Lone Star Tops Oil Pay High In New Cisco Pool

Oil men believed today that Cisco's new Kleiner field would extend northward after Lone Star Producing Company's No. A-2 Kleiner topped the pay horizon some 23 feet higher than it nearby wells.

Lone Star reported that the Mississippi line was encountered at 3,665 feet. Core bits were placed in service and the hole was at 3,895 feet at noon today — still in the Mississippi. Officials expected to run a drill stem test sometime Saturday.

Hickok Oil Co. was completing No. 3 Kleiner, offset location. Tests early today showed considerably more oil with heavy gas than in the initial test after treatment with 500 gallons of acid. Operators planned to inject another 1,500 gallons of acid today. Observers believed this would result in completion of a good oil well.

On the east side of the field, Sam Killingsworth's No. 1 George P. Fee was about ready to run into tanks. A 4-hour test late Thursday resulted in the flowing of some 30 barrels of high gravity oil. An official test will be run soon.

The Gay Philosopher

IT LOOKS LIKE a big football year for the country generally this year. According to the papers, the tickets for the big games went faster than usual this year. At the University of Texas, they added many thousands of seats to the stadium. And they're all sold.

SOMETIMES WE wonder if going to big time football games is worth the bother. Each year we tell ourselves that we'll just stay home and listen to the radio. Why fight the terrific traffic and the milling mobs? Why go to all the trouble just for two hours of entertainment?

BUT AS AUTUMN comes around, we invariably join the throng and try to get on the 50-yard line.

WAS OUT AT Lobo stadium, the other areas of this vicinity. There's evidence that thoughtless youngsters have been there, for a few boards are missing from the fences. The grass needs mowing and watering. Guess it will all be in good shape, however, when the referee's whistle blows.

DRIVING AROUND in the rural areas of this vicinity, we see occasional signs of thoughtlessness. Here and there, beside the road, you'll see tin cans and trash hauled out and dumped. The rural residents have every right to squawk. The city provides us with a dump ground. Let's all use it and leave the rural areas clean.

HOME FROM A very fine vacation are the A. R. Westfalls. They drove in the other night after a tour of 4,500 miles. Roy reports that he got home with the same good Texas air in his tires that he left with. He visited a dozen or more states and Canada. Says "I was a country boy come to town in New York." As Lions Club prexy, he was a delegate to the big international convention.

DO YOU KNOW of any Armadillo catchers? Mr. B. A. Butler, the C. of C. manager, received a letter today from Mr. Joseph Fleischman of Tampa, Florida, who wants to get in touch with some Armadillo catchers. That's how he put it. And he wants to use the shells to make baskets. So if you're an Armadillo catcher, contact Mr. Butler and he'll point the way to the new market.

President Anderson appointed a committee for the nomination of officers and directors for the coming year 1949. Members appointed to the committee were W. R. Huestis, Austin Flint and Mrs. Barton Philpott.

After the new business was passed by the organization the time was spent in discussing credit and the issuance of credit courtesies.

Softball Tourney Enters Semi-Finals Tonight; Local Junior College Loses

By JIM EWELL, JR.

The City's amateur softball tournament, narrowed even more after last night's ousts, rolled into the semi-finals here at ABC Field Friday with only four teams qualified to compete for the grand prize awards.

The four remained after elimination duels edged out five of the tourney's crack clubs from a field of nine participants. Left are: Royce Boyd, Cisco; King Tractor Co., Eastland; Daniel Baker College, Brownwood and the Gorman Filabusters.

A last minute flare-up in the line-up threatened Cisco's Royce Boyd position in the semies when the Parks Brothers — Norman and Duck — resigned from the club and joined forces with the Gorman Filabusters. No explanation was given. This serious falling out in the team's roster might well cost the Boyd Constructioneers the tourney's pennant and cash prize award.

