

LESS THAN ONE-THIRD OF TERRY CARS INSPECTED

L. W. Wilhite, inspector of Motor Vehicles Inspection Division of the Department of Public Safety, was here Thursday making a survey of our inspection stations.

In making the rounds of the seven inspection stations, Mr. Wilhite found there had been up to June 1, only 1862 motor vehicles inspected, of a total of 6800, leaving 4938 to be inspected by September 1. He urges you not to put off until the last day to get your inspection sticker. It's not hard, you just need nine basic parts of your car inspected, and a safe driver sees to it that these things are in order at all times. Here are the details:

1. Motor Number—obtained off the block or frame merely to identify the vehicle as having been inspected.

2. Brakes (foot brakes only), checked for two things only, stopping distance and equalization.

3. Headlights—Both high and low beam must burn and must be properly aimed. Minimum candlepower of 3500.

4. Tail Lights—One is sufficient, may be either on right or left side.

5. Stop Lights—Required on passenger cars from 1948 models on up. 1947 models on down are not required. All trucks and pickups are required to have a stop light.

6. Horn—Inspected for audible signal only.

7. Steering—Must be in reasonable safe condition.

8. Wheel Alignment — Toe-in only.

9. Windshields—Inspected to see if the vision of the driver is seriously affected. Vehicles not having windshields should not be rejected.

Below are some statistics compiled by Mr. Wilhite, and his comments:

In Texas alone last year we killed 2546 people, injured 70,000 more and suffered an economic loss of 96,000,000 (million) dollars.

This is a deplorable situation and is the reason why the 52nd Legislature passed HB 223 which requires every vehicle registered in the State of Texas, excepting small trailers, to be safely inspected at least once a year.

It is not contended that the inspection law is a cure-all to our traffic problem, but we do contend the inspection program will reduce accidents to a certain extent.

Basically, there are three causes of accidents. Faults of driver, faults of the roadway and faults in the vehicle.

Surely every one will agree that motor vehicle inspections have a place in our overall traffic control program along with Education, Enforcement, Engineering and Driver's Licensing.

The biggest objection to an inspection program is that it gives the garage owner too much of an opportunity to gouge the public. Actually there is no opportunity at all. Each inspection station has been thoroughly instructed to make no repairs or adjustments unless they are authorized by the owner. The owner of an automobile is under no obligation to the inspection station other than paying one dollar for the inspection. If any defects are disclosed, he may take it anywhere he chooses for repair or he may do the work himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Hester and son, Kirk, spent the weekend in the Rev. J. N. Hester and W. F. McCracken homes.

ONE DEATH IN FOUR WEEK END TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

This week, which opened with a weekend marred by four accidents and two resulting in serious injuries and one death, continued in the path of traffic violence when a three-car collision occurred about 4 p. m., one and a half miles north on the Lubbock road.

Vehicles involved were a 1952 Hudson sedan going north out of Brownfield, driven by Cecil Thurman Cline of Fort Worth, and a 1951 Nash sedan driven by Mrs. Mildred Edwards of Hobbs, N. M., going south towards Brownfield on the Lubbock highway. Patrolmen checking the accident said tracks indicate that a third car struck the Nash, knocking it across the black line. Mrs. Edwards' car then hit Cline's automobile, which in turn struck a tree. Officers reported at press time that the third car had not yet been located.

Mrs. Edwards was taken to the local hospital for treatment of bruises and abrasions and released to return home Tuesday night. Cline was kept in the local hospital overnight for observation and had not yet been released Wednesday morning, according to hospital attendants.

H. E. Dodge, 54, died Tuesday at about 5:30 p. m. after being in "extremely critical condition" at the local hospital for several days. A Brownfield resident who had been working at Odessa, Dodge suffered a broken neck when the 1951 Ford pickup he was driving overturned after hitting a soft shoulder on the highway, patrolmen said. The accident occurred about 6:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon five miles southwest of town on the Esgraves highway. He was employed by the Basin Plumb-

Brownfield Banks In Fine Condition

Rather late to say anything about the statements of First National and Brownfield State Bank and Trust Co. And we do not think excuses are in order in a publishing statement. But we were shorthanded on reporters and other departments last week — sickness and vacations.

We will, however, say that the banks had fine statements for the time of year, when most is going out and little coming in. And we are proud of our financial institutions. The officers, directors and personnel are the salt of the earth.

You are made to feel at home when you step into one of the local banks, even if your account is temporarily overdrawn.

John C. White Asks For Re-Election

John C. White, the only man in some 10 or 12 tries that was able to lick the late Com. McDonald for Texas Agricultural Commissioner, is asking the voters for re-election for his second term.

The Herald believes that this enterprising and well qualified young man has made Texas a good commissioner, and we believe one good term deserves another. White claims Wichita Falls as his home.

Dr. Miller to Be Located at Sherman

Dr. Frank P. Miller, Director of the South Plains Health Unit, left Brownfield for Sherman, Tuesday, where he will assume the duties as Director of the Grayson County Health Unit.

Dr. Miller began as director of the South Plains Health Unit in 1945. Through his leadership the South Plains Health Unit grew from a staff of four personnel to a staff of sixteen over the five county area, composed of Terry, Chell, Bill Keith, Carlsbad, and Mitchell, 78; Herb Schroeder, Leveland, 77; Dode Forrester, Hobbs, 79; Dick Turner, Amarillo, and Gid Faircloth, Jal, 80; Curt Wilson, Lubbock, 85.

At a meeting of the professionals, Forrester, president of the West Texas PGA, announced that the Fall Open would be held in the first week of November with $2,500 cash for professionals, plus some $1,000 in prizes for the amateurs entered.

Terry Tax Valuations Up Near $21,000,000

In an interview this week with Leonard Lang, County Judge of Terry county, he stated to a reporter that on account of a great increase in oil production, and other property, the taxable valuation would take a jump of some $5,000,000 this year.

Last year the valuations were $15,074,576, and with the addition of $5,000,000 the valuations for the year will be around $21,000,000, Judge Lang stated.

The Board of Equalization met last Thursday, the 10th, and there will be another July 28, he stated.

Joe S. Moss of Post For Associate Justice

Had a letter this week from Editor Eddie Warren of the Post Dispatch, in behalf of his friend and fellow townsman, Joe S. Moss. In the same communication, he sent some material for a write-up of Moss, a prominent attorney of Post. But we liked what Eddie said in his letter better. It was more to the point.

Let us state right here though, that Joe Moss is not only popular with the home folks, where he served several terms as Garza County Attorney, but he is popular with the law profession all over the 7th District, which comprises the Panhandle and South Plains, with headquarters in Amarillo.

In this vote of several hundred members of the State Bar Association, by those living within the district, Joe Moss received 176 votes to 161 received by all three of his opponents.

And Eddie added that Moss is just a small town man, like himself, but was in every way qualified for the job as Associate Justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals. The lawyers of the district, we take it, are the best judges of the man who is the best qualified.

Some Particulars About Election

Burton G. Hackney, County Democratic Chairman, has asked the Herald to give a bit of information about the coming primary to be held July 26. In the first place the polls will open at 8 a. m., and they will close at 7 p. m.

Hackney stated that there seemed to be some confusion about moving from one precinct in the county to another. However, if the voter has been in the state one year and the county six months, he can move from one precinct to another the day before the election, and vote in his new precinct the next day.

And providing a voter moved from Let's say, Lynn county to Terry in less than six months, he can show a poll tax receipt, and make affidavit, if requested by the presiding judge, that he is a qualified voter. He may then be furnished with a ballot with the state and district candidates, but with the county and precinct candidates removed.

In connection with this, we might remind employers that Attorney General Price Daniel has ruled in the past few days, that they must allow their employees time to vote, without deductions for time out for voting.

Otherwise the employer lays himself liable to a fine up to $500.

NOTICE TO BOY SCOUTS

All Boy Scouts troops of Brownfield are invited to be at Junior High school Friday evening, from 7 to 8 o'clock. Important business. Be there.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shelton were in Ruidosa and Cloudcroft, N. M. Sunday. They returned home on Monday.

GILLHAM GIVES VIEWS ON LEGISLATIVE NEEDS

Your Editor had a visit with J. O. Gillham, President of the Brownfield State Bank & Trust Co. this week who is our unopposed candidate for State Representative of our new 98th Representative District, composed of Terry, Yoakum, Cochran and Hockley counties, and for the benefit of our readers we asked Mr. Gillham several questions. The result of our interview follows:

Question: Mr. Gillham, do you think the redistricting bill passed by the last session of the Legislature is a fair bill and will be helpful to West Texas?

Answer: Yes I do, definitely. As you know, redistricting for legislative purposes is a provision of our constitution and calls for the legislature to redistrict the state for representative purposes immediately following each Federal census which comes every ten years. The state was redistricted in 1920 but our Legislature failed to pass a redistricting bill in 1930 and 1940. Their failure to pass a redistricting law in these years and the rapid increase in population in most West Texas areas, brought about a serious situation in our area particularly, since we had shown the most rapid growth of any area in West Texas. I think now we will have something like six new Representatives in the House, where we had one before. Also Senatorial district boundaries have been changed also and the Plains area will have another Senator centered around in the Plainview area. Definitely, West Texas will have much more representation in our Legislature than before and we should be able to get something done for the benefit of West Texas. No longer will a small area in North-east Texas have the balance of power as they have had heretofore.

Question: Do you think the next session of the Legislature will convene in Austin sometime in January, 1953, will be an important session or one of the more ordinary ones?

Answer: I definitely think that the 53rd Legislature will be a very important session and will have many problems coming before it which will have to be settled.

Question: Do you think there will be a need for additional taxes to be voted by the next Legislature?

Answer: I do not at this time see any need for any additional taxes and I am committed to oppose any new tax legislation. No doubt there will be many calls on the legislature for additional funds for most everything, but I shall not look with favor upon increasing appropriations for the various departments, although there may be some isolated cases where additional funds are really needed. But I think there are many places where appropriations can be cut, too. I have already heard of some cases where various State Departments are wasting the Taxpayers' money and I shall certainly want every department

A large number of business and professional people is expected to enroll in this 10-hour course which is considered to be very helpful in the methods of handling charge accounts, according to Bob Tobey, manager of the Retail Merchants Association, which is sponsoring the school.

