

The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

AFTER THE END of the football season is always the best time to pick winners. In any event, we've decided that Stephenville has the best all-around football team that we've seen this season in the high school circles. The Yellow Jackets looked very good in their game here Friday night.

The Cisco Lobo Band also looked very good in its final appearance. The half-time stunt featured the drum major and drummers in some baton and twirling numbers. The work of Misses Neota Moad, Shirley Nixie Gregory and Fay Redwine has been very good all around.

Prof. Kenneth St. Clair and his Lobo Band have had a top season, and we're all very proud.

CHAIRMAN D. N. Morrison says that everything is shaping up nicely for the annual football banquet. They're going to invite the ladies this year, so we can expect a full Community Center for the big event. The parents of football boys who want to see their own sons have been asked to call Mrs. Morrison at 194 by Monday night for ticket reservations.

A committee will see that tickets are sold for every football player after the Monday night deadline.

THE DEER AND turkey hunters are bringing in some meat for their Thanksgiving tables. Mr. Proctor of Cisco Ice Company, tells us. Paul Yardley brought in a deer and a turkey from a hunt down Marble Falls way, and Mr. G. A. Brown bagged a deer and a turkey in the same country. . . . Mr. George Bennett brought home one turkey, as did Mr. Rudy Hackfield.

Understand the big hunting party, including A. D. Anderson, H. W. Crofts, I. J. Henson, Albert Hansen, Pete Dunning, Zan Dunning and others, is due Monday night from Alpine.

The deer hunting is good on the ranch in Blanco County this season. On the first day, the bucks were brought in by a party of ten men, several of whom are Ciscoans. Since then, several more have been bagged.

Mr. Crofts reported that he bagged 44 deer the first day, 11 of them bucks. But it just wasn't his day, so he is going to have to go back later on for his share of the bacon. Ciscoans who have had good luck down there include O. J. Tillinghast, Marston Dunning and others.

THE CROFTS are expecting their brother, H. W. Crofts, and her sister, Mrs. H. W. Crofts, to arrive here Sunday night or Monday from Tucson, Arizona, with their three children, Dorothea, Robert and Bobby. The Arizona Crofts will spend the week here, making a side trip to the home near Marble Falls.

THANKS TO MR. E. J. Wende, we have a nice sack of paper and pens for our Thanksgiving party. He brought us in some paper and pens for our Thanksgiving party. He brought us in some paper and pens for our Thanksgiving party.

THANKSGIVING DAY, Nov. 23, will be the occasion for an open house out at Mrs. J. W. Noble's house, 510 East 14th St. She would like to see all of her friends on that day. Mrs. Noble will celebrate birthday Nov. 27. She has lived in Cisco 15 years and lived on a farm southeast of town 23 years. She is a native of Collin County. Her father died on Feb. 9, 1949.

VISITING IN OUR town and area for several days has been Mrs. M. O'Brien, brother of H. L. Thompson, 800 West 10th, who has spent the past several months in Korea with the U. S. Army. He's due to leave Monday for Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, for re-assignment to duty.

IT'S NOT TO late to get in on the Bloodmobile project planned for Monday. There's considerable free time open for donors. Call Mrs. Peggy Gallagher at the Chamber of Commerce for information as to when you can give a pint of blood.

THE LOST IS FOUND—Michael Murtha, a retired New York policeman who is losing his sight, hugs his roving 11-month-old collie pal, Dixie, after the dog was returned to him by a neighbor. Dixie, who Murtha is training as a seeing-eye dog, roamed from his home and got lost. The reunion was a very happy one for both parties and Dixie was particularly glad to be back home.

ELEVEN MORE HANDSOME GIFTS ARE ADDED TO TREASURE HUNT

A whole room of wallpaper, a $18.95 electric coffee maker, or a $11.95 waffle iron would make anybody a good Christmas gift. And they're just three more handsome gift items that Cisco merchants have pledged for the big Treasure Hunt which will formally open the Yuletide shopping season in Cisco on Monday night, Dec. 1.

