Farm Bureau Gives Award To Bill Clayton

Elroy Wisian, president of the Lamb County Farm Bureau, presented Representative Bill Clayton with a plaque at the annual Farm Bureau Director Christmas Dinner which was held in Littlefield.

He was presented the plaque in lieu of a resolution which was passed at the October meeting of the Farm Bureau in Littlefield. The award was presented in recognition of his work in Austin representing the farmers in Lamb County. At the same time, his wife, Delma, was presented a gift and commended for the support she has given her husband in his duties as a State Representative.

During the evening, the twenty-nine directors and guests at the dinner discussed the importance of farmers working together instead of pulling against each other. Past-President Donny Clayton closed with an expression of his appreciation to the board for their efforts in behalf of the farmers during the past two years.

Race Still Open-- No 1969 Baby Yet!

The race for the prizes and gifts awarded to the first baby of 1969 is still wide open, with no baby yet! All over the area, papers are publishing articles and pictures of the first baby of the year in their own particular area, but Bailey County is still waiting for the first one.

Last year, Deanna Carol Peel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Peel, made her appearance at 4:34 p.m. on January 3 to be the New Year's Baby for 1968. Little Miss Peel edged out another baby by only a few minutes.

This year, it is an entirely different story, with no potential mother in the hospital on Friday afternoon, January 3. All that is necessary to be a winner, is that the baby must be born after midnight, December 31, and the entrant must close exact time of birth, sex, weight and name; name and address of parents; baby must be born in Bailey County and if the baby is born at home, the Journal must be notified within 30 hours.

Among gifts and prizes for the new baby and its parents include: Free dinner for the parents, Corral Restaurant;

Mules De-Claw Littlefield Cats

From the beginning, it was the Mules game. Although the lead switched back and forth early in the game, by halftime, the Mules led 30-22. They widened the lead to 10 points by the three-quarter mark to 45-35, but saw that lead slowly narrow in the final three minutes of the game, and the Mules barely squeaked by the Wildcats.

Contest Winner

In the tie-breaker Oklahoma-SMU contest, he missed the Richmond-Olio U game, the Georgia-Arkansas game and the Oklahoma-SMU upset.

Bailey County would be affected, along with the other 1,218 school districts in the State of Texas, in the proposed consolidation of school districts in the state, according to a report released by the Governor's Committee on Public School Education.

The 254 page report, released last weekend, proposes consolidation of the school districts into 353 districts in the state.

After a three year research, the Governor's Committee on Public School Education, made the proposal as a means of achieving national leadership in education.

In their report, the committee claimed that the consolidation of 865 small, often inefficient school systems would be a key step toward efficiency, on a $28 million appraised economy and excellence in public education.

The committee concluded in their report that no child should be deprived of educational opportunities fitted to his needs, and small, inefficient schools cannot offer these educational opportunities.

The new play would create 219 countywide school systems and 35 multidistrict counties. These systems would have from two to 13 school districts each, depending on school enrollment.

The choice for small districts is limited: To offer a comprehensive, quality educational program, a district either must be large enough to have classes of reasonable size in a variety of subjects - and this means consolidation - or it must operate with very small classes at a very high cost per student, according to the report by the committee.

The evidence collected by the committee shows a great number of small school systems have made neither choice. The restricted programs, lower salaries, reduced efforts, and lower teacher qualifications of many small districts often combine to limit student development, and their seniors tend to score lower on tests of educational development," the committee declared.

The report also states a new and simple school finance plan would eliminate tax inequities existing in every part of the state.

In the committee's report, the school finance plan calls for local school districts to use the fair market value of property as a basis for collecting school taxes.

The school tax rate per $100 valuation of full market value would start at 20 cents for most districts and climb one cent each year until the 1979-80 school year, when the tax rate for the basic school program would be 30 cents per $100 of full market value.

According to the report, school systems which presently levy taxes at a significantly lower rate would see their taxes go up in rate at five cents per year until they catch up with the rate being paid in the districts which have been carrying a larger share of the school tax load.

