"LISTEN FOLKS"

By Jim Ferguson.
(Editor's note: This article is published as a news item and represents the personal views of Mr. Ferguson only)

STOP BOYS, STOP.

Senator Nelson form Lubbock is one of the new Senators now serving his first term. He is only 36 years of age, but is highly educated and is ambitious to render public service and appears to have a good supply of common sense.

While he has been active in support of the bill for repeal of horse racing, he appears to be more interested in the change of our present constitution so as to provide a one house (unicameral) legislature. While his idea will not pass at this session, yet it has received much attention and received a favorable minority support.

Senator Nelson's contention is that a one house legislature will produce both efficiency and economy in legislative procedure. He may be right or he may be wrong. His plan may be correct and yet his idea may never become a law. Time will tell. But he has raised an important issue.

We can never have economy in government until we have efficiency in government—especially in the legislature. This session is about to adjourn and I am afraid the legislature is about to lay itself open to the charge of indefensible extravagance. I do not think I have an enemy in either House or the Senate, and in the hope of preventing a mistake by my friends I am writing these lines. Stop Boys, stop. Let me call your attention to what you are about to do. If your record would warrant you in laying claims to efficiency or economy you might be justified in extending your term of office and raising your salary and doing the same for the other departments.

If you do not liberalize pensions you already have 112,000 on the roll and at $180.00 per year the sum will exceed 20 millions. In one afternoon the Senate appropriated for just three departments 53 millions. Add to these sums the 17 million dollar deficit, growing every day, thus on 3 fingers you are spending 90 million dollars. How much is 90 million? It is, $15 a year for every man, woman and child, white and black, in Texas with its 6 million population, —yea $75 average for every family of five in our state for every year.

I mention only 3 items for quick calculation and illustration. Millions more will have to be added if present estimates and proposals are voted by this legislature. The totals will finally run over 125 million dollars—20 dollars for every man, woman and child, and $100 for every family for taxes.

Stop Boys, stop. I plead with you not to adjourn this term until you make some provision to reduce this enormous tax burden and pay the balance. While everybody should pay something to the support of the government in proportion to their ability to pay, yet you, the legislature, should be anxious to provide the tax demanded is no more than absolutely needed to run the government economically administered.

This is the reason why I so earnestly urge the sales tax, because it requires everybody to pay only in proportion to their ability to pay and no more. It is truly a poor man's tax the amount of which he can regulate by his own economies.

But whether you agree with me or not as to how the tax is to be collected, this legislature should be careful to pay the state's debts. If the legislature to adjourn until provision is made sure does any less, it can not lay claims to either economy or efficiency and you will not have exercised any more discretion than would a colored man with an open credit account in a general merchandise store. gain I repeat: Stop Boys, stop, because I love you and I hope you don't make a mistake which will not be good for you or for the state.

Jim Graves, Warner Hayhurst, Verett Latham, Clovis Kendrick and E. C. Davis went to Justiceburg Saturday night, fishing.

Meadow Netters Win Second In the State

Jamie Ruth Deckard and Oleta Franklin, nimble netters from Meadow High School, went through the county, the district and the regional meets without any serious competition and reached the finals in the state meet before they met their superiors. They were defeated in the finals by Masonic Home High School netters of Fort Worth, 6-8; 5-7. Most every game was a duce game. In reaching the finals in the state meet the Meadow girls had to eliminate Breckenridge High School of San Antonio by a score of 6-0; 6-1 and Fabens High School of El Paso, 6-0; 6-3.

These girls have a record that any one should be proud of. The match lost to Masonic Home is the only match lost this year, and these girls have played in one tournament and all the boys teams that they could get games with. One of the handicaps has been in securing competition. In addition to tennis, Deckard lettered in basketball and Volley ball and Franklin lettered in Basketball. Tennis is all the girls athletics that is sponsored by Masonic Home and they play all year. Deckard is a Sophomore and Franklin is a Junior so they are going to try for the State championship again next year.

Grover McMakin Buys Red Star Coaches

Starting business back in the 20ties as a bus driver, Grover McMakin has worked up to the owner of one of the largest independent bus lines in the southwest. Grover came to Brownfield from Jayton about eight years ago, and started a bus line from Brownfield to Lubbock, later moving to that city, and extended his line to Roswell. The Roswell-Post line via Brownfield was sold to the White Star Coaches in 1935.

With the recent acquisition of the Red Star Coaches, McMakin now has a bus mileage of 5750 miles, and employs some 30 drivers. This new line runs from Clovis, N. M., to Vernon, via Plainview, and from Vernon to Atius, Okla. Another goes from Lubbock to Vernon via Floydada.

Other lines radiate through here from Lubbock to Seagraves and Seminole. From the later place there is a branch that goes to Hobbs, and Carlsbad. From Seminole another line makes Odessa, McCamey, Monahans, and other places. He now operates in three states of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Swimming Pool to Open Sunday, May 16

Emery Longbrake has been working all week making preparations to open the Brownfield Swimming Pool, Sunday, May 16th. He has the pool and bath house in first class condition and invites the public to use it for their benefit, in enjoying the most healthful and beneficial recreation known, swimming.

The pool will be kept as clean as possible at all times, and there will also be Red Cross Life Savers on duty for the protection of those who might need one. So remember Sunday, May 16th, start with the season and finish with it by taking daily swims in the Brownfield Swimming Pool.

American Tailors Install New Equipment

The American Tailor shop is undergoing a rearrangement of fixtures this week in order to make room for a new rug cleaning machine, which will be installed by the 15th of this month.

Mr. Graham Smith owner of this establishment also informs us he has purchased a new red Ford delivery car which he will put in use as soon as it arrives.

School Band Parades —Rialto Gives Percent

The high school band and also the saxette band of the Brownfield school paraded and gave a short concert on the square, Tuesday evening. Following the concert they were given passes to the Rialto theatre, by the owner, Mr. Earl Jones. This band is directed by Herman Trigg.

WILL STAR AT FORT WORTH FIESTA

Angelic is the word for Miss Harriet Hoctor, world's greatest dancer, who will thrill the throngs with her grace and beauty at the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta as one of the stars of Billy Rose's Casa Manana Revue of 1937—all new and different, on the world's biggest revolving stage. Miss Hoctor was featured in the super-film, "The Great Ziegfeld" and formerly was a star in the Ziegfeld Follies. Recently, she completed a motion picture with Fred Astaire.

Lots of Snow, But Warm, Says Bridges

Fairbanks, Alaska, 4-21-37
To the Herald:—It is warm and comfortable here, but the snow is 3 1/2 feet deep on a level. No cold wind at all, and we go about in our shirt sleeves. The people here have trails to walk where the snow has been packed down, and when you get out of the trails, you go down just as deep as your legs are long, the short legged ones don't go as deep as the long legged ones.

