The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

KILGORE. — We never come to this oil city that we don't think of Uncle Johnny, a fine old gentleman we knew when we edited the paper here before the war. Uncle Johnny is dead now, but he has left behind him many monuments. People will long remember him.

Uncle Johnny was a good, solid hard-working citizen before oil was discovered in East Texas in the early thirties. His family farm became a forest of oil derricks and he became wealthy. In his late years, Uncle Johnny used part of his wealth to help make his city beautiful. He hired a crew of men — mostly fellows too old or unable to find employment elsewhere — and went to work. He developed a city park, building barbecue pits, a band stand, and numerous walks, tables and the like.

Frequently, he worked in other areas of the town — always at his own expense on projects for the municipal good.

We've always thought his example would be an ideal way for a man to help his community. He did it because he loved beautiful things and loved to work. He was truly a useful citizen, and when he died you should have seen the crowd at his funeral. Poor people and rich people stood and sat together to pay tribute to a man who never asked for a tribute. He just loved to work.

Kilgore has some 700 oil wells within its city limits. As you can imagine, progress is substantial. The bonded debt situation is slight. Most of the residential streets are paved with concrete. The schools are new and paid for.

When oil brought thousands of people to East Texas in the early thirties, Kilgore was a village of 300. Today it's around 10,000. And, of course, they had to build everything a city needs from scratch. That's the reason most all buildings in town are new. They've moved brick buildings from the business district to make way for oil wells. Several churches here own oil wells on their properties. This is certainly a city that oil has built.

There are something like 22,000 oil wells in the East Texas Field. They're still flowing, mostly, after 20 years. The wells average about 3,500 feet deep and are producing from the Woodbine sand. Wells are drilled here in less than a week, as there's no rock to go through. The field makes so much oil that it's only permitted to produce 20 to 21 days a month. The daily per well allowable is 20 barrels. The wells have a potential of up to 10,000 barrels per day each.

Based on potential figures, the East Texas oil field is capable of producing enough oil (by running each well wide open in an hour to supply the world for three days.

Wise proration practices has contributed much to the life of the big reservoir. Folks tell us that it will produce for another 20 years. There has never been any deep tests in the field — wells drilled below the producing horizon of about 3,500 feet.

Near Kilgore and outside of the pool area are numerous deep gas and distillate wells. Long-view, on the south end of the field, has progressed more than any other city in East Texas. Its population is now over 25,000. It was less than 5,000 when oil was discovered.