Muleshoe School Superintendent Neal Dillman said that the school tax in Muleshoe is figured on the basis of one third the appraised value and the projected collections are based on a 93 percent collection rate. Property in the Muleshoe School District is figured

The study committees would be responsible for approving the alignment program with the governor's committee or would come up with alternatives that would meet the minimum enrollment standards.

The committee suggested that

VA Warns Pensioners To Return Forms

The new year could begin with a financial jolt for thousands of veterans and widows on the Veteran Administration's pension rolls who thus far have failed to return their annual income questionnaire to VA.

Totally and permanently non-service-connected disabled veterans and wartime veterans widows who meet income limitations are eligible for pensions, according to Jake Coker, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco.

The law requires these beneficiaries to report their income each year in order to determine the amount of pension, which is related directly to income, to which they are entitled. The questionnaire received data on 1968 income and 1969 income estimated was sent to 2,033,000 pension recipients about the first of November. Deadline for returning the questionnaire to VA was set at January 15.

With this deadline fast approaching, approximately 645,000 pensioners have not returned the questionnaire.

Until the VA receives 1969 income estimates from these beneficiaries, it can not determine or pay any pension benefits in 1969 to them.

And in 1969, discontinuance of pension payments could be more costly for many of these beneficiaries than in the past, Coker said.

Starting January 1, VA pensioners will be completely restructured. Income limits will be raised $200 for all pensioners. Further, the present three income levels used in determining the amount of benefits a recipient may be paid will be increased to between 13 and 26 levels in $100 increments.

For approximately 1.2 million beneficiaries on the VA pension rolls, this restructuring will mean higher monthly payments in 1969.

Thus, failure to return the income questionnaire could mean the loss of $10 a month in pension payments in 1969, compared with the present rate of $104 for the veteran with no dependents and little or no income. The loss could be $130 a month instead of the present $110 for the veterans with three dependents and little or no income, Coker said.

He urged those who have not returned the questionnaire to complete it and mail it in the self-addressed envelope without delay. Any information and assistance they may need in completing the questionnaire may be obtained by visiting the VA office in Lubbock located at 1612-20 Nineteenth Street, or by writing the VA Regional Office, 1400 North Valley Mills Drive, Waco, Texas, 76710.

The Mystery in the Mirror

BY PAUL HARVEY

The moon is just a moon, but a man is a man! Intrigued by sons of lunar light, men imagined that on the moon's backside we would surely one day find heaven—at least.

So we went back there, found the backside is like the front side, gray plaster of Paris, pockmarked and pimpled, "like dirty beach sand with a lot of footprints in it."

The magnificence and magic qualities which generations had attributed to the moon, earthmen might have found, instead, in themselves.

Yet today man sits surrounded by the trophies he has won, the frontiers he has conquered, the mountain of textbooks he has written and rewritten—and remains yet utterly confounded by what he sees in the mirror.

We now know much about the mysterious forces about us, but little about the mysterious forces within us.

It is within himself that man must next turn on the light.

Brilliant and courageous though our performance may be 200,000 miles from home, back home we are a failure.

The divorce rate is now almost 50%. Crime is increasing nine times faster than our population. The enlightened generation with everything to live for hastens its own death with alcohol, drugs and assorted excesses.

Chemistry and biology are not enough. You cannot bombard a generation with the idea that men are animals without getting animal behavior.

Man is infinitely more wonderful than he knows. A computer would fill the Empire State Building and yet be unable to duplicate the function of a single lobe of a human brain.

Man has been falling to his knees in wonder before the Milky Way. There is more wonder in the orb of salt and water and albumen called the "human eye" than in anything it looks upon.

The late Dr. J. Wallace Hamilton said, "The next great field of research will have to be in the realm of personality, the study of human nature. Man has explored almost everything in the universe—except the explorer."

So he sits there among his trophies and his books miserable and unhappy.

Man is mid—but with a grandeur written into him which will never let him rest until he becomes that for which he was created.

The mirror has frightened man. In it he sees himself wearing both a halo and horns. There is terror in man's face when he is left alone with himself. So he has elected to hide from his own eyes.

