The Herald subscription list is a splendid blend of town and rural readers, folks who can and do pay for their papers—they do not ask or want it donated to them. Many 30 and 40 year continuous subscriptions.

The Herald has grown with this section from strictly a ranch country. This area now consists of thriving towns and cities, supported by scientific farming and stock farming, augmented by huge oil fields, with the nation's largest known oil reserves.

After the close of the meeting, a performance was given by the drill team. A social hour was then enjoyed with Mesdames C. L. Aven Jr., Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Mae Bryant, Lillie McPherson and Melvina Nelson serving as hostesses.

New Pharmacist At Palace Drug

Arthur Nunn of the Palace Drug has announced that C. J. Sowder, formerly of Lawrence, Kans., will be associated with the Palace Drug Store as pharmacist.

Mr. Sowder has had many years of experience and comes to Brownfield highly recommended. The Herald welcomes Mr. Sowder to Brownfield and hopes that he will be happy in his new location.

Laundry Giving 20 Per Cent Discount

Thad Risinger was in this week to insert an ad in the Herald, in which for the month of June he is giving a 20 per cent reduction on laundry bills. Providing you bring and pick up your laundry. This is quite some saving. Mr. Risinger is constantly adding to and improving his laundry and its service.

By the way, Thad recently attended the 25th anniversary of his graduating class at the Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater. He reported a large crowd of his old classmates, and that they had a great time together. And, of course, according to Thad, he was the youngest looking in the bunch.

Wilgus Pharmacy In New Location

The Wilgus Pharmacy which was formerly located in the City Drug, has been moved to the new location at the corner of Tate and South 5th.

Although not officially open, Mr. E. W. Wilgus, owner, states that he is able to take care of his customers' prescription needs.

The exterior of the new pharmacy is buff colored brick, and the interior is decorated in shades of gray and green. The pharmacy, which contains 1250 square feet of floor space, has refrigerated air-conditioning and indirect fluorescent lighting.

Mr. Wilgus has a complete line of drugs and invites his customers to visit him in his new location. He has been a resident of Brownfield for 10 years, and prior to moving here, was manager of the Mark Halsey Drug Store on College avenue in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilgus have moved into the lovely living quarters that were built at the back of the pharmacy.

In case of emergencies, twenty-four hour service is available, and ample parking space has been provided.

Watch for the date of the formal opening which will be held in the near future.

NEW DISTRICTS SET UP IN METHODIST MEETING

Four new district headquarters have been set up at the meeting of the annual Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church which was held in Lubbock the past week. The conference closed its five-day 43rd annual session Sunday.

The four new districts are: Brownfield, Big Spring, Childress and Pampa. The five districts which will continue in existence are Abilene, Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview and Stamford. Headquarters are located in the town for which the district is named, in each instance.

The new district, with headquarters at Brownfield, will include the following churches: Amherst, Anton, Brownfield, Brownfield Circuit, Bula, Denver City, Draw, Enochs-Monument, Lake, Grassland, Levelland, Littlefield, Maple-Bledsoe, Meadow, Morton, New Home-Lakeview, O'Donnell, Plains, Ropesville, Seagraves, Seminole, Spade, Sundown, Tahoka, Welch-Hancock, Whitharral-Pettit, Whiteface and Wilson. These churches were formerly in the Lubbock and Plainview districts.

Two new district superintendents were announced: Dr. Orion W. Carter, who has been serving as pastor of the First Methodist Church of Pampa, was appointed superintendent of the district which will be located at Big Spring; and the Rev. Vernon Henderson, who has been serving as pastor of Phillips Methodist Church, and will be superintendent of the new Brownfield district. The pastors in the Brownfield district are as follows: Am-

Are You From Tennessee? So Am I!

We are not like one fellow we heard of one time, who after telling what place he was from, added: "It's a darn good place to be from." We are from Tennessee, but we have never felt that it was a good place to be from. In fact, we still like Tennessee, the place of our birth. We remember that it was also the place from which two great Texas patriots, Sam Houston and David Crockett and many others had in time made their home in the old Volunteer State. And we have always contended that if a fellow had rather live there than in Texas, that's their business.

But what we were going to say, is that we had some Tennessee visitors last Thursday night. The two older ladies were descendants of the old Shearin families that we have known all our life. They were Mrs. Guy Brown, mother of Mrs. Bill Williams, of the Needmore community, and her sister, Mrs. Coleman Ross, who presently lives some 12 miles east and a bit north of Bolivar, Tenn. With Mrs. Ross, was her daughter, Jean, and her husband, Mrs. Raymond Deming, of Henderson, Tennessee.

The way we understand the matter, Mr. and Mrs. Deming have been married since last winter, but only announced the wedding since school closed. Mr. Deming is presently superintendent of the Henderson schools, while his wife is or has been a teacher in the Bolivar schools. Presumably, Mrs. Deming will make her home at Henderson hereafter.

But we had much to go over with the older ladies—not too old mind you—and we found that we had many mutual friends. Both were born near the old Shearin water mill, where as a youth the writer "rid" the old bay mare with a sack of corn to be crushed into meal, many times. The Shearin mill had a mill "race," the only one in that area. Most of them had dams on old Porter's creek. This mill race started up the creek a mile or so, and had the appearance of a large irrigation canal, and the last half mile had so much fall, that the water was really racing when it reached the mill, and started turning those old mill stones.

Did you ever carry a large bag of corn to mill horse back? Well, that old fat mare was so round the bag would occasionally threaten to slide off, and we'd have to stop at a stump, fence or bank, where we could climb back on her back, and divide the load again.

Called in old Ed Thompson and wife, as Ed is a second cousin of Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Ross. Yep, we had a fine old Tennessee conversation.

Arthur Cobb Peters Buried Wednesday

Funeral services for Arthur Cobb Peters, 3, son of Mrs. Cornelia Cobb Peters, were held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. C. E. Wainwright, pastor of the Tokio Baptist Church officiating. He was assisted by the Rev. Jones Weathers.

The boy died suddenly Tuesday morning at the Treadway-Daniell Hospital. The body was taken to Tokio where it was laid in state at the home of an uncle, Paul Cobb, until burial time.

He is survived by his mother, a teacher in the Brownfield High School.

Mrs. Cobb and her son had resided in Brownfield for two years.

Sorter Stalling On Rain This Week

Sunday and Tuesday afternoons and evenings looked rather favorable for some more rain, and a light shower fell. But not enough to count. At this time of year we always dislike to see a failure. Sometimes the portend no good.

Presently, however, the farmers are not looking for rain too much. In fact, they want to get their cotton ad grain started off. Too late for cotton planting, at least, but odds of time for sorghum grains.

Clouds seemed to have some moisture—but no give. Just didn't seem to be able to bank up heavy enough to rain.

The Loyds Moving To Kerrville

Anyway, the fishing is good around Kerrville where the old Guadalupe river flows. And, too in these days and times, isn't there a lot of air conditioners, which makes the climate down there equal to the Plains—perhaps? That is the argument, if any, of our friend, A. J. Loyd. Yep, the farm has been rented out for the year. In fact, A. J. is a retired farmer.

Anyway, we hope he and his good lady have the time of their lives down there at the Take-It-Easy Trailer Park at Kerrville, and that the fishing will be fine all summer. Also that we will be able to report a rain occasionally, that will tickle his old ribs, right behind the forehead.

Harry Longbrake Moving to Plains

Harry Longbrake came in this week and had his Herald changed to Plains, where he will make his home in the future. Harry has been our general repair man here for many years, and a good one. Whether a lawn mower, or other such tools like hand saws, etc., he was an expert in getting them in prime cutting shape and adjusted.