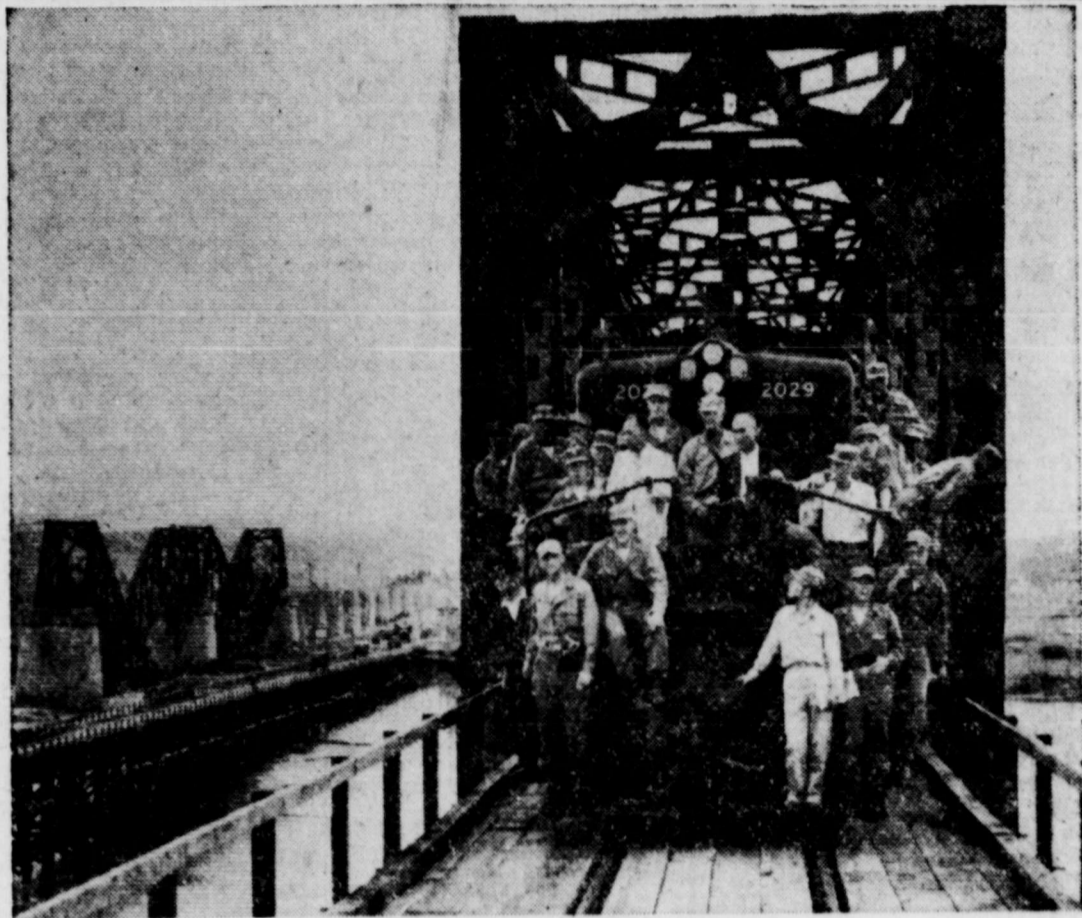

IF OUR PLANS don't change, by Sunday we'll be fishing in the Arkansas Ozark country. This was written Friday, and we planned to depart during the day for Texarkana to join a party of Ozark fishermen. We're not expecting to catch any fish, as there's always more fishermen than fish in any place we've ever been.

Will report from the Arkansas country.

FELLOWSHIP MEETING

There will be a fellowship meeting beginning at 11 a. m. Tuesday at the Gospel Mission, 900 Avenue A, it was announced Saturday. The fellowship program will continue through Tuesday night. The public has been invited to attend.

BRIDGE TO FREEDOM—American and Korean engineers crowd the front end of a railroad engine making the first crossing of a new bridge in Korea. The bridge replaces one destroyed by bombs (at left) and will be used, among other things, to bring United Nations personnel back to freedom when they are released from Red prisoner-of-war camps in North Korea.

U. of T. Scientists Discover Bones Of Big Buffalo

University of Texas geologists have discovered near Lubbock the bones of a herd of giant prehistoric buffaloes.

The great beasts, some weighing as much as two tons, were nearly twice as large as the familiar buffaloes which later roamed Texas plains until they were almost wiped out by settlers and Indians, Glen L. Evans, Texas Memorial Museum associate director in charge of the project, announced.

Evans estimated that the giant-buffalo herd existed in the later part of the Ice Ages — about 10,000 years ago. Also found in the excavation, a lake deposit two miles northwest of Lubbock, were bones of prehistoric elephants and huge ground sloths; and spear heads, arrow points, and other tools of humans thought to be among the first ever to inhabit the Southwest.

The University scientists said they hope to use the discoveries in reconstructing what happened in Texas during prehistoric times and in double checking information already obtained. Ahead of the geologists are many months of work, hardening, gluing together and otherwise preserving the many bones and artifacts and identifying and cataloging them. Eventually the researchers hope to put together a giant buffalo skeleton and display it in the Museum.

"Our so-called modern buffaloes probably are descendants of the newly-discovered giants," Evans commented. "Evidence indicates buffaloes existed in Texas and the Southwest as far back as we have recorded. However, we will have to do much investigating before we can draw more definite conclusions."

One Mysterious factor in the research: no human bones were found, just weapons and tools. The scientists are unable to explain why yet.

Hobby Club Plans Fair To Display Work Done By Members In Classes

Board of Directors of the Cisco Hobby Club met Friday at 7 p. m. at the Community Service Room, First National Bank. The meeting was held for the purpose of making plans for the work of the Club the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Don Choate, president, was in charge of the meeting. The directors decided to hold a Hobby Fair Saturday, August 30th, at a downtown location to be announced later. The fair will be open to all surrounding areas and towns. Anyone with a hobby or talent may show his work and may offer their products for sale if desired.

