The House of Representatives passed the summer school appropriation for Texas Technological College this past week. Tech received an appropriation of $25,170. If this tax passes the Senate there will be sufficient revenue raised to adequately finance the Old Age Assistance payments in this cause of the National issue inve state. This increase in the oil tax will bring in an additional twelve million ($12,000,000) each year. I predict the Senate will not pass over a four cent tax on oil. A four cent tax will not raise sufficient revenue alone for financing the Old Age Assistance payments of this state.

The Judiciary Committee next week will act on the judiciary redistricting bill that seeks to destroy some twenty judiciary districts in Texas. One of the momentus problems of the highway department at this time is one of public safety. The automobile manufacturers have improved their product so much faster than we could possible prepare the highways for them. Hundreds of miles of our present State system consists of narrow, arched or turtleback roads, with sharp corners and with a slipperv surface when wet, with one way or narrow bridges that are veritable death traps . . . Citizens desiring new paved highways and new road designations should feel that the preservation of human life in Texas is their problem the same as ours . . . Our road laws should be strengthened and carry sufficient penalty for violation. The light dimmer law should be restored with more teeth than the old one . . .

A FEW FACTS ABOUT THE SUPREME COURT

Since the early part of last month, when President Roosevelt included in his message to congress a request that a justice of the Supreme Court be retired on a pension when he reaches the age of 70 ,and that the President be given power to appoint an additional member of the court for every member who reaches the age of 70 and declines to retire, all other questions of national or international importance has for the time being been put aside and the President and the Supreme Court has been the chief subject of conservation for the people of the United States.

We, like everybody else, have have formed a few opinions about the matter, but since we feel that a controversy which in all probability would drag us into water that would prove both too hot and deep for our tender years, would arise if we gave them, we are not going to do so. Instead, we have gathered a few facts about and a little history of the highest court of our country and pass it on to you with hopes that it will furnish you with some information that you may have desired. Here goes:

Provisions are made for a Supreme Court in Article 3, section one and two. The Constitution is silent about how old a person must be before he can become a justice of the Supreme Court, but a president must be 35, a Senator 30, and a Representative must be 25. The number of Justices was originally six and was reduced seven in 1807, was raised to nine in 1837 and to ten in 1863. It was dropped to seven in 1866 and was raised to nine in 1869. If the President is granted the power to appoint new justices for each one who refused to retire the number will be increased to fifteen in case those now past the proposed retirement age decline to retire. Jefferson was the first president to have conflicts with the Supreme Court, later Jackson and then Grant. Lincoln openly defied it. The total ages of the nine present cident prevention. Justices add up to 640 years. The courtroom Doorkeeper, Arthur A. Thomas, is 72 years old. Court Crier, Thomas Waggaman, a comparatively young person, opens the Court with these words: "Oyez, Oyez, Oyez, All persons having business before the Honorable, the Supreme Court of the United States are admonished to draw near and give their attention, for the court is now sitting. God save the United States and this Honorable home.

MAN CHARGED IN SHOOTING IS INSANE

H. H. Walker of O'Donnell, an inmate of the county jail since he made an attempt last summed to shoot Deputy Sheriff John Johnson, is to be taken to a state hospital for the insane.

Walker, it will be remembered, began firing at Johnson from a car in which he was riding. Johnson and Nightwatchman Brown succeeded in capturing the assilant and took him to jail. A grand jury indicted him, but he was tried in the county court soon thereafter on an insanity charge and the jury found him to be of unsound mind. Because of the criminal indictment pending in district court however, officials of the state hospitals refused to receive him. Last week the case was dismissed and the way cleared for the unfortunate man to be taken to the hospital. He had previously been an inmate of an institute for the insane .- O'Donnell In-

The National Safety Council reports that during 1936 accidents killed 111,000 persons in the United States, and caused an economic loss totaling $3,750,000,000. Both figures represent all-time high records. In addition to the fatalities, about 400,000 persons were permanently disabled by accidents, and 10,300,000 temporarily disabled.