Local merchants doing business on a credit basis, together with their employees, are invited to attend the first meeting Monday night, July 21, without obligation. All phases of retail credit operations will be covered during the course, which will be held nightly from 7:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. at the South Plains Health Unit. Advance enrollments may be made immediately by contacting Retail Merchants, phone 919.

Mexican National Labor Not Settled

About the time the farmers think they have things about settled for a year or so at least, so they can use Mexican National laborers satisfactorily, something else again happens. Of late the Mexican government, maybe encouraged a bit by the Department of Labor at Washington, has brought about a demand that the prices paid for this labor should be boosted.

As a consequence, a lot of the farm organizations of this area, including the Terry County Farm Association, met at Lubbock last Saturday to discuss the matter, and to make protest of this sudden demand for higher wages. It was understood that the agreement for this year was to be $1.50 per 100 for pulling — not picking — cotton.

There were representatives in this meeting from all over the South Plains sections, particularly where cotton is raised. Presently many of these nationals are chopping cotton. And it is believed that as many as 40 or 50,000 of these people are being used in the South Plains section.

But, the contracts with these nationalists and the Mexican government was running out. It was then that the farmers of the area suddenly were presented with new contracts and much higher wages, which they consider unreasonable.

Not only that, but it was discovered that at several Mexican border towns, different prices for labor was demanded.

The difference in the present prices, and the new demands, are said to run into millions of dollars. Among those attending from Terry county, were:

County Ag. Agent Jim Foy stated this week that the local and other farm organizations protested strongly against the Mexican government to write into the contracts, or extension of contracts, minimum wages, not in accordance with international agreement. They also protested against individual contracts.

The Mexican Council wants a $1.75 minimum wage written into the contracts and extensions and have refused to contract without this $1.75 per cwt. pulling wage, whereas the joint agreement between the US and Mexican governments was $1.50 per cwt. for pulling cotton in this area.

Brownfield Posse Wins Distance Awards, Miss Anthony Is Queen at Santa Fe Rodeo

The Republican National Convention is now history for the year 1952. Perhaps there were more fights and animosity created within their ranks than there has been since the memorable convention of 1912, when William Howard Taft, father of Robert H. Taft, tried the idea of running rough shod over many delegations. He was finally nominated, however, but another convention nominated Theodore Roosevelt on the Bull Moose ticket. Woodrow Wilson was the Democratic nominee that year. If our memory does not fail us, Taft carried two states, Vermont and New Hampshire, Teddy carried eight and Wilson the rest, 38 states. While the Taft and Eisenhower followers fit, bled and died until the final gun and the count was made; they did then get together, and solemnly promises were made to fight it out on the line until the November election. And now comes the Democrats, and they are just as badly torn if not worse than the GOP. While the Republicans were mainly divided over men, the Democrats will be divided over both men and measures. And there will be a long, hot scrap at Chicago next week. And we shall not wonder that a lot of the Southern delegations take a walk; more than four years ago. For one thing, the Northern wing and radicals will insist on a strong Civil Rights plank in the platform. And this is not going to suit Southern people, as they believe each state should have priority over such measures, and that long strides are already being made toward that end in the South as well as all over the nation. And that it should not be a federal law. The Republicans were rather lenient in this measure, and accused the Democrats of having a strong Civil Rights and FEPC plank four years ago, and have done nothing about it, although having both the legislative as well as the executive branch. But back to the Republican row. As we see it, Taft lost some, perhaps many votes because of the speeches of the "second-ers," who romped on other candidates, particularly Ike. Anyway, after the fireworks, the main guys of the convention were broadens, Texas, youngest County Attorney in the USA. Then there is Vance C. Ferrell, down at Linden, Texas, who at the age of 23, was elected County Clerk, and said to be the youngest office holder of any kind in the USA. He is now 25, and is seeking re-election without opposition. And here in West Texas, is Dalton Crockett, elected Assessor-Collector of taxes in Rannels county at the age of 23. Before that time, he served an appointive term as District Clerk. An these young men have been cited for their work in the service of good government and civic matters generally. So far, these young men have not reached the point that they think should be the whole hog or none. 'Rah!' for the younger generation of leaders.

The Fifth National Congress of the Mexican Division of United Newspapers of America, is meeting July 31 to August 4 at Matamoras, across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, Texas. And they have invited papers from Texas Good Neighbor Commission. The invitation was extended by the president of the above named organization, who went on to state that the President of Mexico as well as the American Ambassador to Mexico, William O'Dwyer, have expressed their intention of attending the meeting. Representing the Mexican press will be the editors and publishers of the leading dailies as well as the weekly press. The Mexican newspaper folks hope in this way to build up better relations with the "great State of Texas," to use their expression. Mr. Hidalgo not only wants the Texas newspaper men to attend, but to take part in the discussion of matters that come before the meeting. This meeting is also being endorsed and encouraged by the Texas Good Neighbor Commission, at Austin.

The time has come that something has to be done concerning Civil Rights; not just be against it in any shape or form. But the best thinkers of America and the South, are of the opinion that the question of Civil Rights should never become a national law to be used as a political football as at present, to control and get votes of minority groups. About the best suggestion we have seen about the matter, was by Neville C. Penrose of Fort Worth, who is a member of the Democratic National Committee. His idea is for each state to set up community councils to study the matter out for each community. To quote Lynn Landrum just a bit in his Thinking Out Loud column in the Dallas News, he says: "The idea would be good if the Democratic national convention were seeking a solution for the problems of minority groups. But it is seeking nothing of the sort, of course. It is interested only in the votes of minority blocs in the general election this fall. Accordingly, it will take whatever action it considers most productive of votes for the Democratic ticket. Political conventions are run that way. And the South may as well expect to be treated by the convention this year pretty much as it has directed for the last twenty years. Truman will dominate the convention or be repudiated by it. If you think he is going to be repudiated, you have a very naive and inadequate conception of what the Truman machine can and will do."

Local Youth Is Home From Polio Ward

Donald E. Morris, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Morris, 507 East Broadway, Brownfield, and formerly a patient at the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for Crippled Children, has been discharged from the Gonzales treatment center and returned home.

Donald was stricken with polio in 1951. Admitted to the Gonzales Warm Springs hospital last March, he received treatment there for three months.

Although Donald has been discharged from the hospital, his treatment program will not end there. A series of periodic check-backs at the Gonzales Foundation has been scheduled in order that the hospital may record his progress and check the fit and condition of braces and other appliances. A course of home treatments has also been prescribed to stimulate continued advancement.

about the Constitution of the United States in the past few years, as we see so many instances of open violation of its precepts, or apparently treated with contempt. For a century and a quarter after it was instituted and put in force, no one thought of violations of the sacred document. It apparently favored no groups or combines. But along the latter part of last century, some of the big money men decided that the United States was made for them, and for them only. This went on for a great many years, with the hands of the nation held by the late

Mark Hanna and his cohorts. But finally the people got their fill of the stuff, and Mark and his control bunch were finally routed. Of late there has been another era in the annals of the nation, when organized labor bosses have sought to take the place of the wealthy of the nation. These bosses perhaps not at the behest of the rank and file of labor, but who have nonetheless been used as a back prop, have just about taken over what was once the Democratic party. Of course the union bosses have been aided and abetted by some minority groups, such as the Negro organization, for the "improvement of that race." Also, just about all the leftists and pinkies, who have no hope of accomplishing anything under their own power. But with many federal employees and these minority groups, the so-called Democratic party is a power of votes to start with. Of late however, the president has buried the Constitution as so much refuse, and has decided to control matters himself in his own way without the aid of the constitution, or laws from the congress. Here are just a few samples. Steel can be extensively produced by coal—therefore the president must control the coal mines. Coal cannot be transported without railroads and trucks—therefore the president must control the railroads. Trucks and cars must be manufactured—therefore the president must control the factories. And, on and on. In brief, the president must be the universal dictator. Do you like that? Well, that is the way we are drifting and the drift has long past slow tide stage—a storm is in the offing.

A QUICKER WAY TO MAKE ICE

AUSTIN—A University of Texas scientist has turned Nature's technique of making hail into a new commercial process that makes ice faster and much cheaper than conventional methods.

The process, developed by John Reid Watt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, forms a center core of ice and adds frozen layers rapidly from coatings of pre-cooled water in a manner similar to the way a frozen raindrop picks up moisture as it falls, becoming a hailstone.

Fully automatic and requiring 80 per cent less space than the brine-tank method, now in general commercial use, the Watt process is of particular significance in Texas, which is the nation's leading producer and user of ice.

The Los Angeles Downtown Business Men's Association has named Dinah Shore of CBS's "Jack Smith-Ginny Simms Show," 1952's Most Glamorous Mother, Dinah, who is Mrs. George Montgomery in private life, is the mother of a beautiful four-year-old toddler, Melissa. Harry Morrison, general manager of the Association, says that Dinah will be the living theme of Southern California's Mother's Day observances.

Morrison said in announcing Dinah's selection, "Dinah Shore is living proof that wifehood, motherhood and a brilliant acting and singing career can go hand in hand."

There was a lot of excitement on the Warner Brothers movie lot one day recently — when a fire, beginning on a permanent New York street scene set, began spreading rapidly to other areas. Gordon MacRae, star of NBC's "The Railroad Hour," was working on a sound stage when the alarm was sounded and he and all the other men on the lot stood by to do what they could to help the fire fighters. The fire was finally brought under control, but not before it had raged through eight acres, collapsing a huge sound stage, sweeping a train shed and causing an estimated damage of $1,500,000. Gordon's three youngsters had to have a blow by blow description of the event—and thought the best part of all was the fact that their dad has actually got a chance to wield a fire hose.

When Lucy Knoch was spotted by Red Skelton in a restaurant, Skelton, who had never met her, asked her if she would like to try out for his NBC-TV "Red Skelton Show." Red gave her a number to call (the agency) and Lucy promptly lost it in her confusion at her good fortune. When she didn't call the agency, Skelton remembered her and had the agency call her.