First Christians Make Plans For Aged And Lame

Officials of the First Christian Church have announced that arrangements had been made to make it more convenient for the aged members, and others who were unable to climb the steps to the main auditorium of the building, to attend services.

A loud speaker system has been installed in one of the basement rooms of the building and comfortable seating has been installed for those who have been unable to attend the services in the auditorium because of the steps. Those desiring to use the room may hear the sermon, join in the singing and participate in communion services. Hymn books will be in the room and the communion set will be passed to those in the room at the regular time.

The speaking system was donated and the arrangements made by Mrs. Edward Lee and Mrs. A. M. Worley, members of the church.

The Rev. Sidney Spain will conduct both the morning and evening services Sunday.

The work which has been done by the members of the Hobby Club will also be on display. Those interested in entertaining the fair may contact Mrs. Leo Clinton, Mrs. Ethel Huey, Mrs. James Flournoy, or Mrs. Roy Foville, Sr. This is the first project of its kind to be presented by the Hobby Club and it is planned by the directors to make it an annual affair.

Starting on Wednesday, August 6th at 8 p. m. there will be a class in advanced work open to sophomore, junior, senior, and college girls. Those who are interested in this class were asked to be at the regular meeting place of the Hobby Club on Wednesday. There will be materials to start working with at this time. The following will be offered: American Dresden figurine painting, Metal Foil retoussé, Sheet metal work for trays, Glorified glass painting, and leather and glass etching.

Welfare Association Needs Childrens Shoes

Officials of the Cisco Welfare Association Saturday thanked the people of Cisco for their generous response to the calls for clothing to take care of needy persons for the Fall and Winter months.

They reported that a large quantity of adult clothing had been donated but that they were still in need of children's clothing for school age children. A particular need for shoes for school age was expressed. Those having children's clothing that they can not use were asked to consider the need of the department.

W. S. C. S. TO MEET

The W. S. C. S. of the First Methodist Church will meet Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock for their regular business meeting. All officers and members are urged to attend.

CISCO SCHOOLS TO OPEN FOR THE 1952-53 TERM ON SEPTEMBER 8

Superintendent Arlin Bint of the Cisco schools announced Saturday that plans had been completed for the official opening of the Cisco schools on Monday, September 8.

Workmen have been busy during the summer months redecrating and making needed repairs. The schools will be in better condition for the 1952-53 year than they have in the past several terms, it was reported.

The new junior high school building will be put in use for the first time on September 8 and all other plants of the system have been put in excellent condition.

In addition to the work on the buildings, the grounds have been improved and the general outside appearance of the plants has been improved.

The football field has come in for its part of the improvement program and by the time of the first football game of the season on September 12 the playing field will be covered with a heavy sod. In addition to the work on the playing field actual construction on the new ticket offices and rest rooms has begun. The new building will be ready for the opening game.

President O. L. Stamey of Cisco Junior College also announced that the Fall term of the college would begin on September 8.

Houston Man Is Made Director Of Church Conference

W. H. (Bill) Tipton, well-known Southwestern advertising executive and Presbyterian layman, has been named associate director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Hastings Harrison, vice president and Southwestern director, announced today.

Tipton for the past 13 years has been associated with Wilkinson-Schwartz & Tipton, Inc., Houston advertising agency, and for a number of years has been a junior partner in the firm. His duties have included the editorship of Acco Press, farm magazine of Anderson, Clayton & Co., and for the past three years he has lived in Abilene where he has originated a daily regional network farm and ranch news broadcast.

As associate director of the Southwestern division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Mr. Tipton will direct the work of the North Texas Region and will assist Mr. Harrison in all phases of the Conference program in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Tipton is a former president of the Houston Advertising Club and for several years was director of the Southwestern district of the Advertising Federation. In Houston where he was active in many civic programs, he at one time served for three and one-half years as part-time director of the Houston chapter of NCCJ. A native of Mississippi, Tipton received his college training at Park College, Missouri. He has lived in Texas since 1929.

