

STRICKLINLY SPEAKING....

By OLD HE
A powerful wail and howl has gone up from the poor old country editors of late, who of course, own no radiow stations. For years we have been used to the local preachers and churches asking us to tell our readers (free) when they would be on the air of the local radio (paid advertising). To say the least, the small weekly papers have become somewhat disgrusted. And frankly we don't think the church people ever stop to think what they are asking.

But joining with the church people the past few weeks, is all and sundry of the state candidates for some office or another, who aim to get on a statewide hookup (paid course) and are asking the little country weekly paper to tell the "dear peepul" about it for free. To heck with 'em.

And that brings to mind a long article we read in one of our exchanges lately, a long tirade about the desegration of the races. One editor told us with a straight face, perhaps, how long it took (several days) to ride from one side of his grandpappy's plantation to the other—we estimated it at 120 miles and covering several counties perhaps. And of course his grandp had slaves to do the work, too numerous to mention.

On the other hand, the best we could gather from what our granddad had was a red hillside farm, and a small bottom, back in Tennessee, where he tried to make an honest living. And we never heard, none of our relatives ever owned a slave.

Howsoever, that didn't mean our poor but honest ancestors did not fight the damyankees, including our paw; grandpaw was too old. Others were three own uncles and several uncles by marriage, then or later, and some of which did not return.

But in the final windup, one of those damyankee soldiers came back to Tennessee and married one of our aunts, soon after the war ended, and Uncle Clay Hornbuckle was one of our best liked uncles. But as we started to say when we started out, from a field 120 miles across to a small country weekly, is a vast letdown. Ho hum!

And while it is on our mind, we might mention that things really happen fast down in Big D. Recently at some kind of jamession, a fellow by the name of Robert E. Goodrick was introduced to the audience as Robert E. Firestone. Just got his tires mixed, but this Goodrick was just a citizen of an East Texas town.

Then right on top of that, a salesman of the Sanger store was showing his TV sets to a customer, and turned it on to demonstrate. In a flash, the commercial showed TV sets in the Tiche store and how good they were, of course. Both better use newspaper advertising from this on, or join the local Bonehead Club.

We note in the dailies that Judge William H. Atwell was retiring from the Federal Court bench after many years of service as Judge of the North Texas district. The first time we ever saw Judge Atwell, was at a fireman's picnic at Grandview, Texas, about 1903 or 1904. Of course the Judge was a strong Republican, and they were very unpopular then as now in Texas. But he was not afraid to pour it on us Democrats, and informed us that they knew who'd be their nominee—Teddy Roosevelt.

But, says he, Democrats don't have any idea who will be their nominee—and we didn't, but we did have a sneaking idea whoever he was, he would be licked, and was. The Democratic speaker was the late Judge O. W. Gillispie, at that time Congressman from the Fort Worth district, which included Johnson County.

Gillispie was a great man. When the KKK got rank in the early 20ties and he could not get near his church at times, the First Baptist, of Cowntown, as the Kluck-

CONSTRUCTION ON DR.'S OFFICE NOW UNDERWAY

Construction of a 28x93 foot office building for Dr. Wayne C. Hill got underway last week at 303 West Main, where Grisson and Andrews Motor Co. was formerly located. Dr. Hill and his staff expect to move into the new location in about 60 days from 104 Lubbock Road, where he moved after his office was destroyed by fire recently.

The new building, made of concrete blocks, will feature a partial glass brick front and will be divided into three treatment rooms, a laboratory, X-ray room, kitchen and four hospital rooms, and a consultation room. One central refrigeration air condition unity will service the entire building. The same personnel that is working for Dr. Hill at the present time will work at the new office, and Dr. Hill plans to enlarge the new building eventually.

Flag Day Observed Here Monday

The banks as well as most of the business places were closed here Monday in observance of Flag Day. So far as we are aware, there was no set program. Perhaps some of the ex-service men met, but there was no general meeting of the citizenry. All had their flags out, even if the place of business was closed. Some of the drug stores were open.

About noon there was a brisk shower of rain, and some moved their flags from the sidewalk flag settings, while others allowed their flag to take the drizzle, which did not last long.

2ND CASE OF POLIO HERE FRI.

Little James H. Robertson, 4½ year old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Robertson, 1107 South 5th, is in Plainview Polio Clinic, after diagnosis Friday at the local hospital revealed he had contracted polio. The little boy had been ill several days before paralysis of his legs began to show up and he was rushed to the hospital. He is reported doing all right at the clinic.

The two other children in the family and the mother were injected with gamma globulin, along with immediate relatives who had also come in contact with the child. This marked Terry County's second polio case reported this year.

Included on the program for the convention will be a Rehabilitation breakfast at 8 a.m., Sunday, at which Jim Meeks, post service officer, will introduce Robert Sisson, of Veteran's Administration of Lubbock, who will serve as master of ceremonies. Albert Brown, past department commander, will be moderator.

Paul Harvey, noted ABC news commentator will speak in the afternoon.

WE HAD A TIME GETTING INTO FIRST NATIONAL

Had a little business over at the First National one day last week. In fact, they had been politely insisting that we drop in and attend to a little matter of an installment. So after the paper was out we dropped over there, and parked on Main, a half block east of the bank, and started for the usual entrance and exit, we have used for lo these many years. But we found the entrance blocked with fences, sawhorses, power drills and what have you, to be used in the face-lifting operation of that institution.

And we didn't get much help from the white gentlemen who are overseeing the construction; too busy giving orders. Finally a colored employee pointed out that we would have to go back to the alley, and come in at the back door. There was a sign back there, alright, and we got in. First time they ever let us in the back way but we are not saying we never went out the back way via the point of a boot.

Seriously speaking, however, we might add here that this arrangement will be just a bit inconvenient for some of their customers, perhaps, for a short period of time, but what a change in the next few weeks. Congratulations!

HERALD LOSES MIGHTY GOOD RELATIVE WED.

We had the sad news last week from Mrs. Stricklin, Sr.'s, mother and sister, that next to the youngest child, Mrs. Ruth Shollenberger had passed away, Wednesday, 2nd, and was buried Saturday, June 5. California laws forbid burial within less than three days. Ruth was one of the sweetest girls we have ever known; pleasant, agreeable, and seemed to know just how to entertain a person, best suited to their inclination.

She and the youngest daughter, Alpha, of the late J. F. and Mrs. Holden, were both born after the family moved to California, and married brothers, Bill and Hugh Shollenberger. She leaves a husband and three daughters, all of whom are of school age, we believe. Also, her mother, and numerous brothers and sisters.