We are in a large valley, 4 miles by 30, and half way between the town of Fairbanks and the University. At the university, they have an experiment farm, where they teach farming, dairying, stock and poultry raising, etc. Lots of gold mining near this, being the placer mining belt. They principally use the hydraulic water pressure to separate the gravel and sand from the gold dust. Other parts it is mostly found in quartz. Also, they are taking out lots of coal and copper.

There is lots of timber here, consisting principally of blue spruce and birch. There is plenty game and fish up here is the way it is stated to me. I was in Fairbanks yesterday and saw three moose hides nailed up on the wall of the freight depot. The snowfooted rabbits are numerous, and about the size of a jack rabbit, only white. They are good to eat, for we have been trying them and squirrels.

We set traps every evening about 30 feet from the kitchen door, and next morning take them out—see. We can't tell much about the land, as we can't see it. We are both well except I have a bad cold; also Carroll Phillips and family are well. We had a nice trip, most especially on the ship, a distance of 2000 miles.

Will Vote On School Grouping May 15th

An election will be held on Saturday, May 15, in four School districts in the northeast portion of Gaines county. The question to be decided on this date is whether or not the Loop, Ashmore, Sawyer and Cedar Lake districts shall group themselves into one district for high school purposes.

The proposed group covers 204 square miles. If voted affirmatively the districts will use the Loop building, using the busses to gather the scholastics from the neighboring districts. It is said the new grouping will be more in line for state aid than the present setup.—Seminole Sentinel.

The Sawyer district is in Terry county.

Texas Wool Brings Peak Price of 38c

SAN ANGELO, Texas, May 3—Wool prices reached a new peak here today when 115,000 pounds of eight-month stock was sold by the Producer's Wool & Mohair Company of Del Rio to C. D. Stokes of Winslow & Company for 38 1/4 c a pound. The sale was made privately after bids were rejected at the sealed bid sale. The company will have an estimated 1,250,000 pounds more of eight-month stock to sell during the current season.

Centennial Queen Pays Herald a Call

Miss Geraldine (Jerry) Robertson, formerly of Lamesa, but whose parents now live in Seagraves, was presented to the Herald force recently by Mrs. A. D. Repp, on the advertising staff of the Herald. Miss Robertson was here visiting her aunt, Mrs. Lee O. Allen for a few days, after finishing a course with the Dallas Little Theatre.

It is our understanding that Miss Robertson will have a leading part at the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition at Dallas this year in Cavalcade, and after the big show in Dallas is over, she goes to Hollywood, where she has signed a contract to appear in pictures with the MGM. Miss Robertson was crowned queen of the Centennial last year by another pride and queen of Texas, who has made good in the Movie Capitol, "Admiral" Ginger Rogers.

There are several things one might say of Miss Robertson on just a short introduction and chat. One is that she has personality written with a capital "P". Second, her rapid rise has left her as modest and unassuming as she was when a high school girl at Lamesa. Third, her beaming smile is not assumed, and as long as she continues to wear that happy expression, her beautiful face will not be distorted by frowns.

We are glad that Miss Robertson called at our place of business. And we are predicting a real career for this young lady, and want to say right here the Herald is 100 per cent for this South Plains, as well as Texas queen.

Herald Closes Account Of 28 Years Duration

On the first of this month, the Herald and the Brownfield Hardware Co., paid each other in full so far as each is aware, and each closed an account with the other that has run almost 28 years. The Herald is the oldest firm in Terry county, and the Brownfield Hardware came next as one continuous business.

Mr. H. J. Longbrake was in the hardware business here when we arrived here in 1909 and purchased the Herald. Later Will Adams moved over here from Gomez and became associated with Mr Longbrake in business. During the middle 'teens, Mr. Adams sold his interest to W. B. (Bill) Downing, who moved here from Lubbock.

Our business relations with this old firm has always been pleasant, there never having been in all that time the least friction in the settlement of accounts. We hope that Messrs. Hizah Longbrake and Bill Downing have a long, needed rest, which both deserve.

Two Suicides In Lubbock, Saturday

Hurling 60 feet from a fire escape of the Myrick office building, Mrs. E. D. Barnes, 48, plunged or fell to her death in the brick paved alley below, a few minutes before 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Before the horrified eyes of messenger boys and office tenants and only a few seconds after she had been cautioned by George Roach, grain buyer who saw her on the fire escape, she "splashed" prone against the pavement.

She fell flatly against the brick, and her body was terribly crushed. Family members said Mrs. Barnes, of 1404 Texas Avenue, had been in ill health and subject to recurring moments of despondency that had resulted in their watching her for fear of disaster. She had escaped their vigilance momentarily Saturday afternoon and they were seeking her when the scream of a siren was heard and several hundred persons surged into the death alley.

T. E. Cole Found Shot In Head

T. E. Cole, 51, of Del Monte apartments, 809 Avenue K, was found dead in bed, a victim of a gunshot wound, about 9:30 Saturday morning.

Cole, a welder who had not worked for 11 weeks because of an infected hand, had been shot once in the head. A pistol was lying near his hand.

A coroner's inquest was held by Peace Justice S. E. McMillan but official verdict has been withheld.

Some Reasons For Highway Collisions

HOUSTON, May 10.—Persons of broad experience in the field of motor vehicle operations have come to the conclusion, after careful reflection, that only a few and relatively simple rules need be applied to banish 80 per cent of the motor vehicle collisions and mishaps from our highways, according to Charles E. Simons, associate editor of Texas Parade, whose article, "Safety—or Else?" appears in the May issue of that magazine.

"The application of these rules by the motoring public," says Mr. Simons "would automatically decrease motor vehicle fatalities and, combined with better engineering and enforcement of traffic regulations, would raise highway travel to the place it occupied in the early '20's, when the whole family looked forward with joy to the week-end automobile trip.

Mr. Simons quotes from an interview with J. B. Early maintenance engineer of the Texas Highway Department, who has traveled thousands upon thousands of miles in Texas as a part of his job.

"Passing cars on a sharp hill," Mr. Simons continued, "Mr. Early found to be chief cause of collisions. Records of the Highway Department disclose a terrific loss of life and property from mishaps of this nature which could, by the exercise of even a small amount of common sense, be avoided.

"The Highway Department has made every effort to warn traffic against such collisions by installing at each hill of any consequence, where sight distance is restricted, signs that advise drivers to stay in line until they reach the peak of the hill and see a clear road ahead.

"Driving fast on a road with wet shoulders, according to Mr. Early, is another common cause of collisions. The Highway Department has found it impossible, due to the huge expense involved, to provide all weather shoulders on all state highways and is doing everything possible with the limited funds at hand to make the shoulders safe for the average motorist traveling at average speed.

"The practice of following too closely behind another car when the vehicles are traveling at a speed greater than 40 miles an hour is a collision breeder that has been widely condemned. Fast speeds on winding roads also can be very dangerous. Motorists who thoughtlessly park at the top of a hill also contribute to making the highway unsafe."

