We think we have had a bad drough here, and it has been rough. But according to an Associated Press article, it really did get rough down further south, beginning around Big Spring, and on down to Junction. It was stated that a big more rain had fallen this year than in 1917, but conditions generally were worse. Even the mesquite bushes, the shinnery, cactus and cedars were dying. The article was kind of an interview with former Governor Coke Stevenson. Coke stated that along about 1920, thousands of acres of the Junction section was plowed up and put in cultivation. And like a writer over in New Mexico stated some 35 or 40 years ago about this section: "When this land—the South Plains—goes into cultivation, and it will, it will be hotter here, as grass lands absorb the heat, while plowed ground reflects it." That was back when most of this section was ranches. Coke went on to explain that grass would absorb and hold more moisture than bare land. He stated that one year his county made 65,000 bales of cotton and a lot of feed. This year, according to Coke, there is no feed, and doubts if the county will make more than 500 bales of cotton. Then the interview branched into politics. It developed that he and the Presidential nominee on the Democratic ticket are distant cousins, his and Adlai's great grandfathers were brothers. But Coke did not say he would support Gov. Stevenson. Said he'd met Ike Eisenhower, and that Ike had made an impression on him. He and the present Vice-President, Albin Barkley, are also distantly related. But Coke did say that if he was in good health two years from now, he would take on Senator Lyndon Johnson again in the race for US Senate. It will be remembered that Johnson's 800 votes all coming from the stuffed ballot boxes of Duval county, the little dictatorship of South Texas. With the killings of late springing from Pharr's ballwick down in Dural and Star counties, perhaps the mess will be cleaned up until Coke will have an even break the next time. No, we don't aim to support Lyndon the next time, either. He cut our vote recently when he announced that he was taking on the present administration and its chained slaves, with all its mess and misery, and despite the grab of the tidelands, anti-states rights, FEPC and anti-filibuster. Just to wear a name, perhaps, a name that has been dragged in all the mire and mess of the barnyard of late years. It's time the people decided to clean house, and once more make the name, "Democracy" something that people would be glad to wear.

We have heard so much about "majority rule" in the past few years that a lot of polpe perhaps have about arrived at the conclusion that a majority is always right. That the majority can do anything it likes, or put over any measure and it is bound to be right, because the majority says so. Nothing can be further from the truth, and the majority is just as apt to be in error as the minority. In writing out the Declaration of Independence, our founding fathers had the foresight to leave us three rights that we should always treasure. They are "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." In addition, we have from the founders of our great nation what is known as the Bill of Rights adopted with the first ten amendments to the Constitution. These bills of rights so hedged in congress that the minorities would be protected. These rights carried the privilege of the minorities to freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and others. If such freedoms as those mentioned are silenced, most of us know there can be no real freedom. Those old founding fathers were wise for their day, any day, and they had lived in an age when there were ambitious men, who were willing to rule or ruin. Just in case there might be such a man in the United States, the founders of this Republic set up three counter-balancing potentials, the executive, the legislative and the judiciary. These three stop gaps worked wonders so that none took too much authority until the late FDR, who sought and did with the help of a rather non-resistant congress, packed the judiciary department so that the Supreme court might do his will. We have been in trouble up to our necks since. And our present executive doesn't obey the Constitution, which he took a solemn oath to do. He swears to enforce all the laws of our country, and this includes the Taft-Hartley act, as long as it is on the statute books, or repealed. But he flatly refused to enforce the T-H law in the recent steel strike. But when we the people of the USA go to the polls in November, we will endeavor by a majority vote, to elect a man to head this nation, that will not only enforce all the laws, but obey the mandates of these laws. When we cast our vote, let us seriously ask ourselves this question: Will this man obey the Constitution of the United States?

