

The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

LAST EVENING'S mud storm was just about the most unusual we ever saw. A cool front passed through and deposited .42 inch of rain on our town. Then the sand started coming in from the west. It became mud. It fell. Every car that was on the road was caked this morning.

A good many travelers stopped for the night because they didn't see to drive. Windshield wipers wouldn't handle it — just creaked and caked.

Mr. E. L. Jackson, district commander of the American Legion, is going up to Stamford to speak at a meeting. He got as far as Albany and turned back toward home when the mud storm continued to get worse. The way, he found a 600x16 tire and tube in the street and took it home. If you know anybody who has lost one, have them in touch with him.

THE AVERAGE LOSS of water from leaking faucets over a period of one month is tabulated from information gathered from cities throughout the country, Mayor C. Rosenthal tells us. He admits the following information on leaking faucets:

- 1 drop per minute — 54 gallons per month.
- 10 drops per minute — 113 gallons per month.
- 20 drops per minute — 237 gallons per month.
- A drip one-half inch in length from faucets before going into pipes amounts to 1,014 gallons per month.
- A drip one and a half inches in length equal 2,202 gallons per month.

SEE THAT THERE'S a drilling in Mr. Charles Sandler's yard. He's he's drilling a water well. He told us sometime ago that he was planning to dig a water well, but that he had spent a lot of money planting and growing grass, trees and shrubs and he doesn't want to lose them during some dry year. The wellers certainly have a beautiful yard.

THE AUSTIN Flints are back in California and the J. C. Flincy Company convention, and they report a splendid trip. They went out, going west via the northern route and returning by the southern route. It was very fine, but he tells us there is no place like home — absolutely no place.

PRESIDENT O. L. Stamey of the Junior College continues to write letters in which the writers are glowing tributes to the CJC for the program at the Antonio convention. He reported yesterday from Mrs. Wallace of Tyler Junior College to express her appreciation for having heard the fine choir. Others are also coming in from those who appreciated hearing the choir last week during its tour of a number of West Texas cities.

MR. C. H. HOUSH is equipped with write letters, we'd say. He's a collector of pencils and has over 4,000 of them. He has just put every kind you can imagine from ordinary pencils to gold-plated numbers. They've all got pictures on them. It's his hobby and he enjoys collecting them.

MISS MARY LOU Stamey of town saw a letter in a national magazine written by an English lady who, confined to a wheel chair, asked for old magazines. Mary Lou sent her one and wrote a note. The lady wrote back that she has received 500 letters and many, many magazines, including a flock of descriptions. In fact, she never saw there were so many magazines in the U. S.

OUR SCOUTS from down Bay University way report that Stanley Williams, the Cisco boy who made the All-America team last year, has just about decided to pass up offers to play professional football. He has a business offer that is getting considerable consideration, we hear. Our considered opinion that the money the boys make playing football is money made the hard way.

President Truman uses the middle initial S., but has no middle name.

WHEN TRAIN MEETS TRUCK—The steering wheel from the crushed remains of a truck tells a vivid story of tragedy near Toulouse, France. When the Marseilles-Bordeaux Express crashed into the vehicle which had stalled on the tracks, the driver and a passenger were killed. One train passenger was injured as the impact of the collision derailed the locomotive.

REGULATIONS FOR DRILLING IN CITY LIMITS QUOTED BY MAYOR

A statement to make clear the city commission's connection with issuing permits for the drilling of oil wells was issued today by Mayor G. C. Rosenthal. His statement follows:

"It has been called to the attention of the Board of City Commissioners that a good many of our property owners, including those who own one lot or a full block, are laboring under the impression that they will be able to get wells on any lot or block inside the city, if the field south of the city limits should be a producing oil field. As the facts now appear this cannot happen.

"The City of Cisco by ordinance allows for a well to be drilled on EACH block, but the Railroad Commission has the authority to issue such a permit when the necessity arises. The Railroad Commission has written the City of Cisco explaining the rules for this area. The rules for this area, unless changed by special permit, are on a basis of 20 acre spacing for each well — said wells being 330 feet from the property line and 993 feet apart. In cases of special permits — such as the City of Cisco town block leases — the matter comes under 'Rule 37' of Railroad Commission hearings.