She was operated on a few weeks ago for a malignancy that caused her passing.

PREACHER HAS SOME BEES AT WORK FOR HIM

Preacher Paul Farrell of the First Christian Church, has started in the bee business on a small scale, but this business is easy to be expanded rapidly. Anyway, he asked a Herald reporter to go out to the R. J. Purcell farms with him, where the bees are kept.

He just has three hives presently, and they feed on the clover and alfalfa blooms, from which they extract honey. This farm is irrigated, and of course there are blooms most of the year.

NEW BANK FOR PLAINS PROPOSED

J. O. Gillham, president of the Brownfield State Bank and Trust Co., and the Yoakum County State Bank at Denver City, with Leo Holmes and Bruce Zorns, of the Brownfield State Bank, attended the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at Plains, Tuesday night of last week, furnishing information and answering questions concerning the banking business.

The entire meeting was taken up in a discussion of banking facilities and other businesses for Plains.

Gillham expressed the belief that the time was not too far away when Plains would be ready for a bank, and also said that some more growth and other development might be necessary before a charter could be obtained. He also said he was interested in this area, and would offer any assistance he could toward getting a bank.

The group was told by Gillham that more figures pertaining to the financial standing, development in oil and agriculture and future housing projects should be made available.

Also discussed at the meeting was the lack of a sewerage system in Plains. Mayor J. W. Moore announced that more could be done when the engineers furnish the city council with the information needed to go ahead with these projects.

The group voted to have the 1st and 3rd Tuesday nights as their meeting nights.

TERRY TO RECEIVE LARGE ALLOCATION IN CONSERVATION

The Terry County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office was honored by a visit from Lester Young, head of the Agricultural Conservation Program of Texas, and Mr. Gamble, with the ASC Program from the Washington office, this week. The purpose of the visit was to check the handling of the Emergency Wind Erosion Program, as this county is to receive one of the largest allocations in the state. Also they are interested in suggestions for new practices to take care of the land in this area.

CO. S-C-D OFFICIALS ATTEND SIX-STATE CONSERVATION MEET

Terry County was represented at the six-state "dust bowl" area soil conservation meeting in Amarillo, June 15-16. Those attending from here included R. J. Purcell, local supervisor, Homer Causseaux, chairman of the board of supervisors, and Henry Williamson, local work unit conservator. W. S. Goodlett, Jr., of Big Spring, conservator over this area, also attended.

The main purpose of the meeting was to discuss permanent methods of preventing the never-ending erosion of soil by winds that sweep the plains.

The meeting was called by the National Association of Soil Conservation districts, with officials of 150 soil conservation districts in Kansas, Colorado, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Nebraska, attending, along with Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Ross Rizley.

The experts agreed that the greatest drought in US history has not been fully broken, but that it is nearer to being broken than it has been in three years—beaten back by the spring rains until now severe conditions remain only in Colorado and New Mexico.

The situation in Texas has generally been described as above average rains in April and May largely checked soil erosion. Farmers in the El Paso area of far West Texas still badly need rain. Those in the Coastal bend area around Corpus Christi are not suffering, but they are getting worried. In most places State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said enough moisture was received, even in the drier areas, to guarantee a good chance of making a crop. But he added that if future rains fail to develop, Texas could dry up quickly, and the danger of wind erosion would return.

The search for a permanent cure of soil erosion due to wind has been more or less continuous since the great dusters of the 1930's.

At the worst of the drouth last spring, conservation men urged farmers to chisel and list their land—that is, plow it in special ways to turn up big clods that resist the wind and hold the dirt down.

Commissioner White said emergency tillage does only temporary good, checks soil blowing only for a few days or few hours. He says the only way to bring blowing fields under control is to plant cover crops or sorghums or millets. Even then, the area must have fairly good rains before such cover crops can be planted and grown. These cover crops will prevent dust storms for the time being, according to White.

In order to secure a better outlook for our soil, according to White, a long-range program must be developed which will convert much of the poor crop land back to permanent grasses. In addition, he said, such conservation practices as stubble mulch tillage, cover cropping, strip cropping, and terracing for water conservation on all land is needed.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, June 4, announced the appointment of Robert G. Shrauner of Dumas as a member of the Texas State ASC Committee. Mr. Shrauner will fill the vacancy on the committee created by the appointment of James R. Lyons as Southwest Area Director for the Commodity Stabilization Service.

Robert G. Shrauner was born and reared on a farm in Kansas and farmed there with his father until he moved to Hartley County, Texas, where he now operates a wheat and cattle ranch. He is active in agricultural organizations and is a veteran of World War II. He attended Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan.

The Texas State ASC Committee is now composed of Claude K. McCann, Victoria, chairman; and Fred C. Chandler, Sr., Pecos; Gaylord F. Osborn, Harlingen; C. Otto Moser, DeKalb; and Robert G. Shrauner, Dumas, members.

TERRY WINKED OUT ON OIL WELLS THE PAST WEEK BUT GETS TWO NEW LOCATIONS; YOAKUM REPORT GOOD

Terry got two new locations last week, both in the Prentice field, but it seems one of them is just a deepening job. No new wells to report, however. Or was there? H. H. Harred reports that a pretty good well was brought in on his holdings in southeast Terry week before last, now, that was not reported. He is so close to Dawson County, maybe old Dawson got credit for that well.

Anyway we are glad that Hugh got a well, and we'll be down some time to sample the smell of it. Or he can saturate a hanky sometime when he comes to town, if he don't want us to come down and stay for a meal. In new locations, Andrews and Yoakum here on the South Plains, tied with six new locations each.

Borden, Garza and Terry got two each, while Hale, Howard and Scurry got one each. Of the completions, old Andrews blew in with 12 of the number; old Yoakum had six, Cochran five, Howard four, Scurry two, and one each for Hockley, Kent, and Lubbock. In the New Mexico portion of the north Permian, mostly in Lea County, laying along the line of Texas, they had 20 completions and had 16 new locations.