It was ever thus. David did not always live as he sang. Solomon wrote proverbs of much wisdom, yet often behaved unwisely. Even as you and I.

I do not know what science may find when it dares to look behind the mirror. Will Durant, seeking to trade why the optimism of the 19th century had given way to the pessimism of the 20th, said, "The great question of our time is not communism versus individualism, nor Europe versus America nor East versus West; it is whether man can bear to live without God."

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm gets the new year underway along about the same lines he managed last year, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

To get my mind off some December bills that ran a lot higher than I'd figured -- I know a nickel tractor bolt now costs a quarter but it takes time to get used to it -- I pulled out a newspaper I'd been saving and hadn't read far before I ran into an article that made me feel a little better.

According to it, I'm not the only one having trouble adjusting to high costs. Australia is in the same boat.

Five years ago, it seems, Australia ordered two dozen American jet fighter-bombers at 4 million dollars each. By the time they were ready for delivery the other day the cost was up to 10 million each.

Instead of 96 million dollars, the bill now comes to 240 million, and if you've ever bought anything, makes no difference whether it's a tractor bolt or a fighter-bomber, you know when the bill arrives at two and a half times what you'd figured, you're in no mood to laugh.

The Australians though are going to have to come on in to the modern age. Look at it this way: in 1950 an American farmer could sell 10 calves and buy a new pick-up truck. Today he has to sell 20 calves to buy a pick-up.

The Australians are simply going to have to realize that while five years ago they could buy a fighter-bomber for say 2 million kangaroos, today it takes 5 million kangaroos. Me and Australia are going to have to raise more calves and kangaroos if we want to hold our own.

Ten years ago a doctor's fee for delivering a baby was $50 to $100. Today it's anywhere from $250 to $1,000. This is not to say that babies, bolts, or fighter-bombers are worth more today, they just come higher.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Yes, it's really true! Mary Woodall, who recently was named "Nurse of the Year" is working with cast and crutches. She broke her leg on December 16 and due to a shortage of nurses with all the recent flu outbreak, Mrs. Woodall started back to work, crutches... cast and all. She admitted the first two days were rather rough, but she is making it up and down the halls and in and out of the rooms at West Plains Memorial Hospital just fine now.

SCHOOL ZONES
After sixteen days of vacation, people tend to forget to slow down for school zones. It seems timely, with school beginning again Monday, to again remind you to slow down during school hours when you are going through one of the school zones. It will only take you seconds more to reach your destination and might save you a lifetime of regret and grief because of a child who darted out into your path.

Many people do not realize the importance of 'attitude.' By this I am speaking of your own personal attitude, especially when a law enforcement officer stops you for some violation. In many instances, perhaps most instances, the penalty would not be nearly as severe if you maintained a good attitude.

Officers have a specific job to do, the same as the citizens who go to their offices or stores to work. Typically, anyone who is stopped for a violation, from running a stop sign to major violation, is perhaps chagrined and a little angry, mostly at themselves, for being stopped.

VIOLATORS
A major increase in the production of fertilizer is contemplated and the production of television sets is to be increased to 6,000,000 a year--the first time so many have been programmed. These and other consumer expenditures in the budget have convinced students of Soviet affairs the Russians expect no war in 1969 or in the immediate future.

In view of the fact that the Nixon Administration is almost certain to enter into negotiations with Russia in the near future on the question of slowing the arms race and maintaining peace, this budget analysis is of singular significance and is not a discouraging one.

Mr. Nixon himself has stressed the need for these negotiations and close associates believe he is willing to meet the Soviets half way in any genuine arms-race slowdown by the two giants of the modern, nuclear - powered world.

One of the inevitable results of Russian increases in consumer goods production, such as automobiles and television sets, is a rise in the standard of living of millions of Russians. The more affluent Russian citizens become the more they will have to lose in war--especially a nuclear war.

Thus, in the long run, regardless of negotiations entered into in the immediate future by the Nixon Administration, the better life to be enjoyed by more and more Russians is in the interest of peace. For the Russians certainly have adequate land and living space, and if the people emerge from the poverty of "have-nots" which has been their lot for centuries, they will not remain a "hungry" nation, coveting and envying the luxuries, wealth and a good life of western Europe. The average citizen of the U.S.S.R. will then have much to lose in going to war.

