THE GIRLS Christian Academy new institution for this section of the county. Situated on 100 acres of land in the edge of Stephens County, northeast of Cisco, the Rev. and Mrs. Claude Harris are the founders of this ranch home, which is designed to give girls from broken homes a high school education and a new lease on life.

Application has been made to the Secretary of State for a charter for the academy, and the building—a reception center and home for the superintendent—is near completion. Pursuant to the plan, we're told, is to help teen-age girls of broken homes obtain an education and advantages of a home.

Limit for acceptance of girls will be 12 to 16 years and girls admitted will be given a school education. Since the academy began several months ago, considerable interest has been shown in the project. Interested parents, pastors and teachers will file applications for girls who live at home.

Other corporations listed by the application are: Dr. Miller, A. Jenkins, pastor-evangelist; Abilene; Charles Brinkley, pastor; Weatherford, and Claude Harris, founder, Route 2, Rancho.

Plans for the home were developed by Rev. Harris while he was serving as chaplain in the U. S. Army in Korea. When he returned home, he found that his wife was dividing certain properties among their children after some trading, he found he had a deed for a section of good land in southern Stephens County. This land he has donated to the academy.

Improvements for the property planned as funds are available. Funds like a most worthy gift.

ANOTHER WORTHY proposition that we've run into is one of the Texas Optometric Association has undertaken. Last year this association was instrumental in having established at the University of Houston a school of optometry. To equip the school, the association pledged $100,000 in five years.

One day last year, all members of the association, including Charles M. Cleveland of Cisco, distributed their gross receipts for one day and raised $20,000 for the new school—the only one of its kind in the state.

"EYES" OF TEXAS—Members of the Texas Optometric Association have pledged $100,000 towards the establishment, maintenance, and operation of the College of Optometry in the University of Houston, the only college of its kind in the Southwest which trains professional optometrists. February 24th has been proclaimed by Governor Allan Shivers as "Optometry Day" in Texas when all fees of professional optometrists in Texas will be donated to the University of Houston College of Optometry. Shown with Governor Shivers when he signed the proclamation are Dr. Charles Stewart, Dean of the College of Optometry; Dr. J. Herman Thomas, Fort Worth, President of the Texas Optometric Association; Dr. W. L. Cheatham, Houston, Chairman of the College Committee and Dr. Wes Petty, Lubbock, Fund Chairman.

JURY FINDS RANGER MAN GUILTY ON CHARGE OF SELLING LIQUOR

County Attorney J. M. Nuesse reported today that Leon Flores, Ranger, was convicted by a jury in the 91st District Court on Monday, February 16, on charges of selling whiskey in a dry area. His punishment was affixed at a fine of $150 and 30 days in jail. Defense counsel has given notice that a motion for new trial will probably be filed in the case.

It was also reported that the past week's court activities have included the conviction of Joe Robinson Snider, of De Leon, for driving while intoxicated, and conviction of Seferino Leon Flores for the same offense. Both men were assessed fines of $50 and court costs, and their driver's license was suspended for a period of six months. Also Roscoe Wigfall, of Abilene, was assessed a fine of $100 and court costs for transporting beer in Eastland County, a dry area.

Mr. Nuesse also reported that the case of The State of Texas vs. Mae King was affirmed on February 4, 1953, by the Court of Criminal Appeals, at Austin. The King case was tried on September 17, 1952, before a jury in the 91st District Court and the defendant was found guilty of selling beer in a dry area and her punishment affixed at a fine of $500 and six months in jail. Defendant has been out on bond pending her appeal and her attorney has stated that a motion for rehearing will be filed in the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Since the affirmation of the case earlier this month, the County Attorney advises that such motion for rehearing must be filed not later than February 19th and he does not anticipate that it will be granted by the higher court, if filed. When a mandate is received here from the Court of Criminal Appeals declaring the judgment of conviction to be final, the defendant will have to begin serving her sentence.

Several other DWI and liquor law violation cases are scheduled to go to trial before a jury either during the week of February 23rd or the week of March 2nd. The grand jury is scheduled to resume its current session on March 9th.

Most self-employed people are now covered under the old-age and survivors insurance provision of the Social Security Act, and receive credits toward retirement payments and survivors payments just as do employed persons. The self-employed person makes his social security report, and pays his social security tax, along with his income tax return. This applies to all self-employed persons who have a net profit of at least $400 for the year, except for farm and ranch operators and certain professional people.