The Boyd team, who only last week captured the Stamford district 10 ASA titlist award, crippled without the cleanup circuit clouts of Ducky and the flashing fireball passes twirled from the crafty fingers of Norman, who averaged 10 strikeouts a night, will undoubtedly hamper their striking punch.

Wranglers Halted in Sixth. The Daniel Baker Billies jarrred the Cisco Junior College Wranglers with six hits and nudged the locals out of the tourney's play-offs by a 5-4 margin in last night's game at ABC Park. Gorman, backed up with the Parks brothers, inflicted a smothering defeat on Albany's Roeser Pendleton nine, throwing them back with a 14-3 loss at the end of the seventh inning.

A third inning scoring trek, after both teams were stalemated the first three innings, forged the Daniel Baker nine ahead with a 4 run lead over the Wranglers. The scoring, started when John Auants, center fielder, was ruled to first by platter umpire Boyd on a pitcher's body blow. A spinning bingle by catcher Dillingham scooted Auants to second and permitted the batter to get aboard the bases. Audrey Long's double line drive, blasted through short, cleaned the bases of runners and left him in scoring position. He was sent home to score when Wrangler hurler Maynard gave up his third hit to shortstop Robert Reed, who got a double.

Willingham, cleanup hitter for the Billies, grounded out to third baseman Paul Mosley and Red Redwine grounded out to short, Elbert Tipton. With four runs chalked, William Barnett, tall and lanky second baseman, connected with the fourth hit off the Wrangler moundsman and cut loose with a plowing line drive through short to make it a double. A fine relay play from Gann to Mosley cut off Barnett, on third as he tried to steal the base.

Retaliation was the Wranglers' play for the last of the third, the locals' hopes were blasted when Tompkins and Maynard gave up the batter's box to the sparkling stinger passes of Billie Hurler Long. Catcher Callerman took first on an infield error when first baseman Wynn muffed a teammate's throw. A spectacular fence bumping circuit clout smacked by Jack Leveridge pushed Callerman to the platter ahead of him for the Wranglers' initial runs of the nightcap.

Wynn registered the Billies' fifth score by arching a center field slash; being pushed forward when Auants bingled to make it their sixth hit of the night. Long lofted a clean cut into the glove of Jack Leveridge, who threw to Mosley in time to stop Auant from scoring.

Nickleson grounded out to Gann on second and Dillingham flied to Tipton, ending the fourth. Still leading the Wranglers by a 5-2 margin, a lighting double-play, started by Tipton, forced Willingham bingled to him, forced Reed at second who got on with a single. Willingham was called in the nick of time as Gann relayed the ball to Stormy Davis on first. Maynard succeeded in getting his first strike out of the night. Barnett went down before the slants of the hurler's pitching, which closed the fifth.

Headed with two outs — Callerman striking out and Maynard grounding to Reed — Spec Tompkins leveled off for a double, mixed in with an error and rounded the bases, aided by Leveridge's line drive through second. Leveridge, who halted at second, registered the fourth and last run when Moore singled. Moore was forced out at second and Davis' got on first with a fielder's choice.

American Legion Building Ready Soon, Workmen Finishing Inside

The new home of the local American Legion Post is developing from a dream to a reality as builders are putting the finishing touches this week to the inside of the building, which will serve both as a meeting place and a recreation hall.

The building was purchased at Brownwood where it was used as an officers club at Camp Bowie. It was moved to Cisco, and placed on the lot north of the post office where it will be used by the Legion and the Legion Auxiliary.

The club house, when finished, will have a large meeting room which can also be used as a banquet room. The walls have a wainscot of knotty pine, which will be finished natural. Above the wainscot the walls are of sheetrock, and will be textured and painted. The ceiling is acoustical board.

A smaller room at the rear of the building is to be used for a pool or billiard room. The club now owns a pool table, and it will be installed in the room for the use of members. It is to be finished like the meeting room.

