GI LIFE IN TOKYO

PALS—Two Marines, visiting Japan on meritorious service leave from their division in Korea, top, chat with a trio of youngsters. Under a new system of recreation, Leathernecks are going to Japan in drafts of 36 per month. Cpl. Lloyd S. Ward, Berger, Tex., and S/Sgt. Kenneth Bourgeois, New Orleans, are shown on their leave. In a geisha house, below, the men listen to a melody strummed by a pretty Japanese girl. Later, Bourgeois takes a dance turn to the music in a local night club as Ward chats with his attractive partner. Both Marines were in the first draft to be sent to Japan under the system, which gives them several days away from the fighting in Korea to rest up in surroundings as home-like as possible.

MEETING A PROBLEM—Bicyclists on the streets of Berlin, Germany, look in envy at the two-wheeler ridden by a pretty young lady in the American sector, top. It's a streamlined version of the bicycle, invented by Czechoslovakian refugee Walter Fischer, which even contains room for the family pup, left. Heinrich Voss, right, has also solved his transportation problem with the inexpensive, easy-to-operate two wheeler he hopes to be able to market.

A DELIBERATE SLIP—The filmy slip peeking out from under the hem of a full-skirted dress was designed for party wear. The youthful brocade dress, finished with a mandarin collar, self buttons and brief cap sleeves, is just the thing to warm the heart of a stylish miss.

OUT OF GODFREY'S TEABAG

Heard of a guy the other day who switched to tea and bought a car with the money he saved on olives alone.

Did you ever spend the afternoon in your doctor's office waiting to see him? Friend of mine ran into that problem the other day and finally left—and left a note for the doctor too. It read: "I've gone home to die a natural death!"

A close friend of mine has a clever expert helping him with his income tax return—the only guy I ever knew who could add with his fingers crossed.

The crime investigations brought out more dirt than a soap opera. Interior decorating has taken on quite a dignified aspect since the repeal of prohibition.

Archie Bleyer used to be part of a famous ventriloquist act. Finally he was asked to retire—he kept falling off the guy's lap.

HEALTH TALKS

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

If you were part of the flotsam and jetsam that gets balled up when the first dam of the heart (mitral valve) fails to open enough for all the blood in the tunnel to get through, you'd realize the effects of mitral stenosis.

With more blood coming into the top of the heart (left atrium) all the time and the atrium not emptying into the ventricle as it should because of the obstructed opening of the dam, the atrium gets stretched, keeps getting bigger. Also, there develops a backwash on the stream of the pulmonary vein, all the way back to the lungs and even further through the lungs into the pulmonary artery, that blood channel that carries the "used" blood from the heart to be "reprocessed" in the lungs.

One of the first noticeable symptoms of this "backwash" is a cough and the coughing up of blood because there is congestion in the lungs (you cough to relieve the congestion) and blood in the lungs (you bring up blood when you cough).

When the backwash gets even further back down the bloodstream into the pulmonary artery, there is sometimes hoarseness, a loss of voice, or even paralysis of the vocal cord. That comes about because the laryngeal nerve (the nerve that stimulates voice sounds in the larynx) lies so close to the pulmonary artery that the swelling of the artery from all the backwash makes it touch and interfere with the transmission of impulse along the laryngeal nerve.

Long before such symptoms appear, however, the doctor can detect mitral stenosis. There are certain peculiar sounds, murmurs, over special parts of the heart which he uses as a guidepost to investigate further and advise treatment for mitral stenosis, according to the degree of obstruction at the valve. It is practically always caused by rheumatic fever, though often the person with mitral stenosis was not aware that he had rheumatic fever when he did. Sometimes periods of polyarthritis, chorea, tonsillitis or growing pains are investigated to determine the background of the patient suspected of having mitral stenosis.

Founder's Week Event Is Being Observed By A&P

Announcement was made today that the A&P store in this city is participating in a Founder's Week celebration, which began Monday.

Founder's Week, an annual event at A&P, is observed in memory of the founder of A&P, the late George Huntington Hartford. The A&P store here will have a general sales promotion. The manager of the local A&P is Bill Cathey.

A&P was founded in 1859. The original store was a small one on Vesey Street in New York City. That store has grown to a chain of almost 5,000 A&P stores in some 37 states, the District of Columbia and Canada.

With the business genius applied by Mr. Hartford's sons to his original dream, he lived to see his hopes materialize and his merchandising ideas revolutionized in the grocery business of America. His sons are George H. Hartford, now 87 and treasurer of A&P, and the late John Hartford, who died last September at the age of 78.

The A&P store in this city is operated now out of the Company's Dallas office which services stores in four southwestern states. O. I. Black is vice-president in charge of the Dallas Unit.

Volumes could be written about the thousands of products brought from the four corners of the world and sold daily in A&P stores. The Company's buying operations run from the spice and tea gardens of the Orient to the fields and orchards of North America, and from the coffee plantations of South America to the salmon fisheries of Alaska.

Besides its buying headquarters in New York, A&P maintains a field buying office in every major agricultural area in the country.

Then there are huge bakeries, milk plants, processing plants and warehouses, in addition to laundries and print shops, which round out the Company's countrywide system of food distribution.

One important measure of the scope of its public service is in the fact that A&P is the largest shipper among non-heavy industries in the United States, doing business with every railroad that handles freight.

To keep its vast operations in constant motion, A&P employs more than 100,000 men and women.

The local A&P manager has extended a cordial invitation to everyone to visit A&P this week and help celebrate the founding of the world's largest food chain.

Taylor, Scurry, Fisher, Jack, Montague and Haskell counties, District VII has a 100 per cent membership in the Texas State Teachers Association, it has been announced by membership chairman Connell.

The Craters of the Moon are located in Idaho.

Carl Akeley, the American explorer, was buried on Mount Mikeno in Belgian Congo, Africa.

 Your A&P is 93 years young this week. For it was about this time in 1859 that our founder, George Huntington Hartford, proudly opened the doors of his modest little store on Vesey Street in downtown New York, the forerunner of today's A&P.
 Even with his vision, we suppose he'd be surprised to see how his little business has grown.
 We think he'd be proud, though, to know that the basic idea that guided him then, "to bring more good food to more people for less money," has been the reason for our growth.
 We pledge to maintain this principle as long as there's an A&P!

Marking Time in the March of Time —

... is somewhat like fishing without luck — there's no thrill to it. But there is real thrill in moving forward, serving humbly and doing some one thing well. We never heard of an abstractor getting rich as such, but we have heard of those who have spent a life-time as we have, building up title institutions that are assets to their communities. Yes, we get a thrill out of every order and a real joy in producing it into a quality product.
