DEVELOPMENTS OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE IN TEXAS DISCLOSED

Many developments of major importance in Texas have been disclosed by the 1935 Federal Farm Census figures released today by Director William L. Austin, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce.

First among these is the crop failure of 1934, amounting to about six and a half million acres, second is the cut of 6,800,000 acres in the cotton crop since 1929, third is the substitution of about 1,800,000 acres of major crops for cotton, about 400,000 of which were corn, 280,000 oats, 120,000 wheat, and 1,000,000 acres of hay, and sorghums for forage. The 4th is the increase of crops for human consumption, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, and sugar cane, with increases, respectively, of roughly 20,000 acres, 10,000 acres and 3,000 acres.

Outstanding of the facts shown by the livestock inventory are the increases in cattle, particularly in the cows and heifers two years old and over amounting to almost 1,000,000. The decrease in work animals of 209,000 closely corresponds with the reduction in the acreage of cotton. Little change is shown in the totals for sheep and lambs, but there has been a decline of 177,000 in the number of swine.

With these changes in livestock there was a very material increase in woodland pasture, brushland and other pasture. Due to relocation of the one-hundredth meridian (U. S. Supreme Court Decision, March 17, 1930), 45 square miles were transferred to Texas from Oklahoma.

Because of the great size of Texas and diversity of conditions, county figures should be consulted before applying general statements to the localities.

Separate county releases covering the principal items of crops and livestock may be secured, upon request, from the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C., without charge. At a later date a printed bulletin will be issued for the State of Texas giving statistics in detail by counties.

Jane—Nonsense!
Tommy—You are the light of my life.
Jane—I've heard that before.
Tommy—I can't live without your love.

AND WINTER JUST STARTED

A train was brought to a standstill by striking a snowdrift in Wyoming.

A farmer carrying a long pole showed up on the scene. He would walk a few steps and stick the pole down in the snow.

Finally, he came close to the train and a passenger opened a window and asked the farmer: "How deep do you find the snow out there?"

"I'll be gosh darned if I know," said the farmer; "I'm hunting for my flivver."

You can't hitchhike your way to happiness.

Freedom laughs at him who is the servant of a slave.

NATIONWIDE CONOCO AD PROGRAM BOOSTS TEXAS CENTENNIAL

"Attend the Texas Centennial Exposition! Visit Texas scenic and historical shrines during 1936!"

Continental Oil Company, through its February newspaper advertisements, is inviting more than 25 million people living in 36 states and the District of Columbia to spend their vacations in the Lone Star state this year.

The first of this series of advertisements appears in today's Herald. It will also be reproduced in nearly 1,200 other newspapers, according to Wesley I. Nunn, Conoco advertising manager.

Today's advertisement includes an invitation to enjoy the Centennial, while the second of the series, due to appear during the week of February 9, calls attention to "famed San Jacinto" and the Centennial. The third series, scheduled for the week of Feb. 23, refers to "The Alamo—Texas Centennial highspot."

Readers are asked to make their jaunt to Texas even more pleasurable by taking advantage of the free trip planning service of the Conoco Travel Bureau, Denver, Colo., largest organization of its type in America.

A Frenchman was relating his experiences of studying the English language. He said: "When I first discovered that if I were quick, I was fast; that if I were tied, I was fast; if I spent too freely, I was fast; and that not to eat was to fast, I was discouraged. But when I came across the sentence, 'The first one won one-dollar prize, I gave up trying to learn the English language.'

INEBRIATE YOUTH SHOULD HAVE BEEN TOSSED ANCHOR

He is what, for lack of a better name, is sometimes called a young man about town.

On the morning after he is clinging for support to a lamp post. An individual connected with the street cleaning department walks up to a hydrant, dragging a length of hose behind him, and, fitting a wrench to the cap, proceeds to unscrew it.

"Don't—please don't!" cries the youth anchored to the lamp post.

"Don't do what?" asked the functionary, halting in astonishment.

"Don't wind up this street any tighter. She's spinnin' round too fast as it is!"—Bystander.