How much better it would be, according to Mr. Early, if speed be really necessary, to drive when fresh and the senses are attuned to any emergency, and by the same token the speed should be lessened as the driver tires because his reaction time has been lowered by the constant drain on his mental and physical resources.

"Finally," says Mr. Simons, "motorists should realize that signs cost money, when placed on 22,000 miles of state highways. The motorists are paying for these signs in the form of gasoline taxes and motor vehicle registration fees. They are placed at danger points because they are needed to warn traffic and are not installed willy-nilly at the whim or caprice of some engineer or some crack-pot who is a sign theorist. Signs are placed only at danger spots and it is a pretty safe bet that where a motorist sees a sign warning against a turn, narrow bridge, cross road or railroad grade crossing, that an actual, and not theoretical hazard exists. The motorist who travels with due regard for the signs will get to his destination safely."

Texas May Get Six Million From Estate

If Terrell, Texas, is found to be the legal residence of Colonel E. H. R. Green and the prenuptial agreement of Mrs. Green is thrown out, the State of Texas will stand to collect upward of $6,000,000 as inheritance tax from Mrs. Green, Llewellyn B. Duke, Assistant Attorney General, said.

Massachusetts and Florida also are making claims on the estate, as well as New York. They claim Colonel Green had his legal residence in their States.

The value of the estate is estimated at $80,000,000. Most of the estate is in tax-exempt bonds, but millions are in jewels and rare stamps. Colonel Green, formerly a citizen of Terrell, Texas, died in Florida.

Miss Vona Lee Ditto of Collins Dry Goods store left Sunday for Dallas where she will attend the Gossard Corsertiering school.

New Town Planned In Yoakum County

PLAINS, May 7.—Plans have been drawn preliminary to laying off streets, alleys and lots for the new town of "Bennettville" on the L. P. Bennett ranch where the first oil well in Yoakum county was drilled. Bennett resides in Abilene.

Location is southwest of the old ranch. It is near to the two wells, the Cascade-Honolulu No. 1 L. P. Bennett and the Texas and Pacific No. 1. Ruth Bennett, both in section 678. Two other locations are being made on the ranch, one by each company.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Kendrick were called to Abilene, Saturday evening, because of the illness of Mrs. Kendrick's sister.

Mrs. Graham Smith was a Lubbock visitor Saturday morning.

There are no ports of entry on the Texas border, other than between us and a foreign country, Old Mexico. All citizens who are law abiding are welcome to cross and recross the lines of Texas at will, and are always welcome to come and spend their money. Tourists last year spent more money in Texas than its oil production or its cotton crop, statistics show. Come to Texas.

Yes, we received the big 36 page irrigation edition of the Lockney Beacon, and found it to be a very interesting paper. There are some 300 farms in the Lockney section equipped to irrigate. When through with the paper, we passed it on to a former Floyd countyman. We need a lot more farms in this section so equipped that they do not have to watch and pray for rain every time a dry spell strikes.

Senator G. H. Nelson writes in to us that if the "dentist advertising bill" comes up, he will vote for the bill which prohibits them from advertising. This comes naturally, as lawyers are also "ethical"—very ethical. However, we believe that when the test comes in the courts the act will be declared unconstitutional, as it appears to be squarely in restraint of free speech and free press. And we are not much of a lawyer either. How about it Eee Eye?

On account of sickness in the Herald family, we forgot to mention the recent death of Mrs. E. R. Haynes, 71, mother and associate publisher with her son, R. B. Haynes, of the Miami Chief. The writer became acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Haynes at Lubbock back about 1909, when he was both county judge of that county and ex-officio county superintendent and later when the offices were separated. He passed on in 1923. They were two of the best friends we had in those days in this then great friendly country. Editor R. B. Haynes has no excuse whatever of being a good man and a good citizen—he was raised right. Mrs. Haynes taught many years in the Lubbock schools, and at least one term at old Primrose on the line of Terry and Hockley, now Ropesville.

One thing can be said for the Texas Ranger who arrested two men at Wichita Falls last week for distributing literature criticizing the Governor, he was not lacking in loyalty to his chief. But his loyalty is no warrant for him violating the law himself and confiscating the literature without due process of law. Such practices have done more than anything to make the Ranger force unpopular with the fair-minded public.—Ralls Banner.

Freedom of the press and freedom of speech is something we are always going to be confronted with until our constitution is changed, and that won't be changed radically until we have a dictator, which is unlikely for quite some time. As badly as we dislike the usual radical scap box orator, he is one of the necessary evils, seemingly.

There is somewhere in the wilds of Dallas town a volunteer proofreader who sends this column an exhibit of its inefficiency from time to time. The latest instance is in the word "authoritative," which got into the paper as "authorative." It was a dreadful mistake, but our hope is that nobody suffered except the volunteer proofreader. It is a shame that typographical errors do seem to enter every sort of print once in a while. But it is a wonder, on the other hand, that there are not ten times as many. A daily newspaper is written in a rush the type is set in a rush, the proofs read in a rush and sent to press in a rush. This very piece is being written in such a hurry the typewriting machine is groaning for lack of lubrication, yet State Press, the devastating operator, hasn't time for greasing it. Always S. P. can spot a typographical error at first glance, but usually he doesn't see it until the paper is out.

State Press in Dallas News represents the most advantageous medium for merchandising its products as evidenced by substantial increases in sales of Conoco germ-processed motor oil following past newspaper advertising campaigns, Continental Oil Company is again launching a large scale advertising campaign in some 1400 carefully selected papers in all sections of the nation. The campaign will continue into September and will be distinguished by the fact that it will feature the local dealer as well as the company's oil.

MISUNDERSTANDING

Bill, who lisped very badly, was explaining to the crowd of loafers in the country grocery just how he managed to marry such a desirable matrimonial partner as Mrs. Bill was reputed to be.

"Well, fellows, it wath thith way. I had been going to thee her for thum time and didn't deem to be making very much theep and I made up my mind to thay sumthing or buth my thupenders in tryin'." Then one night I went over to her houth and thet down by her and she began to tell me how much property her father had, how many theep and couth and hogh and all thuch, and I jith that still and lithened. Finally, I thed, 'Mith Lizzie, I ain't as rich as your pap but I have got thith thows and pigs over home.' Then she fell on my chest and I knowed she was mine. You thee, she thought I thed six thousand pigs, but I only thed thith thows and pigs."

FARM "SIT-DOWNS"

If the new fad of sit-down strikes ever hits the farm it's going to bring everyone around Big Spring a lot of good laughs. Just think of a farmer, as he goes to feed the hogs, for instance. He would sit-down on the pig pen and sit there until the price of pork advanced. Then the housewife, when half through with her churning would stage a sit-down strike until the price of butter advanced. Not another lick would she churn but just sit there, dasher in hand, unconcerned as to whether the butter came or not. The farm hand, too, going out to milk would sit upon his milking stool and when about half done would cease his labor, take a chew of tobacco, stretch out his legs in comfort and remain there until his wages were raised. Night would come and the farm hand would lay his manly head over against old Bossy's side and fall off to sleep until the dawning of another day, but without another drop of milk being formed down into the pail.

