AS FLORIDA GOES SO GOES CONGRESS

Only a few weeks before the Florida deluge we were neck-deep in an era of government by telegraph, and high pressure orators were casing our lawmakers to be flooded with telegrams. This form of sabotage by innuendo, or just plain bluff, soon gave over to another era, that of government by chain letters. Since Florida, however, we have the newest wrinkle in political remote control—government by primaries. Swiftly on the heels of the Florida primaries, and sounding a strident note in the poor anxious lives of seekers after re-election, the Administration's wage-hour bill—twice sentenced to execution, and still being held a prisoner by the unfriendly Rules Committee—was given a probationary parole through a Congressional writ of habeas-corpus. This order, known as a discharge petition signed by 218 careworn and jittery House members, some of whom had been displaying symptoms of political delirium tremens since the latest Florida hurricane, went over the heads of arbitrary committeemen and brought the battered wage-hour issue to the floor of the House for action.

It is stubbornly contended by some who are occasionally suspected of being good guessers that the House will pass the bill, but the Senate may order it shot at sunrise. Certainly, much depends on the nature and extent of pressure which may be brought by those who, on select occasions, press our Senators—but a whale of a difference is wrapped up in the fact that only one third of the Senators must face their respective voters this year. While lobbyists may lobby and voters may vote as they please, Senators also may do pretty much as they please—provided there remains two or four years between them and another campaign.

THE FLORIDA BLUES

For Florida! Clinging to their precarious political perches with a soul-torturing desperation, oftentimes unwarranted by actual conditions, some of them cannot risk the luxury of a sober analysis. Even the absolutely normal occurrence, such as the one in Florida, puts some of them to unreasoning and panicky flight like a covey of frightened partridges. Among the several Congressmen who, as is claimed, were won over or scared into supporting the wage-hour bill I am wondering just how many actually took time to calmly consider or evaluate conditions from the standpoint of cool logic.

This is not a dissertation, pro or con, on the wage-hour bill. It is simply a pursuance the question whether or not the sizzling controversy over the issue really influenced the voters in Florida to such a marked degree. Do they vote there on issues—or do they still vote on men?

NOT LAW BUT CUSTOM

In most sections, especially the South, it remains the unwritten law of politics that once a man is elected to the United States Senate he is practically appointed for life, unless something unseemly develops—and nothing unseemly developed in the Florida contest. The incumbent, seeking renomination, brought good references and was highly recommended by the White House. Furthermore, the people had already learned to regard him as their Senator. And as it so often occurs in politics, another good man up and runs against him. But the second man, Rep. Mark Wilcox, was known to most of the voters only as a perfectly able Congressman from another District, but not as their Senator. Also, in bidding for their sponsorship of a public trout of his senatorial wings, and for measuring his senatorial stature, Rep. Wilcox made a vigorous—and to them unwarranted—attack against one of the very few Democratic Presidents the Florida Democrats had seen in the White House during their lifetimes. Besides, a new Senator might upset the cart that hauls the relief money.

Those who carelessly and loudly insist that Sen. Pepper's victory was due to his support of the wage-hour legislation, should stop and consider that folks in Florida are not less regular than others when it comes to swallowing their political pills. When a pill is difficult to swallow whole they chew it. Therefore it was only reasonable for the voters to feel that they were not born expressly for battling either side of wage-hour legislation, court or government reorganization—or what have you. So, in choosing they close what to them represented the uninterrupted flow of money from Washington. Things less important could hang!

Alas, for who thinks he hears the sweet seductive voice of destiny again calling him to high office, and sets out to encore in popular favor, must so often rediscover that people talk publicly but vote secretly! The tragic realization that the middle of the political stream is never a straight line comes too late . . . and the drowning man out there, not the man on the bank, knows where the water is cold and deep.

New Supt. Elected For Plains Schools

W. H. Taylor of Motley county was elected superintendent of the Plains public schools last Saturday evening, after members of the board (Mrs. Smith and Kermit Whisenant) had returned from Austin, where they interviewed the members of the state superintendents office.