Dr. and Mrs. Woods Return From Trip

Dr. and Mrs. Paul M. Woods returned last week from a vacation trip to Michigan.

While away Dr. Woods did post graduate work in Orthodontics at Kalamazoo. He reported a very interesting and beneficial two weeks of study.

At the end of the course he was joined by Mrs. Woods, and they went through northern Michigan to a summer resort of Lake Michigan where they spent the remainder of the time.

They report that the section was a most wonderful vacation spot. The temperature, they said, was cool at all times, the golf courses excellent and fishing good. They said that it was the ideal spot for any type relaxation.

Dr. Woods will be back in his dental office in the Hooker Building Monday.

In addition to the work on the playing field actual construction on the new ticket offices and rest rooms has begun. The new building will be ready for the opening game.

President O. L. Stamey of Cisco Junior College also announced that the Fall term of the college would begin on September 8.

The pitching of James Brogdon and the play of Bob Lloyd at short and Fred Hayes at first, was the outstanding feature of the game. The game was played on an even keel through the first four innings with the score at 2-2 going into the bottom half of the fifth. The Indians scored twice in that inning and were never in danger for the remainder of the game.

Saturday night the Indians were to play Dublin's Variety Store of Brownwood, a team they defeated 9-7 earlier.

The regular brotherhood meeting of the East Cisco Baptist Church will be held at the church Monday night, it was announced by the Rev. F. C. Bradley, pastor.

Frank Lee of Gorman, prominent area layman and deacon of the Midway Baptist Church, will be the speaker for the meeting. All men of the church were urged to attend and the public was invited. Light refreshments will be served following the meeting.

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will not be held Monday evening as previously scheduled.

Figures Reveal That July Weather Here Was Hot And Dry - As Usual

The usual July weather prevailed in July and now it can be officially marked off the books as hot and dry — as usual.

There were five days registered officially as being in the 100 or better degree category, and in addition there were 18 days when the mercury was in the 90s — mostly in the high 90s. The low for the month was a cool 77 on July 8, and the high was a warm 104 on the 30th.

There was a variation of rain figures for the town but the official gauge showed a total of only 1.11 inches falling. Parts of the city, however, showed near three inches.

As a matter of comparison, July 1951 was hotter than 1952. There were only four days of 100 degree or better readings in 1951, but the

Key Deer To Be Protected By Special Warden

America's tiniest breed of deer, which for several years has hovered on the brink of extinction, has been granted another year of grace.

If the diminutive deer of the Florida Keys could read the newspapers, they would thank thousands of individual citizens who seem determined that these interesting animals shall not pass from the scene. These were the citizens — sportsmen, members of women's clubs, boy scouts and others — who contributed last spring to a "Key deer fund" raised by the National Wildlife Federation.

Enough money was secured to pay the salary and expenses of a special game management agent for one year. It will be his job to protect the Key deer from poachers, forest fires, dogs, and other hazards.

A cooperative agreement between the Federation, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission went into effect July 1. The Federation agreed to put up $5,500 for the warden service. The Fish and Wildlife Service will supervise the work and cooperate with the State commission in a biological study of the deer and its habitat.

Beyond the coming year, the fate of the Key deer remains highly uncertain. Testifying before a Congressional Committee last June 24, wildlife experts agreed that wildlife protection alone cannot long save the species. Delicately fitted by nature for survival in the semi-tropical semi-aquatic habitat of the Keys, this unique animal cannot be saved unless a portion of its natural environment is preserved. Its environment has been shrinking before the pressures of civilization — fire across the islands, clearing for roads, and clearing for resort development.

A bill to set aside such a sanctuary has been before Congress. It almost passed the 81st Congress — sailed right through until former Senator Forrest Donnell of Missouri used a technicality to stop it. Introduced in the 82nd Congress by Rep. Bill Lantaff of

Camp To Begin At Lake Thursday

Plans were completed last week for the holding of the annual West Texas Zone Walthers League Encampment at Lake Cisco on August 7-10. The camp is sponsored by the young people of the Lutheran Churches of West Texas with the Cisco Lutheran groups serving as hosts.

The Rev. M. L. Koehneke, counselor of Parish Education, of Austin will be the camp speaker and will use as his theme "Partnership With God." The Rev. James F. Hennig, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church here, will serve as pastor advisor of the camp.

