The letter got misplaced, as sometimes do on the top of a big desk that is usually full of things. And we've found it. They named a number of Cisco business men who helped make the event successful.

Boggs Receives Broken Leg as Loboes Prepare for Game With Mavericks Injuries which have plagued the Loboes for most of the current football season show no sign of letting up with the end of the campaign only two weeks away. Norman Boggs, who was shifted this week from his usual post at tackle to the tailback spot, received a broken leg in a freak accident during practice at Chesley Field Tuesday afternoon.

Hospital attendants reported that Boggs was resting well after being treated for a fracture of both bones of the leg about four inches above the ankle. The fracture was sustained when Boggs turned suddenly in the end zone after running approximately thirty yards for a touchdown. No one was near him when he turned to bring the ball back and in turning snapped the bones.

The injury forced Coaches Hansard and Overall to re-vamp their line-up for the Eastland game to be played in Eastland Friday night. They had planned to use Boggs at a backfield position to add power to their attack. They reported that Boggs was showing up well in his new position and that the running attack was better than it had been all season.

Starting against Eastland Friday will probably be Rendall, Harwell, Callerman, and Smith in the backfield. Milner will be shifted from his back field slot to the end position vacated by the transfer of Smith. Either Bacon, Suggs or Waddell will be at the tackle position which has been held down by Boggs.

Farley will start at center; Noble and McMurry will start at guards; Woods will be at his usual tackle post and Rylee will hold down one of the end positions.

School Officials Urge Caution In Ad Purchasing

Cisco Junior College officials Wednesday urged local business men to use caution in the purchasing of advertising space in school publications. They reported instances where merchants purchased ads from unauthorized persons who were not connected with annual or college paper staffs.

Only those students who carry a card issued by the Merchants Credit Association, authorizing the solicitation of advertising are representatives of the school, it was pointed out; and merchants were asked to assure themselves that the persons who call for advertising the card before they purchase advertising.

THE VICTIM WENT HOME

Firemen and rescue workers lift a stretcher bearing Forest Watkins, 58, out of a coal chute at a Dayton, Ohio, foundry. Watkins, an engineer, accidentally fell down the chute along with a carload of coal. He was buried completely, except for one forearm and an inhalator and rushed him to a hospital. There he was treated for shock and sent home.

Butler Re-elected Sec.-Manager By C. of C. Directors

Secretary B. A. Butler was re-elected to serve the Cisco Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development for another year by the board of directors at their regular semi-monthly meeting Tuesday night. Mr. Butler has been with the organization since October, 1944.

Directors were told that the committee in charge of Christmas lighting expects to have everything ready for the lights to be turned on December 1. The decorations this year will feature huge triangles atop city street light standards.

The decorations program is in charge of a committee representing the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Credit Association.

President W. P. Guinn and O. L. Stamey reported on plans to raise additional funds to complete the city auditorium-gymnasium project. Plans for a formal opening and dedication of the building, which is scheduled to be completed in about three weeks, were also discussed.

