

BEATING THE "SUMMER DROUTH"

By T. C. Richardson, Secretary Feeders-Breeders Ass'n

One of the Southwest's climatic peculiarities is so common that "the summer drouth" is a standard part of our vocabulary. It doesn't occur at the same time in every section, and occasionally doesn't occur at all, but as a rule there is a period when rainfall is deficient, pastures dry up, and crops suffer to a greater or less degree. This is the time when milk flow falls off and growing livestock slow up in gains. When either happens the loss is final. At considerable pains and expense the milk flow can be partly restored and normal growth will again begin when adequate feed is supplied. But the milk that might have been produced and the weight that might have been gained has disappeared down the inexorable and irreclaimable corridors of time.

That's why so many good farmers now hedge against the summer drouth by providing Sudan grass or other cultivated pastures, or keep a supply of ensilage in reserve. It is far cheaper in the long run to fence a field of Sudan so it can be grazed, than to let the growing animals take a set-back or let the milk fall off.

"I had eight acres of corn that was 'firing up' so I dug a trench and put in it," said a Guadalupe county farmer at Luling. "My pasture was dry, and I fed the corn to my cows right along out of the silo and kept the cream checks up to normal. Before the corn was all fed up my hegari also began to fire before the grain was ripe. I cut that and ensiled it in the same trench. My cows never fell off in their milk all summer, and the trench, which my son and I dug in half a day, made me many times its cost before the summer was over. I'll have a bigger one ready next year."

Sudan grass at certain stages is high in protein and next to alfalfa is probably the best and cheapest feed for growing pigs and lambs. It has become customary throughout the Southwest to carry spring litters of pigs through the summer on Sudan, if alfalfa or sweet clover is not available. A small amount of grain along with the Sudan pasture may be used to advantage if available, but if grain has to be bought at a high price it may be more profitable to grow the pigs out on pasture at the expense of a little more time to attain feeding size.

Another saving practice which is coming more and more into vogue is that of turning the farm flock of sheep into the corn field to graze the grass and weeds which spring up after the last cultivation. It serves the double purpose of weed and grass control in the field and relieving the pasture of its load for a few weeks, and the damage to the standing corn is negligible. If some of the old sheep develop a habit of riding down the corn take them out and leave the field to the lambs.

"I am building small trench silos for emergency summer use," says Robert Lindley, ace Jersey breeder of Hopkins county, Texas. "Since ensilage spoils more rapidly in hot weather, and has to be fed to a greater depth each day to avoid loss, it is economy to have small narrow silos for summer, while the main supply is stored in the large trenches for winter use. They cost so little to build and fill that it's mighty cheap insurance against feed shortage at any time."

Dairy farmers in the cow testing associations are also learning that a regular supply of green pasture or succulent feed is the only fair way to learn whether a cow has a profitable productive capacity. Many a cow has been condemned without having a chance to show what she could do, because so seldom have they had the right kind of feed throughout an entire lactation period.

More than 183,000 trees will be barged to Treasure Island for transplanting to beautify the site of the Golden Gate International Exposition.

Farmers Advised to Brand Their Cattle

"Owing to the fact that there are more cattle thefts in Terry county than for years, I am advising the farmers of Terry county to brand their cattle, whether they have one or 100 head," stated Sheriff Ches Gore, this week. He further stated that he knew this would be a lot of trouble to some, but when thieves appear and take half, three fourths or all your cattle in one night, it is time for action. Cattle can be transported to Fort Worth with a truck in one night.

This is a safety measure, he stated. It will not always help the officers, but is the best measure possible. Enlarging, he said: "If the farmer cannot do the work themselves, they may apply for aid in branding to the Sheriff's department."

Rain Last Week Was Great Help to Terry

Rains ranging from a half to an inch over the county week before last, was sufficient in most instances for the time being to plant cotton, corn and feed stuff. A lot of this planting came up, but some of it could not have stood very long. With near an inch and a quarter last week, all that planting came up, and everything is growing like it was in a hot house.

Since the rains last week, farmers are fast finishing planting. Indeed we have heard many say his week, and even last Saturday they were done planting, and that you can almost see the cotton and other field stuff growing.

Some of the farmers we have talked with do not want too much rain during the growing season, as we now have such a short season, it will, they say be better to have a small stalk that will mature the bolts instead of keeping on growing. However, they will have to have plenty rain to make feed as the bottom season is none to sufficient.

Local School Bonds To Be Refunded

AUSTIN, July 6—Attorney General William McCraw today approved a $25,000 refunding bond issue for the Brownfield Independent School District of Terry county.

The issue, consisting of 25 bonds of $1000 each and bearing 4 1/4 per cent interest, was ordered by the Board of Trustees of the district May 25, 1938 and is dated March 1, 1938. The bonds mature in groups of $1000 to $2000 March 15, 1942 to 1962 inclusively.

McCraw said his approval of the issue was based on the fact that the district has $2,433,600 in taxable valuations on which a 15 cent per $100 tax has been levied to retire the issue.

Meadow-Anton Editors Here For Harp Singing

Editor H. G. Richards and wife, of the Anton News, were among those here for the Sacred Harp Singing convention Saturday and Sunday. They were accompanied by A. E. Richards editor of the Meadow Star, who called on the Herald, and to visit their son Edwin, who is an employee of the Herald.

Both the Richards editors are very fond of the old Harp songs, and often go much further to take them in. It is said that the Richards family are all good singers.

Foot Badly Crushed in Power Lift of Tractor

We were informed this past week that Leon Bandy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bandy of the Tokio section, got his foot hung in the power lift of a road tractor, with the result that the member was badly crushed. He was brought to the local hospital for treatment, where he is doing as nicely as could be expected.

Miss Ruby Nell Smith is taking a six weeks summer course at the Tech. She is majoring in journalism.

Fire Chief Jones to Go To Water Convention

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—1938 (Special). More than 600 city officials and water works engineers are scheduled to attend the annual convention of the Southwest Section of the American Water Works Association here October 17-20. B. M. Cunningham of Oklahoma City, Water Superintendent, in charge of arrangements, said today.

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma will send delegates. Scheduled to represent Brownfield is E. D. Jones, city water superintendent.

The convention program will be unique in the annals of the Association, combining studies in public health and public safety with those relating to the technical operation of water plants.

Highlight of the program will be a thorough study and discussion of the problem of fluorine in city water supplies, a problem common to many cities in the southwest. High fluorine content in drinking water results in mottled, discolored teeth among children. State and Federal health officers and practicing physicians and dentists will join water works men in discussing the fluorine nuisance.

Another Convention feature will be presentation of a complete plan for mobilization of city facilities in case of a major catastrophe. G. R. McAlpine, Oklahoma City fire chief, will show how equipment and man power of public and private agencies can be mobilized and assigned to duty quickly in beating emergencies caused by fires, tornadoes, floods, and other disasters.

The convention also will provide delegates with information on municipal and criminal liability involved in the operation of water plants.