"MASONIC CHARTER OAK" LAND PURCHASED

The purchase of "Masonic Charter Oak" land, consisting of six acres located in the town of Brazoria, Texas, was formally approved by the Grand Lodge of Texas at its 100th Communication, which took place December 4, 1935. Authority to investigate the authenticity of the Masonic legend concerning the tree and to purchase the land on which it is located was given by the Grand Lodge at its regular Communication in 1934.

The old tree under which the first formal Masonic gathering took place in Texas stands on a roadside and is said to be in a good state of preservation. The purchase price of the land was $600.

DEFINITION

A negro preacher chanced to make use in the course of his sermon of the word "phenomenon." At the close of the meeting one of his congregation asked the meaning of the word. The preacher put him off until the following Sunday, when he thus explained:

"If you see a cow, dat's not a 'phenomenon.' If you see a thistle, dat's not a 'phenomenon.' And if you see a bird dat sings, dat's not a 'phenomenon.' But if you see a cow sittin' on a thistle an' singin' like a bird, den dat's a 'phenomenon.'"

City Girl: "And I suppose at dusk, when the sun is stealing over the Rockies in purple splendor, you cowboys are huddled around the campfire broiling venison and listening to the weird, eerie, unnatural howlings of the coyotes."

Rattlesnake Gus: "Well, ma'am, not ezactly. Usually we go inside and listen to Amos and Andy."

Centennial Names Monument Director

WEBB ROBERTS

Gomez Gossip

Appointment of Webb Roberts, of Dallas, an outstanding authority on commemorative monumental works, as Director of Monuments, was announced this week in Austin by John V. Singleton, Chief of the Centennial Division for the State Board of Control.
Roberts will act as technical adviser and consultant to the Board of Control on the extensive program of installing more than 500 monuments and markers in every section of the State, to commemorate historical sites for the Centennial observance and thereafter. The work is financed as part of the Centennial Commission of Control program from the $3,000,000 State Centennial appropriation.
Roberts, born in Ball Ground, Ga., has lived in Dallas since 1919. He is a member of a family that is nationally famous as authorities in the monumental field, whose members have a combined experience of over 150 years in the work. The State Centennial monumental program ranges from simple, inexpensive commemorative markers, all the way up to impressive $50,000 memorials. Each will commemorate some outstanding person or event who figured in the colorful pioneer history of Texas. Roberts will personally visit the site of each marker included in the vast program within the next few months.

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

In our issue of Feb. 7, 1913, we had an article about a young man of a nearby New Mexico town, who when his old mother came to see him marry a girl whose family was rich and prominent, he ignored this old mother in her old and worn clothing, the mother, who had gone to the very point of death to bring his sorry soul into existence. Then, there was another story, similar, when Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist visited an aristocratic church near where his old mother lived. The ushers had moved his mother back and back until she was near the rear, but when Moody got up to preach he stepped from the platform, went back and fetched his mother to the platform and seated her. We were having trouble getting the Herald delivered at some of the small postoffices at that time, notably Pledge and Meadow. Jurors had been summoned for County Court. Many Texas ponies were being sold to New Yorkers to be trained as polo ponies on Long Island, some of which were reared and partly trained here. W. J. Parker, manager of the Dee Brownfield ranch, reported the arrival of several young calves. The baby beebes being fed out on the Burnett Bros. ranch were reported to be fine. Many from Brownfield were shopping in Gomez during the Mercantile Co. sale. Grandpa Randal was packing up to visit his son and family in Seymour.
Geo. M. Hill, of the Avalanche Publishing Co., called on the Herald. He was taking orders for 1914 calendars. Grover Lewis was exhibiting a fine stallion here on Monday. Our old friend A. P. Moore of Clifton was wanting to lease his 960 acre tract of land in Terry. Dr. Ellis had left to look for a new location in south or east Texas.

A. W. Roberts, Lamesa veterinarian was over doctoring sick animals. Several Lubbock business men were down looking over the route of the proposed new Brownfield-Lubbock freight road. Judge Geo. W. Neill was asking for bids for the county depository. Jim Burnett had started a small herd of cattle, and was as proud of them as if he had as many as Brownfield, Sawyer, Arnett or Gordon. One of the Widow Daniell's children, a 4-year old girl, ran away from home, one mile east of town, causing considerable excitement, but was finally located at the Jack Drinkard residence here in town. The County Treasurer's report showed a cash balance in the treasury of $2,880.25, the first of November, before tax paying time started.

