PEOPLE and THINGS

By J. W. S.

SEVERAL CITIZENS of Cisco went over to Rising Star today to take part in the formal opening of their fine new hospital. The people of that community are very proud indeed of their new hospital, and they have every right to be. Several local persons purchased stock in the institution.

PLANS ARE BEING announced elsewhere in The Press today concerning a building for Cisco — a community center. If you will read the story, you'll see that our town is getting an auditorium-gymnasium for only $15,000. Here is a project that has been made possible for Cisco by alert school leaders. They were able to buy a surplus army auditorium-gym and the initial cost plus moving and re-erection will amount to only $15,000.

THE FISH ARE biting today. We're sure after seeing the fine string of broom that Mr. K. N. Greer, who used to operate the picture shows, brought to town at noon. He went out to Lake Bernie and used worms for bait. His string must have contained 25 or 30 fish.

THERE CERTAINLY is a lot of new home construction going on over Cisco. Riding around the other afternoon late, we could count some 20 or more houses in the process of building. And this is a very good sign of progress.

FROM THE Texas & Pacific Railroad Magazine: The man who gets along in the world is the one who can look happy when he isn't. A pointed remark will often miss its target by a smile.

Oh, for the good old days when your Uncle Sam lived within his income and without most of ours. Letter of a renter in response to his landlord's notice to vacate the house at once: "Sir: I remain, Yours Truly."

Dionne Sisters Celebrating 14th Birthday

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 18. — The Dionne quintuplets, celebrating their fourteenth birthday on May 28th, together have overcome mortality ranks equal to those which the average woman meets in the first 65 years of life, according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The chances are about 97 in 100 that all five girls will reach marriageable age. The chances are almost three in five that they will all live to age 50, and more than one in five that they will all celebrate their 65th birthday. These figures are based on the average for girls in the general population of Canada.

The prospects are that the Dionne quintuplets will exceed the average," the statisticians say. "The special care they receive enhances their chances of long life; secondly, the continued progress of medical science and public health administration is making the world a safer place in which to live."

Rotary International Convened in Brazil Sunday; 3,500 in Attendance

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, May 18 (SpI) — With an attendance of more than 3,500 Rotarians and members of their families from Europe, Asia, Africa, the Island of the Pacific, and North, South and Central America, the 39th annual convention of Rotary International convened here Sunday.

Two chartered steamships and many special airplane flights brought 1,500 convention attendees to Rio from the U.S.A. in what was perhaps the greatest mass civilian movement ever made from North America to Brazil.

In opening the convention program at the huge Fluminense Football Stadium, His Excellency General Eurico Gaspar Dutra, President of the United States of Brazil, paid tribute to the worldwide activities of Rotary Clubs in promoting international understanding, good will and peace.

Highlight of the evening's entertainment program was a concert by the symphony orchestra of the Federal District Municipal Theatre, conducted by Maestro Mignone, and a colorful pageant of the history of Brazil.

Keynote of this five-day gathering of business and professional executives representing 6,500 Rotary Clubs in 80 countries, is the internationality of the Rotary organization and its program of service by the individual Rotarian to his local community, his nation, and to the family of nations.

Presiding over the convention is the president of Rotary International, J. Kendrick Guernsey of Jacksonville, Fla., U. S. A., who has recently made an extended tour of Rotary Clubs in Australia, New Zealand, China and Great Britain.

The Rotary convention program includes addresses and discussion forums keyed to the current international situation, the enactment of legislation and the election of international officers. Among the outstanding speakers scheduled to address the convention, in addition to the President of Brazil who spoke this evening, are Dr. Oswaldo Aranha former Foreign Minister of Brazil who recently was president of the General Assembly of the United Nations; The Hon. Lewis R. MacGregor, Australian Minister to Brazil; and General Angelc Mendes de Moraes, Mayor of Rio de Janeiro.

Principal convention addresses also will be delivered by Rotarians from Australia, Brazil, England, Norway, Peru, Portugal and the U. S. A.