Mr. Taylor is a young man of pleasing manners, twenty-seven years old and a graduate of McMurry college at Abilene. He majored in school administration and a member of the board said he is well informed as to the management of school work.

In addition to his schooling he has had several years of actual school work as superintendent.

We did not learn as to whether any of the grade teachers were elected Saturday, but we presume they were not.

Mr. Taylor is married and will bring Mrs. Taylor here as soon as it is convenient.—Yoakum County Review.

WARD COUNTY VOTERS AGAIN IN FAVOR OF MOVING COURTHOUSE

BARSTOW, May 11.—For the second time in six months, Ward county voters have cast their ballots for removal of the courthouse from Barstow to Monahans.

The count was 1,649 to 450, a more decisive margin than marked the first election, last November 9. At that time the move was favored 1,453 to 464, but Barstow citizens contested validity of the election. They were upheld in court.

Science Beats the Sun

INDUSTRIAL engineers have now developed the device shown above. Consumers Information reports, to test colorfastness of fabrics, so that manufacturers can make sure in advance that their materials won't fade in the sun. Women never used to be sure that their dresses and draperies would retain their original brilliance until they had actually been exposed to sunlight. But through the use of this machine, developed by industrial research experts, it is now possible to tell whether dyed fabrics will hold their color. This is just one more of the many examples of how industry helps the consumer.

Why Farmers Comply In 1938—Get 2 Cents

Early payment of the 1937 cotton bounty of two cents per pound has been approved by the Senate in adopting the amendment of Senator Tom Connally of Texas to the agricultural appropriation bill.

The benefit payments to cotton farmers are made possible by the Connally-Jones amendment to the agricultural adjustment act of 1935. This amendment, which was sponsored in the Senate by Senator Connally, provided that a percentage of the revenue from customs duties should be used by the Secretary of Agriculture to pay bounties to farmers and otherwise aid in the increase of agricultural exports.

Last August Senator Connally offered a resolution in the Senate making provision for benefit payments to cotton farmers on their 1937 crop under the terms of the Connally-Jones plan. It was finally put into effect but provided that payments should go only to farmers who cooperated in the 1936 program.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD PETS INDOORS Above—Tag! Sunlight pouring into the kitchen makes this as easy as an outdoor picture. Note the interesting rhythm of the faucet shadows. 1/25 second at f.6.3 lens opening. By the addition of flood lights a snapshot could be made of this subject at f.11 or with a box type camera with lens at largest opening. At right—What'll I write—a hook, a poem or a telegram? Here a 100-watt ordinary electric bulb or a couple of fifties, is sufficient for the backlighting, with two No. 1 flood bulbs for the front light. Exposure 1/25 second at f.6.3 lens opening.

HOW many Snapshot Guild members have really good pictures of the family pets?—not just "pop shots" snapped hurriedly without much attention to idea or background, but pictures with expression and action that give a genuine key to the pet's character? Pictures like this are well worth all the planning and patience they require and indoors is a good place to take them because it is so much easier to associate the pet with a "home" background that identifies it as a member of the family. Frequently humor can be obtained in these indoor pictures—a frolicsome kitten tangled up in a chain of yarn and looking baffled, or snatching at the dribble of water from a faucet; a puppy barking excitedly at a rubber mouse or—as here—thoughtfully planning a bit of letter-writing. Pictures that present the animal in a definite mood or illuminate its character abound for the watchful photographer—the Scotty, like a little old man, his head cocked to one side and inquiry in his shaggy-browed eyes; the majestic Persian cat, dignified in repose, paws extended and chin sunk deep in the soft fur of his chest; the mournful-eyed bloodhound, the silken-coated collie with brown eyes sympathetic and thoughtful, the paddle-footed cocker spaniel pup almost lost between his enormous ears. There is a delightful field here, too, for the photographer who likes to experiment with lighting effects. Consider, for example, the long-furred white cat posed on a window-sill in silhouette, so that the outdoor light, diffused through the window curtains, surrounds him with a bright silken glow. Indoor animal pictures can be made either with daylight or amateur flood bulbs. Super-sensitive film should be used, because of its extra speed. Where direct sunlight streams into a room and illuminates the subject, exposures can be almost as brief as outdoors. Where sunlight is diffused through curtains, it should be aided with amateur flood-lights. At night, two big No. 2 amateur flood bulbs in reflectors four feet from the subject give enough light for snapshots with box cameras; the lens should be at its widest opening. With lenses marked in "f" numbers, f.11 at 1/25 second or f.6.3 at 1/50 second is about right. Dark-coated pets demand more light, or lights closer up. Portrait attachments can be used over the lens, for close-ups of small pets, without changing the exposure time. It's all simple—so fire away. John van Guilder.