The great trouble with luck is that it often disappears when you need it most.

The effort to secure selfish advantage administers much of what is termed "politics."

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

- The Russian Budget
- Clues For 1969
- Important To Nixon
- Peace Hopes Up

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- A careful study of the Russian budget has shown that first reports and impressions were misleading. Tentative December reports stressed the fact that the Russians had provided for a seven per cent increase in military expenditures for the coming year; this was said to herald a more militant Soviet policy.

However, closer analysis indicates expanded activities in eastern Europe, such as the Russian occupation of Czechoslovakia in August--probably account for most of the military increase. And taking the budget as a whole, most analysts conclude the Russians expect peace in 1969.

They base this view on greatly expanded Russian plans and expenditures for consumer goods in the coming year. The production of automobiles is to be hiked significantly--capital allotted for that purpose is being doubled. Large sums of money are provided to increase the network of gas stations across the Soviet Union.

A major increase in the production of fertilizer is contemplated and the production of television sets is to be increased to 6,000,000 a year--the first time so many have been programmed. These and other consumer expenditures in the budget have convinced students of Soviet affairs the Russians expect no war in 1969 or in the immediate future.

In view of the fact that the Nixon Administration is almost the board of education adopt the reorganization plan by June 1, 1971. Otherwise, they state that it would be too late to follow through with the committee's other recommendations in time for the 1971-72 school year.

The committee has suggested three exceptions to the minimum enrollment of 2600 students in a school district. Countywide districts which could operate with 1600 students "sparse area" districts with less than 1600 students, and special purpose districts such as those serving military installations and special schools such as for the deaf or blind.

The consolidation of districts would result in annual savings of $20 million to $30 million, the committee estimated. These savings, mostly from fewer teachers for larger classes, would be used to pay off bond debts, of consolidated districts.

Under the proposed plan, Bailey County would merge from three school districts to one district; Lamb County would merge their six school districts into one district; Parmer County would merge four districts into one and Cochran County would merge three school districts into one district.

TWIGS ON THE GROUND
The twig girder is the insect responsible for girdling small twigs and branches on trees, causing them to break and fall to the ground. They work mostly in the fall when their eggs are laid on a branch. They move back and then girdle the branch and shortly thereafter it falls to the ground. If they aren't removed, these fallen twigs become the source of infection the following year. Therefore, it's a good practice to pick up and burn the girdled twigs.

Mrs. Charles Jerry Patterson

Miss Seaton, Mr. Patterson Wed

Miss Marquita Seaton and Charles Jerry Patterson were united in marriage December 28 at seven o'clock in Muleshoe Assembly of God Church. Rev. Morris Sheets, pastor of Trinity Church, Lubbock, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Seaton of Lazbuddie, and Mrs. J.B. Patterson of Lubbock and the late Mr. Patterson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace, fashioned with scallops sabinia neckline and long petal-pointed sleeves. A satin band accented the Empire waist. A loose flowing lace cage, hemline scalloped, extended into a chapel train and was worn over a fitted sheath of peau de soie. Imported illusion caught by a forward cluster of lace pearl petals, accented with crystal, formed her veil. She carried a bouquet of white spider mums around a single white orchid, atop a white bible.

The couple stood before four arched candelabras, with baskets of white chrysanthemums and a velvet kneeling bench. An aisle cloth was also used. Organist for the occasion was Mrs. W.T. Watson. She accompanied Mrs. Max Eubanks who sang "The Twelfth of Never", "The Lord's Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest", the last of these sung after the couple lit a memory candle and turned to leave the church.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Don Roberts, of Savannah, Georgia, sister of the bride. Miss Winn Watson, of Muleshoe, Miss Anne Porter and Mrs. Mike Nix, of Lubbock were bridesmaids and Miss Jayme Eubanks of DeKalb, was junior bridesmaid. They wore identical full length dresses of peacock blue lace, with jeweled necklines and long bell sleeves and headpieces of matching blue tulle. They each carried a candle surrounded by spider mums.