Yes, there's going to be a lot of fun when the sit-down strike fad hits the farm, and yet it might prove a good thing. It would shut off the food supply of the city sit-down strikers, and without the farmer's meat, milk, butter, eggs and vegetables a sit-downer would quickly surrender. Maybe a general sitting-down on the farm would stop all that sort of silly—and costly—nonsense in the city when nothing else could.—Big Spring News.

Conoco to Continue Big Ad Campaign

Convinced that newspaper space represents the most advantageous medium for merchandising its products as evidenced by substantial increases in sales of Conoco germ-processed motor oil following past newspaper advertising campaigns, Continental Oil Company is again launching a large scale advertising campaign in some 1400 carefully selected papers in all sections of the nation. The campaign will continue into September and will be distinguished by the fact that it will feature the local dealer as well as the company's oil.

Surveys conducted by Continental's advertising department showed two factors which decided the nature of the forthcoming campaign. First it was ascertained that the best sales results followed the use of newspaper advertising; and second, that the average motorist is far more concerned with the mileage he obtains from his motor oil than any other single factor.

Correlating this information with the fact that Continental distribution is now conducted entirely through local independent dealers, the advertising campaign will stress that each dealer is a "mileage merchant" who, in order to retain his customers and gain new ones, must sell mileage in the form of a motor oil which will give efficient service.

The House of Representatives has passed two constitutional amendments which would make radical changes in the state government. The first would extend the term of office of all but state officers to four years. This measure is being fought in the senate since a primary election would be held every two years, without means of financing such primaries excepting on the years when county and precinct officers were elected. The second amendment would increase the salaries of legislators to $3,000 per year. Under the present system of $10 per day for the 120-day session and the same amount for each special session, legislators are receiving about $3,000 for each two years as the special sessions usually number three to four. The argument is made that with an unlimited session, the legislature would not rush through with its work, but would stay in Austin long enough to get the job done. The per diem of the members is not the only big item in connection with a session of the legislature. The salary of the employees and the incidental expenses run practically as much as the per diem of members. This being the case, legislative costs would run from two to three times the present cost if the amendment is submitted and carried at the polls. —Canyon News.

THE BRAIN STAGGERS FIRST

A handbook issued by the British Government for the use of teachers says:

The action of alcohol is to depress the functions of the brain from above downward in the reverse of their development in the individual and in the race.

Among these successive steps the following may be noted:

Blunting of self-criticism. Self-criticism is the latest development of the intellectual functions. When it is blunted, things may be done or remarks made which may not be consistent with the usual behavior of the individual. The resulting effects of this blunting are various to an almost unlimited degree; but certain of them are particularly characteristic of the action of alcohol and emerge with considerable regularity in carefully conducted tests and experiments.

Since the drinker no longer is self-critical, he feels that he is always right. As his ego enlarges itself under the influence of alcohol he hogs the road; as his elementary selfishness and tendencies to violence seize control of his brain, he becomes contemptuous for the right of way, he will not allow his car to be passed. Dean Ever Kending of the Temple University School of Pharmacy, Philadelphia, says that one drink makes the driver a menace.

"Laboratory experiments show," declares the dean, "that from the time the eye begins to record an object which has come into the range of vision until the impulse is transferred to the brain, and the brain in turn, telegraphs down the nerves to a muscle and demands action, such as turning the wheel or applying the brakes, one-fifth of a second, under normal conditions, has elapsed.

"The experiment further show that the drinking of even a moderate amount of alcohol will slow up the transmission of these impulses that the elapsed time doubles or triples. "An automobile traveling at the legal rate of forty miles an hour moves forward about twelve feet every one-fifth of a second. One drink of whiskey or one pint of beer will increase the elapsed time from the eye to the wheel brakes up to as much as four-fifths of a second.

If the time is increased just two-fifths of a second the car travels twenty-four feet further than normal expectation before you start to apply the brakes. Therefore, if a child suddenly runs into the road, the driver who has had a drink is much more likely to have an accident than is a non-drinker."

Dean Kending said that in the first nine months of last year, in Pennsylvania, there had been an increase of 93 per cent in automobile accidents in which liquor was a contributing factor.

Herman Heath left Saturday for Kansas City to attend a meeting of the General Gas Co.

BUILDING PERMITS 50 PER CENT OVER FEBRUARY

AUSTIN, Texas, May 2.—Reports to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research from 35 representative Texas cities show total value of construction permits during March of $6,997,275, an increase of 50.2 per cent over February and a gain of 7.1 per cent over March, 1936. Aggregate permits for the first three months of 1937 were $17,459,480, a decline of 4.8 per cent from those of the corresponding period last year.

A surgeon, an architect, and a politician were arguing as to whose profession was the oldest.

Said the surgeon: "Eve was made from Adam's rib, and that surely was a surgical operation."

"Maybe," said the architect, "but prior to that, order was created out of chaos, and that was an architectural job."

"But," interrupted the politician, "somebody created the chaos first!"

Trees and brush being cleared out in the Texas state parks are being converted into charcoal for use by picnic parties, according to information received by the Texas Planning Board from the National Park Service.

Beauty's Daughter

By Kathleen Norris

SYNOPSIS

Victoria Herrendeen, a vivacious little girl, had been too young to feel the shock that came when her father, Keith Herrendeen, lost his fortune. A gentle, unobtrusive man, he is now employed as an obscure chemist in San Francisco, at a meager salary. His wife, Magda, cannot adjust herself to the change. She is a beautiful woman, fond of pleasure and a magnet for men's attention. Magda and Victoria have been down at a summer resort and Keith joins them for the week-end.

"So someone was saying," Mrs. Herrendeen bunched her beautiful shining fingernails and looked at them thoughtfully. "Great doings here for the Harwoods—the newspaper people," she said.

"Tonight?" the man asked evenly, after a pause.

"Small party," his wife said lightly and briefly. "Bride for Lady Cuthbertson. She's here on the Harwood yacht. They've all gone mad over her."

"You've got to go, I suppose?" A pause.

"You wouldn't, I suppose?" Another pause.

"No," Dad said briefly and quietly.

"I suppose not. But—being bridge . . . Victoria's mother began hesitantly. She looked at his face as she spoke.

"You feel you have to go?" "Well, Keith," his wife began, with an eloquent shrug, "you see, it's only two tables," she went on making a fresh start.

"That's all right," Keith Herrendeen said heavily in a tone that belied his words.