Hudson 112 De Luxe Will Face Indianapolis Race

The Hudson Motor Car Company has been invited by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association to supply the pace-maker for the coming Memorial Day race at Indianapolis this year. The factory has selected a beautiful Ivory Convertible Coupe of the new Hudson 112 De Luxe type. This is the lightest model to be introduced by the Hudson Company and was publicly announced only a few days ago. The pace-maker car, as shown here, has just come off the factory line and is now being sent over the road to accumulate mileage in readiness for its fast run around the famous track. The pace-making car must lead the racing machines across the starting line at a speed in excess of 80 miles per hour. It will be driven by Stuart G. Baits, Vice President of the Hudson Company. This year's race promises to be the most eventful in the long series of 500-mile races. All restrictions have been lifted from the quality and quantity of fuel, permitting super-charging and higher compression ratios than ever before attempted. The bodies on the new racing cars will be lean and streamlined, because they will be single seaters, as it is no longer required to carry a riding mechanic. It is for this reason that Hudson has selected one of the sleekest of its models to blend with the picture presented by the racers. The car is being specially painted in Ivory with Chrome trim to blend in its proper place with what is probably America's most colorful sporting spectacle of the year.

National Air Mail Week in full swing, marking the 20th anniversary of air mail service in the U. S. . . . not such an infant in the industrial world after all. The first plane was built in Dayton, Ohio, under the direction of the Wright Brothers. The first flight was made in Kitty Hawk, N. C., in recognition of which the government placed its official "cachet." First plane is in London, now, after 20 years plans are underway to get it back so as to place it in the Smithsonian Institute, where it rightfully belongs.

It is a long lane that has no turn, and the humble Chinese have, in the past few weeks shown the Japs a bit of their own fighting spirit.

A bit of a poem with a very sweet thought behind the heading: "GOD TO A MOTHER" Do not fear To nod your head a bit, Lean back and sit comfortably Here against the pew. You had so many things to do About the house Before you came; There was the baby's bath, There was the game of dominoes you straightened out For Dick and Bill— Your hands are still Trembling, from rushing so. Before the time for you to go Relax, and rest a bit Before my sanctuary. You are so very tired, What if you miss a word or two, It is no sin. Oh have no fear, It is enough that you are here.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS CLAIM THAT WAR NOT WORTH THE PRICE

PHILADELPHIA, May 11. — Mrs. Della T. Blake, president of the American Gold Star mothers, who opened their annual convention Tuesday, considers herself "simply a mother, who gave up her son for a struggle that wasn't worth the price."

MEADOW BAPTIST NOTES

By Pastor J. N. Campbell The new Junior and Intermediate departments functioned last Sunday for the first time. Mrs. L. W. Watkins and Mrs. J. N. Campbell are the superintendents, respectively. The attendance in the two departments on Sunday morning amounted to half of the checked total, namely fifty. The grand total at Sunday School was 110. The Junior and Intermediate departments had one half, whereas the proper proportion for those two departments should not be over one fourth of the entire Sunday School, according to experts. All of which simply goes to show that the departmentizing of the whole Sunday School should double the entire attendance at once.