"This Rule 37 would permit wells to be drilled on each city block, provided the block was a solid drilling unit, and all the waivers were secured from the surrounding property owners, and no protest were filed with the Railroad Commission, and the operator elected to drill the wells on each city block. The application for a special permit is often done where the wells are unusually large and the allowable for the wells is sufficient for the operators to get their money back within a reasonable length of time.

"Our information is that the cost of drilling wells, at this time, is unusually high, and much higher than normal times. Material, such as casing, is very hard to secure thru regular channels. However, it can be secured at premium prices from sources other than regular material houses. Such purchases increase the cost of the venture to around $35,000.00 per well completely equipped.

"Taking into consideration the cost of each well and the allowable cut down on smaller blocks or a city block of less than 3 acres, the operators are very reluctant to drill wells on each block. In order to encourage development inside the city limits it is going to be necessary for lot and block owners to pool their interests to make units of 10 or more acres. This 10 acre unit would still require a special permit. But we feel that more operators would become interested in drilling tests inside the city limits if they got this kind of cooperation from property owners.

"We, members of the City Commission, will be happy to discuss with property owners the rules as set up by the Railroad Commission, and might add that the rules in force now are not the same rules that were in effect when the big drilling campaign was on in the cities of Gladewater and Kilgore — on town blocks."

Funeral Service For Mrs. Camp Is Held On Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Etta B. Camp, a resident of the Cisco area for some 45 years, were held at 3 p. m. Monday at the East Cisco Baptist Church. The services were conducted by Elder R. V. Sorrels, Primitive Baptist minister from Abilene. He was assisted by Elder Casey of Cisco and the Rev. F. C. Bradley, minister of the East Cisco Baptist Church.

Mrs. Camp died at 11 p. m. Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Ramsey, in Lubbock. She had been in ill health for several years.

She was a native of Bell County and a member of a pioneer Bell County family. She was married to Ben J. Camp in Temple in 1896. She and Mr. Camp moved to the Dothan area some ten years later where they farmed until 1944 when they retired and moved to Cisco.

Survivors are her husband; two sons, Loys Camp of Buckeye, New Mexico and Jen J. Camp of Fontana, California; two daughters, Mrs. Ramsey of Lubbock and Mrs. C. L. Allen of Cisco; three brothers, Jack Phippen and Charlie Phippen of Cisco and Will Phippen of Haskell; 14 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Palbearers were all nephews of Mrs. Camp. They were Jeff Phippen, Irvin Phippen, Roy Phippen, all of Cisco, Britt Phippen of Moran, Ora Phippen of Fort Worth and Wright Neal of Temple. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery under the direction of Thomas Funeral Home.

Mrs. Dora E. Kennedy has returned to her home in Abilene after a visit in the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Bosworth.

TICKETS GO ON SALE FOR CJC CHOIR'S ANNUAL SPRING SHOW

Tickets went on sale in downtown Cisco today for the annual spring concert of the Cisco Junior Choir, scheduled for Friday night at the college auditorium. The tickets were on sale at Dean's Drug Store.

Director Robert Clinton's 35-member choir, including the Madrigal singers and the Beauty Shop Quartet, has just completed a 1,500 mile tour that began on March 7. During the trip, they made 14 program appearances for large and appreciative audiences.

The Madrigal group and the quartet left Sunday afternoon for Shamrock to sing for some 15,000 persons Monday at the annual St. Patrick's Day celebration. The Irish Day festival is an annual promotion in that Panhandle town, and the local college group was invited to sing at the event this year.

The A Cappella Choir will present a varied program for the spring concert here. The program will include various soloists, the Madrigal group and the quartet.

Director Clinton reported that if the demand for tickets is sufficient, the choir will give a repeat performance on Saturday night. A large crowd is expected Friday night.

Plans For Community Clinic Are Completed At Meeting

FOR A WORTHY CAUSE—Pfc. Frederick Smith, Bronx, N. Y., is getting a kick out of having Lt. James Devlin, Elizabeth, N. J., shine his shoes in Bamberg, Germany. It cost Smith $2.50 for the pleasure which was part of the 26th Infantry Regiment's campaign for the March of Dimes in which more than $21,000 was raised. Officers shined shoes and the brass served breakfast in bed to GIs for the fighting against polio.