Presently he will be near his daughter, Bettie Curry, whose husband is owner and publisher of the Yoakum County Review. But Harry says he won't live with them or any other of his folks. He has a trailer house. He has sold his shop here, but will build one over there, he stated.

But for the next two weeks he will be visiting his son, Emory, and family at Austin, before it gets to hot down there. Emory is superintendent of an insurance company in that city.

Harry remarked that when he leaves Brownfield, it will be the first time since before Terry county was organized that no Longbrakes live here. The late Hiza H. Longbrake moved to Terry county before organization, and was for many years in the hardware and furniture business here.

Hiza came to this section from Findlay, Ohio, but Harry moved to Peoria, Ill., and later here.

Mrs. Elsie Kendrick and two sons, Herbie and Sammy, are in Amarillo, where they plan to spend several weeks.

Local Boys Enter Lubbock Derby

Although Saturday had been set as the deadline for registration for Lubbock's fifth annual Soap Box Derby, in order to permit boys who had taken early vacations to enter the race, the officials decided to extend the registration time another week.

Registration had also been delayed because the registration of approximately 25 boys from Brownfield had not been completed.

An incomplete list of Brownfield boys entered: Bobby Whitney, sponsored by the Melody Music Mart; Sid McIntosh, sponsored by Sutherlands; Bobby Darnell, sponsored by Charlie's Drive In; Wayne Jackson, sponsored by Brownfield Ice; Kenneth Cary, sponsored by Griggs & Goble; Mont Muldrow, sponsored by Brownfield State Bank and Trust Company; Charles Gowan, sponsored by Sheriff Ocie Murry; Bill Nipp, sponsored by Vernon Townes; Junior Collins, sponsored by Plains Implement Co.; Geo. Lackey, sponsored by West Texas Motor Co.; Troy Lee Willis; and Danny Powers, sponsored by the Busy Bee Cafe.

Joe S. Bridwell to Speak at Meeting

Proposed organization of an Agricultural Workers Council for Gaines, Terry and Yoakum counties will be studied in a meeting here Thursday, June 12, at 2 p. m., to be held at the new high school library, the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce announced.

Joe S. Bridwell of Wichita Falls, one of Texas' outstanding businessmen leaders in the movement for soil conservation and other measures to improve agriculture, will speak to the gathering. He will be accompanied by Jack Austin, manager of the Agriculture Department of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Bridwell is the originator and donor of the annual $5,000 Bridwell Soil Conservation award.

Both men helped organize an Agricultural Workers Council for the Wichita Falls area.

Cosponsors of the movement to form the three-county council in this area are the chambers of commerce of Brownfield and Seminole, Yoakum County Agricultural Workers, and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Agriculture and Livestock Department, of which Loyal H. Walker is manager.

The council would consist of persons connected with all agricultural agencies in the three counties. These include the Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Production Marketing Association and Vocational Agriculture instructors.

Approximately 50 agricultural workers are expected to attend.

Services of Farm Bureaus Numerous

The Terry County Farm Bureau recently opened a local office at 605 West Main for service to its members in this area. Mr. Kelton D. Miller is Service Agent, and Miss Eleanor Miller, secretary.

Some of the projects sponsored by this local farmers organization are: Recently two boys, 4H Club delegates, Jimmy Benton and Donald Aldridge, with an adult leader, were sent to the State Roundup for 4-H Clubs; each year assist in sponsoring a scholarship for a Texas Tech girl; was instrumental in forming an organization, the Terry County Weather Improvement, which was formed for the purpose of increasing rainfall, and also helped form the organization to handle, collectively, the Bureau workers.

Services available at the Farm Bureau for bureau members who farm include preparing and filling out gas exemption forms since the state has passed a law that a dealer is not permitted to fill out the forms; also as a reminder, the office plans to send out a postcard approximately 5 1/2 months after filling out the gas exemption forms in order to remind the farmer that it is almost time to send off another.

Miss Miller, secretary, will be glad to assist the farmers with any correspondence, including writing and reading letters in Spanish.

The Farm Bureau office maintains a listing of farm jobs and farm workers available.

They Came On Motorcycle

Lonez Pippin came in Monday from Arlington, Texas, on his motorcycle. He is in service, presently located at Camp Polk, La., and has recently re-enlisted he stated. He is a nephew of Phillip Rogers of the Harmony community, and a third cousin of the Old He.

Mounted on behind Lonez was his sister, Miss Carolyn Pippin, of Paris, Texas, who was rather road worn when they arrived in our city. Both were reared near the little city of Middleton, Tennessee. Lorenz has a two weeks furlough, and before returning to Camp Polk, will visit relatives in Tennessee after he leaves here.

Roberts Take Off For Florida

Our good friend, J. D. Roberts Sr., of Wellman, was in to see us last week, and seemed in as good humor as usual. In fact, J. D. always seems to be in a good humor, and has a good word for everyone. For the past several years he has been the janitor of the Wellman schools, and has evidently made a good one, as he is re-appointed from year to year.

But J. D. told us that he was taking off this week, if nothing happens for Florida, Bunnell to be exact, which is situated some 12 miles north of Daytona Beach. Said one of his sons lives there, and had offered to pay his way, if he would visit he and family. Bon voyage, old friend.

But, he has a lot of repainting and decorating to do in the Wellman school buildings through the summers. He will take care of all that when he comes home rested and enthused.

Some Are Replanting, Some Are Scratching

Was out for a small sized spin around the farms of Terry County last Sunday, while the farmers were taking their Sunday afternoon naps, and to say the least we found just about every move under the sun to get a bunch of cotton up and on its ways to a harvest. Some were doing one thing; some another, but most busy on the job.

Off hand, we would estimate that some 60 per cent were scratching, and in some places the little cotton was peeping through. This depended a great deal on the nature of the land, how heavy the rain early last week, and therefore how deep the washing covered the seeds.

On the other hand, many were replanting, but some land looked as if it had not been touched since it was bedded back in April. Likely the farmers are after that part this week, either with cotton or maize. The replanted and untouched parts would constitute some 40 per cent of the acreage where we went.

At least this much can be said, most all the land is free of weeds and goatheads, as the first, or the second round of planting eliminated them.

Church Observes 4th Anniversary

Special services were held in the First Christian Church in observance of their fourth anniversary in the church sanctuary. The church also officially moved into the new $33,000 Educational building Sunday. The new building contains more than 6,000 square feet of floor space and will adequately accommodate the education program, according to Rev. Homer Haislip, pastor.

The services Sunday commemorated Pentecost and the pastor's message was on "The Power of Pentecost."

Wednesday evening a dinner and church social was held in the new building. The dinner was under the sponsorship of the Christian Women's Fellowship. Mrs. Bill Aschenbeck is the president.

Special recognition of all new members for the past six months was held at the dinner and also a special recognition of the church and church school leaders.

Every department and class of the church had a small part on the program. The program was concluded with a short inspirational message by Rev. Haislip on the "Preview of Coming Events in the Life of the Church."

Master of ceremonies was Herbert Chesshir.

