

Well, The Old He Is Off For Tennessee

Not only the old he but the old she, and the Junior he and wife. Yes, we will miss the big celebration. We sure hate that, for we love (?) big crowds, lots of kicked up dust and noise from whistles, barkers for shows and other celebration noises. Lots of people do like them, however. But our time has arrived to take a short vacation visit to the old home state, and we're off if nothing unforeseen happens, either Wednesday, or Thursday this week.

In the first place, the wife and kids have never seen Tennessee or any of our people back there. The wife was raised in Texas, visited Georgia when a child, and Arkansas in the early spring. The kids, so far as we know, have never been much east of Dennison. In the second place the "big" meeting starts next Sunday at old New Hope, with G. A. Dunn of Dallas in the pulpit, and that means that all kith and kin from the forks of the creek to its juncture with Big Hatchie river will be there—including the hound pups.

If we do not get too trifling and lazy, we may send in something from there for next week and week after paper. But the folks have written that they are still saving a number of real "hickory Smoke Cured hams" and other good eats, and it is our determination to sample a few of them, not to mention other good eats from the rivers, and creeks, woods, fields, gardens and orchards.

Now then folks, let us let you in on something. We are hereby appointing each of our good friends and neighbors associate editors of the Herald for those two weeks. Won't you agree to help Arnett and Ralph out with the paper? We will make this proposition to you. Each of you, who sends in an item of news, or a suggestion for a write up, and sign your name (not for publication) we are going to say something very nice about you in the paper on our return.

Our Old Fiddling Brother Now Broadcasting

We got the surprise of our life the past week. We wrote down to Grandview in Johnson county inviting brother Meeks Stricklin to make the trip with us to Tennessee. He could not go, was the report, have just made a 400 mile trip to Tulsa. But here's the straw that broke the camels back:

"While up there, I played one night over KVOO, and next night was in an old fiddler's contest with 15 others, won 3rd place and a dollar." We always thought of Meeks being too bashful to play over anything or at any place save the Antioch community where he lives. Now if it had been Tom (T. J.) or even your Uncle Fuller that'd been different—but Meeks broadcasting? Will wonders never cease?

He has a son, Alton, who plays regularly on that station with Bob Willis' Texas Playboy orchestra.

The Blackstocks Return From Georgia

L. L. Blackstock and family have returned from a trip to his old home near Gainesville, Ga., the town that was badly torn up last spring. He reported a nice visit, and a great time on the trip. He went via Shreveport, Baton Rouge, New Orleans and Gulfport Mississippi thence following the gulf highway to Jacksonville, Fla., where he had relatives. They also visited San Augustine, said to be the oldest town in the U. S. A.

He then visited the old home in Georgia, returning home via Chattanooga, where they saw Lookout mountain and the national cemeteries, and the Shiloh battle ground on the Tennessee river between middle and west Tennessee, and on home via Memphis and Little Rock. He reports the extreme west part of Tennessee getting pretty dry.

Brownfield Schools To Open September 3rd

At a recent meeting of the Brownfield school board the date of the opening of the Brownfield public schools was set for September 3. This date falls upon Thursday. It was selected for various reasons, the chief one being that the two days of that week will enable the schools to get registered and under way without losing more than two days, the days Saturday and Sunday following will give the teachers time to adjust themselves and get a program laid out, and the two days will complete the last week before Christmas inasmuch as school will be dismissed on Wednesday, December 23.

At the same meeting, the school board set the holidays for the year. These will include Armistice day, November 11, and Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 26, and the Friday following. Please take these dates down and thus you will know on what days the schools will not be in session. The Christmas holidays will begin on Wednesday, December 23, at four o'clock and last until Monday morning, January 4.

A detailed outline of the opening exercises will be given later.

Texas Ranger Lore In Marionette Show

Rangers hardly larger than the six-shooters carried by the famed frontiersmen of a younger Texas who glorified the name of this fearless force of the law will perform in Dallas during Texas Ranger Week, with special performances for ex-Rangers in convention on July 21. The clever marionettes are featured in Chrysler's Hall of Celebrities theater at the Texas Centennial Exposition.

Scouts Swimming Meet To Be Held Tonight

Ribbons will be given 1, 2 and 3 place winners. A large crowd of several hundred parents and swimming enthusiasts are expected to attend the meet. A list of entries has not been completed. Towns qualifying swimmers thus far in the Council include: Lubbock, Lamesa, Tahoka, Post Brownfield, Muleshoe, Littlefield, Slaton, Sudan, Spur, Lorenzo, Ralls, Crosbyton, Matador and Anton.

RAVENS DESTROY MELONS IN LYNN COUNTY

According to the Lynn County News ravens are creating havoc with the watermelon crop in that county, taking such a heavy toll that the Newspaper in behalf of the farmers is inviting suggestions on how to get rid of the pests.

It is said that Ravens appear frequently in that county in countless numbers, taking toll not only of the melon crop, but also destroy small grain and other vegetation.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Rev. R. D. Carter Pays The Herald A Call

Rev. R. D. Carter of Anson, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office last Thursday morning. We say pleasant, because that gentleman has enough newspaper men in his family to make him thoroughly familiar and sympathetic to the fraternity. He has a son, Tom Carter on the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, a nephew, Otis Carter, who follows that profession a great deal, and a son-in-law, L. P. Henslee, owner and editor of the Anton Enterprise.

Rev. Carter is a retired Baptist minister, after having filled pastorates for near half a century. He is the father of D. P. Carter of this city, and grandfather of Ralph Carter of the Carter Chevrolet Co. At first glance, one would not suspect him being over 50 years of age, as he is remarkably preserved.

The three generations of Carters all left last Thursday for old Mexico on a fishing jaunt.

District Court Will Be In Session Monday

It has been several weeks now since district court has been in session in any of the counties of the district. District Judge Gordon B. McGuire of Lamesa, and District Attorney Truitt Smith of Tahoka, have had a good long vacation in the meantime, and will be ready to go good at the session here.

Nothing but the grand jury is called for the first week, but there will be a lot of civil suits, foreclosures, and perhaps some divorce proceedings to come before the court which require no jury.

We do not know just how heavy the docket will be this term, but there will be three weeks more with petit jurors.

New Gulf Station Opening To Public

The new Gulf Service Station, at the juncture of Main street and highways 84 and 51, has been completed, except perhaps a little finishing work that can be done after the formal opening. This station is said to be as fine as any company station between here and Fort Worth and Dallas.

R. L. Bowers, local wholesale Gulf dealer informed us that he had employed Mr. D. G. Moore, formerly of Ropesville, Texas, to have charge of the station. Mr. Moore has had a number of years experience in the filling station business, and knows what the traveling public as well as residents of the city wish in the way of service. Note his ad in his issue.

Johnny Criswell To Manage Sinclair Station

Johnny Criswell and family were moving in to the living quarters of the new and only Sinclair station in the city, Monday, and getting ready for the signal gun to go as soon as the pump man of the company arrives to install and connect them with the reservoirs. Most of the other stock has already been installed.