Included in the colorful entertainment program which the Brazilians have arranged for their Rotary guests from the four corners of the world are a spectacular water carnival in the beautiful Rio Harbor, and a Brazilian "Fiesta," featuring music, dancing and pageantry typical of the country.

Civic leaders completed plans today to erect the Cisco Community Center building near the football stadium, and a concerted drive will be launched this week to raise some $15,000 to finance the project.

The building, 88x124 feet in size, was purchased recently by the city school system from the War Assets Administration at Del Rio. It will be moved here, re-erected, and put into condition to serve the community as a general purpose building.

As a city auditorium, the building has a large stage and will seat between 2,500 and 3,000 persons. As a gymnasium, it will accommodate basketball and volleyball games and provide seating capacity of from 1,200 to 1,500. It has a complete heating plant, adequate lighting fixtures, dressing rooms, showers and administrative offices. The floor will be maple laid on oak.

The building will be covered with asbestos shingles to give it an attractive appearance.

And it will cost Cisco only $15,000, complete. Contractors have estimated that a new building of similar size and design would cost between $50,000 and $75,000.

Charles J. Kleiner was named honorary chairman of the Cisco Community Center committee. J. J. Calloway and S. H. Nance were appointed active co-chairmen, and members of the general committee include Charles Spears, R. L. Ponsler, W. P. Guinn, A. D. Anderson, Mrs. Sutton Crofts, Mrs. John Shertzer and Mrs. L. H. McCrea.

An organization to conduct the financial drive now is being perfected and committee personnel will be named in the near future.

Some 30 teams of workers were being organized to carry the program to all citizens of Cisco. A special committee will handle large gifts.

"This appears to be a wonderful opportunity for Cisco to obtain a combination city auditorium-gymnasium," Co-Chairmen Calloway and Nance said. "We will be able to provide ourselves with a general-purpose building that we long have needed at a fraction of its original cost."

"This building will solve a multitude of problems as to needs for a meeting and recreation center, and we are most fortunate to be able to obtain it at the small price of $15,000. We have decided on a campaign to raise the funds by public subscription in view of the bonded debt situation of our schools.

"Any money contributed to this fund can be given with the assurance that it will help provide our people with facilities that are badly needed and that will serve a very good purpose."

Missing Woman Is Located at Wink

Mrs. Ida Elizabeth Simpson, 24, whose clothing including purse, had been reported found in a deserted house east of Gorman, was located in Wink shortly after the sheriff's department of Eastland had released the information to county and state papers.

Sheriff J. B. Williams said that the clothing had been identified by Mrs. Ula Bailey of Dallas, who said that her daughter, who was the wife of Pvt. Price J. Simpson, stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., had been missing since April 26 when she had left to go to Wink and had not been heard from since.

Mrs. Simpson described as being 24 years old, weight 115 pounds, brown hair and eyes, 5 feet and four inches tall, left Dallas April 26, carrying with her, in addition to the usual clothing, an airplane bag and overnight bag. She left in her car, which was abandoned at the western out-skirts of Dallas after her brother had received a telephone call to pick it up.

Mrs. Simpson told the Eastland county sheriff over long-distance telephone that the clothing found in the Eastland county ranch house was stolen from her at Big Spring.

Salvation Army Drive Writing Special Letters

Special letters are being mailed to Ciscoans regarding the Salvation Army drive for funds, according to Charlie Graham, local chairman for the campaign. On completion of the campaign a part of the funds will be left with the local committee, it was stated.

The balance will go into the Salvation Army Regional fund for the maintenance of a hospital for unmarried mothers, Fresh-Air camp benefits for mothers and children, veterans' Christmas cheer, a statewide character building program among youth and other regional services including a reserve fund for emergency and disaster.

"A very definite program of service will be conducted with the funds remaining with the committee. For example, every school child in the school area who can not afford it may be provided with a tooth brush and tooth powder. Documentary evidence reveals that millions of children need this preventative care," said Walter J. Hayt, field representative.

