Doughnut Machine Attracts Attention

The Kyle Grocery recently installed an automatic doughnut machine in their store. That's right, it's automatic. Crowds either entered the store to look, or watched it from the plate glass window. The faces at the window will change, but there was someone looking at all times, while it is in operation.

Yep, the little raw, holey-dough will just roll gently into the grease, and then are propelled around in the hot grease to the center area, and then gently, but firmly flipped over, and on to the ejection point where they are lifted, a finished product, from the hot grease.

Here the attendant young lady has her first job by hand, or rather by fork. She places them in nice rows on cardboard, and they are ready for the customer. A doughnut while you wait.

A Matter Of Might

There is one thing that is never discussed publicly in connection with strikes which are called to the detriment of the whole nation -namely, the right to work.

Today, labor unions calmly announce when they strike that picket lines will be established, and any man crossing such line will do so at his peril. And men who want to work are not allowed to lard. "cross" that line. Apparently there is no political will on the part of Federal, state or municipal government to protect non-striking or non-union workmen in their constitutional right to work unmoles-

Suppose, however, you, as an individual, did not like a clerk in some store, and decided to become a one-man picket and prevent that clerk from entering the store. You would land in jail quickly as a policeman could be called.

The moral seems to be that the right to maintain picket lines and

SEA POWER . . : at the crossroads

TERE are four more ships of the target unit for the coming atomic bomb tests, II to be held at Bikini Atoll in the Marshall Island Group. These ships, part of the 32 United States combatant vessels listed for Operation "Crossroads," will be anchored, unmanned, in the Bikini lagoon. In the first operation to be held early in May, a B-29 flying more than five miles high will drop the 1 mb, described as of the Nagasaki type. This is the second in a series of layouts on the ships of the target units.

The first of the Navy's "cruiser" carriers, the USS Independence, commissioned in 1943, has had a long and battle-scarred career in every Pacific war zone. She participated in actions from Tarawa to the blows against the Jap mainland, operating with carrier groups in air strikes, and supporting amphibious assaults.

Holder of a Presidential Unit Citation, the 10-year-old destroyer USS Smith fought in seven "star" engagements in the Pacific, sank a large Jap lugger, destroyed nine enemy aircraft, and received credit for one "probable" Jap submarine sunk. In the Battle of Santa Cruz, an enemy torpedo plane crashed on her deck and made a raging inferno of her forward topside but did not check her screening activities. In the Battle of Ormoc Bay, the Smith fought off suicide planes for nine days and emerged relatively undamaged.

Bikini-where the tests will be conducted The shores of the islet will be evacuated of all human beings and the latest in shore defenses set up, while the target fleet will be anchored in the shallow waters of the half-moon lagoon. Within a nearby radius will be the ships of the amphibious and transport units, undergoing the tests as well as the combatant-type ships.

Plains Cotton In Sharp Drop

The South Plains as a whole harvested in 1945 only 17 per cent of the 1944 cotton crop, but one county of the 17 tabulated showed an increase over the previous year. This was Kent, where 5,106 bales were ginned in 1945 as compared with 3,864 in 1944.

The 17 counties ginned only 123,890 bales in 1945, compared with 710,226 in 1944, according to figures released by the Bureau of the Census of the Department of Commerce. Totals are in running bales, and linters are not included.

KITCHEN FATS HELP TOO!

The salvage of used cooking fat, upon which soap production depends these days, helps other essential industries to keep functioning too. Here, logs are felled, and started on their way to a paper mill. Used cooking fat, substituting for imported industrial fats and oils, is used in the processing of paper, as well as making soap. The new Veterans Administration Regional Office for West Texas with headquarters at Lubbock Health. The Institute will devote will mean much to West Texas veterans and their families. When General Omar Bradley, head of the Veterans Administration, announced last year that Texas veterans would be served by four regional offices, located at Houston, San Antonio, Waco and Dallas, I complained to him that West Texas veterans were being completely left out of the picture. I joined with the American Legion, the VFW and West Texans generally in the campaign for a West Texas Regional Office for West Texas veterans-an office similar to the ones located at Dallas, Waco, San Antonio and Houston.

It is now assured that within 60 days such an office for West Texas, with headquarters at Lubbock

General Bradley's idea is to render service to the veteran at a point not too far removed from his home. Those of us who handle Veterans Administration appropriations are supporting this plan.

The West Texas Regional Office should not be confused with sub offices and contact offices which the VA has established or will establish at a number of West Texas points to complete the service to veterans and cooperate with the County Service Officers now serving in most West Texas

The prehistoric discovery of the FLAME was man's first step toward civilization; and from that ageless past to the present, the Flame has been keeping humanity warm, cooking its food and performing other services. However, no energy, even that of the FLAME, would be valuable to modern civilized society unless it would be capable of being controlled. It is interesting to note that it was this controllability that, early in our economic history, provided continued usefulness to the Gas FLAME—a usefulness that through the years has constantly widened and strengthened. Today this controllability reaches its highest point of development. And so, as in the past, the Gas FLAME will continue to release, even more effectively, its energy, remaining man's faithful servant for cooking, water heating, refrigeration and year 'round home comfort.