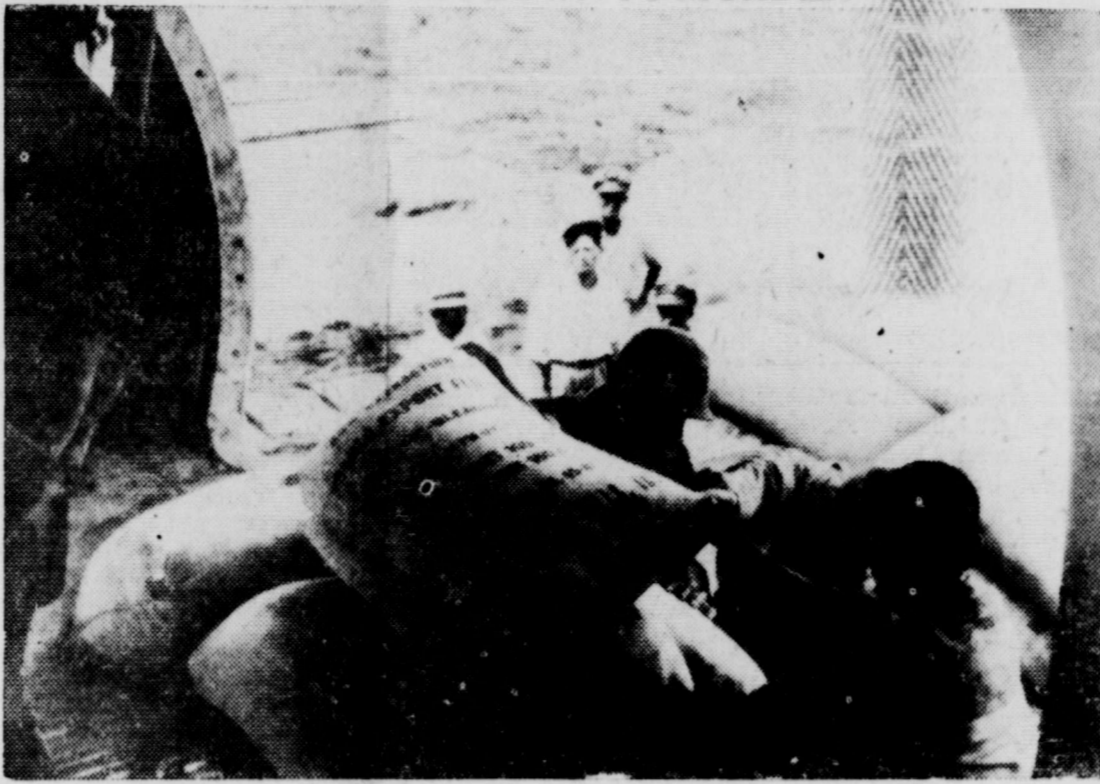

Father of Local Minister Dies In Fort Worth

Rev. Otis Strickland was expected home today from Fort Worth where he was called late Sunday because of the sudden death of his father W. M. Strickland.

Mr. Strickland, 75, who was employed with the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, died suddenly late Sunday while visiting a sick friend in Fort Worth.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Harris Funeral Chapel in Fort Worth with Rev. Fred Swank, pastor of the Sycamore Baptist Church, in charge of the services. Rev. Swank has been a member of the family for many years. Burial was in the Alvarado Cemetery. Alvarado was the Strickland home prior to their moving to Fort Worth.

FOOD WAS FLOWN TO MUKDEN

The dramatic story of how sorely needed food was shipped by air to Northeast China by the Economic Co-operation Administration in the weeks preceding the fall of Mukden to the Communists is told in this picture of eager workers unloading flour from a China National Aviation Corporation plane at the airfield in Mukden. The program started last August after ECA officials visited Mukden and discovered that food shortages were faced by workers in heavy industries. The American aid program supplied the food in addition to necessary materials and the China National Aviation Corp. handled the operation.—(NEA Telephoto).

Plans Formulated For Adding to New Fire Equipment

In an overall measure to equip properly the Cisco Fire Department into an up-to-date mobil fire fighting organization, Fire Chief H. O. (Andy) Anderson disclosed plans were being formulated by the city council to add a fourth booster and pump truck to the unit in the near future. Anderson spoke before the firemen's bi-monthly meeting held Tuesday night at the fire station headquarters.

Faced with the problem of inadequate fire fighting equipment, the city council, meeting the emergency, has purchased within the past year two new light ton and a half trucks to support the firemen's program for a more modern organization. One truck, a 1947 International purchased last March, has already been placed into service. The second, a 1947 Chevrolet, has been waiting for construction of a bed and hose unit to the frame and cab. Additional hose will be ordered for the new booster in due time, the chief stated.

With business discussions to the sideline, a blackboard study on house ventilation in case of a fire was shown and stressed to the members. Anderson said each year many city treasury departments were paying out large sums of money for law suits caused by the destruction of personal property by inadequate trained firemen. Firemen, without knowledge of house ventilation, cause more damage to the building than it did the blaze itself. And consequently, the city had complaints filed on them, followed by law suits.

Bill Kendall, secretary and treasurer, reported to the meeting concerning the new uniforms for the firemen proposed in a recent meeting. Several new bids from companies were being considered, he said.

J. T. Berry Reported Recovering From Mild Heart Attack

J. T. Berry, former mayor of Cisco, is reported as resting in a Stanton, Texas, hospital following a mild heart attack suffered in his home there Tuesday morning. His condition was termed by doctors as satisfactory.

Mrs. Phil Berry, daughter-in-law of the former mayor, notified Mayor Edward Lee of his illness.

Policemen Act as 'Twelfth Man' On Team in Directing Crowd at Games

BY JIM EWELL, JR.