Well, well, well! We note that the little Socialist paper down at Austin that sails under the banner of "Loyal Democrat" is still all het up and rearing. Still calls everybody that doesn't agree with it, including Gov. Shivers, all the ugly names in the book, then throws the book at 'em. But we were rather taken aback this week when that paper admitted that the National Democratic Committee could go wrong. Surely the Observer was jesting? But there it was as plain as the nose on the face of a perpetual drunk. It showed as how if the demmy-crats lost Texas this fall, it could only blame itself. But just get a load of the reason. Just because the demmycratic snashional committee had been trying to appease the State setup, who presently don't happen to be the likes of what the Observer likes. Such, for instance, as Shivers, Wright Morrow, Daniels and others. The Observer seems to have a counterpart here on the South Plains, the Bonanner over at Ralls. We don't get that rag, as evidently "it sez here," the editor didn't like some of the stuff the Old He writes, and cut us off behind the froushoulder. Anyway, we see some of his tirades occasionally in papers that go along with his bull, and stay on his side, silently, at least. We never read either paper that we don't think back some 30 years ago, when Appeal to Reason, another Socialist sheet, was in its prime. But if the little Observer keeps lengthening the names of those who do not go along with it on its anti-states rights, FEPC, tidelands grab, filibuster, etc., it will take a line or so in its three column, four page sheet to accomodate the names of the hateful people who disagree. Presently they are Texas Regulars - Dixiecrats - Shivercrats. Supposedly, the Observer thinks all the nasty, filthy mess that has come out of Washington the past several years, smells and tastes like bacon, eggs, coffee and toast for breakfast. Anyway, that is what such papers are upholding, according to the tune they play. Well, if they want to play in the cowlot instead of on the front lawn, that's their business. What if all us men had wanted to marry Miss Sallie Ann? In fact, a lot of us haven't entirely made up our minds about who we'll vote for for President. Major Hoople or Andy Gump may still get our nod.

Being as this institution does not indulge in the savings epidemic to any great extent, news that Postal Savings were falling off was something new to us. The info we get from "Impact," a week-business information folder put out by the Brownfield State Bank and Trust Co. However, we are presuming their source of information is accurate, and that the Postal Savings Division of the Postoffice department, reached its peak year in 1947. In that year, according to the folder, Postal Savings deposits reach $3.4 billion, but since that time, the decline has been steady. In both 1950 and 1951, the withdrawals have exceeded the deposits. Before you make a crack that perhaps the poor working people have had to withdraw their savings to pay their income taxes, or to keep pace with the Joneses, we find there is a reason for the Postal Savings losses: that private institutions have made huge gains while P. S. was losing. Like all other federal institutions, there is too much red tape to Postal Savings to suit people, where there are privately owned ones, paying just as much interest, with much less sign this and fingerprint that. That's right, those who made a deposit in a Postal Savings account, not only had to give them his signature, but his or her fingerprints as well. Then there was the headache of withdrawing interest, a surrender of your deposit slip, and the issuance of new ones. In the meantime, the privately owned savings and loan associations have made great strides in taking care of their customers with a little trouble and red tape as possible. It is believed that the next congress will do away with the Postal Savings department of the postal service. In fact, such a bill has already been introduced, but was lost in the haste of adjournment. Even the comptroller has asked that Congress re-examine the need for such a department as Postal Savings system. Suits us. The less we can have of "government in business," the better for all concerned. It has long since been learned that privately owned industry of all kinds can and will do business better and cheaper than government controlled affairs. And that the private institutions pay their pro rata of taxes instead of being tax free, as is the government affairs.

On the same order as the Postal Savings operated by the government, as discussed above, we have for the past several years had many offers by the left wing order of the Democratic party, of the idea of health insurance. But those who had considerable socialistic blood in their veins, somehow failed to put over the idea. In fact, most people who wished to carry health insurance, either as an individual, or group, at about what the government would have wanted. And at the same time, with much less red tape. This newest kind of insurance, known as group insurance, to cover the entire family, has grown by leaps and bounds in the past few years. Fact is, statistics showed that at the end of last year, just under 8 million people were covered by health or group insurance, which was a gain of 2.3 million in a single year. For years, many working people, as well as the professional people and their loved ones have been covered by the older forms of group insurance, known as the Blue Shield or the Blue Cross. People with small means, find that when serious sickness strikes, it is a comforting feeling to know that they or their loved ones are protected by a company that can and will take care of at least the major part of the doctor and hospital bills, and pay them promptly. This feeling takes no little part of the shock from sickness, that comes on suddenly or gradually. And it also shows that the old American idea and spirit of self-reliance is still very much alive. That they are not looking for or asking for socialized medicine. It is a well known fact, that when your dollar is taken from you by the government for any purpose, and sent off up to Washington, you get a very small percent of it back, and by the time all the bureaus get through making dozens of carbon copies and blue prints of the matter, together, perhaps with your fingerprints. The insurance folks as well as the medical profession admit that there are still a lot of difficult problems to be solved before all the "bugs" are removed, but good progress is being made. In the meantime, the present setup is quite satisfactory to most people.