Well, the little State Observer down Austin way, has been on a high horse again. Fact is, things have not fared so well with the Truman bureaucracy here in Texas as of old, despite all the Observer and Fagan Dickson might or could do. Fact is, "it ain't what she usta be." And while the Observer don't exactly make the Texas newspapers, all except itself, put out old liars, news twisting, wire pulling and what have you, according to the little four-page, 3 column, 9x12 weekly, the press of Texas, except itself, is dishonest, either intentionally or unintentionally. We have nothing whatever against the State Observer because it is small. Lots of good things come in small portions, but we sometimes wonder why it gets a notion that everyone is out of step except the Observer. It goes on to tell us that "they are blatantly dishonest and sincere" (and there are many of this stripe) it says. So, many of us are led to wonder if the Observer ever thought about the glaring fact that there has been more dishonesty and corruption in the past eight years by the very administration it so upholds, than was ever known before. And if, in spite of all the exposures of the Truman cronies, the Observer expects the rank and file Democratic party, the party of Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson to uphold or shield the rottenness at Washington? The Observer goes on to call all such papers that are not "loyal to Truman" controlled newspapers and radios. And, according to the Trumanite paper, all others hire bright young men and women to spread their untruthful propaganda to the uninformed public. These young people work on the theory that everything that refutes the propaganda their bosses put out is wrong and should be suppressed. Frankly, the Herald cannot say what may or may not have been put out down Austin way, or other sections of the country, but if any "bright young men and women" have been putting out any propaganda for the anti-Truman papers in this area, we have not seen them, or even heard of them. But the last crack of the Observer really takes the cake, concerning Truman's statement about suppressing the press "if he thought it best." The Observer is trying to make it appear that HST really said "subversive press." But according to all versions of the press we have seen, Mr. Truman did not use the word, "subversive." As most know this press conference took place soon after the administration took over the steel mills, and he was asked if he though he had authority to take over the press. So far as we have been able to see or read, Truman excluded no newspaper, radio or magazine, subversive or otherwise.

Speaking of the President, whoever he may be or what his party label, that gentleman is in for a rugged go of it for the next four or eight years, beginning next January. Of course he has a two million dollar home already paid for by the people, and an army of servants and assistants at his beck and call, all of whose salaries are paid and the chief executive does not have to figure out their social security or withholding. And aside from his salary, he also has a 50 thousand dollar tax free spending account. Then there is the yacht, with a paid crew and provisioning provided, not to mention the private airplane, in which HST has so-journed to Key West rather frequently to cool off, not to mention a lot of cars at his beck and call with their liveried chauffeurs. This is all on the credit side. But look what the next administration has been left by his predecessor, according to US News, which are designated as "Troubles Ahead for the next President." In the first place, the FDR and HST 20-year reign of power has left the nation a $275 billion dollar debt. The Korean War, or police action as designated by HST, will more than likely be still going on if not intensified. Many think the boom is running its course, and that we are in for a substantial decline in business expansion. In agriculture, some commodities are in surplus now, and others expected. The next president will find a huge army of government employees, consisting of 2,500,000 civilians and 3,700,000 in the military. They themselves have a tremendous payroll, all at the expense of the presently overburdened taxpayer, who are howling for relief. These are just a few of the problems the new president will have to face, whoever he may be, next January. But with all the mixups throughout the land, at home and abroad, there are bound to be many headaches in store for the incoming executive. Few really want the job, but there are some that sincerely desire to try the matter, and believe in themselves that they are capable of improving or at least smoothing over matters. But the man that gets the job is going to have the biggest job in the world, and that means a lot, because there are many huge executive positions.

A great crowd of interested Texans from all over the state, greeted the Hon. Price Daniel, Texas Attorney General, at Waco last Thursday night, when he formally opened his bid for the US Senate. Some of the speakers brought out the fact, while we listened, that Price Daniel did not consult with official Washington before he made his bid for the Senate back in January. Since that time, the Hon. Tom Connally, present incumbent, has formally withdrawn from the race. One of the main themes of the address of the youthful candidate, was that "we must get our country back to God, and our government back to the people." As most Texans know, Price Daniel does not like the Truman administration, and they are strictly against him up at Washington. Daniel has led the fight in Texas for the retention of the tidelands. In one instance, he said in his speech, "the seizure of the Texas tidelands will go down in history as the blackest page in this era of centralization and lack of morality." That these tidelands, dedicated to the school children of Texas, had been the undisputed possession property of Texas since annexation to the USA, more than 100 years ago. It was only when oil was found in the tidelands of Texas, California and Louisiana that the Truman bunch made the grab with the aid of a packed supreme court. Daniel is supporting the enactment of presidential preferential primaries in all states, so that the people will have a direct say who runs on the different party tickets. The adoption of the Gossett-Lodge amendment to give the people more voice in the election of their president. Presently, we know that if a big population state like New York for instance, votes 3 million for one candidate, and 2,999,900 for the other, the winner by only 100 votes out of 6 million takes all the electors. With the proposed change, all parties would share in the electors on a percentage basis. Even here in Texas, the Republicans would get a few, some one in six of the electoral votes. He also recommended a recapture of policy-making by the congress instead of the executive department, where it originally rested. Also to lift the censorship of non-military information imposed by the president. Regain control of the purse strings by congress, to end waste, extravagance, high spending and high taxing. One speaker from Abilene stated that Daniel would lead his opponent 3 to 1 in west Texas, and the same conclusion was reached by speakers, in the short preliminaries before the speech of Daniel, from all over the state.

In order to make itself popular with the proletariat, the present administration, when speaking to labor groups or semi-subversive elements, such as American for Democratic Action, always like to lambast the companies that are providing jobs for millions of Americans at good wages. And one of the main "whipping boys" of the speakers, is the oil companies. The main theme song of course is "bigness." But this hue and cry is having little effect on the American people who think for themselves, instead of letting Washington, D. C., do their thinking. They have sense enough to know that the oil and gas companies of the USA, are not only providing millions of jobs with good pay, but that they are spending millions of dollars in taxes, local, state and national. And further, they are doing their share far in advance of some of the government bureaucracies to keep this nation prepared against a sneak attack by some of those nations, the ADA mentioned above, think of as "democracies," such as the Kremlin. But let us have the record, as Al Smith used to say. There are presently some 210,000 oil companies scattered over these United States, and each one is trying to get its share of the business. A queer kind of monopoly, we venture. Their investment is some 25 (billion) dollars, and they employ two million people at good wages. Last year, this low life industry spent some 3 (billion) dollars to build new facilities or to improve the old ones. And let us state right here, if the higher and higher taxes added by the states and the federal government were not added, you'd be paying around 10c per gallon for your gasoline, very little more than in 1940. What else can you buy so near the 1940 price? And a lot of this cringing monopoly money that the (liberals with other people's money) profess to hate so much, was spent in developing new oil fields, to keep our nation secure, in case the bunglers at Washington got us into another real world war. Yes sir, Mr. Leftist, they brought up from the bowels of the earth last year two billion, two hundred million barrels of oil. A lot of people right here in Terry are profiting by leases, royalties, etc., from that mean old oil monopoly. But it is not the people here who are cursing the oil industry; it is the little 2x4 politicians along the Potomac.

President Truman likes to ride high and dry over a flooded area, preferably in his tax free and government furnished plane, and criticize all the governors of the region. This happened during the recent floods in the mid-west, when he accused governors of those states of "dragging their feet" on the flood control problem. But the little man from mood didn't get away with it. Governor Kohler of Wisconsin sent something far better than Truman fetches. As everyone knows, the government will send in a huge number of US army engineers who will spend two or three years making a "preliminary survey." Then congress will make another appropriation, and a long time will be spent by the army on the final survey. Then, perhaps, in five to fifteen years, congress will get around to making an appropriation to do the actual building. People right here in this area have been waiting for a loan from the government to build the Canadian river dam, and exactly nothing has been done. The amount asked for was some $85 million dollars. In the meantime, some ten billion has been spent in Europe. But, Gov. Kohler informed Mr. Truman that Wisconsin did not have any floods, that instead, they had persuaded private capital to build their dams and reservoirs, and Mr. Truman knew this when he made his talk, according to Gov. Kohler. Of course, if private capital are given the go ahead, they do not stall around for years, but pitch in and do the work. But what ranks the administration is that in that state, at least, they have no cause to plea for this socialistic business. Some twenty-one storage reservoirs have been built along the river entirely with pri-ivate capital, and floods are no problem up there. The Wisconsin river is entirely harnessed. It will be remembered that the Hoover Commission exposed the graft, waste and corruption of the government river and harbor stalling. But the powers that be in Washington paid no attention to his report, although the former president is regarded as one of the world's greatest engineers.