The life of the "Cop on the Corner" is more than pursuing law breaking citizens, writing out traffic tickets or retrieving Miss Kitty Cat from the roof top. At least the Policemen's code book say it isn't. It takes a skilled policeman to direct traffic at a busy intersection or "quarterbacking" a large crowd at the football games.

Ever stop to think what a traffic jam at a rush hour might result in if it weren't for the traffic cop? Ask the motorist who was late for work or the pedestrian who had to detour and go out of his way in order to cross the street. They both can tell you in quick time why traffic cops are a necessity and a life saver.

Let's consider the case of the policeman who are assigned to control and direct traffic at the big football game. First there's the complicating problem of parking the automobiles in an orderly manner.

That's not as easy done as it might sound. The policeman, shrewd as they may be, have their hands loaded persuading the motorist to follow their directions. Most fans arrive on the verge of game starting time. Each wants the best parking space in the lot and close to the stadium—with little foresight about getting out.

When an officer attempts to direct a driver to a parking space it's not because he's wanting to show his authority. The officer, a public servant to all, is merely following an orderly pattern, devised ahead of time, to leave emergency exits and streets clear for others.

Suppose a player or spectator is injured during the game and is in need of hospital attention, an ambulance might be delayed in getting from the park—if all drivers were permitted to park as they please.

And what if "Mr. Football Fan" gets inside the park and then a telephone message calls for him to rush home—wife is seriously ill or something. He might have a hopeless time of it, finding all exits blocked.

In side the stadium, there's always a certain percentage of the spectators who let enthusiasm get ahead of common sense. They stand along the sidelines, following the teams as they see-saw up and down the field. In doing so, they're taking a risk of hurting someone or getting hurt themselves. And they hinder the players also.

Persons who "tote" the bottle to the game and indulge in drinking always prove to be a nuisance to the others in the same enclosure. Arguing about which is the better team isn't very comfortable to the innocent by-sitter, especially if a fight develops. Small disagreements sometimes lead into gang brawls and several injuries—if the police weren't on hand to stop it at its source.

Volunteers For Active Duty To Retain Old Status

AUSTIN, Nov. 16—The Department of the Army has announced that enlisted reservists eligible for the draft who volunteer to be placed on active duty for 21 months will enter the Army in the grades they now hold in the reservist component, Colonel Oscar B. Abbott, Senior Army Instructor for the Organized Reserves in Texas, announced here today.

Those reservists, however, who have been ordered to report for examinations to determine their eligibility for induction under the Selective Service Act will not be accepted for this volunteer program even though they have a reserve status. In the event that the reservists are accepted for induction they will be inducted in the grade of "recruit." Colonel Abbott said this should prove an incentive for many of the Texas enlisted reservists who are eligible to be drafted to volunteer for 21 months and maintain the grade they now hold in the Organized Reserve Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Underwood have returned from a pleasant vacation trip on which they visited in Houston and other places in South Texas.

Kleiner Urges Speedy End For School Project

With the slogan, "Let's Finish the Job Now," the Cisco Community Center Committee set plans in motion this week to complete the new Community Center from foundation to roof, although it will mean doing work originally planned to be left until later and thus pending considerably more money than the first plan called for.

"But if we don't do it now," said Charles J. Kleiner, honorary chairman of the committee, "It may never be done. That is how it usually goes. The building is a credit to Cisco. There isn't a better one of its kind in this section, and it is being erected at such a small cost—less than two dollars a square foot—that it would be a shame not to go ahead and do all the job now. I believe that Cisco people want it completed now and I believe they will respond liberally to our effort to raise enough money to do it."

John Black, who is building the structure, has done a wonderful job, Mr. Kleiner said. "I don't see how he has held the cost a low as he has."

Including the price of the building at Del Rio, its tearing down there and hauling the material to Cisco, slightly more than $4,000 has been spent on the Center. This is exclusive of the roof and siding, it was explained.

The white asbestos siding was one item planned to be left until there could be an income from the building itself to pay for it. But because of the fact that the building would otherwise be left with its unsightly black asphalt insulation which would detract from its appearance, the committee decided to make a special effort to put on the asbestos siding now. Some of it already is in place and gives a good idea of how attractive the building, sheathed in its white shingles, will appear.