Here are some of the striking facts. More than one-half of all hospital beds in America are ocupied by mental patients. The American people, through public and private channels, are spending about a quarter billion dollars annually to care for mental patients, but only a small fraction of that amount is being spent for research in the field of prevention and cure. During World War II, 1,760,000 men were rejected for military service because of mental illness. Members of the medical profession have pointed out that medical colleges in the past have placed inadequate emphas's on subjects having to do with mental illness; there is a scarcity of specialists n this field of medical science.

The bill is endorsed by outstandng members of the medical proession and by the American Medcal Association, the American Letion and numerous organizations. 'he medical profession and those of us who oppose so-called soialized medicine feel that the bill s in keeping with the best Amerian medical traditions.

It is felt that the Senate will igree with the House, pass the bill and send it to the President for his approval.

Coronet Pictures Typical Texas Town

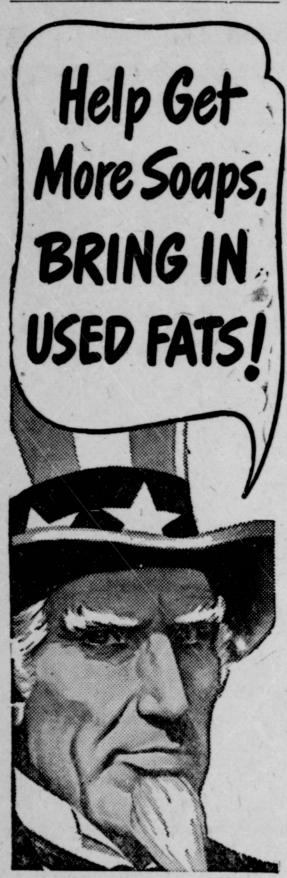

OILTOWN, USA-that's Tomball, Texas.

Typical of the United States, typical of its people, its towns, its resources, and its riches is the oil town of Tomball, Texas-subject of a 19-page picture story in April CORONET. Outstanding photographer Esther Bubley spent many weeks in Tomball recording its life and business. The best of her 600 brilliant pictures appear in Coronet.

The familiar scenes of the picture story are striking candid shots of every-day "Oiltown." There is Main Street, the companionable group around the post office, the school children. And most significant of all is the steel skeleton of the oil derrick, silhouetted against the Texas night sky.

Tomball is typical of Texas and America because it is a vital, pulsing part of a nation. The photographs in Coronet form a document that records what statistics and maps do not reveal-it is the living story of a living American town.

United States' 1945 food production was 33 per cent above the pre-war average while world food production was 12 per cent per capita below pre-war figures.

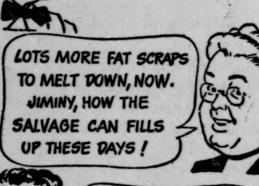

THIS country is short of in-L dustrial fats, mighty short.

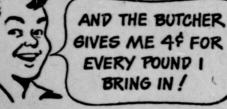

The supply is so low that the government must decide how much fat can be released to make soap; how much for other peacetime goods. The shortage would be even worse without the wonderful help American housewives are giving by turning in used fats.

Keep saving to tide us over this emergency. It will help you get more soaps and other products you want so much.

At a given signal each army would plunge to work on its project. The first to complete its assigned task was declared the victor and the opponents retired in defeat. It's a pity this wise method of settling disputes was ever discarded. MAKE YOUR COTTON PLANTING SEED GO FARTHER

Here Is How

Let us delint your seed by the Kemgas Process then you can plant half as many seed and secure a better stand.

Why Is This True?

The Kemgas Process removes all the lint then recleans, grades, and treats the delinted sead with eeresan. Seed processed in this manner will germinate 3 to 5 days quicker than fuzzy seed. Tractors plant 25% more seed land in a day because there is absolutely no lint to choke planter boxes and one filling of the planter box will run 3 to 4 hours.

Portrait of a Secret Weapon

The greatest "secret weapon" possessed by the United States in World War II was not the B-29 - or radar - or even the atomic bomb.

It was the adaptability and resourcefulness, the courage and loyalty of the American soldier.

The mechanics and farmers and soda clerks who went into the Army at their country's call had not been raised to war. But they became an unbeatable fighting force.

The Army did more than train and discipline these men. It gave them scope for growth and initiative. They proved, for the second time in a quarter-century, that free men make great soldiers.

The Regular Army soldier of the future must be educated and trained to an even higher standard than in the past. For it will be his duty to learn the many great technical advancements that science has made in this war. He must handle television fuses. robot bombs, radar detectors, recoilless weapons and many problems in applied nuclear physics.

He will be tackling one of the biggest jobs in the world - learning how to protect our country in an era of scientific instruments such as the world has never known before. This new Regular Army needs and is getting - many of America's finest young men.
