H. H. Hughes, L. Bandy, E. E. Hamm, Cullen Forbes, Joe E. Bryant, Jack Bryan A. M. McBurnett, J. M. Johnson, Jot Akers, W. J. Moss, J. L. Cruce, Elbert Proctor, city and routes; J. L. Webber Plains; T. E. Verner, Meadow.

Most of the other cities have put on a cheap summer water rate in this vicinity. Many are wondering when Brownfield aims to follow suit.

JUDGING PRES. ROOSEVELT

"We are in the midst of a tremendous national effort to overcome the greatest of all industrial chises in a deeply disordered world," writes Walter Lippmann in the New York Herald Tribune, a Republican paper.

"He is entitled to an honest and even a careful study of the facts. He is entitled, not to the sycophant's adulation but to support when it can honestly be given and to sympathize criticism when men differ with him.

Judgment is particularly needed at this time, when Huey Longs and Milo Renos and Father Coughlins are trying to arouse a mass rebellion against the President.

Mrs. Pope Pool visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Skinner at Carlsbad, N. M., last week.

Mr. A. Judd of Lubbock, accompanied by his daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ince and their little son, were here Sunday afternoon for a short visit with the Stricklin family.

There will be Hothers Day program at the Methodist church Sunday, according to Rev. Ed. Tharp, and the membership as well as the general public are invited.

Somehow, we missed getting Arch Fowler last week among the renewals just an oversight.