The theme of the camp will be the "Hobo" and a hobo banquet will be held Saturday night. Following the banquet the campers will participate in a stunt night program.

Thursday night a religious movie entitled "Walking With God," will be shown and the public has been invited to attend.

The camp will consist of lectures, Bible study, devotionals, singing, hikes, athletics and many other activities.

Some 100 campers were expected to be on hand when the camp opens Thursday. Most Walthers Leagues in the West Texas Zone were to be represented at the encampment.

Ruth Lanham and Alvin Ziehr of Cisco are camp directors and Virginia Weiser and Elaine Ziehr are in charge of registration. Miss Elsie Todd of Abilene will be in charge of the banquet program Saturday night. The Rev. Virgil Meyer is camp athletic director and Kenneth Stegmoeller of Sagerton will serve as assistant athletic director. Ben Wende of Cisco is to serve as dean of men and Mrs. Paul Weiser will be dean of women.

The Eula FFA boys, in cooperation with the Phillips Chemical Company in Houston, are conducting a fertilizer experiment on the W. E. Millhorn farm near Eula.

Each year the Phillips Chemical Company sponsors the Phillip 66 Soil Improvement program in Texas with several FFA Chapters being chosen to participate. The company offers $66.66 to each chapter for the purpose of purchasing commercial fertilizer to be used in demonstration plots showing the benefits received from the use of commercial fertilizers on various crops.

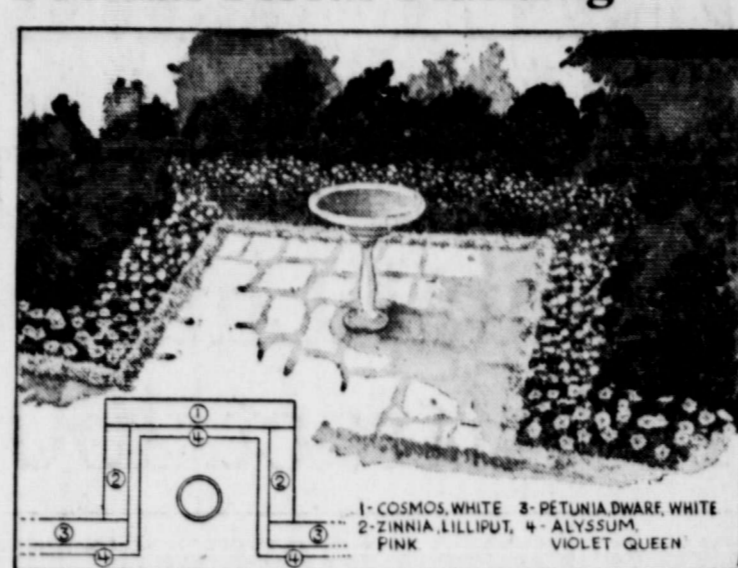

The Edwards-Cutbirth family reunion will be held August 3 at the Denton Valley Park. A basket lunch and a barbecue will be served. A large crowd is expected to be present.

A-3c Edward Dickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dickson, was home on emergency leave from July 18 through the 27th due to the illness of his mother. Airman Dickson is stationed at Barksdale Air Base, Shreveport, Louisiana and is in the Food Service. He entered the service May 3, and received his basic training in San Antonio.

Relatives of M. L. Huddleston met at the home of Mrs. Venora Williams Sunday to celebrate Mr. Huddleston's 60th birthday. Mr. Huddleston is of Cottonwood. Those attending the celebration were Mrs. Annie Huddleston, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Huddleston, and son, Cottonwood; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Thompson, Mrs. Ida Thompson, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Charming Garden Accent in Formal Floral Planting

This view would be welcome from any window.