Best man was J.B. Patterson of Wichita Falls, Texas, brother of the groom. Groomsman were Earl Patterson, Jerry Scott and Kenneth Claborn, all of Lubbock.

Ushers were Scott Morgan of Odessa, cousin of the groom and Capt. Don Roberts of Savannah, Georgia, brother-in-law of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Fellowship Hall of the church, with Miss Theresa Seaton, sister of the bride, registering guests.

The bride's table was laid with white lace, and crystal candelabras and adorned with the bouquets of the bridal party. A three-tiered wedding cake was served with mock champagne and blue mints by Mrs. Jerry Berry, cousin of the bride. Others assisting in hospitalities were Mrs. C.P. Mills, Mrs. Holt Eubanks and Mrs. Earl Prather, aunts of the bride.

Out-of-town guests were from Dallas, Lubbock and Wichita Falls.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico the new Mrs. Patterson chose a knitted dress of peacock blue with matching lace knit coat and wore brown accessories. She pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet on her shoulder.

The bride was graduated from Lazbuddie High School and is a

Enochs Ceremony Unites Couple

Miss Maretta Kay Peterson, of Morton, became the bride of Harold Dean Abney of Camp Pendleton, California, December 28, at six o'clock in First Baptist Church, Enochs. The Rev. Fred Blake was the officiating minister at the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Peterson of Morton, and Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Abney of Ropesville, are parents of the couple.

The church was decorated with baskets of white plumes with lilac bows; two spiral candelabra, and an arch of greenery which was accented by lilac ribbon and white gladioli.

Miss Patricia Gruesendorf furnished organ selections and accompanied Morris Peterson, brother of the bride, as he sang "At The End of The Rainbow" "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white velvet with oval neckline, long petal-point sleeves, a bow accenting the Empire waistline. The detachable chapel train, accented by teardrop pearls, fell from the Empire line. Her headpiece of orange blossoms held the shoulder length veil of illusion. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white sweetheart roses atop a white bible.

Mrs. Sammy Nichols of Plainview was matron of honor. Miss Annetta West of Plainview, and Miss Charlotte Watson, of Lubbock, were bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of French lilac velvet, fashioned with a v-shaped yoke and carried white fur muffs accented with lilac tipped carnations. Their headpieces were circles of white fur.

Clinton Abney of Lubbock, served his brother as best man. Groomsman were Albert Woods of Levelland and Gail Gregg of Ropesville.

Ushers were David Cain of Ropesville and David Leake of Lubbock.

A reception was held in fellowship hall of First Baptist Church, Enochs, immediately after the ceremony. Assisting with hospitalities were Marilyn Peterson of Brownfield, Dovie Abney, Fredene Grant, Betty Sharbutt, all of Lubbock.

The serving table was decorated with the bridal bouquet and orchid candles. A white three-tiered wedding cake and orchid punch were served.

For a wedding trip the bride chose a white wool dress worn under a pink and white plaid wool coat, with pink and white accessories and a corsage from the bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. Abney was a 1968 graduate of Morton high school, 1968 graduate of South Plains Junior College and attended Wayland Baptist College. Abney was graduated from Ropesville high school in 1963, attended South Plains College, and is now serving in the U.S. Navy. The couple will be at home after January 8, 1969 at 607 Eaton Street, Apt. #2, Oceanside, California.

Swanee Tickets To be Sold by Mail Only

Although just returned from their long Christmas rest, more than 100 students at Eastern New Mexico University are busy at work on one of their most ambitious projects of the year: "Swanee," the annual musical variety show.

Which means that University officials are equally busy. They face the giant task of selling the eagerly sought tickets for the show, which has been a complete sellout for more than 10 years.

The sales will follow a system adopted last year. All tickets will be distributed by mail. It was found that the system was the fairest method possible for all those wishing to see the show—students, townspeople, and out-of-towners.