The building will be complete with a kitchen, which will be used for preparing food for banquets and regular meetings. It will be furnished with a cooking stove, and an electric refrigerator. A cabinet is to be built for the china and glassware.

The rest rooms are being finished with the most modern plumbing equipment, and the walls and ceilings are to be finished in a gloss white.

The building will be completely air conditioned, with vents opening into each room. The heating equipment is ample to assure comfort even in the most severe weather.

The floors are of concrete, and when finished will be a tile red.

A concrete slab porch will be poured and the building will be ready for use by the organization.

The Berlin Situation.

The importance of Berlin to the Western allies cannot be judged purely on material grounds. We, and England, could administer our part of Germany from within our zone. It is possible that we would have been better off if we had never established headquarters in Berlin at all. It is certainly clear that we should have initially insisted on a supply corridor of our own, rather than trusting to generalized verbal agreements with Stalin. But all that is water over the dam, and the unfortunate fact is that American prestige is inextricably tied in with the Berlin controversy. It is now a question of what the Chinese call "face."

On top of that, there is a vital question of moral obligation involved. Should Russia take over Berlin, thousands of prominent anti-Nazi and anti-communist Germans who have sided courageously with the Western world might be liquidated. At best, they would suffer severe privations. And that would certainly weaken the democratic spirit in the other European nations which are on our side.

So Berlin has become a symbol — a testing ground of the strength of two opposed theories of life and government. And that is why we have held firm, and are running the greatest risks in an attempt to hold our ground, and to induce Russia to live up to what we consider clear agreements made during and immediately after the war.

It is all a gamble on both sides. We are gambling that the Russians do not want war and will decide to cooperate. Our diplomatic notes, though couched in strong terms, have been designed to give Russia a chance to pull back without sacrificing her own prestige. The Russians are also gambling that the United States will not let matters reach the point where war is the only solution, and will either withdraw from Berlin, or, more likely, will agree to a new conference on the disposition of Germany on Soviet terms.

The high American authorities, both in Berlin and Washington, have acted with calmness and restraint. General Clay has given no ground, but neither has he rattled the saber. Secretary Marshall has said again and again that U. S. Policy is based on avoiding "the tragedy of war" with Russia. However, there is always the danger of some "incident" that will stir up great popular anger, lead to a further succession of incidents, and so make the chance of open hostilities imminent.

In that connection, there is one school of people who seem to feel that eventual war with Russia is inevitable, and that we should start it now while we have the A-bomb, and the Communists, presumably, have not. Anyone who believes in this theory of so-called "preventive war" would do well to read an article in the July Harper's by Hanson W. Baldwin. Mr. Baldwin is military editor of the New York Times, and has written many books and innumerable brief pieces on military affairs. According to him, the major Russian industrial targets are beyond the range of present-day bombers, unless we go to the extreme of one-way, suicide missions — which would certainly be alien to the American mentality. On top of that, the Russians are known to be heavy producers of modern fighters. And even if we were to overcome these obstacles, he goes on, we could not destroy the Russian army. It would spread throughout Europe. It has been developed to live off the land to a remarkable extent, thus largely eliminating the need for vulnerable supply trains. We could only achieve ultimate victory, he thinks, by an actual invasion of Europe.

What would be the cost of this? In Mr. Baldwin's opinion, the money cost would be so great as to imperil our economic system and force repudiation of the national debt. In manpower, the casualties would be tremendous — and we have no reason to expect that our own civilian population would be safe from Russian attack with planes and missiles. Further, the very Europe we are trying to save would be lost. In Mr. Baldwin's words, "the ideals and cultures of Western Civilization probably would be forever destroyed if war came before recovery from past illness was accomplished. Preventive war would, therefore, defeat our own purpose: we could conquer Russia, but you do not defeat ideologies by the sword."

Even if we were victorious, in sum, we would lose, and so would all the rest of the world. Each modern war has brought destruction on a scale far greater than its predecessors. No responsible authority believes that World War III would be any exception to this grim rule.