As the program ends at 2:30 when the baseball games are just beginning — and as John Larkin, who portrays "Perry," is an avid fan—his timing has to be pretty sharp if he isn't going to miss more than that first inning!

With the stills, which had a cubic capacity of 480 gallons, inspectors captured 1,510 gallons of mash. Eleven gallons of moonshine liquor were destroyed.

Four stills were taken in Titus County, two in Bowie County, and one each was taken in the counties of Lamar, Anderson and Harrison.

Government Buying Land, Pay No Taxes

ABILENE—Uncle Sam started a land-buying spree in 1937 that has taken 65 million acres off state and local tax rolls and made the Federal government owner of one-fourth of the land area of continental United States, according to a bulletin just issued by the taxation and legislation department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Current Federal programs call for federal acquisition of many additional millions of acres, WTCC declared.

The WTCC report said that a 1947 report of the Senate Committee on Public Lands showed that the government then owned from 35 to 87 per cent of the total land area of ten western states, as follows:

Nevada, 87 per cent; Arizona 73, Utah 72, Idaho 64, Oregon 53, Wyoming 51, California 16, New Mexico 44, Colorado 38, Montana and Washington 25.

The committee report is quoted as declaring that a federal policy of land acquisition which stresses Federal ownership and control of all the resources of the United States had developed from activities of various government agencies.

"This policy is inimical to the proper and full development of the States . . . and seriously impairs the entire tax structure of such states and their local subdivisions," the committee report declared.

The WTCC commented that "this trend toward increased Federal land ownership is of comparatively recent origin. For many decades it was the established policy of the government to dispose of its more accessible lands to private owners who proceeded to put them to productive use. Federal land holdings gradually diminished under this policy until in 1937 the total government acreage was a record low of 394,657,000 acres. By 1949, government acreage totaled 455,147,000. A recent unofficial check showed that approximately four million acres more had been added."

Why Not A Care Free Vacation?

COLLEGE STATION.—Certain travel tricks make a vacation time a happy experience. Minnie Bell, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers a few of these tricks as suggestions to vacation-bound travelers.

Don't take more items than needed. This advice is heard over and over again but still the luggage is overloaded with unnecessary cosmetics, clothes and other items. Plan the article to take by making a list of the places to be visited and the clothes needed. Clothes that travel best are dark prints, soft finished wools, new crease resistant cottons, linens and rayons. Choose accessories that will go with several costumes and cut the shoe and bag problem to a minimum.

A make-up kit is almost a must unless there is a fitted overnight bag. Using small plastic bottles and jars eliminates breakage and stick-perfume never spills. Miss Bell says the purse size whisk broom which is no larger than a lipstick often comes in handy. And a traveling iron with a handle that folds over takes up very little space.

A hanger with a few clothes pins is useful for drying hose and other small pieces of clothing. One or two plastic or rubber lined envelopes should be included for wet wash rags and soap and a small roll of scotch tape may save the day. Use it for a quick mend.

In the bottom of the suitcase pack the heavy and bulky articles, such as the iron, shoes and jewelry case. The specialist advises using plenty of tissue paper between articles and in corners. Fill up the depressions with lingerie, she adds.

If these suggestions are followed, Miss Bell says the vacationer will leave with a light heart as well as a light suitcase and have a carefree time while gone.

A Must For Chickens, Plenty Fresh Water

COLLEGE STATION.—Chickens are not unlike humans during the hot days of summer. They like to be comfortable and a mighty important part of comfort, says Professor E.D. Parnell, poultry husbandry department of Texas A&M College, is having plenty of cool fresh water to drink.

Water is usually plentiful on most farms but many flock owners fail, during the summer time, to provide their chickens this very important item. Parnell isn't guessing about the failure because he annually observes management practices used by many flock owners in Texas. Water is generally a pretty cheap item on the farm but when it is not provided in sufficient quantities, chickens just don't do well, says Parnell.

He urges every poultryman to take another look at the poultry house equipment. Spot the things that are wrong. Study the flock as never before and chances are the changes made will insure greater profits from the flock.

Chickens not only like their water fresh and cool but they want it handy too, says the professor. If the fountain is more than 10 feet away from the chicken, it may go thirsty rather than make the trip. Check the location of fountains as well as the total supply of water and add fountains if they are needed.

Parnell points out that it is sometimes necessary to give medicine to the flock in the drinking water but warns there's a danger in doing it. He says some drugs just don't taste good to chickens and turkeys and they quit drinking. Watch the birds carefully when medication is used in the water, and if they quit drinking, better find another way to give the medicine, says Parnell, for unless they drink lots of water, there will be few eggs or little meat produced.

Add a little prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce to melted butter or margarine and serve over cooked snap beans for a flavor change. Snap beans are also delicious mixed with sauteed mushrooms and cream sauce.

FARM QUESTION BOX

by ED W. MITCHELL
Farm Advisor
General Electric Station WCY

- Q. I would like to know if it is possible to de-ice a black top driveway? Would soil heating cable covered by black top do the job? I would place the heating cable approximately one foot apart for each lane. I could also thread the cable through copper tubing. Would I get enough heat, and is there a possibility of damaging the black top if it overheats?
- A. You have the right idea and it works pretty well. Dig out enough to get the cable down about 1 1/2 to 2 inches deep; thread it through copper tubing for protection and better radiation of heat, and patch in black top over it. One cable in each wheel track is enough and you must use it in a sixty foot length on 110 volt line or 120 feet on a 220 volt line. If you can run 220 to your garage, just run a loop down one side and back the other, and simplify the wiring.
- Q. Is there a law against digging up wild mountain laurel and transplanting it in my yard?
- A. Yes—it is a regulation of the Conservation Commission and against the law to dig up the laurel. You can buy nursery-grown plants at a reasonable price and they will grow better than the wild plants.
- Q. We have been crowded out of our beach on the Hudson River by pond lilies. Are there any weed-killing chemicals that will control this situation? How would you recommend we combat this condition?
- A. I suspect it is "Chinese Water Chestnut" rather than "Pond Lilies." But in either case, I think your best control is to row or pole through them at low tide, and spray the foliage with a 2-4-D weed killer.
- Q. It comes under various trade names and directions are on each package.
- Q. Would you please explain the term "dog days." My father and others have told me it starts July 25 and ends August 25, but a few years ago I noticed on a calendar that they started on July 3. I wondered if they run differently each year.
- A. "Dog Days" is an old expression loosely applied to the hottest part of the summer when dogs were supposed to "go mad" from the heat; it never was a definite period on the calendar.
- Q. I have some questions concerning sawdust-cement concrete. Is it fireproof? Can it be fireproofed? Can it be made into blocks or sheets for partitions in a cellar? Can it be made into brick or tile to make walks and terraces?
- A. Sawdust-cement concrete is pretty much fireproof, but not very water-proof, as it is too coarse and porous. It can be made into blocks or sheets for partitions in the cellar, and can be molded any size or shape, but is not good if exposed to outdoor weather. You will have to experiment and practice with it a little to learn how to use it.
- Q. Could you give any remedy to remove paint from clothes?
- A. It depends on the kind of paint. Use gasoline or cleaning fluid for the black, asphalt roof paint; turpentine on the lead and oil or ordinary dull-finish, outside paints; and alcohol on gloss finish and varnish types. As a rule it is more work than the clothes are worth and a thorough washing in strong soda will make them usable for work clothes.

Tornado Safety Rules Announced

DALLAS.—The U. S. Commerce Department's Weather Bureau has issued a bulletin giving tornado safety rules.

It contains such pointers as: If you're in open country, move at right angles to the tornado's path. Given no time to escape, lie flat in a ditch or ravine.

In a city or town, seek shelter, preferably in a steel reinforced building. Stay away from windows. In homes, the southwest corner of the lowest floor or in the basement offers greatest safety. Windows on the north and east sides of the house may be opened to help reduce damage.

The publication points out that the big storms are most apt to appear between 3 and 7 p. m., but "don't depend on it."

How to recognize a tornado by its cloud formation is also explained.

Says Ernest Tutt, Commerce Department director for four states: "Better stop in at your nearest Commerce office and get a free copy of this tornado information before the next big blow."

Benjamin Franklin first mapped the Gulf Stream.

SC-RAM—Caution seems to be the introductory keynote as three-year-old Neela Prather of Yorkville, Cal., and this Australian Merino ram each look as if the other's company was—to put it bluntly—unwelcome. The ram is part of a recent shipment to the University of California's College of Agriculture after an embargo against the export of the breed from Australia had been lifted.

Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

We are going to start this column this week by letting David L. Watson of the Denver City Press do the writing. In this article, the Old He and The Herald gets a left as well as a right handed compliment, from the Old Piroofin' column of David in the Press. But one thing we like about Dave is that he is always perfectly frank. He can criticize as well as compliment. So here goes:

Old Jack Stricklin runs a "good" newspaper. It is not well printed, it is typographically not so hot and from an editorial standpoint it is far from perfect.

But as an interesting, completely read and thoroughly enjoyed paper from the subscribers' standpoint, the Terry County Herald is tops with those who pay for it year in and year out.

Old He's inimitable writing style will always keep his paper at the head of paid for by the readers list in this area. Without it, the Herald would be just another country newspaper.

And if you think these conventional attending country editors don't break their arms patting each other on the back in handing out awards, you should see the "scrambled egg" recently chosen in this area for an award by the Texas State Press association.

And being in just the right humor to make use of the ideas of others this week, we quote the following from the Plainsman's Column in the Lubbock Evening Journal:

The Dept. of Where Your Tax Money Goes: As the result of the inflationary spiral which official Washington calls "unprecedented prosperity," a medium tank which cost $31,800 during World War II now costs $244,000; a medium bomber costing $402,000 during World War II now costs $3,476,000; a World War II destroyer costing $9,900,000 costs $27,500,000 to duplicate today.

And while we are discussing Editors of the section, we wish to correct Editor Neill C. Vanzant of the Gaines County News. In naming the papers represented at the barbecue given to Gov. Shivers here, he left out the Herald entirely.

