

Stricklinly Speaking
 By OLD HE

J. D. Roberts, our old friend down at Wellman, who keeps the school rooms in shipshape, dropped in to see us this past week, and renewed for three years while the "drouth special" rate is still on. J. D. saw a poem several years ago in a newspaper that he fancied greatly, and he thought perhaps some reader of the Herald might help him locate the poem, either in their scrap book, or perhaps some book of poems.

He doesn't remember the title of the poem, but it could be "Kindness" or something concerning kindness. He does remember the last line, which reads, "Kindness is the word." Let us add here that we fully believe that this aging gentleman fully practices kindness, not so much openly for show, but in his everyday walk of life.

And another good friend, Jacob Sandage of the Union community, was in just a few minutes to swap greetings. In the course of our conversation, Jake stated that he met a fellow on the streets of Brownfield recently that called him a "Jack Stricklin Republican," whatever that is. Personally, we take the jab as a compliment. But knowing Jake Sandage like we do, we have an idea it did not set well with him, as he does his own thinking, without any local or national suggestions.

In other words, Sandage is a well educated and a well balanced man who does his own thinking. He is also a good writer, his articles appearing infrequently in the Herald, and of late rather frequently in the Lubbock dailies in "Readers Column." And his ideas make sense from every standpoint — nothing radical about them. However, we question greatly the idea that the GOPers, either state or national, will take a new brand of the party any more than the Demos like the Square, New or Queer Deal Democrat brands.

But here in the South we have the Liberal, the Dixiecrat, and in Texas have added the Shivercrats. But we believe that Jake is somewhat like the Old He. When he pays his poll tax or gets his exemption, he is entitled to vote just as he likes. Not like someone else wants him to vote. That is what has made our country great. And that was the idea of the true-blue Democrat down the line from Jefferson to Woodrow Wilson.

"Tain't none of our business, of course, but we believe that ex-Mayor Nelson kinder crowded the season on his spring suit, Sunday, and as a consequence had to start the gas stoves in the pharmacy. His wife arose somewhat earlier than he, and lit the stove in the bedroom, and when he awoke for breakfast, he felt the weather had greatly moderated and slipped on a mid-summer suit. Mrs. N. asked him if he did not think he was crowding the season, when he went to breakfast.

Well, we can't talk, as last Monday the 26th, we felt that summer was here and changed from long-handles to BVDs, and they felt good up until about Saturday morning, and we were near frozen since. But too contrary to change back. Waited here 'till May to have winter, dagnabit.

Along with some chunks of cussings, we occasionally get a bit of praise. Especially do we appreciate one received recently from the Alpha Omega Study Club that read:

"We the members of the Alpha Omega Study Club, wish to express our appreciation to you for the excellent publicity given to the club by your newspaper in the past year. Our club press book was awarded first place at the District Convention, which convened only last week. We realize without your cooperation, it would have been impossible to achieve this award. Please accept our sincere thanks." Signed, Mrs. Sid Lowery, Corresponding Secretary. What we did for these good ladies, in their effort to help themselves, also the many ways they render service to the town and community as the

SURVEY SHOWS ONLY 235 OF 303 JUVENILE DRIVERS HAVE LICENSE

The Citizens Traffic Commission heard reports from the City, County and Juvenile Drivers License Commission at their regular meeting in the District Courtroom, on Thursday, April 29.

The Commission okayed recommendations made by the City and County committees. Lee Litze, R. J. Purtell and Clarence Griffith acted as spokesmen for the committee.

Griffith is chairman for the Juvenile Drivers Committee and reported that according to a survey made by his committee there are 303 students who drive automobiles. The report stated that 115 had had a drivers training course and 238 had not. The questioners disclosed that there were 65 high school students who desired a training course, and 173 who did not. The amazing part of the report made by Griffith was that only of the 303 juvenile drivers, only 235 have a driver's license.

The Committee will send out letters to parents urging them to require their juvenile drivers to get driver's licenses. Al Muldrow's City Traffic Committee made recommendations for some specific projects for traffic safety in Brownfield.

cited some improvements to be made throughout the county. Marty Bowers was not present to report for the T Man Committee. The Traffic Commission according to the chairman needs the support of the people before it can become successful.

The Commission is interested in having all the people of Terry County cooperate with law enforcements of City and County governments in the interest of traffic safety. The Commission is now going into action on specific projects and will need the cooperation of every citizen.

$843 FROM 'NEIGHBOR' CANCER DRIVE SO FAR

Terry County American Cancer Society has collected $843.09 toward the $1,500 goal in the "Neighbor to Neighbor" campaign which got underway last week end, and will continue indefinitely, according to Frank Gorton, treasurer of the local crusade. Some of the collections still haven't been turned in.

Over 40 key workers helped distribute the brown envelopes that went around the residential and business blocks, and the society is urging everyone that has one of the envelopes to call the key worker listed on the envelope or phone No. 3786.

Everyone hates cancer. But that is not enough. Hatred, without action, is only a futile and wasteful emotion.

The best way to fight an enemy is to find his strongest point and hit him the hardest there. Cancer's strongest weapon is ignorance. Many, if not most, of cancer's victims are victims of not knowing how to detect cancer early enough. A basic aim of the American Cancer Society is to bring every person in the country sufficient knowledge about cancer so he will not lose his life needlessly.

To aid in the education and finance of research and service to cancer patients, Terry County is using the Neighbor to Neighbor plan, which is giving us two strikes against cancer: (1) By making our contributions, and (2) by taking

The past two years especially have been strenuous ones here in this section of the state. In the 45 years we have spent here, we don't remember conditions being as bad at any time among all classes of people. True there were no crops made in 1917, and very little in 1918. However, there was comparatively little farming being done here at that time—mostly ranching. The grass got low, and many herds had to be moved to other states by the summer of 1918. But in those days, one heard little aching from either the farmer or ranchman, as the banks here at home took care of the few farmers, and the smaller ranchmen, while the big banks of Kansas City looked after the needs of the larger ranchmen. Then there was the early 30ties with the depression, but most of the time farmers made fair crops, but the price was low; so were cattle. The hardest hit people were those doing odd jobs, and there were no jobs to paid on the dot, but now are not doing so, and that makes it hard on the person they owe to meet their obligations. So, to be perfectly frank, it is a chain proposition, you pay me and I'll pay the other man what I owe him. But if one or more of the chain links are broken, everyone suffers. Bad as it is, we have heard very little aching about something they cannot help. And too, we have heard little about "going to law" about the matter. What good would it do in most cases to file suit?

In his press release for May 6, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson gets right down to some basic facts that are a must for Texas. And he calls the No. one problem of Texas, WATER. He points out that there is an increasing awareness of the vital solution of this issue. It is a well known fact that each year millions of acre feet of water that falls in Texas, takes out down the draws and creeks into the rivers, and from there it ends up a mixture with the briny deep, so infiltrated with salt that it is fit for neither man nor beast, nor for irrigation purposes. Like the man's last dollar, it is gone forever. We fully agree with the Senator that when God created man and gave him the overseership of the universe, he was made an intelligent creature, not as the beasts of the field. He was supposed to use what was before him, the earth, the rocks, the metals, the chemicals and the water for means to the end of his enjoyment and comfort. But not without the sweat of his brow. The good Master did not intend that man should spend his days in ease of Zion. The All-wise knew that the idle brain too often plans mischief instead of the means of his own livelihood. Every year, when there is a long dry period, there goes up the wail from the people that their grass and crops are burning up. And in the towns and cities, the people are told to go sparingly with water. Sometimes they are forbidden to water their yards, or even wash their cars—water is too precious. Even bath water is limited, and we are then reduced to the point of becoming an associate with dirt and filth. What is man, especially we Texans doing about the matter? Annually, the Sabine, Trinity, Brazos and the Colorado rivers carry a sea of water to be dumped into the Gulf, and lost forever, so far as mankind is concerned. As intelligent beings, we are supposed to halt this process of wasted water, then not ache and roar about the matter, when the time is past when we can do anything about the matter. The water we should have laked, is gone forever. Yes, there will be some costs, huge ones, for that matter. But an immediate start should be made. There are billions of dollars for investment by private individuals, banks, investment brokers and what have you, that would buy the bonds, or perhaps in some instances, take a fee on the amount of water used from such lakes, in repayment. Even the government should be willing to make such loans—not a gift, mind you—to promote such efforts to retain the water at or near where it falls. Not after it drifts into the Gulf.