Intermediates meet this Friday night at the Parsonage for a department social, with the special purpose of organizing all classes.

Supt. C. E. Hicks secured thirty superb oak chairs for the Juniors. All are invited to the singing at the Meadow Baptist Church this Sunday afternoon.

The W. M. S., Mrs. Roscoe Moorhead, president, led last week in observance of May All-Church-Missionary-Night, with 43 in attendance.

The past week two study classes for Sunday School workers resulted in the following earning awards:

Juniors—Mesdames L. W. Watkins, John Gayle, and R. L. Montgobery, and Messrs. Tom Verner, Malcolm Timmons, and C. E. Hicks. Intermediates—Mesdames Woodrow Mitchell, T. E. Verner and J. N. Campbell, and Messrs. Jno. Roberts and R. H. Timmons.

DISTRICT MANAGER OF W. C. VISITS GROVE

Mrs. Jennie Lindbloom, District Manager of Amarillo visited the Brownfield Grove No. 462 last week. She gave a splendid talk to the grove. Miss Ruth Brazleton was initiated into the grove. The drill team is working hard to get ready to go to Oklahoma City, May 31. The drill team musician, Mrs. Pat Culver, being absent, Mrs. Ruth Moore was at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett L. Washburn of Napa, Calif., visited the week end with Mrs. Washburn's brother, Mr. Raymond Taylor and family.

Paul Langford was a business visitor in Brownfield, Manday.

METHODIST W. M. S.

The society met at the church Monday at 3:00 p. m. The lesson was from The World Outlook on sixty years in China. Our progress in China during these sixty years has been very gratifying, but we are wondering how much will survive the terrible war now raging in that land where there was so much promise until lately. Our fine schools have suffered destruction in some cases, the buildings used as Japanese quarters, housing horses and war materials. Our missionaries are staying on, that they may help in relief work and in any way possible.

Mrs. Carpenter led the lesson, assisted by Mrs. Webber, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Arnett and Mrs. Toone.

Those present were, Mesdames Carpenter, Webber, Thompson, Jesse Cox, Lucky, Grandma Cox, Lloyd, Goodman, Arnett, Williams, Longbrake, and Toone.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

The parsonage family has been quarantined, but now that is over, and we will have all the regular services of the Church this week end. The pastor hopes to have a good attendance of the membership and as many visitors as will come. We deeply appreciate the large number of friends of the Church who attend our services, and bid them a continual welcome.

The program for Adult Church School Institute will appear in another place. All adults of all classes, both in this Church and all others are welcome and urged to attend.

There is a class and a group for all ages of people and you are invited to find you a place, study, work and feel at home. Bring a friend.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

AUSTIN—"You can't sell watermelons to folks who are still wearing overcoats," sagely remarked Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul, who this week was serving his 19th term as Acting Governor of Texas, during the absence in California of Gov. Allred. Woodul was commenting upon the unusual slowness with which the apathetic Texas democracy is warming up to the 1938 campaigning season. The politicians are all suffering from the same trouble. Even in the Governor's race, the public's interest has been so slow to warm up that Ernest Thompson and Bill McCraw, leading candidates, have been filling only skeletonized engagement schedules, appearing at a few barbecues, community celebrations, and civic club meetings, and delaying their programs of daily campaign itineraries until after June 1. The unusually cool weather, economic conditions which have finally begun to make Texas feel the recession, and much rain which has kept the farmers in their fields between showers, trying to catch up on their spring work, and difficulty in raising campaign funds, are causes to which the hotel lobby political experts around Austin are attributing the late opening of campaign fireworks.