Nelson's Friends Here Pushing His Candidacy

It has been said that apparently Senator G. H. Nelson's friends in West Texas are not pushing his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor like they are in the eastern part of the state. This may be on account of two or more things. One, being overconfident of his election. Second, that they feel sure the people all over the state feel the same way as they do out here about the matter and let it go at that.

But his many friends around here are not going to let him lose on account of any help they may lend, and have contracted for space in the Herald for the next two weeks to call the people's attention to the candidacy of the south plains man. These men will be glad to furnish anyone who is not already acquainted with Senator Nelson, literature about his candidacy.

Will state that the Herald received this week a copy of Mr. Nelson's old home town paper, the Hughes Springs News-Era, that gives the history of the native Cass countian from his birth to the time he left there, illustrated with many photos, and comment by other papers. Nelson opened his campaign at his old home town.

Large Crowd Attends Harp Singers Meet

Hundreds of people who enjoy the old songs of their childhood from the pages of the old Sacred Harp, gathered here last Saturday and Sunday. They were here by the hundreds from the South Plains and West Texas, but there were visitors from as far as Dallas, Tarrant and Hill counties. And they seemed to have a fine time.

Two incidences to illustrate this: It is said that an old gentleman from Dallas and three local people left the building in a group Sunday afternoon, still singing, as they went to their cars. One old gentleman and his son were here from Covington in Hill county. His daughter heard it announced over the radio Friday night that the Harp Singers were meeting here Saturday. They got up for an early start Saturday, and were here by eleven o'clock.

C. Sears, one of the leading local promoters said local merchants were very liberal in sending boxes and bags of food to help out in the entertainment of the visitors, which was highly appreciated by the committee on entertainment. Saturday's sessions were held at the Methodist church and Sunday at the high school auditorium.

Donated food that was left over was donated to the family of the lady who had to have her limb amputated at the local hospital last week, according to Mr. Sears.

Old Employee Visits The Herald Office

We were pleased to have an old employee, Albert Curry, of Dallas, call for awhile and talk over old times with us this week. We learned Albert the printer's trade when his father and family lived here, Rev. Curry, then being Baptist Missionary of the Brownfield District. Albert was one of the most faithful employees we ever had. He now holds a fine job down in a larger Dallas shop as linotypist.

He and wife were here visiting his sister, Mrs. Borden Davis. Mr. Davis and family moved here recently from Tahoka when he and associates bought out the Edwards Implement Co.

Sawyer Family Takes In Cowboy Reunion

Among the others who took in the cowboy reunion and rodeo at Stamford during the holiday, were Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Sawyer. They were accompanied by son, U. D. Sawyer, wife and daughter, Miss Fern of Tatum, N. M., who was to represent Brownfield in the Rodeo. M. B. is one of the members of the association.

Following the reunion, Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer will continue their trip to Marlin, where they will take the baths before returning to Brownfield. Among others who went to Stamford, were Jim Cousineau and Miss Orvalene Price.

Collegiate Dancer "Most Artistic"

Creation and artistic execution of modern dance won for Palma Robinson of Coleman, Texas, the annual Leman Award which is given to the senior making the most artistic contribution to Texas State College for Women in Denton. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Robinson, she has studied dancing in the department of Physical Education throughout her college career and has been presented in numerous programs throughout the state. The medal has been won by writers, artists and musicians, but this is the first time it has gone to a dancer.

Brownfield Funeral Home in New Location

Last week we could have made a "scoop" on telling the readers about the moving of the Brownfield Funeral Home from the location on east Main to the Ditto residence, but we preferred not to violate the confidence of a good friend and customer. In fact, it was a small ad in the Herald week before last that rented the new place, according to Manager, Roy Collier.

In going into the new home at the corner of Tate and First Street (highway 51) the funeral home management has found an ideal location under as near ideal conditions as it would be possible outside of a building not erected for that purpose. The Ditto residence is a large building with wide grassy lawns, covering three 50x140 feet lots. Of the six large rooms, only a small portion in the rear of the home will be reserved by Mr. and Mrs. Elton Brewer, Mr. Brewer being one of the morticians.

The living room and connecting dining room of the Ditto home makes a large and desirable place for private and semi-private funerals, should the family desire, and this leaves plenty room for near relatives to use as bed rooms and lounging rooms, should they desire them.

Together with roomy and pleasing arrangements of the home and premises, there is an abundance of parking room, and sidewalks are being constructed where needed to aid the morticians, as well as relatives of the dead in getting about the premises conveniently. The garage is being enlarged, and one ambulance will be kept there, and the other down town.

It is proposed by the Brownfield Funeral Home to some day, in the not great distant future, to erect that ideal and modern funeral home.

Indeed lots have been purchased covering a quarter block at the corner of north Second and Powell streets for that purpose. This site is convenient to most of the city and the churches, yet far enough from the business section to be quiet and restful.

The Herald congratulates the Brownfield Funeral Home on their forward step, and also for their future intentions of giving the city a real modern funeral home—built for that purpose. We call your attention to their announcement ad in this issue.

Brownfield School Gets Four New Credits

According to Supt. M. L. H. Baze of the local schools, word has been received from the department of education at Austin to the effect that Brownfield has been allowed four new credits of affiliation following the past term of school. One additional in instrumental music, making three in that department. Another unit was allowed in General Mathematics, scholarship 1/2 unit, and Home Economics department was granted 1 1/2 units additional.

This makes more than 30 units of credits granted the local schools according to Mr. Baze. As we understand it, during the height of the depression, salaries, especially in the grades had to be dropped so low that we lost our membership in the Association of Southern Schools and Colleges, and have never recovered the position, as we are still too low on salaries in some departments.

But we are working to that end. However, as we understand the matter, schools, colleges and universities in Texas at least, are glad to take our students without examination, knowing the work that is being done here.

Tahoka Publisher Gets Leg Broken

The Herald is very sorry to learn that Editor E. I. Hill, of the Lynn County News, had the misfortune of getting his leg broken Wednesday as he stepped off the curb into the street. Not seeing a car that was approaching, the driver unavoidably hit Mr. Hill, breaking his leg just below the knee.

An ambulance rushed Editor Hill to a Lubbock hospital as soon as possible. On the outskirts of Lubbock, highway patrolmen met the ambulance and cleared the path for it to the hospital. Mr. Hill, who is 63, was resting as well as could be expected after the operation.

Mrs. W. H. Collins and Mrs. J. L. Cruce and Miss Mildred Herod of Snyder were Lubbock visitors, Tuesday afternoon.

Pen and Pencil Offer Has Been Extended

Owing to the fact that for more than half of the period we were offering pen and pencil sets free with a year's subscription to the Herald, was very dry, and the farmers especially were averse to parting with their money, we have decided to extend the offer until the present supply on hand is exhausted.

Then too, for most of the first part of the campaign, the farmers had not received their parity checks, and slowed up the response. For the past week or two, renewals and new readers have been coming in at a satisfactory rate. Remember, when the present supply of less than 50 sets are gone, the offer will cease for the present.