Before we get well started on this tirade, let us once again call attention to the fact that school buses are running. And before you get into a jam with the law, keep in mind that when a school bus in front of you stops, no matter whether you are going the same direction, or meeting the bus, you are supposed to stop. And that means STOP! Then you may proceed at 10 miles per hour.

Many have gotten the idea that if you are going the same way the bus is traveling, you just slow down, as the children are discharged on the opposite side. But maybe some of them have to cross the highway to get home, so, STOP!

There was a time in our young manhood, when we yearned for more mail. We'd see the merchants go to the postoffice, and return to the store with an armload of mail. In those good old days, there were two cheap two-bit monthly mags that we farm people took for the thrilling stories in them. They were Farm and Fireside, and Hearth and Home. You olduns remember them.

Sometimes they would have an ad from some firm way up North, asking if "you'd like to receive more mail? If so, write your name and address, and enclose a small fee." But what a change.

We fervently wish many times that a lot of guys had never heard of us. It takes about an hour of our "valuable" time each day to open and toss their stuff in the waste basket. We always open 'em, because there is a 1000 to 1 chance there might be some money or an order for advertising. Generally isn't.

Just read in the current issue of Pathfinder where Sen. John Sparkman, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate hails from, in Alabama. Right in the north part at Huntsville, and in close proximity to the Tennessee river, and of course where the TVA's are thick. No wonder then that he has socialistic ideas, and thinks the government has a right to step in and take what does not belong to it.

And, we might add, the article went on to say that Bro. Sparkman is an artful dodger of direct questions asked him. So, up north, he can play the part that he is for FEPC, and the "Society for Prevention of Cruelty to the Colored Race." On the other hand, he can play his cards in the South that he is a Staterighter from Staterightersville.

Startling? The Dawson County Free Press over at Lamesa had a picture on the front page that was so large that it almost covered the bottom half. It stated that the ladies shown therewith was a "study club". But looked more like an "Eatin' Club" to us, as they were all seated at the banquet board with food and drink stacked in front of them; to the right of them; to the left; and all about them.

Maybe we are just dense.

And C. W. Collins, the oil farmer down in South Terry, who can smell the wells on his farm, is being ribbed no little by his sneaking neighbors about how much he has been out this year to hire a firm to make it rain more. But C. W. says he got quite a sprinkle of the wet stuff one day last week.

A lot of people are wondering why the State Government doesn't send in militia as well as rangers to old Duval and Jim Wells counties to clean up the mess down there that has run too long already, to suit decent folks. In the past three years three murders have been perpetrated down in Dictator Pharr's balivick. All were presumably killed by hired assassins from the dictator's side.

All but a few timid souls cast a duplicate vote down there, and they hold returns until they see how many they'll need in case of a close election. Senator Lyndon Johnson owes his election in 1948 to the crooked votes in those two counties.

Talk about the stench and mess up at Washington, we Texans have no right to talk until the putrid carriage is cleaned out in Duval and Jim Wells.

Had a card of thanks from Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Brian, out at Bronco, recently. Was an acknowledgement of the little pair of Levis we gave their infant son, Jerry Ray, who happened to be born on our birthday, August 23.

We get a kick almost every day out of the Big D. column on the front page of the Dallas Morning News, written by Paul Crume. He was reporting on one the Alcoholics Anonymous clubs in Dallas. It had met to celebrate the fact that quite a few had gone for one long year without guzzling anything stronger than coffee or tea.

And Paul stated that 13 of the bunch had a total of 100 years to their credit without taking a drink. Paul cracked that 100 years was about equal to some Texas drouths. By the way, Paul was handed one recently that took some of the conceit out of him.