Generally speaking we are opposed to more than two terms for State or National offices, but admit that we reluctantly voted for Franklin Roosevelt for his fourth term, and admit that we were not too enthusiastic about his third term heat. We believed that there were other good Democrats who could have answered the call of the nation. But the leaders had another idea; he was nominated and was elected in both instances. But we hereby admit that we never did cast a vote for Harry Truman. In 1948, we cast our vote for what we considered a genuine old Democrat, that old South Carolinian, Strom Thurmond; and for Ike in 1952, and we consider him a better 'Democrat' than some men who wear the name, for he is at least a States Righter. He is enough on the level that many of our Texas Congressmen and the two Senators have gone along with him on many of his projects. If Ike's stuff had been much off brand, these men would not have stayed with him on many of the measures that he has advocated, and that have been passed by both branches of Congress. His greatest opposition has been developed in the north and east, and among the left wingers of both parties. For that reason, do not follow the party line too close of late years. As the old song went about the Old Grey Mare, "she ain't what she used to be." Therefore as a usual thing, we are not much to get riled up on a third term for a State officer. But things being as they are, we have come to the conclusion that the present Governor, the present Lieutenant Governor, and the Attorney General are the men to keep at the masthead of our State for another term at least. Maybe we are mistaken, but we feel that we are safe in this conjecture. The same goes for other State officers up for re-election as far as we know, and the same applies to our US Senator Lyndon Johnson, and to Congressman George Mahon. It seems to us that we are kinder in the middle of a stream, and no chance with the flood and high waters to change horses. Some of the opposition that has announced, have just about promised everything—with no tax raise of course—but we have heard that old song before. If there was nothing else to recommend Shivers and Shepherd other than that they routed the Commies out of Texas, that would satisfy us. Again, if there was nothing else to their credit than their effort to clean up the mess down in old Duval, we believe this would be sufficient to us in giving them another try. These men are conservative in their speech as well as their intentions. We had one trial of promise everything, under "Pass the Biscuits Pappy O'Daniell." We don't want to risk an extreme either way.

MONEY AGAINST WIND

Action to protect West Texas' most precious asset—soil—from further wind damage was taken in Washington last week. The news was heartening to South Plains farmers, who realize that the recent rains, although beneficial, were not enough to completely restore the soil.

The most encouraging action was that of the Senate, in voting $15,000,000 for use in drought areas in Texas and other States to curb wind erosion. The money was provided in the form of an amendment to a supplemental appropriations bill for various government agencies that the House previously had passed. The wind erosion money is one of several Senate changes in the bill, which must be studied by a Senate-House conference committee.

As approved by the Senate, the $15,000,000 would be available to the Department of Agriculture until the end of 1955 for payments to farmers who break their land, or take other steps to control erosion. Payments would be limited to actual costs, or $1 per acre, whichever is smaller.

Both Texas Senators, Lyndon Johnson and Price Daniel endorsed the measure. Senator Johnson said that in Texas there were 4,274,000 acres of land last month without cover, with insufficient cover or "ready to blow," and that 1,234,000 acres already have suffered moderate to severe damage.

The Senate action covered some of the points advocated in Washington last week by Gov. Allan Shivers and a delegation of West Texas County Judges, all of whom proposed anti-erosion measures for this section. County Judges Milton Ramsey of Andrews County, Edgar Taylor of Scurry County, and James McMorries of Martin, met with Rep. George Mahon and others in the capital last week. Their ideas were passed on to President Eisenhower and Agriculture Secretary Benson.

The West Texas judges generally agreed on the boundaries of the regions hardest hit by erosion. They included a fourth of Farmer County; all of Bailey; half of Lamb; all of Cochran and Hockley, the west fourth of Lubbock, all of Yoakum and Terry, the west fourth of Lynn, all of Gaines and most of Dawson, all of Andrews and Martin and small parts of Howard, Ector and Midland.

Advocated by the judges were loans to small businessmen, federal advances to families in real distress for living expenses and farm operation. FHA loans up to 10 years and payments similar to the ones later provided for by the Senate.

Additional measures proposed by Shivers include the following: Special allowances for reseeding grasses and other cover crops; co-ordination of activities of all Federal and State agriculture agencies on one program "rather than five or 10;" emphasis on upstream water conservation; and additional one-year moratorium on farm parity legislation and retention of the present fixed parity formula, particularly so farmers in the drought areas will be assured on adequate price for crops they are able to produce.

Shivers also urged more long-range planning against the possibility of wind erosion, and in so doing, he hit on a basic need. Temporary measures provide relief, but they don't solve the problem. Long-range conservation is needed, as urged by the Soil Conservation

G. I. QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q. How do I go about applying for institutional on-farm training under the Korean GI Bill?

A. Obtain an application blank at any VA office. Fill it out completely. Send it to your nearest VA regional office along with the following attachments: (1) photostat or certified copy of your separation paper; (2) detailed outline of your program as set up by your school; (3) certification from the school stating that the program meets all standards of the law, and (4) evidence that you have control of the farm and that the training will occupy your full time.

Q. Would I be allowed to take institutional on-farm training under the Korean GI Bill in a dairy processing plant?

A. No. Under the law, on-farm training must be given on a "farm or other agricultural establishment" owned or managed by the veteran. A dairy processing plant does not fit in with this definition. You may, however, take on-the-job training—as opposed to on-farm training—in the plant under the Korean GI Bill, providing the plant gets State approval for the training.

Q. I'm entitled to the maximum 36 months of training under the Korean GI Bill. Could I use all that time taking institutional on-farm training?

A. You could use all that time for farm training only if you needed it to reach your goal. Farm training programs are tailored to the individual veteran; so if you could reach your objective in a shorter period of time, as a result of prior experience, you would not need the full 36 months to complete your course.

Q. How much classroom instruction is required of veterans taking institutional on-farm training under the Korean GI Bill?

A. Under the law, a total of at least 200 hours per year of classroom instruction is required. Not less than eight hours of it must be given in any one month.

Service. The SCS considers 2,200,000 acres in West Texas as unsuitable for cultivation. The majority of Texas land the SCS would like to see go back in grass lies in the South Plains counties named above.

Those who continue to plant on land not suited for the job may be unwise, yet cannot be blamed too much for wanting to make as much as they can, especially with times harder than they once were for farmers. But steps should be taken—and the government program should help—to insure continued prosperity on crops 10 years from now—Lubbock Avalanche.

IS YOUR CAR IN GOOD DRIVING CONDITION NOW?

"Check your car—check accidents, today. Tomorrow may be too late!"

In those words Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, President of the Texas Safety Association, and Services Advisor for the Gulf Oil Corporation today urged all motorists to support the vehicle maintenance program being conducted throughout Texas this month in cooperation with the Texas Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council. This state-wide program is sponsored by all of official and non-official groups in Texas.

Col. Tilley stressed the importance of having cars checked without delay.

"Accidents don't wait to happen," he said. "Bad brakes, worn out windshield wiper blades and other neglected parts will let you down in an emergency. And an emergency can occur at any moment."