If you live in the trade territory, you get the Herald at the regular price, $1.50, and you get a fountain pen and pencil set absolutely free. If you live out of the Brownfield trade territory, send $2.00 with 5c extra for postage and packing in either case.

Any newspaper auditor will tell you that a weekly newspaper such as the Herald should not sell for less than $1.50 with the present price of newsprint and other supplies. To sell for less, one has to make it up in some other department of the paper.

However, to make the Herald doubly worth your money, we make this free gift to hasten renewals that we might not get until fall.

Cotton Consumption Trend is Downward

COLLEGE STATION — "Cotton producers face a problem of competition that will probably be as far reaching in its effects as the decline of foreign markets," states W. E. Morgan, economist of the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College.

I refer to the comparatively recent development of fabrics produced from synthetic fibers.

The 20 year trend in per capita cotton consumption in the United States remained fairly constant, and in 1929 stood at 29.4 pounds compared to 1.08 pounds for rayon. After 1929 cotton consumption dropped sharply but returned in 1936 and 1937 to near the 1929 level. Rayon consumption, on the other hand, has increased steadily since 1918 and at present is nearly twice as high as in 1929.

Cotton prices through the 20 year period have declined in about the same manner as rayon consumption increased, but, according to Mr. Morgan, it should not be inferred that the increased use of rayon is solely responsible for the downward trend in cotton prices.

A Good Response to Candidate Speakings

It is said that with the exception of Poole, there has been good turnout to the other candidate speaking dates. The Poole section in the first place is not very thickly populated, and in the second place it so happened that the people were very busy at Wellman tonight.

We understand that a large and enthusiastic crowd were on hand at Union, possibly that precinct has so many local people running for commissioner. A fine crowd is expected at Wellman tonight.

Candidates for representative and other offices who came in Saturday and even on Tradesday, are not fairing so well. A mere handful are willing to go over to the bandstand and listen to their description of their special fitness for office, and what they stand for.

Most of the people both in town and the country are now employed and they have very little time to sit and listen, no matter how well they wish to do so. That, in a nutshell, perhaps is the reason they prefer to wait until the candidates come to their communities at night, when they are not busy.

"TOO MANY TRING TO SELL AMERICA SHORT"

CLEVELAND, June 18.—L. J. Taber, National Grange master, said tonight "The great trouble of the present hour is that too many people are selling America short."

The Columbus, Ohio, farm leader told a radio network audience: "Too many crape-audgers and prophets of doom are talking about the dark side of the picture. Too few are letting in the sunshine of truth—that America is basically sound."

Will Brownfield Get Any Federal Funds?

Some of the business men of the city have asked us of late if Brownfield was preparing to get any of the Federal Funds out of the three and a half billion-lending program appropriated by the late session of congress. Frankly, we do not know, as we have talked with none of the officials of the city.

Some of those who have talked with us, wondered why we could not get some more paving projects at least, and get some of our most traveled streets that were not paved last time out of the mire in rainy weather and out of the dust in dry weather. The Herald believes the proper authorities to see about this matter is the mayor and city council. Meet with these men some time and talk the matter over with them.

We have known these men for years, and we know that they are not only reasonable, but willing to abide by the desires of the people who pay the taxes, yet not a one of them is extravagant in making promises, that they do not intend to fulfill, or to turn down reasonable requests that will benefit all the people.

Others have mentioned our city-county park improvement. All of us know that money leaves Brownfield every week end to make excursions to nearby counties, where the people can find shade and water. There may be trillions of ants and flies to annoy, but people just like to sprawl around on green grass under a shade tree and spread their lunch for nourishment under trees once in awhile.

Of course the after cost in upkeep is something to consider, but a number of the neighboring towns have had state designation, which may or may not mean that the State shares in the upkeep. That is something we have not gone into.

Perhaps there are some sewerage and water extensions that could be made cheaply with these funds. We do not know just what the demand is in that line in Brownfield. But as stated above, a good neighborly talk with the city council is the way to start the ball to rolling. In fact, they may have such projects under consideration already for all we know.

It seems that the Commissioners Court have under consideration a number of things, especially in the way of road building, such as farm to market roads, while the getting is good.

Good Average Crowd In For Tradesday

There was not an extra large crowd here Tuesday for the stepped-up Tradesday date, but it was surprising the amount of people there were on hand following a three day holiday period. However, many of the farmers are through planting, and waiting for stuff to get large enough to cultivate. Some of the farmers report to us that they are knifing their crops.

Besides a number of sales, a goodly portion of the merchants had inviting specials covering Saturday and Tradesday period, and we were pleased to see a goodly number of shoppers in each store, who really seemed to be buying instead of "shopping around," as they came out with packages to store in their cars.

We have talked with many of the merchants the past week or two, and all admit that business is really picking up some, since the uptrend over the nation as a whole. We have also talked with many from other sections of Texas, as well as other states, and all agreed that the bottom seemed to have been reached in June, and we are again climbing fast, and they predict a fine fall and winter business.

FIRST TRUCKS BRINGING IN MILK

The Spur Cheese Factory will begin operations today, and by the time this issue of the Times gets to our readers, probably trucks will be arriving with the first supply of milk. Eight routes have been outlined and delivery trucks will make these routes this morning for the first time.

In speaking with F. G. Collier, who will act as business manager for the cheese factory, he stated that they want to serve the farmers in the community in the very best manner. Milk will be bought strictly on a butterfat basis, and the cheese factory will begin paying 27 cents per pound butter fat basis for while milk.

Money Price and Bill Byron took in the celebration at Post. Money entered a race horse, which we learn lead the field, getting a full length bugle the first few jumps.

We note that Col. E. I. Hill copied our reply to his last, and rested a week on his reply. Expect a jolting rejoinder from our "special providence" man next week.

Brownfield was an admirer of the "haunted village" and the "deserted mining town" on the 4th. Didn't even turn on the traffic lights all day. Again, why can't Brownfield have a killing once in awhile? Next year the 3rd will come on Monday (Tradesday) and the 4th on Tuesday. Why not a double header.

While the rains of last week brought the products of the soil out abundantly, it has been so hot and dry this week that farmers say their little grain sorghum crops are not doing so well, and a cooling shower would certainly help matters. Hot weather, however, seems to help king cotton to do the fast growing act.

"The so-called depression beginning in 1929 and existing to a greater or lesser extent to the present time... was a breakdown of an economic system controlled by economic power. The government was not reaching the great masses of the people. It was stopped and the profits went into the coffers of a very few persons. Anything which brings about relief for the great mass of the people is neither Communist nor radical nor red. It is the only hope on earth for a democracy."—Senator

Conservation Speakers Urge That Trees of Nation Be Saved to Generation

DENTON—A strong plea to protect and conserve the nation's trees will be made by speakers on forestry July 6-9 at the North Texas State Teachers College. The talks are a part of the unique course in conservation of natural resources being given this summer at the college—the first college course of its kind in the South. Twenty-four conservation leaders are on the lecture schedule, which is open to the public.