Johnny Criswell was born in Brownfield some 24 years ago, but when a small child the family moved to Plains. He lost his father during the flu epidemic about 1919, and was reared by his widowed mother, Mrs. Bettie Criswell, who was county treasurer of Yoakum county for a number of years. He was educated and graduated from the Plains high school.

That he was raised right is beyond question. He was obedient to his mother, of high moral disposition, and "has never done anything in his life he's ashamed of," to use his own words. He is now in charge of one of the most beautiful service stations in the city, and the Herald wishes him well.

PENN LEADS SCOUTS

TAHOKA, August 13.—M. L. Penn, who came from Brownfield to be principal of the Tahoka high school, was elected scoutmaster for the local troop of boys scouts. Reid Townes and John Kirkwood are assistant scoutmasters.

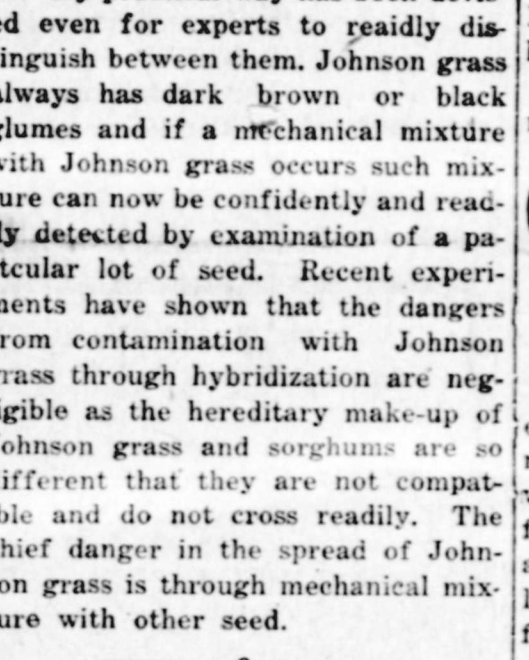

Luther Cruce has installed a fine stock of new auto supplies in the Plains building on east Main. Not only that, but he has nearly any part of a car one might want in his wreck shop.

Sudan Grass Posses Desirable Qualities

Sudan grass, first introduced into the United States when grown at the Chillicothe Station 27 years ago, has in the past quarter of a century become the most important cultivated pasture and hay crop in Texas. This crop has had a romantic history in Texas since its introduction in 1909. Early distribution from the Lubbock Station established that region as a center of Sudan grass seed production in the United States and it has held that distinction until the present time. The crop has been worth millions of dollars to the agriculture of Texas and results of recent experiments promise to bring it into even wider usefulness since it has been found that from four to six months of grazing in most sections of the state has produced gains ranging from a pound and half to two pounds a day per acre carrying one animal to the acre.

Through recent discoveries by the plant breeders working with sorghums at the Texas Experiment Station, it has been found possible, through well planned experiments of crossing and backcrossing, to introduce into a new variety of Sudan a marker consisting of a distinctive glume color. A variety of sweet sorghum known as Red Spot, and also an attractive sienna glume color which will serve to identify the seed of this new disease resistant variety. A most fortunate characteristic of this combination is that any hybrid mixtures with other sorghums occurring in this new strain will be at once apparent because the distinctive glume color will disappear when crossed with any other variety. Farmers have always had difficulty in determining whether or not Sudan grass seed was contaminated with Johnson grass seed, due to the similarity of these seeds, and no very practical way has been devised even for experts to readily distinguish between them. Johnson grass always has dark brown or black glumes and if a mechanical mixture with Johnson grass occurs such mixture can now be confidently and readily detected by examination of a particular lot of seed. Recent experiments have shown that the dangers from contamination with Johnson grass through hybridization are negligible as the hereditary make-up of Johnson grass and sorghums are so different that they are not compatible and do not cross readily. The chief danger in the spread of Johnson grass is through mechanical mixture with other seed.

Starward-Bound

JANICE JARRATT Texas bade goodbye to its "Sweetheart of the Texas Centennial" this week when Janice Jarratt, lovely San Antonio girl who found fame in New York as America's most photographed girl before returning to Texas as official State hostess for Centennial celebrations, signed a long-term movie contract and departed for Hollywood. Released from her duties by Centennial officials, the Texas beauty signed her contract in executive offices in Austin in the presence of Governor James V. Allred. J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures, and Harry Evans, Universal casting director, flew to Texas from New York to present the contract.

Settle To Speak For The Democratic Party

Representative J. Doyle Settle has been notified that he has been placed on the active speakers list for the Democratic National Campaign. The appointment came from the Speakers Bureau of the Democratic Party located in New York City. Hon. Sam Rayburn of Bohnam, Texas is chairman of the speakers bureau. Settle plans to make some speeches about the first of September.

Local Man Becomes Short Wave Amateur

In conversation with E. C. Eaves, radio repair man of the Hudgens and Knight Hardware, he informed us he had become a short wave amateur. Now what we know about radio and short wave codes could easily be printed on a grain of rice, but will try to give you a rough idea of Mr. Eaves business.

It seems that his messages are all sent under a code, something similar to telegraph, and all short wave amateur's go under a code. Mr. Eaves call being, W5DVO-Amateur (C-W). The United States is divided into 9 districts, of which Mr. Eaves has made communication with. He has also communicated with District Nos. 2, 3 and 5 in Canada, and Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in Mexico.

Mr. Eaves took this up as a hobby, as it works in with his regular line of work. He stated that anyone who desires a message sent to anyone, that he will be glad to send it for them, with no cost to you, but will not guarantee delivery.

Streets Are Gayly Decorated With Lights

Not only are our streets a riot of colors from many strings of bunting across the main thoroughfares, but this is being augmented by stringing hundreds of colored lights across the streets, and at main crossings, these are doubled, giving the old berg a real holiday appearance.

This work is being done by Eunice Jones, city utility superintendent and a force of workmen are doing the work, and they seem to be making a good job of it. These wires and sockets, if possible should stay up, to be used Christmas and other holidays. Nothing like them to bring out the holiday spirit.

Also, the carnival is already here, reaping the coins.

Cozy Cafe Now Under New Management

The past week end, the writer called on Grady and Roland Brown, the new proprietors of the Cozy Cafe, where we were served with a mighty fine cup of "Arbuckle" on the house, and were shown about this nice, clean little cafe, where only the best of foods and drinks are served.

This cafe is located just west of the west Main street Gulf station, and on the same side of the street. Both Grady and Roland Brown are excellent cooks, having had years of experience as both short order as well as full meal cooks, in some of the best cafes and hotels in this section. They invite old friends to visit their place, and give them a trial. They guarantee to please.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that the county budget as prepared by the Commissioners Court of Terry county, will be open to the public for inspection on Monday, August 24th. If you are interested in the matter, you are invited to inspect the same and any objection or suggestion you may care to make will be given special attention.
R. A. Simms, County Judge.

