EASTLAND WINS FIRST PLAYOFF CONTEST FROM EULA, 20-10

A big sixth inning in which they ran in 12 runs gave the Eastland Yellow Jackets a 20-10 win Friday night over Eula to place them one up in the playoff for the championship of the Cisco invitation baseball tournament played at ABC Field last week.

The two teams were to meet again Saturday night for the second game of the series and the third game if needed.

After the sixth inning of the game Friday night there was never a doubt as to the outcome. Eula staged a rally in the final innings but were never able to come close to the Yellow Jackets.

Boyd, star Eula hurler was to start the Saturday night game and it was believed that Rodney Stephens would be on the mound for Eastland. Stephens pitched five innings of the Friday game.

Officials of the American Legion and the ABC Club expressed satisfaction in the manner in which the public had supported the tournament and at the general attendance and behavior. The crowds were good at all the games and the tournament was on a self sustaining basis.

OUR NORTHERN NEIGHBOR

Most of the August issue of Fortune magazine is devoted to a series of articles on a nation with which we Americans have the closest possible racial, economic and linguistic ties, but about which most of us know comparatively little. Even that little is marred by misconceptions and misunderstandings. The nation is Canada.

Physically, Canada is tremendous. Only Russia and China are larger in area. And she is enormously rich in natural resources—iron ore, oil, all manner of base metals, timber and endless water power. Only the surface of these resources has as yet been scratched.

Fortune offers three reasons why Canada, up to relatively recently, had developed slowly. First, there are her extremes of climate. Second, there is her isn't just a speculative boom—it represents real physical development on a scale that even the U. S., proportionately speaking, has not equaled. According to Fortune, during a period when Canada's population was increasing by 21 per cent, her foreign trade tripled, and her gross national output jumped by 90 per cent. Since the war, some $20,000,000,000 has been spent on industrial development.

The United States has a very important stake in all this. Americans have invested $7,500,000,000 in our neighbor to the north, more than in any other foreign country. And 350,000 Americans live and work in Canada—again, far more than in any land outside our borders.

One of the most interesting of Fortune's series of articles was written by Sam Welles, chief of Time's Ottawa bureau. Mr. Welles, whose article is called "So You Want to Do Business in Canada," starts out by quoting Bernard Baruch's remark, "If I were a young man today I would go to Canada." Then he goes into some of the things Americans who go north should keep in mind.

Number one mistake, he observes, is to think that Canada is "the U. S. with a northern exposure." Canadians have a strong national pride, and they have their own customs and beliefs and prejudices just as we have.

As one Canadian industrialist told Mr. Welles, "We want Americans to know we're independent."

Furthermore, Mr. Welles says, where American businessmen dislike their government, Canadian businessmen like theirs. Government officials are generally cooperative and helpful.

Canadians are more conservative than Americans in many ways—as an example, they don't go in for the high-powered salesmanship that characterizes U. S. business. They are more interested in stability and traditional ways of doing things.

Finally, Mr. Welles advises that visitors "keep calm about the dollar." Time was when some Americans refused Canadian currency and coins in change and demanded "real money." This sort of thing stirred up a great deal of bitterness and resentment. Of late, the Canadian dollar has been worth a trifle more than its American counterpart and the shoe is on the other foot. This quite naturally, pleases the Canadians no end. More important, it is evidence of Canada's coming to economic maturity, and of the bright future almost everyone anticipates for her.

FIRST ANNUAL CISCO ROUNDUP IS SCHEDULED FOR THIS WEEK

tion of high speed grills and daring maneuvers by Abilene's famed Ranger Rider Quadrille. This daring group of riders will perform both nights of the Cisco Roundup.

For the past several weeks the members of the Cisco Roundup Club have been working hard getting all the details required by such a contest in order, and many long hours have been put in by the Club members in getting their arena and grounds in shape. Headed by club President J. C. Carr, the Cisco Roundup Club has spared no expense or effort to make this, their First Annual Cisco Roundup, one of the largest working horse competitions in the West.

The Cisco Roundup Club has set the admission at a lower level than is customary for a show of this caliber, for they realize and appreciate the dent that has been made in the financial condition of Texas ranchers, farmers, and business men. Price of admission for adults will be seventy-five cents plus fifteen cents federal tax, or a total of ninety cents. Children under twelve will be admitted for twenty-five cents plus five cents tax, or a total of thirty cents. Tickets will be on advance sale at the Cisco Chamber of Commerce office early this week.