ALLRED STILL ACTIVE

The withdrawal of Gov. Allred from active participation as a third term candidate did not take the Governor out of politics by any means, and behind the scenes, reports here indicate, Allred is moving pawns in an effort to aid several candidates, seeking also to pay off some political scores by opposing others. Austin buzzed this week with a story of a rift between Allred and Senator Morris Roberts, of Pettus. Roberts has been active in supporting Coke Stevenson of Junction, for lieutenant governor. Allred has no love for Stevenson, who was speaker when some of the Allred tax proposals went down to defeat. The Governor is politically fond of Sen. G. H. Nelson, of Tahoka, an opponent of Stevenson for the Lieutenant Governorship. The story here has it that Allred called Roberts into his office, vigorously remonstrated with him for supporting Stevenson, and succeeded in making the South Texas senator so angry that he went out and got Stevenson, took him in his automobile, and made a week's personal tour of Roberts' district with the ex-speaker.

This week brought out an announcement from Ex-Senator George Purl of Dallas, as a new entrant in this race. Purl announced he would open next Saturday at his home town of Georgetown, with Ex-Gov. Dan Moody, likewise a Georgetown-

AID OUT LAND OFFICE
The race for Land Commissioner, while not usually regarded as a major post, is attracting attention throughout the State this year, and promises to develop into a healthy political fight. Land Commissioner Bill McDonald, incumbent seeking a second term, is the target for three opponents, and the policy of McDonald in leasing state school lands on a low cash and high royalty basis, instead of the traditional low royalty and high cash bid plan, is the issue. McDonald stoutly defends his policy while land grabbing and vacancy hunting are also hot issues.

Out of the West comes Morris Browning, son of a distinguished legislator and former lieutenant governor of Texas, as a candidate for Commissioner, pledged to end vacancy racketeering, and offering a constructive plan whereby the Legislature can validate the titles to patented State lands in the names of present holders, while at the same time, protecting the State school funds against loss of their interests in valuable land vacancies near oil-producing areas. Citizens and newspapers in West Texas and South where the vacancy hunters have operated extensively, are tremendously interested in this race, and from them, Browning claims strong support. He pledges a personal examination of every vacancy application, in the light of his knowledge as an expert surveyor.

Other opponents of McDonald include Bascom Giles of Austin, a former employe for 17 years of the Land Office, who bears the endorsement of former Commissioner Walker. A fourth candidate is Larry Mills of Dallas. All the opposition plans to use records of the Senate investigation of McDonald's office held this Spring, as the basis for campaign materials.

NOTES

No flattery of the intelligence of Texas voters is implied by the activity of the type of politician who brings out an obscure, unknown, candidate with a name similar to that of some prominent candidate, in the hope that the people are so dumb they cannot distinguish between the two, and may elect their man, believing him to be somebody else. Examples this week include the announcement of "Vernest O. Thompson," a tilling station employe of Dallas, who announced for governor, admitting he was put in the race by a Gladewater oil man. He is listed in the city directory at Dallas as "V. O'Neal Thompson." A similar entrant is "James A. Ferguson," of Bell county, said to be a cousin of Jim Ferguson, who hopes his name and the ignorance of his fellow citizens may, by some miracle, make him Governor of Texas. Regents of the University of Texas meeting Saturday, have narrowed their choice for a new $17,500 a year president to six candidates, it was reported, but it may be several months yet before a final selection is made.

Mrs. Bill Culver was painfully hurt last week when she fell, and has been confined to her bed part of the time. We are happy to say the doctor thinks she will be walking again soon.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Newton are the proud parents of a son, who will be known as Otis Zane.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stricklin Jr. were visitors in Seagraves, Sunday evening.

4 Points to Consider When Buying a Range

1. Cooking-Baking Ability
2. Operating Cost
3. Convenience
4. Dependability

R-879 cream-white; R-869 pure white
The Mark of Quality

1. COOKING AND BAKING ABILITY—No other range, regardless of the fuel used, will beat today's Perfection with the fast, clean High-Power burners, so far as quick, intense cooking heat and instant control for any degree of heat are concerned.

For satisfactory baking results there must be a vented oven and a great volume of moving heated air. That's why most Perfection users are famous for their fine bakery. It's the "Live-Heat" principle of the Perfection oven that does it.