"Do you play good bridge. Mother?" Victoria asked, to lighten a certain heaviness in the silence that had fallen in the room. She was washing herself now, busily and effectively, the muddy soap squeegeeing in great firm suds through her fingers, her wet straight tawny hair dripping on her shoulders. She took a comb and dragged the damp locks back severely.

"Now take your fingers and soften that around your forehead, Vic.—Yes," Mrs. Herrendeen said, jerking another pillow under her head. "I do play good bridge."

"Does Dad?" asked Vic. "He doesn't like it. Nor dancing. Nor night clubs. Nor big cars and yachts and distinguished persons. Nor anything I like," Magda might have answered from the sense of creckmate, of complete bafflement in her heart. But she said only the first phrase aloud. For the rest she lay there thinking, watching her husband's face.

"Victoria and I'll take care of each other," Keith said, in a hard voice.

"I could telephone and say I'll be up after dinner," Magda offered. "What good would that do?" "Well, that's just it; no good. They aren't dining until nearly eight. 'Eightish,' Sibyl said. You'll be all through here by seven."

"We'll take care of each other," Keith said again.

"There goes the dinner bell," Victoria said, leaping from rock to rock beside him. "Goody! Are you hungry? I'm starving."

"Mrs. Herrendeen coming to dinner?" Emma said, giving them their napkins and setting two glasses of cut fruit before them. "No, she can't come tonight."

Upon their return to their room immediately after dinner, Vic and her father found Victoria's mother all ready to go. Her manner was the prettily careless one that distinguishes in a beautiful woman a sudden touch of self-consciousness.

"I wonder you'll speak to me for being such a runaway!" she said to them with her appealing smile. She was always gentle; Victoria fifties, boarding houses and Pine street apartments!"

"It won't be forever," Keith Herrendeen said.

"It'll be until I'm too old to care!" Victoria heard her mother say. Then there was a long silence, while the little girl lay listening on the porch with her heart hammering like a wild bird's and her ears strained, and her whole little body tensed with fear.

"Go, then," said her father out of the pause. They hadn't gone to sleep then; the quarrel was still on.

"Oh, no; I won't go now," her mother said gently and sweetly, in a normal voice.

"Well, now I tell you to go, that doesn't suit you!"

"It would be impossible for me to go now," Mrs. Herrendeen murmured firmly, as if the whole matter were settled.

"Now, why do you want to act like that about it, Magda?" the man demanded, with a faint hint of uneasiness, of change, in his tone.

Silence. Silence. Victoria heard her father's snore, light at first, softly deepening. Her heart began to beat more quietly. A night bird cried in the garden; the sea rushed and retreated on the rocks.

A whumpering sob broke through the other sounds; Victoria froze. Her mother was crying; bitterly, brokenly crying, and keeping the noise of it soft, so that no one should hear.

Victoria suffered as if from physical pain. The crying went on for a long time; a clock struck one for some half-hour; struck four. It was four o'clock!

The world was gray in shadowless light when Victoria slipped noiselessly from bed and stepped to the open window. She looked in. Her father was asleep, no doubt of that, for he was still healthily snoring. It was at the lightly covered form of her mother that she looked steadily; was she sleeping?

No, the beautiful dark eyes were wide open, fixed on Victoria in the window. Mrs. Herrendeen beckoned, and Victoria flew to her arms, and they kissed each other, the child hugged down against the tumbled covers and the little lacy pillows.

"You muggins, what waked you up?" the woman demanded in a breath that was less than a whisper. "Mother, are you all right?"

"Perfectly all right, sweetheart." "But, Mother, were you crying?"

"I got too tired, and that's why I cried, and I'm a very silly mother."

Victoria laughed the shadow of her own rich affectionate little laugh, and there were more kisses. Then she went back to her cold tumbled porch bed, and snuggled down inside it, and was asleep before the morning's first chill blanket of fog began to creep in across the level dim floor of the ocean.

When they were at home in the city, Magda Herrendeen never got up for breakfast. She always said that she loved getting up in the morning when there was anything to do. But in the five-room apartment on Pine street there was not much to do.

Keith got himself a cup of coffee and boiled two-minute oats for Victoria, or scrambled eggs for them both. The rest was just bread and butter, and milk poured from the bottle.

Magda sometimes got up and got herself some orange juice, or even a cup of tea. She would come back with the mail, the newspaper carried with a smoking cup or the glass. Settling down again, she would yawn wearily; what horrible things were in the house for dinner, and what should be ordered?

At eleven the telephone would ring, and then there would be a change. A change in her, and a change in the general atmosphere.

"My dear, I don't think I can today," she would say. "But it sounds too divine! How late would we be . . . I see. Let me think . . . What are you wearing, Ethyl? . . . Yes, I have; I could wear the blue that Eleanor brought me from Paris . . . Yes, I know. But let me think about it and call you again!"

by Paul Henry

Andy Clyde, Columbia's ace comedian, is a great family and outdoor man. He's just finished a fine but modest-sized home on the lower slopes of the Hollywood hills. When I called on him Andy was in the backyard setting out trees and weeding his strawberry patch.

"I've done most of the work out here," he said with pride. "All those rock lined terraces took a lot of time, but I had to make them to keep the rains from washing the yard all away. Before I got them in the mud rolled down and nearly buried the lawn."

Although Clyde usually plays a man of 50 or more, he's really 10 years younger than that. You would hardly recognize him if you are familiar with the big drooping mustache worn in his comedies. Offstage he wears a close cropped little mustache which was but a shadow of the movie one he was wearing in a large framed picture which I saw in his spacious living room.

Clyde's affections very apparently are quite evenly divided between his wife, two-year old son John Alen Clyde, and his three pedigreed Scotties. He talked about them all, and with fatherly pride made his infant son demonstrate his excellent vocabulary. Young John not only could tell his name but his street, city and state address.

had to be "doubled." Among them you will see players who are quite perfect "twins" of Mae West, Charlie Chaplin, Claudette Colbert, Irene Dunne, W. C. Fields, Eddie Cantor, Harold Loyd, Victor McLaglen, Clark Gable, Bing Crosby and others. Richard Dix, who is starred, plays himself.

A wood-working shop has been disclosed as having produced a large number of Hollywood's outstanding screen stories. The shop is the hobby, and the idea factory of Paul Gerald Smith, one of the screen's most prolific writers. He has authored such Broadway hits as four of Eiegfeld's "Follies," the "Greenwich Village Follies," and lately completed three important screen plays. Popular Charlie Ruggles is being starred in his "Turn Off the Moon."

Building tables and chests in my shop," Smith explained "is a manual occupation which lends to fanciful thinking. While I am contentedly whittling away on inlaid woodwork some of my best ideas pop into life. Every creative man should have some sort of hobby which takes him into the solitude of either the outdoors or a shop where he has peace and quiet in which to think.