A lady up north somewhere saw one of his columns, and wrote in that she had a husband by the name of Paul Crume that deserted her and four little children a few years ago. But Paul gracefully got out of this jam by stating that the lady described her ex-husband as good looking.

Speaking of columnists, to which we make no claim, although we do conduct one in a manner of speaking, a good South Terry lady almost laid us out Saturday with a request. And she said it without smiling too much. What do you suppose she requested of Old He?

She asked us to leave out a lot of the "How To Make Hay While The Sun Shines On The Farm," not to mention a lot of the See-syety stuff that we run in this grand old rag, and—get hold of something solid—write a history of our life.

She wanted us to begin with our childhood in Tennessee and bring the story right down to presently, and run it in installments in the Herald. She just knew she would get a kick out of it. How does she know but that we got run out of Tennessee for horse theft?

Sometimes it pays to soft pedal the past, and let well enough

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

I will expound today on what I have dug up on my research into "what is the middle of the road." The middle of the road business the present day mode of approach by just about everybody running for any kind of office, from senator and mayor up and down the line and crosswise.

I will proceed. And for the gents who are the candidates, it will pay 'em to listen close. If they dilly dally there in the middle of the road they will soon be losing a fender at the very least and more than likely it will be a head-on, and disaster. You can't drive down the middle, or balance water on both shoulders, with safety—for long.

There is only one answer to any question—it is "yes or it is no"—it is not a smart alec beatin' around the bush that is wanted. Most voters have been around—they too, like your Uncle Josephus, are not a 100 per cent yokel all the time—it is just part of the time. This is the year—after a dozen such of suckerishness—that the voters may become weary and lower the boom on double talk. So to you office seeking gentry, I offer you this sagebrush sage advice—it is my good turn

Mary Dessalee Chisholm, J. R. Smith Marry Friday In Double Ring Home Vows

Miss Mary Dessalee Chisholm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chisholm, 321 West Buckley, became the bride of J. R. Smith of Denver City, son of Henry E. Smith of Post, in a ceremony read Friday at 7 p. m., in the home of the bride's parents.

J. R. Chisholm, uncle of the bride and a minister of the Church of Christ, performed the double ring vows before a double window decorated with vine covered lattice work flanked on each side by baskets of white gladioli.

The bride wore a ballerina length dress of blue shantung silk fashioned with a deep V-neckline, a fitted bodice and a full skirt. A shoulder length veil of imported French illusion fell from a headband of pearls and rhinestones. The bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white carnations centered by pink rosebuds.

For something old she chose a cameo which belonged to her grandmother, and something new her wedding ensemble. Pearls were borrowed from her mother, and a garter was something blue. A penny was placed in her shoe for luck by her father.

Miss Joy Chisholm of Lubbock, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and wore a two-piece frock of off-white faille. Her corsage was of pink carnations. L. G. Smith of Brownfield attend his brother as best man.

At a reception held in the Chisholm home immediately after the ceremony, the bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth and featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bridal couple. Pink fruit punch was served by Mrs. L. E. Harrell and Mrs. H. D. Boston, both of Brownfield, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. K. E. Warshaw of Post, sister of the bridegroom.

Guests attended from Lubbock, Post, Denver City and Palestine. After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to points in New Mexico. For traveling the bride chose a navy faille suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds. They will be at home in Denver City after Sept. 16.

The bride is a graduate of Brownfield High school and was formerly employed at the Brownfield State Bank and Trust Company. The bridegroom attended Texas Technological College and is now employed by Shell Oil Company.

Trip Down Snyder Way

After the noon lunch Sunday, the Jr. member of this firm, wife and two small fry, Robert and Mary Ann, invited the Old He and wife for a "buggy" ride down to Snyder. About the best crops we saw south of Brownfield, is in the Pankin Center community of Dawson county. The rest is about a sameness, except the further east one goes from Lamesa, the worse the crops.

And there isn't any below the cap on 180. We had expected to see some young grain from the middle of July rains that fell in abundance one Sunday when we were in that area. It seemed to have been planted, but the dry hot weather withered the young stuff. Later in the afternoon, we went out the Big Spring highway as far as I'm to have a view at the almost completed dam across the Colorado. There were some fields of cotton out there.