Committees Will Study City Needs

Plans for the Community Clinic which will be held here during the week of March 24-28 under the auspices of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce, were worked out Monday afternoon at a meeting of the board of directors at the Chamber of Commerce.

Beginning Monday, March 24, the Chamber of Commerce's standing committees will begin a series of public meetings designed to study the city's needs and opportunities. The results of these meetings will be turned over to the work program committee at the conclusion of the week's program. The 1952 work program will be made up from suggestions of the various committees.

Climax of the week will be the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce to be held on Friday night, March 28, with Fred H. Husbands, executive vice-president and general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce as the principal speaker. Members of Husbands' staff will assist with conducting the clinic.

The schedule of committee meetings was announced as follows:

Monday, March 24 — highway committee at First National Bank, 10 a. m.; oil committee, at Chamber of Commerce, 2 p. m.; industrial committee, First National Bank, 2 p. m.; and, education committee, First National Bank, 4 p. m.

Tuesday, March 25 — water committee, First National Bank, 10 a. m.; agriculture committee, First National Bank, 2 p. m.; and, military affairs committee, Chamber of Commerce, 4 p. m.

Wednesday, March 26 — retail trade development committee, First National Bank, 2 p. m.

Thursday, March 27 — Community Chest committee, Chamber of Commerce, 10 a. m.; recreation committee, First National Bank, 10 a. m.; program of work committee, Chamber of Commerce, 2 p. m.

President E. L. Jackson has written letters to some 300 Cisco business men and citizens inviting their attention to the clinic program and asking them to attend any of the meetings during the week. The general public, he pointed out, is welcome at any or all of the meetings, regardless of whether or not they receive invitations, Mr. Jackson said.

Pre-clinic activities will begin Wednesday when President O. L. Stamey of Cisco Junior College speaks at the Lions Club meeting on the program. Members of the club will be invited to fill out clinic cards to offer work program suggestions.

Mr. Jackson will speak at the Rotary Club's luncheon next week. Rotarians also will be asked to fill out suggestion cards.

Essay and poster contests will be conducted in the city school and Cisco Junior College for loving cup awards. Supt. Arlin Birt explained the proposition to high school students, and the various principals explained it to the other schools today. Manager B. A. Butler discussed the contest at the college's general assembly. Winning essays will be published in The Press.

Tickets will go on sale this week for the annual dinner. Dinner plans will be completed at a committee meeting late today.

"The Chamber of Commerce is not just the men who serve on its board of directors," Mr. Jackson said. "The Chamber of Commerce's business is everybody's business, and we want the clinic program to emphasize this fact."

"We hope through the clinic to sell all Cisco on the idea of using the facilities of the Chamber of Commerce to make our city a better place in which to live."

AMERICANISM TALK GIVEN BY JACK COX AT LEGION DINNER

An Americanism talk on the subject, "This Is Our Problem," was delivered by State Rep. Jack Cox of Breckenridge as the program feature Monday night at the birthday party of the American Legion at the Legion Hall. Some 80 members of the Legion Post and the Auxiliary Unit attended the event.

Mr. Cox, who is the Legion's 17th district Americanism chairman, pointed out that neither socialism nor communism are new in the world. He noted that 600 million people are ruled by communistic countries and pointed out that no nation adopting socialism or communism has ever remained strong.

5 P. M. Shadows Heard Coming Of Annual Ranch Day

The abundance of five o'clock shadows among the local college boys is due, not to an immediate shortage of razor blades, but to preparation for the annual Ranch Day festival to be held at the College on May 2. The heard contest officially began Monday at Cisco Junior College when all participants in the contest were required to be clean shaven. The contest lasts until Ranch Day.

During that period the contestants are forbidden to shave. "Even boys who are not participating in the contest had better not come to Ranch Day with a clean shave," says Joe Ed Schaefer, Ranch Day foreman.

Ranch Day is a homecoming and all-round festival held at Cisco Junior College every year. The Ranch Day activities take place for one whole day during which all regular school is canceled. All students at the school are required to wear western outfits during the day. Those who do not will be put into "jail" and fined heavily.

Plans are now under way for a parade and a rodeo to be held Ranch Day. The Cisco Round-Up Club has given the school permission to use the Club's rodeo arena and a good rodeo performance is expected. All Ranch Day committees are working hard to make this Ranch Day the best in Cisco Junior College history.