Jeanette MacDonald, who is making "Firefly," did not come through a big living room door in the regal manner wanted by Director Robert Leonard the other day. He suggested that, to fit her role and entry, she could come sweeping through. Not only the crew but Director Leonard had to laugh when the singing star did just that—sweeping her way in with a big broom.

but plenty of thrills for the crowds who get them out of seeing a star close up. While I stood around getting information on what would probably result from the meeting I noted Andy Clyde, Hedda Hopper, Walter Connolly and wife, Nedda Harrigan, Regis Toomey, Conrad Nagel, Frederick March and wife, Sally Eilers and the Jimmy Gleasons, and Leo Carrillo thread their way in.

Of them all Carrillo was the most affable to press photographers who were trying to catch flashlight pictures. He not only strolled in, but stopped at the door to turn and pose for them. He's terrifically popular offstage, as well as on. Stu Erwin also got a big hand.

A big party at the beach Saturday night was staged in a huge circus tent, with the cinema guests all in various kinds of circus costumes. Henry Fonda was the most disguised clown. A heavily built up forehead; red bulbous nose; and flaming red wig made him unknown to most of his friends.

Carole Lombard and Clark Gable appeared as twins in cowboy outfits of the same tan shade. Claudette Colbert was in Indian princess costume. Pat O'Brien, also a clown in white tights, wore a Jimmy Durante schmozzle, which he finally took off and stuck in a bowl of salad.

Best laugh was on famous columnist Walter Winchell. With 400 notables as guests and all kinds of fun to make hot copy, Winchell didn't have a pencil.

The tradition that nearly every person in the world somewhere has a "double" will soon be strikingly shown on the screen. A picture now being made, "Once a Hero," involves 30 past or present screen stars who

Just a light touch on the steering wheel turns the new Row Crop "70" completely around. It's the easiest tractor to operate you ever saw. Every control's right at your finger tips—and you have steering and gear shifting like an automobile.

This is Oliver's new 6-cylinder Tractor that has caused so much talk. There are two "70's"—one designed solely for regular gasoline—and the other to get the utmost fuel economy out of kerosene or distillate.

With either one you'll get unusually great power with light weight—and great speed. Under ordinary soil conditions, you can plow with two 14-inch bases at over 4 miles an hour! That gets the work done quicker and gives more spare time for other things.

The Row Crop "70" comes from the tractor factory of the founders of the tractor industry. You'll want to see this latest, modern tractor at once—with its complete line of mounted listing, busting, planting and cultivating equipment.

RAH! RAH! RAH!

Up in good old Colorado Mrs. Eudochia Bell, member of the state legislature, "mammied" through a bill absolving reckless brothers from suits for "seduction, breach of promise or alienation of affection." In speaking for the bill, Eudochia said: "Money cannot mend a broken heart nor indignities suffered by women. The bill will not hurt those who really have suffered, but it will end the deprivations of the female whose heart is cured when silver crosses her palm.

This is a regular sucker state for predatory females who have preyed on the unsuspecting and sometimes glibly male like coyotes on the weak lambs of a flock."

The bill precludes the possibility of naming a co-respondent in divorce and annulment suits. That will make them think about the possibilities of "tomorrow" before hooking up. The predatory female has been a menace for some time. They have become almost as bad and numerous as men who spend their money foolishly and fail to provide for their families. You know Colorado is one state that permits alleged whites and negroes to marry. Maybe they are reforming and cleaning up since both houses of the legislature gave the bill unanimous approval. More power to you, Mrs. Bell.—Clarendon Leader.

THE TAX-EXEMPT PARASITES

"There is growing up a new class, which by the ownership of government securities, has more privileges and less responsibility than any royalty the world has ever known. They live on the taxes of the people, while they themselves enjoy many tax exemptions," says Arthur Huntington in Public Utilities Fortnightly.

It is probably that not one person out of ten realize that government borrowings are exempt from taxation. In other words, the man who buys $1,000 worth or $10,000 worth of government bonds, is in the privileged class that is not taxed on the income he derives from those bonds. Also, the businesses which the government develops with the money derived from the privileged, tax-free bonds, are wholly or largely tax exempt.

In the state of Oregon, for example if private electric companies had gross incomes of $20,000,000 a year, the total taxes they would pay today in support of schools, roads, police protection, army, navy, etc., would be nearly 20 per cent of that sum, or $4,000,000 annually. If the government's hydro-electric projects now being developed on the Columbia River should earn $20,000,000 from the sale of electricity, this income would be practically tax exempt under existing policies.

The privileged holder of tax-exempt bonds dodges his tax obligations, which the means have to pay. The government's subsidized tax-exempt industries dodge the taxes which all other business has to pay. Is it any wonder that the cost of government, and taxation of the common people rises as the tax-exempt government borrowings increase, to build bigger and better tax-exempt experiments in all parts of the United States.

Think it over and see where the system will lead our nation.

Mrs. Percy Spencer of Fort Worth and her daughter Mrs. Charles Lingle and children, Charles Spencer and Ann Caroline of Lubbock were guests of Mrs. Spencer's mother, Mrs. J. L. Randal, Mother's Day.

Over the Wires For Two-Bass Hit

Long distance rhythm went over the wire from New York to Dallas for final ok on a theme tune for the Casino at the Pan American Exposition. Composer Sammy Fain (at piano) and lyricist Irving Kahal, from a Broadway studio, ran over the number for George Marshall, the international fair's $100,000 entertainment director, and his wife, Corinne Griffith, at Dallas, so it could be put immediately into rehearsal in New York by Chester Hale, producer. Rehearsals move to Dallas two weeks ahead of the opening June 12.

"AS MAINE GOES—"

Maine is certainly pointing the way for traffic accident control, in at least one respect. That is, curtailing the activities of the drunken driver.

A survey recently completed by the Maine Highway Safety Campaign revealed that one-fifth of motor vehicle fatalities in Maine in 1936 had liquor associated with them. Even in 1936 Maine had effectively reduced traffic fatalities as compared with the preceding year. However, not satisfied with partial success, she is now setting out to better her own record with special emphasis placed on drunken driving. The motor vehicle division urged better cooperation by the courts in handling cases involving drunkenness, and held certain "legal loopholes" and technicalities to be inimical to effective law enforcement.

Public officials, as well as the citizens of Maine, realize that the drunken driver is a criminal to be handled the same as any other criminal. Both menace society. There is absolutely no excuse for driving while under the influence of liquor. Every person doing so is potential murderer. In some respects the drunken driver is even worse than the average murderer because the murderer usually commits his crime in the heat of passion. The drunken driver blunders along with callous indifference toward all who are unfortunate enough to be in his path of death.

Maine is to be congratulated, as are all other states that take a determined stand to "wipe out" the drunken driver.

GROW BETTER COTTON

Believe it or not, the fact is made more apparent as the days go by that the only hope of the cotton grower of the South to get a profit for his product is that he produce better cotton than he has been producing in recent years. He can do this, and make a profit or he can continue to produce the same sore China and Indian and the South American countries product and try to compete with their starvation wage labor.