HEALTH TALKS

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

Certain fiction writers have described the tropics and the subtropics, such as the South, as the land of child brides and early sexual maturity.

If one examines the record, however, he may notice that quite the reverse is true. The start of menstruation, the arrival of fertility (the ability to have children), and the rate of human conception (the beginning of pregnancy) — all are delayed by excessive heat or cold.

Thus, modern-day Southern belles, especially in rural areas, tend to menstruate later. The relationship of fertility to puberty (in girls the ages at which menstruation begins) has not been definitely established, but one researcher has stated that fertility lags about five years behind the beginning of menstruation.

Perhaps the most clear-cut effects of extremes of heat and cold are seen in the rates for human conception. Fertility usually reaches its height when the mean (average) temperature ranges between 40 and 65F. It declines as the mercury climbs above 70F, or drops below 40 F. Thus, conceptions in Maine are lowest in late winter, rising to a peak in early summer, whereas in Florida, the opposite is true.

June as the traditional month for marriages has a sound biologic basis in most of the United States because conception is most likely to occur when the bride and her husband are at the height of sexual power. The principle suffers a setback, however, in Florida, Texas, and other southern states where high temperatures arrive in early summer. For example, in Texas both in 1950 and 1951 the fewest births occurred from February through June, which means that the rate of conception was lowest from May through September in 1949 and 1950.

lacking in neighboring areas to the west. So, she has a share of double trouble — heat and humidity, almost unrelieved during four or five months of the year.

This trouble is shown in more infections and the longer time needed to recover from them. When the temperature soars, common cold plagues those persons living at a low energy and bodily strength. Skin infections, particularly fungus infections, are numerous, and only in the Gulf region of the United States do diseases such as leprosy gain a foothold.

Constant exposure to sunlight is a factor in the high rate of skin cancer seen in Texas and the Southwest. Sunburn and athlete's foot, a type of fungus infection, result in a large number of man hours lost from work and in discomfort of its sufferers, which never is fully revealed by statistics.

During a period of moist, humid heat when it takes the maximum of a person's energy to carry on his normal activities, disease only adds to the burden which he must carry.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Yoder of San Antonio and her grand children, Lannie Yoder and Andy Yoder of Raymondville, have returned to their homes after visiting her in the home of Mrs. W. C. Shelton, Mrs. E. L. Graham and Mrs. Robert Mancill.

Heat is not the only unpleasant part of summer weather in Texas. There is also humidity, to which most outsiders and even a large portion of the natives object loudly.

Except for an occasional summer cyclone or hurricane, Texas lacks the storminess of the alternating "highs" and "lows" of barometric pressure which relieve heat waves in the North and East. She also swelters in moisture which obviously is

BUICK'S POWER STEERING?

It's the big NEWS of the year

There is a host of things that endear a ROADMASTER to anyone who loves to drive.

There's the might of its Fireball 8 Engine — most powerful ever put in a Buick.

There's the thrift of its Airpower carburetor — a four-barrel automatic that literally brings increased power right out of thin air.

There's its hushed and luxurious silence — its poised and level ride that cost a million dollars to develop — and the infinite smoothness of its Dynaflo Drive.

But the thing that has brought the most cheers for this big and obedient beauty is Buick's version of Power Steering.*

Gone is the tug of turning, parking, maneuvering in small space.

Power Steering takes over the effort of turning the front wheels — makes it a one-hand operation.

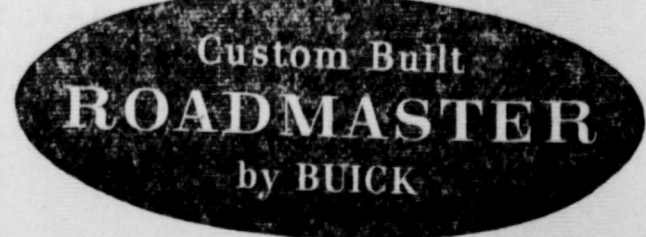

Do you have to learn to drive all over again if you have this new Buick feature?

You definitely do not. On the open road, you have that same sure sense of command that you've always had. Coming out of a curve, you can loosen your grip, and the front wheels right themselves just as they do on every Buick.

But you'll notice this: When you suddenly hit loose dirt or sand — or a stretch of rough road — Power Steering smoothly goes into action — helps take up the jerk — makes control of the wheel easier and driving safer.

Wouldn't you like to try out this newest wonder — on a ROADMASTER or a SUPER? You say the word, and we'll do the rest.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster and Super only.