"Vitamins that are so necessary to good health will be a part of the program. Glasses, tonsilectomy, dental care and many other services now come to rural children in the establishing of the rural Service Unit. School teachers, nurses and local citizens can feel free to bring cases of need to the attention of the local Service Unit committee. Generally speaking, the program of the Service Unit is to meet any need not provided for through any other organization. In this way there will be no gaps and no one need be overlooked. The local Service Unit committee can render services at the point of need to the limit of their funds."

Under the Dome At Austin

AUSTIN, Tex., May 18. (UP)—Reaction to the suggestion by Gov. Beauford H. Jester that southern and western states form a coalition within the Democratic party has not been particularly favorable.

Generally, political observers regarded the governor's suggestion as another of several trial balloons he has set free. Early indications were that the flight of this one would be rather short.

The governor, taking great pains to stress he was not proposing a bolt, suggested that the south and west form a bloc to gain greater voice within the councils of the Democratic party.

Those two sections of the nation, he said, have a common interest. Their economy is founded in agriculture. Many of them are fighting threatened control of state lands by the federal government. There are other points, the governor said, of similarity.

He identified the idea of an opposition bloc as his own.

He discussed the proposal with considerable enthusiasm and related how it has been received with favor.

The proposal had been broached, he said, to Gov. Thomas J. Mabry of New Mexico several weeks ago.

Mabry, the governor said, was in "hearty accord" with the suggestion. The matter was discussed "briefly last summer" with Gov. Lee Knous of Colorado. That was when both men were attending the governors' conference at Salt Lake City.

The "first reaction" of Colorado's governor was "favorable," Jester said.

And then, there was Gov. Roy Turner of Oklahoma.

He, too, the governor said, was favorable.

Former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson had responded favorably to the plan.

However, the early returns didn't match the indicated expectations. Turner of Oklahoma disowned the program.

He said he wanted no part of a southern revolt or an opposition bloc. He criticized Jester's proposal, according to press dispatches, as being too drastic.

Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi gave as strong a rebuff.

He told Jester that Mississippi had its program; if Texans wanted to try to form another bloc, they could have theirs.

Reaction within the state was slow to simmer.

R. W. Calvert of Hillsboro, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, successfully smothered any spontaneous enthusiasm by declining to comment.

He wanted, he said, to talk first with the governor.

The governor had already indicated he planned to talk with Calvert.

If formation of a new opposition bloc was to be started, it would be up to the executive committee, the governor indicated, to tote the ball.

Their biggest immediate task would be one of salesmanship — selling the idea at the state Democratic convention at Brownwood. Success of the governor's program would mean the coalition of 31 states — those south of the Mason-Dixon line and those west of the Mississippi.

Represented in that bloc would be 284 electoral college votes, an easy margin over the 266 necessary for a majority out of the college's total of 531.

But there are other factors that darken the picture.

Of the 31 states, several went Republican in the 1944 presidential election. Represented in that swing were 41 electoral college votes.

That would leave the backers of the southern-western bloc with 243 votes on the basis of the 1944 election. They would then face the fight for at least 23 votes that went formerly for a Republican presidential candidate.

After that, they believe, the south and west would have a voice in the national democratic party.

Russia Weaker Than U. S. Says Baldwin

Despite public opinion to the contrary, Hanson Baldwin, military editor of the New York Times, writing for the 1948 edition of The Story of Our Times, published by The Grollier Society, Inc., states bluntly that "Russia at present is far weaker than the United States." Many of the Soviet's key industries are concentrated in locations open to attack, says Baldwin.

In technical skills, too, the Soviet Union is far behind—a fact proven by their "frantic search for scientists and engineers, even second and third rate ones," the military analyst feels. This search, in the opinion of Mr. Baldwin, indicates how far from manufacturing the atomic bomb the Reds actually are. He points out that they have practically no navy and contends that the United States has a clear and major lead in the air.

In his article, Baldwin takes into consideration the size of Russia's standing army — the biggest in the world, but feels that the United States Armed Forces are far better equipped. To the critics of post-war United States, he points out that 1,500,000 men under arms and a defense budget of more than $10,000,000,000 could hardly be described as weakness in any country on earth.