The following is the new locations on the Texas side of Terry and Yoakum counties:

It appears that it is almost impossible these days for a chief executive of a state or the nation, to line up his helpers, that some are not natural born grafters. Or, are not ready to stick out their dirty paws for more and better. To our notion, one of the ugliest things that has struck in our state in decades, is the putridness in connection with the insurance company, now in the hands of the receivers. Only pity is that the company had not been thrown into receivership long before the opportunity arrived when they could hurt a lot of innocent people. For some reason most of us common run of the mine citizens have had an idea that Texas had a very stringent law as regard insurance business, and that only the 100 per cent financially stable companies could do business in Texas. Some of us have had personal experience that led us to this conclusion, one in recent years experienced by the writer. A member of the family had taken out hospital insurance, and the doctors and nurses had made out a bill that appeared to be reasonable to both they and we. This was sent to the company, and in the course of time, a representative called, and did not ask that we get no remuneration at all, but proposed to cut the bill practically in half. The matter was turned over to a local attorney, who notified the company if the bill was not paid in full and shortly, he would ask the Texas Insurance Commission to cancel their permit to do business in Texas. The bill was paid in full. But that was the first time before or since that we have ever had any question raised as to the legality of the bill. Of course we got that company, but whether or not they are still doing business in the State, we cannot say. However, it seems that no matter how careful an executive may be in the selection of his help in administering the affairs of the State or Nation, they are almost sure to run onto some that have their hands behind their backs with their palm up. It not only hurts the heads of the government, but many people as well, who have had dealing with these fraudulent firms that have been allowed to continue to do business, by those whose business it is to see that they are winked out. It will be the duty of the coming regular session of the Legislature to make a complete examination of our insurance laws, eliminate the weak spots and put teeth into some that are so weak as to allow fraud. In view of the fact that the insurance business is the second largest in Texas, it is very important that it be put on a safety basis.

We are hearing a lot these days about the non-segregation ruling of the Supreme Court recently. Some pro and mostly con, and as we suggested in these columns a few weeks ago, we had fears that the KKK would ride again in Texas and the South. Not many days elapsed before just that happened at two points in Texas. At this time, however, the matter is not clear as to whether these were purely local disturbances, or whether or not the idea of burning crosses might spread to other sections of Texas, and other states that have what is supposed to be separate but equal school facilities. One of the best addresses, or comments as for that matter, about the matter, was delivered in the US Senate by Senator Price Daniel, on May 18th, shortly after the decision of the Supreme Court was announced. The address, as well as graphs and tables occupied 8 pages of the Congressional Record, but not printed at Government expense. Contrary to the general idea that prevails over the USA, the idea of separate but equal schools for white and colored children, did not originate in the South, but the North, and the New England States at that. Of course most of the intolerant critics of the South, are located in Washington and New York, and they are the ones, not the Negroes of the South, that keeps the nation in a hassle about the matter. And the more the disturbance the better it suits Moscow, as it has been their contention all along that Negroes are treated worse than brutes in the South, and the association for the advancement of the colored race, is just a blind to advance Communism, to our notion. We believe with Senator Daniel that if left alone, the white people and the Negro race of the South would work out their own plans that would suit both. In fact, we firmly believe that where the negroes are given anything like equal facilities, that they are pleased and that the big majority of them had rather have their own schools and churches to themselves, managed and operated by their own people. To say the least, the idea is going to work a hardship on many of the efficient colored teachers, who have at great expense and hard work, received their teaching education. No doubt at all, but there will be discrimination in employing teachers, where schools are mixed. Where many Negroes have migrated to the North, they always, as in the South, have their own settlements, and even up there, when they encroach upon white settlements, it usually causes trouble. We anticipate little trouble here on the South Plains, as there are comparatively few Negroes. The trouble will be back in East Texas and the Old South. The tables in the Daniel folder cited many cases some even against Indians, in regard to segregation.

There has been much discussion of late about the decision of the State disbanding its orphan home or homes, and adopting the children out to this, that and the other. Many have asserted that the children would be better cared for and receive better educational advantages if adopted in private homes. Frankly, we have some doubts about this matter, especially as it applies to all orphan homes. However, we'll have to admit that the State of Texas, has never been noted for its orphanages. Even back at the turn of the century, when the writer was a young fellow, and was seeing some of central Texas via the "kivered" wagon, or horse and buggy, we had occasion then, to be located for awhile in the vicinity of Corsicana. Even at that date the people in that immediate section in position to compare, would state without hesitancy, that the State home did not compare in any way with the Odd Fellows home less than a mile away. We have never seen a graduate of the Odd Fellows home at Corsicana or the Masonic home at Fort Worth, that was not proud of the fact that he had spent many years of his immature life, within the walls of these two institutions. Then for just two church homes, let's take Buckner's (Baptist) at Dallas, and the Methodist home at Waco. In all the 54 years we have spent in Texas, we have never heard one word of criticism about either institution, but on the other hand, we have heard many words of praise for both of them. Then the three under the auspices of the church to which we are a member, one at Tipton, Okla., another at Quinlan, Texas, and the other down in the lower Rio Grande Valley, are all well spoken of, and the children, we believe would rebel if there was any talk of adopting them out. The children forming the Bell Canto chorus have visited Brownfield on one or more occasions, as well as the children from the Tipton home. They are all proud to be part and parcel of these institutions. They show it by their actions, as well as by word of mouth. All the homes mentioned above, church or fraternal, are under the direct supervision of men and women who know what they are about, and no family could easily take their places. And the children seem to like the companionship of others of their age, and in like circumstances. One of the greatest arguments we have heard against some of the homes, is that a lot of the children are really not orphans, but are the product of divided families. But this does not apply to the majority of church and fraternal homes.

It is a strange and serious condition when the people of the freedom loving nation like the USA, can stomach and support a man for public office of the calibre of James Roosevelt of California. Especially is this true, when we know and realize that he is supposed to be elected to an office where laws are to be made for the government of a free people. We have no criticism to offer any of the forebears of this man, or the party he is supposed to represent. And in this connection we might state that Roosevelt has been repudiated by the national organization of his own party, as well as perhaps the state organization in California, outside of the district in which James resides. To the great majority of the people of the United States, we want only those to represent us who have led a clean home life with amicable family relations, where morality and even Christianity predominate. But the district to which young Roosevelt seeks a seat in Congress is either in or in close proximity to Hollywood, and its idea of morality is rather immorality. We would be the last person on earth to claim that all the people of Hollywood are perverts. There are few places in history that did not have a few righteous people, even Sodom and Gomorrah. But the vast majority of the people of Hollywood, Calif., or those closely related with them are loose morally. If we base our conclusion on family relations,

