The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

THE STATE'S NEW auto inspection law requires you to have your car inspected before you can get a license plate by April. People didn't think much about it when the Legislature passed it last year, but they're beginning to wonder now. The biggest trouble is the red tape that has bogged the situation down.

For example, two local firms — A. G. Motor Company and Vance Motor Company — decided some three months ago that they would give the inspections as a public service. But they can't give the inspections yet. Both firms have been approved, but they must yet get the forms needed before they can begin the big job of inspecting everybody's car.

There's a long list of things that must be checked on each car. It will probably take from 30 minutes to one hour for each inspection. The state allows the firms a $1.00 fee. In cases where cars fail to pass, which will be inspected free if brought back within 7 days.

Already car owners are inquiring when they can get their autos inspected. And the local firms are only too glad to be ready as soon as the state sends them the forms and the go-ahead. Both local firms plan to make announcements the minute they are ready. So, you'll have to be patient.

If you want to speed up the inspection of your car, you might look over a list of the things the stations have to look for and be sure your car will pass. A copy of the requirements is printed elsewhere in today's Press.

The safety law, like the laws that requires you to have public liability insurance, is designed to make auto travel safer. You can't argue with this. But we'll bet that a lot of folks won't like it.

From what we can learn of the situation, the A-G Motor Company and the Vance Motor Company are due a big hand from us all in making this inspection service in Cisco. Let's all be patient and make their task as pleasant as possible.

CARROLL TATUM, assistant football coach and teacher at Cisco High School, may soon be wearing a uniform of the United States Army. He has been ordered to report to his draft board in Abilene bright and early Wednesday morning for an induction physical. If he passes the exam, he will probably be inducted within a month.

Meanwhile, Coach Tatum will continue his work at the high school.

MR. COY WARREN has returned home from Rochester, Minn., with the good news that his wife's condition is making progress. She has left the hospital and will probably be strong enough in ten days or so to make the trip home. Her second operation was a success and she has now left the hospital.

Mrs. Homer Slicker, mother of Mrs. Warren, remained in Rochester with her daughter.

BACK HOME FROM some ten days of resting are Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hampton and Hamp's Cafe is open again. During the trip, they observed wedding anniversary No. 39 with a party given by relatives and friends at Whitney. Our social department will check into the situation for a full report.

DROPPED OUT TO the gym Saturday night to see the College tangle with the McMurry team. It was a fine game. The new electric score board is a valuable addition. Mr. Bob Ellison was running it, and Mr. Paul Farrow was the ticket seller. It was kind of interesting when two people in a row offered ten-dollar bills to buy tickets.

The college's opening home conference game on the 14th is expected to attract a large crowd. The Junior High Mother's Club is selling tickets and will get a percentage of the take. They'll also handle the refreshment stand.

A poster put out by the Department of Public Safety shows that each auto must be thoroughly inspected. The inspection will cover the following points:

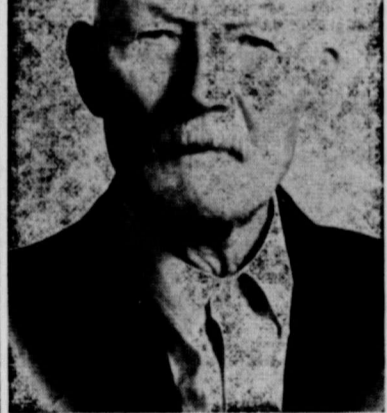

CHEAPER BY THE BAKER'S DOZEN—A canine mother in Paris, France, is contemplating her litter of pedigreed "Briard" pups after giving birth to 13 of them. Two having died of suffocation, the mother now contents herself with caring for the remaining 11. The father is a renowned champ in European dog shows.

Death Takes W. R. McKelvin, One Of This Area's Oldest Residents

William Robert McKelvin, 92, a resident of the Cisco-Moran area for almost 70 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. S. Holloway, in Cisco at 6:05 a. m. Tuesday following a short illness. Mr. McKelvin was very active and had unusually good eyesight and hearing.

He was born in Anderson County on August 15, 1859, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKelvin. His parents were ranchers in Freestone and Anderson Counties and Mr. McKelvin learned the life of a cowboy at an early age. Until age forced his retirement several years ago he remained active as a cowboy. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Funeral services will be held from the Moran Church of Christ at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday with Cole Jackson of Moran conducting the services. Burial will follow in the Moran Cemetery under the direction of Wylie Funeral Home.

Pallbearers will be Ben McKelvin, Hiram McKelvin, and Henry Calloway of Moran, Rube Calloway of Cisco and Shorty Calloway of Cisco and John W. Chalker of Breckenridge.

Survivors are his wife of Moran, three sons, Ernest McKelvin of Olden, Ed McKelvin of Eastland and Kay McKelvin of Moran and a daughter, Mrs. Holloway of Cisco. Also surviving are 16 grandchildren, 24 great grandchildren and 11 great great grandchildren.

Owby Sets Pipe In Brown Project

A second Mississippi lime oil well was in prospect, a third was drilling and locations have been made for two more offset tests for the area five miles southwest of Cisco, according to information here today.

The Owby Drilling Company No. 1 J. W. Brown Estate was to set pipe today after coring some 90 feet of Mississippi lime, from which the nearby discovery well, Owby's No. 1 Mrs. Effie Brown, has been producing for several weeks. The hole was bottomed at about 3,900 feet and the pay horizon is about 3,750 feet. Drill stem tests were called satisfactory by the operators.

Heavy equipment was being moved in today by Stevens and Rambo to drill their No. 1 J. W. Brown Estate 330 feet from the south and east lines of the northeast quarter of Section 118, Block 3, H&TC Survey. This is an offset to the No. 1 J. W. Brown of Owby's.