Mrs. Ida Bruton and Mrs. J. J. Gaston went to Temple Monday. Mrs. Gaston was going through the clinic.

Langford of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Donnelly of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Strickland of Lamesa, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Unfred of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Bigony of Big Spring.

Mrs. Jess Smith attended the funeral services of W. C. Masten, which were held in Sudan last week.

Reckless Drivers Lucky to Be Alive

How lucky are you?
One way to find out is by studying the 1951 story of traffic accidents in the United States just published by The Travelers Insurance Companies of Hartford, Conn. This latest edition of their annual series is called, appropriately enough, "Lucky You." They make the point with facts and figures that if you were not involved in a serious auto accident last year, you are indeed lucky.

If you are a speeder, for example, the 1951 record will show you how lucky you are to be alive and well. Nearly 14,000 persons were killed and more than half a million were injured last year by drivers who were exceeding the speed limit. One out of every three drivers involved in 1951's serious accidents was speeding. Last year, as in 1950 and previous years, excessive speed was far and away the most dangerous mistake in driving.

How lucky will you be this year?

Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

Well, I'll be hornswaggled if I didn't think some one at the bank was trying to kid us, lately. When we made a phone call, a very musical voiced young lady said: "Good afternoon, this is the bank." It so excited us for a moment that we yelled, "why howdydo lady." And we wasn't trying to be smart, either. We understand that both banks have their young phone operators trained to answer good morning, or good afternoon as the case may be, and that some of our offices, such as doctors and dentists are following suit. Not bad.

The Old He offers his sincere congratulations to the Brownfield Methodists in having obtained for this city, the coveted Brownfield Methodist District of the Northwest conference. And the welcome sign is out to the new District Superintendent, Rev. Vernon N. Henderson. Back when the north and south Methodist went their own way during and following the Civil War, in the south, these men were known as Presiding Elders. But a few years ago these vast bodies rejoined forces after some 80 odd years, and now they are District Superintendents.

We already have the Brownfield Baptist Association, and have had since about 1920 or thereabouts, and now the Brownfield Methodist District. At another place you will find the churches and pastors composing the Brownfield district listed, as well as other news about it. Will say, however, that the new district is composed of churches coming from the west end of the Plainview District, and the south end of the Lubbock district.

Now for a bit of the ridiculous. We get a kick out of Paul Crume's front page column in the Dallas News. His latest crack was especially appreciated, knowing not a few cases personally that might fit. In this case it was some wholesome advice to the guys who can't let liquor alone. Quoting a reader, of his column, the reader advised the boozer to buy a gallon of hot shot, at the current $32 bucks, appoint his wife as the bartender; dispense it at the regular 60c per shot to him. The gallon would make some 128 topers, and leave some $44.80 for the frau to bank, and $32 to get another gallon.

At the end of 15 years, if the guy was still living, she would have banked a bit over $35,000. And would, if he died with snakes in his boots, have enough mazzoka to give the old rascal a decent burial, educate his orphans, and marry some decent man. But the catch? Sometimes the bartender drinks up all the profits.

The Crosbyton Review had quite a writeup in its Trends Column the past week about their Rodeo Association. This association owns the grounds, the pen chutes, as well as the seating arrangements, and that is quite some investment for a small town. And it must be remembered, reminds the Review, that incomes from rodeo performances in small towns are usually good but not outstanding. But whatever the income, it is not pocketed by the association, but goes right back into the rodeo property in the shape of improvements.

That is exactly the idea of the rodeo business here in Brown-

VA Stops Sending Insurance Receipts

The Veterans Administration has announced that it will stop sending out receipts for insurance premiums after August 1, 1952. The VA will continue to send out premium due notices, as in the past.

There are about 7 1/2-million government life insurance policies held by veterans, and by stopping the long time procedure of mailing receipts the VA will save about a million dollars a year, and the action is to help offset the economy cuts in the appropriations by the Congress.

Most policyholders pay their insurance of a monthly basis, and the VA reminds that money can be saved by paying in advance on a quarterly, semi-annual or annual basis, and the VA also advised that premium payments made by cash is a dangerous thing and warns veterans to keep cancelled checks, money orders, etc., as proof of premium payments.

The VA will continue to maintain the official record of premium payments for the protection of policyholders and on two types of faulty premium payments, the VA will continue to provide a special service. These two types of faulty premium payments are (1) any payment received in an amount insufficient to pay the premium due, (2) any payment submitted after expiration of the 31-day grace period following the due date of premium. . . in both of the cases, the VA will acknowledge the payments and supply the policyholders with full information regarding the action they may take either to keep their policies in force or to reinstate them.

Insurance of Veterans Now Being Discharged

The serviceman who carried NSLI at the time the Indemnity Act of 1951 was passed, should be certain to make application for reinstatement of his NSLI within 120 days after discharge. The application should be accompanied by a complete physical examination, if there is any question whether or not the veteran completed an application for waiver of premiums. A veteran who did not sign an application for waiver of premiums, withdrew authorization to deduct premiums from his pay, and allowed his insurance to lapse would be required to complete, with physical examination, the application for reinstatement. The application form to use is VA-352b and should be accompanied by at least two monthly premiums.

When the veteran is definitely sure that he has signed an application for waiver of insurance premiums, he should resume premium payments by submission of the necessary premiums and VA Form 906 to the VA. In Service Division, Washington 25, D. C.

field, except that the rodeo physical property is owned and controlled by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and not an association, as such. Presently these grounds are becoming quite extensive, and there is a noted improvement from year to year. But as in the case over at Crosbyton, every dollar earned above actual outgo, is returned to the Rodeo grounds and property in the shape of improvements.

Was down at the State Bank and Trust Co., and had a conversation with our friend, President J. O. Gillham of that institution. And he is a friend if we ever had one. But the burden of our conversation, not strictly business, had to do with the recent Democratic State Convention at San Antonio.

Sorter grinning, J. O. related that after the "loyal" crowd left, everything went off as smooth as you please. He admitted however that he saw some shoving and pushing, as well as heard some rather vociferous language, but was rather distant from where he sat. The newspaper report that the "loyal" crowd left the auditorium singing "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," but when they got outdoors, it was pouring down rain, and the tune changed to "Singing In The Rain."

Anyway, J. O. is glad he has no opponent for the rest of the campaign. However, he let it be known that he aims to get over the district as much as possible and meet as many voters as he can. He wants to know what the voters are thinking, and what they will expect of him.

G. I. QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q.—I bought a home with a GI loan. I'm going back into military service, and I don't think I'll be able to meet my full payments. Is there anything I can do to reduce them to fit my income?

A.—Discuss your situation with the holder of your mortgage. If your total income while in service isn't enough to keep up your regular payments, you may make arrangements with him to pay as much as you can. The amount you are unable to pay will be postponed until you are discharged. At that time, you should make arrangements with the lender to pay it back.

Q.—I expect to complete law school this spring under the GI Bill. May I enroll in a bar review course, also under the GI Bill?

A.—No. A bar review course usually is a review of what you learned, rather than an advancement of progression to a higher level of knowledge. Under VA's post-cut-off-date regulations, additional training must be a progression to the next higher level.

Q.—A friend of mine failed to report for a physical examination in connection with his VA compensation claim. Will his compensation be cut off?