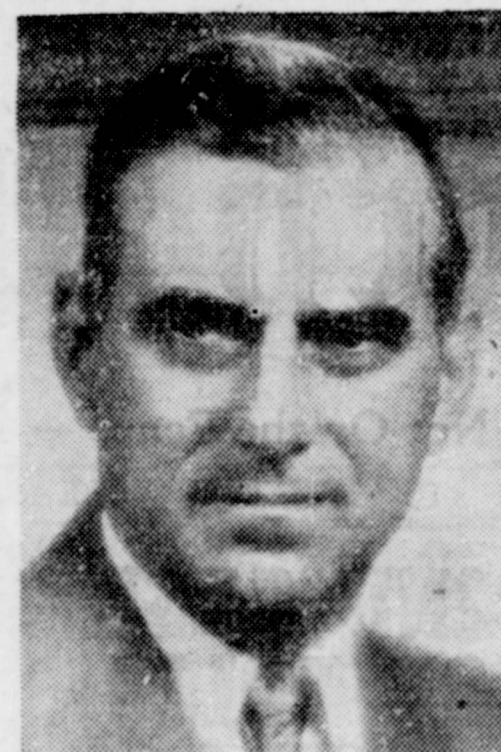

METHODIST AT PLAINS HAVE NEW PASTOR

New pastor of the First Methodist Church in Plains, Rev. Roy R. Havens, has moved to Plains and began his pastorate with the services at the church last Sunday. The pastor, with his wife and nine-year-old son, Roy Thomas, came to Plains from Tye, Texas, where he had been pastor while finishing his studies at McMurray College in Abilene. Rev. Havens takes the place of Rev. F. R. Pickens, who moved to Levelland to be pastor of a newly established Methodist Church there, after having served with the Plains church for the past three years.

Put your Want Ad in the Herald.

there is no other spot of like size and population in the USA that can hold them a light in changing marital relations. So far as we know, the older generations of the Roosevelts would cleave unto their life partners so long as life endured, but when the late FDR and his family moved into the White House, the trouble started. And so far as we know every member of the family has become tired of their mates, or their mates tired of them, and there has been from one to several separations. Believing strong as we do in family morality, this is bad enough. But to add even more repugnance to the family relationship of Jimmie, he even went so far as to sign a document to his last wife that he had relations of an adulterous nature with some dozen California women. We know the people, just run of the mine citizens of California, do not countenance such capers as that, and that they would black any name on a ballot that they believed questionable. But as stated about, the district in question in which Roosevelt resides, is so close to the immoral persuasion of the Hollywoodites, that one wife or a harem would make little difference with them.

With the tragic death every few weeks of some child or children in the deadly discarded refrigerators, more and more people are taking up the matter of putting a stop to this needless toll of death. The latest organization to get behind an educational campaign of this nature, is the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, and they have prepared data to be released to the press and radio. As most people know, when the doors of a refrigerator is closed, no air whatever can penetrate inside, and as they cannot be opened from the inside, it is only a matter of minutes until all the oxygen is used up, and suffocation comes on. But, according to the NEMA which should know their business, there is a way to make these old refrigerators harmless where there are children. This can be done by removing the entire door or taking off the hinges; removing the latch or the latch stop with a screwdriver, and ripping off the rubber gasket from the door. If you wish to use the old cabinet as storage, remove the gasket and drill holes through the body of the refrigerator. Or if the refrigerator is temporarily stored in the basement or garage, the door should be turned to the wall, and fixed in such a manner that small children will not be able to get to the door. Or the door can be tied by passing wire or stout rope around the abandoned refrigerator. One of the most important considerations about the matter, all will agree, is education. People should be made to realize that refrigerator cabinets abandoned, or used for storage should first be rendered harmless. Let us just reason for a moment, that it is estimated that three million of these old cabinets are being abandoned annually, and replaced by new ones. That is a lot of abandoned cabinets, and it is reasonable to suppose that some of those replaced will be carelessly stowed where children may reach them, and become encased in their deadly fold. One of the leaflets in color sent out by the above organization shows two boys and their dog with the door open to the cabinet. The older boys seem to realize its dangers and points out the "Hidden Dangers." DON'T play in the refrigerator, because: "You can't get out . . . can't be seen or heard . . . can't breathe. DO go tell your parents. Many states, counties and municipalities are passing laws with teeth in them against placing abandoned refrigerators where children can reach them, without first removing the door, or the locks and hinges, and removing the gaskets. If you see such a death trap, report to the local law authorities.

GI Q's and A's

Q. My husband, a World War II veteran, died recently. Would I be eligible for VA death pension if my yearly income falls below the $2,700 limit? I have a young child.

A. You would be eligible only if your husband had a service-connected disability at the time of his death. His disability, however, need not have been the cause of his death.

Q. I am a disabled Korean veteran, and I'm planning to take on-the-job training under Public Law 16. Will VA furnish me with supplies I need to pursue my training?

A. Yes, within limits. The kind, quality and amount of supplies will be limited to those commonly required to be owned personally by non-veterans taking the same training. If your disability warrants it, you may be issued special equipment to help you do your job.

Q. I am a Korean veteran who was totally disabled in service. I intend to apply for the special GI permanent-plan insurance available to disabled Korean veterans. Would it be possible to have my premiums waived because of my total disability?

A. Yes, you should apply for a waiver of premiums at the same time you apply for your insurance. But be sure to pay the required premium with your application, and be sure to continue to pay the premiums until VA tells you your waiver has been granted. If it is granted, you will get a refund of premiums paid under waiver.

Q. If I get a GI business loan, will I have to operate the business myself? Or could I turn it over to someone else to run?

A. You will be required to devote your personal labor or supervision to the business, either on a full-time or part-time basis.

Summertime Comfort Chickens Too, Seek

Chickens become extra lazy during hot weather and they, like humans, seek summertime comfort. A chicken not only wants plenty of cool, fresh drinking water, but it wants it convenient. If a watering fountain is more than 10 feet away, a bird may go thirsty rather than make the trip, says E. D. Parnell, professor of poultry husbandry at Texas A&M College. Parnell advises poultrymen to survey their equipment and its placement to make certain it is ample for summer weather. "Water is a cheap item around the farm, but when not provided in sufficient quantity, chickens just don't do well," he says. Sometimes it's necessary to give medicine in the drinking water. Some drugs do not taste good to the birds and may cause them to go off water. If it effects their drinking habits, better find another way of giving the dose. The professor sums it up this way. Unless they drink plenty of water this summer, there will be fewer eggs laid or less meat produced.

BETTER BE SAFE THAN SORRY EVER AFTER, SAYS COL.

"Would you put on your best Sunday suit to go walking in the rain?"

Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, president of the Texas Safety Association, and Services Advisor for the Gulf Oil Corporation, put this question to motorists today as he discussed the speed control program which the Texas Safety Association, the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the National Safety Council are conducting during June.

"Of course you wouldn't," he continued. "And you wouldn't think of serving yesterday's leftovers when the boss comes to dinner. There's a time and place for everything, and the sensible man fits his actions to the conditions in which he finds himself."

Col. Tilley pointed out that it's just as foolish to drive at a speed too fast for prevailing conditions. Here too, the person involved just isn't using his head.

"A good driver always uses his head when he's behind the wheel," he said. "He doesn't travel at the same rate of speed when driving in snow or rain or darkness as he does when driving on a bright, sunny day. And, when he's not feeling up to par, or when he knows his car is not in top condition, he drives slower than he does when both he and the car are in the pink. He also slows down on rough or narrow roads."

"Driving at a speed that's safe for conditions merely means using ordinary good judgment," Col. Tilley said.

"Most of us pride ourselves on our good judgment," he said "and there's no more important place to exercise it than behind the wheel. It means the difference between safe driving and dangerous driving. Let's keep it safe!"

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Nicholson and children, 720 North 3rd, plan to vacation in Colorado beginning the last week in June. Their daughter, Barbara Sue, spent the weekend in Clovis, visiting her aunt, Mrs. Frank Lowe, formerly of Brownfield.

Pecan Crop May Pass 10-Yr. Average

Texas' 1954 pecan crop probably will exceed the 10-year average. Weather and insect populations hold the key to the final story.

A more accurate estimate of the forthcoming crop is hard to make because of the large number of trees either killed by drouth or seriously affected by drouth die-back, says John E. Hutchinson, extension horticulturist.

The 10-year average is roughly 30,000,000 pounds.

Here are comments from growers over the state:

"Prospects in this area are spotted and range from fair to good," says Randolph Terrill of Seguin.

"Pecans look extremely good; very little damage so far," reports David Shelton of Gonzales.

Out of state prospects which also affect the Texas market sound about the same.

The current outlook is based on the 1952 crop when final harvest was 47,000,000 pounds. Prospects this year are more spotted, Hutchinson says. Last year's crop neared the 30,000,000 pound mark.

No Fair Dive Fishing

Two fishermen who were sitting on a bridge, their lines in the water, made a bet as to which would catch the first fish. One got a bite and became so excited that he fell off the bridge. He clung to his pole and finally came out with the fish.

LONGBRAKES WERE VISITORS HERE MONDAY

Had some of the old timers who have drifted away, call Monday. They were Harry Longbrake, now of Plains, and Mr. and Mrs. Emory Longbrake and small son, of Austin. Emory and family are up on a long overdue visit. Mrs. Longbrake is a native of Austin, we believe, and has never lived here, but has met many of the people on visits here.

Harry, Emory's dad, drifted in way back in the 20ties, from Peoria, Ill., as his brother, Hiza, was still living at that time, and lived here. Harry for many years was the main repair man here of any and all kinds of tools, as well as a sharpener of same. A tool without a handle or dull, made one think of Harry, and he fixed it right or no charge.

Mrs. Harry Longbrake was living at the time and many years later, and was a good church and community worker up to her death. Other than Emory, they had a daughter, Bettie, who married Editor Roger Curry of the Yoakum County Review at Plains.

Dual Fans Approved For Cotton Gin Trash Processing

Use of dual fans for continuous processing of cotton gin trash has been approved and is called the most practical method of handling the materials yet tested.

Given the go-ahead by the US Department of Agriculture, the two-fan system enables ginners to install equipment which will allow farmers to collect and return gin trash to the soil for organic matter as very nominal cost.

Under current regulations, all wastes must be processed by one of the approved methods to kill pink bollworms and other insect life.

According to the USDA, the two-fans must be operated in series, have at least six blades and turn at specified revolutions per minute.

Increased organic matter, water holding capacity and moisture penetration are benefits derived from spreading cotton burrs on crop land.

The other processing methods are incineration, composting, sterilization, fumigation and hammer milling. Roller mills are on a trial basis in some areas.

Milk Fine Food, But Easily Contaminated

AUSTIN.—Of all the kinds of food on the market today, there is none more important than milk, declares Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer. Milk is the first food of infants and one for which there is no fully satisfactory substitute. It contains a large amount of protein, also calcium, phosphorus and some but not all of the necessary vitamins.

The only drawback to milk is that it is highly susceptible to contamination and if it is contaminated, disease germs grow readily in it. Dr. Holle says that in order to keep milk safe for human consumption, milk sanitarians of local and state health departments help Texas milk producers set up standards of cleanliness and freedom from disease organisms. Many cities in the state have adopted the Standard Milk Ordinance sponsored by the Texas State Department of Health. This ordinance requires that milk be graded on the basis of sanitation in production and handling and the bacterial count before it is put on the market. Several Texas cities require that all milk sold must be pasteurized.

Protection from contaminated milk starts on the dairy farm. The barn is a food factory and must be kept clean and free from flies. All utensils must be carefully washed and sterilized immediately after use and stored in a clean place free from dust and flies. Those working in a dairy must practice good personal hygiene.

Grade A pasteurized milk is the best for general use, in view of cost, food value, and freedom from disease looking germs. The Texas State Health Department joins in observance of June as Dairy Month and urges that consumers use only Grade A pasteurized milk.

Bad For Flies—A New Deadly Poison Developed

Have you noticed how flies seem irresistibly drawn to a string hanging in a barn or other out-building?

Combining this tendency with a new kind of poison, Texas A&M College scientists are gaining excellent fly control—even over DDT resistant strains.

The new poisons are organic phosphorus compounds which kill in much the same manner as DDT, although they are complete different, chemically. They gave up to 92 per cent control for as much as seven weeks in recent tests.

Malathion, L-1359, diazinon, 21-100—these are the new compounds. Some already have been approved for general use. Others are being tested.

Using malathion in amounts of five to 25 per cent total weight, in a dried whey and water solution, Assistant Professor Manning Price of the college's department of entomology, tested the string method in dairy barns. With short lengths of absorbent cotton string hung from a line of carpenter's cord, he planted the traps in handling areas and feed rooms, and obtained results mentioned earlier.

Where children and livestock will not be endangered, and in spots where it might be more effective, the poison is being mixed with sugar bait and placed in shallow dishes or scattered on the floors.