Booster's Club Entertains Lobo Team With Dinner

The Cisco Boosters Club served as host Tuesday night at a steak supper honoring the members of the "A" and "B" basketball teams and coaches of Cisco High School. The dinner was held at Downie's Coffee Shop.

Bob Latson, president of the Boosters Club, welcomed the group and expressed the appreciation of the town for the spirit of the team.

The senior members of the cage team presented Coach V. C. (Buck) Overall with a shirt. The presentation speech was made by Irvin Brunkenhofer. He told of the confidence the team had in the coaches and expressed the appreciation of the group for having had the opportunity to play for them.

Coach Overall praised the team and said that it was the best group he had ever worked with. He expressed his thanks for the cooperation he had received and was high in his praise for the cleanliness and the spirit of the boys.

The Boosters Club will entertain the Wranglers of Cisco Junior College with a steak supper when the schedule has been finished.

VALUE OF ACHIEVEMENT TESTS IS OUTLINED BY P-TA SPEAKER

Approximately 50 people heard M. D. Conger, School Supervisor, speak to the West Ward P-TA at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Conger, educator of sixteen years experience and child psychology major, told the group that 21 percent of children between the ages of six and fourteen are scared of achievement tests given in the local and state schools.

Mr. Conger, who prefers to be referred to as a child and teacher helper, pointed out that the tests help both the child and the teacher because it tells the teacher the norm for the class as a whole and for the individual, enabling the teacher to stress that subject in which there is weakness.

Each year tests are examined, the child is rated and charted and the record is filed for future reference. Parents of students are free at anytime to examine the record of their own children. The meeting was called to order at 3:30 p. m. by Mrs. Ted Waters, president. Mrs. Waters then led the group in prayer.

Mrs. J. H. Latson, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. A. B. Byrd, treasurer, reported a balance of $349.87 in the P-TA treasury.

Mrs. Don Choate distributed fact-finding questionnaires with the view of organizing study groups. Those present were asked to fill out and return the questionnaires to Mrs. Choate before the end of the meeting.

Room count was conducted by Mrs. Delmar Johnston with Mrs. Grady Law's room winning the prize for greatest attendance among the higher grades with Miss Pearl Donaway winning for the lower grades.

State Senator Opposes Move To Consolidate Area Courts

BUILDING UP TO SOMETHING—Marine Pfc. Tony Melim, of Lowell, Mass., is just trying to make life and fighting conditions more tolerable in Korea. He's chopping away at that hard-packed earth in an effort to build a series of steps to his bunker. Melim knows only too well that there's nothing like the comforts of home, even if "home" right now is on the front lines.

Wagoner Says Both Are Needed

State Senator Wayne W. Wagoner of District 22, of which Eastland County is a part, asked to be placed on record today as opposed to consolidation of the 91st District Court of this county with the 90th District Court of Stephens and Young Counties.

House Bill 269, introduced in the Texas Legislature's lower house and passed favorably by a committee, would consolidate the two courts. The bill, offered by State Representative Omar Burkett of Eastland County, has stirred considerable opposition in this area and is being opposed by the county bar association.

In a letter to The Press today, Mr. Wagoner expressed his position as follows:

"I would like to make my position clear as to the proposed legislation which is pending at the present time and which is designed to consolidate the 91st District Court in Eastland with the 90th District Court in Breckenridge.

"The most important thing about any court, along with a fair, just and equitable interpretation of the law, is its accessibility for the people that the court is to serve. Economy in government is to be commended and should be practiced at all times, but such a consolidation of these two courts cannot be an economy when traveling costs are added and when it is much cheaper to try a case at home than in a distant court.

"Without casting any criticism toward the author of the bill or toward his economy motives, I should like to go on record in opposition to such a proposal. The many good reasons for maintaining both District Courts as they are greatly outweigh the move as an economy measure."

Mr. Burkett has said that his introduction of the measure was done with the view of saving money for the taxpayers.

'WORLD DAY OF PRAYER' WILL BE OBSERVED BY MANY NATIONS

Prayers for "peace among the nations" will rise from thousands of towns and cities across the U. S. Friday in special day and evening services marking the 66th annual World Day of Prayer.

Celebrated yearly, on the first Friday in Lent, "World Day of Prayer" is a 24-hour chain of services that circles the globe. Reaching from continent to continent, observances are held in 118 countries, from which prayers go up in hundreds of languages and dialects.