Orders will be filled in order of postmark on a first-come, first-served basis. Letters requesting tickets must be postmarked NO EARLIER than January 13 and must include the following:

1. Date of performance desired (five performances are scheduled, February 3-4-6-7-8, with NO PERFORMANCE on Wednesday, February 5).
2. Check or money order (tickets are $2 each).
3. Self-addressed envelope for return of the tickets.
4. Alternate dates in case the preferred performance is sold out (last year nearly every ticket for the weekend performances went to applicants whose letters bore the earliest acceptable postmark).

Mail orders to "Swanee," Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, New Mexico 88130. Tickets will be mailed during the week of Jan 20-25. Ticket orders bearing postmarks earlier than January 13 will be held until those with January 13 postmarks are filled.

University officials urgently request that, to avoid embarrassment, no special requests for tickets be made, since the "by-mail-only" policy will be strictly enforced.

Doris Underdown Jackson, of Hereford, traveled the farthest and won a Mule statuette.

Attending were Robert Richards of Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Westop, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Martin, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Head Farwell; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Jackson of Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Borrell, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Black, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Henry, D.L. The next reunion is planned for the Saturday after Christmas, 1969, according to Mrs. Ted Millsap.

Crims Enjoy Yule Visits With Family

Chicago Trip Recounted

By Lynn Pitts

A trip to National 4-H Club Congress is perhaps the dream of every 4-Her. That dream came true is the opportunity and thrill of a lifetime. Out of 3 1/4 million 4-Hers only about 1600 are qualified to attend each year. New experiences await each delegate. If being in Chicago isn't enough for most, then staying at the largest hotel in the world might qualify. Most of the delegates find the windy city to be friendly and accommodating as it spreads out along the shoreline of Lake Michigan; a glimpse of the skyline from the Adler Planetarium offers a look at aging south Chicago and modern powerful north Chicago. 4-Hers are usually traffic stoppers during Congress week as they stroll up Michigan Avenue for meetings and tours, with the assistance of the Chicago Police Department. Chicago welcomes this group of patriotic young individuals, and appreciates the way they demonstrate their ideas.

The week of Congress is packed with meetings, tours, banquets, press conferences and new acquaintances. There is something meaningful for everyone to do the entire day and so little time to do it. The day starts early and usually in style. Style being perhaps a breakfast fit for a king and 2500 others sponsored by a leading corporation in America like Firestone, Ford, General Motors or International Harvester. The hosts for the affair might be 31 major executives out of 34 in the company. Yes, this is the way it is all week for almost every breakfast, luncheon, and dinner.

This is how business and industry feel about the group. They invest almost $25,000 at each affair to encourage young people to achievement. Not only do they invest their money which could be tax deductible but they invest their time and of themselves. The programs feature world renowned speakers, entertainers, and orchestras. Each delegate attends in a certain awards program. Major companies sponsor award dinners and programs for the various awards. The were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Austin, Sunday, he was the guest speaker at the Enochs Baptist Church, Simplicity Company sponsored the Dress Revue awards program. Their executives, designers, and educational directors were there to host and consult with each state winner. The winners had the opportunity to discuss their future and many careers with people of experience.

Other than the banquet affairs and the awards programs there were various delegate assemblies starting with worship services in the Central Church of Chicago on Sunday morning and ending with a farewell dinner and ball Thursday evening, featuring an orchestra and band.

In between was a Pop Concert with the Chicago Symphony and guest conductor Arthur Schnitker, a concert featuring the Cowstills, the International Livestock Exposition and an International Horseshow and Rodeo in the Coliseum.

Tours arranged for the group included the Museum of Natural History, The Museum of Science and Industry, The Institute of Art, a bus tour of Chicago, a tour of the Chicago Police Department, and an endless list of others. On one occasion the youth took over the entertainment when the Dress Revue winners presented a "Fashion Campaign" for Congress and modeled their winning outfits.