Boy Scouts Hold Swim Tryouts Friday Night

Bud Anderson probably set an all time record here last Thursday night so far as Boy Scouts of the South Plains Area is concerned in their trial here to pick teams to go to the Area meet tonight at Lubbock. Enderesen swam 30 feet, made a surface dive, retrieved a 10 pound weight and swam back 30 feet at the place of starting in 15 seconds. It is said he did it in 13 1/2 seconds a few nights before that time.

Other representatives of the two Brownfield troupes, Nos. 44 and 45 were represented here, the former winning the southwest district championship, and are qualified to enter the area meet at Lubbock. Others who made a good showing, and who promise some keen competition to other district representatives, were Charley Enderesen, Buddy and Charles Boyce Rambo, Claude Hudgens, Jr., Eulee and Barton McPherson, Henry Fohter and probably others.

Burton G. Hackney and Emery Longbrake were in charge of the meet.

Ginger Flies Home, Crowns Texas Queen

Miss Gerry Robertson of Lamesa, selected official Queen of the Texas Centennial Exposition in the Chrysler Motors contest, was crowned by Miss Ginger Rogers as a highlight of the 1936 fair at Dallas. The dancing Texas modern star came back for the colorful ceremony to the town of her own start in filmdom as winner of a similar contest.

Large Crowds Attending Revival Meeting

Good crowds have attended the meeting at the church of Christ from the very beginning, and they are increasing at almost every service. Monday at 10 A. M., was the first day service, and it was said to have been the best day service in the history of the local church, that is more people present at day services.

Bro. Smith is giving his listeners some mighty fine sermons, and is receiving the finest attention anyone could wish. Some pronounced his Sunday morning sermon to be the church the best they ever heard. The singing has been all that could be wished for, all seemingly to join in heartily in this part of the worship.

There has been some restoration and additions by both baptism and transfer of membership.

FAMOUS SON OF TENNESSEE TO BE HONORED

GREENVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—This historic east Tennessee section will honor one of its most famous sons tomorrow and Sunday in a historic festival celebrating the sesqui-centennial of the birth of Davy Crockett.

Governor McAfee of Tennessee and Governor Alford of Texas are scheduled to speak at the festival.

The hero of the festival was born in a cabin on Little River near here.

Ready For the Biggest Crowd In History

Everything is now setting pretty for the greatest crowd that has ever been entertained at one time in the history of the city and county. The finance committee has done its duty. The decoration committee has performed. The entertainment committee is doing its part in making the affair here on August 21-22 the gala occasion that the citizens of this community wish. The first trip of the boosters and advertisers in history. The people of Plains, Seagraves and Seminele in Texas, and Tatum, Lovington and Hobbs in New Mexico have heard first hand of our great celebration, and everywhere the Boosters were received with open arms and a glad hand, and promised to come, when Terry county celebrates the 60th anniversary of its creation, and the 32nd anniversary as its own housekeeper.

Tuesday of this week, the second and last round of inviting people will be carried out, when Levelland, Littlefield, Anton, Lubbock, Slaton, Post, Tahoka, O'Donnell and Lamesa are visited and the people of those towns and counties are invited and urged to be our guests on those dates.

The streets are already flag bedraped; the carnival is already here, the rodeo is well underway, and promises everything as good as the best. The barbecue committees are at work, the many different forms of entertainment has been planned, and we are away to a good start.

There will not, that we aware of, be any other celebrations at that time in this section, so a crowd estimated all the way from 10,000 to 20,000 is expected, which is not so big after all, when it is remembered that there are 12,000 people in Terry county alone, and the most of them will attend at least one day.

Anyway, the Herald will try to tell you all about the big celebration next week. In the meantime, we hope to be seeing you.

Later: We were informed this morning (Wednesday) by County Judge R. A. Simms, that the court house lawn will be open for the people. This will be highly appreciated by the people, and we are sure they give their heartiest thanks to the Judge and Commissioners Court, for lifting all restrictions of keeping off the lawn.

Star Tire Store Moves To A New Location

The Star Tire store has been moved to its new location, in the Spear Filling station location, just across the street west of Tudor Sales Co. The proprietors and managers of this popular store are J. B. Worsham and Jack Hamilton, both of which are well known here for fair dealings.

They not only have a full and complete line of new Star tires and tubes, but have a nice selection of second hand tires and tubes should a customer want them. Also, you will find that "Good Gulf" gasoline and oils on tap always at this store. Visit them.

All persons interested in scientific agriculture may attend the supper which will be held at seven o'clock in the man's residence hall on the campus.

Entry blanks have been sent to county agents and vocational agriculture teachers in the following counties: Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum.

We note from one of our neighboring exchanges that a candidate is asking for promotion to a higher office, giving as his reason, "24 years of successful public service." He may be a fine citizen, but it looks to us like 24 years is plenty long for one man to suck the public teat.

Well, well, has the heat got old Sharley Armour Guy of the Hubbock Ambulance-Shurnal? He had a whole raft of "Knock Knock" stories in his Shurnal Monday that mean practically nothing, save as space fillers. Maybe the adult population of Brownfield is playing at that kid game, but we have not heard of it. But you can never tell just what the Hubbockites will do next. Has mumblepeg, marbles and dolls played out in your burg, Sharley?

What will be the conservation old GOP be driven to next in order to try to catch enough votes to "get in" again? Most everywhere in the west they are endorsing the Townsend Plan in toto, the Vice-Presidential nominee, Mr. Know, has come squarely out for the Huey Long "Share-the-Wealth" plan. In other words, it seems that they are trying to drift more to the left than the present administration dare try. What will the Wall street and the du Points think? What of Rascob? Many neutral writers are now of the opinion that the real Stand Pat conservative Republicans of the east, had rather drift along with Roosevelt another four years, and see their leftist candidate from the middle west butchered, in order that they may be able to put in a man of their choice for a Republican candidate in 1940.

Service Quality Price

Allow us a moment of your time and let us explain the meaning of the words: Service, Quality and Prices, in this store.

Service from us to our customers remain the same everyday in the week, no matter how large or how small your bill may be. It gives the management and employees of this store great pleasure to be of Service to you.

Quality must stand out on our shelves or else the product is never put up. When you buy an item from this store, you may be assured that its Quality is unexcelled.

Prices in this store will permit you to start a savings account to be used for other purposes than buying groceries. We set our prices as low as possible on every item, and they remain that way each day.

into trouble with his church. He turned lawyer, and has not been a success. He has thrown in with East Texas oil operators who do not like the ruling of the Railroad Commission. From the evidence against him, he is not a safe man and should be defeated. From all evidence present, Colonel Thompson has a splendid record in office, and one of which his friends in West Texas may be justly proud.—Canyon News.