Gomez Items: The twin babies of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Moore passed away on Thursday and were buried in the Brownfield cemetery in the same coffin. A ten pound girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stapp on the 2nd. Mr. R. K. Benton was quite seriously ill. The school was getting up a play, entitled "Heir to Mt. Vernon." The people enjoyed an old time spelling bee at Robert Holgate's. Dee Hunter had quit the T-4 ranch and had gone back to his farm. Tom Williams was moving to Haskell county.

Harris Items: Hub Hocker carried his wife to Lubbock for medical treatment. Mr. Lofton was trapping wolf and skunk. Easton Wolforth Jr. was home from Lubbock. J. T. Gainer, County Superintendent of Yoakum county, addressed the school. Glen Harris was suffering from a badly inflamed eye. Stock were doing well.
Primrose Items: Farmers had started breaking their land. One case of mumps in the community. A. K. Huckleberry and Lee Cowan were Lubbock visitors. Lence Price and wife were up from Brownfield, and reported that killing prairie dogs was not as exciting as punching cattle and "peeling" brones. All for this week.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD TOYLAND PICTURES

You will always treasure memory pictures of the children's playthings.

"Toyland, Toyland, beautiful girl and boyland Once you pass its portals, you may ne'er return again."

But could you not return again, in a manner of speaking, if there had been preserved in a snapshot album pictures of yourself and the toys that gave you pleasure when you were actually one of the inhabitants of that enchanting land of Victor Herbert's beloved opera? Do you ever like to recall the teddy bear, the drum, the jack-in-the-box, the doll or the little tea set that were your favorite playthings as a child and which eventually went the way of all toys, or won't you confess to being that sentimental? Well, in any case, if somebody had taken snapshots of them for you and kept them, the chances are that you would get a "kick" in looking at them today. Certainly your elder relatives would. Children's toys are part of family history.

The timely point is that another Christmas having passed and new toys for the youngsters having made their appearance in the house, you should not neglect to take pictures of them before they disappear. Make shots of the children with their toys and of the toys alone. If you can snap the children playing with the toys without their knowing you are taking the picture, you will have natural little studies

HOUSTON SEEKS PLOW
100 YEARS OLD FOR IMPORTANT CEREMONY

HOUSTON, Feb. 1.—A state-wide search for a 100-year-old plow, needed for impressive ground-breaking ceremonies for the million-dollar San Jacinto battle shaft, was instituted today by the San Jacinto Centennial Association.

John C. Townes, president of the association, issued the call today appealing to all Texas to join in the search. The century-old plow would be the central feature of the ceremonies which will attract nationwide attention. Anyone in Texas owning or having information of such a plow should communicate with the San Jacinto Centennial Association in Houston immediately.

The gigantic battle shaft to be erected on the site of Sam Houston's decisive thrust for Texas liberty will be one of the world's most imposing structures. Taller than the Washington monument, and more beautiful architecturally the Texas shaft will become renowned overnight.

Cochran County Dry
By a Small Majority

According to Sunday papers, Cochran county, that corners with Terry on the northwest, went dry last Saturday by a majority of some 65 votes, making this entire section of the south plains dry from Amarillo on the north to Odessa on the south.

So-o-o, as Ed Winn would say, our thirsty folks will have to go to Hobbs, Lovington or Tatum, N. M., the latter some 65 miles, or to Odessa, 103 miles, for their suds and highballs unless they want to pay for a doctor's prescription at home or other "dry" towns.

Two liquor package stores that had opened at Morton, county seat of Cochran, will have to move on to greener fields.

Miss Violet McBurnett has resigned her position here with the Terry County Abstract Co., and has accepted a position with the Home Life Insurance Co., of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom May and Mrs. W. B. Downing were Lubbock visitors Wednesday.

ONE MAN'S INVESTMENT EXPERIENCE

Some time ago a man surveyed his investment experience during two generations. His first investment was in real estate. Hard times came along, taxes soared, and values depreciated. He was forced to mortgage it—and eventually the mortgage was foreclosed. This investment was nearly a total loss.