A garden accent, or focal point, while a necessary factor in good design, need not be impressive, elaborate, or expensive. It should stand out in contrast with its background, yet be in harmony with its surroundings. Against a shrubby border, a formal paved area, centered with a bird bath, and edged with a border of annuals, will make a charming focal point, especially as the terminus of a view from a window, terrace or porch. It might be large enough for a few garden seats, shaded by a garden umbrella, which would allow the sunshine full access to the flowers. As in the case with all formal garden arrangements, the simpler the design, the better. The form and color of the flowers will then get full attention. There are many combinations of annual flowers which can be used in such a planting. White, pink and violet are suggested in the illustration. Cosmos sensation white, in the back row, will grow four to six feet tall, bearing its large pure white single flowers from July until killing frost in the fall. Dwarf white petunias bordering the sides of the paved area will grow in bushes 18 inches high, and they will bloom throughout the summer. Violet alyssum, planted as a ribbon of purple at the base of the white flowers, will remain in bloom long after the early frosts. For another attractive color planting use Cosmos yellow flare for the background, yellow Lilliput zinnias at the sides, and a yellow dwarf marigold in front. Alyssum Violet Queen would provide a violet base for the yellow flowers and all would flower freely until winter's arrival. By using annuals an all-summer decoration is assured, and each year the color combination can be changed if desired. For early spring effect tulips and daffodils could be planted, to be replaced by annuals after they have bloomed.

Rising Star News . . .

Jack McCarty, publisher of the Cross Plains Review and a former resident of Rising Star and co-owner of the Record, was reported as doing nicely in the Rising Star Hospital following an appendectomy Tuesday morning.

Plans have been completed for the annual reunion of the Callahan County Old Settlers Association to be held at the City Park in Cross Plains Friday, August 15, beginning at 9:30 a. m. according to an announcement by the president, Hugh H. McDermott.

The program for the day will include registration, group singing, invocation, silent tribute to deceased old settlers, welcome, response, address, introduction of guests, announcements, a report of the nominating committee and election of officers, contests, square dancing, and music.

Sgt. and Mrs. Weldon Jaynes and family of Seattle, Wash., are visiting in the home of his parents. Sgt. and Mrs. Jaynes have been living in Seattle since Sgt. Jaynes returned from Korea about a year and a half ago. He will leave about August 12th for Germany where he will be on a tour of duty with the engineers in Europe.

MRS. EDWIN E. ESTES

FRANCES HALSTEAD BECOMES BRIDE OF EDWIN ESTES IN FORT WORTH RITES

Mrs. Thelma Moore of Midland announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Frances Halstead of Ranger to Edwin E. Estes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Estes of Quanah, Texas.

The double ring ceremony was performed Wednesday evening,

July 30, in the study of Dr. Ray Watson of the University Baptist Church in Fort Worth with Dr. Watson officiating.

The bride was dressed in a street length dress of light blue frosted organdy, white lace hat, and carried a bouquet of gardenias atop a white Bible.

Miss Carolyn Crofts of Cisco was the bride's only attendant and wore a street length dress of pink organdy with a corsage of American beauty roses.

Gerald Cook of Fort Worth served the groom as best man. The bride is a June graduate of T. C. U. and a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, Epsilon Epsilon Chapter, music sorority, and Alpha Chi, national honor organization.

The groom is a June graduate of T. C. U. and a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, music fraternity, and Delta Mu Chapter. Both the bride and groom will teach music in the McKinney Public Schools in the Fall.

After a wedding trip to Galveston, the couple will be at home at 101 East Lamar, McKinney, Texas.

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Buford Latimer of Jacksboro, Miss Mary Neita Johnson of Fort Worth, and Miss Betty Dean Lennon of Cisco.

HEALTH TALKS

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

The transition from cave-dwelling to tree houses could easily have been brought about by some rugged individuals who associated the dampness of his cave with the aches in his joints and the cough in his chest. He figured that if he took to the high and dry retreat, the aches and the croup would be less severe.

It is quite likely that this early-student found some relief in his move. Exactly where the weather enters the picture of rheumatism, the broad class of aches and pains, or the picture of respiratory difficulties is not clearly defined, mainly because of the differences in individuals which make them respond differently to weather or to changes in weather.

Health resorts have grown up all over the world on the basis that changes in weather are often beneficial to sufferers from aches, allergies, respiratory troubles and many other ailments. And for brief periods these resorts do seem actually to work a benefit for the sufferer in the majority of cases. Resorts as a change to a placid climatic condition seem to provide a break in the persistence of disease symptoms, a lull that acts almost like a resorting of mental and physical health components, a real health resort.