2. OPERATING COST—Kerosene is the low-cost modern fuel. Cooking and baking with a modern Perfection oil stove is economical. Ask people who have learned from experience. And be sure to get the facts about today's High-Power burners.

3. CONVENIENCE—Kerosene is the easy-to-get low-cost fuel. There's no installation problem, and a Perfection is easily moved wherever you wish to use it. A convenience feature of the beautiful porcelain enameled Perfection Range shown above, highly appreciated by homemakers who really USE their ranges, is the elbow-high oven, eliminating stooping and heavy lifting.

4. DEPENDABILITY—Need we say anything about the dependability of Perfection stoves? We think not. Just ask friends who have used theirs for a quarter of a century or longer.

Come in and see the latest Perfections, stoves with one to five burners and several styles of complete ranges. Easy terms, and liberal trade-in allowance for your old stove.

"HIAWATHA"

By Charles N. Daniels (Neil Moret)

CHARLEY DANIELS was born in Leavenworth, Kan. A year later the family moved to St. Joseph, Mo. His father and mother were musical.

The rhythm of the train provoked a tune in his mind, and the title came from the name-sign on the station. His girl liked it, but not the publishers.

BIRTH OF A SONG

From ASCAP Files
By Joseph R. Fiesler and Paul Carruth

He tried everything to encourage the boy, but he did not become serious until about 1902. At that time his girl's name was played in a local paper.

As a last resort, he sent it to his friend Sousa, who came through like a friend.

He was not much older when he became an accompanist to a beautiful young soprano and fell in love with her.

Daniels' three months of suspense were rewarded by the international success of the song. Sadly enough, however, he did not marry the girl who inspired the song.

She went for the summer to her father's hotel in a small town in Kansas where the loveliest boy followed her.

Membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers followed, and many songs under various pseudonyms are in the repertoire of Charles N. Daniels, who attributes his success to the help of his fellow member the late John Philip Sousa.

BEER STATESMANSHIP

From The Emporia Daily Gazette

It has become obvious ever since the repeal of prohibition that the American brewers were determined not to make the mistake that the brewers made in pre-prohibition days. Then they tied up tightly with the distillers and beer was classed indiscriminately with liquor. The brewers are now trying to get away from the distillers, and a year ago they adopted an independent code, pledged themselves to "conduct their business in conformity with established laws and in co-operation with the authorities." Further, they pledged themselves to support "duly constituted authorities for the elimination of anti-social conditions in the beer business. They pledged themselves to get behind the great body of retailers who sell beer as law abiding citizens" and also to back up authorities in preventing "beer sales to minors or persons who have drunk to excess." The code aimed high.

It was obvious that Kansas is the one place in the United States where the United States Brewers' Foundation, which was back of the code, with offices in New York, could come and find a fertile field to try out the code. They sent a representative of the Foundation to Kansas. He went to work in a practical manner. He surveyed the beer business in the large counties of Kansas where, if anywhere, the code would crack. He went to the sheriffs and the county attorneys in these counties. He went to the Attorney General of Kansas and told the law enforcing officers everywhere that he wanted their help and he wanted to help them clean up questionable beer parlors, places where they sold beer to minors, to drunks, where they kept open after the hours set down by the local authorities, where the beer dealers sold them, and in general, this agent of the brewers back of the code made a genuine and certainly an effective campaign in Kansas to weed out the bad practices which tend to grow up where hard illegal liquor mixes itself with the sale of beer.

The Gazette knows definitely two cases where evidence was furnished by the Brewers' Foundation to close up certain whiskey joints. With the full co-operation of the local officers and the representatives of the Brewers' Foundation, public enforcement of the Kansas law controlling the sale of beer can be had. That co-operation should be given.

There is no reason why the beer business should not be conducted as any other commercial business—breakfast food, toothpaste, tenderized ham, packaged coffee or shoes. But it must get away and evidently it is trying to get away from the stigma that always will rest upon hard liquor.