In only two instances, Mr. Kleiner pointed out, have first estimates of the cost proved out of line. One was in the case of hauling, which was about $1,500 greater than what was budgeted for it due to the fact that more material was obtained than was figured on. The other was in the case of electrical wiring. State regulations forced a much greater outlay for this feature of the construction than was set up in the cost estimates. These two items accounted for about $2,000 increase over the budget.

It was originally set out to raise $15,000 in cash, exclusive of the $500 paid for the building. The first drive for funds missed this goal approximately $1,300. Of that raised, about $800 in pledges is yet unpaid.

The campaign now being un-

Air Force Lifts Restrictions On Year Enlistments

The U. S. Air Force has temporarily lifted the numerical restrictions of the enlistment of 18-year men in the Air Force of the United States for periods of 1-year, it was announced today by S-Sgt. James Hendrick, NCO in charge of the Eastland Recruiting Station.

Men enlisting for one year will receive their training at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Texas, and will not be subject to overseas assignment. They will also be exempt from the 21 months service required under the Selective Service Act.

One-year enlistees will be afforded the same opportunities for training and advancement as other volunteers.

Interested individuals are urged to file application at once with the Army and Air Force Recruiting Station at 311 West Main Street in Eastland. In all probability the quota restrictions will go into effect again in December.

undertaken will aim at collecting the unpaid pledges, and offsetting with new contributions with increased cost of the hauling and wiring, the $1,300 of the original $10,000 remaining unpledged and the cost of the siding and other improvements that it is desired to do now. About $7,500 in new contributions will be needed, the committee said.

Mr. Kleiner suggested that those who haven't visited the building in progress of construction do so now, and look over the big playing floor, the large stage with dressing rooms and wings on both sides, the concrete floored athletic dressing rooms underneath, the restrooms and storage rooms in front, and other features.

"I think they will agree that Cisco is certainly getting its money's worth," he said.

He explained that it takes about $1,000 per week to meet the expenses of construction, and said that if those who have not yet paid their pledges will do so, it would be very helpful. Contributions from others who have not yet had a part in the program or who wish to increase what they have already paid will certainly be welcome, he said.

Workers who will carry out the drive are now being organized, Mr. Kleiner announced. They will meet at a breakfast at the Junior College Cafeteria Tuesday morning at 7:30.

"I hope every worker will be on hand and that every person contacted will cooperate so there won't be any delay in putting this "clean-up" drive over the top. We hope to have the building ready for use by December 1 or soon afterwards. Let's finish the job."

Only those who haven't been contacted in regard to a contribution will be seen in this campaign, he said.

EDUCATIONAL OVERHAUL URGED

Drastic overhauling is in store for the public schools of Texas, if the state legislature adopts the recommendations of the Gilmer-Aiken Committee it appointed more than a year ago to recommend reforms.

Chief proposals which the committee expects to put before the lawmakers in January are to make the highest educational administrative post an appointive one, and to levy school taxes so efficiently that a minimum of $180,000,000 a year would be available for education. At present, the state superintendent of public education is elected by the voters. Attempts to remove this vital post from the political arena have been made unsuccessfully in the past.

Next year, public pressure may be sufficient to prod the legislature into making the change. The legislature's Gilmer-Aiken Committee, which was created to survey the school problem, has worked through local subcommittees in each of Texas' 254 counties. The full committee's report will be based largely on the reports and criticisms of the county groups. Each of the latter was composed of school officials and leading citizens.

