Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

Miss Jimmie Michie, of the food and nutrition department up at Tech college, tell us to eat less meat and potatoes this hot weather, and more fruit and vegetables. Sounds good to us if the f. and v. are cheaper. Anyway, she assures us they are not so heating to the system in hot weather.

Many people seem to think that a big business man does not have the time to attend to his huge business affair and practice religion and benevolence at the same time. While we may have waited to long to mention the fact, until Arthur Everets, of Dallas, passed on, he always found time to look after his religious duties as well as the may charities in which he was a heavy donor.

Everets was not only one of Texas' largest jewelers, building his business from a slim foundation, but he had time to make thousands of friends all over the southwest, and listen to the pleas of the needy. He visited the widows and orphans. He made money, and he felt that God expected him to use it wisely.

Well, Uncle Samuel is in for another chunk of cussing, as we have been dispensing some charity over in India. Recently a bunch of cobras belonging to a "snake charmer" in a bus, traveling over rough roads, got loose in the bus, causing a panic, in which the driver lost control of the vehicle, which was wrecked. Six people killed and several wounded. However, the poisonfangs of the reptiles had been extracted.

Nevertheless, USA will be blamed for the incident, and we probably be asked to pay damages. To our notion, the less you can have to do with some of those birds, the better.

One thing we didn't have to pay for, however, was a copy of the Panhandle-South Plains Fair catalogue, for the 35th annual fair from Sept. 29 through October 4th. Its 152 pages are packed with prize lists and other information. Thanks, ABD.

After all, the fair is less than two months away. The fair asks all to come and bring the family, as there will be amusement and interest for all.

The Texas A. & M. sent us some info about defoliating the cotton to be harvested by machinery this fall. If the dry weather keeps up, maybe no need the defoliant.

The latest one on the non-advertisers, was supplied by the McLean News, up in the Panhandle. A cafe customer, it seem after making complaint that he could not eat the soup brought him by the waiter, the waiter in turn called in the manager, and finally the chef. Then the customer explained he could not eat his soup without a spoon.

Then the News tells its readers that sometimes the area people drive to the larger places perhaps Pampa and Amarillo to buy what they want, as they do not see it advertised in the home paper. It can be found in McLean, but the merchants do not furnish the "spoon."

The same story might be repeated right here at home. We note that a lot of people leave here to go to other places to trade when they can get what they want right here—if the spoon was furnished.

During our recent trip to Tennessee, the driver, Phillip Rogers and the Old He, occupying the front seat, got to noting and commenting on the many fine steel and concrete bridges over creeks, rivers and sloughs in western Arkansas. Got to speculating on how much they cost.

Phillip had in the past, some experience, but when bridges were much cheaper than now.

The Tennessee Trip Continued

If our June trip to Tennessee in which we got no further than Jayton, Texas, about 100 miles east, had paid off, probably this story would be real short—so short you'd read it. But the makeup men in the back shop says we've just got to have something to fill space, so here goes.

There was at that time some gillion or so acres of cotton between here and the caprock at Post that was as fine as the crows even flew over for its age. But there it ended. When you dropped off the cap, you drop the crop. Oh, you see some fair crops along in Haskell and Knox county, but after you leave Seymour, and get into the tighter lands in the Wichita Falls section, you leave all crops behind. Around Gainesville it seemed to be mostly oats and wheat. The crops from Whitesboro, an through Sherman, Bonham and Paris are fair and indifferent, nothing like normal.

Might add that we had supper in Bonham, and all the county seat towns from there on were full of people looking at the election return boards. At Paris they even had a block of highway 82 blocked off, and you had to detour. Didn't know they could block highways for election returns before that experience. By that time was too dark to see the crops in east Texas, but saw them on our return or and he estimated the cost of those spans from $50,000 up. We then estimated that one of those long steel and concrete affairs would build from 20 to 30 miles of Farm-Market roads out here on the Plains. That is one reason we are so far ahead of the older states on roads, especially farm-market roads.

An right here is a good place as any to hand our native state our compliment for eliminating Gov. Gordon Browning from his third term as governor, and he lost a lot of votes, we found, by voting the 28 votes of the Tennessee delegates against seating the Virginia delegation.