England's growing socialistic form of government since 1945 was cited by Mr. Cox as evidence of weakness in the form of government. He said that England now is importing coal for the first time in history and that new construction is lagging sadly. This form of government is encouraging people not to work, he charged. He predicted that England would remain socialistic under the new Churchill regime "because they have destroyed their people big enough to return the country to the system of private enterprise."

Trends toward socialism in the United States were pointed out. Mr. Cox saw the proposal of federal aid to education as a movement toward socialism. He charged that the U. S. Public Housing program was further evidence of the trend.

"There are more Alger Hisses in this country than we know anything about," he said.

The American way of life was founded on the fundamental belief in God, Mr. Cox said. He pointed to the Bill of Rights and to the economic freedoms enjoyed by Americans, noting that "our constitutional framework insures freedom."

Mr. Cox offered statistics to support the American way, noting that "we have six per cent of the world's land and seven per cent of the people, and we have 85 per cent of all automobiles, 34 per cent of the meat, 54 per cent of the hospital beds, 92 per cent of all bath tubs, 52 per cent of high school and college graduates, and 45 per cent of the world's total wealth."

Freedom is the answer for the American success story, Mr. Cox said. "Let's keep our country free!"

Mrs. Truly Carter, Auxiliary unit president, presided over the banquet meeting. The program followed the serving of dinner. Entertainment including the singing of St. Patrick's Day songs by Stanley Webb, accompanied by Mrs. Webb. Mrs. Fleming Waters was program chairman, and Mrs. Waters introduced the speaker, District Commander E. L. Jackson was introduced for a brief talk.

Twelve past-presidents of the Auxiliary were presented with pins, including Mesdames Charles Roberts, H. H. Tableman, Leon McPherson, H. R. Garrett, H. A. Bible, Crigler Paschall, Gorum Pollard, Paul Poe, James Haney and B. E. Wagley.

Industrial Week.
Local industrial organizations and Chamber of Commerce are joining together to coordinate their efforts in making plans for their area's observance of Texas Industrial Week, set aside by proclamation of Governor Allan Shivers to be April 1-7. School superintendents are being notified in a letter sent out from the Texas Education Agency by Dr. J. W. Edgar, education commissioner, that the services of these local organizations, including local TMA chapters, are available to help plan special activities for the week.

TMA members are being briefed on their part in the plan by Ed C. Burris, executive vice president of the Texas Manufacturers Association, in letters sent out from the Houston office.

Apart from being an observance of the truly giant strides industry has made in Texas in the last year, school activities of the type planned will also promote a better and much-needed understanding of educational procedures on the part of industrialists, as they work together in these activities.

3—If there is any clay in your garden soil, make a special porous mixture to cover seeds, using one-third peat moss, one-third sand, and one-third sifted garden soil.

The danger of floods washing out plants from the row may be avoided by surrounding the garden area with a wood curb, if necessary, to keep surface water out, or by elevating the garden several inches above the surrounding surface. This danger is more likely to exist on gardens having a pronounced slope, where it helps to make the rows run at right angles to the slope, using a wheel hoe to make each row level, in a terraced effect, which will check erosion.

Soil must be firmed above the seeds, to form close contact. This is especially important with beet and Swiss chard seeds, and others of large and irregular shape. But firming does not mean pounding. Press down with the hoe blade, or use the side of a rake; and afterwards draw the rake lightly over the row to break up the crust and prevent baking.

Until the seed has sprouted the soil surface over it should be moist and loose. This is the only time when the garden should be sprinkled, rather than soaked.

Protect Your Seeds from the Hazards of Plant Life

Mix Peat, Sand and Top Soil to Cover Seeds.

The early days of an infant plant are beset with danger. When seeds are sown even in well prepared garden soil, the tiny plants which develop from them are in peril of being washed away by floods, drowned where they lie, or imprisoned in a grave because a hard crust of baked soil has formed above them.

Should a long period of cold, damp weather delay their germination, they may be attacked and destroyed by various moulds and fungi which cold, damp weather always encourages.

The amateur who wants a perfect stand of plant in his garden row should consider these dangers and protect his seeds from them by taking the following precautions:

1—Protect early sown seeds by coating them with a disinfectant in dust form which will keep off moulds and fungi. In one seed packet, use as much disinfectant as you can lift on the end of a toothpick.