So that is who Morris is? Well, we have been on the fence, but we are hereby hopping off on the Thompson side. Well, the Rev. Frank S. Morris once held a revival here several years ago. The first hard work he done was to create a sensation in our little city by stating that he saw all kinds of gambling going on openly as he passed down our streets, and even on the sidewalks. That was his first Sunday here. On Monday, it happened that the grand jury was in session. The Reverend Gentleman was summoned to appear before that august body, and what he knew about gambling in Brownfield could be held on a gnat's bristle. He knew nothing. Another thing that makes us sorry that we ever met him, is he gave us a big order for job printing just before he left for his home in Greenville (at that time) which we shipped to him open account. We have never seen hair nor hide of a penny of that money till this day.

ARE YOU FINGERPRINTED

The G-Men have announced with pride that they now have the fingerprints of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and other well-known men. These are the latest additions to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's growing list of civilian fingerprints. J. Edgar Hoover explains: "When a person places his fingerprints in the bureau's civilian files, he automatically insures his family against prolonged mental suffering and the expenditure of a large amount of money in an effort to locate him, should he be unfortunate enough to perish in some manner in which all means of identification except fingerprints are lost, or should he become the victim of amnesia." Fingerprinting heretofore has been allied too closely to the criminal side of life. Now the public is beginning sure to realize its importance as a measure of general security.—Austin American.

WOMEN, MEN AND WINTER COATS

While we have not heard of a single man buying an overcoat in Lubbock recently, we do hear that winter wraps for ladies are moving briskly. Just what makes a woman think of a warm coat during the worst heat wave in 20 years is hard to say, but we do know why men's minds do not turn to overcoats when Old Sol burns down. They're too busy cussing the temperature to give thought to the wintry blasts which are just around the corner!—Lubbock Avalanche.

THOSE COCKEYED DU POINTS

It will be only fair to Governor Landon and the Republican party to keep the du Points out of the coming campaign. The American people are so incensed at the du Points and the selfish manner in which they conducted their many enterprises that their name and their wealth will do more harm than good to any man they may endorse. The way the du Points forced Alfred E. Smith publicly to refute his party and former associates was enough to prove their power. The du Points, those merchants of death and dealers in depressions, are too universally disliked by the American people to be of any aid to any honest candidate. Wars and depression are the du Points' harvest. They capitalize on other people's misfortunes. They thrive upon the misery of the American people. Their concentrated wealth makes them a menace to honest government. They have for too long been the power behind the throne. Their endorsement of any public official is their reward for the amenability of that public servant to the du Points. For the du Points to place their stamp of approval upon Governor Landon will undoubtedly mean his defeat.

The citizens of Bridgeport will never forget the crooked manner in which they treated our city in the matter of taxes during the world war when the Remington Arms Company was making the largest profits in the history of the concern. After the close of the war it was brought out in court by State Tax Commissioner, William H. Blodgett that the Remington Arms Company paid John T. King, the political leader of Bridgeport the sum of fifteen thousand dollars annually in exchange for the lower taxes. As near as could be computed at that time the amount paid to Mr. King was ten per cent of the tax rendition. At that rate the City of Bridgeport lost one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in taxes for the fifteen thousand dollars paid as a bribe. Such acts of cockeyedness will live long in the minds of honest-living natives who saw their taxes rise year after year in order that the salaries of political leeches might be advanced year after year. — Bridgeport (Conn.) Press.

Curiosa Americana
By Elmo Scott Watson

Alliteration
IN 1825 when the cornerstone of the Bunker Hill monument was laid and Daniel Webster delivered his greatest commemorative oration, some unknown poet inspired perhaps by the eloquence of the "god-like Daniel," composed this classic of alliteration:
THE BUNKER HILL MONUMENT
CELEBRATION
Americans arrayed and armed attend;
sacred battalions bold, bright beauties blend.
Chiefs, clerics, citizens conglomerate—
ward moves, daring deeds debate;
Each eye emblazoned ensigns entertain—
Flourishing from far, fan freedom's flame.
Guards greeting guards grown gray—
guest greeting guest.
High-minded heroes, hither, homeward, haste.
Ingenuous juniors join in jubilee.
Kith kenning kin, kind knowing kindred key.
Lo, lengthened lines led Liberty ledge love.
Mixed masses, marshaled, monument-ward move.
Note noble navies near—no novel notion.
Off our oppressors overawed old Ocean;
Presumptuous princes, pristine patriots piled.
Queens' quarrel questing quotas, quondam quailed.
Rebellion roused, revolting ramparts rose.
Stout spirit, smiting servile soldiers, strove.
Victorious vassals, vaunting, vainly velle.
Where, while since, Webster, warlike Warren wailed.
'Xcuse 'xplicitives 'stra-quer 'xpressed,
Yielding Yankee yeoman yest.

Curiosa Americana

By Elmo Scott Womam

"A Dollar Down and..." IF YOU think buying a modern costume plan to a modern costume, consider this good advice offered: the housewife in "Decorum-A Practical Treatise on Etiquette and Dress of the Best American Society" is 1571.

Avoid Concealment. Instances frequently occur of concealment with regard to money concerning them. For instance, a wife wishes to purchase an article of dress which is too costly for immediate purchase, or a piece of furniture liable to the same objection. She soundly makes an agreement with a seller, and there are many who call regularly at houses when the husband is absent on business, and who receive whatever the mistress of the house can spare from her expenses. A book is kept by the seller, in which payments are entered, but a duplicate is never retained by the wife, and therefore she has no check whatever.

We have known an article of dress paid for in this manner, far above its value, and heard of a poor young woman who had been thus duped by a lady, who remonstrated with her: "Alas! What can I do, I dare not tell my husband!" It may be that the same system, though differing according to circumstances, is pursued in a superior class of life. We have reason to think that it is so, and therefore affectionately warn our young sisters to beware of making purchases that require concealment. Be content with such things as you can afford and such as your husband approves. You can then wear them with every feeling of self-satisfaction, and have a contented mind.

Curiosa Americana

By Elmo Scott Womam

Coincidence. IF YOU believe that a cow started the great Chicago fire in 1887, then you can also believe that a little negro boxer started the San Francisco earthquake in 1906. "Deacon" Jones was his name and when he was in his cups, which was frequent, he was quarrelsome and scrappy—the whole 105 pounds of him.

On the morning of April 30, 1906, he staggered into "The Top," a famous barroom owned by Tom McGrath, and demanded a drink. The bartender, seeing his condition, refused to serve him.

"Deacon" persisted in his demand and upon being refused refused to become very angry. He seized the bar rail and shouted "White boy, I's gwine pull yo' hair from if yo' don't give me dat drink!" and again, he began to shake the bar.

Just at that moment came the first shock of the big earthquake which not only destroyed the San Francisco but "The Top" as well. "Deacon" was buried under a pile of broken bottles and other things that tumbled from the shelves.

A moment later he threw himself out of the wreckage and repented. Looking up he saw one of the scared bartender he said: "Please tell my wife I'm sorry I caused such a commotion!"

PUBLIC DISCOURAGE CHANGE IN FRONTIER CENTENNIAL

FORT WORTH, August 17.—Because "the men and women of Texas and the first-string critics of America have taken Casa Manana to their hearts," Billy Rose, the director-general of the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial, announces that his magnificent revue will remain "as is."