In addition to all this, his Story of Our Times article points out that today Russia is still plagued by a severe food shortage, a major handicap in itself. "She certainly wants no major war in the near future," concludes Mr. Baldwin.

"Bill of Rights" is the first 10 amendments to the U. S. Constitution.

Loses a Quarter, Finds Cache of Moonshine

Pat New climbs the basement of the Atlanta, Ga., service station with the last of several onion sacks full of hi-test moonshine whisky. Pat found 70 gallons of the stuff hidden in cans in the sack when he went down to look for a quarter that dropped through a crack in the floor. Valued at $850, the illegal moonshine had probably been dumped by a fleeing bootlegger. It was confiscated by city detectives.

No Rough Stuff in This Cow Town

GAIL, Tex. (UP) - This little West Texas cow town is in a county without theaters, banks, hotels, doctors, lawyers, preachers or railroads.

County Judge C. S. Harris says there hasn't been enough crime in Borden County in several years to need grand jury attention.

In fact, Harris says, there have been only two major crimes in the county since he can remember. One was a murder in 1935. The other was a cattle theft. "A fellow from another county just came in and stole a cow," the judge explained.

The old stone jail built in 1892 adequately houses the occasional drunk who runs afoul of Sheriff Sid Reeder.

The county, named for Gail Borden, inventor of condensed milk, who never saw the place, has a population of 1,200. Gail itself has 100 residents.

More than 90 per cent of the county's 916 square miles is used as rangeland, with one spread alone covering 200 sections.

Few residents lament the fact that progress seems to have passed them by.

They seldom look with envy at the sleek new automobiles that whiz down U. S. Highway 180, which forms the main street of Gail.

They just figure that the fellow who rushes through life the fastest will get it over with the quickest.

Under present laws, a woman may become president of the U.S.

SLUMBER PARTY IN LINDSAY HOME FRIDAY.

Mrs. O. M. Lindsay entertained her daughter, Doris Ann Lindsay and a group of girl friends Friday night with a Slumber Party in their home at 601 East Twelfth street.

The girls arrived at 7 p. m. and enjoyed a picnic supper consisting of weiners, potato salad and fruit cup cakes with punch, in the nice back yard of the Lindsay home.

The group then went to the living room where they entertained themselves with piano music and group singing. Games were played and stories, climaxed by a weird ghost story, were told until a very late hour.

Those enjoying the party were Relda Jo Reed, Kitty Lou Pippin, Joy Ann Pence, Margie Cook, Mary Sue O'Flaherty, Betty Ruth Wilson, Lessie Evans, Billie Daniel, Jean White, Jeannie Sublett and Doris Ann Lindsay.

CHILDREN MET HERE IN PARENTS' HOME.

Chief and Mrs. M. L. Perdue had visits over the weekend of all their children in their home. A most enjoyable time was spent by the group who had not been together in some time.

Those with them were: Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hinds of Baird; Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Steffy and Betty Louise of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Heath of Long Beach, Calif.; and Buster Johnson of Albuquerque, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Heath left Monday for their home at Long Beach, Calif., and were returning by way of Albuquerque, N. M., to accompany Buster Johnson home.

TWO YOUNG GROUPS HAD PICNIC OUTING.

The intermediate and Junior groups of East Cisco Baptist Training Union had an outing to Lake Cisco Saturday evening. The groups met at the home of the sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Marcontell at 6 p. m. and went to Lake Cisco in cars.

Upon arrival at the lake, the picnic supper was spread on the park tables and was most heartily enjoyed. The diversions of skating and miniature golf planned for the remainder of the evening, could not be used as the cloud coming up caused them to be changed. The group went to the Marcontell home where they had other features of entertainment during the remainder of the evening.

Those participating were: Jessie Alice Warren, Patsy Gryder, Barbara Caffey, Betty Lou Hughes, Mabel Ann Barron, Wilma Lee Thomas, Jean White, Juana Clark.