"Automobile dealers and service stations are cooperating with the vehicle maintenance program," he said, "and will check the following 10 points on all cars whose owners request the special 10-point safety check:

1. BRAKES should take hold evenly on all wheels. The hand brake should be able to hold the car on any hill. Brake fluid should be clean and at the proper level. The proper level for maximum road illumination and minimum glare. Lenses should be clean and reflectors bright.
2. Headlights should be at the proper level for maximum road illumination and minimum glare. Lenses should be clean and reflectors bright.
3. Rear and stop lights should operate properly. Directional signals should also be checked.
4. Tires should be checked for wear and proper inflation.
5. Wheel alignment should be checked.
6. Exhaust system and muffler should be completely checked by a qualified mechanic.
7. Windshield wipers should be operating, with blades checked after the heavy winter to see they are "live" and clean.
8. Glass should be clear, free of cracks or discoloration. Windshield should also be checked for unauthorized stickers.
9. Horn should be audible for 200 feet.
10. Rear-view mirror should give a clear view of road behind.

TEXAS DEPT. HEALTH URGES SANITATION AND CONTROL FLIES

AUSTIN.—The Texas State Department of Health urges strict attention to sanitation as a fly control measure. The main sanitation problems responsible for fly production are neglected phases of community clean up, like garbage storage, disposal, animal shelters and insular disposal of decaying industrial wastes.

Now is a good time to clean up the insanitary conditions around your town and home. Every time you destroy a breeding place, you stop whole colonies of flies before they can start. Insecticide spraying is effective only after a complete clean-up job and only if sanitary conditions are maintained throughout the year.

Proper garbage storage is one of the most important factors in good sanitation. Garbage should be stored in metal containers with a tight lid. Disposal of all cans, bottles and other rubbish. Proper disposal of garbage collected is equally important in the prevention of fly breeding areas.

Another measure in proper fly control is proper screening of homes. Each householder should check the screens on his house for holes that will allow flies to enter. Repairing of screens will help to protect food from contamination by fly borne disease organisms.

The importance of fly control can be realized when it is known that flies carry and spread such diseases as typhoid fever, the dysenteries, infant diarrhea and other diseases. Fly control is an individual and community duty. It is the job of every person and every locality and the results will benefit everyone.

GENIUS INDEED

"Dad, it says here that a certain man was a financial genius. What does that mean?"

"That he could earn money faster than his family could spend it."

THE WHOLE TRUTH

When the class was asked if anyone could define the word "budget," one second-grade moppet volunteered: "A budget is when parents get mad and won't speak to each other."

AN EFFORT TO GET TEXTILE INDUSTRIES

AUSTIN. — The University of Texas has gone to bat for the state's agricultural areas and small towns as locations for new textile industries.

Such areas particularly are suitable for new cotton textile mills. University researchers declare in a 145-page publication, "Cotton Textiles, an Opportunity for Texas."

The University's Cotton Economic Research division prepared the book, giving industrialists details on Texas markets, labor, water, cotton, climate, waste disposal outlets, taxes, fuel and power and other competitive advantages.

Additional textile mills would provide new and diversified job opportunities for special population groups. Also new mills would permit upgrading of both skills and wages and encourage the location of complementary and supplementary services and industries, the researchers assert.

Growing apparel markets in the Midwest, Southwest and Far West increase Texas' value as a strategic textile industry location, the researchers say. Other Texas advantages pointed out are increasing population, favorable geographic position and freight rates, large and varied cotton supplies and extensive state research and technical services.

TUBERCULOSIS IS STILL A SERIOUS PROBLEM IN U.S.

AUSTIN.—"In spite of knowledge of its cause and spread, and of curative methods, tuberculosis is still a very serious problem not only in Texas, but throughout the United States," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"It is true that tuberculosis no longer is first on the list of killing diseases, as it was formerly," Dr. Cox said, "but despite having been reduced to eighth place in Texas, it still is responsible for more deaths between the ages of fifteen and forty-five than any other disease. And this fact exists even though the majority of tuberculosis patients could have their condition arrested if it were recognized early and proper treatment applied."

"Treatment of the early recognized case is essential. It is of equal importance, from a public health viewpoint, that the spread of this devastating infection be prevented. A more intelligent appreciation of this fact would result in the saving of thousands of lives."

"When a diagnosis of active tuberculosis has been made, examination of all of the other members of the immediate family should follow as a matter of course. Tuberculosis runs in families, not because of any special susceptibility to the disease, but because it is communicable, being usually transmitted through close and prolonged contact with the active case."

To reduce the number of deaths caused by tuberculosis, Dr. Cox suggests periodic examination of all adults, a check-up by physicians of the known active cases and contacts, regular examinations of high school children, isolation or hospitalization of the active tuberculosis case, and a more intelligent application of hygienic living principles.

Returning last week from a fishing trip at Possum Kingdom were W. O. Salmon, Ray Edgmon, Ralph Hedrick, Norris Kissingner, H. W. Herndon, Johnny Waddell, Ray Estes, D. Wilhite, and Coke Toliver, all Stanolind employees, and Paul Musselwhite, Frank Quatrana, Marvin Willis, all of Levelland. The group reported that their luck was fair.

Check Your Car—Check Accidents!

On Memorial Day the nation's most skilled drivers, operating crack racing cars, will again meet in the famous Indianapolis Speedway race.

In this grueling event both cars and drivers will be tested to the utmost and many of them will probably drop out before the race is over.

Of the thirty-three cars that started in last year's race, twenty-five failed to finish.

It is true that some drivers took calculated risks in trying to win the race, and they soon found out that driving skill alone has definite limits when up against the hazards of speed conditions.

But most of the cars were knocked out of the race by mechanical failures. Those machines are especially built to take it. They get exceptional care from experts. They are driven by real pros who know their own and the cars' limitations. And yet many fail to finish, because the best machine ever built by human hands is subject to failure when put under extreme strain.

Passenger cars, too, are built to last. And they'll usually take plenty of wear and perform safely if watched closely, kept in top condition, and driven by people who recognize mechanical limitations and keep well within them. But they won't perform well or safely if they're abused.

It is the aim of the current state-wide vehicle maintenance program to encourage all Texas drivers to keep their cars in safe driving condition and to drive within their own and their car's limitations. The Texas Safety Association says this is the only intelligent way to handle an automobile.

Can you see, steer and stop safely? Check your car, check accidents!

Always Write on Time!

With a bride's first, prompt thank-you note, she takes on a new job—chief executive of family correspondence. This doesn't mean she writes her husband's letters as well as her own—but she might keep him supplied with appropriate stationery. There are papers styled especially for men such as "Private Stock" from Eaton, as crisp to the touch as new money! It's up to the bride, too, to keep the family desk well supplied with house papers, for formal and general use, as well as personal papers. Open stock is ideal for this purpose—no "orphan" envelopes or sheets left without mates.

Writing frequently to new relatives and answering letters promptly is one of the best ways to assure "good relations." Older people sometimes have views on "correctness" and for them, a formal paper is a good choice. But to younger members of the family, one of Eaton's sparkling "fashion" papers, with a delicate floral motif, will carry a warm friendly mood. Writing letters can be so easy and enjoyable if the bride keeps her stationery wardrobe well equipped with various types of papers, and attractive styles can serve as wonderful reminders to write often and on time!

Ever See around a Corner?

The stunning new windshield you find in every 1954 Buick does a lot more than merely keynote the most modern beauty of the times.

Just take the driver's seat in any one of these tomorrow-styled cars and you'll feel positively eagle-eyed.

That spectacular sweep of glass broadens your point of view to the right and to the left.

It puts more safety in your seeing. It lets you see more of what's coming from the sides—and quicker and easier, too—because the corner posts are pulled 'way back.

This, you realize, is true panoramic visibility—and makes anything else seem as outdated as long skirts.

But you ought to look into what else goes with the dream-car styling of these great new Buicks.

You ought to look into the whip-like performance of true high-compression V8 engines that reach new horsepower highs.

GOOD SALESMAN

"Have you any cream for restoring the complexion?" asked the faded spinster.

"Restoring, miss? You mean preserving!" said the clerk, heartily. He sold her $10 worth.