Mr. Baldwin's conclusion is that we must maintain our strength, face the dangers squarely, and do all that we can to at least delay war. As he puts it, "We face a 'time of troubles.' But we shall not ease our way by inviting war." That, generally speaking, is the attitude of most reasoning people in the West. Under the best of conditions, a great many years will go by before the world can recover from the last war. Another, and greater war in the near future might produce consequences beyond the capacity of the human mind to anticipate.

Retail Merchants Association

L. SELF, Sect'y.

A statement no merchant has heard:

While applications for affiliation with RCB of Texas by the two local Credit Bureaus were pending (one merchant having started a movement for another bureau here), a prominent attorney, of Austin, called on Mr. Chas. Lux, Executive Sect'y, and Mr. Horace Barnhart, member of the Board of Directors, also local Sect'y of the Austin bureau, in behalf of L. Self's investment in the original Credit Bureau of Cisco.

The outcome was that the affiliation would be withheld from our competitors over a period of time until the attorney could contact the proponents here, suggest the purchase of the file and office of L. Self.

The plan was to have L. Self choose five secretaries over the State, out of which the above two men would choose three to appraise her files and offer then the attorney would make the suggestion of a purchase of the new set-up.

Being unable to arrive at a definite fee for the work that might be involved and being in doubt as to a satisfactory appraisal, L. Self chose to rely on the integrity of the Cisco merchants, and the Laws of the Nation.

distress of sour stomach and gas pains. I suffered the same tormenting distresses, so I know how badly she felt. We both had to rely on strong laxatives for constipation. Some days I felt so worn-out I could hardly stay on my feet. And many are the times I've gotten out of bed feeling too worn out to start the day.

"The relief Retonga has brought us has been fine. We have good appetites, enjoy our food, and no longer suffer as we did after eating. We both sleep good, get up feeling fresh and rested, and no longer have to rely on strong laxatives. We are glad to recommend Retonga."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, borderline Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. The active ingredients of Retonga are purely herbal, combined with Vitamin B-1. You can get Retonga at Dean Drug Company and all other good drug stores. —Adv.

A "PEACE PLATE" FOR TODAY

Save Wheat! Save Meat! Save the Peace!

Oxtail is one of the cheaper cuts of meat which price-conscious food shoppers (and who isn't one?) can use to good advantage. It's a good deal like a soup bone: There is enough meat on it to make a satisfying main dish if the cook uses artistry and science in both the dish and the menu.

Artistry comes into play in developing the flavor of the meat by braising—browning it in fat before cooking it slowly in a small amount of liquid—as in today's Peace Plate, Braised Oxtail. And artistry has its part, too, in choosing the vegetables to extend the flavor of the meat.

Science—nutrition—guides choices of other foods for the meal—a dessert made with a generous amount of milk to add protein since the amount of meat on the oxtail or soup bone is not large; a salad to provide a leafy green vegetable.

- BRAISED OXTAIL
- 1 oxtail
  - Flour
  - 2 tablespoons cooking fat
  - 1 cup canned tomatoes
  - 1 teaspoon salt

Your complexion may become sallow or bilious; dark rings may appear under your eyes, you may feel lary, dull and irritable or blue and melancholic. You may have frequent colds (catarrh) or dull head-ache; your bowels stop their free, full and natural action; you have constipation, gas, putrefaction and self-poisoning "intestinal toxemia" or "acute gastritis" as many doctors call it.

HOW TO GET RELIEF
You can relieve this condition, usually overnight, by taking Calotabs at bedtime and drinking water freely, next day.

The beneficial effects of Calotabs lie in the fact that they are (1) laxative, (2) antiseptic to the intestines, (3) diuretic to the kidneys, (4) effective in relieving symptoms of biliousness and acute gastritis due to constipation or faulty digestion.

Calotabs are pleasant to take (sugar coated), prompt and effective. Try them and see. Follow label directions. At your druggists.
