The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

ATTENDING BOTH the precinct and county Democratic conventions in recent days, we got our first look at politics at the grass root level. Fifty-five people attended the Cisco precinct meeting last Saturday, and nearly 200 attended the county meeting in Eastland yesterday. Old timers tell us these were very big crowds, comparatively speaking. Both conventions voted not to sign the party pledge and to send uncommitted delegates to the state convention. A half dozen or so people at each convention were on the other side of the issue. This makes our county's politics a lot more harmonious than in many places.

OVER AT THE Eastland meeting, we ran into Judge L. R. Pearson of Ranger, the state representative. He reported that he has been informed that friends filed his name for re-election to the state legislature.

The legislative district next year is larger. It is composed of Eastland, Calahan and Shackelford Counties. Other candidates for the job, we're told, include Mr. Omar Burkett of near Cisco, J. M. Dawson of Ranger and John Wood of Albany.

THE 1910 MODEL Buick you saw in the CJC Ranch Day parade the other day belongs to Judge Pearson. It came to Cisco for the parade under its own power and went home again. You have to put white gas in it, and you light the headlights with a match. It has been in the Judge's family for many years.

Recently, Judge Pearson wrote the Buick company to inquire about the old car's worth. They wrote back that if he would drive it to their Flint, Michigan, factory, they would give him "a very good trade-in" on a new car. But the judge is a little reluctant about starting off to Michigan in a 42-year old car. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Childers of here drove the old car in the parade.

FRIENDS WERE inquiring of Mr. Anton White, boss man at Boss Manufacturing Company, how his interest in an oil well out near his house was paying off. He reported that he hasn't yet received the first check.

And another of Mr. White's friends closed out the discussion by reporting as follows: "Tony isn't very anxious about it. He only goes to the post office six times a day."

THE REV. LESLIE Seymour, superintendent of Cisco district Methodist Churches, was one of many people who volunteered to donate blood at the recent clinic here. After giving the blood, the nurse was giving him the regular instructions like "you shouldn't smoke for five hours, and you shouldn't use alcoholic beverages for at least 24 hours."

A man waiting in line volunteered the information, "Nurse, it's a minister."

"Doesn't make any difference," he nurse said, "he still shouldn't smoke for five hours or use alcohol for 24 hours."

READING WANTADS in The Press, we noticed that the First Baptists have some brick left over from their new nursery building. So we went down to see about buying some of them. There's a little brick-layer and carpenter in all of us, and we wanted to build a new garage with our own hands.

We were told that you buy the brick and no instructions whatever about how to erect a building go with them. The brick are going at bargain prices. The church's new building is finished except for some finishing touches here and there.

MR. ZAN BURROUGHS, the peanut man, is out again after undergoing a recent operation. His doctor apologized the other day for not hurting him more. Zan had had virtually no pain from beginning to end. The doctor explained that a little pain should go with any major operation. Zan got a big laugh out of it.

SOMEBODY FOUND the belt to a ladies coat or dress. It's a handsome belt, and the loser can claim same at The Press Office.

BAD LUCK DOGGED HIM—Because he tried to avoid a reckless auto driver approaching on the wrong side of the road, Israel Scherbenske crashed his trailer into a railroad bridge in Minneapolis, causing huge beams and timbers to topple down. The trailer was crushed as timbers ripped the front and hood of the cab without entering it, and Scherbenske was lucky to be alive.

Judge Expected To Rule In Rate Case This Week

Judge George L. Davenport of the 91st District Court, Eastland County, is expected to render a decision this week in the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's application for a temporary injunction to enable the firm to raise telephone rates in the City of Ranger.

The jurist last week wrote a letter to attorneys for both the telephone company and the City of Ranger in which he indicated that his ultimate decision would deny the injunction for the reason that Ranger has granted the company a rate increase since the suit was filed.

The telephone company filed the suit on March 20. On April 8, the Ranger commission granted the telephone company an increase in rates that brought the rate's in line with those charged by the company in Cisco and Eastland.

GIRL SCOUT BOARD PLANS TO HOLD DAY CAMP AT LAKE CISCO

The local Girl Scout Association Board met at the First Christian Church Wednesday morning to discuss plans for the proposed day camp program which is scheduled for the last four days of May.

The board decided to present the plan to the leaders, assistant leaders, committee members and mothers of scouts for their handling and stressed the fact that the success of the camp would depend upon that group.

Plans call for holding the camp at Lake Cisco Park Wednesday through Saturday, May 23-31. The camp will be held between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 3 p. m. with a planned program taking up the hours. The board stressed the necessity of having a sufficient list of workers to act as supervisors for the camp. Each troop will plan its own activities for the camp and the work will be carried out under the supervision of the workers.