Changes in manufacturing that have come about by reason of the increase in the uses for cotton have made it necessary to have the fiber of more than one grade and staple. Many of them can use the short

Lower right—The colorful observation lounge, in which desert colors of sand, copper and turquoise have been used for decoration, with sand paintings and reproductions of Navajo craft and weaving.

FROM the Navajos of the picturesque southwest, the Santa Fe drew the inspiration for the design of its new stainless steel streamline train, the Super Chief, newest of the luxury trains in the west.

The rich colors associated with the country through which the train travels have been used as the background for decorations, faithfully reproducing the art and craft of the Navajo Indians. Sand paintings, silver craft and weaving have been skillfully combined with rare woods and modern design to give the train all the beauty and color of the desert. The train was built by Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company of Philadelphia. The locomotive was furnished by the Electro-Motive Corporation of Chicago.

Throughout the train, each compartment has its own color scheme and arrangement, and each has been designed so that suites may be formed by use of connecting doors. In the cocktail and observation lounges has been preserved much of the beauty of Navajo life. Sand paintings have been used in the pier panels to illustrate the characters which occur in the story of Dsilyl 'Noyani, the "Myth of the Mountain Chant." All of the figures are executed in native colored sands and charcoal.

Coverings are reproductions of rare Navajo museum pieces, and lighting fixtures have been adapted from the fourth painting of Dsilyl 'Noyani. The "Plumed Arrows" have been fashioned into glow lights and a rear table lamp employs the sacrificial knife stem for a base with its shade fashioned of goat skin.

staple, rough fiber, and they can buy it for less from countries where labor is paid less and where new ground does not require fertilizers to make it produce profitably. So the Southern farmer who produces only this sort of cotton is in competition with cheap labor and consequently cheap production.

There is a market for cotton of a longer staple, of a better grade, than the general run of cotton in the South, and especially that grown in Texas, where much of it is snapped and ginned in the boll. No cotton of quality can be produced by that method. Volume, yes, but low priced because of low quality.

When the Southern cotton grower determines to produce a textile that sells for a higher price because it is a better article, he can do it. Live-stock breeders improve the quality of their stock—automobile manufacturers make better cars at no more cost because they give some study to it—the cotton grower can follow their example and profit by it.

There is a demand for cheap cotton as well as for other cheap things, but it must be produced cheaply to be profitable, and that cannot be done under our standard of living.—Big Spring Herald.

Bill Allmon and family are visiting Mrs. Allmon's mother and family at Sulphur Springs, Texas.

Late Oil Development News in This Area

The following is a pretty accurate report of recent oil developments in this area:

Yoakum County
Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Taylor, section 201, block D, John H. Gibson survey, wildcat in north-eastern Yoakum County, Monday had run and cemented 9 5-8 inch casing at 4,024 feet, the total depth in anhydrite. Lime streaks were reported at that depth. Honolulu No. 1 Bennett spudded. T. & P. No. 2 Bennett has spudded.

Gaines County
Shell Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Amerada-Humble, section 220, block G, W. T. survey, in the Seminole area of Gaines County, Monday had run and cemented seven-inch casing at 4,912 feet. Total depth is 5,002 feet in lime.

L. H. Wentz No. 1 Dalmont, section 5, block A-22, psi survey, wildcat in southern Gaines County, was drilling below 4,165 feet in anhydrite.

erry Wildcat
Logging oil saturation in lime from 5,112 feet to 5,125 feet, Hugh Corrigan et al. (formerly W. L. Pickens wildcat, has been shut down pending the securing of casing in order to shut off 4,400 feet of sulphur water coming from upper lime strata. The oil showing will be tested after casing has been run.

Since deeping from 4,972 feet, the test has shown saturation and gas in several zones and has not encountered any increase in water. It is in the center of the northeast of the northeast of section 1, block C-37 psi survey.

resigned. Mr. Edwards was also named as a member of the board of directors of the bank. Performing the duties of bank president and director will be no new experience for Mr. Edwards as he served as president and director of the old West Texas National Bank of Big Spring for many years.

In addition to large ranching interests Mr. Edwards has large holdings in Howard, Glasscock, Crane, Ector, Winkler and Gaines county on which oil development is in progress or in prospect.

J. L. Hudson also of Big Spring is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Brownfield bank.—Big Spring News.

WILL P. EDWARDS HEADS BANK AT BROWNFIELD

Will P. Edwards of this city was recently elected president of the Brownfield State Bank at Brownfield, Texas, succeeding W. H. Dallas, Betty Jo Savage, daughter of Mrs. Iva Savage, former resident of Brownfield is on the staff of the Lubbock high school paper, which has been rated as one of the eight class A school papers in the United States.

Goodwill Ambassador

Mr. Harry P. Savage, assistant to the promotion director of the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition, was in our city recently and was a pleasant caller at the Herald office, but owing to sickness in the family of the editor, this article, like many others, failed to appear last week. The above scene shows pretty Tex- anta, Miss Stella Stanley decorating Mr. Savage in his regalia as Goodwill Ambassador.

Mr. Savage, while here, presented Mayor L. C. Wines with an official invitation hand drawn scroll. He also called on the presidents of the civic clubs, Rotarians and Lions, the school superintendent, Mr. M. L. H. Baze, postmaster Jas. H. Dallas, and J. E. Shelton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, asking cooperation of all in making this the crowning event of Texas advertising history.

On the day set aside for Brownfield, Mr. Savage wants us to bring our pianists, violinists, as well as the band, and they will be privileged to broadcast over the big Gulf station on the grounds.

YELLOW FEVER STRIKES AGAIN

The annual report of the Rockefeller Foundation conveys the sad news that it was in error in proclaiming the defeat of the task ahead of medical science before the desired goal is attained.

Prior to 1929 the Foundation maintained that yellow fever has been practically eliminated as a human menace, basing its belief upon the theory that the disease was transmitted solely by the Aedes aegypti mosquito and its attack upon the destruction of the breeding place of these insects. Then says Raymond Fosdick, the South American jungle struck and it was discovered that an endemic type of yellow fever could occur and did occur in regions where these mosquitoes did not exist.

Consequently the men of science are now engaged in an effort to locate this unknown source of the fever, having spent nearly $300,000 last year in search. Altogether, more than $6,000,000 has been expended in the campaign against yellow fever which began in 1915.

The Foundation is also conducting an elaborate campaign for research and demonstrations in malaria control, spending $170,000 for the work last year. This disease, also limited to tropical and subtropical climates, is still believed to be caused by the Anopheles mosquito.

These are but examples of the great work that the Foundation is doing in an effort to make certain diseases preventable and thus diminish the scourges of the human race. Last year it spent altogether more than $11,000,000 in prosecuting its undertakings to promoting the well being of mankind throughout the world.