While Browning is the second man in the race, the folks back there told us that it was at the behest of the Governor, that the second primary was eliminated. So he has no one to blame but himself that there is no second or runoff primary.

And of course old Senator McKeller was put on the retired list by Congressman Gore. And by the way Rep. Albert Gore is a relative of our Gore family here in Brownfield—cousins we believe. McKeller has been a great man in his younger days, but for the past ten years has become old and quarlsome. Time to retire.

The Lynn County News over at Tahoka, tells us of a Thomas Cat that set off the officers on the looksee for a burglar in a store. Tom, in his meandering around the store, happened to knock the receiver off a telephone. The operator reported it to officers.

Of course when the officers with drawn guns and flashing lights got in the store, Mr. Tom was taking it easy. We'll bet two-bits that this touring Tom Cat belongs to Editor Troy Morris of the Ropes Plainsman. Nearly every week, Troy devote from two to four columns to the adventures of his Tom Cat in the Ropes area. We bet he hitched a ride over to Tahoka, and went in that grocery in search of Walt Fraley.

Speaking of telephone, we were in hopes that the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company would at least get themselves a shorter name, when they decided to change it. But instead of four words, they now have six—General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

The name of our paper used to be "The Terry County Herald," but we left off "the" and shortened it to three words, and most often we just call it the Herald.

rather the bare ground in some places, and Johnson grass in most others, with fat cows grazing.

No crops in west Arkansas to speak of. Filling station man at Malvern stated it had been two months since they had a rain. Of course between Little Rock and Memphis in the rice belt that is irrigated, there was crops. Going, daybreak found us some 50 miles this side of Memphis, and we had gotten into the delta cotton section. And that, brother, is where we got a real letdown. We expected to see cotton at least waist high. It was less than knee high. But the soybean crop right next to the cotton was between knee and waist high. Guess the beans just shoot their roots down to moisture.

After crossing the Mississippi, from Memphis to Middleton, Tenn., some 70 miles the cotton was much higher in the hill and bottoms than in the delta. But it had done its do, as it was blooming in the top. We fear that a big rain may cause some shedding for a time. The old corn is literally burned up, but the rains that fell the night we left may save the young corn. Trouble is, most of the corn was the early variety. So, way goes a lot of costly fertilizer.

Of course most of the people would tell you about their poor crops, but there was no big lot of griping. And those old table were as usual loaded with the best of eats when you went to the table. And considering our mission back there we had a nice time. Daniel Rogers, son of the deceased Will, was to have his new toofies fitted that weekend, and he took off the balance of the week from his job with Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., a huge plant being located near Middleton.

He took us in tow, in his car, and we saw just about all the near kin at least. He kept us

To the Citizens of Terry County

I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the nice vote given me in July primary election.

I appreciate very much your confidence in me, and I assure you I will try at all times to serve you to the best of my ability, and will try to make you the kind of Constable you deserve.—Respectfully, ROY MOREMAN.

away from his house as much as possible, as we consumed too much of his butter. It made no difference how much meat, bread and vegetables we eat, but we had to cut sparingly on his butter. Wonder that man don't put a lock on the butter compartment in the refrigerator.

And everywhere we went, all tried to pick out the coolest spot to be found, and out come the ice water. And Dan has a good sleeping arrangement at his house—new to us—maybe we'll tell you about some of these days. Not a conditioner, but the nearest to it of anything not using water we ever saw.

On the return trip, we broke the trip by stopping with our nephew and wife, Benton and Hazel Stricklin, where we had a good backyard feed and a good bed, and fairly cool that night. Hazel is one of the deceased's daughters, and of course they and another daughter and family from Arlington all attended the funeral. The mother, Mrs. Will Rogers, is visiting these two daughters, but will not visit her son, Philip and family out here until fall.

So, hi, ho, for West Texas about 8 A.M.; dinner at Nocona and home by 7 p. m.

GOVERNOR ENDORSES SURPLUS FOOD FOR SCHOOLS

According to information received here, Governor Allen Shivers has endorsed the distribution of federal surplus foods to some 500 Texas schools. This includes such items as hams, bacon, honey, dried milk, etc. The local school people are also for this distribution.