Hugh Hulse was up from Grand Prairie last week visiting his children, and his brother Lee and family. Called on us and we chewed the rag not a little. Grand Prairie was just a whistling station about the turn of the century when we passed through on the Tay & Pay railroad on our way to and from Dallas State Fair. But Dallas was a thumping place, all of 45,000 people, including the chickens. But with plane factories and other manufacturing plants, G. P. is getting to be as big as Dallas was then. Always glad to have this early day Territe call.

The true test of civilization is, not the census nor the size of cities, nor the crops—no, but the kind of man the country turns out.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Recreational Director Speaks At Alpha Omega Duest Day

Miss Leona Gelin, director of the recreation department for the city of Lubbock, was afternoon speaker at the April 27 meeting of the Alpha Omega Study Club.

The director chose as her subject, "Social and Cultural Development" and divided her talk into three chapters, namely, connecting the past history of the southwest with the present, mentioning the old fashioned singings, Christmas dances, and church life as the center of activities, present culture, with references to the very popular squaw dress as a link back to the Indian; and our present type of architecture in many ways resembles the Spanish type; and the third chapter was the future, which is yet to be lived.

Miss Gelin also gave a short history of the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra, which is one of the city's cultural developments.

Director for the program was Mrs. Joe Christian, and serving as hostesses were Mesdames C. R. Lackey, W. T. McKinney, and D. L. Pemberton.

Local Tech Exes To Observe Day at Luncheon Meeting

Brownfield residents who are Texas Tech exes will be among the former students in 36 cities across the nation who are planning to celebrate Texas Tech Day tomorrow, Saturday, which has been set by the Ex Students Association of Texas Tech as the first annual world wide meeting day for all exes of Tech.

All exes and their families of the Brownfield area are urged to attend the meeting that has been planned for 12 noon at Nick's Cafe in Brownfield. It will include a luncheon and a showing of the colored Gator Bowl movie by a member of the Tech coaching staff. The cost per person will be $1.50, and anyone planning to attend is asked to contact Alvin G. Davis, who is serving as chairman of Texas Tech Day in Brownfield. Hundreds of Tech's former students are expected to gather in centers over the United States for banquets, speeches, dances, picnics, or parties.

"The purpose of a Texas Tech Day annually is to bring the exes together at central points each spring to stimulate interest and to provide an opportunity for the common enjoyment of the traditions and heritage of the big school on the South Plains," says L. C. Walker, executive secretary of the Tech alumni group.

At their annual meeting during Homecoming last November, members of the Ex-Students' Association Council voted to establish the special day for the Saturday, following the first Monday in May.

So celebrations have been planned in cities where organized chapters of exes exist and in other cities where the alumni representation is sufficiently large for a gathering. Walker has received word of definite plans from 29

PLANS FOR HIGHWAY 51 AS AN INTERNATIONAL PARK ROUTE SLATED

Members of the Texas Division of International Parks Highway Association will meet at Odessa, Friday, May 14, in regular session, to further plans toward the designation of Texas Highway 51 as an international park route, according to an announcement this week by President Kim McAbee, of Dalhart. Several businessmen from here are planning to attend.

Tentative plans call for a dedication of the Vega Bridge. The governors of each state in the association will be invited to attend. Association members point out that international designation will increase the flow of traffic in all six states and double the current tourist trade. The Brownfield Chamber of Commerce will take a delegation to Odessa and to the dedication of the bridge in September. The Brownfield Chamber has been a part of the association since its origin. Brownfield will be at a focal point to receive traffic from Highway 51 and 62 since they connect here.

Registration for the meeting will begin at 11:30 a.m., at the West County Park in Odessa. The Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang will serve the IPHA boosters a barbecue at noon and the group will open their business session at 1:30 p.m.

Two principal items of business for the meeting include the adoption of a budget for the current year and the adoption of a constitution and set of by-laws.

Membership placards will also be available for distribution at the meeting. Boosters believe international designation will be obtained when the bridge near Vega is opened to traffic, September 1. This is the last major link in the proposed international parks route which stretches from Big Ben National Park in Texas to Regina, Canada. The route passes through six western states. They are Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska, S. Dakota and N. Dakota.

City Mail Delivery Be Extended May 1, Says Postmaster

Postmaster Joe L. Shelton announces plans to provide mail delivery to several additional blocks of the city, beginning Saturday, May 15. Due to greater distances to be traveled to serve these patrons, mail boxes must be placed at the curb or street, to be served by mounted delivery, and rural type boxes provided.

Delivery will be extended to the following blocks:
 East Hill Street, 1300 and 1400.
 East Main Street, 1300 and 1400.
 East Broadway St., 1000, 1100, 1200, and 1300.
 East Tate Street, 1100, 1200, and 1300 blocks.

Home delivery will be provided for about 60 possible families in this extension, including residents of Marson Apartments and Marson Trailer Courts, who must also provide individual receptacles for each family. Boxes may be placed on either side of the street in order to be directly in front of each residence and it is especially requested the names and street addresses be printed on each patron's box. The cooperation of all is asked to make this additional service possible.

MR. GORE VERY ILL

G. G. Gore, 104 East Main, is in very serious condition at the local hospital, suffering from a heart ailment, and an asthma condition. At press time all of his relatives and children had been called to his bedside.

Mrs. Lona Hamilton, of Lamesa, was a guest in the Jack Hamilton home, Monday.

MURRY BUYS HOME ON EAST BUCKLEY

Ocie Murry was up from Big Spring this week, and stated that he had purchased a place from Mutt Scudday, at 1002 E. Buckley, and would be ready to move back to Brownfield in about 10 days or two weeks.

He stated that the Herald had not been out long when phone calls began to come in at their place in Big Spring. He also stated that he could testify that the Herald was a good ad medium, if a guy wants to buy something.

He will have charge of eight counties on the South Plains for the sub-district office of the State Comptroller's Department. For the present he will attend to business from his home.

NEW STREET SIGNS REALLY LOOK CIFIED

Boy, we like the new street markers at the corners. They are up some six feet high, and are easily seen. The old ones on those three or four feet high concrete slabs, and the lettering running up and down, were hard to savvy sometimes.

But the new longitudinal signs recently erected can be read as you drive. Congratulations, City Dads! This week the markers were set up on Hill, Broadway, Main, Cardwell, Buckley and Tate streets, and when the job is finished, Brownfield will have 344 new signs throughout the city, at a cost of $3,400, plus labor, according to E. R. Hutson, supervisor of the work for the City Council.

T. W. Hock, another one of the Willman lads, dropped in one day last week to put his paper up a notch. Hock has been hanging around these diggings for quite some time, and knows his way about. And to be frank, he interests us as a talker. He's in no hurry to plant, however.

Nathan Brown, who has been stationed at Brown, Ill., and was discharged from the Army recently, is vacationing here with his wife the former Iva Blair, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Brown.

ANOTHER NEW OIL WELL AND 2 NEW LOCATIONS IN CO.

Last week was a fair one for the North Permian Basin, with Borden County suddenly holding the spotlight with many completions as well as new locations. Usually that county has been running low on both figures, but of late both Borden and Howard have been picking up, as new fields have been discovered. Of course Andrews is still taking the top place, as it has for some time, with Gaines giving a good showing.

Terry had one new well completed last week, with Yoakum also getting one new well; location and production being as follows:

Terry County

BEN RAMSEY

Lieut. Gov. Ben Ramsey has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election at the July Democratic primaries. Personally, it is our opinion that Mr. Ramsey has made a fair and just official in his dealings with all citizens, and that he should be supported for re-election.

Mrs. Bill Biackstock, another of the old timer families, sent in her renewal last week. Thanks a lot, old friend.

We appreciate the renewal renewal, recently, of Miss Edith Creighton, up on Hill Street.