That was our busy day, Mr. Vanzant, press day, that is, so deputized Judge George W. Neill to represent the Herald at the barbecue—and paid for his lunch. Now, don't any of you young newspapermen try to say Neill is no newspaper man. He and his brother, Ed, were the second owners of the oldest paper in Terry county—the Terry County Herald.

And we received a catchy little folder recently, which stated: "Having trouble with your light bills? Most of us are. Then turn out your lights and attend the Youth Revival at the First Baptist Church." Well, that is one way to save on your light bill, and you might at the same time learn something good for you.

Ran into Sgt. George Lane at a bank Saturday, being the first time in moons we have encountered his smiling mug. He is connected with the Medical Group at the Walker Air base at Roswell, N. M. And we might mention the fact that George is getting in many years toward the 25 which he can retire on a good pension and take it easy the rest of his life. And he'll read the Old Reliable regularly for the next year, at least.

While not necessarily true, generally speaking, when a person suddenly disappears, known to have some money, there is generally some foul play in connection with the disappearance.

One of the latest was 86 year old R. L. Ardy of Floydada, who left home June 12 to visit a daughter at Levelland, 30 miles north of Brownfield. Ardy has not been seen since that date, but his suitcase was found later in the outskirts of Memphis, Texas, 100 miles in the opposite direction to which he was supposed to be traveling.

Sometimes ministers of the gospel have to take on other things in an effort to meet the needs of the community. Last week, R. L. Lee, who preaches for the Loop Church of Christ, dropped in to insert an ad.

This young minister buys and

State Bar For Loan To Get Rid of Sharks

HOUSTON.—Declaring that loan sharks in Texas "in numbers and nuisance are now more in evidence than ever before," the State Bar of Texas has thrown its support behind a proposed small loan law.

The measure, modeled from laws already in effect in almost all other states, provides for licensing and supervising the small loan industry, with both civil and criminal penalties, and for a maximum charge for loans "that will be fair to both borrower and lender."

Action by the State Bar at its recent convention in Houston was based upon a year's study of the problem by a special committee headed by District Judge W. S. Barron of Bryan and Tom Reavley, Lufkin attorney. Hearings were held and attorneys and executives of lending companies were heard.

Says Cats, Dogs May Be Polio Carriers

The county continues to be puzzled as to the cause of polio. The people have paid no attention to the warning that the hairy pets may be the source of the dread disease. But this scribbler feels that after the cats and dogs play in the filthy yard and then be kissed and hugged by the children, it should be easy to understand where the disease comes from.

Another place where the sickness comes from in all probability is the drinking water. We know one town in particular where the city is supplied with water from a swimming pool about 30 miles away. The community uses the pool for the summer bathing and the city then tries to purify the water, but there have been numerous cases of polio reported this summers out of this city, which is situated on the Gulf.

But there is no hope of anything being done to change the situation, because the officials believe that the water has been purified.—Contributed.

sells used cars, after giving them a good overhauling job, using his own tools and garage. He then fills the pulpit at Loop, Sundays, but makes his home here.

We have heard some complaints lately by residents of some parts of the city of rather loud and vociferous parties that were "thrown" and that seem to last into the wee small hours of the morning. And one complaint went on to state that sometimes the parties lasted for a week.

In one neighborhood we hear that the quiet folks who want to sleep are getting together to call police to quiet things down in the future, and all have agreed to stick together on getting these wild parties simmered down some. We heard no names mentioned.

But we are glad that we live in a quiet neighborhood. Most of the people are middle aged or older, and outside of a few quiet canasta parties during the early hours of the night, everything is as quiet and peaceful as a country cemetery with one exception.

We dwell within a half block of one of the busiest highways in west Texas, and it just seems that when those mogul trucks start up after their drivers have dined at some cafe, that they almost lift the roof tops with their loud snorts and popping that would almost raise the dead.

One good thing about the matter however, is that a lot of the trucks from the north now use the cutoff from the Levelland to the Lamesa and Seagraves highways in the extreme west side of town, where there are few residents to disturb.

Yes, death and serious injury still ride the highways. Many of these dead and injured are caused from too much drink, although that part is usually charitably left out of newspaper reports. This silence on the part of the press is usually to save heartaches to the already hear-broken relatives and friends.

THE FULFORDS VISIT NEW GRANDSON

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Fulford have just recently returned from a visit to New Jersey, where they visited in the home of their son, which has just had a new addition that Grandpa and Grandma Fulford had not seen.

While away, they visited many places, among them the Big Smoke section of east Tennessee and North Carolina, and had a view from Lookout Mountain at Chattanooga.

The bride's father, Rev. T. L. Nipp, pastor of the Gomez Baptist Church, performed the ceremony before a large arch of greenery, flanked on either side with tall palms.

Miss Tidmore and William Mack Noble United in Twilight Ceremony at Odessa

Mrs. William Mack Noble

In a twilight ceremony read Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the Odessa First Baptist Church, Miss Marilyn Tidmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Tidmore of Odessa, became the bride of William Mack Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Noble, of 801 Tahoka road, Brownfield.

Rev. Arthur DeLoach officiated for a double ring service. Formal vows were spoken before an altar lighted by white cathedral tapers in branched candelabra and flanked by baskets of white gladioli arranged before a background of white gladioli arranged before a background of woodwardia fern.

A musical prelude to the ceremony was played by Miss Joyce Harrison, organist, who also accompanied Miss Joyce Glazier, soloist, who sang "Because" and "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar along an aisle laid with white and marked by white carnation pew markers tied with white satin bows.

The bride chose a traditional white tulle gown fashioned with a fitted bodice and tulle yoke accented by seed pearls and fastened down the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The long fitted sleeves extended into points over her hands, and the full skirt fell into a chapel length train. The bridal veil of imported illusion fell from a heart-shaped tiara detailed with seed pearls.

Carried atop a white imported English Bible, the bride's bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis was showered with white satin ribbons and lace. Carrying out the traditional old, new, borrowed and blue, the bride selected a white handkerchief brought from France to her mother by Mrs. Tidmore's brother following World War I. The Bible which she carried was something borrowed, her wedding ensemble was something new, and a blue garter was worn by the bride.

Mrs. Charles A. Slaton of Odessa attended the bride as matron-of-honor and was gowned in a frock of aqua tulle taffeta. Her formal dress was designed with a shimmering fitted bodice and the full double tulle skirt fell into full-length folds. She carried an arrangement of toast-brown carnations tied and showered with matching ribbon streamers.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Nadine Hazlett, cousin of the bride from Odessa; and Misses Delores Goldren and Jo Lynn Markham, both of Odessa. Mrs. E. P. Smith Jr., of Brownfield, sister of the bridegroom, attended as bridesmatron. Miss Hazlett and Mrs. Smith were gowned in champagne tulle over taffeta, and frocks of toast brown tulle over matching taffeta worn by Misses Markham and Goldren.

The Mr. and Mrs. Talk It Over

"I thought monopolies were forbidden by law," Mrs. George Rimmer observed, dropping her newspaper and leaning back in the hammock. "Business monopolies are," replied George. "In fact, the Administration is so keen on hunting monopolies that recently an eight-months-old child was named among the defendants in an anti-trust suit!"

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

It really surprised us to read in the New Jersey Power & Light Company magazine that "If the Company had been forgiven its tax bill for the year 1951 it would have been able to provide FREE electric service to every residential customer for five months of the year.—Denville, N. J., Herald.

Mrs. R. persisted. "I never heard of a business monopoly that was even accused of refusing to let anybody buy its products at any price. But industry-wide unions call strikes and deprive the country of steel we need for defense, or gasoline we need for automobiles and airplanes, or anything else they've been making." "It's a bad situation, all right," George agreed. "But the Supreme Court has upheld rulings that unions are exempt from the anti-trust laws. Maybe the next Congress will pass a bill changing that. I think the law ought to require each company to make its own deal with its own employees."—Texas Tax Journal.

A Trip Down to The Dry Area

The Junior Stricklins invited the Seniors for a spin Sunday P. M., down toward Gail and Snyder. The trip was in no way a visit, as the Snyder children are all in California. Facts are that the Junior wanted to see the lay of how the upper reaches of Colorado Lake would look, in the event that a rich uncle might leave him some money sometime to build a cabin down there for weekend fishing trips. We tried a lead from the highway about 11 miles beyond Gail, but after going some five miles, there were so many different leads that we turned back to the highway. After reaching a point some five miles this side of Snyder, we decided to see the dam, as it had been finished. But they had a hard rain with water everywhere, and the road out to the dam site is under construction for paving, and we didn't go too far out that way until we decided to turn back.

Beeville has 60, and Brownfield 62.

Protracted Meeting At Church of Christ

ALBERT SMITH

Ernest E. West, local minister of the Southside Church of Christ, says the church will conduct a gospel meeting from August 1 through the 10, with daily services at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. The guest evangelist will be Brother Albert Smith of McMinville, Ore. This will be the second such series of meetings in the short history of the congregation, with Evangelist Gerald Paden of Meadow conducting the first meeting a few months ago. Albert Smith does not come to the South Plains a stranger, for not so many years ago he was located in Lubbock where he labored with what is now the Southside Church of Christ. For several years he spoke regularly over KPYO to many thousands of interested listeners. Likely, many citizens of the Brownfield area will readily remember Mr. Smith's fine program. Bro. Smith has been actively engaged in doing mission work in the interest of the cause of Christ in the Northwestern part of the United States for the last few years, and we believe firmly in a man who has the will to suffer the privations and discouraging experiences of such a work as he has been happy to perform for the cause of the Lord. We take great delight in cordially inviting the friends of the Brownfield area to hear Brother Smith "break to us the bread of life."