The representatives of the Brewers' Foundation in Kansas wrote to The Gazette:

"We stand ready to co-operate with Kansas officials in the enforcement of the law. We have laid before officials evidence of violations of the liquor laws and some definite result have been attained. We pledge our continued efforts."

This is not idle perfillage. Apparently the Brewers' Foundation means business.

Legionaires to Entertain National President

LUBBOCK, May 17.—Past Commander Malcolm Thomason of William Guyton Howard Post of The American Legion at Brownfield has been appointed on the reception committee to serve at the 19th District Convention of the Legion and Auxiliary to which Allen Bros. Post at Lubbock will be host Saturday and Sunday, May 21st and 22nd, according to announcement by J. A. Raley, Jr., Chairman of the Reception Group. Each Commander has been asked to name an additional member from his Post on the Committee.

Big features of the Convention will be an address by Daniel J. Doherty of Massachusetts, National Commander of the Legion, at Allen Bros. Hall at 8:30 O'Clock Saturday night. That meeting will be public and A. C. Jackson, Commander of the Lubbock Post, has extended an invitation to every citizen of the area to attend.

A dance Saturday night at the Hilton Hotel, the option of a Bible Class or golf Sunday morning, a chow line at noon Sunday and a business session in the afternoon with a program will be other convention features.

Doherty is to travel by air from Indianapolis, National Legion Headquarters, to Amarillo and by automobile from there to Lubbock. He had planned a visit here several months ago, but cancelled the appearance by advice of his physician. Doherty, it was explained, was still weakened from an illness and had arranged his itinerary without realizing the immensity of distance in Texas.

Also planning to be here for the event are Department Commander W. J. Danforth Adjutant Fred Young District Commander Jim Willson of Floydada and delegations from New Mexico and adjoining districts in Texas.

The District Convention originally was scheduled at Post. Members of the Legion post there, however, initiated the movement to advance the date and to transfer the meeting to Lubbock after learning of the National Commander's planned visit.

Applewhite Buys Out A Brownfield Firm

J. K. Applewhite closed a deal last week for himself and associates, Borden Davis of Tahoka and W. C. McKinzie of Fletcher, Oklahoma, whereby they become the owners of the Farmers' Implement Co. of Brownfield, owned principally by T. C. Edwards.

This Company, as the name implies, handles International farm implements, including Farmall Tractors. The new owners took charge of the business Monday. Borden Davis we understand, will be the business manager and Mr. McKinzie will head the sales department.

Mr. Davis' family will not move over from Tahoka until after the close of school. Mr. McKinzie and family, who formerly resided here but who now reside at Fletcher, Oklahoma, are preparing to move soon from that place to Brownfield.

Mr. Applewhite, of course, retains his implement and tractor business here. He has been doing a thriving and prosperous business here the past several years, and his many friends throughout Lynn county will be delighted at this expansion of his business activities.—Tahoka News.

All West Texas Field Day, Fri., June 3, '38

The annual feeders' day at the Spur Experiment Station, a branch of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, will be held at Spur on Friday, June 3. The occasion is the completion of the current year's cattle feeding experiments. The theme of feeding studies at the Spur Station is intelligent utilization of West Texas feeds in fattening native cattle, placing special emphasis on silage crops and products of the cotton farm.

In order for West Texas to become a profitable feeding center it is becoming generally recognized that with our limited production of grain it is necessary to develop a feeding program in which large quantities of rough feed may be used. This means the use of rations high in roughage supplemented by generous amounts of cottonseed meal or cotton seed. One hundred thirty head of experimental cattle on feed at the Spur Station show that well finished cattle can be produced on silage and the products of the cotton farm without the use of grain.

Other features of the feeding experiments are a thorough study of vitamin A deficiencies occurring under Texas conditions, and the possibilities of fattening calves from the small dairy herds on farms.

Those interested will have the opportunity to go over the soil and water conservation and pasture improvement experiments.

L. J. Dumond was a business visitor from Lubbock, Wednesday.