THE WELLMAN NEWS

By Rev. Alvin F. Hamm

Baptist Brotherhood

The Baptist Brotherhood of Wellman met Monday night in their regular meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Pentocost, with 17 men present. The meeting was opened by the president, Garland Parker, who called on Rev. James Brannon, a young preacher from Brownfield, for the opening prayer. After a few preliminaries by the president, the meeting was turned over to the program that had been arranged. Rev. S. R. Respass, of the West Side Baptist Church in Brownfield, was introduced and he brought an inspiring message which was enjoyed by each man present. A supper of fried chicken, pies, cakes, tea and coffee was served by the ladies present, who were Mrs. Pentocost and daughter, Edna, Mrs. T. J. Rich, and Mrs. W. R. Smith. Those present were Curtis Bass, Otis Bass, Cecil Thompson, Garland Parker, Carrol Parker, Chas. Jackson, T. J. Rich, W. R. Smith, J. T. Bryant, D. K. Moore, Geo. Ingram, Lee Lyon, Rev. Alvin F. Hamm, the host, E. O. Pentocost, and three visitors, Rev. S. R. Respass, J. Brannon, and Rev. James Brannon, all of Brownfield. The meeting was closed by prayer by Rev. Chas. Jackson.

Farming News

This little cold spell has slowed planting down a little but farmers around Wellman have planted quite a bit of cotton along with some grain. There has been reports of some cotton already up to a good stand. There are reports of several hundred acres of castor beans to be planted, which I understand will mean a great deal to this community. There is a fixed price of $6.00 per hundred, and can be more if prices go up. The government needs the oil for jet planes, I understand. If I were farming and didn't have all the cotton allotment I needed, I believe I would plant castor beans.

Apology to Commissioner

In this column a few weeks ago I made reference to the sand in the roads that was a handicap to the school bus routes after I had twisted an axle out of a bus, and it had the wrong effect on my friend, our commissioner, Bob Burnett. I want to take this means to make an apology for those remarks and they were not intended to hurt or have the wrong effect. After long consideration and thinking how many roads and miles there are in this precinct, I realize there are buses that run in this precinct from Seagraves, Brownfield, and the six here in Wellman, and this has been an unusual year for so much sand, and I honestly believe Bob has done the best he could under the conditions. He has a group of men working for him that are good honest men, and besides, where I got stuck was not even in this precinct. My apologies to Bob Burnett and his men, and will say thanks for a job I am sure you are doing your best for all concerned; and my vote also.

Solution Found To Baby's Orange Juice Allergy

FOUR MILLION MOTHERS-TO-BE (in the next 12 months) take note:—orange juice, justly famed for its benefits to new-borns, contains the "seeds" of danger as well! Statistics show that this essential part of every infant's diet may, in one out of two cases, lead to stomach upsets, weeping rashes, loss of appetite, and even allergies.

Since orange juice is extremely rich in Vitamin C and has long been recognized as second only to milk in importance in baby's diet, science has trained its research sights on the answers to these problems.

It has been known for some time that peel oil left in the juice could cause such disturbances. So the Bib Corporation of Lakeland, Florida, processors of the first orange juice specifically for babies, began to filter out the harmful oil. Yet mysteriously the allergies continued. The mystery became a full-fledged one about a year ago when one of the workers in the Bib plant broke out in a rash resembling that suffered by babies allergic to the juice.

Researchers for Bib traced the trouble to the cracked orange seeds in the pulp and more specifically to a particular protein in the seed. To "crack" the case of the cracked seeds, these medical sleuths worked out a way of preventing all contact between seed and juice. Subsequent test studies reported in the authoritative ANNALS OF ALLERGY by Dr. Bret Ratner, allergist at the New York Medical College, revealed that Bib had succeeded in developing a process that safeguarded against both juice allergy and upset stomach. This juice sold all over the country under the trade name Bib has been accepted for infant feeding by the American Medical Association Council on foods and nutrition.

Terry County Farm Bureau News

By KELTON MILLER

The meeting held Friday, April 30, 1954, here in Brownfield, was a success in a reserved sort of manner. Mr. Arnold told several points to stress some jokes he was telling. He did make a good speech on the Farm Program and what the American Farm Bureau stands for on the Farm Program. That meeting needed more attendance.

District Director H. L. King went to Dallas Thursday, May 6, to talk with State Director of CCC in connection with and to help some Farmer County farmers whose grain is being held by the US Government because of the indictment of a certain elevator operator. It is difficult to spend money when you are not in possession of same. Mr. King hopes to cause the CCC officials to give those farmers credit for their interest in this grain on the basis of scale tickets since the warehouse receipts are missing.

Next Tuesday, May 11, the regular monthly meeting of the directors will be held. Gene Leach plans to attend that meeting and iron out some membership problems for next fall.

BABSON DISCUSSES THE REASON FOR LAY-OFFS

By ROGER W. BABSON
WASHINGTON, D. C.—I am convinced that the present figures on unemployment are very misleading. With retail sales holding up reasonably well, these figures surely are not due to any so-called "Business Depression." The public must learn that we can have both unemployment and reasonable prosperity at the same time.

Vitamin Pills And Government Figures
The basic reasons for the present number of unemployed are (1) our increased population; (2) the large number of women employed; and (3) the constantly increasing number of able-bodied persons over 65 years of age. It can honestly be said that many in this older age group are listed in the "unemployed" category who would not have been so classified some years ago. The vitamin pills taken by older people undoubtedly keep them in the "employable" ranks longer. There are about 7,000,000 more of the people now than there were 25 years ago!

The constant introduction of new automatic machinery results in both unemployment and continued prosperity. One of my associates just visited a chemical plant where three men are now doing the work of eighty men. Fertilizing plowed fields has been done by hauling fertilizer in bags to the field, opening the bags and sprinkling the fertilizer by hand. Now an airplane loads with fertilizer at the factory and carries it in bulk to the fields, where it is sprayed on the ground from the air. No manual labor, no bags, and better results.

Offsetting High Labor Costs
The rapid increase in self-service stores and coin machines is another illustration of how greater sales are handled with fewer clerks. This also reduces chances of loss to the stores from dishonest clerks who do not ring up sales properly. The practice followed by most modern super-markets will be adopted by many stores in other lines. All these changes have been forced upon manufacturers and merchants by union labor leaders. And the resultant unemployment is due to prosperity—not to depression.

All these plans for saving labor were gradually building up during the Truman Administration. The labor leaders demanded higher wages; the consumers resisted the higher prices; so there was only one thing for the manufacturer and merchant to do—namely, introduce automatic machinery both for producing and for selling goods. Furthermore, the nation is just starting on this new departure. To hold one's job in the future one must take a greater interest and do better work both at the bench and at the counter.

What Are The Facts?
The above facts are why I say that 1954 can be a fair year notwithstanding an increase in the number of unemployed. The following figures are interesting and important. At the top of the last big boom in 1928-1929, 1 per cent of the population was unemployed. In 1932, at the depth of the depression, 9 per cent of the population was unemployed. Today, with a population of 161,000,000 people, only 2 per cent is unemployed. There will not be much unemployment when spring building gets into full swing.

What Is The Solution?
Readers will say: "But these unemployed people cannot buy goods unless they have wages. And, unless more goods are bought, unemployment will continue." But Washington has a solution, which is (1) an increase in the minimum wage for those who are employed; (2) a reduction in the legal hours for a working week. This would mean reducing the 40-hour week to 35 or 37½ hours.

My forecast is that there is no permanent solution of the problem. It will always be a race between the labor leaders, for higher wages or shorter hours—and the employers, for more automatic machinery. Sometimes labor will be ahead; other times the employers. Labor has been on top the past 20 years. Now the employers are having their turn. So it goes! Let us hope the employers will not overreach for at least another 20 years.

Farm Labor Outlook Is Fairly Plentiful

COLLEGE STATION. — Acreage crop allotments are not likely to materially reduce overall labor needs on Texas farms prior to harvest.