These gifts and others were added to the growing list Saturday by Cisco business men. The Burton-Lingo Company will give a room of wallpaper, value $12, as its gift item. And West Texas Utilities Company will post the handsome electric perculator as its gift item. The waffle iron is Cisco Appliance Company's gift item.

DAR WILL MEET

The Charles Crawford Chapter of the D. A. R. will meet Monday at three o'clock in the home of Mrs. W. C. McDaniel in Humboldt with Mrs. W. W. Wallace as co-hostess. Mrs. M. H. Hagerman of Ranger will give a talk on "Let's Get Back to the Faith of Our Fathers." Members were asked to bring gifts for Tamasee.

Loboes Lose To Stephenville To Conclude Football Season

The Yellow Jackets of Stephenville High School lived up to their reputation as one of the state's top 2A teams by scoring a 59-to-20 triumph over the Cisco High Loboes in the season's final football game here Friday night.

Stephenville's victory over the Cisco eleven and Comanche's Friday night win over Ranger threw District 2A-10 into a three-way tie for the championship, and representatives of the schools were to meet in Ranger Saturday to decide on the district winner. The crippled Loboes, with three players out of uniform due to injuries, just couldn't hold the Yellow Jacket offensive machine. Three former "B" team members, promoted to the "A" squad, saw considerable action and gave good accounts of themselves. They were Cotton Pippen, Joe Wayne Farrow and Edward Bernie. DE Scholarships Open At Houston

Cisco high school senior distributive education students have been invited by the Retail Furniture Association of Texas to apply for four scholarships to the University of Houston, J. Frank Heath, president of the organization, has announced.

Several hundred male D. E. students throughout the state are eligible to apply for the scholarships which will cover a four-year period.

Don Herod, co-owner of Herod Brother's Furniture Company is the chairman of the association's scholarship committee. Other members of the group are N. Eble White, Auto Stores; Wichita Falls; H. S. Affleck, Stowers of San Antonio; Eddie Schreiber, Miller and Company in Galveston; and H. E. Dill, vice president of the association.

Mr. Heath said the University of Houston was selected because of its extensive retail training program and because of the opportunities afforded students for part-time employment in Houston.

Retailing courses at the university stress knowledge of management, personnel, credit, advertising, display, fashion, buying and selling.

The University of Houston has the only four-year university level program in the state.

Community Chest Needs Only $480 To Raise Budget

The Cisco Community Chest needed only $480 Saturday to complete the full 1953 budget requirements of its 10 cooperating agencies, Finance Drive Chairman George Davis announced. Treasurer Robert White had a total of $7,720 in the Chest's account, and the requirements amount to $8200.

Mr. Davis said that members of the board of directors were making additional contacts with good results. He was confident that the balance needed of $480 would be fully raised in the early future.

The year's budget provided for the budgets of the City Welfare Association, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the ABC Club, the Hobby Club, the American Red Cross, the National Cancer Society, the Texas Heart Association, the Salvation Army and the USO.

Dr. J. E. Griffin, a practicing physician since 1895, was honored recently with a birthday dinner on the event of his 81st birthday. The celebration was held at the home of his niece, Mrs. Gideon B. Bowers, at 810 West 12th Street.

Some 39 of the 57 years Dr. Griffin has practiced medicine have been spent administering to the people of Cisco, and four more years were spent in the Scranton area. Dr. Griffin came to Cisco in 1913 from Scranton where he moved in 1909.

He was born in Brandon, Rankin County, Mississippi, on November 11, 1871. At the age of 12 he moved to Texas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Griffin, and a younger brother and sister. His brother was the late Dr. L. L. Griffin, a practicing surgeon and physician at Beville for many years. His sister was the late Mrs. Frank Pounds of Cisco.

The family settled in Shelby County and Dr. Griffin finished his grade and high school work at Center and later taught school there for four years. He attended the University of Texas and obtained his medical degree in 1900 after practicing for five years by taking special examinations and obtaining special permit.