We do not like to criticize, but we believe that a mistake was made during a building program in 1950, not to include cafeterias in the plans for all the schools. As is, the students have to leave the school grounds, buy their lunch, and as they return they distribute the paper cups, plates, napkins, etc., over the yards of residents nearby.

Maybe someone will say that the dispensers of food and drink near the school gets this business. Or do they? We are a personal witness, not once but several times that nearby cafes have had paying customers come in and leave, because all the booths were occupied by students who had their lunch, brought from home in a paper bag.

And a waitress in one of those places informed us that they not only occupied the booths with their own food, but demanded that the waitresses bring them water—free of course.

Even though the cafes lose money from regular paying customers, who then go downtown to eat, they say nothing for fear of insulting the youngsters or their families, who may be customers, occasionally.

Methodist WSCS Has Silver Open House In John Portwood Home For Parlor Fund

A silver openhouse, sponsored by the First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service, was held Thursday from 7 until 9 p. m. and Friday morning from 9:30 until 11 o'clock in the new John Portwood residence. Proceeds of the event went to the WSCS parlor fund for the new Methodist Church.

WSCS Faith Circle Has Study Meeting

Faith Circle of the First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service met Monday at 9 a. m. in the church Fellowship Hall for a regular business and study session. Mrs. Jim Griffith, circle chairman, conducted the meeting. Minutes were read and approved and a treasurer's report was heard.

A letter was presented concerning needed support for missionaries in India, and the group voted to support Miss Joyce Hill of Canyon, who is a missionary to India, as their project.

A committee was appointed to visit the sick, shut-ins and newcomers. An announcement was made concerning the Brownfield seminar which was to meet Wednesday at the church.

Mrs. J. H. Carpenter was in charge of the program during the morning for a study on "Partners in Business." Opening song was "In Christ There is No East or West."

A prayer was given and Mrs. R. L. Cornelius read scriptures from Revelations and Ephesians. Assisting Mrs. Carpenter on the program were Mesdames Lula Singletary, Sherman Mitchell, Griffith, G. S. Webber, U. D. Gorton and E. F. Luckie.

Attending were Mesdames Webber, D. S. Sampson, G. W. Brown, Griffith, Gorton, Ben J. Hill, Joe Johnson, Glenn Harris, B. L. Thompson, A. E. Proctor, Carpenter, Mitchell, Griffith, Singletary and Cornelius.

Mrs. Claude Buchanan visited with Mrs. Alton Hartman in Gomez, one day last week.

Adult Study Courses Are Being Conducted

Beginning Monday, a course in home nursing will be held as part of the Adult Summer Study program directed by Miss Wanda Terry, head of the Brownfield High school Department of Home Economics. Teaching the course will be Mrs. Leis Simmonds, Terry County Health nurse.

The Red Cross approved course will require 12 hours of study for completion, and classes will be held on Monday and Wednesday through Friday of next week and the following Monday. Among the things to be studied and explained are caring for a bedfast patient, taking temperatures correctly, sanitation and sterilization, and keeping a patient comfortable.

Classes will open at 7 p. m. each night, and enrollment will be limited. An person wishing to enroll for the course or obtain further details concerning it should contact Miss Terry immediately.

This week Miss Terry has been conducting classes on the Bishop method of clothing construction, featuring short-cuts and speed work. Emphasis has been placed on getting sewing done in a hurry, yet obtaining a professional look. Classes have been held daily at 3 p. m. in the sewing laboratory at the high school.

Attachments are not required with the Bishop method, and basting is unnecessary. Among the points presented in the course are: putting in hems on the machine, pattern alteration for common special problems, preparation of fabric, putting in zippers in any type of placket opening without basting, pressing and use of good equipment. Stress was also placed on grain perfection of fabric before cutting, and after the garment is made.

HAMMS HAVE VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hamm have had as their guests, their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Hamm, Fraulene and Tony, of San Diego, Calif., and their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Horner and Bobby of Seagraves. Other visitors in the Hamm home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith and Karan of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Benton and Billie of Brownfield, Mrs. Mattie McCollough of Brownfield, and Mr. and Mrs. W.