Lake Cisco was decided upon as the site of the camp in order to meet the requirements of the area office as to water and sanitation facilities. Miss Nell Lyle, area director, will be in Cisco May 21 to meet with everyone interested in the camp and to issue instructions and information on the proper way to conduct the affair. All scout workers were urged to make arrangements to attend the meeting with Miss Lyle.

In other business the board decided that troops should not meet during the summer months and voted to pass the information to the leaders.

Attending the Wednesday meeting were Mrs. Don Choate, Mrs. John Christopher, Mrs. E. T. Spence, Mrs. Delmar Johnston, Mrs. J. W. Sitton, Elsworth Mayer, R. L. Justice and Mrs. J. H. Latson, Jr.

DEMOCRATS NAME DELEGATES IN COUNTY CONVENTION TUESDAY

Eastland County Democrats State convention delegates elected state convention delegates were Miss Helen Crawford of Cisco, Dave Pickrell of Ranger, W. B. Pickens of Eastland, and Frank S. Perry and Keith Whitt of Gorman.

Five alternate delegates were named as follows: W. J. Armstrong of Cisco, Pat Thomas of Ranger, Elzo Been of Long Branch and Jack Frost and Oscar Lyerla of Eastland.

The convention voted 47 to 10 to send the delegates "uninstructed." Voting against the resolution were the two Rising Star precincts, the Sabanno precinct and three members of the delegation asked for a poll of his delegates, and the count was three for and three against.

The Eastland delegation offered a resolution opposing federal ownership of tidelands, socialized medicine, federal aid to education, the Fair Employment Practices Act, and the "unconstitutional seizure of property."

The resolution had several speakers for and against it. Mrs. J. F. Robertson of Rising Star termed it the Republican platform. Chairman Frost supported it in a talk. The resolution carried with only one negative vote. Mrs. Robertson offered a resolution asking delegates to pledge their support of party nominees. The convention voted against the proposal by a large majority.

CANCER FIGHT GAINS

AUSTIN — In the past five years greater strides have been made in the control and cure of cancer than had been made in the previous half-century.

Surgery and radiation remain the only actual cures for the malignancy that is mankind's second most vicious killer, but exciting new discoveries in many fields now give rosy promise of eventual mastery of cancer.

There are chemicals that check and inhibit the growth of the malignant cell.

In the past five years, the use of sex hormones in cancer treatment has become significant. They haven't cured, it is true, but pain has been relieved and the victims have been returned to months or even years of useful living.

There are viruses now, we know that attack cancer cells just as savagely as cancer attacks us and scientists are striving to control these viruses so that they will kill nothing but cancer cells.

In the past five years the whole field of drastic surgery has been greatly widened. New techniques, new instruments, new drugs have made this possible. So has new knowledge of the functions of the organs of the body.

Hundreds of women with breast to enter the body by gravity now can be administered under pressure in seconds.

Spurred on by atomic discoveries, the advances in the field of radiation seem even more dramatic than those in surgery. So important are radioactive isotopes in cancer research that 25 per cent of the researchers receiving grants from the American Cancer Society are using these new tools.

Results have been spectacular but spotty. Some cancers respond to them but little. On the other hand there are dramatic cases like that reported by Dr. Leon O. Jacobson of the University of Chicago: A young World War veteran developed cancer of the thyroid that had spread to other parts of the body. Extension to the brain had rendered his case hopeless but as a last resort radioiodine was administered repeatedly. His tumors were destroyed. He recovered completely, got married, is holding down a good job.

The brain surgeon's grim job has been eased these last five years by new instruments and chemical dyes that locate the tumor and show him where to break into the brain box with the least injury to the contents.

Stomach cancer is one of the big killers. Surgeons are now removing entire stomach and replacing them with a section of the patient's own large intestine. It once meant death when cancer involved a blood vessel. Now our surgeons are cutting away inches of these diseased arteries and veins and replacing them with healthy sections fresh from the body of someone recently deceased.

These are only a few of the more spectacular advances made in surgery in the past few years. The surgeon's skill has been greatly helped and enhanced by the discovery of new and better anesthetics, by drugs that reduce blood pressure during surgery, by drugs that prevent uncontrollable hemorrhage. Valuable new methods of feeding have helped greatly by making it possible for the patient to be as strong as possible for the operation. Blood that took long minutes

IT'S NOT HIS NATURE—Buster, a year-old male deer, is being coaxed with an improvised leash by Sharon Donoho, eight, and her six-year-old brother, Dan, to go back into the woods and wild life. After being treated for leg lacerations inflicted by a pack of dogs in Leaburg, Ore., the animal took a liking to human beings and was reluctant to resume his former wild life. In Leaburg, he caused trouble by blocking traffic when roaming the streets, so Buster was politely invited to go back home.