If moisture permits planting of substitute crops, very little productive land is expected to remain idle, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist.

Heavy plantings of grain sorghums, hay, silage and similar crops handled almost entirely by machinery may promote a labor cutback during the harvest season. Cotton is a heavy labor consumer since about 75 per cent of the crop is hand picked or snapped, but the 1,750,000 acre reduction below last year also will lower this year's labor needs.

Wage rates are not expected to drop materially even with a larger supply.

Widespread affects of drought in western areas and a slackening industrial employment also contribute to plentiful labor.

With proper planting, this situation should result in higher returns to farmers for dollars expended, Bates adds.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

To that "land of the Saints"—Utah—I doff my sombrero. For ruggedness you will walk many a mile to find the likes of this Mr. U. S. Agriculture Benson or Mr. J. Bracken Lee, the governor of that outstanding and honorable Utah. In this era of hand-outs—matching money—trick, welfare and Government aid, Utah has squared its shoulders. Many another State could well afford to tell its governor—when next the governors have a conclave—to give heed and take a leaf from the Mormon book of procedure. Matching money and free aid money from outside Utah has not been relished in the land. They have been help for years that March 15th is pay-back day on gifts.

Congress is beginning to savvy that it is messin' with no mediocre gent in this Senator Benson. But last week Congress—the paper says—was trying to give his agriculture department more money than that it asks for its farm program—also was finding fault because the department didn't spend more last year. Oh! me! Mormon ruggedness is one item that is in short supply.

I conclude this essay with another doffing of the chapeau to that "land of the Saints"—also with a tip to the lawmakers that 2 taxes on one item—dividends or what have you—is not a savory dish. Lots of little as well as big folks get dividends.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

"Coming Out" Party

Many an up-to-date homemaker has been holding a "coming out" party of late — her laundry is coming out of the basement into a bright, cheery kitchen. Nowadays, a divided kitchen-laundry combination is a basic requirement for the efficient homemaker. New automatic washers and matching gas or electric clothes dryers with their modern design and styling, like the Whirlpool models above, are handsome additions to any kitchen.

Gleaming white enamel finish and raised attractive illuminated control panels of these models complement any kitchen color scheme. Their counter-high flat tops are actually extensions of adjacent work areas. Adjustable legs raise or lower the units to the exact height of adjoining sink or counter level, and flush-to-wall installation guarantees a snug, made-to-order fit. Unit tops are finished in porcelain enamel, too, making them rust, mar and stain resistant.

Not only is the kitchen-laundry an addition of beauty, but it is also a tremendous step and time-saver for today's busy homemaker. The continual running up and down stairs, in and out of doors, and back and forth underneath the clothesline is no longer necessary.

It all adds up to the fact that with the laundry "coming out" of the basement, the homemaker is "coming out" with a more beautiful kitchen, less work and more leisure time.

Gin Trash in Steer-Fattening Rations

COLLEGE STATION. — Ground gin trash versus cottonseed hulls in steer fattening rations recently was the subject of investigation by the El Paso Valley Agricultural Experiment Station. The tests show the financial advantages of feeding the two cotton by-products to be dependent upon the relative price of available roughages and the seed content of the gin wastes.

Feedlot gains by animals fed gin trash and ground alfalfa averaged 2.11 pounds daily. Steers on cottonseed hulls and alfalfa hay made 2.19 pounds of gain per day. Warm carcass weights averaged 667 and 676 pounds for the two groups, respectively. Hull-fed steers also showed a slight advantage in carcass grades.

One and seven-tenths pounds less roughage was consumed by the gin trash-fed animals. Feed costs per 100 pounds of gain ran $28.01 and $30.40 for the gin waste and hull-fed steers, in order.

Since the material may harbor pink bollworms all wastes from cotton gins, under current regulations, must be burned or ground to destroy all insect life.

Depending upon season, area, maturity of cotton, harvest method and other factors the physical and chemical composition of the trash varies widely, the test shows. It also indicates that gin trash with the highest percentage of seed is the most valuable for feeding.

Immature lint in the wastes has caused some difficulty in grinding and feeding.

Complete results of these studies are given in Progress Report 1659, which is available from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Kelton Miller, Whit Coor, and Randall Hughes, returned Monday night from Eagle Pass. They brought back four Mexican Nationals obtained through the Terry County Farmers Association.

Garden Hose Replaces Sprinkling Clothes By Hand

A garden hose can wash away the chore of hand sprinkling the starched clothes on busy laundry days.

Without ever gathering the starched clothes from the line, the homemaker sets the nozzle of the hose on a very fine spray and gently plays the water on the starched clothes.

Minnie Bell, home management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, advises the housewife to sprinkle clothes on one side only when she uses the garden-hose technique. All of the garment will absorb moisture while it is folded awaiting ironing.

As the sprinkled clothes are removed from the line, they should be folded and placed in a plastic bag—ready for ironing.

Boy With A Penny And A Million-Dollar Idea

The bygone lad who pondered with a penny at the candy counter was a wise boy. He wanted to make sure that he was getting the most for his money.

Today his penny isn't much good but his idea is!

Everyone can make sure that the goods, services, and satisfactions they receive for their money have real meaning and value. They can do this by setting up long-time and short-time goals for the family which will help dictate which purchases are worthwhile.

When the lad with the penny finally decided what to buy, he paid his money and that was the end. What if he had been able to charge it?

Families today have a choice between charging and paying cash. Which is best?

Cash is usually cheaper and there are no bills later, says Mrs. Eulia J. Newman, home management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Credit is convenient, allows installment buying, and establishes a credit rating which facilitates borrowing of money.

Before making a purchase, consider these points:

1. Is there real need for the goods?
2. Would increased efficiency offset the added expense of the item?
3. What would happen in case of sickness or accident?
4. Consider what you can expect your future earnings to be.
5. If buying on time, consider borrowing a lump sum at a lower rate of interest and pay cash.
6. Could you possibly save the money first?

SPEECH CLASS ACTS PLAY ON TUESDAY TV

The Speech Class of Plains High School, under the direction of Miss Bertice Tankersley, presented a one-act play, "The Valiant," on the "Community Crossroads" program on television, Tuesday of last week.

Included in the cast were Carol Carpenter, Don Ham, Eual Dean Strickland, Mickey Cochran, Jim Palmer, and Harold Smith.

Following the presentation of the play, the students were interviewed by the announcer on their plans following graduation from high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gannaway will vacation in Houston and Galveston with relatives during the last two weeks in May.

Our good friend L. L. Bechtel brought us a nicely printed pamphlet (in colors), being the annual report of the Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey. That report is so full of graphs and charts we could hardly make heads or tails of it, but we "zaminid" it anyway.

Foster Winn of the Johnson community was in this week, and admitted he had cotton planted, but it was not up at that time. A number of farmers are reported to be planting this week, however.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wier, 905 East Lake, will spend the week-end with his mother, Mrs. R. R. Wier, in Itasca, Texas, and her mother, Mrs. Birtie Jordan, of Waxahachie, Texas. They will be accompanied by their daughter, Sydney Stephens of Lubbock.

Mrs. Herbert Bell, of Marshall, is visiting this week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Belyl, 402 E. Broadway.

Sprue, a nutritional disease very similar to a type of anemia, develops slowly and inconspicuously and remains unrecognized until it reaches an advanced stage.

The loss of energy and general weakness begin to prevent sprue sufferers from doing their usual daily work. Diarrhea, indigestion, loss of weight, and some nervous symptoms also often develop.

The disease results from a lack of essential vitamins and proteins in the body, because the person doesn't receive the proper nourishment or the digestive system is unable to utilize the food it takes in. As in anemia, this condition produces a deficiency of red corpuscles and there is difficulty in building new blood.

Sprue can often be controlled by prescribing a special diet and by treating the body to bring about proper absorption of vitamins. Folic acid and B-12, two vitamins which play a role in the production of red blood cells, are usually given. In stubborn cases, however, the body still can't utilize these essential nutrients.