A.—Unless he has a good reason for failing to keep his appointment, his compensation will be suspended. When he eventually reports, retroactive payments may be made if he presents clearly establishing that his disability existed to a compensable degree during the intervening time.

Q.—I hold GI insurance and pay my premiums monthly. Would I save any money if I started paying them once a year, in advance?

A.—Yes. You would save three per cent by paying your premiums annually. Of course, you'd also be saving the government money in reduced bookkeeping costs.

Spur Man Gets Award For Eradication of Mesquite Brush

RENNER—The tough and aggressive mesquite infests more than 55 million acres of rangeland in 113 Texas counties, removing each year from the grazing of livestock millions of dollars of potential profits.

Today 14 years of research in an effort to control this hardy member of the Mimosa family paid off handsomely for a young Texas scientist.

Charles E. Fisher, 41, superintendent of Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Substation No. 7 at Spur, was named winner of the Hoblitzelle award recognizing him as the "Texas agricultural scientist who in the past three years has made the greatest contribution to agriculture in the State." Consisting of $5,000.00 in cash and a gold medal, the award was presented at the annual open house of Texas Research Foundation here.

Fisher's research resulted last year in the control of mesquite on more than 400 thousand acres of Texas pasture. The control method is simple: A low flying airplane "bombs" the mesquite tree with coarse droplets of an oil-water emulsion loaded with a new chemical herbicide. Flying just above the tree tops, the pilot sprays a wide swath of mesquite as he goes. One pound of the hormone-type chemical, 2,4,5-T, is recommended per acre. Cost of treating: About $3.00 per acre.

The panel of judges in selecting the work on mesquite control over that of thirty other Texas agricultural scientists whose research had been entered, pointed out:

"No absolute method for the final eradication of mesquite has been perfected, but the research of C. E. Fisher provides new hope to the farmer and rancher of Texas and the Southwest through the provision of an economic and effective means of controlling the brush. His research has immediate and significant widespread application."

In the past, medicine and public health have concerned themselves largely with the health and disease problems of youth and middle age, said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. We have neglected our aged population and have waited upon the devastations of time before extending aid to the old.

Our population each year includes an increasing number and percentage of older people. In 1950 in the United States, it is estimated that there are 11,000,000 persons over sixty-five years of age, as compared to 3,000,000 in 1900. In absolute numbers, aged persons among us have almost quadrupled in the last fifty years, whereas the proportion of elderly persons to the remainder of the population has merely doubled.

Dr. Cox state that preventive medicine, private medical care, and social service have assisted in extending the life span. As encouraging as this fact may be, there is an accompanying tribulation: the aged are subject to the chronic diseases which, because of destroyed tissue structure, are especially weakened. Heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and other long-term illnesses resist the physicians' most skillful attack and are notably disabling and lethal.

To insure health and peace of mind to our old people, preventive and curative medicine and social service can contribute technique of prevention and care. These techniques should properly include the early discovery of beginning disease processes through periodic examinations that begin in early life and continue for one's remaining years. By such means many cases of chronic disease, with all their agony and sure fatality, might either be prevented or, through the substitution of different living regimens, be rendered tolerable.

Mr. and Mrs. Orb Stice and daughter, Patsy, left May 29 for Columbia, Mo., where they will attend the commencement exercises at Stephens College. Their daughter, Barbara, will graduate. After leaving Missouri, the Stices' will vacation in Washington state, Canada, and on the return trip, will spend some time in California. They expect to be gone a month.

K. T. Keller, Chairman of the Board of Chrysler Corporation and Director of Guided Missiles for the Department of Defense, has been awarded the highest honorary decoration of the Masonic Order's Scottish Rite, the Gougas Medal, for "notably distinguished service in the cause of Freemasonry, humanity and country."

Since its creation in 1938, the Gougas Medal has been awarded to only three other Freemasons including the late King Gustav V of Sweden for "outstanding service in connection with the International Red Cross," President Harry S. Truman in recognition of his work during World War II as head of the Truman Committee, and Dr. Melvin M. Johnson, Sovereign Supreme Commander of the Masonic Order's Supreme Council, for his contributions in the field of mental hygiene and to Masonry.

Mr. Keller, who was coroneted a 33rd Mason in 1942, is the first industrialist to be awarded the Gougas Medal. He was honored not only for his well-known achievements in industry, but also for his outstanding service to the country in many capacities during both war and peace.

In great demand for personal appearances, the Hansens' most recent was as guests of honor at the Norwegian-American Society's celebration of Norwegian Independence Day. "Mama" is portrayed by Peggy Wood, "Papa" by Judson Liare, "Dagmar" by Robin Morgan, "Nels" by Dickie Van Patten, and "Katrin" by Rosemary Rice.

Predict Third Biggest Wheat Crop

RACINE, WIS.—The third largest wheat crop in history is indicated in a report released by the department of agriculture in Washington. It also says prospects are good for a record harvest of food and fiber crops as a whole.

A major factor in this year's almost record harvest will be clipper combines, like the one shown above, in six or seven-foot machines power-take-off or bagger. These machines will harvest over 110 different crops and are manufactured by the Massey-Harris company at their Batavia, N. Y. plant.

Winter wheat was forecast at 886 million bushels, which would be about 40 million more than was indicated a month ago, nearly 40 per cent more than was harvested last year. The combined winter and spring wheat crops would be about a billion 293 million bushels if the spring crop turns out above average. The government goal is one billion 165 million bushels. Only in 1947 and 1948 were wheat crops larger than the one indicated for this year.

TV's Favorite Newlyweds

Connie and Chris Thayer—whose adventures in a modern marriage are viewed on "The First Hundred Years," over NBC-TV weekdays—represent a typical young couple just because they are so untypical! The fresh, individual approach they have to their different problems must present a pretty convincing story of young married life, since a frequent comment from viewers who are also in the newlywed class, is that they often feel the Thayers are right there in their own homes, living the viewers' lives right along with them!

Jordan-Brown Rites Are Solemnized

The marriage of Miss La Deane Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Jordan, and Bennie Burl Brown was solemnized Saturday, May 24, at 6:30 p. m. in the Church of God in Brownfield. Rev. Othol Stegall performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Brown. The twilight ceremony was read before an altar decorated with white gladioli and palms. Traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. George Jordan, aunt of the bride.

The bride wore a pink street length dress, with navy accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid.

Maid of honor was Miss Janice Meeks of Brownfield. Her long waisted dress was of blue taffeta and she wore white accessories. Best man was Mr. Keith Richardson of Odessa.

Yvonne Hartman and Vaneta Shapley were candlelighters. After a wedding trip to North Texas, the couple will be at home near Brownfield where the groom is engaged in farming.

The bride attended Meadow schools and the groom is a Wellman High School graduate.

Mrs. James Lackey and children joined Mr. Lackey in Ruidosa, N. M., last weekend, where they will spend the summer.

strapsless underdress. The wedding dress was complimented with true blue accessories. Something new was the dress, something old were earrings from the groom. A handkerchief belonging to Mrs. Hodges was carried as something borrowed. She wore blue garters for something blue and had a penny in her shoe for luck. Her bridal bouquet was an arrangement of flowers centered with a white orchid which she carried atop a white Bible.

Miss Opal Blake of Meadow was maid of honor and Miss Zora Lee Kennedy of Lubbock served as bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of blue summery material and had white carnation corsages.

Dean Hinson of Meadow was the groom's best man.

The bride and groom both attended Meadow schools. Following a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will reside near Meadow where the groom is engaged in farming.

Bridal Shower Held in Eubanks Home

The Horace Eubanks home north of Brownfield was the scene of a bridal shower Thursday, May 28, from 2 until 5 o'clock, honoring Mrs. Clarence Clark, the former Miss Sylvia Andrews.