Originally, he has planned to rotate the stellar attractions every four weeks and change the dance orchestras every six weeks.

"Theoretically it was a good idea," Rose said. And then Casa Manana opened. Any comments of mine on this institution are superfluous. Its seating capacity is three times that of any other theatre-restaurant in the world. Complete sell out business on an ordinary Monday night is the answer to a producer's prayer.

"I was all set to change the specialty acts a week from tonight but an overwhelming public says 'No, don't touch Casa Manana'. Telegraphic reservations have poured in from the four corners of America, 'Will be there next week'; 'Will be there the 1st of September'; 'Will be there the 11th of October, and so on.'"

Rose announced that Paul Whitman and his orchestra had been signed for an additional six weeks, 12 in all, and the option on the entire cast was extended for another four weeks beyond the first four.

"As for the beautiful girls in the ensemble, we would like to keep them all; it's going to be a little difficult—to many Texans are proposing marriage," Rose stated.

The Needles Co., of Lubbock, sent a huge truck down Tuesday to carry the band on the second round advertising the Barbecue Celebration, we understand without cost. The sides were open, but it had a top to keep off the sun.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Dobbs and little son, Jerry Erle, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Banks and Weldon left last week to visit friends and relatives in Fort Worth and Dallas. Also other Centennial points of interest.

GOOD TIMES UNDER NEW DEAL IS ANNOYING TO WALL STREET

"Stras fell on Wall Street; mysterious blue lights hovered over heavenly political graves of Old Guardsters and a steady gnashing sound was heard in the editorial office of the New York Herald-Tribune, when the six Democratic governors answered Gov. Landon's acceptance speech," remarks Jay Franklin, Des Moines Register and Tribune, in his column. "It was not only the fact that they took their Kansas colleague over the jumps which caused a pale lavender foam to appear on Republican lips. It is because business is better, prosperity is returning, unemployment is declining and the New Deal is cushioning the worst effects of the drought so why change? This is what burns 'em up in G. O. P.; their best and for years their ONLY issue has been kidnaped by F. D. R. The coming American boom is rising to confound the plans and confuse the counsels of the Old Guard and threatens to reduce their issue to a mere plea that they would like to have the jobs and contracts for the next four years."

GUNNY SACK RAGS

"I got gunny sacks from the barn of a close weave, washed them, then dyed them," said Redell Parks, bedroom demonstrator of the Midway 4-H club in Yoakum county to the 4-H club girls who attended a Rally in the County Court room last Thursday, August 13.

"After the sacks were dyed the desired colors, they were cut in one and one-half inch strips with the raw edges being pressed under to keep the sides from raveling. They were braided together and then sewed together by hand using stitches that could not be seen. My rug is about 5 ft. long and 3 1/2 ft. wide. It makes a soft warm cover to protect my feet from the cold floor this winter."

GARDEN INSECTS

"Ashes kept the flea beetles from eating my mustard," said Mrs. J. R. Beach, Farm Food Supply Demonstrator of the Glen Park H. D. club, in Yoakum county. "Buttermilk sprinkled on the plants also helped to keep the beetles off my tomatoes, lettuce and mustard."

"I plan to have carrots, cabbage, Detroit Dark red beets, turnips and yellow squash in my fall garden." Despite the dry weather and not having sub-irrigation, Mrs. Beach has a good garden consisting of tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, beans, pimientos and canteloupes.

Truly Representative
ONLY two Americans have ever had the distinction of representing three different states in the national congress. Neither was a native of the United States. Ireland was the homeland of both.

Matthew Lyon, born in County Wicklow in 1746, emigrated to this country in 1759, settled in Vermont and served in the Revolution. He became editor of an anti-Federalist newspaper and was elected to congress in 1797. Indicted for libel under the Alien and Sedition laws during Adams' administration, he was re-elected to congress while still in jail.

After serving his second term in Washington, he moved to Kentucky and after serving two terms in the legislature of that state, was elected to congress serving from 1803 to 1811. In 1820 he removed to Arkansas territory and was elected as its first delegate to congress. He died however on August 1, 1822, before he could go to the national capital again.

James E. Shields, born in County Tyrone in 1810, came to America in 1826 and became a lawyer in Illinois. He was commissioned brigadier-general of Illinois volunteers in 1846 and served in the Mexican war. Mustered out of the service in 1848 he was appointed territorial governor of Oregon but resigned when he was elected United States senator from Illinois. He served in the senate from 1849 to 1855 then moved to Minnesota. When the state government was organized there, he was again sent to the United States senate where he served from 1858 to 1859.

He next moved to California but returned to Washington at the outbreak of the Civil war when he was again commissioned a brigadier-general of volunteers. He resigned from the army in 1868 and returned to California but, having lost his lands granted for his military services, moved to Missouri. In 1870 he was elected to the senate from this state and held that position until his death on June 1, 1879, at Ottumwa, Iowa.

Shun Civilization For Old Customs

(By Victor H. Schoffelmayer, Agricultural Editor of the Dallas News) Puebla, Mexico, August 3.—Although it may have taken 400 years, it must be admitted by any fair-minded observer of the Mexican scene that Cortez, after all, lost his battle against the Indians. Go where you will in this great land of the Aztec, Toltec, Chichmec of Mayan influences somewhat as in China, the indigenous people have swallowed their conquerors and go on almost as before.

Own Culture Predominant

The markets at Puebla, Tlaxcala, Cholula or San Martin Texmelucan (where we happened on Wednesday and watched for hours spellbound as the Indians traded as they always had) are the expressions of the indigenous people. The barefoot, brown-skinned men and women urging their burros over the primitive mountain trails or along the newly opened highway built by the Mexican Government have adopted little of the white invader's culture or mode of living.

ment contributes to the retention of Indian culture and traditions by staging gorgeous spectacles in which the ancient ceremonies of the tribes are given expression in colorful spectacles in which several thousand Indians take part. One such spectacle was recently re-inacted in the sacred precincts of the temple of Quetzalcoatl or the citadel of Teotihuacan, twenty miles from Mexico City, in some of the aboriginal rites of the Aztecs were staged by perhaps 5,000 native actors clad in the flashing garments and plumed headgear as when Cortez first beheld the conquerors of the Valley of Anahuac.

In this beautiful Spanish colonial city of Puebla with its immense cathedral, second only in size to that of Mexico City, and perhaps more beautifully designed and adorned, one may feel he is in a section where the Spanish influence is supreme. Not so! After all it is the hinterland which makes and breaks cities, and the Mexican hinterland is Indian. One feels it all along the splendid highway leading from the capital over the high point at Rio Frio (nearly 10,500 feet) and through the ancient Indian stronghold and religious center of Cholula, set in a marvelous plain of great productivity. Everywhere Indians are tilling the land as they did centuries ago, oxens the motive power and crops sowed largely by hand. Those who know the Mexican Indian maintain he is satisfied to live as he has lived in the past—that he is content to eat the corn and beans his small patches of tilled ground will grow, that he wants none of the white man's gadgets. In the main, that appears to be true. The Indian certainly has about as little developed cupidity as it is possible to find among any race. He is a product of his environment and thrives on it. It is but natural that he adheres to the customs of his fathers. Nevertheless he is making progress of a definite kind. Just as he has accepted Christianity to replace his ancient belief so he is destined to accept modern inventions when they serve him according to his needs. The gradual opening of highways and lateral roads in Mexico, over which American and other tourists will continue their peaceful penetration, is bound to leave a permanent impression even on the mind of the Indian. It may be slow, but it will come.