Explanation About Garbage Collections

Citizens of Brownfield, we would like to thank you for the cooperation you have shown in complying with the Covered Garbage Can Ordinance. Although there are still a few who do not have covered cans, we feel that they will secure them within the very near future. There will be a definite pick-up schedule posted as soon as possible. Due to operation cost there will be only two pick-ups weekly within the residential area, and daily pick-ups in the business area. In the near future all 50 gallon open garbage containers will be picked up by the city. In the event that you want to keep the 50 gallon can, please place it on your property, but do not use it as a garbage container. The objection to the 50 gallon can is that it is a definite health hazard and, that when filled it is too heavy for one man to lift. There has been complaints that two or more families are using one can. Each family should have their own can. If one can is not sufficient to hold your garbage, it would be advisable to buy two covered cans. The city does not expect you to put grass clippings, brush, rocks or similar trash in your garbage can, but place it by the side of the can and it will be picked up. With high poise incidence in the nearby cities, we have been concentrating on fly control in Brownfield. This summer we have fogged six times at a cost of $890 for the insecticides. The cost of one application excluding labor, wear and tear on machinery and gasoline is $165.00. There has been a total of 283 man hours spent on the control of flies since April 1, 1952. Only with the cooperation of the people in complying with the Garbage Can, Private and Livestock Ordinances can we succeed in making Brownfield a healthier and cleaner place in which to live.—City of Brownfield.

Jack Norman Phillips, seven-teen-years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Phillips, Route 3 of this city, is now in the air corps training at Reese field at Lubbock. He enlisted early this month at Amarillo. Young Phillips had attended Brownfield High school, and was presently unemployed. Best of luck, young fellow!

Texans Prefer The Cheddar Cheese

American Cheddar is the best selling cheese in Texas, according to a consumer preference study made recently in San Antonio and Houston by Stanley Rosenthal, June graduate in dairy husbandry from the Texas A. and M. College. A cross-section of the information gathered from retail grocers indicates that the preference of natural or processed types of cheese is governed somewhat by the consumer's income. Buyers in the higher income brackets purchase more natural cheese, those with medium or low income purchase more processed types.

Definite popularity placings could not be assigned to the next three cheeses — Cottage, Cream and Swiss — but Cottage is a better seller to medium and low income groups. Brick cheese was fifth in popularity, representing about 8 per cent of total cheese sales. Limburger, Romano, Neufchatel, Roquefort and Edam together accounted for about 5 per cent of all cheese sales.

At some of the stores covered, total cheese sales have risen as much as 90 per cent since 1940. The average increase at all stores surveyed is near 45 per cent. Attractive and convenient packages now used by several manufacturers were cited by grocery men as the principal reason for more cheese buying. Self-service display cases, recipe pamphlets and sales promotion programs also contributed to greater cheese consumption. The study showed high meat prices stimulate cheese purchases. Several retailers said that on or shortly after pay day, the sale of meat is greater in proportion to that of cheese than it is near the end of the pay period.

This was also the case Saturday and Monday afternoon, when it looked as if it was raining most everywhere but here. But a slow rain set in around 3 p. m., Monday, that registered 27/100, perhaps falling most of the night.

The immediate Brownfield area perhaps received the minimum of the county. For the time being, at least, this section is pretty well fixed on moisture. Jack Holt and son-in-law, C. L. Horn of McAllen, Texas, are fishing this week at Truth or Consequences, N. M.

Miss Charline Didway, a former Brownfield girl, is the guest of Miss Norma Acker for a few days. Miss Didway now resides in Leveland.

Mrs. W. M. Adams left Friday for Dallas to visit her daughter, Mrs. W. N. Royce, and Mr. Royce.

Mrs. W. R. Benton's mother, Mrs. Phillips, is ill at the Benton home. She suffered a heart attack.

The Law Can Be In Simple Language

JUDGE JOE S. MOSS

Any document signed by a Terry county citizen may someday have to be interpreted by the Court of Civil Appeals at Amarillo. In over 41 years the court has existed, it has decided over six thousand civil cases. It is to the interest of the people of Terry county that qualified men of the people sit in that high court. Judge Joe S. Moss of Garza county believes that legal papers and proceedings should be in the language of the people, rather than in legal fine print. Farm Safety Week Set For July 20-26

By Looe Miller, Adm. Officer Terry County PMA

We are quoting an article taken from "The Battalion," official newspaper of A&M College of Texas, which we hope you will read and stop and think of the hazards on your farm because of carelessness, and correct these hazards before you become the victim of your own carelessness.

WHAT NOT TO BE

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the nations I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of guns I steal in the United States alone over $500,000,000 each year—young and the old, the strong and the weak; widows and orphans know me I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of every grindstone to the moving of every railroad train I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage earners in a year I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not I am relentless I am everywhere—in the home, on the streets, in the factory, at railroad crossings and on the sea. I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me I destroy, crush and maim; I give nothing but take all I am your worst enemy I am—CARELESSNESS! Mrs. Ethel Garland and son, Ed, Mrs. Ola Tinkler and daughter, Mrs. Mary Schmidt, and two son of Lamesa visited in the Arnett and Shag Bynum homes Sunday. They also visited their niece, Mrs. J. R. Eunts, in the local hospital. Members of Southside Church of Christ enjoyed an ice cream party Wednesday night after prayer meeting. Several were in attendance from the Crescent Hill congregation.

Some Tests Run On West Terry Well

We note that the drillers of the Atlas Life Insurance well in West Terry have been doing a bit of testing, after a light infusion of acid. It was stated that the well then flowed 12 or 14 barrels of oil per hour. This test is being made below 8,000 feet, as the deep test was called off, as it was found to be weak. It was reported that the drillers intended to give the well a heavier dose of acid, something like 5000 gallons, and test again.

Today's Teen-Age Trend Is on Head-to-Toe Cleanliness

BY EDNA MILES

WITH the waning of the age of sloppiness, teen-agers throughout the country are learning that neatness of appearance does not necessarily denote a casual attitude towards life. Actually, real nonchalance is more often the offshoot of self-assurance about your looks than the result of tumbled browsiness. A nagging worry that your appearance isn't up to par, despite the current trend, can undermine your poise. Proper hair care doesn't mean a young girl is to plaster her locks down in formal coiffures. It does mean that a fly-away arrangement is no excuse for uncleanness or lack of gloss. Keep your hair-do youthful, but suggest your latent maturity by faithful adherence to a routine of frequent shampoos and nightly brushings. Neat, well-brushed clothes and clean, polished shoes are an indication, too, of your developing self-pride. If yours are the traditional saddle oxfords, encrusted with grime and dirt, start a new fad in your school for shining white rather than tattle-tale gray. It's easy to keep your two-tone shoes sparkling with a minimum of smears and trouble, provided you remember this simple trick: Before applying the white polish, run an edging of transparent tape along the brown parts of your shoes. Any mis-licks with the white polish will land on the tape, which can be ripped off quickly when the job is done.

A bit of transparent tape, attached lightly around "saddle" of school oxfords, protects the dark leather from smears of white shoe polish.

Realizing a youthful, essential look is not synonymous with sloppiness, this young woman gives her laces a thorough brushing each night to add gloss and control to her fly-away hair-do.

Farm safety surveys made by 4-H'ers show that matches within reach of small children and stairways littered with toys, jars and other articles were much in evidence as fire and accident hazards in rural homes.

Chicago—(Special)—More than 575,000 4-H Club boys and girls throughout the nation are receiving training in farm accident and fire prevention this year. The outstanding feature of this training in the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety program is to check and remove from farms and homes any conditions likely to cause fire, accidents or injuries. These 4-H surveys are acclaimed a valuable contribution to the nation-wide campaign to reduce the annual toll of 15,000 farm people dying and 1,300,000 being injured as a result of rural accidents each year.

Here is a report, made by a 4-H girl on behalf of her local club, after making a safety survey of every home in the community.

"In all homes having stairways that we visited, the stairs were full of toys, jars, tools and other articles," she stated. "In many homes people used kerosene to build fires. They also had oily cloths and papers stored close to the stove and floor. Matches and unlabeled bottles of poisonous liquids were within reach of small children. "On several farms visited, boards with rusty nails pointing upward were much in evidence. In our local schoolhouse, the ceiling plaster in the classroom was loose. If it fell it would cause severe injuries to the pupils. "After we had made our survey, we called a community meeting. Attention was called to the hazards we had found. Immediately following the meeting everyone present began work necessary to make our community a safe one. Every hazard we had found was corrected."

Medals of honor are presented to five county winners having the best 4-H records in safety work, and a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago is awarded to the State champion. Eight of the latter will be selected as national winners, who will each receive a $300 college scholarship. Awards are provided by General Motors for the eighth consecutive year. The program is conducted under the direction of the Co-operative Extension Service.

Eisenhower and Nixon Work to Win Party Accord As Heated Republican Convention Selects Ticket

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Last week the nation and the world stood agog at the furious storms and stresses that swept the national convention of the Republican party whose 1,206 delegates and their alternates assembled in Chicago to fight it out for the presidential nomination and control of the party.

This week, with the resumption of sanity in the land, the nominees, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Richard M. Nixon, already had begun to dig into the task of restoring order and unity in the November elections.

Despite the intense emotional surges and deep-seated factional strife that characterized most of the convention, the gargantuan convulsion ended on at least a surface note of harmony.

General Eisenhower and Sen. Robert Taft, stoically courageous in his defeat, shook hands and smiled at each other. Taft pledged his support to the Eisenhower campaign, and the reconciliation that the party knows it must effect was under way.

But it had been a noisy story during the rowdy, noisily active days that preceded the convention's close.

Even at the very moment of Eisenhower's spectacular nomination victory on the first ballot, strong overtones of bitterness on the part of the Taft partisans was a real and disturbing element in the overflowing International Amphitheatre on Chicago's South Side.

Temper High Not even the costly air conditioning system in the hall cooled the Democratic delegates will be happy to hear, worked quite effectively could cool the flaring tempers or calm the rising blood pressures.

When the roll call of the states was begun Friday afternoon for the first ballot to nominate a presidential candidate, the Eisenhower group manifestly was riding the crest of an apparently irresistible wave. Taft had lost a lot of ground since Monday, and he knew it.

Through the tensest of medium of the loud speaker system the convention secretary read the roll of the states—a thrilling and somehow awesome procedure.

The historic first-and-last ballot went fairly smoothly. The states voted true to form. No one was surprised at California's 70 votes for her Governor Warren, nor at Ohio's solid 56 votes for Taft. Governor Dewey had his New York delegation in line with 92 votes for Eisenhower, 4 for Taft. Minnesota voted 19 for Harold Stassen, 9 for Eisenhower.