Forestry speakers include Dr. H. N. Wheeler, chief lecturer for the U. S. Forest Service, Washington, D. C.; Dr. E. O. Sieke, director of the Texas Forest Service, College Station; E. L. Demmon, director of the Southern Experiment Station, New Orleans and L. L. Bishop, national forest supervisor, Houston.

The pictures above contrast a beautiful stand of pine with the destruction created by a single fire. In the upper picture there is grass and leaf debris on the forest floor, and systematic clearing has been done to give commercial trees "breathing" and growing space to insure maximum development. In the lower picture, stately trees have been destroyed, erosion has been induced, and wild life has been eliminated.

No. 1 hard-luck candidate. First, his daughter is stricken seriously with pneumonia, and he had to cancel a speaking engagement to fly to her bedside. Then, Hunter himself was stricken with a nervous breakdown from overwork, and now the erstwhile gubernatorial candidate is named as the defendant in a $5,000 suit, brought by Kent Watson, former Hunter publicity man. "I fired Watson for good reasons; I tried to have been moved out earlier," Hunter said this week. He further charged that Watson was working for McCraw all the time he was on the Hopper payroll. Hunter announced that he would plea his own case, and added that, "It would please me very much to have (Bill) McCraw on the other side and openly appear against me in trial of this case."—Abilene Times.

Unless men find some way of understanding each other, their boasted civilization is doomed, and war with all its modern refinements will settle that question decisively. So director of the Committee on Cultural Relations Hubert Herring, executive Relations with Latin America, in the current Rotarian Magazine.

"Here we are, two billion strong, increasing at the rate of 30 million each year," he observes, "and living on Iowa farms, in Tokyo tenements, on Russian steppes, on Argentine pampas, in African jungles, in Park Avenue apartments. We don't get along very well together."

While there is nothing new about misunderstandings between men, wars are no longer the cozy family affairs they once were, says the author. Today, he finds, they are rooted deep in the dogma of superiority, varying languages, differing customs, historic grievances, and economic conflicts. Improved transportation and communication, he adds, have huddled peoples together, thereby accentuating the possibilities of confusion and controversy.

"The wonder is not that the peoples of the earth get along so badly together, but, rather, that they manage at all," Author Herring declares. "History, biology, and evolution have heaped us up together on this relatively inconspicuous planet. We speak 2,792 different languages. We live in some 70 separate nations, each with its pride, its history, its flag. We are cut off by lines of custom, habit, and religion. We are divided by historic enmities, the issues of which are obscured by time. And we are snapping at each other."

"It would require a brain trust with Albert Einstein, Sigmund Freud, Charles A. Beard, William James, and H. G. Wells to hunt out all the reasons why we of this cantankerous human race do not get along more amicably," believes this educator. Yet, he concludes, men are confronted today with a choice between two possibilities—to understand or misunderstand, to cooperate or perish.

Parks Highway Ass'n Meets at Levelland

The International Parks Highway Association, which for the past year has been promoting a route from the Canadian Border south through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Eastern Colorado, the Oklahoma Panhandle and Western Texas to the Rio Grande in the immediate vicinity of the Big Bend International Park, will hold its annual meeting in Levelland on Tuesday, July 12.

By annual meeting is meant the gathering each Summer at which time the officers are elected for the coming year. Six meetings have been held within the past year, the most notable being that held a few months ago at the CCC headquarters in the Chisos Mountains of the proposed United States-Mexico International Park, which is to cover a large, scenic and mountainous area on both sides of the Rio Grande.

The success of the venture is assured by subsequent locations of the route through Texas by the State Highway Commission and the enthusiastic co-operation of the states through which the route extends north. A similar organization exists in North and South Dakotas, north of the Black Hills and which has asked that it be made a unit of the Association. It is stated that the next meeting will probably be a joint meeting of the two associations at Lamar, Colorado.

Glenn Burgess, formerly Chamber of Commerce Secretary at Littlefield but now manager of a similar organization at Graham, is president of the organization. As he has moved quite a ways from the route, he will make a full report at the meeting here and probably be asked to be relieved. He, during the year, has visited all points north and has interested all the towns and cities along the route and so firmly did he plant the idea that its success now seems assured.

The final completion of this route is of the utmost importance to all this section, as it would prove a direct road north and south between important tourist centers and would finally be a big factor in inducing a desirable immigration into this country, aside from its value locally as a north and south highway.

During the past few weeks the road has been located through Levelland to Brownfield, by Julian Montgomery, State Highway Engineer together with G. M. Garrett, Division Engineer. This segment was perhaps the last part of the route to receive official designation and approval.

Guest of Board of Development
The invitation to meet here was extended by Tom V. Watson, secretary of the County Board of Development at the last meeting of the Association held about three months ago at Dalhart, and the local organization will be the official host of the occasion.

At a meeting of the Board of directors held Monday evening, a program and arrangements committee, composed of Paul Lawliss, chairman; Edward Pilley and G. C. Brown, was appointed by president H. H. Mann. One the reception committee were named Prof. B. F. Minor, chairman; Ray Watson and Carl Ratliff.

F. A. Benbow and Percy Cole were nominated and will be presented to the Association as directors from Levelland.

Rotary Club to Co-Operate
The local Rotary Club at its meeting Tuesday accepted the invitation of the Board of Development to meet with the Association in a luncheon which will probably be held at the High School Gymnasium on the day of the meeting.

It is thought that the delegations from the various points along the route will perhaps exceed one hundred, as quite an interest is being taken in the selection of the officers who will have the responsibility of completing the proposed highway during the coming year.

J. T. May Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. John R. May of Little Rock, is here visiting his aunt, Mrs. W. B. Downing, and uncle, Tom May and families. He returned home with Tom and wife, who came by from their trip to St. Louis.

The same "brotherly" interest which weighs down the mail bags between Texas A&M. College and Texas State College for Women in Denton has prompted the Aggie paper to add a T.S.C.W. columnist to its staff next year. One wonders whether this step was taken for the purpose of better news coverage or in behalf of suspicious swains who wish to check up on activities at the sister campus.

Ancient antagonism between "Hatchface" Prof and "Nincompoop" Student is breaking up. Every Monday the faculty and students at Texas State College for Women get together for Play Hour, when softball, horseshoes, tennis, ping pong and other sports do their bit toward blasting the old pupil-teacher feud.

THE GRASSHOPPER FIGHT SHOULD BE PERMANENT

There is perhaps in every endeavor a doubting Thomas. We have heard the remark that there are "grasshopper years," and then other years when there are few hoppers. Climaxing this argument was doubt as to whether fighting grasshoppers would affect the crop of hoppers the following year.

With a very serious beginning about twenty-two or -three years ago, a fight was put up to kill ticks on cattle. At the onslaught, it will be clearly remembered that there was every kind of argument against dipping cattle; others argued that each year had its individual crop of ticks, and that nothing would exterminate them. It may even be remembered that in East Texas, a number of dipping vats were "blown up" with dynamite by enemies of the fight on cattle ticks.