WIVES SURVIVE HUSBANDS

Men don't have nearly the chance of becoming widowers as their wives do of becoming widows. And the chance of a wife becoming a widow is increasing. According to a report issued by statisticians of a leading life insurance company the wife's chance survive her husband is on the increase despite the steady increase in the average length of life of both sexes. The statisticians explain that this is due to the fact that the mortality improvement has been greater for women than for men. For a couple of the same age, they point out, the chances that the wife will some day become a widow are about 55 to 100. On the other hand the chances of a husband surviving his wife have diminished since 1920. For a man five years older than his wife the chances of his becoming a widower are only 35 to 100. If he is 10 years older the chances are only 27 to 100, and if he is 15 years older the chances are only 20 to 100.—Pathfinder.

"Lord Dexter"

BOTH tradition and the Constitution of the United States prevent official titles of nobility in this country but the fact remains that we once had an American "Lord." True, he conferred the title upon himself but it was confirmed to the extent that his neighbors in Newburyport, Mass., called him "Lord Dexter." He started as plain Timothy Dexter but early in his life he began calling himself "Lord Dexter." Then he published a book, "A Pickle for the Knowing Ones" to establish his claim in print. In it he said "I'm the first Lord in ye United States of Amerary New of Newburyport it is the voice of the people and I can't help it."

Because his book was criticized for not having any punctuation, he issued a second edition. At the end of it were page after page of commas, periods, colons, semicolons, question marks and the like with this explanation: "fourder mister printer the Nowing ones compane of my stops I put in A saf here and they may paper and selt it as they please." Eccentric as Lord Dexter was, he was also a shrewd (and lucky) business man. He sent a cargo of mittens to the semi-tropical "Wet Indies" and most unexpectedly a polar expedition outfitting there bought the whole consignment at a big profit to him. Another cargo of 42,000 warming pans, for which the inhabitants of the West Indies had no use whatsoever, was sold for molasses lardies. When Lord Dexter died in 1806 he left an estate of $35,000, a considerable fortune in those days.

Admirers Shower Major With Gifts

Major Bowers of amateur fame and part of his famous collection of "range bonnets," gifts from his Texas admirers.

Hand made, hand engraved bonnets are only part of the unique collection of gifts from admiring friends that have poured in to Major Edward Bowers, America's Number One honored citizen. During the past two years, as radio listeners know, every Bowers broadcast has resulted in the Major being made an honorary something or other. He is the police chief and the fire marshal of more towns than probably any other man in the country. In Texas he is captain of the Texas Rangers besides being an honorary member of the Governor's staff, a member of the Texas Centennial and the possessor of an unusually fine collection of ten gallon Stetsons or range bonnets as they are called in the Lone Star State. In fact it has become such a steady practice for the Texas admirers of the Major to express their admiration with a gift of a typical Texas hat, and so many orders were sent in to the Stetson factory in Philadelphia from dealers for "special hats for the Major" that the manufacturer sent a representative to New York with a head measuring machine, to insure a perfect fit for the ten gallon chapeaux intended to grace the Bowers' brow. A Westerner himself, Major Bowers knows his "John B's" and while they are too conspicuous for Broadway appearances, he keeps them carefully wrapped in cellophane at the top of his trophy cabinet in his New York office, against the time when he can head West and rough it a bit in the country he knows and loves so well.

THE MEANING OF "HOT OR 'BOOTLEG' OIL"

Most of the oil states, in an effort to conserve the supply or limit production have passed laws making it illegal to pump more than a given amount from the ground. To get around these laws, some operators have resorted to pumping the oil out of the fields through secret pipelines and hauling it away in trucks. Such oil is called "hot," or "bootleg." But Nature produces a hot oil. In the great petroleum fields near Tampico, Mexico, the oil is hot as it comes from the ground, at times reaching a temperature of 180 degrees.—Washington Post.

Coincidence in Samoa

THIS is a story of three Ripleys. Back in the nineties Lieut. Charles S. Ripley of the United States navy was shipwrecked in the South seas and landed upon an island in the Samoan group. He was taken before the ruler of the island, King Malletoa, who asked the officer his name and who then astonished him by greeting him as "cousin."

The explanation was simple. Many years before, a great-uncle of Lieutenant Ripley, a native of Maine, had sailed for the Orient and had never returned. He, too, had been shipwrecked in Samoan waters, had married a native princess and founded the dynasty of which King Malletoa was the third generation.

King Malletoa insisted upon adopting Lieutenant Ripley and several years later an international commission, composed of representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Germany, then engaged in settling the question of sovereignty over the Samoan islands, settled upon him as the true heir to Malletoa's throne. Ripley, however, declined to exercise his right as king and returned to the United States to make his home in Colorado.

Coincidence in Samoa? Yes, and in the United States, too. In one of his radio broadcasts a few years ago, Robert L. Ripley, the "Believe It or Not" man, told that story. Soon afterwards he received a letter from Mrs. Charles L. Ripley in Denver saying that at the very moment his broadcast came to an end, Lieutenant Ripley had died!

Butter was mentioned in writings dating 2000 years B. C.

We Mourn Lord Nelson

THE next time you see on the street a sailor from the United States navy, on shore leave, take a second look at his costume. Those three white hands on the collar of his blue-jacket uniform are not just for decorative purposes. They were originally adopted by the British navy to commemorate the three decisive victories of that great naval hero, Lord Nelson—at Trafalgar, Copenhagen and Aboukir. Having gained our heritage of the sea from England, we have inherited and adopted some of her traditions. Hence the honor to Lord Nelson.

Our American sailors also join with their British cousins in perpetual mourning for Nelson. For that black neckerchief is a badge of mourning for him. And for the same reason officers adopted the black necktie as a part of both the service and the evening dress uniform.

"BALONEY" MONEY NOT SO MUCH OF A GAG TO AGENTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—"Baloney" money, printed on rubber may be a great gag but don't expect the United States secret service men to crack a rib laughing at it.

A couple of them dropped into the home of Benjamin Wasserman, 37-year-old chauffeur, here today and found, they said, $2,000,000 in the admittedly bogus currency plates, presses, and orders from novelty

The bills, although somewhat similar to orthodox money, bore the words "Unique States of America" and "Try To Redeem This Lousy Money."

But the secret service men didn't whack Wasserman on the back and tell him he certainly was a card. They arrested him on a charge of counterfeiting.

