THE SPY TRIALS

By now the American public must be confused over the various communist-spy cases that have been in the headlines so long. The Miss-Chambers trial, with its mass of charges and countercharges, has all the quality of a wild movie melodrama. So, to a lesser degree, had the Judith Coplon trial.

The judges and the juries will decide on the merits of these and other cases. However, certain recent developments, directly affecting the FBI and the Department of Justice, need clarification.

There has been a widespread criticism of the publication of an FBI report which indicated that a number of very well known people may be communists or communist sympathizers. The impression is that this report represented the FBI's considered opinion, and that the bureau is making a practice of fanning people with a red brush on insufficient evidence.

The FBI report in question was never supposed to be made public, and was never supposed to be conclusive evidence. As the Washington News puts it, "These papers read in court are for the most part only unsubstantiated complaints and accusations. They are merely worksheets in proposed, pending, and inconclusive investigations. As the first line of defense against the communist underground, it is the FBI's duty to run down reports it receives, wherever they may lead.

and let its case against Miss Coplon go by default. The department took the first alternative, over FBI objections. As David Lawrence said, "Had it been left to the FBI, the case would have been dropped, because the bureau values its sources of information more than it does the winning of a single case." Most commentators tend to believe the FBI was right and the department was wrong.

An ordinance to provide for the protection of the public health by controlling or preventing the spread of rat-borne diseases and infections by the elimination of insanitary conditions associated with such diseases, by the extermination of rats, and by ratproofing of structures and maintenance thereof in a rat-proofed condition.

Section 1. That for the purposes of this ordinance the following definitions shall apply:

a. The term "business buildings," either vacant or occupied, shall mean any structure, whether public or private, that is adapted for occupancy for transaction of business, for rendering of professional service, for amusement, for the display, sale or storage of goods, wares, or merchandise, or for the performance of work or labor, including hotels, apartments, buildings, tenement houses, rooming houses, office buildings, public buildings, stores, theaters, markets, restaurants, grain elevators, abattoirs, warehouses, workshops, factories, and all outhouses, sheds, barns, and other structures on premises.

b. The term "ratproofing" as used herein applies to a form of construction to prevent the ingress of rats into business buildings from the exterior or from one business building or establishment to another. d. The term "rat eradication" shall mean the elimination or extermination of rats within buildings by any or all of the accepted measures, such as: poisoning, fumigating, trapping, or other methods deemed necessary.

e. The term "Health Officer" as used herein means the Superintendent, Commissioner or Director of Health or any duly authorized representative.

f. The term "owner" shall mean the actual owner, agent, or custodian of the business building, whether individual, partnership, or corporation. The lessee shall be construed as the "owner" for the purpose of this ordinance when business buildings agreements hold the lessee responsible for maintenance and repairs.

g. The term "occupant" as used herein shall mean the individual, partnership, or corporation that uses or occupies any business building or part or fraction thereof, whether the actual owner or tenant. In the case of vacant business buildings or vacant portions thereof, the owner, agent, or custodian shall have the responsibility as occupant.

Section 2. That it is hereby ordained that all business buildings in the City of Cisco shall be ratproofed, freed of rats, and maintained in a rat proof and rat-free condition to the satisfaction of the Health Officer.

Section 9. Further, that it shall be unlawful for any person or agent to make any new openings that are not closed or sealed against the entrance of rats.

Section 10. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation hereafter to construct, repair, or remodel any buildings, dwellings, stable or market, or other structure whatsoever, unless such construction, repair, remodeling or installation shall render the building or other structure rat-proof, in accordance with the regulations prescribed herein and hereunder. The provisions of this Section apply only to such construction, repairs, remodeling or installation as affect the ratproof condition of any building or other structure.

Section 11. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation hereafter to occupy any new or existing business buildings wherein foodstuffs are to be stored, kept and handled, sold, held or offered for sale without complying with Section 10, of this ordinance; and unless provisions of this Section are complied with, no city permit or license to conduct or carry on such business as defined above will be issued.

