Once there was a proud father, who had a little girl. And he loved his little girl a great deal.

As he trudged home from work one day he thought of all the things he would like to give her-things that would make her very happy.

But he wasn't a rich father. Until payday all he could afford was a lolly-pop.

As she licked her lolly-pop she smiled at him -and he smiled, too. She was very happy. And he was glad he had given her a lolly-pop!

The next Sunday he took his little girl to Sunday School ... and he and Mother began attending Church.

Years later, when his little girl had become a "lady", she smiled at him one day-and he smiled, too. She was very happy. And he was glad he had given her more than lollypops! He had given her the finest gift of all - faith in God's love.