Now, an aid to this absorption process has been found—a form of hydrocortisone or Compound F, a hormone produced in the body by the adrenal glands. The laboratories have now developed a new process using fermentation to make hydrocortisone drugs like Cortril. This hormone was administered to 17 cases with sprue during a study conducted in a Chicago hospital. A small dose of the drug produced an excellent response in every case.

Once the body is treated and is able to use the vitamins it receives the symptoms begin to disappear and the patient is on the way to complete recovery.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

The alchemists of old sought for the combination of materials and magic words which would produce gold out of cheap substances.

In spite of the failure to find easy money in wizardry, there have always been those in each generation who held out the hope for some great plan which would guarantee something for nothing and provide some magic substitute for work.

Antiquity has been revived in the 20th century by the sly wizards of easy money. Several methods have been used in recent years. One of the methods tried was to take gold out of circulation and to tell the public that gold was not really important. We could just substitute paper for gold. We could imprint this paper with the seal of the United States Government, and no one would miss the gold. The old magician would have a better life than he had a couple of thousand years ago. Instead of having nothing for his magic, he now has his salary for uttering wizardry words of hope to people who want more and more of the less valuable paper substitute for gold.

Although our social magicians produce a lot of fumes and smoke and words like "abracadabra" they still have not produced easy money nor freedom from work as a means of obtaining security. The most they seem to have accomplished is to hide their collectivist theories in the words of love and fellowship and sharing which Jesus used in His Gospel. Hidden or not, many people have not swallowed collectivist concoctions, even in Christian religious disguise.

The wizard of today does not like to be found out and unmasked, so he tells the public that America has more benefits and services than our ancestors enjoyed. He says this great advantage must come from his wizardry. The social alchemist of the 20th century overlooks the fact that millions of Americans saved their hard-earned golden dollars through the years, and that these dollars were invested in tools and research to make possible the production of more goods and services with less effort than was possible a few generations ago.

The security we have, the easier lives, the pleasures we enjoy all come from the investment of capital on the part of progressive, hard working people interested in the future of mankind, and not in any way from magic words or high sounding terms.

Behind The Scenes

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT

NEW YORK.—Commodity markets have an impressive record in predicting war or peace. In 1914, with a huge carryover of cotton and another large crop coming up, the price of cotton began to climb before anyone realized that the murder of the Austrian Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Sarajevo had touched off a world war. In 1945 commodities turned down, even while there was much stern fighting still to do.

Consulting this oracle about the danger of a new war's starting in Indochina, one gets an answer of "Well, yes and no." Soybeans, corn and oats have been rising. Wool and wool tops cost more. Hides are at seasonal highs. Cocoa, coffee and tin, products of the tropical countries where the trouble centers, are higher. So are lead and zinc, warming metals.

On the other hand, wholesale commodity indexes appear to stand still, meaning that for every gain there is a corresponding decline. Cheaper commodities include two—wheat and lard—which are indispensable to the diet of fighting men. For the moment, at least, commodity traders and purchasing agents must be confused about the outlook as the rest of us.

LOCAL BOY HELPS BUILD KOREAN SCHOOLHOUSE

I CORPS, KOREA—Army Pfc Archie F. Dugan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Dugan, Brownfield, Texas, is helping to build a schoolhouse in Korea.

Members of his unit, Battery B of the 17th Field Artillery Battalion, are building an elementary school in Igon Ni as part of the Armed Forces Assistance to Korea program.

Private First Class Dugan, a light truck driver, entered the Army in December, 1952, and arrived overseas last August.

HEALTH HORIZONS

When Bigger is Not Better

"It's a boy!" (or girl, as the case may be) — "seven pounds, three ounces." That's the way babies are usually announced. Weight is given even more importance than the child's name. And then, as the months go by, the proud parents boast of each new pound gained, and enjoy hearing visitors exclaim "My, how he has grown!"

A Possible Health Problem

Everyone loves a fat, cuddly baby. Everyone, that is, except the pediatricians who are concerned with infant health. Many of these specialists believe that parents often tend to over-feed their babies in their mistaken belief that a fat baby is necessarily a healthy baby. This has worried some doctors so seriously that it was discussed at a recent Conference on Fat Metabolism held at the Johns Hopkins Hospital under the sponsorship of M & R Laboratories, manufacturer of infant foods.

Reasons for Faster Weight Gain

Children actually gain weight much faster today than they used to, Dr. Harry A. Gordon, Associate Professor of Pediatrics at Johns Hopkins Medical School stated at the Conference. In six months, many infants weigh three times as much as when they were born. The rule used to be that a baby should take a year to triple its weight. Of course, some infants appear to be naturally heavy eaters, but there are other reasons for this increased growth rate. Many mothers today tend to feed the baby whenever he expresses hunger — or, rather, whenever she thinks he is expressing hunger. And then there is the present-day tendency to start infants on solid foods at too early an age.

Grow Faster, Learn Slower? "Park-bench pediatricians"—Dr. Gordon's term for non-medical advisers on baby care — often solemnly pronounce that it's a sign of intelligence if a baby can take in large amounts of food. Possibly this notion comes from the idea that if a baby can eat solid, "adult" foods at an early age, he must be maturing rapidly. In actual fact, physicians have found that a fat baby will be slower than other infants in learning to crawl, walk and sit. This has led some pediatricians to be wary of too rapid weight gains.

"Bigger is not better," is Dr. Gordon's conclusion. Being overweight is no health asset for a child or adult. A fat baby may be cute, but habits of overeating developed in infancy are apt to carry over into later life. Then, excess weight is no longer "cute," but apt to be a physical burden and social handicap.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson
DIRECTOR - NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

ACCENT THE POSITIVE

Fifteen years ago when I first began to speak up on the great human, material and spiritual values embedded in the American way of life and to warn of the growing influence of Socialist and Communist propaganda, very little was being done in a positive way by any segment of our society. In 15 years many millions of Americans have been aroused and are participating to some degree in efforts to strengthen our nation through education and to safeguard the basic principles about an active awareness of subversive propaganda.

We haven't won the propaganda war with the forces of the Left, but each year in the last 15 we have gained ground, and we can win—if we mobilize our manpower strength still further and use our intelligence, enterprise, resourcefulness, and imagination. Throughout the country people continue to ask me how individuals and local groups can be most effective in the ideological conflict. My answer has been: "Accent the positive!" In other words, put the emphasis on spreading the positive facts about the American way of life.

BEST DEFENSE

We must continue to expose and root out the Leftwing propaganda, but at the same time the best defense, as the football coach says, is "good offense." The best authorities in America on Leftwing propaganda, including men who once helped produce it, have told me over and over again that the strategy of the Leftwing forces is to undermine the faith of Americans in their own political and economic principles and institutions with subtle propaganda. Therefore if we get across to all citizens, especially the youth of America, a clear understanding of the American way and the great advantages it brings to all, the propaganda of the Left will roll off like water on a duck's back.

Where should the offense, the positive education program begin? It should begin first with the very people who are most interested and want to do something for their country. Actually few Americans know the facts about the American system well enough to be a "powerhouse," a "home-run slugger" or a "triple-threat half-back." To be most effective we should know our system like we know our ABCs.

CITIZENSHIP RESPONSIBILITIES

When we are sure we know the facts and can clearly explain them, then we like to spread them to everyone we can reach. In the business and industrial world, employers have the responsibility to take the facts to their employees. The task here is two-fold: giving the

Our farm program should be designed to secure a fair share of the national income for agriculture with a minimum of government control and regimentation. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson recently told a farm group.

Explaining the objectives of the farm recommendations submitted to Congress by President Eisenhower, Secretary Benson said: "I am convinced that American agriculture wants and deserves a program which will assist the farmer in obtaining a fair price in the market place, rather than some government-decreed percentage of parity in a warehouse."