Organic phosphorus compounds attack the nervous system of the fly. They die of convulsions within 10 to 20 minutes. None have shown resistance in tests so far.

ORDER OF EASTERN STAR INSTALLS LOUISE LEWIS AS WORTHY MATRON

Louise Lewis was installed as Worthy Matron of Order of Eastern Star, Tuesday, June 15, at 8 p.m., in the new Mesonic Temple. Red carnations amid gold leaves were used throughout the hall. The word "Loyalty," which is the new Worthy Matron's theme for the year, was written on a blue streamer hung in the East.

Preceding the installation ceremony, Molly Goodpasture sang "My God and I," accompanied by Hazel Lackey, followed by the entire group giving "Lord's Prayer," "Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag," and "The National Anthem."

Dora Lee McCracken, outgoing Worthy Matron, welcomed all visitors and introduced Grand Officers: Pauline Smith, Grand Associate Conductress from Lubbock, and Molly Goodpasture, Grand Examiner, District 2.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Hinda Jane Nabors, Past Matron, Lubbock Chapter 76, acting as Installing Officer; Pauline Smith, Installing Marshal; Ailene Kersh, Installing Organist; Jessie G. Randal, installing Chaplain.

Miss Lee Nell Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Walker, of Meadow, became the bride of J. W. Eubank, son of J. H. Eubank of Meadow, Monday at 8 p.m., in the Meadow Church of Christ. Melton Bruster, minister of the church, read the vows before a white covered altar set before a vine covered lattice. Baskets of white gladioli and majestic daisies flanked the central arrangement, and tropical foliage formed a background. Traditional wedding music was by the Lubbock Broadway Church of Christ choir.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an informal wedding gown of white net and Chantilly lace fashioned with a sheer yoke outlined with ruffles of lace detailed with iridescent beads. The fitted bodice extended over the front waistline, which was joined by an immense ballerina-length skirt designed with inverted V-shaped panels of lace and worn over crinoline to emphasize its fullness. Her short veil of bridal illusion fell from a head band trimmed with seed pearls, net and orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was of duchess roses, showered with stephanotis.

Miss Ann Barron attended the bride as maid of honor and wore a frock of pink organdy with a matching headband. Bridesmaids were Misses Glenda Knight, and Betty Eubank, sister of the bridegroom. TOM MAY OPENED THE MAGNOLIA WHOLESALE HOUSE IN APRIL, 1917

Much water has passed under the bridge since the late Tom May opened the Magnolia warehouse and storage tanks for their gasoline and oil business back in April, 1917. The Santa Fe had already surveyed the line into Brownfield, and also the side trackage, switches, etc., so that it was safe to put improvements along the switch tracks, and things got underway at once. Tom was the first on the ground with Magnolia products. But gasoline and oil was not all the sales in those days. There was a heck of a lot of people using kerosene in those days, for heating and cooking.

The five storage tanks for gasoline have a capacity of 62,468 gallons, while the warehouse has a capacity of 100 barrels of oil, as well as 400 cases of oil in cans. What with his oil business and farms, Tom May was a busy man, but never too busy to sit down with a friend and pull a few jokes.

In every way, one could say he was a likeable man, and a real good business man. As stated above a lot of the deliveries in the early days was kerosene to farmers, and barrels of gasoline loaded on freight wagons and carried to Plains, Bronco, and Tatum. Presently the firm uses one large delivery tank truck, and two pickups. Tom May passed away in 1949. At the time of his dad's death, the present owner and manager, Murphy May, had charge of the Seagraves Magnolia wholesaling, his family, and took over the management here. Then, as now, their gasoline is shipped in from Beaumont, Texas.

Tom May was one of the most prominent Masons in this area, and we believe the first 33rd degree, city. The Murphy Mays have one here.

Forbes, Earl Brown, A. T. Stafford, Bob Whitney, Bob Hamilton, and Lowrimore. Composing the receiving line were Mrs. Lowrimore, Mrs. Eldon Cornelius, mother of the bride-elect, the honoree, and Mrs. Weldon Latham, mother of the prospective bridegroom. Grandmothers of the honoree, Mrs. S. T. Miller and Mrs. R. L. Cornelius, registered guests in a hand finished bride's book. A bouquet of pastel colored sweetpeas was placed on the register table.

Hostesses displayed gifts in two bedrooms and the den and their gift to the couple was a mixmaster. Garden flower arrangements were placed throughout the house. Mrs. Joe Price, of Lovington, N. M., and Mrs. Ernest Latham alternated at pouring fruit punch from a crystal service. Colors of orchid and white were carried out in decorations, with a double wedding ring formation of centarea and baby's breath centering the serving table covered with a white satin damask cloth. Crystal love birds flanked the flower arrangement and burning white candles were placed on the table and buffet. A large quilted satin heart, trimmed with seed pearls and nylon tulle, with satin streamers bearing the names of "Mary" and "Ray," was placed on the buffet. Cake squares, iced in white with orchid centers, were served, and orchid napkins, inscribed in white with the words, "Mary and Ray," were used. Miss Wanda Cornelius, sister of the honoree, and Mrs. Max Proffitt assisted in serving, and Miss Maureen Webb and Miss Barbara Eaves furnished piano music throughout the calling hours.

THREE GREAT CANNOTS
 What our children of today are taught will determine the way of life this nation will have in the years ahead. Nothing, therefore could be more important to the future welfare of the people of America than the substance of the education that will be given to the 35,000,000 youngsters who will enroll in our schools next September. A sound observation regarding one phase of this education has been made by Mark C. Schinnerer, superintendent of the Cleveland (Ohio) Schools.

John W. Studebaker, chairman of the Scholastic Magazines' editorial board and former US Commissioner of Education, commends Dr. Schinnerer's statement, and I hope it will be read by all parents and teachers, by everybody. "This is about the teaching of economics," Dr. Schinnerer wrote, "It is not directed just to teachers of economics, but to all teachers. It is directed to all teachers because the job that needs to be done cannot be done by just the teachers of economics."

"We Have Failed"
 "There is a colossal oversupply of people in my country who either never discovered some of the basic principles of economics or think that the economic laws have been repealed. We hear much wailing that the schools have failed in this regard and the cry is for required courses in economics. We have failed—in school and out—but the answer is not in required courses."

"The answer, in my opinion, lies in a continuous effort to inculcate in children, from the kindergarten through high school, some basic and very simple facts. There are three things which almost anyone can be brought to understand and if these three are ingrained, we can leave the more complicated principles to the experts."