Where Broadway Crosses the Sunset Trail

The saga of the last frontier of western progress blends curiously but effectively at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial today with the new frontier of entertainment. "Saskay All" reusing musical climax from "The Last Frontier," is shown above, scores of Texans participating in modern conceptions of folk dancing of the period. And below is an air-view of "Casa Manana," most talked-of cafe-theater in the world, with its huge circular stage floating in water and revolving the cast before the eyes of 4,000 spectators. Close by these glittering attractions on the Frontier Centennial grounds are "Pioneer Palace" and its Honky Tonk revue, and "Jumbo"—"Bigger than a Show, Better than a Circus."

Trails Over Which Civilization Came to Southwest to be Reproduced for Visitors to Ford Exposition

The original Yuma Road, which with eight other famous trails of the Southwest, will be reproduced for visitors to the Ford Exposition opening in Dallas, June 6, stretches across the desert between El Centro, California, and Yuma, Arizona. It is part of the old Spanish Trail from Florida to California. About 20 years ago planks were laid on the shifting sands of the desert, to wind their way like a writhing snake across the lines.

Boots, hoofs and wheels. Soldiers, cattle and horses. Caissons, wagons and automobiles. Pioneers, traders and businessmen. Everything that man needs to sustain life or support civilization has moved over the "Roads of the Southwest."

Henry Ford, caught in the spell of the romance of historic and modern roads, is building the "Roads of the Southwest" as a part of his huge Ford Exposition at the Texas Centennial which opens at Dallas on June 6. This part of the Ford exhibit will include reproductions of nine short sections of important historic and modern trails, roads and highways which have been instrumental in the development of the Southwest.

Each unit of the "Roads of the Southwest" will be paved with an exact reproduction of the surfacing material used on the original road. Visitors to the Ford Exposition at the Centennial will be driven over these roads in Ford V-8s.

The "Roads of the Southwest" will wind around the lagoon on one side of the Ford Exposition Building. Included in the group will be reconstructed sections of such prominent highways as: San Antonio Road, Fort Worth Pike, Chisholm Cattle Trail, Butterfield Stage Road, Santa Fe Trail, Pan American Highway, Magazine Street in New Orleans, Main Street in Dallas, and Yuma Road.

San Antonio Road is known as El Camino Real (The King's Highway) of Texas. At one time early Texas settlers paid a tax to travel over this trail.

Fort Worth Pike
Another famous Texas highway included in the "Roads of the Southwest" is the Fort Worth Pike. This road ran from Dallas to Fort Worth. It started as an Indian trail and was improved by settlers as a stage coach line and later as a commercial highway.

The era when Texas was crisscrossed with cattle trails, about 1867, is represented in the "Roads of the Southwest" by the so-called "Chisholm Trail." These trails followed, as far as possible, the natural water courses and connected producing and consuming areas.

Probably the most famous of the numerous mail routes through Texas was the Butterfield Trail which is reproduced in the "Roads of the Southwest." The original Butterfield Trail crossed the Red River at Colbert's Ferry and cut across the northern part of the state on its way to El Paso, Fort Yuma and on to San Francisco, California. Traces of the old trail may still be seen from the highway running from El Paso to Carlsbad Caverns.

Santa Fe Trail.

The original Santa Fe Trail, which is reproduced in the "Roads of the Southwest," extended from Independence, Mo., to Santa Fe, New Mexico. Early in the nineteenth century, when Texas was a part of Mexico, Captain Zebulon Pike started a trade route over the Santa Fe Trail. Later, the Santa Fe Trail was extended from Santa Fe, New Mexico, to Los Angeles, California.

When New Orleans was established in 1718, the site selected was practically an island. The result of this location was that almost all transportation to and from the city was by water. However, the main highway leading out of New Orleans and connecting with other roads which eventually took the traveler into Texas, was over a route, part of which is now known as Magazine Street. A section of Magazine Street is reproduced in the "Roads of the Southwest."

Yuma Road Shown.

The Pan American Highway, which runs from Laredo on the Texas-Mexico border, to Mexico City, is shown in the "Roads of the Southwest," as a modern road paved with light colored macadam.

Yuma Road, the Colorado desert section of the "Old Spanish Trail" which is known in Texas as State Highway No. 3, is the next section of the "Roads of the Southwest." The original Yuma Road stretched across the sandy wastes of the desert between Yuma, Arizona, and El Centro, California. It was first built as two parallel rows of planks. In 1919 this roadway was improved by rebuilding it as a solid plank road.

The last unit of the "Roads of the Southwest" is a reproduction of Main Street in Dallas. This street is paved with wooden blocks, known as bois d'arc, an extremely hard wood.

It is estimated that hundreds of thousands of visitors to the Texas Centennial will be driven over the roads of the Southwest during the summer months. As they ride over the roads, many of them rough and rugged as in the days when roads were little more than stump-strewn trails, they will hear from the drivers the historical background of each unit in the group.

BOTTLE AND BEETLE TO HECKLE BAKER

Phil Baker, popular radio stage and screen comedian-accordionist has been signed by Gulf for the second consecutive year and will star in a series of Sunday evening broadcasts over a widespread Columbia network starting September 27. The programs will be heard from 7:30 to 8:00 p. m. EST., as they were last season. While Baker is on vacation, his sponsor is presenting a musical show featuring Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson.

Those two heckling stooges—Bottle and Beetle—will also return to the air with Baker. Bottle will again be portrayed by Harry MacNaughton, while the identity of Beetle continues to remain radio's deepest mystery.

With his switch to Gulf sponsorship and a Sunday night spot on CBS Baker reached new heights of popularity in his 1933-36 radio campaign.

R. O. T. C. MILITARY BUILDING FOR TECH COLLEGE

LUBBOCK, Texas, Aug. 17.—Construction of a frame military building to house the new senior engineering unit of the reserve officers' training corps at Texas Technological College was begun this week. The college is providing the building, twenty by one hundred sixty feet, which contains three classrooms, four offices, three storage rooms, and a basement that will serve as an indoor shooting range.

This is the second senior unit of the R. O. T. C. to be authorized by the War Department in Texas, the other being located at Texas A. & M. College. Three members of the regular army have been detailed to organize the unit, Capt. Frank Pettit, commanding officer, said. The course is prescribed by the War Department and will be uniform with that of all other college military units.

Uniforms and other equipment will be provided without charge by the federal government. Enrollment is voluntary for physically fit engineering students. Four years in the reserve officers' training corps fits a student for commission as second lieutenant in the officers' reserve.

"The R. O. T. C. promises more than ever before," said Captain Pettit. "One thousand reserve officers otherwise qualified are being accepted into service of the regular army for one year's active duty each year. Following the year's training 50 of the 1,000 will be tendered commissions."

Bird Women

IN 1932 newspaper dispatches recorded the death at Santa Ana, Calif., of "the first woman who ever flew an airplane." She was Dr. Jessica Balche, fifty-eight years old, who in 1910 at the flying field at Mineola, N. Y., where many of the first flights were made in this country, flew an old pusher type ship.