"The real function of price supports should be to aid the farmer in the orderly marketing of his commodities and to protect him against sudden and violent price declines. Labor has its unemployment compensation and its minimum wages. But an unemployment check is not an adequate substitute for a job, and neither is a government-fixed percentage of parity for any farm commodity an acceptable substitute for a fair price in the market."

"I believe it (the farm program) must be pointed in a new direction, with greater emphasis upon better balanced production, market expansion and more freedom of action for farmers. This does not mean a drastic reduction in current outlays for farm price support operations."

"They are likely to be greater in the next few years than they have been in the past because of our accumulated surpluses and declining foreign markets. But we must make some attempt to hold those expenditures within reasonable bounds. Now."

"We are a rapidly growing Nation and the demands of our people for food and fibre will call for increased farm production in the years ahead. We must prepare to

Over 200 Delegates Expected at FFA Area 2 Convention

More than 200 out of town Future Farmers of America delegates are expected to attend the annual FFA convention of Area II to be held at Lamesa, at a tentative date to be announced later.

Sonny Curtis, president of Area II, FFA, will furnish the entertainment program, which has been arranged by the Lamesa FFA chapter in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce.

The convention will be represented by 79 high schools from this district and delegates attending will be outstanding agriculture students from cities bordered on the north by Brownfield, on the east by Roby and San Angelo, on the south by Del Rio and on the west by El Paso, which comprises the area and encompasses a great majority of West Texas.

Each year at the area convention, the area sweetheart is selected and applications for Lone Star Farmer and American Farmer degrees are considered.

Awards will be presented to the outstanding FFA boys of the area. Also included on the tentative agenda of the entertainment at the Lamesa Country Club will be a bowling contest for bowlers, a swimming party and a barbecue.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Elliott, 1012 E. Buckley, had as weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bud White, and son, of Lubbock.

years go by, is cheerfully given. Thanks a lot.

Had a visitor, Monday, that we do not see too often, but whom we have known from his childhood, Lee Walker, of Spur. Before the death of his father, Lee Walker, Sr., several years ago, he bought some land down in the Spur area, mostly for cattle, as his fine section of land on the north border of Terry, was farm land.

After the death of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Walker, Sr., the estate was divided up, and Lee took the Spur property. But the place is some 20 miles from schools, and over roads that get rough sometimes, especially in wet weather.

So, Mrs. Walker keeps the children at the old place, which is only a few miles from Meadow, where they attend school. The Herald will keep Lee posted on happenings in Terry.

Another visitor of recent days, was Mrs. J. H. Morris, of Plains, who for many years wrote the Plains News for the Herald. We always like a call from this very friendly lady. She has been visiting some of the Yoakum Countians, who were ill at the local hospital.

Well, as expected, the State Observer down Austin way was all het-up, hot and bothered because Governor Shivers, of the Shivercrat party, as the Observer calls him, was running for his "fourth term." But if our memory does not deceive us, it never bothered the Observer when FDR was making his third and fourth race for President.

Most people, however, will remember that Gov. Shivers served out part of the second term of the late Gov. Beuford Jester, and has since then been elected twice. And if elected this time, and very likely will be, it will make his third elective term.

And according to the Observer, the Shivercrat movement is "conceived in sin and born of iniquity," because as it states, Shivers is out to destroy the National Democratic Party. Just owing to how a person reads and feels. As we get it, Shivers only wants some reformation in the national party. And goodness knows, it needs it.

It has been 151 years since the US made the Louisiana Purchase from Napoleon Bonaparte, who was in great need of cash at the time. The price was $15,000,000, perhaps a huge sum at that time, but just pocket change today. This was something like 4c per acre.

This huge purchase from France includes today the states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Montana and most of Minnesota.

According to NAM's bulletin, the nation had 43,000,000 households in 1950. In April, 1953, the NAM reported 46,800,000 households. By the end of 1960 the NAM bulletin says American households will have increased to 50,400,000 and in 1975 the number will have jumped to 62,400,000.

Well, in closing this tirade, will state here and now that May didn't exactly come in like a lamb. Acted up pretty ugly the first three days.

And while we are about the matter, will here and now acknowledge that we don't understand that McCarthy-Army mixup. We are so dense we can't figure who's who and for what?

Airmen Injured In Accident Here, Sat.

Three airmen from the Big Spring Air Base were returned to the Big Spring base hospital late Saturday night after being injured when their car overturned near Brownfield about 7:40 p.m., Saturday at the intersection of the Lamesa-Levelland highways. An attendant from the local hospital said the men were in fair condition late Saturday.

Included among the injured were T-Sgt. William Frank, who received bruises; A-2c Gerald Adcock, with scalp laceration and possible internal injuries; and A-3c Bobby Collins, bruises.

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS ATTEND TAX INSTITUTE

Don Cates, county tax collector, and Jake Geron, city secretary, attended a South Plains-Panhandle regional training institute of assessment, sponsored by the Texas Association of Assessing Officers in cooperation with the League of Texas Municipalities and the University of Texas, at the Caprock Hotel in Lubbock, Monday through Wednesday.

Taking part in the opening session, attended by approximately ninety-three persons engaged in tax assessment, were Albert W. Noonan, executive director of the National Association of Assessing Officers, Chicago, and C. C. Crutchfield, field consultant for the League of Texas Municipalities.

Ben Armstrong, Wichita Falls, presided over the convention in the absence of the group's president, A. W. Curlee of Abilene, who was stricken ill after his arrival at the gathering.

John Swanson, Austin, a representative of the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Texas, served as chairman of the working sessions.

Other people on the program included June R. Welch, Fort Worth assistant city attorney; Dr. J. William Davis, of the Government Department of Texas Tech; Charles R. Bartlett, chief deputy assessor of Dallas; Ben Armstrong, assessor-collector, Wichita Falls; and Phillip L. Loving, real estate appraiser and research director, tax department, Fort Worth.

A barbecue for the delegates was held at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, at Mackenzie State Park. The school closed Wednesday afternoon.

Terry Co. Teachers Association Elects Walser President

At the final meeting of the Terry County Teachers' Association, held recently in the newly completed Wellman school cafeteria, O. T. Walser of Union, was elected to serve the organization as president next year, to succeed B. H. Baldwin of Wellman.

Other officers announced at the meeting included: Miss LaRita Price, Brownfield, first vice president; Mrs. Maud Zorns, Meadow, second vice president; Homer Jones, Wellman, treasurer; and Mrs. Henry Williamson, Union, secretary.

Principal speaker at the meeting was Leland L. Martin, Odessa insurance man who spent 35 years in the school teaching profession.

Delwin Webb, Brownfield Junior High principal, who was at one time a student of Martin's, introduced Martin, who taught at Meadow for several years and was superintendent at Crane the last twelve years that he taught school.

In his speech, Martin brought out the responsibilities that teachers face and reminded them of how they should conduct themselves in private life, as well as when they were teaching.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS BAND—

Young Democrats of Terry County held their second meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m., in the District Courtroom, with approximately 25 persons attending, and several persons signing membership cards.

Discussion centered on the announcement last week that Ralph Yarborough had announced candidacy in the state governor's race.

Mention was made that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beasley and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peeler, all of Meadow, plan to attend the State Democratic Convention, May 7 through 9, in San Antonio.

President of the local group, Harold Simms, presided over the meeting, and it was stated that the local charter had been accepted by the Young Democrats of Texas.

CANCER—

an educational pamphlet from the brown envelope.

About half of those who develop cancer today should be saved by early diagnosis and treatment. The lives of others depend on research progress.

When you make your contribution, do it with great expectations—with the knowledge that cancer can be conquered and with the ever constant hope that it will be soon.

In case you are not contacted by your neighbor, you may send your contributions to P. O. Box 1192, care of your local postoffice. Also, any of the tellers of either bank will be glad to take your contributions.