In that day, cattle were literally covered with ticks... parasites that sapped the very life from stock; causing an inferior grade of cattle, not to mention the very inhuman act of permitting this dumb-animal torture.

Today, there are thousands upon thousands of cows in that area, as well as this, without having been dipped in a number of years, that do not carry a single tick. Extermination was low but sure. There is no reason to believe that a continued fight upon the hopper would not yield the same fine results.—Spur Times.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodson and son of the Devonian Oil Co., of Oklahoma City, moved into the newly remodeled property of Dr. Jno. R. Turner in south Brownfield, this week.

Clyde Lewis left Sunday morning for the lower Rio Grande Valley, where he will buy cotton until Oct.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Akers have as their guests over the Fourth, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Stubblefield of Fort Worth.

Next Monday afternoon at 3 p. m. the circles will meet in joint session for the study of missions. The Lockett and Reagan circles will meet with Mrs. A. Flache and the Lottie Moon and Annie Long circles will meet with Mrs. L. A. Rhyne.

PROMISING CANDIDATES

(From Fort Worth Star-Telegram)
Most of the State, district and legislative candidates are committing themselves unqualifiedly to liberalization of pensions and to greater governmental economy as a saving to the taxpayers without explaining exactly how they will reconcile these two promises that lead in opposite directions. It is no more than fair that a candidate for office tell the voter, who is also a taxpayer, definitely how he would increase public expenditures through more and larger pensions while at the same time lowering taxes, or even maintaining taxes at their present level.

Pertinent to this inquiry are figures contained in the comptroller's annual report for 1937, which showed that the state had total revenue receipts for the year amounting to $154,120,031. The major portion of this was gleaned from the taxpayers—or $106,048,818. Actually, total state expenditures, including the dissipation of nonrevenue receipts, amounted to $186,386,244 in 1937. All these figures are important as showing we have about reached the peak of state spending in Texas.

In order, three objects took the major part of the State's dollar in 1937—highways, schools and pensions. Highways took 36.75 cents of the State dollar or a total of $53,194,207. Schools required $20.90 of the State's dollar, or a total of $44,804,271. Pensions in 1937 consumed 14.17 cents of the State's dollar, or a total of $20,519,716.

Thus, highways, schools and pensions are already taking 71.88 cents of the State's dollar, and surely none of the candidates would argue that the first two, highways and schools should be paralized for the sake of more liberal pensions. Likewise, the candidates are blocked when they turn to the 28.12 cents of the State's dollar that remains after highway, schools and pension requirements are met.

The 2.33 cents devoted to administrative and executive purposes, the 1.42 cents spent on the judicial system, and the 5.33 cents required by the eleemosynary and correctional would afford meager additional money for pensions, even if it were wise or possible to sacrifice them. Other portions of the State's dollar are parcelled out to debt servicing, public health and other departments, which have already notoriously low appropriations considering their purposes.

All these figures are finite facts, compiled by the State comptroller in his report for the fiscal year of 1937 ending last August. Candidates advocating more liberal pensions must expect to trim the allotments for highways, schools, public health, the institutions for the afflicted or other lesser fields of governmental operation, or to increase our taxes.

With the bald facts and figures of the comptroller's report in mind, it is important that candidates explain specifically and in detail how they intend to liberalize pensions if they are elected.

'GOOD OLD DAYS' A MYTH DECLARES MAGAZINE WRITER

The "good old days"? They never were. That, at least, is the opinion Donald Hough, American author, sets forth in the current Rotarian Magazine.

"Men change, but time goes on," he says. "Tests prove that the apple of today is a better apple than that of 50 years ago. The Weather Bureau finds that over a period of 50 years there has been a change of a small fraction of one degree in the mean temperature of a certain small area in the Southeastern part of the United States, otherwise all is the same as before. The snow lies just as deep, the winters are just as cold, the summers are just as hot—or vice versa."

To this, Hough adds the verdict that the best cooking is found not on the farm of yesterday, but in the restaurant of today. Cooking in America—once enslaved to the frying pan and boiling pot—is one of its newest arts, he indicates. The food is better now, perhaps the appetites aren't.

"Not all the people in America live in three-room kitchenette apartments, most politicians are honest, the average policeman cannot be bought, the country is full of young people who really do know more than their elders, money as a barometer of human worth is losing its grip, the cooking is getting better, people live longer, the whole history of man still can be summed up in one short word: "advance." So says the author.

"The 'good old days'?" he asks. "Which ones?"

CRIME DEFEATS ITSELF

One big reason why "crime never pays" is that crime as it grows and develops, always manages to overdo, until it defeats itself.

The present instance of kidnaping in the United States bears out what we have just said, for since kidnapers are not delivering their hostages after ransom is paid, it has become generally apparent that judgement and experience will halt further payments of ransom, even if the law does not do so, as is now universally demanded.

We all recognize that harried parents are willing to do anything possible to bring about the release of loved ones in the hands of desperate kidnapers, but since kidnapers have proven their fiendish extremity by killing the hostage either before or after the ransom money is paid, public opinion and friends' advice will act as a deterrent even before the law against ransom becomes effective.

Crime always defeats itself. Crime does not pay. It is the duty of every good citizen to assist in making it even more unprofitable.—Clarendon News.

STATE HEALTH OFFICERS URGE USE OF MILK

AUSTIN, Texas—In view of the fact that Governor Allred has proclaimed the month of June 9 to July 6th as Milk and Dairy products month, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, urges with this more extensive use of milk, that both producer and consumer be concerned as to its quality. The use of clean milk is a health measure.

Local interest in improved methods of producing wholesome milk has increased greatly in the past two decades and the striking advance in milk control has been responsible for the enormous saving in infant life.

Milk is perishable and especially during hot weather. To insure milk of good quality requires cleanliness, sterile utensils, protection against flies, careful bottling and maintenance at low temperature. The presence in fresh milk of large number of bacteria, due to insanitary methods of production is a health hazard.

Among the diseases which may be transmitted through milk are tuberculosis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, undulant fever, diarrhea and enteritis. Numerous milk-borne outbreaks of disease occur every year in this country and from the use of milk that might have been safe with proper care.

We should firmly insist that the milk we drink be carefully produced so that we will have the maximum practicable protection along the line

There are still a few old fossil editors who fight to retain the poll tax. Apparently they are afraid some poor cuss who did not pay a poll tax will enjoy the privilege of self government along with them. It makes no difference with them that his money all went to buy bread for his babies, no, and apparently they would be doubly sure to disfranchise one like that, for in the last analysis the poll tax is a property qualification. With them a poor man should be classed with criminals, lunatics, and aliens.—Exchange.

ANSWER TO JAPAN

Americans will greet with a mixture of pride and regret the prospect of 45,000 ton battleships with sixteen-inch guns. These dreadnaughts will be an enormous expense to tax payers for both construction and upkeep, and they will give incentive for other powers to carry to new extremes the race in naval building. But Japan's unwillingness to renew naval treaties or to reveal her own building plans virtually forces the United States to expand defense plans.