Housing itself varies with the prevailing climatic conditions with different structures providing the best in shelter and ventilation. A cave in low-lying river bottoms and a tree house on a windswept plain would not be conducive to the best benefits the environment has to offer.

Fast Growing Vegetables Needed for Fall Harvest

When sowing in midsummer vegetables for fall and winter harvest—the best of the year—it is important to select varieties which will mature in time to escape being frozen.

Quickest maturing vegetable is the early radish which matures in 20 days; and slowest are winter onions which require 115 days.

Between these extremes are varieties which may take 40, 60 or 80 days to reach the size and quality which best fits them for table use.

Seed catalogues usually give the maturity date for each variety listed. From your local weather bureau you can ascertain the average date of the first killing frost in your vicinity. Compare these two, and you can easily avoid crops which have no chance to develop fully before winter.

There are two salad crops which are at their best in the fall—endive and Chinese cabbage. Chinese cabbage which matures in 90 days is difficult to grow in the summer, because it runs to seed, but in the short days of autumn, it makes beautiful, elongated heads of crisp leaves having a suggestion of cabbage flavor which are delicious cooked or raw.

Vegetable crops which should not be sown in June include peas, early radishes, lettuce and spinach. All these require cool weather, and you may sow very early kinds in August, so they will mature in the autumn.

Quick maturing crops include snap beans, beets, carrots, endive, lettuce, kohlrabi, turnips, spinach, peas and radishes. The later you sow, the "earlier" should be the variety you sow.

Several vegetables can be left in the garden late into the winter, or all winter long, and harvested as needed, to be thawed out and served.

Kale will provide the table with greens all winter long. Brussels sprouts stands freezing and thawing in the early winter, and frequently remains in good condition until Christmas. Parsnips which freezing makes sweeter, and salify, the vegetable oyster, can be dug up all winter, or dug in the fall, placed in paper bags, one serving to the bag, and stored in a box outdoors where they will freeze. A bag can be taken to the kitchen and thawed out when wanted.

Slow growing vegetables, which need only to be sown once in order to give an all season harvest, enjoy the cool days and more plentiful rainfall of autumn, as much as the early types.

Swiss chard should be kept young by cutting off all leaves more than 10 inches long, and encouraging new growth, which will be more tender. New Zealand spinach can be harvested until freezing weather. Peppers and egg plant produce abundantly in the fall, and the late maturing tomatoes and sweet corn combine top quality with the heaviest yield of the season.

Truly, the autumn harvest is the finest of the year!

Key Deer ---

Florida, it became hopelessly snarled in local controversy and local politics. Committee clearance was delayed until too late for action before Congress hastily adjourned for the presidential conventions.

Last year the Boone and Crockett Club of New York provided funds to keep a game management officer on the scene. The National Wildlife Federation, through its "Key deer fund," is carrying on the work with the same officer, Jack C. Watson, on the job. The Federation has said it considers this a "stop-gap" measure only, pending Congressional action to establish a refuge and provide permanent protection.

The Key deer is considered a sub-species of the Virginia white-tail. Some experts argue it is an entirely separate species, pointing to differences in antler structure as well as size. When full grown a Key deer buck may stand from 28 to 32 inches tall at the shoulder; a doe, from 24 to 38 inches high. They seldom weigh more than 35 to 40 pounds.

Only about fifty of the little animals remain alive, according to estimates by Watson and other wildlife technicians who have studied them.

HORNED DILEMMA

Bull-fighter Antonio Ordenez lets go of his cape as he flies through the air after being hooked by the horn of a charging bull in Bordeaux, France. The unexpected boost came when the bull refused to play docile during the "copida" event. Ordenez escaped serious injury, when others lured the animal away from him.

INDIANS AT "INDABA"—Pigtailed Rohini Kapadia (right), 18-year-old Girl Scout from Bombay, India, shares a laugh with the leader of the India delegation at the first world "Indaba" for Scout leaders in Gilwell Park, England. "Indaba" is a Zulu word meaning "a gathering of the leaders of a tribe" and is used in the sense of a "jamboree" by the Scouts.