In 1901 Dr. John Eula Griffin married Miss Marion Dunklin of Waco, who had received her degree in nursing the same year Dr. Griffin obtained his medical degree. They moved to Toomey where he practiced medicine for 12 years. They moved to Cottonwood, Callahan County and then to Bryan. They moved to Scranton in 1909 and on to Cisco in 1913. Mrs. Griffin died in 1929.

Dr. and Mrs. Griffin purchased their home at 305 West 6th Street in 1915 and he has lived there since that time. Since Mrs. Griffin's death in 1929, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Purvis and their daughter have lived in the house with him. Mrs. Purvis is a younger sister of the doctor and is the only other member of the immediate family living.

Attending the party honoring Dr. Griffin on his birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Purvis, Mr. and Mrs. Bowers, Mark and Kim, and Dr. Griffin. Mrs. Bowers is the former Laverne Purvis.

More Donors Are Needed To Assure Full Quota Here

All arrangements were complete Saturday for a Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit visit to Cisco from 1 to 7 p. m. Monday at the First Methodist Church basement and the unit seemed assured of more than 150 pints of blood for use on Kyeen battle fields.

A total of 175 Ciscoans had signed blood donor pledge cards in a drive to obtain a total of 250 pledges. Additional donors were due from Rising Star and Putnam, and officials hoped other Ciscoans would join the list of volunteers.

Those who have not signed cards and who want to donate blood were asked to call at the Chamber of Commerce office Monday morning or call Mrs. W. Wallace, chairman, at No. 435.

The people who have pledged blood have been assigned times to report to the church. Equipment will be available to handle eight people every 15 minutes. Open time at the blood clinic has been reported as follows: two at 2:30 p. m.; one at 2:45 p. m.; six at 4:15 p. m.; one at 4:30 p. m.; and five at 5:15 p. m.

Mrs. Wallace said that there would be other times open because prospective donors are sometimes not permitted to give blood after physical checkups. She urged that anyone who wishes to give blood and who hasn't signed cards to drop in at the church.

She cautioned prospective donors against eating heavy foods, including eggs, meats, cream, salad dressing, butter and fried foods, for four hours before visiting the clinic.

All workers have been asked to report promptly at 12 o'clock noon Monday at the church for instructions from the Red Cross staff in charge of the Bloodmobile Unit. The various committees have been named as follows:

TEXAS STYLE GOODWILL

Out of the closets and attics and forgotten corners of 100,000 Texas homes last year came enough money to provide vocational training and rehabilitation for more than 800 handicapped men and women.

How's this? you say! "Money from closets and attics" Before you rush off to see if grandma or great-grandad might have left a few hundred dollars in the bottom of that old trunk, let us explain.

You see, these families gathered together all of their discarded clothing and household articles and gave them to Goodwill Industries, which in turn used them to provide jobs and wages for hundreds of Texas handicapped men and women.

In Texas there are six locally autonomous Goodwill Industries. They are located at Dallas, Houston, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, El Paso and Fort Worth. In the United States there are 101 such organizations.

The story of Goodwill Industries is unique in the annals of American social service agencies. It all started 50 years ago this year in the slums of Boston, when a young Methodist missionary, Dr. Edgar J. Helms, revolted against the then prevalent idea of hand-out charity.

His method, with several additions, is still used today.

First: Collect the handicapped person who has been cast off from society.

Second: Collect discarded household articles and clothing.

Mrs. Hill Speaks To Child Study Club

The Child Study Club met in regular session Friday at the club house with Mrs. Nell McAnally as hostess. Mrs. Minnie Hill was the guest speaker and spoke on the children, their ways and customs, in twelve different countries, compared with the children in America.

During the business session Mrs. Mable Fletcher gave a council report on the City Federation meeting. The group decided to send two baskets to needy families at Thanksgiving and members were urged to have their contributions at the home of Mrs. Jo Latson by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting to Mesdames Mable Fletcher, Helen Surles, Snooky Tipton, Nell McAnally, Ruth Pitzer, Wanda Clinton, Kay Gurney, Mary Bob Leveridge, Marguerite Brown, Jo Latson, and Alice Cameron.