ALTON B. FITZGERALD

Alton B. Fitzgerald of Tokio, son of Mrs. J. E. Fitzgerald passed away Friday, May 7, at a Lubbock hospital following a three weeks illness of pneumonia. He was 33 years old, having been born in Haskell, Texas, June 30, 1904. Funeral services were held at the family home here so that his aged mother could be present.

Personalize Your Kitchen!

Is a poor kitchen that cannot be remodeled to reflect the personality of the homemaker. How about yours? If it is not as clever, individual and convenient as this, there's really no reason why you can't make it so.

Two important ingredients in the recipe for the personality kitchen are modern equipment and linoleum flooring. Heretofore, the housewife has been limited to plain colors and patterns; if she wanted an original floor, it had to be an expensive custom-made job. Now any design and color scheme may be carried out in gorgeous natural colors. Shown above are some of the new motifs to be inset into the floor; feature strips and ready-made borders to make your floor exactly as you wish it, often for a small sum over the cost of the flooring itself, are also available.

Even modern automatic gas ranges have that truly personal look. Not only are there many types and styles to suit individual requirements, but ranges of shining white enamel are bright with handles of lipstick red, Coronation blue, glossy black or gleaming metal. Industrial stylists have put so much style into these ranges it is possible to select one to key with ultra-modern decoration as well as the quaint or period type.

Curtains and accessories carry this personal note further; it's smart and practical to use Venetian blinds banded in color. And don't forget that last word in charm, several pots of your favorite flowers. All these hints to snell YOU in your kitchen

More Mileage to you— BREAD & BUTTER TO ME

My station is all on its own. My living's got to come mostly from just you people right here. I want your steady trade, so's to build a real growing business. And there's where it helps me a lot, I can tell you, to be selling Conoco Germ Processed oil. You see it makes customers and keeps them for me. It's patented—the only oil that can Oil-Plate your engine. Meaning that a definite part of this oil always fastens direct to every working part . . . forms a real Plating of oil, which can't run down. Other oils will "dry off" every time you park, but Oil-Plating can't, so you'll never make any hard, grinding starts. And that ends the worst wear of all. Or when you're hitting it up all day, you won't find this real Oil-Plating rubbing right off, like just some plain little drops of oil. Oil-Plating's not thinning out either, nor burning right up. Which gives you mighty solid reasons why Oil-Plating means more mileage from your engine and your Conoco Germ Processed oil. Besides making customers, I get a kick out of changing you to an oil I can believe in myself, right to the limit.

BLUE BONNETT PAGEANT

The Blue Bonnett Pageant, the legend of the wild flowers of Texas, presented by State Federation of Music Clubs, at San Antonio, April 10 was cleverly reproduced by more than 100 children, in lovely costumes, at the School gymnasium on Friday night, sponsored by the Cen-Tex Harmony Club. Mrs. Frank Wier, in robe, read the legend of the little Indian girl who sacrificed her dearest possession, her doll, that the great spirit might relieve her people of famine and drought.

Frances Joyce Rambo represented the Indian maid. Mrs. E. D. Jones directed a realistic Indian drill. There were 18 tiny little girls, little dancing butterflies. Beverly Pittman, Wanda Joyce Finney, Wanda Ruth Turner were solo dancing butterflies. Christine McDuffie, Patsy Frank Ballard were lovely orchid and blue asters. Mrs. Breedlove directed the wild verbeanes; Mrs. Tarpley the violets; Mrs. Bruce, the singing daffodils; Mrs. Rodgers the big black owl; Mrs. Wright the red birds; Mrs. Jacobson the jay bird; Mrs. Telford the Indian paint brush; Mrs. Dallas, wild roses and Blue Bonnets. Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Robb and Mrs.

Telford the jack rabbits; Mrs. R. A. Brown the humming birds; Mrs. Price the canary birds.

The prelude was made up of the following numbers:

Piano solo, Wanda Joyce Finney. Voice solo, R. L. Clay. Piano solo Beverly Pittman. High school chorus of lovely voices.

The club is grateful for the applause accorded the young performers and dancers, and for the cooperation of teachers and Supt. and for other assistance given so generously by mothers. The club accompanists were, Mesdames Herod, Carson, Dallas and Miss Brown.

The pageant was produced, largely by members of Cen-Tex Harmony, Mac Dowell Junior Clubs and the Brownfield Blue Bonnets.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

Mother's Day was entirely a successful day. All of us are appreciative of the great attendance both at the school and the preaching service. Our visitors are most cordially invited to return, and all the people are urged to attend both the Commencement exercises at the High School Auditorium on the evening services at the church.

Church school will begin promptly at 9:45, and we will dismiss the school a few minutes early so you can get to the auditorium in time for the Commencement service.

Forty-four will have a part in the recital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Thomas left Tuesday for Miles and Brownwood where they will visit with relatives for awhile and then go to Rockport for an indefinite stay, hoping the lower climate will improve Mrs. Thomas' health. Meadow Items

This part had a heavy shower of hail and rain Sunday afternoon about five o'clock. What fruit left on the trees was knocked off and those who had gardens started will likely need to plant again. We are thankful for the moisture to plant crops and gardens too.

FORT WORTH, ay 11.— Joe Fredrick, T. C. U.'s "Dracula of the Dormitories," doesn't think much of Little Ol' New York.

Joe, who flew to New York City recently to appear on the "We the People" program, says: "It's too much town! Give me Texas any day."

Joe's greatest admirers in the city were the kids on the sidewalks.

"I'd be walking down the street in my boots and 10-gallon hat," he reports, "and they'd holler, 'Oh boy, there goes a cowboy!' The whole bunch would trail along with me down the street, asking where my guns were and how many Indians I'd killed."

Joe, who has had a lot of publicity from his "ugly man" claim, admits he is getting tired of the whole set-up.

"I've had a lot of fun," he says, "especially on that round-trip airplane ride to New York. That was a thrill, I want to tell you! But I don't want to spend my life at this thing. I've got to begin thinking about final examinations!"

The length of life is not measured by years alone.

What is the "Low-price Field"?

YOU hear a lot about "the low-price field" these days. A good many cars claim to be in it. So whenever the low-price field is mentioned, remember:

Until Ford came, no average American could own a car.

Today all Ford prices are still low — with the prices of the 60-horsepower Ford V-8 $30 to $60 lower than those of any other car of comparable size.

But with Ford, "low price" doesn't merely mean low figures on the price tag. It means much more than that. It means low prices and low costs all the car's long life. Low prices for service — for parts — and, above all, for operation.

Both Ford V-8 engine sizes are economical to operate. The 85 horsepower gives greater gasoline mileage this year than ever, and the "60" delivers the highest mileage in Ford history.

Private owners, cab companies, fleet operators all report that the "60" averages from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Check and see how much Ford saves you.