Like in Lead The ballot closed with Eisenhower leading Taft by 595 to 462. Warren had 81 votes. MacArthur, who never really had a chance, was low man with 11.

It was at precisely at that point that history set in. The spokesman for the Minnesota delegation, in a tense and edged voice, requested the attention of the chairman and announced that Minnesota had decided to change its 19 Stassen votes to Eisenhower, giving him a total of 614 votes, 10 over the required majority of 604.

That was the ball game. The packed galleries, filled mostly with Taft adherents, gasped in complete stupefaction. The delegates on the floor were taken aback to the point that they were able to produce only a minor demonstration.

Then, abridged by the incredible climax of the most dramatic Republican convention in recent American history, most of the state delegations on the floor also climbed aboard the Eisenhower bandwagon, changing their votes in favor of the general in wholesale lots.

Not all, however. The stunned Ohioans refused to budge from their unified stand in favor of Senator Taft. Illinois, led by Sen. Everett Dirksen who had lashed out savagely at the Dewey wing of the Eisenhower contingent, grimly held its ground.

Not until the plea for a concerted will and a move to make the ballot unanimous by Sen. John Bricker of Ohio did the tension slack off.

Nixon Chosen The remaining business of selecting a vice-presidential candidate was more or less routine. Sen. Richard Nixon of California, who made his name as a member of the house un-American activities committee investigating the Alger Hiss case, was nominated by acclamation. He was the only name presented to the convention.

Spelled out in terms of future GOP effectiveness, the Eisenhower-Nixon combination promises to be a workable ticket. Nixon brings to the post youth, political wisdom, and a solid friendship with both the Taft and Eisenhower elements of the party. His west coast locale will tend to offset in the minds of party regulars the big part that the Dewey-dominated eastern segment played in the nomination of Eisenhower.

Eisenhower's drive, brilliantly executed by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge and master-minded to a certain extent by Governor Dewey and Herbert Brownell, seemed to be fated for success from the beginning of the convention on Monday.

It is probable, too, that the apparent strategic blunders of the Taft camp had their decisive effects on the outcome.

The picture began to clear Monday when the convention adopted by a 607 to 531 vote the so-called "Fair Play" amendment sponsored by Governor Langle of Washington which required that any contested delegation be seated in the convention immediately after it was approved, and be allowed the right to vote on the qualifications of other delegations as they came up for approval.

This, of course, was an Eisenhower-inspired move to break up the Taft control of the hotly contested Texas, Georgia, Louisiana, and Florida delegations, and others.

Big Question

The question that will be asked for the next four years is why the Taft forces were willing for the "Fair Play" decision to be brought to a ballot. The assumption is that they knew, within one or two votes, what the outcome would be. Whether they were seeking a reverse-English psychological victory or whether they were just overconfident, the ultimate results were disastrous.

Second major defeat for Taft, and the one that set the pattern of the convention in an unalterable mold, was the delegates' decision, by a vote of 607 to 531, to seat the pro-Eisenhower delegation from Georgia—a reversal of the ruling made by the credentials committee in an exhausting 15-hour session Tuesday.

Taft forces were so shattered by this setback that they conceded without a fight the seating of the pro-Eisenhower Texas delegation.

Even the well-prepared "spontaneous" demonstrations were decided, in terms of length, at least, in favor of Eisenhower. The yelling, bell-ringing, singing, and banner-waving following Senator Dirksen's speech nominating Taft lasted only 32 minutes. The Eisenhower demonstration continued its brass-voiced clamor for 53 minutes.

It was a tribute not only to General MacArthur but to his durable partisans that the demonstration on his behalf, coming at a bleak and weary 2:30 a.m., lasted a clamorous 20 minutes.

MacArthur's Keynote

MacArthur himself had returned to New York following his keynote speech Monday night in which he blasted the Democratic administration's foreign and domestic policies.

Former President Herbert Hoover, addressing the convention Tuesday night, was accorded the ovation his years, experience, and personal integrity deserved, when he called for the "freedom of men" in the sense that "includes our relations to the rest of the world."

"I am not ashamed to say that our first duty is to defend the United States," he said in his soft voice, and the walls of the International Amphitheatre trembled with the roar of approval that went up from delegates and spectators alike.

Hoover and MacArthur appeared as the old soldiers of the Old Guard, and they seemed to be unable to shake the impression that the era during which their thinking and political concepts dominated the Republican party was coming to an end.

With most of the speeches out of the way, the convention briefly took up the matter of its platform, approving it so swiftly as to seem almost casual in its attitude.

No Floor Fight

Actually, the maneuvering to avoid a fight on the foreign policy and civil rights planks that had taken place during the preceding four or five days virtually eliminated any possibility of a policy struggle on the convention floor.

The compromise civil rights plank, as adopted, denoted racial bigotry and religious prejudice, but did not go so far as to put teeth into the denunciation by openly advocating a fair employment practices law.

Both Taft and Eisenhower joined in approving the foreign policy section of the platform which consisted to a great extent of an exhortation of the policies practiced by the present Democratic administration.

The Republicans pledged an end to the waste, spending, and corruption with which they have repeatedly charged the Democrats.

"By the Administration's appeasement of Communism at home and abroad it has permitted Communists and their fellow travelers to serve in many key agencies and to infiltrate our American life," the platform stated.

Then, showing the reverse side of the "coin of patriotic Americanism," the platform claimed that "There are no Communists in the Republican party," and that a Republican president will appoint only "persons of unquestioned loyalty," will overhaul federal loyalty and security programs in cooperation with congress, and will coordinate all intelligence services.

ATTEST: Eldon A. White, Clerk, (Seal) District Court, Terry County, Texas. 53c

Sometimes the American people act like spoiled children in a newly-rich family, where every child has a car of its own and yet, instead of enjoying their wealth, the whole family squabbles about who is going to park directly in front of the door.

When we see a situation like that, you and I blame the father of the family. Well, here in the United States, like the spoiled children, we also are engaged in constant quarrels. And like the rich man's family, all the domestic problems we do have are largely the result of bad management at the top.

But because we are a democratic nation, the blame for bad management at the top rests on our shoulders.

We cannot put the whole responsibility onto a particular administrator or administration, because we, the people, put them in charge of our affairs.

Furthermore, let's never forget that our whole concept of government is based on the good of the majority, not on one special group getting ahead of the other groups.

The framers of our Constitution were careful not to give any economic group any superior rights to power. Yet, as our history unfolded, particularly in the last 75 years, special interests not only began to vie for power, but

Farm and Ranch Homes Improved

AUSTIN. — Extension workers and local leaders helped 40,586 rural families improve their home in 1951, according to the statistical annual report of Bernice Claytor, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. These activities ranged from new houses built or remodeled to major repairs and the addition of furnishings and equipment.

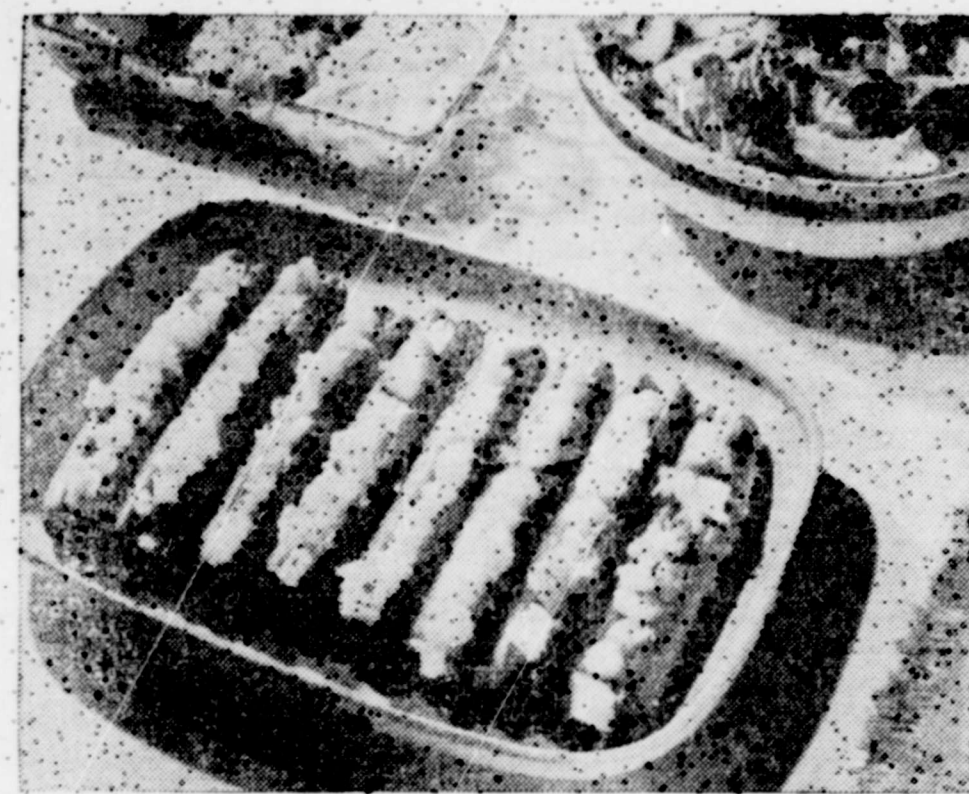

Since World War II, adds the specialist, there has been great interest in buying new and re-vamping old furniture. Last year 20,700 major pieces were added to homes and 28,579 pieces re-finished, resealed and upholstered. Mrs. Claytor says the high price of furniture gave the incentive to the women and girls to repair and refinish the furniture they already had.

Kitchen improvement was an important phase of the home management program. The 7,040 women and girls assisted, added 18,028 pieces of major equipment such as ranges, refrigerators, home freezers and washing machines and 6,200 added built-in cabinets or permanent storage.

Improvements were also made in 10,817 living rooms; 12,671 bedrooms and 5,528 bathrooms. Sanitation was improved by the building of 890 sanitary toilets and 1,772 sewage disposal systems. Along with these improvements, 21,168 families were assisted in removing fire and accident hazards.

Information on housing and house furnishings was given by the specialist and home demonstration agents through method demonstrations, radio, press and slides. The slides which have been prepared by the specialist for distribution are: The Farm and Ranch House, The Farm Kitchen, Planning the Livingroom, Planning the Bedroom and Storage in the Farm Home.