However, Doctor Balche wasn't the first of her sex to pilot a "flying machine." The woman who did that is still living. She is Mrs. Henry Breckenridge of New York, wife of the Kentucky lawyer and statesman who was assistant secretary of war under President Wilson and later attorney and adviser to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

On June 26, 1903, Mrs. Breckenridge, then Miss Aida De Acosta, one of five sisters in a famous Spanish-American family, went aloft alone in Santos Dumont's dirigible, "Number Nine." She successfully flew it across the Bois de Paris, her picture hat flapping in the breeze, while the French crowds down below shouted excitedly "C'est une Mademoiselle!" (It's a young woman!) That was six months before the Wright Brothers took off on their historic first flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., and three years before Count Zeppelin took to the air in his first dirigible. That is why Mrs. Breckenridge not only belongs to the famed society of "Early Birds" but could, if she wished, claim the title of the "First Bird Woman."

This is a sure way to beat the heat, according to the trio of young ladies who were visiting the Ford building at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas. They are, from left to right: La Verle Ragsdale, two and one-half years old, Dallas; Verlie Joe Gregson, age three, of Grandfield, Oklahoma, and Karen McCray, age four, of Moline, Kansas.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD SNATCHING THE SUNBEAMS

HAVE you ever tried to photograph sunbeams? They make beautiful pictures and are witness to your photographic skill. Summer and autumn months are especially good for sunbeam pictures.

Sunbeams of the early morning. A simple box camera caught them which they appear. The safest way is to make several shots of the scene at different exposures, remembering that the experience is that in most instances the exposure needs to be longer than as if you were taking the same picture without the sunbeams.

In each case it means that the air is filled with vapor or dust particles, "the gay notes that people the sunbeams," as a poet called them, doubtless without thinking that it is these notes that are chiefly responsible for making the sunbeams visible.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

We had a good attendance in Sunday School and Church Sunday morning. We had a very inspiring sermon preached by our pastor. All whose privilege it was to hear this message received a great blessing indeed. It lifted the Christians, inspiring them to carry on, to do better and bigger things in God's Kingdom Work. Our best is not enough for the Master. Let us stop just for a moment and think just how little we do toward the uplifting of the Lord to our friends and associates. As we discussed in our Senior Y. P. U. lesson, how far would you have to go from your home to find a lost person? How far would you have to go from your business to find some lost person? This really gives us something to think about. Lets try harder than ever before to live for the Lord and by our life, others may realize that we are sincere. Before we can win somebody to Christ they must first have confidence in our faith, and we must have faith in the Lord to guide us.

Play On and With Words
ONCE upon a time a preacher from Hartford, Conn., was called upon to give the opening prayer at a session of the state house of representatives and immediately afterwards listened to the debate over a divorce case. (In those days the Connecticut legislature had the power to grant divorces and was noted for its readiness to do so.)

Struck by the irony of the fact that he, who performed marriages, should be witnessing this "unmarrying process," the preacher composed these lines:

For out-ting all connect-ions famed,
I twain connect in one, but you
Cut those whom I connect in two.
Each legislator seems to say,
What you connect I cut away.

When two men named Willing and Schott fought a duel in Philadelphia, the "City of Brotherly Love," some wag composed the following:

Schott and Willing did engage
In duel fierce and hot;
Schott shot Willing willingly,
And Willing he shot Schott.
The shot Schott shot made Willing Quite

Mad Poet
ONE of the most beautifully descriptive passages in all American literature is these often-quoted lines:
Now twilight lets her curtain down,
And pins it with a star.

They were written by McDonald Clarke, the "Mad-Poet" who died in the "lunatic asylum" on Blackwell's Island, New York city.

Characteristic of his gift for combining the ridiculous with the sublime was this poem which he wrote about George Washington:

Eternity—give him elbow room;
A spirit like his is large.
Earth, fence with artillery his tomb.
And fire a double charge.
To the memory of America's greatest man:
Match him, posterity, if you can.

"I Do Not Choose to Run . . ."
IN THE summer of 1927 Calvin Coolidge, standing in his office in the "summer White House" (the high school building at Rapid City, S. D.) handed to newspaper correspondents slips of paper bearing this typewritten sentence: "I do not choose to run for President in 1928." He did that to set at rest rumors that he would smash a precedent by seeking a third term. But a nation, none too familiar with the finer shades of meaning in New England speech, regarded his "I do not choose to run" as a cryptic utterance capable of various interpretations.

Not so the New Englanders. They knew exactly what he meant. They remembered a letter which the wife of another Massachusetts President once wrote to her husband in which she also did not "choose to run." In July, 1775, President-to-be John Adams, then in Philadelphia for the sessions of the Continental congress, received a message from his wife, Abigail Adams, in which she said:

"I should have been glad to have laid in a small stock of the West India articles, but I cannot get one copper; no person thinks of paying anything, and I do not choose to run in debt."

Abigail Adams WOULDNT run in debt and Calvin Coolidge WOULDNT run for President again. That was what both meant when they said "I do not choose."

With three weeks remaining in which to finish the huge Ford Exposition at the Centennial in Dallas, contractors now say that the Exposition building is more than 75 per cent complete and promise it in its entirety June 1. The Centennial is scheduled to open June 6. Work was begun on the Ford Building March 9.

Official acceptance of the Lincoln-Zephyr a Ford-sponsored product, by the United States Navy for its activities in parades and State occasions has just been made.

Machinery is moving into the company's exhibits, concrete flooring having been completed and carpenter and electrical work continuing while the machinery is being placed. The multi-pleater, a machine which pleats and sews cushions for the Ford car at an average of from 12 to 14 a minute, has been moved in and to the visitors at the Centennial is expected to prove one of the most interesting of many exhibits. Cotton bales, piled up and stitched into the cushions as the multi-pleater produces the cushion.

The Ford Exposition devoted largely to showing the variety of the products of the Ford Motor Company, will picture graphic displays of the sources of this material.

on by the Ford Motor Company in its manufacture of Lincoln-Zephyr cars.

Blistering sun and heavy rain alternating at intervals are created artificial conditions which will be displayed in the Lincoln-Zephyr exhibit. The machine is a Weatherometer, a device which simulates the weather conditions in which the car is an important ingredient in the body enamel, is obtained by a simple extraction process which will also be shown.

A sample of paint placed in the Weatherometer undergoes, within a few days, the same treatment it would receive in several years out-of-doors. Its wearing qualities can then be quickly determined.

Soy bean oil, according to Ford chemists, has proved highly satisfactory in the production of wear-resisting enamel. It is used both in the production of glycerine used in making the resin and as an oil modifier of the finished enamel.

This use of a soy bean derivative is only one of many made by the Ford Motor Company. The oil is also extensively used for green bond in the foundry, and the meal from which the oil has been extracted is made into horn buttons, light switches, window trim and other moulded parts. A model soy bean oil extractor and a display portraying the uses will also be included in the Ford Exposition.