The observance is sponsored in America by the General Department of United Church Women of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S.

The worship service originates in a different country each year. This year it was prepared by women of Africa. Opening with a call to worship sounded to African drumbeats, the 1953 "World Day of Prayer" includes a Song of the Emancipated, from East Africa, chanted to the accompaniment of rhythmic handclapping.

For the blind, a special edition of the service in English Braille has been made available by the John Milton Society.

Offerings taken at the "World Day of Prayer" services in this country are used to support interdenominational mission projects at home and abroad. The offerings are divided equally for use by the National Council's Divisions of Home and Foreign Missions.

Home mission projects include a ministry to migrant harvest workers and their families, training for rural pastors in the South and in Puerto Rico, and religious education and social services for American Indians on reservations and in industrial centers.

Foreign mission programs receiving "World Day of Prayer" support include aid to some 30,000 students from abroad in U. S. colleges and universities; publication of 21 magazines circulated among women and children in 25 countries, and support of interdenominational Christian colleges in India and Japan.

The share formerly used for Christian colleges in China will be used this year to provide higher education for Chinese young women outside of China, principally in East Asia.

A., and by state and local councils of church women and special prayer groups in more than 15,000 communities.

In addition to day and evening church services, "World Day of Prayer" also embraces programs in many hospitals, factories, prisons, schools and army camps. In some Western states services are held on Indian reservations. Church bells are rung in many localities and business establishments close for part of the day in others.

In Cisco, a World Day of Prayer service will be held at 10 a. m. Friday at the Wesley Methodist Church under the auspices of the Council of Church Women of Cisco.

The old model — a Huff Daland "Puffer" — began service as a crop-duster about 1922 or shortly thereafter. It was originally designed as a navy training plane but was not used for that purpose.

The latest development in farm flying is the Ag-1 airplane, designed and developed by Fred Weick, director of the Personal Aircraft Research Center, Texas Engineering Experiment Station.

Stressing performance efficiency and safety for the pilot, the Ag-1 was designed exclusively for such operations as seeding, fertilizing, dusting and spraying crops. It can take off from a rough unprepared runway under work load and any part of the plane except the engine can be duplicated in an ordinary machine and sheet metal shop.

Extreme maneuverability also is necessary, and it was designed to fly to the end of a field only a few feet off the ground, then zoom over such obstacles as trees or power lines, while loaded.

Recent Showers Aid Small Grain And Cover Crops

Small grains, winter cover and pastures were benefited by light showers and rains which again covered much of the state during the past week. The southern high plains, trans-Pecos and southwestern counties continued very dry, however, and virtually all areas could use additional moisture. In the plains country, farmers were rotating hoeing, chiseling and harrowing to check blowing, but strong north winds at the end of the period caused serious erosion and a haze of dust covered most of the state. Wheat over much of the north-west received another temporary "shot in the arm" as light snow and freezing rain again covered most of that area. Reserve moisture is still very short in that area and only timeliness of the light snow and rains since the January emergence has maintained the crop. In north Texas wheat and oats were making good development. Scattered cotton fields in the lower valley were up to a stand and the light week-end rain probably provided sufficient moisture to germinate the acreage already planted in that area. South Texas flax continued to make good to excellent development and planting in the northern plateau spring-crop area has started. Most flax growers in this area, however, were waiting for additional moisture. Commercial vegetable areas in the lower valley and part of the coastal bend received some much needed light rains. All early-planted spring crops benefited and additional plantings will be made. Water supplies for lower valley irrigation districts are extremely scarce. Winter grass, clovers and winter weeds developed rapidly over the eastern half of the state and particularly in upper coastal and southeastern counties. Along the upper coast a surplus of grass was available and clovers were causing some bloat. In the north-west wheat was supplying a little feed. Supplemental feeding was decreasing in the east where green feed was coming on, but continued very heavy in the west where soaking rains were needed to start new feed. Lambing was underway over much of the Plateau.

First Baptist Circle Two Meets Tuesday

Circle Two of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jay Warren for their regular meeting. Mrs. J. E. Burnam presided in the absence of Mrs. Surles and Mrs. O. T. Martin led in opening prayer. Mrs. O. L. Mason gave the devotional. Routine business was transacted, the love offering taken, and visiting the sick in hospitals was announced as the assignment for the month. Mrs. G. B. Lankston taught the missionary lesson from the book, America Must Be Christian. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting to Mesdames O. L. Mason, R. D. Guthrie, G. B. Lankston, J. E. Burnam, O. T. Martin, C. A. Farquhar, and the hostess, Mrs. Warren.