Lucky Brownies Hold Meeting On Tuesday

The Lucky Brownies met Tuesday, November 18, at the First Methodist Church for their weekly meeting.

The meeting was called to order by the president and the dues were collected by the treasurer, Mitzi Rider. Plans were made by the group for the packing of a Thanksgiving basket to be taken to a needy family by the Scouts.

The group was then divided into three teams with the captains, Jonelle Fonville, Ann Choate, and Mitzi Rider, taking charge. The time was spent in making Christmas cards to be sent to the Philippine Islands to

Thanksgiving Dinner Is Enjoyed By Class

The annual Thanksgiving dinner of the Friendship Class of the Nazarene Church was held Thursday evening, November 20, in the young people's room of the church.

The colors, yellow and brown, were used throughout the room for decorations. Thanksgiving was spelled with autumn leaves on one wall of the room and arrangements of marigolds and miniature turkeys were used for table decorations.

The invocation was given by the Rev. D. M. Duke. Following the dinner, Claude Wilson served as toastmaster and the following program was presented: Mrs. Andrew Orr told of the mother of Thanksgiving; Mrs. Clifford Phippen and Miss Mozelle Phillips sang a duet, "Mansion Over The Hill," and the Rev. Duke told the story of the first Thanksgiving. The highlight of the program was a laugh meter skit presented by Claude Wilson, Dr. C. M. Cleveland, and Rev. Duke.

The program was concluded with remarks of appreciation to the various committees by the class teacher, Mrs. C. M. Cleveland. The committees were as follows: Social, Mrs. Odell Rains, Mrs. Leslie Fleming, and Mrs. Claude Wilson; invitation, Mrs. Grace Gideon; and decorations, Mrs. D. M. BEHIND THE WALLS
OF

by BERT KRUGER — SMITH

Note: This is the second in a series of articles on our State Hospital System, prepared under the supervision of Dr. George W. Jackson, Medical Director of the Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools, and sponsored by the Hogg Foundation for Mental Hygiene, University of Texas.

It had been a tough three days. Lisa R. slumped down on the wooden steps outside of Ward D, too tired to cross the grass to the spot in front of the Main Building where their old Dodge was parked. She could feel the tight muscles behind her knees, sore from the hundreds of times of bending over beds or picking up paper scraps. A nerve in the side of her head beat endlessly. She touched the rip in her new white uniform, torn when Helen had gone disturbed this morning and had lashed out at her.

Lisa was tired, right to the bone. She knew Bill might be waiting for her in the car, but she couldn't make herself move. She didn't even hear someone cross the grass to her side, but she jumped, terrified, when a hand touched her shoulder.

"Scared you, honey? I'm sorry". Lisa grinned shame-facedly at the big woman who stood by her side, looking down at her smiling comfortably. The other woman, too, wore a white uniform and the insignia of an attendant.

"Guess I'm just jumpy," Lisa moved over to make room for the other woman. "New on the job, aren't you, honey?" The older woman eased her big frame down on the stairs. "It's kinda tough at the beginning."

With the chance to talk, Lisa could feel some of the tension ooze out of her body. "It's not just the work. It's the—seeing all you see. People off in a world of their own. Women screaming, thinking somebody's after them and then so quiet they don't make a sound all day. It's—well, do you ever get used to it?"

The older woman patted Lisa's hand. "I know jest how you feel. Wish you'd never started this job?" Lisa nodded. "Want to quit real fast?"

"That's it," Lisa said. "You felt that way too? You did?" "Sure, honey, we all did." The older woman shifted her weight, eased one brown shoe off her foot. "My name's Mildred. Over at Ward B. Know anyone around here?"

"Just my husband." Now that she had someone to talk to, Lisa couldn't get the words out fast enough. "We—just got married last month. There weren't many jobs down home. Whole town's been hit by the drouth; so we thought that both of us working together out here, we could save a little money and buy a house—and—" Lisa's voice lowered—"have a baby."

