

The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

ONE OF THE handsomest sights we've seen in a long time was ten India Quail that Mr. A. D. Anderson showed us Saturday. He bought them with the idea of raising quail to eat and, maybe, to sell. He has a type of quail that you can sell under the state game laws.

Mr. Anderson suggests, and it seems like a fine idea, that if ten or fifteen people in the Cisco area would raise India Quail for the market a new industry might well be created. This variety of quail is especially good eating. They dress out three quarters to a pound of good meat.

Mr. Red Padgett of the A-G Motor Company staff has acquired some pheasants and he plans to raise them for the dinner table.

WENT OUT TO THE wild gas and oil well some seven miles southeast of Cisco Friday evening. It was one of the most unusual sights we've ever seen. The man at the gate wouldn't let anybody in but people working there. Too dangerous, he said.

We counted 14 huge Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company trucks on the job. Understand the Halliburton company brought in all available pumps from Coleman, Throckmorton, Abilene and Cisco to help.

The McElroy Ranch Company, owners of the well, had their top executives here from Fort Worth and elsewhere. Bill Wallace, son of the W. W. Wallaces of Cisco, who works for McElroy at Odessa, came to help.

Many of the Halliburton and McElroy people had been on the job without rest for 48 hours when we were there Friday night.

YOU CAN SEE some mighty fine examples of what the 4-H Clubs teach if you will drop by the West Texas Utilities Company office. On display are a dozen or so table lamps made by the youngsters in a special contest the 4-H Club is sponsoring. The lamps show real talent and initiative.

MR. E. L. JACKSON, Mrs. Marilyn Schmidt and others have told us about how much they enjoyed visiting the colored school on Friday. This was the day for people to visit the school and a goodly number of people did. The Jacksons reported that a number of people took books for the library. Mrs. Schmidt said the school room was attractive in all respects and that the educational program there seemed top grade.

GUESS WE'LL ALL have to begin practicing for the pancake supper scheduled for Thursday night at the First Christian Church basement. The Booster's Club is staging a pancake eating contest which appeals to us. Understand they have five contestants already for the big event. A feature of the supper will be the appearance of the famous Aunt Jamima, the pancake cooker de luxe.

THE FELLOWS AT Lake Cisco Skating Rink report that their business is picking up as the spring season nears. Thursday night, they had a large crowd of students from Eastland and Moran. And on Friday night, Cisco and Putnam students filled the rink.

MONDAY IS THE opening of National Smile Week, and you'll want to start the day with your brightest smile — and keep smiling all week. The National Smile Week Committee says that people who smile a lot are Joy Scouts. And all you have to do to be a Joy Scout is to smile.

MAYOR G. C. Rosenthal had a busy day the other day. He dropped by The Press office and then went to the First National Bank. There, he parked his car and put a nickel in the parking meter. After transacting his business, he walked off to the city hall.

Two hours later, he decided to go home for lunch and discovered his car was gone. He walked down to The Press before he thought that he had left it at a bank. When he found his car, a red ticket told him he was guilty of over parking.

The mayor paid off.

A preview of the performance

ANNUAL CORONATION OF KING LOBO PLANNED FRIDAY NIGHT

For the annual affair, which is the highlight of the school year, King Lobo XXI will be crowned in ceremonies held at the community gym at 7:30 p. m. Friday, March 13, and Cisco High School students were working hard preparing the program for the coronation.

The five, with their choice for queen, are: Jim Webb and Mary Scott, Irvin Allen Brunkenhoefer and Neeta Moad, H. L. Youngblood and Lael Henderson, Carl Ingram and Nelda Johnson and Bob Lloyd and Allyn Clark.

The four remaining after the selection of the king and queen, will serve as princes and princesses of the realm.

Each class in the high school, the junior high school, the two grade schools and Cisco Junior College has selected a duke and duchess for the coronation services. A complete list of the representatives will be in the Wednesday edition of the Press.

The Junior class, sponsors of the annual affair, have selected a garden scene as the setting for the coronation. The entire floor of the gym will be used for the court. Spectators will be seated in the stands. The garden will be complete with brick fence covered with ivy, flowers and shrubs. The throne and stage will be placed at the east end of the gym.

A musical program has been arranged for the entertainment of the new king and queen, who will reign during the school year. The money derived from the program will be used by the junior class in entertaining the senior class at the annual junior-senior banquet.

Judges selected to date for the event include Kenneth St. Clair, director of the Cisco High School band; Fred Baumgardner and Charles Kiker of Ranger Junior College; Mrs. J. W. George, Albany; Mrs. George Bledsoe, Eastland; and Dale Hitchcock of Eastland. Two or three additional judges will be selected before Saturday.

The official report complimented the unit on the condition of equipment, records and the armory building. The high attendance record of the men was praised.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR PANCAKE SUPPER HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Aunt Jamima in person will be on hand Thursday night to serve her famous pancakes at the Aunt Jamima Pancake Supper sponsored by the Cisco Boosters Club. The supper will be held in the basement of the First Christian Church from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The menu will consist of "all the pancakes you want," bacon, syrup, margarine, coffee or milk. The price for the supper has been set at 50 cents with the proceeds going into the clubs fund for aiding the local schools in building a better athletic program.

The highlight of the program will be a pancake eating contest in which a high school boy or girl will be given a prize for eating the most pancakes. The contest is limited to five contestants and each contestant must have a sponsor. Sponsors so far assured for the contest are J. H. Latson Construction Company, Stafford Roofing Company, Edward Lee Service Station, and Cisco Lumber and Supply Co. The firms paid $5 for the right to enter its contestant.