His next investment was in a small business. It did fairly well for a while—then a better product came on the market. The business went to the wall. This investment was a total loss. His third investment was in securities that were regarded as first-class. However, changed conditions proved otherwise—the securities declined in value and finally became worthless. This investment was also a total loss. The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ABOUT VIEW FINDERS

You will not cut your friends in two if you use your view finder properly. How did I ever happen to do that when I took this picture? There are the fish and part of Bill but I certainly did a fine job of cutting him in two. Haven't you heard those sad words before? Sure you have.

The answer is very simple. The lad taking the picture failed to use the view-finder properly when he made the shot. He probably saw that the string of fish was in view, but he quite overlooked the fact that the proudly grinning Bill was neatly cut in two.

Most modern cameras have two kinds of view-finders. First, of course, is the familiar reflecting finder—the kind into which you peer from above. Properly shaded, it will give you an accurate idea of what each shot includes. Then there is the "direct" view-finder, mounted on the top or side of the camera. In using it you hold the camera at eye-level and sight through two rectangular openings. What you see, the camera will get.

With either or both of these finders there is really little reason for failing to get what you want in a picture. Of course, there are limits, defined by the size and shape of the film and the capacity of the lens. You have to select the most interesting bits of a scene and concentrate on them. When an artist does this, he "composes" his picture. Many volumes have been written on the subject of composition, but the whole idea may be boiled down to this: Good composition is simply a pleasing arrangement of the elements of a picture, on the most interesting feature. A little care in using your view finder will, almost invariably, give you a well composed picture. For your eye will reject an arrangement that is confusing or displeasing; it will warn you that somebody's head is going to be lopped off; it will reveal whether or not the finished picture will tell a story—the story you had in mind when you unlimbered the camera, for "telling a story" is the essence of a good picture.

"Circus of Science" to Tour America

Artist's conception, drawn from photographs, of the General Motors Parade of Progress on the road. The traveling "world's fair on wheels" will bring to American communities the contributions of industry to human welfare. The giant streamlined buses are joined together on load-bearing continuous exhibition halls, and are built as large as practicable for present-day roads. When on the highway, the vehicles spaced 200 feet apart for safety, the caravan is 1 1/2 miles long.

League Officials Approve New Film

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

The amateur who took this prize-winning picture had mastered his camera. CAMERA manufacturers spend thousands of dollars each year in preparing and printing instruction books which are enclosed with each camera. These booklets give valuable information on the use and care of the camera but the average person looks only far enough into the instructions to find out how to insert the film and right there they stop. From the mechanical viewpoint the box type camera gives us just about the acme of simplicity. It usually has two "stops" for snapshots and one for "time exposures." However, the manual accompanying it is worth a careful reading. With certain types of folding cameras, you have more to consider if you are to expect good, clear, sharp pictures and the manual should be studied by all means. You may have from three to nine apertures to choose from and shutter speeds ranging from one-half to 1/500 second, depending on the type of camera. In addition to these split second shutter speeds the camera is probably equipped for time exposures. Before loading your camera with film consult the manual so that you will understand just what is happening when you do certain things—and why. In a recent snapshot contest conducted by sixty-four leading newspapers scattered throughout the United States, the picture shown above was awarded one of the major prizes in the national awards. The snaphooter who took the picture was far from being old in experience but it is quite evident that he had made a study of his hobby and knew what he was doing and what could be expected of his camera. Study the composition of your pictures, that is, "compose" your picture in your viewfinder before clicking the shutter. Perhaps by stepping forward a few feet you can eliminate some incongruous object—something that may really detract from the point of interest in the picture. Try viewing a scene or subject from different angles, then choose the one you think the most attractive. Too many snaphooters, when taking pictures of their friends, have them stand as straight as a ramrod and look directly at the camera. That may be all right for a record picture but the snap would be much more interesting if people in it were doing something. If you will give just a little serious thought to your snaphooting and thoroughly know the limitations or versatility of your camera you will be well rewarded with interesting, artistic or story-telling pictures which you will be proud to show your friends and which will win their admiration.