Here's How to Control Depth of Sowing Seed

Modern practice in sowing seeds favors shallow planting. Just how deep to place them is not too important, provided they are not too deep. And the maximum depth in the vegetable garden may be considered to be one to two inches.

Don't bother to measure the depth you plant exactly, as some beginners have been known to do. A good way is to have three depths of "drill," that being the gardeners' word for the shallow trench into which the seed is dropped. The shallowest drill is made by pressing the edge of a narrow board into the soil. This takes the smallest seeds, which are barely covered with soil. The middle depth drill is made with the hoe handle, and is about half an inch deep. The deepest drill is made with the corner of the hoe blade, and runs one to two inches.

The old rule that seeds should be sown at a depth equal to four times their diameter is a fairly good one, though impractical to apply with accuracy, of course. It does convey the idea that the larger the seed, the deeper it should be. To some extent the depth of the larger seeds will depend upon the nature of the soil.

In sandy loam they may go a little deeper than in heavy clay; and in hot weather they should be at least twice as deep as in the moist spring weather.

Above all, in making a drill, keep it straight. Some gardeners use a narrow plank as a ruler. A garden line is easier to handle, heavy cords on reels are handy, but any stout cord stretched between two stakes will serve. But use the line as a guide, and never press the hoe against it, for it will bend, and your garden row may turn out to be serpentine. If this happens, fill up the drill and try it over again. You will soon acquire the knack. You quickly learn to mark the drill in the well prepared soil with very little pressure, almost as though you were drawing a line on paper.

It's the Great American Habit

Flipping switches is The Great American Habit. Even children have it. And it's a habit that has given America the world's highest standard of living.

In the home, electric service is just about the smallest item in the budget, but what else makes life so easy, so healthy, so comfortable?

In industry, electricity lends the employee the strength of giants. Electric motors multiply his muscular strength by dozens or even by thousands—making it possible for him to produce more, better, faster—to earn more.

Electricity is certainly a vital part of our American life yet, oddly, this country spends less than 2% of its vast income for electric service. Such a bargain in efficiency didn't happen by accident, of course. Business-managed electric industry—progressed and expanded because of investors with faith and vision, employees with skill and experience.

There are still broad fields of electric living yet to be tapped. Business men can do the job better than tax paid bureaucrats. That's always been the secret of America's progress.

"It's OK Boys. You can tell him everything... He's the Census Man!"

You're right, Rafe! The Census-Taker hasn't got any connection with the "Revenooers." Anything anybody tells him is strictly confidential. By law, Census facts and figures can't be shown to the tax people, the police, or anybody else. Everything the Census-Taker asks is important to you and your family. Your answers will help leaders in industry, business, labor and civic groups to plan such things as better schools, better roads, better housing; better distribution of such services as telephones, gas, water, and electricity.

What's more, if you want to have a voice in the government you have to be counted in the Census. According to the Constitution, the number of Representatives your state is entitled to send to Congress is determined by the Census taken every ten years. The Census man will come around to your house some time after April 1. Be ready to answer all his questions accurately, and honestly, and quickly. (Remember, it's a big job to count upwards of a hundred and fifty million noses!)

WHAT TO DO WHEN THE CENSUS-TAKER COMES

1. Ask him to show his official card. This identifies him as an employee of the Census Bureau.
2. Be friendly. Invite him in. He will stay only a few minutes.
3. In non-English-speaking homes, have an adult or older child ready to translate.
4. Answer all questions accurately and honestly. Remember—the information you give is strictly confidential. Under law, it is not available to any individual or any other Government agency.

Radio and newspapers will do their best to tell you beforehand what most of the questions are. Watch for them and have your answers ready.

MEDICAL MIRACLES

Today Your Pharmacist Drops A Few Facts About...

RABIES VIRUS

After many months spent in an effort to trap the germ of Rabies and after hours of testing and research to find a virus that would conquer the disease, Louis Pasteur made the first application of his Rabies Virus on human subjects in 1885. Since that time, Hydrophobia, which had been one of the most fatal maladies, has largely lost its terrors.