Japan's arrogant attitude leaves little choice to the three strong democratic powers—Great Britain, the United States and France. In raising the former 35,000 ton limit to 45,000 tons they have answered Japan in a way that likely will give no pleasure to financially-beset Tokyo. Since no start can be made before next year on new battleships in the larger category, a halt might yet be called if Japanese officials should come to their sense and cooperate in a new plan for limitation of naval armaments; but this course seems unlikely.

There is still hope for checking the needless naval race before battleships are thick enough to form oceanic pontoons, but the present unsettled conditions in Europe and Asia probably will have to quiet down first. Saber-rattling in Berlin, Rome and Tokyo is not encouraging to those who would like to save taxpayers' money by whittling down expenditures for defense. If it were certain that bigger battleships would keep this country out of war, few would complain of their price.—Dallas News.

CAMPAN OF HILLBILLIES NOT WITH OUT PRECEDNT

The campaign of W. Lee O'Daniel and his Hillbilly Band is something new under the sun in Texas politics, but it is not with out precedent, according to Uncle John Bowman. Bowman, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. W. A. Nelson of 4 miles southwest of Anton, called at the News office Saturday afternoon and while here he stated that the present campaign reminded him of one that took place many years ago in old Tennessee when Bob Taylor ran for governor. "Bob would play the fiddle a little, speak and then play some more," Bowman said, "and everybody came out; then they voted for him, tho' I didn't, but he was elected."—Anton News.

CANDID CANDIDACY

The following notice was handed me by a candidate:

Notice to All Voters
Don't ask me how I stand on the beer question.
Don't tell me you are going to vote for me. (The suspense is worth the price of waiting).
Don't tell me the faults of my opponents. If they have no faults how in the world could I get the office?

Don't ask me what religious belief I follow—as I have already pledged allegiance to every church organization that I know of.
When I get in office—please manage to pay your taxes as soon as possible when due—I need the money and after all—Am I not your public servant?
Your vote, influence and invitation to pie suppers appreciated.—Herwin Strickland in the Floyd County Plainsman.

It isn't fun to be thrifty when you're young. It's more pleasant to spend ten dollars for amusements than to put it in a bank or a life insurance policy. When you grow it becomes a different story. There are tens of thousands of men and women right now in the good old U. S. A., who are in dire want, that once had good jobs, substantial incomes and even fortunes. They had fun then. They are paying the piper now. They can look forward to spending their declining years as wards of public or private charitable agencies remembering with bitterness what might have been. Every man owes it to himself, to his dependents and to the society in which he lives, to prepare for the exigencies of the future. A bank account, life insurance and similar instruments of thrift are the best friends the average man has.—Miami Chief.

CAVES GIVE LAWN PARTY

One of the most enjoyable lawn parties for the summer season was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cave, Tuesday evening from seven-thirty till nine. With the exception of meeting a few out of town people, the affair was strictly informal. After a few minutes of greetings and conversation, the guests were invited to a long table on the beautiful rear lawn, where several varieties of sandwiches and cold drinks were served.

While every guest had plenty life in the cool breezes of the twilight, Lee O. Allen seemed to be the main "life of the party." He slipped off in the shrubbery and changed from his white linen suit to his old gin togs, and inserting a set of long artificial teeth over his real ones, he was an "idiot" personified. And he fooled many of the guests.

Brownfield guests were, Messrs. and Mesdames Glen Akers, Lee O. Allen, Dick McDuffie, Clyde Bond, A. D. Repp, H. M. Pyeatt, Graham Smith, A. J. Stricklin, T. L. Treadaway, Garrett Daugherty, Jas. H. Dallas, Everett Latham, Roy Herod, C. Davis and "Speck" Spencer Kendrick, R. N. McClain, Raymond Taylor.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Stublefield of Fort Worth, guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Akers, during the holidays; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warden of McKinney, Miss Dorothy Hardin of Dallas, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Price of Seagraves. Mesdames Warden and Price, and Miss Hardin are sisters of the hostess.

GREEN-UNGER

In a simple home ceremony, Friday morning, July 1, at eight o'clock, Mary Evelyn Green was given in marriage by her father, to Mr. Earl E. Unger. Miss Alma Fern Green, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor with Misses Melba Ferguson, Janet Youngblood and Lucille McSpadden as bridesmaids. The bride was lovely in a tailored white shark-skin suit, with white accessories and red rose buds and lillie-of-the-valley corsage. Her attendants wore black sheers. Mr. Unger's only attendant was his room mate, Mr. Stanley Murchesky.

The home was beautifully decorated in cut flowers, arranged by the McSpadden Floral Shop. Mrs. Unger is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Green who Mr. Unger is the only son of Mrs. Mr. Unger is the only son of Mrs. Mary Unger of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, and a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. VISUAL EDUCATION TAUGHT AT U. OF T.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 27.—Visual instruction has become one of the most popular education courses taught at The University of Texas, and its popularity is considered by University educators as an indication of the development of this phase of teaching throughout the country. The University is the only institution in Texas which at this time offers such a course, whereas in Pennsylvania there is a State law prescribing a requirement for a degree in education, and 44 colleges in that State offer such a course.

"Visual instruction is as old as teaching itself," Dr. B. F. Holland, assistant professor of educational psychology, who is in charge of the course, explained, "but the current paratively new development. Former-interpretation of the term is a comoly teachers taught almost exclusively with words and by means of textbook. For years psychologists have urged teachers to instruct from the concrete to the abstract. Today every progressive teacher uses a variety of graphs, charts, and other illustrative material."

Perhaps the greatest impetus to visual instruction was given by the perfection of the 16 millimeter motion picture film and the development of a 16 mm. portable projector, Dr. Holland asserted. In his course teachers and prospective teachers are taught how to produce and use their own materials. Such aids as excursions, charts and diagrams and maps, flat pictures, and blackboard work are stressed.

Last spring the State Department of Education called a conference on visual instruction, which created considerable interest, he added. Since then the department has presented a number of radio programs emphasizing this method of teaching.

The University of Texas has been pioneering in this field for many years. The first course in visual instruction was offered years ago by the late Dr. J. J. Weber. Dr. Holland took the course in 1934. The University also operates a Visual Instruction Bureau as a branch of its Division of Extension, through which sound and silent motion pictures, slides, maps, charts and other visual aids may be obtained. This Bureau has vastly increased the extent of its service to the State in recent years, Dr. Holland said.

WTCC'S NEW HOME

WEST TEXAS was busy Wednesday dedicating the new $280,000 home of its regional Chamber of Commerce to the service of upbuilding of the empire it represents.

There is possibly some reiteration of previous statements in this more recent comparison, but it is nonetheless important. No portion of the United States has battled against and overcome more serious obstacles of every kind than has West Texas in forging its way from a raw undeveloped territory. If the builders of that section in the past and present had folded up under the pressure of fears, some imaginary, and real hardships, we would have no empire to the west of us.

If the same spirit that animated the West Texans who dedicated their new Chamber of Commerce building in Abilene Wednesday were held by leaders in other portions of the country, we should not have to worry about recovery.—Star-Telegram.