"Sure, honey. That's the way to look at things. It'll work out." Lisa started to smile, found instead that the held-back tears were starting from her eyes, and in the next minute she was leaning against Mildred's soft bosom and sobbing.

Mildred patted Lisa gently and said softly, "All of us cried a couple of times at the beginning. Why, I was so miserable and lonesome I packed my paper-backed suitcase the second night and started down the hall."

Lisa lifted her face. "And what stopped you?"

"Well, it was like this. In them days they didn't give the attendants' test or examinations or nothin', and we had some drunks and some pretty mean babes up here. And I got to thinkin' if I left, I'd be turnin' the whole ward back to them kind of women. So I stayed. Course, I didn't get no high school education myself but I've been here for years, and I try to be good to the patients."

"Bill's finding it tough too," Lisa admitted. "He was thinking of going out Thursday, on our day off, and looking for another job."

"Well, now honey, you do what seems right. But in a way, you might decide you're better off right here. You get $100 maintenance money between you. Right?" Lisa nodded. "And 30 apiece to begin with besides that? Seems to me you oughta be gettin' ahead a little. Besides, if folks like you and me, who do some carin' about those poor souls, leave here, who's gonna look after them? Want to turn the job back over to the drifters and the drunks?"

"I—never thought of it that way," Lisa confessed.

"Why, honey," Mildred went on, smoothing out her wrinkled white skirt, "you don't know how much better things are than they usta be. We get sick leave and vacations and holidays. And what with all the testing them psychologists do before we come to work we get shut of a lot of mean ones and drifters. Why, you can't get a job unless you got a high school education, and used to be we had some workers who couldn't hardly read or write."

"And you get examined and shot for all kinds of diseases," Lisa added wryly, rubbing the bruised place on her arm.

Mildred rose, patted her hair. "It may look hard now, honey. But things are gettin' better. Stick it out, will you? We need young ones with a heart."

Lisa rose too, and suddenly she looked young again—and alive. She thrust out a hand to Mildred. "I'll be around. 'Bye now, I've got to hurry over to Bill. See you again."

Texas has jumped, in the last year, from a State whose hospitals were among the worst in the nation, to a State with a plan for a complete, modern personnel program similar to those used in the nation's most successful industries. The Legislature will be asked for authority to place this plan in action, the plan calling for establishment of a system of personnel officers, job analysis and classifications, in grade promotions, supervisory and work simplification and many other applicable personnel policies.

Texas has far to go. But great strides have already been taken. Ask Lisa, She knows.

The Battle of the Bird

Time was when preparing Thanksgiving dinner was a real struggle. And preparing it was nothing compared to the clean-up job that came after!

But today grandmother, or mother, can actually take time to enjoy herself—because so much of the work (including the after-dinner work) will be done for her by electrical kitchen appliances and by her wonderful electric servant, Reddy Kilowatt. He works for mere chicken feed, too!

He will refrigerate the turkey a whole day — for about 2¢.

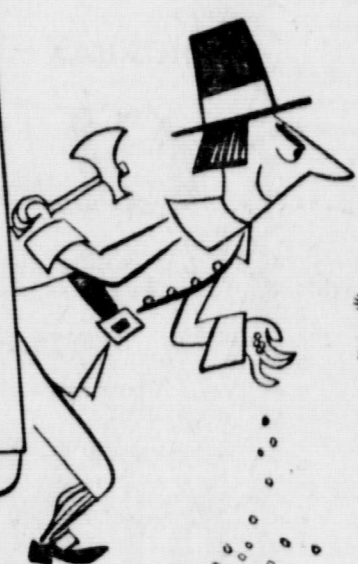

- He'll roast the turkey — for less than 10¢.
- He'll run the dishwasher for a full load of dishes — for less than 1¢.
- And he will wash and iron the tablecloth and napkins — for about 2¢.

Wonderful, isn't it? As a matter of fact, electric appliances will win the "cooking battle" every time...and remember your electric service is still the biggest bargain in your budget today!