SPACE CHAMBER

Young Bobby Hornyak inspects a new type of space chamber, but not one projected for flights into the ether. This is a working model of a cylinder in the famous Hemispherical Combustion Chamber Engine of the 1953 Chrysler. A feature of Chrysler Corporation's touring "New Worlds in Engineering" show, this model demonstrates how the greater air intake in the Chrysler FirePower V-8 Engine makes engine "breathing" easier and thus provides more economical power. With six-year-old Bobby, is Jack Gleason, of Memphis, Tennessee. The engineering exhibit is scheduled for appearances in Indianapolis, New Orleans and Miami in the next three months.

Green Manure Helps to Maintain Soil Fertility

Field of blue lupin planted as a green manure cover crop, following cotton and to be followed by sweet potatoes. Nature does a good job in maintaining soil fertility without help from man, especially in protecting the soil from erosion and restoring organic matter. The use of cover or green-manure crops in combination with cultivated crops is an effort to profit from nature's lessons. If agriculture is to be permanent, soils must be managed so as to maintain productivity and stay in place where they can be utilized instead of being washed into streams and lost for all time. The practice of using cover crops for green manure by turning them under while green is almost as old as agriculture itself. But only recently have we come to a fuller understanding of the manifold benefits of the practice: (1) in adding organic matter to the soil, (2) reducing soil erosion, (3) in helping maintain soil fertility through addition of organic matter and nitrogen, and retention of mineral elements, (4) in improvement of the mechanical condition of the soil, and (5) in furnishing a better medium for beneficial soil organisms. Green manure crops are grown more often in fall and winter than in summer when most cash crops must be grown. Summer green manure crops, however, are often practical and profitable in a sound rotation program. Among the most useful are such legumes as red clover, soybeans, cowpeas, sweetclover, lespedeza, and crattaria. Winter green manure crops which survive temperatures of 60° to 15° F or lower and make some growth during this period, are commonly used in the Cotton Belt. The winter legumes most commonly used are hairy and smooth vetch, Austrian winter pea, crimson clover, bur-clover, sourclover, Willamette vetch and blue lupine. Non-legumes such as Sudan-grass, pearl millet, winter rye, ryegrass and buckwheat may also be used as green manure crops. Sometimes they fit into the crop system better than legumes. There are many ways that cover or green manure crops can be used: The principal points to consider are (1) to keep the ground covered with vegetation or mulch as nearly as possible all the time, (2) add as much organic matter to the soil as possible and (3) still take a sufficient amount of produce from the land to make the practice profitable. Since there are so many crops suitable for green manure from which to choose, the farmer can give consideration to all factors in making his selection. He should confer with his county agent as to the best practice and his seed supplier as to price and availability of seed. He can then determine which would be the most suitable and economical of the kinds available to use.

More than 95 per cent of the meat products analyzed in state laboratories last year were hamburger. State law makes no distinction between hamburger and ground beef.

The 30 per cent maximum fat content of hamburger is a standard set by the Bureau of Animal Industry, and except for one or two exceptions is adhered to by all states. A similar maximum has been established for moisture content.

Twenty-six meat inspectors work under the jurisdiction of the Texas Health Department's bureau of food and drugs. More than one errand meat dealer can testify to their diligence.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By OMAR BURELSON

Attending a banquet the other evening given by the radio and television newscasters, I sat at a table with Lowell Thomas, H. R. Baukhage, H. V. Kaltenborn, and several other commentators and news announcers with whom most of you are familiar. At the affair were Gabriel Heatter, Fulton Lewis, Jr., Cedric Foster, and about everyone else in the business. The subject of Tidelands arose and being the only Texan at the table, I found myself in the minority favoring State ownership. Mr. Baukhage turned to me and said that although we disagreed on this subject, he thought we could discuss the development of Santa Gertrudis cattle without any argument.

Mr. Baukhage told me he had purchased several head from the King Ranch for a place he has in Florida. Incidentally, few of them knew that the Santa Gertrudis is the only breed of cattle wholly developed in this country. Neither did any of them know, except Mr. Baukhage, that these cattle have sweat glands which enables them to do well in a very hot climate. My distinguished and learned associates on that occasion also did not know that the Santa Gertrudis was able to flick its muscles and move its hide as does a horse in warding off flies, which is another very great advantage of the breed.