STATE HEALTH OFFICER EXPECTS INFANTILE PARALYSIS

AUSTIN, Texas, July 6.—"Infantile paralysis can be expected to occur more frequently during the next three or four months," predicts Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. "This disease is always more frequent during the hot months."

"The germ responsible for infantile paralysis is so small that it escapes detection even with the most powerful microscopes. The first symptoms are usually vomiting, headache, fever, stiffness of the neck, pain in the legs, irritability and drowsiness. Complete recovery may follow such an illness. In the more severe cases, the germ penetrates the nervous system, resulting in paralysis of nerves controlling one or more groups of muscles. Some remarkable recoveries have been noted.

"Flies or other insects have not been demonstrated to play a part in the spread of this disease. Infection spreads from person to person with the droplets transmitted by coughing and sneezing. Children and grown people that are healthy may be carriers of the germs. When present in epidemic form, about one child in each hundred is apt to suffer an attack.

"Early recognition and diagnosis are essential. The use of immune serum may be a factor in preventing paralysis. A period of complete rest is essential for muscles that are infected. If parents note any symptoms of illness in their children, the family doctor should be consulted at once.

WIDOWS OF MEN WHO DIED ON MAINE GET HIGHER PENSIONS

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Widows and dependents of the 260 men who died 40 years ago in the sinking of the Maine are going to get increased pensions—$30 a month instead of $12.

President Roosevelt has signed an act congress passed after learning that the usual $30 pension was not permitted widows of Spanish war veterans who died in service prior to April 21, 1898, when diplomatic relations were broken off with Spain.

SUPREME DICTATOR-ELECT, LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Mooseheart, Illinois, June 12.—Roy H. Williams, member of the Supreme Court of Ohio, was today unanimously elected Supreme Dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose, by the Supreme Council of the fraternity, at a meeting following the close of the 50th Annual International Convention of this fraternity. His one-year term of office begins September 1.

day of his initiation. He has traveled the length and breadth of the Buckeye State in the interests of the Moose, and without cost to the Order, appearing before civic organizations as well as lodge meet-

JUDGE ROY H. WILLIAMS
Newly Elected Head of the Moose

The rise to eminence in his state of Judge Roy H. Williams, member of the Supreme Court of Ohio, and Supreme Dictator of the Moose, is a typical success story so characteristic of this country. He was born September 1, 1874, in Milan, Ohio, birthplace of another great American, Thomas A. Edison. From early life Judge Williams worked hard. He had to work his way through school, and in summer time on the farm. Other activities in which young Williams was engaged were in the Gibson Pie House, and as an employee of the Western Union Telegraph Company, "bucking the reel," stringing wires.

His education began in Milan, where he attended the Milan High School, and the Western Reserve Normal School. He then matriculated at Oberlin Academy at Oberlin, Ohio, and then graduated from the Law School of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Judge Williams has been connected with the administration of justice for thirty years. He began his professional career at twenty-six, as County Prosecutor of Erie County, an elective office. In this capacity he served from 1901-07. In 1915 he was elected to the Court of Common Pleas of the same county, serving until 1924. An election of that year made him a member of the Court of Appeals, which position he held for ten years. In 1934 the people of Ohio elevated him to the office of Judge of the Supreme Court of his State, where he is now serving.

Equally prominent has Judge Williams been in fraternal work. NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

AUSTIN—W. Lee O'Daniel, the Fort Worth flour broker and his hill-billy band, still held the center of the political stage in Texas this week...

in a movement, he becomes a convert. Also, his clever sarcasm, when he creates a symbolical figure of the old age pension inspector...

He Could Go Far Opinion among the experts here is divided. Many, including some of the shrewdest political thinkers in Texas, believe that a fire that burns as fiercely as the O'Daniel flame must burn itself out before election time...

showmanship, which has made McCraw's efforts in this direction look very feeble, indeed, has apparent development that will "keep open strength."

Thompson, playing what the politicians regard as good strategy, has kept his line of campaigning intact. He continues to advocate aid for farmers, economy in government, better administration of pension laws...

The lack of a poll tax payment by O'Daniel, who has educated his three children at the expense of the taxpayers and hasn't contributed the $1 a year that goes to schools from the poll tax has been the toughest circumstance that O'Daniel has tried to laugh off so far...

Other Races Warming Up There is every prospect of an interesting runoff election this year, with second choice contests in view for several major races besides that of Governor.

HARMONY—

Farmers are very busy, some are still planting, others are cultivating. Our community as a whole has a very nice stand of crops, although late. We have a chance to make a very good crop.

Mr. Stallings believes in planting the very best seed of cotton, corn or grain sorghums obtainable, and he always has good grain. Ed Thompson was in Saturday, and reported that he was through planting, with most of his crop up and growing nicely. He has knifed part of his crop. C. I. "SHINE ON HARVEST MOON" By Jack Norworth and Nora Bayes

JACK NORWORTH is a Philadelphia boy, who made good as a songwriter. He began as a blackface artist without even proper billing.

BIRTH OF A SONG

Many performers in those days wrote their own songs and pater. Jack wrote his "Shine on Harvest Moon" song through a harvest of clothes from acting to songwriting.

He sang it with Nora Bayes in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1907, and the song caught on. It set Norworth over the borderline from acting to songwriting.

From ASCAP Files By Joseph R. Fiesler and Paul Carruth

He wrote a London Revue with R. P. Weston. The opening night was marked by a Zeppelin raid.

Norworth went back to "trouping" with a vaudeville skit, married his pianist and made a series of short films in Hollywood before double-features.

Norworth had forgotten his early song hit, but a little Texas orchestra fooled around with the tune and it began to show new signs of life.

Ruth Etting picked it up from there, and when Norworth returned from a cruise he discovered that after 20 years he was again the author of a hit song.

DISPELLING THE FOG

By Charles Michelson

Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

It must have been a source of great surprise for the public to learn that Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican National Committee and Colonel Knox, who with Governor Landon carried Maine and Vermont in '36, did not approve of President Roosevelt's recent fireside talk. I don't remember seeing much about another statement in the newspapers, but I am reasonably certain that ex-president Herbert Hoover feels the same way about it.

Chairman Hamilton takes umbrage at the President's thought that the Republican party "does not recognize the need for government action to step in and take action to meet these new problems." He also points with pride to the circumstance that the Republican National platform once came out against monopoly.

Apparently, all President Roosevelt would have had to do would have been to rely on the Republicans in the House and Senate to have effected all the New Deal legislation. Isn't it curious that all the progressive sentiment that Chairman Hamilton has discovered in the Republican party should have been unsuspected for so long a period? Isn't it amazing that the Liberty League, which took charge of the Republican campaign of 1936, should have poured out all the money and all the eloquence that was expended in trying to make the country believe that President Roosevelt's program meant only the destruction of American enterprise and the substitution of a reign of communism in the United States?

By Their Votes Ye Shall Know Them
Isn't it surprising that on the Farm bill, for example, all but five of the Republican members of the Senate voted against it, and that in the House of Representatives all the Republicans except a handful from the granger States likewise voted "No.?"