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

Conduction deafness is the kind in which sound waves are kept from reaching the inner ear.

It may be caused by one of the following conditions: (1) something that stops up the ear canal (a wax plug or swollen ear canal), (2) something wrong with the ear drum (scarring, thickening, or breaking), (3) disease of the middle ear that stops movement of its three bones (a growing together of the bones, scar tissue that binds, or a discharge), (4) disease in the bony covering of the ear that results in the stirrup (the last of the three bones of the middle ear) becoming struck firmly to the oval window (the beginning of the inner ear), a condition known as "otosclerosis."

Treatment is aimed at getting rid of the cause of the deafness when possible. If the trouble is in the outer ear, it may be as simple as removing a plug of wax. On the other hand an infection of the outer ear may be harder to get rid of.

When the ear drum is damaged badly enough that it can't be used, it may be removed and an artificial drum put in its place.

Also, if the three bones of the middle ear are stuck together beyond repair, an artificial replacement can be substituted. This artificial device, made like the part of the bird's ear that conducts sound to the inner ear, consists of a drum and a single rod instead of a drum and three complicated bones; it works very well.

If the tube leading from the middle ear to the part of the throat just behind the nose (the Eustachian tube) is stopped up by extra tissue or infection, the condition may be improved or cured with radium or x-rays.

In otosclerosis, medical treatment is of little or no use in stopping the progress of the disease. The operation which is done attempts to make a permanent opening in the bone to let sound waves go from the middle to the inner ear, by-passing the diseased area.

As you can see, the treatment of conduction deafness can be fairly easy or extremely hard.

Nerve deafness, also called perception deafness, is the kind in which something keeps the sound waves received in the inner ear from being sent on to the brain or from being turned into meaning there.

It may be caused by one of the following conditions: (1) inflammation of the nerve leading from the inner ear to the brain (acoustic or auditory nerve) from mumps, flu, diphtheria, or diabetes; (2) blows or falls that bruise the inner ear or fracture the base of the skull; (3) blasts, gunfire, or loud or often repeated noises which may be found in certain industries (such noises may break the ear drum or affect the delicate inner ear and its nerve); (4) certain drugs and poisons such as quinine, aspirin, alcohol, tobacco, arsenic, lead, or mercury; (5) meningitis (infection of the covering of the brain or spinal cord) which follows flu, scarlet fever, or measles; (6) old age, in which hardening of the arteries affects the hearing just as it may other functions of the body (a certain loss of hearing for high-pitched tones as a person gets older is to be expected); (7) a disease in which there is too much fluid in the inner ear (Meniere's disease); and (8) other causes, such as tumor of the nerve leading to the brain or tumor in the brain.

When someone is born with bad hearing, he is said to have "congenital deafness." If it is severe, it usually is the nerve type. Its causes may be faulty development of the inner ear, a birth injury, syphilis, or quinine taken by the expectant mother.

Since no treatment known today is effective in curing most nerve deafness, hope lies chiefly in its prevention. Better control of the diseases which may lead to this type of deafness, studies of the effect of certain drugs and poisons on the acoustic nerve, and military and industrial programs to prevent deafness caused by injury or loud or constant noise are the three best ways to fight nerve deafness.

The Star-Spangled Banner became the National Anthem on March 3, 1931.

MIGHTY SWEET

Department of Agriculture and the National Beekeepers Association enlisted them to help put over this year's national honey program, lovely Vivian Cunard, and the three honey bears, have a new title. While working for the government, they'll be known as "Miss Honey and the Three Little Bears." The mock animals are known as Dandy, Handy and Candy.

What's the Use of an Abstract —

... if it doesn't cure the title? is another puzzling question to some abstractors, but we have never worried much about this one. Neither does the doctor's prescription cure human ills in all cases, but it may help. The abstract never was designed to cure anybody's title, but the better type of abstract will reveal the condition of the title and place it in position where it may be perfected, if necessary, by the examining attorney.