Assisting Mrs. Eubanks as co-hostesses were Mesdames Lester Lockett, Willie Blair, Carl Stevenson, Jess Pendergrass, John Roberts, Bill Knight, Homer Barron and George Barron.

Misses Glenda Knight and Ann Barron greeted the guests and Opal Blake presided at the bride's book.

The bride's chosen colors of blue and white were carried out in the decorations. The table was laid with a white linen cloth over blue, and was centered with a bouquet of white carnations tied with blue satin ribbon. On the ribbon in gold lettering were "Sylvia and Clarence." The cake was decorated in blue and white, and blue ice was used in the punch.

Misses Lee Nell Walker and Dorothy Howard assisted at the serving table.

One hundred and two friends registered or sent gifts.

Double Ring Service Is Read In Lakeview

Miss Myrna Clark and Lonnie Fulford, both of Meadow, exchanged wedding vows in a ceremony read Sunday afternoon, June 1, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at the First Baptist Church at Lakeview.

The Rev. Vance Zinn, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring candlelight service before an altar banked with arrangements of white gladioli. Palm trees and tapers in candelabra were used in the background.

Mrs. Zelma Cesari of Meadow and Mr. Loyd Clark of Plainview are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Fulford of Meadow.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mrs. Billy Timmons played "Because" and "Indian Love Call." She was accompanied by Mr. Boswell Edwards as he sang "Always" and "I Love You Truly." The traditional wedding marches were played.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. Designed with a sheer drop shoulder yoke outlined with lace appliques, the fitted bodice had long sleeves ending in points over the hands and a deep point at the center front waistline. Cut in circular lines the lace extended to the lower hipline where it was appliqued to nylon tulle in a lovely flower design. The fullness of many skirts emphasized by crinoline were worn underneath.

She wore a stiffened net cap trimmed with crisscross rows of white lilies from which fell a short veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was a large white orchid surrounded by other white flowers.

Miss Carol Ann Gunter of Plainview served as maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of yellow taffeta covered with yellow net over blue net. Her bouquet was an arrangement of yellow talisman roses.

Best man was Freddie Howard of Brownfield. Dale Fulford, brother of the groom, ushered.

At a reception which followed the ceremony in the Lakeview Church, the couple was assisted in receiving by their mothers and members of the bridal party.

The table was laid with a lace cloth over blue. Decorations were yellow roses and candelabra. Centering the table was the double heart cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a brown and

Good Management In Egg Production Pays

COLLEGE STATION.—The ratio between the price of eggs and the cost of feed for the past several weeks has been rough on all poultrymen but especially on the less efficient producers. One sure way to cut feed costs, says W. J. Moore, poultry husbandman, for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is to remove from the laying flock the non-producers.

Warmer weather usually ushers in the beginning of a slump in egg production and with it a rising market. Low production per hen during the summer season may mean the difference between a profitable year or a loss on the business. Take the non-producers to market, says Moore, just as soon as they are noticed in the flock. Chances are these hens will not come back into production for many months and feeding them is a dead expense.

Hens that show a straggled, dried-up comb, yellow beak, new feathers, yellow shanks and yellow vents should be culled and sold. Hens that lack vigor and spend their time loafing should also be removed from the flock. A good producer must eat good feed and drink lots of clean, cool water and they can't do this unless they rustle. Of course, adds Moore, the poultryman must do his part by supplying the feed and water.

The poultryman who does a good job of culling continuously will be well paid for his trouble. Poultry farm management can not be most efficient unless the non-producers are sent to market and this means continuous culling, says Moore.

Collins

YOUR UNITED STATES

BY FLOYD CRAMER
PRESIDENT, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF FREE ENTERPRISE, INC.

The low purchasing power of the dollar is the big economic fact of the times.

Cheap money plays a very cruel trick on people.

It makes them feel that they have more dollars in hand when, in truth, they have less purchasing power. As long as our dollar continues to decrease in value, a man earning an increase in wages is not necessarily increasing his buying power. He may be just keeping up with the cost of living.

If we had a stable dollar, we would be able to know from one year to the next just where we stand financially. Then every dollar we put in a savings account today would have the same buying power 10 years later when we took it out.

In recent years we have had before us a vivid example of the cruelty of cheap money. In Germany after World War I the value of the money steadily decreased. Finally it reached a point where the proceeds of an insurance policy would just about buy one good dinner.

On the other hand, Britain's greatest century from 1814 to 1914 was marked by a hundred years of stable money. At the end of that century the pound sterling actually purchased more than it did at the beginning. Here in the United States, however, there has been a constant decrease in the purchasing power of our money.

To you and me, here is what this recent devaluation of the dollar has really meant:

When the old nickel candy bar actually cost 5 cents, we were able to buy 20 of them for our dollar. When the same size candy bar costs a dime, we now get only 10 of them for our dollar. This means that we need twice as many dollars to stay even.

Also, if we were taxed 20 per cent, when our candy bar cost a nickel, the tax was equal to 4 candy bars, and we had enough left of our dollar, after taxes to buy 16.

But if the dollar only buys 10 candy bars, a tax of 20 per cent is equal to 2 candy bars, and leaves us the power to buy only 8.

Now the sober fact is, that the government is also paying higher prices for everything it buys, so that it, too, needs more dollars.

Thus, our taxes go higher and higher. You and I feel the effect very keenly, and the happy, rosy glow we experienced when we first got more dollars, fades away entirely as our taxes go up and up, and our purchasing power goes down and down.

Those who administer our national affairs must understand the damage that so-called "cheap money" does to both the government and the individual. It is in the interest of all Americans to concentrate on this issue in the coming election, rather than on the personalities of candidates.

The Congress is particularly important. Our future, our financial security and our life ambitions depend upon sound money.

And by sound money, I mean stable money, money which buys the same amount of goods year after year.

We are apt to do nothing about affairs of finance, because we think they are complicated. But in truth, it is only you and I who can maintain the dollar's value—by supporting those Congressional candidates who understand sound money.

GM Builds New 'Two-Way' Plant in Texas

Construction work has begun on the new General Motors "dual purpose" plant (above) at Arlington, Texas, where GM's Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Assembly Division will build a Grumman-designed airplane for the United States Navy and assemble passenger cars simultaneously. The flexible layout of the plant will permit combined aircraft-automotive operations or it can be converted in a matter of days to either total aircraft or total automotive production, depending upon military requirements. The "dual purpose" plant idea was first proposed a year ago by C. E. Wilson, GM president, as a means of maintaining strong military and civilian production levels without disruption of plant facilities or working forces. Most of the Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac cars produced in the Arlington plant will be for distribution in Texas.

"Thutty Minutes For Lunch, See a Killin'"

(By BRUCE HENDERSON)

DALLAS. (AP) — "Six-shooter Junction," the brakeman would yell as the train chugged into Waco. "Thutty minutes for lunch and see a killin'."

This was the fierce Brazosland of Texas in the early days, a Dallas civil district attorney in a new book, published May 19.

Author Julien Hyer's "The Land of Beginning Again" is the stirring history of this country which sweeps majestically from the Brazos River banks.

From dusty West Texas to the forks that converge at Possum Kingdom Lake in the Palo Pinto country to the Gulf of Mexico, towns dotting this river's path are quietly industrious now. But they weren't always so.

For this land once underwent the growing pains of civilization. It had a tough time establishing law and order.

Waco was rowdy. There were so many shootin' scrapes and gun-totin' bad men strutting about the square in early Waco the town won the title of "Six-Shooter Junction."

There was old Will Lambdin who got into a running gunfight with two assailants and, before he killed them, cheerfully picked off two innocent bystanders for good measure.