DRESS UP FRANKFURTERS

Stuff franks with a tasty dressing and note the reception they get. Three cups enriched yeast-raised bread crumbs make enough dressing to stuff a pound of franks — or 8 to 10 large ones. Bake the dressed-up franks about 10 minutes in a hot oven and serve immediately with a hot mustard or tomato sauce.

STUFFED FRANKFURTERS

- 1 lb. frankfurters
- 1/4 cup margarine or butter
- 1/2 cup minced onion
- 2 tablespoons minced celery
- 2 teaspoons chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon dried basil (optional)
- 3 cups soft enriched yeast-raised bread crumbs.
- Salt and Pepper.

Split franks down the middle but do not cut all the way through. Arrange in greased baking dish.

Melt margarine or butter in a frying pan. Add onion, celery, parsley, and basil and cook until onion and celery are tender. Stir in bread crumbs until all margarine or butter is soaked up. Season to taste with salt and pepper. If desired, moisten with a little hot water. With fingers stuff crumbs into split franks. Add a little water to baking dish to keep franks from burning. Bake at 400° F. (moderately hot oven) 10 minutes. Serve with hot mustard or tomato sauce. Makes 4 servings.

July-August Death Months for Children

AUSTIN.—While parents shift much responsibility for safety of their children in traffic to teachers and safety patrol members during school months, the closing of school returns the responsibility to Mother and Dad—with the situation now worse than ever. "More cars and drivers on our streets and highways, and a mounting toll of traffic accidents recently revealed in New York State," Paul R. Kulp, manager of the Texas Division of the American Automobile Association, says.

"Insistent proof of the need of greater parental attention to child safety especially during July and August was shown in a report of the New York Department of Motor Vehicles that indicates like conditions in other parts of the country. While three children were killed in New York State traffic accidents in October and November, 30 died in traffic accidents in the two summer months of July and August. Moreover, accidents involving children under 14 in the Fall months were 852 and in the Summer months, 1,935.

"If parents fail to give proper attention to child play, fail to instruct their children in safe walking practices, fail to set a good example, our Summer months will bring unnecessary tragedy," Kulp added. "My plea is that all parents assume greater responsibility for the Summer safety of their children."

Green peas and cauliflower with cheese sauce are good vegetables to serve with corned beef hash. For a salad choose cole slaw or hearts of lettuce with Thousand Island Dressings.

Suits In the Bag Not Hard Job

COLLEGE STATION.—Women's and men's suits are not hard to pack if the job is correctly done. Nena Roberson, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers a few tips on how to do the job without winding up with more creases than there should be.

Miss Roberson advises a generous use of tissue paper, it helps keep the wrinkles out. Put the paper between every fold and in the sleeves.

There is a step by step method of folding coats for packing in a suit case. Lay the coat flat on a bed or table with the collar and lapels turned up. Lap the left front over right front without wrinkling the coat.

Sleeves should lie smoothly along the coat. Turn at the elbow and fold them up. Then pick up the lower edge of the coat and fold just below the fold in the sleeves.

The same method is used when packing a gladstone bag, except you leave the sleeves straight and make two folds in the coat. Trousers and skirts are easy to pack. Miss Roberson says for trousers, make sure the creases are straight and the pockets smooth inside. Fold them over once or twice, depending on the size of the bag. For the skirt, lay it flat, fold one side over to the center and the other side over to the edge. Then pick up the hem and fold up to the top.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

The American "Bill of Rights," consisting of the first ten amendments to our federal constitution, all adopted at one time in 1791, specifies in some detail a number of basic civil rights of the individual citizen. Unaltered by subsequent amendments and jealously guarded by our courts, these privileges must still be respected by our governing bodies today.

Among the most familiar of our constitutional guarantees are those relating to freedom of religion, of speech, and of the press. The same article protects the right of peaceable assembly and the privilege of petitioning the government for redress of grievances.

Another amendment secures our persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, and specifies that no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, and unless supported by oath or affirmation.

The due process of law amendment encompasses not one but several guarantees. Every American is secured against being placed twice in jeopardy for the same offense; against being compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case; against having his private property taken for public use without just compensation; and against being held for trial for a capital (death penalty) or other infamous crime, unless upon a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. And, of course, no person may be deprived of life, liberty or property without orderly court procedures, on due process of law.

The right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury, in the locality where the crime was committed, the right to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, and the rights to compel attendance of defense witnesses and to have the assistance of defense counsel in all criminal prosecutions are secured by another section of the "Bill of Rights."

Excessive bail and fines, and cruel and unusual punishments, are prohibited in Amendment VIII. Other articles insure the right to bear arms and ban quartering of soldiers in private homes during peace time.

Then, to make quite clear to our governing bodies the underlying intent of the preceding provisions, the Ninth Amendment states: "The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

The Tenth Amendment further emphasizes this basic theory by providing: "The powers not delegated to the United States by Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Thus, that fundamental philosophy, expressed in the Declaration of Independence, that men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, and that "to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed," has been carried forward into the highest law of our land.

U. OF T. MAKES STUDY OF FROZEN OIL WELL CORES

AUSTIN.—A mathematical equation which will correct the porosity and permeability of a frozen oil well core to that of an unfrozen one is the goal of research by Assistant Professor J. M. Lebeaux at the University of Texas.

Oilmen now pack many cores in dry ice to retain the fluid content until transported to the laboratory for analysis. Evidence indicates water expanded by freezing, causes internal fracturing, changing porosity and permeability of rock—important oil-bearing factors.

Never boil frankfurters when you are heating them in water. Drop them into the boiling water and then simmer them for about seven minutes or until they are hot through. To simmer water means to keep it just below the boiling point.

Despite zooming general living expenses, the cost of liquefied petroleum gas has remained relatively stable, "spot survey" by LP-Gas Information Service, Chicago, among nation's dealers reveals. In contrast to an average rise of 63% in all items contained in U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics cost of living index, LP-Gas rates increased only 7% in ten-year period ending April 15, 1952. Also known as butane, propane, bottled and tank gas, the fuel is used principally in farm, small town and suburban areas.

Here's One Bright Ray in Living Cost Spiral—LP-Gas Prices up Only 7%

CHICAGO.—In the face of sky-rocketing living expenses in practically all major categories, the cost of liquefied petroleum gas, used principally in rural, small town and suburban areas, has advanced only 7% since 1942. This was revealed by the LP-Gas Information Service, Chicago, following a nation-wide "spot survey" among leading marketers of the fuel.

In the same ten-year period (April 15, 1942, to April 15, 1952), the average of all items included in the cost of living index released by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics climbed 63%. Food prices registered the sharpest gain with a 92.3% rise. Other increases were as follows: home-furnishings—69%; apparel—60.2%; miscellaneous—54.6%; fuel, electricity and refrigeration—39.3%, and rent—28.0%.

Industry leaders attribute the stability of LP-Gas rates in contrast to the general rise in living costs to several factors. Among these are: (1) The tremendous growth in public acceptance and use of the fuel with resulting distribution economies; (2) the sharp increase in number of LP-Gas bulk plants throughout the country and consequent reduction in the area served by each; (3) the "incentive" rates offered to customers by most dealers to stimulate the use of new appliances, and (4) various technical and service advances contributing to greater efficiency and economy. Currently rated by many authorities as the nation's fastest growing industry next to tele-

Most Adults Have Had Polio Attack

AUSTIN.—It is believed that the majority of adults have at one time been infected by the virus of poliomyelitis, usually without manifestations, says Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer. In view of the above it is expected that most of the recognized cases will be among children.

Only a small proportion of infected persons are clinically recognizable. When symptoms are manifested, they usually comprise an acute illness with fever, headache, and almost always a characteristic stiffness of the neck and spine. Some degree of paralysis may or may not occur during the first few days of illness.

During the poliomyelitis season, the following measures are recommended:

1. Insist upon safe waste disposal so that human excreta is not exposed to disease transmitting vectors.
2. Insist on elimination of fly breeding sources and do not depend upon community wide airplane spraying or fogging machines as a substitute for basic sanitation.
3. Food supplies, including milk, must be protected against contamination.
4. Always demand safe water for drinking or swimming pools.
5. Insist that garbage be kept in covered containers and disposed

6. Eliminate all insanitary conditions on your own premises.
7. Practice good personal hygiene, with particular attention to personal cleanliness.
8. Avoid excessive physical strain during poliomyelitis season.
9. Isolation in bed of all children with fever pending diagnosis by physician.

Nutrition authorities say that vegetables cooked properly in a pressure saucepan will retain nutritive values on a par with vegetables cooked properly in an ordinary saucepan.

Cheese Is Friendly To Other Foods

COLLEGE STATION.—Cheese is friendly to other foods and has many practical uses in meal preparation. Foods and nutrition specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, point out the varieties, flavors and textures makes cheese adaptable to other ingredients in a recipe.

In menu planning, the specialists say, cheese may be used from soup to dessert. The concentrated nutrients of milk makes cheese an economical food buy. One ounce of cheese may be used in the daily diet as an alternate for one cup of milk.

Soft cheeses lend themselves to appetizers when spread on crackers, potato chips and melba toast. These are good served with tomato and other vegetable juice cocktails. Grated hard cheese, such as parmesan and cheddar, when sprinkled over the top add new flavor to cream soups.

The specialists suggest using cottage or cream cheese with tomatoes or fruits as salads. They say tossed green salads are improved in flavor by adding cubes of cheddar, Edam or pieces of Roquefort.

Many left over vegetables are given new appeal when combined with melted cheese, cheese sauce and grated cheese. Cheese may be substituted for protein in the main dish of the meal when used in omelets, souffles and melted cheese on toast.

More and more cheese is being used as dessert. One of the most popular is cheese cake which is made with either cottage or cream cheese.

The old favorite is still cheese with apple pie, either melted over the top or a piece on the plate. An assortment of cheeses on a tray is good ending to any meal. The specialists recommend the cheese tray as dessert for the busy housewife who needs to get a meal in a hurry.