Nothing For Nothing
 "No. 1: You can't get something for nothing. Too many think they can. That is the basis of gambling and most speculation. Giving a higher mark in school than is earned is proving that the student can get something for nothing. That is bad business. When parents urge no homework, they somehow expect something for nothing. One gets out of school work about what he puts into it. Only parasites get something for nothing."

"No. 2: You can't spend more than you have and remain solvent. The longer such a system is followed, the more impossible it becomes to keep afloat. Know anyone who trades in a mortgaged car on a new one and has both a newer car and a bigger mortgage? The woods are full of such people. It is bad economics. It's somewhat like drug addiction. This applies equally to a person, a business, or a government."

Can't Equalize Ability
 "No. 3: You cannot equalize ability by a handicap system. It is wrong to expect as much from a youngster with a low I.Q. as is expected from a youngster with a high I.Q. It is also wrong to set up handicaps so that they come out even. Leave that for the exclusive use of the racing stewards. Competition still has a place in America, thank goodness, and I don't want it any other way."

"In every school day, there are numerous incidents in each student's school experience when these three fundamentals are present. Just repeatedly bringing them to the pupil's consciousness will work wonders. If all our people accepted these three economic axioms and lived by them, we would live in an economic paradise."

As I have written them down here, it seems to me that Dr. Schinnerer's three fundamentals are lessons on which we all need to be refreshed—especially in a world in which glittering promises of something for nothing are being made by the Socialists and Communists and their dupes. It is good to see these fundamentals propounded by one of America's top public school educators.

HER GOAL
 "I can assure you that a good woman's thoughts rise above dress."
 "That's right. She's probably thinking of a new hat."

We have often observed that the people who have nothing much to do are usually very impatient.

The Commerce Department has reported that the national product in the first quarter of this year was at an annual rate of 1 1/2 per cent below the figures of the final

"BECK" GETS TO THE FIRST STOP IN HIS JOURNEY

Had another report on the movements of our sidekick, L. L. Bechtel, who with the good lady are to attend the Rotary International Convention at Seattle. The last report was dated at Seattle, June 5, and stated they arrived there that day. Said the large auditorium in which the delegates, officials and visitors at the convention met, was beautifully decorated, and that some 8,000 people are expected.

Delegates will be there from some 11 countries, he stated, for the convention. While "Beck" has never mentioned the matter to us, or even asked our permission, others have informed us that the Bechtel sojourn will extend into Alaska, before they return.

Administering of the Texas Health Laws

How the health laws of Texas are administered by the State Health Department will be shown next week on Humble Oil and Refining Company's TV program, Texas in Review. As a part of the feature, Dr. Henry A. Holle, new State Health Officer, will be introduced to Texans.

Cameramen for the program also visited a "truck rodeo" held at Abilene's Municipal Airport. In this "rodeo" drivers display their skill at putting their big trucks and trailers in small places.

Another feature on the program will be pictures taken at the opening of the State Fair Musicals in Dallas.

Texas Land Values Drop harply in 1953

Texas farm land values dropped sharply in the past year, University of Texas Bureau of Business reports.

March, 1954, values were 7 per cent under comparable 1953 levels and 4 per cent under last November, the Bureau declares. Estimates are based on US Department of Agriculture figures.

Back To School Show To Be Held

The latest lines of holiday, variety and back-to-school merchandise will be shown by some of the nation's leading clothing manufacturers when the annual Back-to-School Show of the Western Wholesale Market Association is held here June 19-21.

More than 55 exhibitors will have displays in the Caprock and Lubbock hotels during the three-day market. Joe Thomas, WVMA president, has announced.

Officials expect upwards of 500 buyers from throughout West Texas, eastern New Mexico and Oklahoma to attend the show. Invitations and buyers guides were mailed to all merchants in the tri-state area several weeks ago.

The Back-to-School Market is one of three such shows held annually by the association. Other shows are conducted in February and October.

TEXAS INCOME AT NEW HIGH

Texas enjoyed the greatest dollar income in the state's history last year, a report prepared for publication in the American Peoples Encyclopedia's 1954 Yearbook will disclose. Total income was estimated at $12,442,000,000—about 20 per cent of which was derived from crude oil production.

At the same time, individual farmers and ranchers in certain parts of the state were hit hard by the third successive year of drought, it will be reported. The entire western three-fifths of the state was designated as a disaster area. State and federal aid was concentrated on relief programs designed primarily to preserve foundation breeding herds of cattle, sheep and goats.

OHIO VISITORS TO BROWNFIELD THE PAST WEEK

As long as we have owned the Herald, the Kochensperger family of Columbus, Ohio, have been readers, but presently the Herald is going to Mrs. Annie Kochensperger. Her son and grandson were with us the past week, looking over the farm, which includes all of section 99, in block 4-X, two miles south of Gomez.

The visitor, George T. Kochensperger, was looking over the place and stated that he found it in good shape. His nephew, Johnny, some 10 years of age, accompanied Mr. Kochensperger, and seemed to be getting a big kick out of his Texas trip.

They left Tuesday this week, to go back home via Memphis, Tenn., and from there to Dyersburg, Tenn., where he is to visit a buddy that served in the air corps with him in War II.

Farm Income Shows A Slight Increase

AUSTIN.—Texas farm cash income for the first four months of 1954 totaled almost $442.6 million, 1 per cent more than in the same 1953 period, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Reports.

A large factor in the rise was a 22-per-cent increase in cotton revenue (up $23.4 million). Other increases included peanuts, up 115 per cent ($1.5 million); oats, 77 per cent ($688,000); sheep and lambs, 89 per cent ($4.3 million); cattle, 1 per cent ($900,000); and fruits and vegetables, 15 per cent ($2.7 million).

Good moisture conditions in the South Plains, most of the Panhandle and nearly all of North and East Texas brightened Texas' general agricultural outlook, the Bureau reports. Wheat prospects are improved and an increase is expected in vegetable production.

REA—Three Times The Power by 1975

COLLEGE STATION.—Use of electric power on farms served by REA is expected to triple by 1975.

REA predicts consumption of its Texas customers to reach 3,987,606,000 kilowatt hours by that time, or three times the 1,026,860,000 kilowatt hours used in 1953.

These estimates are part of a survey conducted by REA to determine future needs regarding the interconnection of existing power sources, new generating facilities and the use of atomic energy for power production.

Consumption on REA-financed systems has doubled about every four years. In the future, greater usage by present consumers is expected to be the principal factor in increased demands.