2—Be sure your garden soil is well drained so that surface water does not stand on it more than an hour or two after a heavy rain.

3—If there is any clay in your garden soil, make a special porous mixture to cover seeds, using one-third peat moss, one-third sand, and one-third sifted garden soil.

The danger of floods washing out plants from the row may be avoided by surrounding the garden area with a wood curb, if necessary, to keep surface water out, or by elevating the garden several inches above the surrounding surface. This danger is more likely to exist on gardens having a pronounced slope, where it helps to make the rows run at right angles to the slope, using a wheel hoe to make each row level, in a terraced effect, which will check erosion.

Soil must be firmed above the seeds, to form close contact. This is especially important with beet and Swiss chard seeds, and others of large and irregular shape. But firming does not mean pounding. Press down with the hoe blade, or use the side of a rake; and afterwards draw the rake lightly over the row to break up the crust and prevent baking.

Until the seed has sprouted the soil surface over it should be moist and loose. This is the only time when the garden should be sprinkled, rather than soaked.

2—Protect early sown seeds by coating them with a disinfectant in dust form which will keep off moulds and fungi. In one seed packet, use as much disinfectant as you can lift on the end of a toothpick.

3—If there is any clay in your garden soil, make a special porous mixture to cover seeds, using one-third peat moss, one-third sand, and one-third sifted garden soil.

AROUND THE ANIMAL KINGDOM

SOCIAL NOTES—The three-month-old jaguar cubs, top left, born in Cleveland of jungle-bred parents, now live in a zoo in Milwaukee where they are much admired. The elephant, right, is a star of a German circus on tour in Italy. While in Rome, he's not doing what the Romans do, but they must have enjoyed what he did. Not exactly of the "animal" world, the Humboldt penguins, lower left, huddled together at the Philadelphia Zoo after arriving from South America, as circus camels, right, were doing their stuff on Chicago's Michigan Boulevard.

THE ONCE-OVER—Robert and Marshall Colorow, father and son members of the Ute tribe in Utah, went by horseback to inspect the site of an oil well drilled on their reservation. The new field is being developed in the Uinta Basin and the Utes will derive some of the profits.

ON THE FUN SIDE—During a Shrine circus performance for the crippled children at Shriner's hospital in Chicago, Chester (Bo Bo) Barnett, a clown, seems as interested in the antics of Sammy, the chimp, as are the youngsters. That monkey got a banana and hastily demonstrated a thorough knowledge of what to do with it before gulping it daintily, in the usual monkey manner.

Tidelands Issue Seen As Move To Nationalization

The tidelands oil issue was seen today as one raised and promoted by "Federal empire-builders" to expand their bureaucracy and to move another step in the direction of nationalization of the country's natural resources. This conclusion was contained in an analysis of the controversial tidelands legislation prepared for the Council of State Chambers of Commerce of which the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is a member.

The study declared that "something more than Federal preemption of a new and potentially rich State revenue source motivates the Federal bureaucracy." It pointed out that Federal ownership of the submerged lands would mean the creation of additional Federal bureaus, the obtaining of new personnel and the hiring of an army of lawyers to handle the litigation that would ensue. The analysis continued, "For nearly two decades this Nation has seen the Federal bureaucacy succeed in one attempt after another to drain off, in large chunks, the taxing of other political powers of the States, and put these powers to its own use.

"The current attempt to wrest control of the submerged lands from the States is unmatched by anything yet in its enormity and in its tricky resort to all the gadgets of governmental procedure in order to attain its ends."

The study found that "the Federal bureaucracy and its journalistic janissaries have waged a vigorous campaign of propaganda against legislation restoring title in submerged lands to the states" ever since the Supreme Court's decision in the California, Texas, and Louisiana cases.

It added, "This propaganda campaign has been marked by constant reiteration of distorted facts, misrepresented and unfounded charges against the legislation and those supporting it."

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new FirePower V-8 engine, and America's first passenger car full-time power steering. Both new ideas "took hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new engines" and "power steering" . . . but with some basic differences worth keeping in mind if you're buying a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in performance, construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are basic differences. Chrysler uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to do two things. First, it does 4/5 the steering work as you turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the amount of wheel turn needed by over 1/3.

Parking or cruising, you get more and easier control than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, the hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you.

You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?