The Agriculture Committees of Congress are giving consideration to the decline in farm prices and those of us from the agricultural areas of the country have called upon Secretary of Agriculture Benson to give the matter his immediate attention. The Secretary has had laid before him the proposition that the farmer cannot purchase manufactured products, which includes a lot of very high priced machinery, unless he receives a decent price for what he raises. When the farmer cannot buy these items, it will put people out of work in the North and Eastern industrial areas. When that happens, a depression is pretty well on its way. It is as simple as that, and it is time that something be done.

A meeting of the nation-wide Farm Labor Committee has just been concluded here in Washington. I attended the meetings and the Secretary of Labor, Mr. Martin Durkin, assured us that the general policies in connection with farm placement labor will be continued. This of course includes migratory farm workers from Mexico.

Those of us from Texas believe that revisions should be made in the present system which would allow the farmer and rancher to secure Mexican labor without so much red tape. We believe a system known as the "work card" should be used instead of the cumbersome contract method now required. It certainly would be a cheaper method than that now used.

We also believe that the Farm Placement Service should be taken out of the Labor Department and placed under Agriculture for the obvious reason that it is in the interests of agriculture. We believe this Department of the Government should be better qualified than the Department of Labor to understand the problems involved.

On the front of the Archives Building here in Washington where official Government papers are preserved, is this inscription: "What is past is prologue." This inscription suggests to us that the past points the way to the future and that only a beginning has been made in the development of this country. A visitor to Washington asked a taxi driver the meaning of "What is past is prologue," and his reply was in my opinion about the best that could be said about it. He said that "It's just some high falutin' Government language that means, 'You ain't seen nothin' yet.'"

WILL BE THERE—Corporal of the Horse J. Hammond of the 1st Cavalry Division is having his ceremonial full dress uniform checked for fit in London in plenty of time to have any faults corrected. The corporal will wear his very fancy uniform during the coronation ceremonies in June.

When a lawyer saves a client from trouble or financial difficulty, the client knows only that he has been charged for "advice" — a commodity oftentimes too freely given by us all. Often overlooked is the study, work, and time the attorney has spent in order that he be in a position to give advice that can be relied upon.

A lawyer bases his fee upon the benefits received from the services he has rendered and the time and effort he has expended. In addition, he stakes his professional reputation upon the soundness of the counselling given each client.

First, a practicing lawyer must have had six or seven years of academic education. In Texas this means at least three years of college work and three years in a recognized law school. Because the community at large has an interest in the qualifications and conduct of members of the bar, these minimum educational requirements must be met before examination for admission to the bar may be taken.

During the three years of formal legal education, the law student attempts to read, digest, reconcile and understand from 10,000 to 20,000 separate cases, statutes, and monographs. He must draw from these an understanding of basic legal principles, of processes of legal reasoning, of methods of fact and legal investigation, and of court procedures which bring relief to clients.

From the standpoint of court proceedings, the community then expects the work of a lawyer to be a prompt and efficient trial of their causes at a fair cost. From a counselling standpoint, it expects reasonable promptness and efficiency with, above all, the utmost of sound judgment.

In both counselling and litigation, a lawyer must draw upon a wealth of precedent which he has attempted to store in his memory in order to apply one or more principles of law to the fact situation presented by his client.

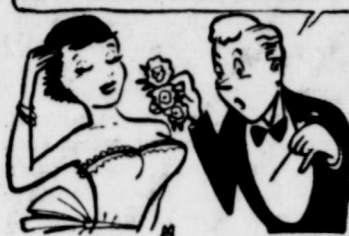

Ordinarily, many legal principles and rules of statute or decision are involved in even the simplest situation. Too, the problems raised by various clients, like fingerprints, are never exactly the same.

After searching his memory, the lawyer will usually check the pertinent rules and precedents. These are found in an ever-increasing volume of statutes with which modern legislation seeks to regulate many aspects of our life, and in the decisions of the courts, boards and bureaus.

Almost every problem presented to a lawyer requires research in the statutes and law books before a proper answer can be given.

Therefore, you will not receive an immediate answer to your problem from your lawyer, unless it is of the most elemental type. Your lawyer should, and you should give him time to, form his opinions from the authoritative statutes and decisions.