Last year REA distributed 14,000,000,000 kilowatt hours to the nation's rural customers. The agency says this figure may hit 45,000,000,000 kilowatt hours within the next 21 years.

Dr. Harold L. Meadow, who has practiced here during Dr. Finley's absence, will move with his family to Pampa, where he will open a dental office. Mrs. Carlon Brady, who returned to Brownfield about three weeks ago, is employed as Dr. Meador's nurse, and will move with him to Pampa where she will work in the new office.

The dental office here will be re-decorated when Dr. Finley returns.

--- AND A GOOD TIP FOR YOU

WHEN it comes to sales, every car maker aspires to be up at the top of his price class.

Which is only natural. Popularity like that means success.

We know, because for years Buick has held such an envied position — the unquestioned sales leader in its class. And with good reasons in styling, room, power, value.

But today, folks like you have pushed Buick success even beyond such bounds.

Today, the top sales standings of a full generation have been changed.

Today, latest sales figures for the first four months of 1954 reveal this phenomenal fact:

In total national volume, regardless of price class, Buick is outselling all cars in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

That's a tip too good to pass up.

That's the tip-off that Buick must have the hottest styling of the times and the sweetest performance of the year.

More important, that's the tip-off that Buick prices are well within the reach of more and more people — and that such prices buy a lot more automobile per dollar.

So why not look into the tomorrow-styled Buick that puts you so far ahead today?

Come in, or phone us this week for a demonstration. Then you can judge for yourself that Buick really is the beautiful buy — by far.

ers virtually took over. Gillispie moved to Brownfield. He had returned from Congress, and he formed a partnership with Joe J. McGovern, as the KKK never did get very strong here, losing the first county election that came up. After the Kluckers simmered down at Fort Worth, he moved back to the home of a daughter, where he died. His wife had been dead several years. Gillispie made us a fine citizen, was elected school trustee, and finally as president of the board. He worshipped at the Church of Christ all the time here, as he said there were less KKKs in it.

We have been brought up to date on the two young men mentioned in our columns recently, as being graduates of the UoT Medical Dept. Dr. Fletcher Hester is the husband of the former Miss Louise McCracken, and Dr. Emmett M. Royer is the husband of the former Miss Mary Nell Adams. And that reminds us that Mary Nell Adams' grand-dad, Dr. T. L. Treadaway, Sr., now deceased, was a physician, as well as her uncle, the present Dr. T. L. Treadaway.

Had a letter from a niece back in Tennessee last week, as we had mentioned specifically about the quake that rucked that part of Tennessee, as well as north Mississippi, recently, according to Texas dailies. But the weekly Bolivar (Tenn.) Bulletin had never mentioned the fact. She stated that it rattled the dishes on the table as well as the windows, and shook the house. She feared it was the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. plant, where her husband worked.

It was centered in the Reelfoot Lake area, which was said to have been formed by an awful quake about 1812, and over in southeast Missouri. But what interested us most was the great amount of vegetables she had in their garden. Had put up 45 jars of kraut, and had 50 big heads of cabbage left. Wish we could go back and help consume a lot of that stuff.

We note that the courts over in New Mexico have put a crimp in the racket hatched up in KC, Mo., by a jackleg lawyer to get people who were hurt in railroad accidents, passengers or employees, to put their case in his hands. Knowing KC, the Pendergast city, as we do, we were surprised that another racket was started up there. He had a man—not a lawyer—employed to contact such people, and split fees with him.

They had accumulated some 36 cases in the past 10 years.

Had a mimeographed letter from a man down at Austin, who wants to be governor of Texas mighty badly. But the letter stated that he was out trying to get the office on a ration of cheese and crackers, as he had no funds. We're not interested.

But we were interested in what Dr. T. H. McElroy had to say about fishing. We had always thought that all these guys that leave here to go off down on the "crick" or lake to fish, just wanted to fish. But he explained it was for relaxation, rest and sleep, and they had a great time whether they got a bite or not.

He stated the water was higher than it ever had been in Lake Colorado. Just takes two joints of pipe now to reach down to water to be pumped into his residence, or cabin as they call 'em, whereas it took several joints last year when the lake was low.

Speaking of doctors reminds us that another kind of a doctor, the DD kind, Dr. E. S. James of Vernonnon, has been elected Editor of the Baptist Standard, official publication of Texas Baptists, and published at Dallas. Dr. James successfully built up the circulation of the paper. Some 280,000 copies of the Standard go to Baptist families

A SLIGHT GLIMPSE AT THE CROPS

For the past few weeks, we have been putting in every spare moment between regular issues on our Golden Anniversary edition. In fact we have been so busy and tired at the end of the day, that our "driver," the Mrs. rebels at further exercise. And we might add that not a little night work has been put in, and this included a job Sunday by the Jr., putting in a new mouthpiece on the old Merg, so it would keep merging, and be ready for the operator to produce, Monday.

The lady and the writer did, however, drive out the Levelland road some six miles late one afternoon this week. Some of the crops on the sandier soils had evidently blown out during the high winds last week, but had been replanted since the rain. Most of the crops, however, were up, and looking fine, and the maize had begun to turn the farm green looking.

Further out in the harder soils, very little had blown out, and the crops seemed to be on a boom at this time, and for the first time in two or three years. Made us feel a lot better, so we came home, read awhile, and then got a good night's rest.

in Texas.

Herald Smith was a caller at the Herald office the past week, and showed us a picture of her son, Lieut. Jessie Collins, receiving the keys to the city of Key West, Fla., from the mayor of that city.

The reading matter underneath stated that Jessie received this acknowledgement from the Florida city, for his efficient work with Boy Scouts.

Jessie is a native of Coahoma, down in Howard County, but spent most of his boyhood at Big Spring, as his mother was then Treasurer of Howard County. Congressman Geo. Mahon had Jessie appointed to Annapolis Naval Academy, where he graduated. He is leaving Key West soon for sea duty, his mother informed us. Yep, he is kinfolks, being a grand-nephew of Mrs. Stricklin, Sr.

Guess we had as well close out this tirade with a joke about the guy out at Los Angeles who rigged up so many devices to take his life, all of which would likely be sure fire. The photo from a drawing made by an artist was in Texas dailies the other day. Makes us wonder what those Californians will think up next.

Anyway, one of our local jerks remarked, after seeing the picture, that if the bonehead would just get out on the Los Angeles-Long Beach boulevard for about ten seconds some day, he'd get bumped off and quick. But all his inventions failed him.