So with the Wages and Hours bill. A large majority among the Republican members of the House opposed the measure.

On the Relief bill, the G. O. P. Senators voted about 2 to 1 against the measure.

We might go back further in the record and we would find that the Republican members of the national legislature furnished the backbone for all the opposition to the New Deal measures.

Not all the members of his party appear to approve of either Mr. Hamilton himself or of his policy, for on the same day that the Chairman's statement was printed, Representative Hamilton Fish announced that the National Chairman had lost the confidence of members of Congress and the public. Mr. Fish also said that if the Republican National Committee would turn over some of the thousand dollars a day which it is spending on nothing, to the Senatorial and Congressional committees, "we could elect ten new Republican Senators and at least 100 additional Republican Representatives in Congress this Fall."

These things are bound to happen in a party that has no policy, no leader, and no clear idea beyond railing at whatever the party in power does. In all the miles of campaign literature that have been issued by the Liberty League, under its various aliases, and in all the flood of words from the spokesmen of the minority party we have yet to hear one constructive suggestion. The whole point of their argument is merely that they could do the job much better than Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Colonel Knox takes another tack in voicing his disesteem for the President's fireside talk. He objects to the President's figures which recounted the gain of $20,000,000,000 in the national income since 1932. I think most people will agree that the President of the United States is in a better position to give correct figures than the mournful Chicago colonel, who was the tail of the Republican kite two years ago. Col. Knox also blames the President because Congress did not pass the Wages and Hours bill or the Agricultural bill until this year. Just how this accusation fits in with the reiterated statement from the minority party that the national legislature had degenerated into an aggregation of rubber stamps is not very clear. Congress, and everybody else in the country, knew that the President wanted and was striving for this legislation from the time the Supreme Court invalidated the first efforts to accomplish what these bills were aimed at.

When in Doubt Blame the President

However, a party that does not know what its own program is to be has got to blame the President for everything. It held him responsible when stocks went down. As this letter is written, stocks have been going up steadily for a week, so that particular barrage has been discontinued for the moment. If the upward trend continues, we shall hear explanations that the rise was in spite of the President's measures, and if the upward trend is hated, it will of course be his fault.

Now, in the past we had many ups and downs of the stock market, some of them resulting from Wall Street manipulations, some from simple industrial causes, some because of wars or threats of war; but I do not recall that any of them were attributed to the President of the United States. True, during the 1932 campaign, Mr. Hoover, the Republican banner-bearer, gravely told us that if the measure passed during his administration were nullified, grass would grow in our streets. Nobody took him seriously, of course; nor can anybody today take seriously the assumption that our present period is in any way comparable to the panic conditions of five or six years ago. We may not be as well

Flea Hopper Study Continues at Spur Station

The cotton Flea Hopper was heavy in Northwest Texas in 1937, and from reports of farmers all over the region there was considerable damage done to cotton. W. S. McGregor, an Entomologist from College Station was assigned to the Spur experiments were started. The Flea sect and to develop practical methods of control. He arrived at Spur early in July 1937 and a series of experiments were started. The Flea Hopper population was reduced but there was no significant increase in cotton yields. It was assumed that control methods were started too late.

Flea Hopper infestation comes in two ways: (1) from eggs laid on weeds by adults in the fall of the year and hatching the next spring (2) By migration of adult Flea Hoppers from some other region.

In the fall of 1937, 100 plants of Solanum elaeagnifolium, a plant which is commonly called the "white weed," "ground cherry," and "clinch weed", and is one of the plants chosen by the Flea Hopper to lay eggs in the fall or spring emergence, were selected at random in Dickens, Jones, Scurry and Taylor counties. These weeds were placed in incubator cages at the Spur station. Up to June 25, 77 Flea Hoppers had hatched from the weeds collected in Dickens county, 153 in Scurry county, 141 in Jones county, and 50 in Taylor county, according to counts made by C. E. Fisher at the Spur station.

Since Flea Hopper infestations seem to be of sufficient importance for detailed study, Mr. McGregor and Mr. Griffiths of the Division of Entomology, A. & M. College, arrived at Spur on June 11th to study the Flea Hopper during the summer months. In 500 sweeps taken at random between Spur and Lubbock on June 14th, 56 Flea Hoppers were taken. In sweeps taken a week later on June 21, 86 Flea Hoppers were caught. From the emergence in the incubators and the counts made at random over the country, it now appears that there is sufficient Flea Hoppers in the region to develop a heavy infestation by the time cotton starts to square freely.

Two hundred rubber balloons inflated with hydrogen gas were released at Jayton, Roby and Spur on June 22-23 to secure information pertaining to air currents in connection with the migration of the flea hopper. People finding these balloons should mail the attached franked Federal tag at once.

The best indication of the presence of the flea hopper is the absence of little squares on cotton plants at the time when squares should appear. Close examination of the buds and leaves of the cotton plant will be necessary to find the small pea green insect about the size of a flea. This immature flea stings and kills the square when the square is not a large as the head of a match. Dead squares will be found where fleas appear.

The Spur experiment station will appreciate the report of presence or absence of flea hoppers in the different region of West Texas, and the cooperation of cotton farmers in the study of this insect.

off as we were a year ago but we are immeasurably better off than we were five years ago.

All one has to do to realize the difference is to look at any bank in the country, comfortably doing business, calmly receiving the deposits of its customers, serenely paying dividends to its stockholders. Then think back on the frightened crowds which stormed the same banks, seeking to get their money back into their own hands, with faith in no financial institution; and great business houses toppling from coast to coast.

Eighty thousand people paid big prices to see a prize fight the other day. Every racetrack is bragging about the number of patrons; the theatres are doing a big business. That does not look much like the Hamiltonian, or Knox pictures of the awful state of our nation.

The Herald family thanks Warner Hayhurst and wife of Plains, for a nice mess of roasting ears they brought us from his father's farm in Oklahoma, last week. Mighty fine eatin'.

What is the Best Measure of a Bank's Strength?

The Strength of a bank may be judged by the following 3-ply yardstick:—

1. The honesty and skill of its management in making sound, useful loans and investments.
2. Its reputation and standing in the community, particularly in the confidence it has built among its depositors.
3. The adequacy of its capital, surplus and reserves.

To those who understand figures, bank statements when compared with those of preceding years, are a good standard of measurement. But most individuals judge a bank by its good name among people they know, by the friends as well by the loans it makes, and by its record for economical methods as well as services rendered.

It is also judged by earnings sufficient to build up reserves as well as by its usefulness to the community.

country will see no performance this year of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus.

The circus fans won't know, of course, whether or not the strike was justified. More than likely they will not even care about that. What they will care about is missing the Big Show—the stupendous, colossal, glittering, glamorous display of pomp and adjectives. It is a disillusioning age in which the spectacular adventure that is a circus can be swept off the boards by bickering over money matters. But that is the age in which we live—and the "Greatest Show on Earth" will not be coming to Texas this year.—The Texas Weekly.