Each state delegation wore insignia to represent their state and as the week progressed each delegation indulged in friendly competition between the States. The Texas delegation consisted of 39 boys and girls and six chaperons. They grew like one big happy family, proud to be Texans and interested in filling every minute with fellowship and meaningful experiences. Each delegation usually got travel experience to and from Chicago either by train or plane. The Texas group traveled by route of Santa Fe Railroad with two pullmans chartered especially for them. No story could tell of the joy and honor it was to be a delegate to the 47th National 4-H Club Congress. The delegates can only share their experiences and commit themselves to a responsibility of making the same experiences available for all that follow them. For any 4-Her who is fortunate to attend it is a wonderful dream come true.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

The kitchen is the heart of almost every house today. Rare is the household that can afford a full-time cook-this puts mother in the kitchen a good deal of the time.

In America's new, informal way of entertaining, the kitchen is a place for friends to gather. The friendliness can be carefully created through designs, furnishings and color. Even the smallest kitchen can have this same quality.

Notice the cabinets in most new homes or remodeled homes. They are of pine or some other attractive wood in a natural finish that lets the grain show through. Quite often the traditional cupboards and shelves for glassware are left open and interesting pieces are dramatized through the use of a scalloped border that frames the display. In fact, the complete unit can be built to look like a hutch. Even the sink loses its kitchen look when tucked inconspicuously into an alcove between a brick fireplace and the wall.

The necessary items for the kitchen are best kept close together where they can function efficiently and yet be somewhat unobtrusive. The rest of the room can be devoted to family living and informal entertaining.

One lovely kitchen we saw recently let a big old-fashioned fireplace complete with grill for barbecuing, be the center of interest. The opening was extra large so that the fireplace and barbecue could be adjacent and share the chimney.

This kitchen contained more furniture than the average kitchen. The furniture was completely informal-an old-fashioned rocking chair, a colorful spindle rug, and a large pine table to be used for working or dining.

Who knows but what the Georgia pine will adapt here under conditions. The use of sulfasal and winter watering has done more to adapt pine in a growth pattern that we like than any other thing we know of.

Most of the pine that are the older in Clovis were planted in the late Thirties or early Forties. That is to say that the trees you see around the area are really not too old. They have done well in the thirty years and being human we are prone to think that we include all possible parts of our weather or other components that make up our climate. At least after that long a period we think it is well worth the risk of planting a pine tree and expect it to do real well. Remember, the pine tree is the one that sings in the wind.

Nursery News

LANDSCAPING By A.L. Woodburn GARDEN CENTER NURSERY Clovis, N.M.

We will continue on the subject "Will pine trees grow in Muleshoe?" from last week.

The Limber pine is adapting real well provided the source is below around 5,000 feet elevation. That is, a tree grown under that elevation will adapt here readily whereby the other might not. The limber pine and the pinon work real well into the so-called desert or rock space theme. The twisted characteristics are what make it so popular.

The foxtail is another mountain pine that adapts very well and is quite attractive when used in landscape work.

We know of two or three of the slash pine that are planted here for trial basis. After three years they are doing real well. Of course, three years is a long time to a child waiting for Christmas and not quite so long to some of the more mature people, yet it is a very short span in the course of events that led to the pine tree in the first place.

Who knows but what the Georgia pine will adapt here under conditions. The use of sulfasal and winter watering has done more to adapt pine in a growth pattern that we like than any other thing we know of.

They have done well in the thirty years and being human we are prone to think that we include all possible parts of our weather or other components that make up our climate. At least after that long a period we think it is well worth the risk of planting a pine tree and expect it to do real well. Remember, the pine tree is the one that sings in the wind.

Herbicide Value Influenced by Weather

COLLEGE STATION.--Crop water conditions in a can year affect the value of herbicide use in controlling unwanted weeds and grasses in grain sorghum? "Yes, they can," answers Ben R. Spears, Extension agronomist at Texas A&M University. And it just happens that 1968 was such a year at the Stiles Farm Foundation in Central Texas.

Favorable conditions for cultivation and growth of grain sorghum naturally diminish returns from the added expense of herbicide treatment. But unless a farmer has an effective way of reading the stars or gazing into a crystal ball, he cannot assume that the year will be favorable.

For example, the expense of a band application of herbicide at planting time was about $3 per acre on the Stiles farm compared to cultivation costs of 60¢ per acre.