That is probably where they got their first bale from, as there is no cotton west or north of Snyder. Generally speaking, Scurry and Terry Counties produce almost the same amount of cotton, between 30,000 and 40,000 bales. Last year they got about 10,000 bales, while we were harvesting 73,000. And there will be almost as much difference this year, if not more. As stated above, the Colorado river dam is almost complete, lacking some five or six feet along a short stretch on the south side being high enough to match the balance of the dam. The river proper had a half a channel of water, and many were boat riding.

Found the Trig family in fine fettle, but Herman was improving the premises by leveling up, and was preparing to erect a back yard fence to contain that bundle of energy, Miss Sara Beth, and to keep her off the streets. About sunset, we had a good Sunday night repast and after some jawfest, we took off for home.

Was 15 to 11 P. M., when we got in, tired and rather sleepy—and so to bed and happy dreams.

Democratic Versus Republican Platform They Have A Daily Over At Levelland

(This is one of a series of articles prepared as a public service by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. They will contain factual reports of the contents of the national platforms of the major political parties, without comment.)

Planks of the platforms adopted by the Republican and Democratic parties in their national conventions bearing upon the federal budget, tax reduction, tax administration and national defense, contained the following statements:

Federal budget: Democratic platform — Declares for holding spending "to the lowest practicable level"; deplors "irresponsible assertion that national security can be achieved without paying for it."

Republican platform — Pledges "reduction of expenditures by elimination of waste and extravagance so that the budget will be balanced and a general tax reduction can be made."

Tax reduction: Democratic — "As rapidly as defense requirements permit, we favor reducing taxes, especially for people of lower incomes. But we will not imperil our nation's security by making reckless promises to reduce taxes. . . . We oppose a general sales tax. . . . We adhere to the principle of ability to pay."

Republican — "Our goal is a balanced budget, a reduced national debt, an economical administration and a cut in taxes."

Tax administration: Democratic — A pledge "to eliminate loopholes which favor special groups"; a promise to "continue to support sound development and growth of bona fide cooperatives and to protect them from punitive taxation."

Republican — Favors "a thorough revision and codification of the present hodgepodge of internal tax laws. . . . Administration of tax laws free from politics and corruption"; favors "reasonable depletion allowances."

Federal-state-local fiscal relations: Democratic — Proposes more and new forms of grants-in-aid to the States.

Republican — Pledges "an immediate study directed toward re-allocation of fields of taxation between Federal, state and municipal government so as to allow greater fiscal freedom to the states and municipalities, enabling them to meet their obligations more efficiently."

The most foolish question: The most foolish as well as the most unnecessary question we have noted recently, was put out by the Lubbock Avalanche gal, who frames questions daily, to be asked.

The one Monday was "who did the five selected Lubbockites think would win the District 1, AAAA football championship?" Of course all said Ama—, we mean Lubbock would win hands down, including Hiram Parks.

OLD KING COLE,
SOUL, CALLS

Monday morning almost before we were good awake, we had a curious caller going under the moniker of Sam H. "King" Cole, who designated himself as a newsboy, and the "King of Hobos." He was making his 4th world tour, he stated.

As we have never taken very kindly to hobos, being as how we have had to work pretty hard all our life for just the necessities of life, our interview with him was rather short, but satisfactory to us, at least. But may the Lord rest his merry soul.

While he sat, he sketched what was purported to be a likeness of the Old He, but it looked so much like Harry Truman, we hid it.

He called for his bowl and he called for his fiddlers three, and took off—without a donation or happy returns.

H. H. Harris Pays
Us A Short Call

H. H. Harris and wife, old time ranchers of the Bronco community, just over in New Mexico, were Brownfield visitors Monday. While he was in getting his paper up to Feb., 1954, Mrs. Harris was calling on a sick friend at the hospital. The Harrisese now reside in Tatum, and one of the sons runs the ranch.

Mr. Harris agreed with us that this had not only been one of the driest but hottest summers in our memory here on the South Plains, and that has been a long time, 43 for the writer, and longer even for Harve Harris.