The Brazos—more than any other—is Texas' river, the author believes. The Red River Texans must share with Oklahoma, the Sabine with Louisiana, the Rio

One catastrophe most television comics fear is exhausting their limited supply of comedy material. But this is the least of Red Skelton's worries. The famed redhead has a backlog of over three hundred basic routines. And he's only used ten or so during his thirty-two shows this season!

Ian Martin, who portrays Thomas Hill, Wendy Warren's boss, on CBS's daily "Wendy Warren & The News," took time out recently to join a friend last week in looking at a specially constructed German Klepper sailboat. Ian was so impressed by the boat that he bought one and named it "KIPTO" after Chris and Toby, his two children. The craft is made of long canvass fibers, weighs fifty pounds and seats four people. Because a similar boat was dug out of a bombed area in France a few years ago and floated as well as when it was built, the "KIPTO" is considered to be practically indestructible.

Bob Haag, who plays Bill Roberts, husband of "Rosemary" on the CBS serial is a bachelor in real life — and lives in a small apartment in Greenwich Village for convenience to the broadcasting studio — but spends his happiest hours on his farm in Massachusetts. Bob, tall and goodlooking, finds himself often defending the position of the contented bachelor. "Sure," he states, "I'd like to get married when I find the right girl, but in the meantime, I can cope with the domestic problems of living alone perfectly well."

Bob claims that women never will give a man credit for knowing anything about housekeeping, and are all convinced that domestic chores must present insurmountable objects to single men. "Actually," Bob claims, "when I do marry, I'll probably have to keep quiet about just how well I can do things around the house—except, maybe, washing." "In fact," bachelor Haag adds, "it would be kind of nice to have a woman around to do up my argyle socks."

State Farm and Ranch Safety Committee Meets

COLLEGE STATION.—J. Walter Hammond president of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, chosen for a second term as chairman of the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee at a meeting of the body in Waco on May 20, emphasized that "safety is everybody's business" and that most accidents are preventable. Apart from electing officers and committee chairmen for the year ahead of major objective of the meeting was to consider ways and means of making rural Texans more safety conscious.

E. C. Martin, state agricultural leader of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, was re-elected secretary and Dr. F. C. Bolton, president emeritus of Texas A. and M. College, the youth training committee; while Arthur Loesch, master of the State Grange, will head a new committee on membership. Other committee chairmen include C. G. Scruggs, associate editor, Progressive Farmer, publicity; Marvin Carter, organization director, TFFB, finance; John G. McHoney, Extension Service, statistics; and Cal T. Johnson, Sears-Roebuck Foundation, awards. The Texas Home Demonstration Association will name a chairman for the women's activity committee. Committee members will be added by the respective chairmen and other interested group will be invited to join the States Committee in their campaign to reduce farm and home accidents.

Plans were made for the observance of Farm Safety Week—July 20-26, but Chairman Hammond cautioned that every week must be safety week if accidents are to be prevented. He cited figures to show what happened last year when farm tractors were operated on highways after dark without proper lights. Reports on 19 accidents in the nation involving tractors and motor vehicles show that 18 farmers and one motorist were killed. These accidents could have been prevented had the tractors been properly lighted and operated, said Hammond.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith spent the weekend at Possum Kingdom, fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Packard and son of Greggton, Texas, recently visited in the home of Fred Smith, Mrs. Packard's father. They later visited in Levelland, Littlefield and in Plainview where they were guests in the home of Mrs. Packard's brother, Wendell Smith, formerly a Brownfield resident.

Picture of a Pair who just waked up

HERE in the driveway is a Buick. It has just arrived. It belongs to this proud young couple. They've just "arrived" too.

They've arrived at a discovery—the discovery that owning a Buick instead of a "low-priced car" isn't so much a matter of money.

It's a matter of knowing the facts of life. Buick prices are closer to the prices of smaller, less powerful, less distinguished cars than most people think.

Why don't you check into this?

You'll find you could pay $300 to $400 more — and still not match the horsepower of this nimble beauty.

You could pay hundreds of dollars more—and still not get any more interior room, or richer fabrics.

But that's only part of the story.

The big thing about any car is the way it goes. So you ought to find out how this car rides the road—the freedom from bobble and sway that cost a million real dollars to develop.

You ought to sample the way Dynaflo Drive® feeds the power—with a steady swoop and unbroken smoothness in city traffic, on hills, or out on the open road.

And you ought to know how it feels to touch off that Fireball 8 Engine. With all its might, this high-compression valve-in-head gets a lot of miles from a gallon of gas.

We'll tell you this—because a lot of folks have told us this: No matter what car you're driving now—no matter what cars you've looked at—they'll never seem the same after you try this one.

Just give us a chance to prove it — and you'll have a lot of fun.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the Star Box of Texas

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law).

Patented Ideas Protected By Simple Precautions

Many people have good ideas about new or improved machines or gadgets, but never do anything about them because they don't know how to protect their rights while perfecting such items and going through the necessary patenting procedure. Here's what you can do to protect your invention before you have it patented.

Under the laws of the United States, the person who first conceives of a new and novel patentable idea is entitled to it. Therefore, if conflicting claims arrive as to who is entitled to a patent, it is necessary to establish who first had the idea, not who filed the first application for patent.

Of course, it is always advisable to make application for patent as soon as possible in such cases. But don't forget to protect yourself while you are completing your final drawings and ultimate plans and making such tests as may be needed to perfect your patent. To do this, you should, as soon as you conceive the idea, make a written record of the facts, dating the same, including a general statement of the nature of your invention, and a rough drawing if possible. This should be witnessed by two persons who could be called on later on to testify that they witnessed the same on the dates set out in the instrument you have drawn.

The wife of a U. S. President has no official title.

This country is like a man who was so concerned with building snow fences around his property that he completely forgot to put in a store of fuel and food for the winter. So when the snows finally came, he and his family suffered severely.

We Americans are presently engaged in the same kind of activity right now. We are out building snow fences all over the world, and neglecting to look after the affairs of our own home.

Now there is absolutely nothing wrong with building snow fences! It is both prudent and necessary for the United States to protect itself in Western Europe and Asia. But unless we keep our country strong and healthy economically, what use will defenses abroad be?

We, as a nation, have agreed that snow fences are necessary. We must now decide how many we can afford, how many are actually needed, where best to place them and if we are getting full value. That is why we must question our foreign aid expenditures. Not to question them is unpatriotic.

To permit our fear of aggression to drive out all common sense is to become a nation of mand-men. It is time we soberly reviewed the situation.

America is our country. She faces danger by either ocean, and by way of the North Pole for that matter. We have a big job in defending ourselves. On that we all agree. But if we neglect our domestic economy, and let that run down, we shall fail in every direction, both at home and abroad. Equally certain is the fact that if we continue heavy spending abroad and high taxes at home, the American people will be brought down to the economic level of the people we are trying to help.

The good of America, the good of our own people should be our first consideration. We must not allow our thinking to dwell solely on international problems. Our future depends on maintaining a progressive standard of living for ourselves through a sound economy here at home. Unless we preserve free enterprise which encourages production and profit, and unless we secure the dollar's value, we are soon going to find it difficult to provide for ourselves—much less for our friends abroad!

So every Congressman, every American, should be increasingly aware of the necessity of questioning defense and economic aid appropriations, not with an eye to eliminating necessary protection, but with a more practical, realistic view of our own needs at home.

It is now necessary for us to keep our aid to other countries within the limits of what we can afford. Any further inflation, taxation, and loss of dollar value will make it impossible for us to afford very much. Therefore, to help our allies throughout the world we must first secure our own economy.