Accients rose in every field. Home accidents took 39,000 lives-24 per cent more than in 1935. Occupational accidental deaths rose 9 per cent, to 18.000. Miscellaneous public accidents not involving automobiles, rose 6 per cent, and killed 19,000.

Worst of all was the toll of the automobile. While the percentage rise was smaller than in most classifications, 4 per cent, fatalities reached the ghastly total of 38,500.

It is clear from these figures that safety work has only begun. Never was the responsibility of educators, greater. Even in 1936 many states, cities and industries managed to show substantial reductions in accidental deaths, as a result of continous and parking meters. aggressive safety programs. And in the thirty states which showed in-PROTECTING YOUR PRCPcreased death totals, according to the Council, "More than half have not performed notable work in any important branch of traffic safety try substantial advances have taken work . . .' During the years of declining values, wise property owners periodically reduced their insurance coverage, at a premium saving, and kept it in line with the conditions of the times. Now that decline has been followed by a rise, they will pursue a everse course. Under-insurance is potentially far more serious than over-insurance, the latter can cost you only a few dollars in premiums, while the former may cost you thousands in uncovered loss if a fire strikes your property.

Corrected and Amended by The Author.

Franklin at the age of twenty-three wrote that for his own gravestone. But the idea wasn't original with him. He "borrowed" it from one of two sources. In 1681 Rev. Joseph Capen suggested as an appropriate epitaph for John Foster, who had set up the first printing press in Massachusetts, one which likened the printer's body to "an old alma- Friday. nac, for the present only's out of date" and predicted "at the resurrection we shall see a fair edition . . . free from errata, new in Heaven set forth." But the one which Franklin more likely copied was written by Benjamin Woodbridge, a member of the first graduating class of Harvard college. It was for some unknown friend in which he was compared to "a living, breathing Bible" and declared that: When in a new edition, he comes forth! Without errata may we think he'll be, In leaves and covers of eternity!

This was printed in Cotton Mather's "Magnalia Christi Americana" and Franklin's early life was greatly influenced by the writings of that famous Puritan clergyman,

As a matter of fact neither Capen's nor Woodbridge's idea was original. Both probably "borrowed" from a still earlier epitaph which was engraved on the tomb of Jacob Tonsen, a London bookseller and which contained references to "the original text" in his life and " a new edition" in the future. Of course, that would be impossible-but the idea may give you a new view of the automobile accident situation. In this city mentionedwhich is no better or worse than many other cities and towns-the odds are about a hundred and fifty thousand to one against you being killed on any given day. Those are long odds-but they are considerably shorter than the odds against a man with one ticket winning a major prize in the Calcutta Sweetstakes which is participated in by hundreds of thousands of Americans. Under the lottery system of selecting victims for sudden death, the papers each morning could list the names of those drawn, and the unfortunates could wind up their business and go quietly to their doom. The opportunity isn't given to those who are run down by speeding cars. So remember that the chance of you being killed by a motor car is a daily lottery and is greater than your chance of winning a prize in the sweepstakes in which you hopefully gamble a dollar or two now and then Is dangerous driving worth its price? -Community Weekly.

Just a light touch on the steering wheel turns the new Row Crop"70" completely around. It's the easiest tractor to operate you ever saw. Every control's right at your finger tipsand you have steering and gear shifting like an automobile.

This is Oliver's new 6-cylinder Tractor that has caused so much talk. There are two "70's"-one designed solely for regular gasoline—and the other to get the utmost fuel economy out of kerosene or distillate.

With either one you'll get unusually great power with light weight—and great speed. Under ordinary soil conditions, you can plow with two 14-inch bases at over 4 miles an hour! That gets the work done quicker and gives more spare time for other things. The Row Crop "70" comes from the tractor factory of the founders of the tractor industry. You'll want to see this latest, modern tractor at once with its complete line of mounted listing, busting, planting and cultivating equipment.