A musical and novelty program has been arranged to cover the entire three hours of the supper. The contest will be held about the middle of the show.

Most of the products to be used in the supper have been donated by manufacturers and jobbers. A list of the donors will be published later this week.

J. C. Fletcher has been appointed general chairman for the supper and has worked out most of the details. All members of the club are selling tickets and will work where called upon.

Final details of the program will be worked out at the regular weekly meeting of the club at the high school building Monday night.

Albert A. Hansen Enters Race For Commission Post

Albert A. Hansen, a resident of Cisco since 1937, has authorized The Press to announce that he is a candidate for the office of City Commissioner in the annual City election on Tuesday, April 7. A petition to place Mr. Hansen's name on the ballot was filed at the city hall Saturday morning.

A partner in the statewide road building firm of Hansen and Galbraith, Mr. Hansen came to Cisco in 1937 to build the Highway 80 railroad overpass.

"We liked Cisco so well that we decided to buy a home and become citizens," he said.

A native of Iowa, the Hansens have lived in Texas since 1931. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen have three daughters, Mrs. Jimmy Lee, Mrs. Lonnie Crosby and Mrs. Foye Flood.

Besides their residence here, the Hansens have ranching interests in the Cisco area.

"In deciding to permit my name to be entered in the commission race, I reached the decision that every citizen should be willing to do his share in the management of the public's business. If I am elected, I will expect to use my best business judgment in helping operate our community.

"I have never before entered a race for an elective office, and I enter now for no reason other than a desire to discharge the duties and obligations of good citizenship."

BAND PARENTS TO MEET

Members of the Band Parents organization were reminded of the regular meeting at the band hall at 7:30 p. m. Monday. All members were urged to attend as important business will be discussed, and a new plan for raising funds presented.

Ballot Drawing Is Planned Tuesday

Applications for places on the City Election ballot had been filed for three candidates for mayor and four candidates for the city commission at noon Saturday, City Secretary Hal Lavery announced. The deadline for filing was midnight Saturday, but no other candidates had filed as this newspaper went to press.

Petitions in the mayor's race were filed for Mayor G. C. Rosenthal, seeking re-election, for Police Commissioner Joe Britain and for H. V. Kirby.

The four candidates in the commission race were Ace Lucas, B. R. (Bob) Harper, John M. Dunn and Albert A. Hansen. Retiring Commissioners James P. McCracken and Don Rupe had announced they would not run for re-election.

The election, which will be held on Tuesday, April 7, will name a mayor and two commissioners to serve two year terms.

The ballot for the election will be arranged Tuesday night at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission. The candidates will draw for places on the ballot at that time.

FARM PROBLEMS

Farm problems were not much of an issue during the last campaign. Both the candidates endorsed the price support idea, and the speeches aimed at the farm audience were largely of a routine character. It is now evident, however, that the Eisenhower Administration is taking a very different approach to agricultural issues than did the Truman or Roosevelt Administrations. And that approach is based on the philosophy that all the people and all groups should depend less on their government — and more on themselves. The way the new Administration hopes to apply this philosophy in its handling of farm problems was blueprinted in some detail by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, in a speech before a livestock association at St. Paul. "You cannot," he said, "build character by taking away man's initiative and independence. . . . The supreme test of any government policy, agricultural, or other, should be 'How will it affect the character, morale, and well-being of our people?' . . . With the development of mechanized commercial agriculture, the family farm has become closely geared into a complex interdependent industrial economy. There is no hope for peace, growth, or prosperity if each economic group is seeking its own advantage to the detriment of others."

Mr. Benson went on to deal with the price support laws. "These," he assured his audience, "will be carried out faithfully. The existing law makes it mandatory that certain basic commodities (wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and peanuts) must be supported at 90 per cent of parity this year and next. Other farm products must be supported to a lesser extent. Then he said these significant words, "While enforcing these laws, there will be formulated long-term programs which will more fully and effectively accomplish our overall objectives. Price supports should provide insurance against disaster to the farm-producing plant and help to stabilize national food supplies. But price supports which tend to prevent production shifts toward a balanced supply in terms of demand and which encourage uneconomical production and result in continuing heavy surpluses and subsidies should be avoided. . . . We seek a minimum of restrictions on farm production and marketing to permit the maximum of dependence on free market prices as the best guides to production and consumption. Farmers should not be placed in a position of working for government bounty rather than producing for a free market."

Mr. Benson, in other words, believes that the main purpose of his department and other interested government agencies should be to help the farmer stand on his own feet. Certain farm products provide Mr. Benson with ticklish problems now. Butter is an outstanding one. Per capita consumption has been declining, while that of competing fats, such as oleomargarine, has been increasing. Butter is now pegged at 90 per cent of parity, but the Secretary has the authority to reduce this down to 75 per cent. If the 90 per cent parity level is maintained, the government probably will have to buy huge quantities of butter — perhaps as much as 250,000,000 pounds, along with comparable quantities of dry skimmed milk and cheese. If the level were lowered, on the other hand, butter's competitive position would be improved and the free market would take more. Then the government, of course, would be required to buy less.

Regardless of what happens to butter or any other specific commodity, it is now clear that the Administration feels deeply that fundamental changes are needed in agricultural policy. Many spokesmen for the farmer are in agreement.