Owby's plans call for two north offsets — the No. 1 B. A. Brown and the No. 1 E. M. Snoddy. These locations will be drilled as soon as equipment is available. The B. A. Brown test will be sunk first, it was understood. A mile southwest of Cisco, the J. E. Connolly No. 1 Mrs. Pearl McMurray was drilling in Caddo lime at about 3,000 feet.

In the south Cisco townsite, the E. K. Carey No. 1 Masonic Home was flowing oil at the rate of about five barrels per day. Plans were understood to call for the well to be shut in to be given the hydraulic treatment. Carey's No. 1 Max Witt, in the same area, was cemented over the weekend and is due for completion work soon.

A mile northwest of Cisco, the Raymond Thomason No. 1 E. C. Montague was drilling at 2,530 feet early today in a 4,000 foot test.

A new location was announced for the Bankline-Owens pool, five miles northeast of Cisco, as Bankline's No. 7 J. H. Reynolds. Location was given as 496 feet from the south and 330 feet from the west lines of Section 50, Block 4, H&TC Survey.

Some four miles northeast of Cisco, near by Cisco-Breckenridge highway, a brand-new drilling rig was being unloaded to drill the J. P. Lohan et al No. 1 Sam Hart, a north offset to Cooper-Hemphill production on the John Hart lease.

Gordon Smith Is Given Promotion As Road Engineer

Gordon L. Smith, assistant resident engineer in Eastland County for the Texas Highway Department for the past four years, has been promoted to the post of resident engineer in charge of the county offices. He succeeded E. M. Pritchard, who was recently promoted to be assistant district engineer with offices at Brownwood.

J. D. Coker of Coleman has been appointed to succeed Mr. Smith as assistant resident engineer in Eastland County. The county office has five men in its offices.

Smith's office will have a busy year with several notable projects planned for 1952. The biggest job will be making a 4-lane road out of the Eastland-Ranger section of Highway 80 — similar to the highway between Cisco and Eastland.

The program also calls for considerable work on the farm-to-market highways, including two concrete bridges in the Carbon-Okra area.

Don't Pay Black Market Price For Junk Batteries

FORT WORTH, Jan. 8. — The Fort Worth District Office of Price Stabilization Saturday warned purchasers of junk passenger car batteries to avoid paying black market prices.

The demand for junk batteries has increased because the batteries are a source of lead, a critical item in the defense program, Boyd explained.

The ceiling price for junk passenger car batteries is $2.50 each on an as is basis. The ceiling price does not apply to the trade-in allowance a retailer may grant the purchaser of a new battery.

Boyd said his office has received reports of sales as high as $3.15 per battery, which is 35 cents above the ceiling price.

"We have had several complaints from junk dealers that numerous sellers of used batteries are demanding above the ceiling price," Boyd said. He explained that under the Defense Production Act both seller and purchaser can be prosecuted for such an illegal transaction.

"Probably there are many businesses who sell batteries and receive old batteries in exchange that are unaware of the ceiling price," Boyd said.

He explained that the OPS has a campaign underway to inform battery companies, service stations, auto supply houses, auto parts companies and others who sell junk batteries above the ceiling price, as well as those who buy batteries.

Simultaneously, the OPS is investigating reports of illegal sales that have already taken place.

MEDAL OF HONOR FOR HEROIC MARINES

—After almost a year the world is only beginning to learn the full story of the heroism in the desperate fighting at the Chosin Reservoir last winter when American Marines broke the trap on the Yalu River. When President Truman awarded the Medal of Honor to Maj. Carl L. Sitter, (left) 29, of Pueblo, Colo., and Maj. Reginald R. Myers, (right) 31, formerly of Boise, Ida., their citations revealed the valor of the officers and the unexampled bravery of the men who served under them.

Then began nine hours of a constant counter attack, hand-to-hand fighting in the darkness, and such volume of enemy grenade, mortar and machinegun fire that other Marines, fighting around the perimeter for their lives, said the hill seemed ablaze.

Capt. Sitter responded to his men to be everywhere at once. He lifted freezing men from foxholes to re-deploy them. He moved among service troop replacements and directed their fire. He directed evacuation of wounded and re-supply of ammunition. He was hit in the face, chest and arms by grenade fragments, but refused to stay down. Wounded and shaken troops watching him scorn death, refused to be beaten, or to fall back. At daylight the enemy withdrew. Capt. Sitter's company suffered 149 casualties from all causes.

stantly, urging and leading his men upward. As dawn came and it was obvious he was leading the attack, enemy fire concentrated on him. His radio operator and executive officer both fell. After 14 hours of raging combat, he and the 70 remaining fighting men whom he led, firmly held the hill. They had beaten back an estimated 4,000 enemy.

As Major Myers fought staggering odds east of Hagaru-ri, Maj. Sitter, (then Captain), commanding G Company of the Third Battalion, was fighting his way into the Marine perimeter from the southeast. It was another 600-foot hill with 45-degree slope. From it the Chinese had cut off the route to the sea and were firing into the Marines' perimeter. At daylight on November 30, Capt. Sitter boldly led his depleted unit up the frozen hill through blistering fire from an enemy regiment. At nightfall they had taken the summit.

Then began nine hours of a constant counter attack, hand-to-hand fighting in the darkness, and such volume of enemy grenade, mortar and machinegun fire that other Marines, fighting around the perimeter for their lives, said the hill seemed ablaze.

It's startling when you think of it! The average family served by the West Texas Utilities Company pays less per kilowatt-hour of electricity today than it did ten years ago!

Living costs have gone way up. The cost of materials, fuel, manpower and everything else needed to provide your electric service has gone way up, too. But your rates have stayed low. Your electric service is still the biggest bargain in the family budget!