On demonstration plots this year at the farm near Thrall, there was no significant difference in yield between areas treated with herbicide and those cultivated. Both cultivation and pre-emergence herbicides have good control of weeds and grasses in the medium maturity hybrid grown. Post-emergence treatments, however, did not give total control of grasses.

The same pre-emergence herbicide under test at A&M explained Spears, made a 2,500-pound per acre difference in yield in a location where cultivation was delayed due to weather. Extended rainfall had prompted growth of a high population of weeds and grasses which limited production to only 1,070 lbs. per acre. However, a plot treated with the pre-emergence herbicide yielded 3,570 lbs. per acre.

The two instances show that weather noticeably affects the relative value of herbicide use in controlling weeds and grasses. Contrasting situations such as these can occur in separate fields of the same production area during the same year, Spears added.

How then can a farmer determine whether or not to use herbicides? Spears says there are at least four factors one should consider: his overall cropping plan, the texture of the soil, the normal occurrence of grasses and weeds in the area, and the expected yield levels of the crop to be planted.

If a farmer plans to follow his grain sorghum crop with cotton, then naturally he'll have to be more selective in choosing a herbicide to avoid residue effects on cotton. A heavy textured soil allows more choice of herbicides in the seed-bed, whereas a sandy or loamy sand soil limits herbicide placement. If grasses or weeds normally occur where grain sorghum is planted, then placement of a pre-emergence herbicide may be a wise step, particularly if the expected crop yield is sufficiently high to justify herbicide cost.

Spears emphasizes that herbicide treatments are not the only answer to weed problems, but they are the most effective in many cases. Farmers should analyze their individual problems thoroughly before adding just any herbicide to the land. Misuse of herbicides can give producers a greater problem than elimination of weeds, Spears urges herbicide users to follow label instructions or to obtain information prepared by A&M specialists on the proper application of herbicides. Wrong applications can give yield losses in sorghum and following crops. Misuse often causes stand reduction and decreases the general vigor of the plant.

Generally, pre-emergence herbicides have been more effective than post-emergence ones where both weeds and grasses are a frequent problem. Post-emergence types are most useful in areas where grasses and broadleaf weeds are only an occasional problem.

The real value of a pre-emergence herbicide is controlling early weeds which compete with the sorghum plant for moisture, nutrients and light. Proper control of early weeds has the greatest effect on yield. Data from the Blacklands Research Center at Temple have shown a 1,000 lb. per acre yield reduction where weeds were not effectively controlled during the early stages.

The pre-emergence herbicide used in the Stiles demonstrations was a 1:1 ratio of propazine and norea. This mixture and propazine plus linuron in the same proportions have been two of the more effective herbicides recommended for use on certain soils by Texas A&M scientists.

Herbicides showing promise in research studies by A&M personnel are demonstrated on the Stiles Farm Foundation. This was the third year for these demonstrations and in addition to testing the herbicides, the farm plans to use more of such applications on their own commercial production areas in 1969.

Art Show

More than three hundred paintings have been entered in the first West Texas Art Show scheduled for February 18 in Snyder, according to Wacil McNair, general chairman of the event. Sponsor of the all-West Texas show is the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The entry deadline has been set for January 15 for notification of entry in the show. Official notification must be sent to the WTCC office in Abilene by that date, according to McNair.

Oils, watercolors and other media from all sections of West Texas have been entered in the show. Artists who participate must be residents of the 132-county area of the WTCC and the subject matter of the paintings must be West Texas oriented. Tourist attractions, scenery or West Texas historical subjects are the only subjects being shown.

The one-day show will be held in connection with the annual WTCC Tourist Development Conference at the Scurry County Coliseum. Judging will be done on Monday, February 17 and the pictures will be on public display on February 18. Prizes will be awarded at a luncheon on February 18. The first prize of $500 will be awarded to the best in show regardless of media. Other prizes will be $100, $75 and $50 for first, second and third in oil, watercolor and other media classifications.

McNair urges all West Texas artists to get their official entries into the Abilene office of the WTCC before the deadline. The entry blanks are available upon request from the WTCC office. Not more than 600 entries will be accepted because of the limited space for proper hanging of the paintings.