4-H Club Members Study Shrubs

COLLEGE STATION.—From the Panhandle to the Gulf Coast and from East Texas to New Mexico, 4-H boys and girls are studying shrubs and their uses. Community, county and district contests are being held to train members in recognizing shrubs and suggesting practical uses, says Sadie Hatfield, homestead improvement specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Friendly contests at club meetings train the members to recognize shrubs quickly. Each contestant, she adds, is expected to know at least 50 shrubs. This list includes many old time favorites such as abelia, althea, bush honeysuckle, bridal wreath and crape myrtle. The list also contains many of our native shrubs which have been neglected such as apache plume, cliff rose, desert willow, lemonade sumac, wafer ash and evergreen sumac. The specialist explains that dry weather during the past two seasons has quickened the general interest in our native drought enduring plants.

Each contestant is expected to recognize a shrub from a branch and tell whether or not it holds its leaves during the winter. Contestants should indicate at least two uses of each plant. The list includes low growing evergreens for doorway accent and many flowering shrubs suitable for planting under windows and about homes and outbuildings.

During the 1951 4-H Round-Up, the first state Shrub Identification Contest was held, and it created a great deal of interest. Boys and girls from all parts of Texas are preparing now for the 1952 contest, to be held June 9 at Texas A. and M. College. Winning teams and high score individuals will be given gold, silver and bronze medals, says Miss Hatfield. This is one contest, she adds, in which all can be winners. Learning to know shrubs and where to plant them is valuable information when planning home grounds and knowing which will be hardy and thrifty is equally important.

Grass Roots Opinion

Elkton, Md., Cecil Whigg: "The situation created by the seizure of the steel mills by President Truman is both serious and difficult. If . . . the President had been in the same frame of mind which possessed him some years ago when he was angered by the leaders of the Railroad unions, he might conceivably have seized the CIO Steel Workers Union, placing all of its property funds and organization under the direct operation of some Federal agency."

Victor, N. Y., Herald: "Two months ago the government halted a New York Central rail walk-out by enjoining the workers to go back. Two years ago he (the President) thwarted John L. Lewis' will to strike through the courts and won his fight. Yet in the steel case he has gone far beyond normal executive powers. His seizure of the steel industry can only add up to an act of unwarranted power . . ."

Angels Camp, Calif., Calaveras Californian: ". . . In that part of the Constitution known as the 'Bill of Rights,' Article IV states, 'The rights of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated x x x.' . . . the court saw fit to grant the steel industry an order voiding the industry's seizure."

Bishopville, S. C., Lee County Messenger: "Quoting Donald Richberg: 'The seizure of the properties of the steel companies by President Truman is the most inexcusably lawless act of any President in our entire history.' Mr. Richberg is a distinguished attorney, author, General Counsel and Chairman of NRA, co-author of the Railway Labor Act and for years conspicuously identified with Government Administrative policies."

Texans In Washington

By Tex Easley AP Special Washington Service WASHINGTON. (P) — Every congressman gets lots of mail, some of which is propaganda, some from constituents threatening to defeat the legislator if he doesn't go along with them, and some from people calmly expressing their honest convictions.

Rep. Lloyd Bentsen of McAllen offers some pointers about writing your congressman, views which undoubtedly are shared by the rest of his Texas colleagues.

The "Do's" include these points: 1. Give concise reasons for your position. Every congressman appreciates first-hand information from people who know what they are talking about. 2. Keep letters as short as possible. Considering some 100 to 1,000 letters a day may pour into an office, a congressman hasn't time to wade through a long drawn-out letter.

3. Give specific name or number of the bill in which you are interested. Some 10,000 assorted bills are introduced in the two-year period of each Congress.

On the other side are: 1. Don't send a form letter or quote someone else's letter. The congressman wants your own thoughts on legislation.

2. Don't ask the congressman to take a stand on a specific bill until the committee in charge of the legislation has had a chance to hear the evidence and dig out all the facts, pro and con.

3. Don't tell the congressman how influential you are in his home district.

Dead Flies Safest, Get Them Early

COLLEGE STATION.— Sanitation is the number one item in a successful fly control program. Insecticidal treatment is of little or no value unless a thorough job of cleaning up all fly breeding places is done, says A. C. Gunter, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

It is a known fact, emphasizes the specialist, that flies carry the germs of many diseases and with the increasing amount of polio in the state, it is more important than ever to get rid of the flies early.

Gunter says if DDT is not giving good results, try a 2 per cent chlordane household spray. It should get the flies as well as other insect pests that are bothersome in and around the house.

Premises should be kept clean at all times. Keep garbage in covered containers and be sure the lids are in place. Clean up and destroy the breeding places around the farmstead and don't expect insecticides to do the entire job. They'll help, says Gunter, but there is nothing that can be substituted for cleanliness.

Mix liberal amounts of sanitation with smaller amounts of insecticides and use them to keep flies under control. One treatment is not enough.

If complete control is to be maintained, regular checks must be made to see that breeding places are not reestablished and insecticides used to get those that go visiting without an invitation. Remember, says the specialist, about the only safe fly to have around the place is a dead one and the use of insecticides and strict sanitation practices in and around the home will keep fly numbers at a minimum.

G. I. QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q.—I'm planning to switch schools under the GI Bill, without changing my course. My new school is located in another part of the country, and I'll have to take time off in order to transfer. Will this interruption be permitted, under VA regulations?

A.—Yes, provided you file an application for a change of schools with VA. You must, however, start your course in the new school within a reasonable period of time.

Q.—May I use a GI loan to buy residential property containing more than one family unit? I plan to live in one of the apartments.

A.—Yes, but the total number of separate units cannot be more than four, if you are buying it alone.

Q.—I'm a World War II veteran, back on active duty. I expect to get out sometime in 1952. Will I still be able to take advantage of my GI loan privilege, based on my World War II service?

A.—Yes. You'll have plenty of time to obtain a GI loan, for the deadline for most veterans does not come until July 2, 1957.

Q.—I want to change the beneficiary of my National Service Life Insurance policy. How do I go about it?

A.—You must notify the VA District Office that handles your insurance account, preferably on a form that may be obtained at any VA office. If you don't have such a form, any written notice will do, so long as you sign it and include enough information so that VA can identify your account.

Assistant Atty.-General Works For Tidelands Bill

Among the diligent workers for states' ownership of the lands beneath the marginal seas was Dow Heard Jr., of Austin, assistant attorney general of Texas. He stayed around town for two weeks before the bill went to the White House, to do what he could to drum up support for the measure. His best work came after the bill was sent to the President.

He worked with the top leaders of the American Bar Association's board of governors, among whom was Lawyer Robert Storey of Dallas, and got that group to issue a resolution calling on Congress to override an expected Presidential veto of the tidelands bill.

YOU'LL FIND IT EVEN BETTER THAN YOU'VE HEARD!..

It's been many years since a new car has caused as much talk as today's Chrysler Imperial has. What you may not realize is how long it's been since a car gave so many reasons for excited talk as this one. May we invite you to drive and test the best and most worth-owning engine on the road today? (Chrysler's magnificent new 180 H.P. FirePower V-8.) May we invite you to handle the easiest and safest steering wheel in existence at the moment? (Chrysler's full-time Power-Steering.)

as they have only a short time in which to make a crop but we have had some rain and trust the giver of all good things that more will follow and a bountiful harvest may result.

I try to always have good farm land to offer worth the money asked for it.

If you have land for sale that is good and worth what you ask for it list with me and I will show it to interested buyers.

If you anticipate buying a farm or property to rent or live in, in town, see me as I may have what you want as I have good income properties listed.

If you can find a better bargain elsewhere I will expect you to buy it.

All I ask is a chance at your business either buyer or seller.