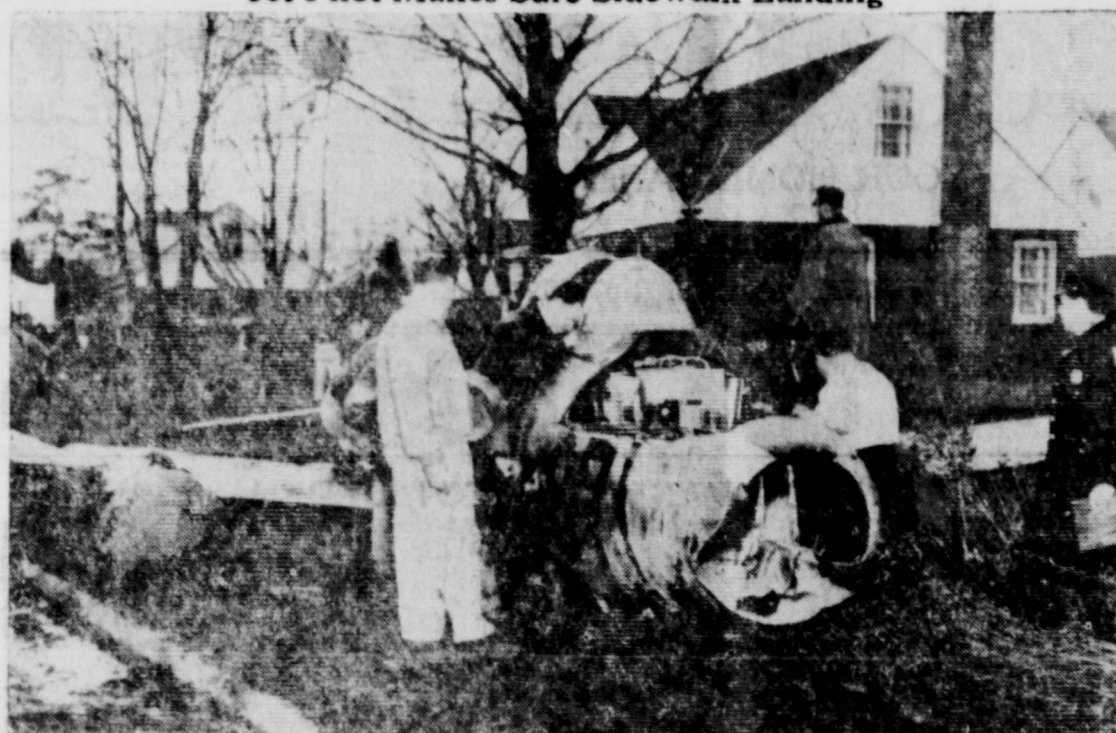

Preliminary drafts of the Gilmer-Aiken Committee's plans call for election of a nine-member state board of education. This board would appoint an $18,000-a-year state education commissioner for an indefinite term. The commissioner, in turn, would set up and head the state department of education. His duties in most respects would be those of State Superintendent L. A. Woods today.

To increase taxpayers' contributions to education by some $30,000,000 a year, the Gilmer-Aiken Committee is expected to call on the legislature to make local financial support of schools a prerequisite for state aid. The committee has found that many local school districts in Texas do not levy taxes for education. Many more are not contributing their full share to the schools because of low assessed valuations or extraordinary low rates.

An increase from the present $2,007 minimum pay for teachers with degrees also will be recommended by the committee. It would fix $2,400 a year as the minimum for instructors in this classification. The committee also expects to recommend that students be given 12 years of schooling, nine months a year. It would fix the maximum size of classes at 25, including the teacher, and would make transportation mandatory for students living more than two miles from school.

Compulsory attendance laws would be strengthened, more modern teaching aids would be utilized and a modernized school building code would be drafted if the committee's recommendations are approved.

WHAT TO DO FOR A COLD

At the first sign of a cold, obey these simple rules:

1. Keep warm and get as much rest as possible.
2. Drink lots of water and fruit juices.
3. Take a CALOTAB.

Calotabs are a thorough dependable laxative, intestinal antiseptic and diuretic. They clean out the entire digestive tract and flush your kidneys; ridding the system of poisonous toxins. They help nature throw off a cold. REMEMBER! At the first sign of a cold—REST—LIQUIDS—CALOTABS. Follow label directions.

YOU ROAST IT WITH GAS

For 19 out of every 20 tables in the homes of America, Thanksgiving turkey will be roasted with gas.

And the range will do all the work for owners of new automatic gas ranges.

New automatic gas range lights itself. It automatically maintains exact low temperature that minimizes shrinkage. The constantly circulated, evenly distributed heat roasts turkey to juicy tenderness.

Best of all, there's no stooping or pecking. New automatic temperature and clock controls let you cook without watching.

No wonder it's 19 to 1!

SMART COOKS KNOW
GAS has got it!

CRANBERRY JELLY
(Non-Collapsible)

Into . . . . . 2 cups boiling water
Drop . . . . . 4 cups cranberries (1 lb.)
Cook 6 to 8 minutes or until cranberries pop. Remove from flame, press through a sieve, add . . . . . 2 cups sugar

Return to flame and bring to a full, rolling boil. Pour into hot glasses or molds. The secret of making this recipe lies in making it in the small quantity given here.
