The Gay Philosopher By J. W. S.

ALONG ABOUT THIS time very year Mr. R. W. (Bob) Mansits down at his typewriter nd recalls again the dreadful cye that virtually wiped Cisco the map on April 28, 1893. was 59 years ago this Sunlav night. Here's what Mr. Bob rote in a note to us Saturday:

There are approximately 75 onle living in Cisco today who remember the cyclone. Hard ds here in March were mere is compared with the big blow night. I recall that while terrible storm was passing rough this town, it was the arkest night I ever saw, but by time it got to Lem Switch. was the most beautiful night ever saw. And I have lived in co 70 years.

The storm came from the It damaged or destroyed ost every house in town, maktwo story buildings into one y buildings. But one story all we needed in those days the storm hit 48 hours earlier re would have possible been 000 people killed, as the Cisco ver Cornet Band gave a free cert in the opera house. There re about 23 people killed that ht and several wounded, some whom died later. Several people have asked me ich building were the Hickman hildren in when they were lled. The five Hickman chilen were killed in the stone ilding at 417 Avenue D. ### Plans Are Made To Open Baseball Season May 3rd Final plans for opening the 1952 baseball season were worked out Thursday night at a meeting of the John William Butts Post of the American Legion. The season opens on Saturday night, May 3, at ABC Field with the Legion Junior team playing the Cisco All-Stars.

Coach D. N. Morrison of the Junior team reported that his team was in good shape and holding daily workouts. Repairs to the playing grounds were nearing completion. Additional lights were installed Saturday, and work on the fence continued.

Tickets for the game were on sale. Adults will pay $1. The money will go to buy the junior team's new uniforms.

The Post voted to place a float in next Friday's Ranch Day parade and W. P. Knight was named chairman for the float

Ten New Workers To Be Employed

Installation of considerable new nachinery to equip the local plant to cut leather parts for combination glove manufacturing will begin early this week at the Boss Manufacturing Company here, according to an announce-ment Saturday by Manager An-

By expanding its Cisco activities, the Boss company will add some 10 men employees for the new leather cutting department. Mr. White added that applications now are being accepted for leather cutting machine operators.

The Cisco plant manufactures only flannel gloves and has always had a large flannel cutting department, which cuts for both the Cisco and Breckenridge plants. Combination gloves are now being made at Breckenridge, and the leather cutting for that plant will be done here along with the flannel cutting.

The equipment arrived Saturday, including eight leather cutting machines and a leather staker machine for stretching leather. Workmen were expected to arrive early this week to install the new machinery, and Mr. White hoped to have it in operation early in working a 40-hour week with some 125 employees. Mr. White indicated that additional sewing machine operators would be employed soon and he now is taking applications from women interested in working for the company.