It has been so dry this year, however, that Harve has had to sell off some of his herd.

Bargain days are here again for the Star-Telegram and the Abilene Reporter-News. The regular and bargain rates on the Star-Telegram is as follows. Daily and Sunday, $18.00 and $13.95; daily only, $15.00 and $12.60

Walter Tomlinson, Jr.
Home From Korea

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tomlinson drove to Fort Bliss, El Paso, last Thursday to meet their son, Walter, Jr., who upon his return to the states, is being discharged after nine months across—four months in Japan and five in Korea. He was with the construction engineers. Walter is married and their plans are to remain in Brownfield.

Page Tomlinson, who is in the Navy, and stationed in Hutchinson, Kans., came in for a week's furlough with his parents. He will leave today for his base. The Tomlinson's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. Q. Williams and children, Gary and Dickie, of Lamesa, were also Sunday visitors with their parents.

Black To Put Down
Irrigation Wells

M. B. Childress was in Saturday from the farm down in the Forrester community, and informed us that his brother-in-law, John Black, was up from Comanche county. He will visit in the Childress home, while one and possibly two irrigation wells are being put down on his place.

John has one place about four miles southwest of the city, and another in the Forrester community. John, a bachelor, settled here in the early 20ties, and brought the places he still owns. However, some years ago he returned to Comanche county in the DeLeon area to make his home with a brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Monnett are in Tulsa and Osceola, Mo., for the next two weeks, visiting relatives and attending college football games.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jordan are visiting with their daughter, Lois Jordan, at Rocky Ford, Colorado.

Ordinance

ordinance for anyone keeping livestock, including poultry, within the city limits to make out an application for a permit to keep livestock. A properly prepared plan or sketch of the building or buildings, standings, pen or corals, and the manure storage bin shall be attached to this application.
The application should then be submitted to the Sanitarian at the Health Department, and he will make an inspection of the designated premises. In the event that all of the requirements of the ordinance have been met, a permit will be issued by the City Secretary at the City Hall. Applications for permits may be secured from the City Hall or your local Health Department at the South Plains Health Unit at the East end of Main Street.
A fee will be charged for the permit to keep livestock, because of the additional expense to the City of Brownfield in the enforcement of the provisions of this health ordinance.
A person who keeps bovine (cattle) or equines (horses) livestock shall pay a fee of $5.00 a year or any fractional part thereof.
A person who keeps any other livestock as defined in this ordinance shall pay a fee of $1.50 per year or any fractional part thereof.
The only establishments exempt from the payment of fees will be: authorized places where the slaughter of cattle, sheep, goats, hogs, poultry or rabbits is conducted; stock yards and auction barns so designated and zoned at the time of passage of this ordinance; where livestock are kept for sale or trade; veterinary hospitals and exercise pens used in connection therewith; farms, institutional and dairy farms, schools, circuses, fairs and carnivals.
This ordinance also governs the parking of stock trucks, trailers, or cars which have been used for the transportation of livestock. If parked in any area within the city limits of Brownfield, other than the stock yards, they shall have all animal waste removed and the

Brownfield Cubs

Thomason, the latter doing a very fine job of running, carried the ball to the Pecos 20, where a penalty stopped the Cub's first real scoring attack.
The two ball clubs were evenly matched for the last quarter, during which period Jerry Brown, husky defensive halfback, was put off the field by officials for roughness.
Spectators who saw the Cub-Eagle tilt, witnessed plenty of hard-hitting blocking and tackling by both teams.
Both bands, Pecos and Brownfield, turned in very good half-time performances. The Brownband and pep squad formed an Eagle and a Cub, saluting each.
Other District 7AA outcomes were as follows: Sweetwater clipped the Levelland Lobos 26-6; Littlefield had the upper hand on Dalhart 31-18; Hereford gave the Mulshoe Mules a kick for 20-6.
Next week the Cubs go to Phillips to tangle with the 2AA favorites, the Phillips Blackhawks.

The ordinance will become effective ten days after its publication and will be strictly enforced in order to make Brownfield a cleaner and healthier place in which to live.