HELPING BUILD WEST TEXAS SINCE 1927

Gillham Gives—

lead to show me where he needs the funds which he will be calling on the Legislature to appropriate. The cost of operating our State Government has increased very fast in the last few years and I definitely think some of these increased costs are unjustified. We must have economy wherever possible, for we have no right to waste the taxpayers money.

Question: What is your feeling about whether or not West Texas has been getting its share of State Highway Department funds for the building of roads?

Answer: I am of the opinion that West Texas has not been getting its fair share of Highway Funds. We all know that it is relatively easy to build roads in West Texas and they can be built much cheaper than they can be built in other parts of Texas where they have many rivers and creeks and where it is necessary to spend a lot of money for bridges, yet West Texas simply does not have anything like the miles of roads which they have in other parts of Texas, although we can build roads much cheaper in West Texas. One of the reasons for this situation is that our Highway Commission is always packed with commissioners from east, south or north Texas and West Texas does not get one of the three commissioners. Also, our Legislature has been balanced in favor of the other sections of the state. It will be different in the next legislature. We will have a lot more votes and I think we can get something done toward a fairer distribution of our highway funds. West Texas is entitled to more and better highways and a lot more farm-to-market roads. I shall do everything in my power to get fair treatment for West Texas on our highway matters.

Question: What are your feelings with reference to the Gilmer-Aiken law and the present adequacy of the financing of our public school system?

Answer: I think the Gilmer-Aiken law was a forward and progressive step in the right direction. However, I think some revision of the law is needed. In my opinion, we should have a revision of the economic index provision to provide for annual review of the statistics affecting individual schools based on a period of four years past experience. The present provisions definitely hurt a lot of the school in our area. Also I think a study should be made with reference to raising the minimum salary of our qualified teachers, to not less than $2,000.00 per annum. I think also that there are great possibilities for some economies and streamlining in our State Educational Agency and perhaps in some of our schools as well. We should all be very much interested in having a public school system in this state as good as we have in the whole United States but we must eliminate all waste and extravagance in our educational system as well as other departments of our state.

Question: As I understand you, Mr. Gillham, it is your idea that we can have most of the services we need from our state government without increasing taxes, if we run our state government more like a successful business is operated?

Answer: That is exactly what I am trying to say. There are too many people in all government who seem to have the philosophy that the government is a source of an inexhaustible supply of money and favors. We must realize that we have to pay for all of these things and that the more favors we ask for ourselves from government only increase our taxes. Some wise man said once, that "the power to tax is the power to destroy," and we are destroying ourselves about as fast as we can, and it is time for us to stop, look and listen. Too many politicians in government everywhere are only thinking of themselves, and some sure way to perpetuate themselves in office, hence they give jobs to undeserving and unqualified people in order to pay a political debt. By doing this, they create waste and inefficiency in their departments and therefore waste your tax money, and mine. My idea about running a government or a government agency is to run it like a successful business is operated and to employ people who know their job and have a sincere desire to do that job well. I might add that I am not so foolish as to think that I shall be able to do all the things that I think ought to be done, but

FIRST YEAR ON STAFF CELEBRATED BY SIBLEY

Dr. George Sibley, physician at Treadaway-Laniell hospital, is celebrating his "first anniversary" as a regular member of the medical staff. He joined the local hospital staff the first of last July.

Dr. Sibley moved to Brownfield from Shreveport, La., where he served his medical internship at the Shreveport City-County hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George Martin and daughter, Georgia, returned Saturday for a two-week vacation in Wyoming and Utah. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reeder and daughters of Lawton, Okla., went with them.

I shall do my best and I am of the opinion that we are going to have a lot of men in the next Legislature who are anxious to change some of our antiquated processes of government.

Question: By the way, Mr. Gillham, it just occurred to me that some of our readers might be interested in knowing a little more about the legislature. Could you give us a little information about our legislature, when it meets, how many members in the legislature, length of session and maybe, if you don't mind, what you will be paid for serving in the legislature?

Answer: Well you really let me have it on that one. That would be what I call the Mother Hubbard question, but I will try to answer it. In the first place, I might say that there are thirty-one senators and one hundred and fifty house members. The senators are elected for four-year terms, with one-half of the senators' terms expiring every two years. I might say also that this year all of the senators have to stand for election due to the fact that the recently passed redistricting law changed the boundaries of some of their districts. As I understand it they will draw lots later to determine which senators have the four year terms and which ones have two year terms. The Lt. Governor, as you know, presides over the Senate. The members of the House of Representatives are elected for a term of two years and all house members are elected every two years. The House elect from among their membership a Speaker of the House who serves during the regular session or any called sessions of the legislature. The legislature meets in regular session on second Tuesday in January of odd numbered years and the legislature can be called into special session by the Governor any time. The salary of Senators and Representatives are the same. They all get $10.00 per day for the first 120 days of the regular session and the constitution provides that if the session runs longer than 120 days, then their pay is cut to $5.00 per day. Also Senators and Representatives receive mileage of $2.50 for each 25 miles traveled in going to and returning from the seat of government. Certainly no one would run for Senator or Representative for the salary the office pays and most of the men and women who serve in our legislature do it as a public service and with the thought that they can render a worthwhile service to their state. There was a constitutional amendment presented to and defeated by the people a few years ago which would have provided for an annual salary of $3,600.00 per year for our Senators and Representatives. This amendment should have been defeated and I certainly would be opposed to any amendment which would provide an annual salary for members of our legislature for ordinary it is only necessary for them to be serving only a few months every two years. I think the per diem method is best though it might be desirable to increase the per diem pay some.

The only further thing I want to say about the pay is that I certainly hope I can write home for a little money once in awhile.

Question: We hope, Mr. Gillham, that we will be seeing you once in awhile and that you will not be in Austin for 120 days without coming home.

Answer: I do not anticipate that I will be away for more than a month without coming home. As I understand it, the legislature has a good many recesses and I shall take advantage of these when I can to come home for a day or so. I expect to be in my office some every month and no doubt will be overjoyed when we are through with the session and I can again come home to my comfortable office at the bank and my friends.

ing company of Odessa, and was returning home for the weekend when the accident took place.

Fifteen-year-old Linda Franks of Olton, is in the local hospital with a fractured pelvis, as a result of a two-car crash near Plains Saturday afternoon. Driving a 1952 Mercury, Mrs. James Franks, 24, formerly of Meadow and now of Tatum, N. M., attempted to pass a car and met a 1950 Oldsmobile driven by Wayne Condon of Tucson, Ariz. Both vehicles were heavily damaged in the collision, patrolmen reported. Linda was riding in the car driven by Mrs. Franks.

Passengers in the Arizona car were a three-month-old baby, Betty Ann Condon, who suffered a broken arm; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Condon; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lord and two sons, Richard and Stanley, all of Arizona. They were transferred to a Lubbock hospital for further treatment.

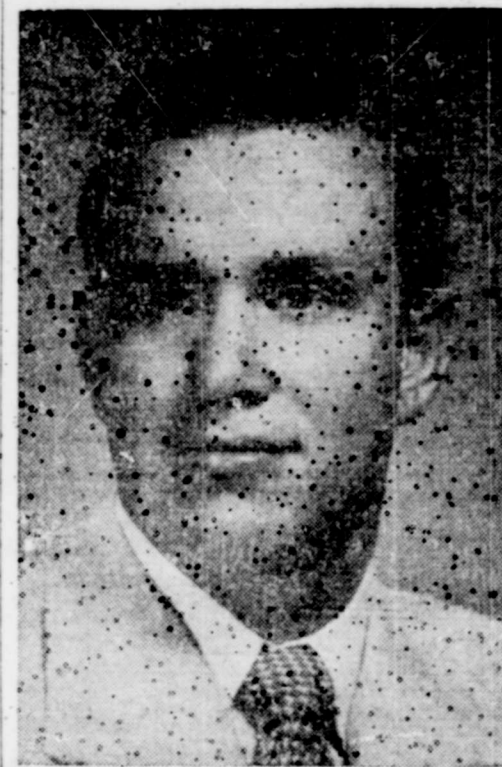

Elbert Hirma Holleyman, 45, of Morton, had charges of driving while intoxicated filed against him following an accident near the intersection of the Johnson farm-to-market road about 2 a. m. Saturday. His car swerved across the road and landed on its side in a field.

Other charges of driving while intoxicated were filed against Oscar Lewis Whisenant, 23, of Meadow, following an accident in which Evelyn Keith of Brownfield received a fractured spine. Perry Boyd of Meadow, Frankie Boren of Brownfield and Whisenant were uninjured.

Patrolmen reported the accident occurred about 3 a. m. Friday, seven miles southwest of town on the Seagraves highway. The 1951 Ford driven by Whisenant, overturned and was heavily damaged. Charges were filed by Texas Highway patrolmen who investigated the accident.

Ray Smith, 48, of Wellman died Saturday in the local hospital of injuries received when he fell from a windmill tower on July 8. His body was taken to Seagraves by Webb Funeral Home. Smith suffered a broken back and elbow in the fall, which occurred while he was repairing a windmill tower on the G. L. Johnson farm near Wellman.

JOE HAYNES

Plans and preparations for the Youth Revival to be held at the First Baptist Church beginning July 20, are almost complete, according to Don Noble, general chairman of the event. A feature of the Youth Revival will be special music furnished by the young people of the church. Parilee Nelson is chairman of the music committee and will play the organ during the services. Marilyn Miller will serve as her assistant on the music committee and will play the piano during services. Norwood Heath will alternate at the organ.

Both vocal and instrumental special numbers will be heard during the week. A youth choir, under the direction of Jackie Taylor, principal speaker for the revival, will furnish part of the special numbers, as well as regular choir pieces.

Taylor has been holding a revival in Canadian for the past several days, and will finish a revival in Potossi in time to come to Brownfield for the youth services. The young speaker is a senior student at Hardin-Simmons University and will be president of the campus Baptist Student Union, when he returns to school in the fall.

Joe Haynes, singer for the revival, will come to Brownfield from his church in Tipton, Okla., where he is educational director. Haynes is a student at the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary in Fort Worth.

His condition was described as "good." He was stricken with a mild attack of bulbar polio about three weeks ago, but it was not necessary that he be placed in an iron lung.
