

The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

ABOUT THE ONLY thing you can say about the low water level of Lake Cisco is that lack of rain caused it. Figures will show the level of the water has gone down steadily during the last ten years. Along in 1943, the lake was at the highest point in its history. Then the rains started falling gradually off. The last three years have been really bad years with the rainfall being less than 20 inches per year. Last year's rain was the lowest with only 16 inches. And we are expected to get in the neighborhood of 28 inches per year. The city officials have received reports on the water from the new well at the lake park. A laboratory says it has too much solid content to be good for drinking purposes. A report has been received yet from the new well, which everyone who reads it thinks is much better than the other.

ANOTHER CLIPPING handed us by W. P. Knight has to do with rattlesnakes, which our country has plenty of. A recent experiment showed that on a hot day (degrees and up) a rattler becomes harmless after 20 minutes of direct sunlight.

So, if you want to step on a rattler when you are walking around the country, be sure that it's a hot day and the snake has been out in the sun for 20 minutes longer.

ANOTHER CLIPPING left us by Mr. Knight has to do with a couple of fellows up east who ran ads in more than 200 newspapers. The ads suggested that for a dollar you could find out how to make $100 or more in a month addressing envelopes at home.

The first ad on this scheme came out several months ago and the Press ran it. In a couple of weeks or more, a lady told us that she hadn't received anything for her dollar. So we turned it all over to the post office inspectors.

A lot of other newspapers probably did the same thing we did. Anyhow, the postal authorities stepped in and arrested two men for running the ads and taking the people's dollars. They were charged with using the mails in fraud.

Since receiving the first ad, which we innocently ran, we've received two others from the same source. Each was accompanied by a $10 check. And each time, we put it back with the notation: "We do not print this kind of advertising."

MILITARY SERVICE can be a very busy time. How does that sound? That's the title of a pamphlet that we received the other day from the state selective service headquarters. It was written by a young man after his two or three years of military service.

The draft board people thought enough of the article to have thousands of them printed. And the copy goes to each new recruit. The idea that military service is a period of "wasted" time is prevalent to some extent.

Since a fellow must do his part in the military in this day and time, it seems pretty practical to make the most of it. There are a lot of ways that a soldier can profitably use his spare time at military installations. So, if you must go into the service, make the most of the opportunities you receive, is the advice of the selective service people.

OUR GOLFING scouts report that Mr. J. A. Robinson, one of the chairmen of the Cisco Invitation Golf Tournament, had a hard day's work the other afternoon in winning his city tourney match with youthful Bill Bennie. At the end of 18 holes, the match was all square. And JAR had to hole out from 50 feet or so off the green of the 19th hole for a birdie victory. Bill's third shot was about two feet short of the cup. It was a fine game of top golf.

Wild Turkeys To Produce Big Crop For Fall Hunters

AUSTIN, April 17.—The Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission said field reports indicate Texas' vaunted stock of wild turkeys is faring well.

"Our information from the men on the scene is that the big birds are into the nesting season with conditions favorable up to now," he said. "This simply is a progress report covering the pre-hatch period. What happens hereafter cannot be foretold because so many factors affect turkeys as well as all other species of wild life."

Texas, which has more wild turkeys than any other state, had a few bad seasons for its precious birds. Last year, for the first time in four seasons, a decline attributed mainly to the drought, was halted and the flocks began increasing again.

"Now as the flocks break-up and the birds begin laying, with a few reported nesting, it seems that the gains made last year may be held this season," said the Executive Secretary.

Game Warden Bill Garrett of Comfort, in the heart of the Hill Country turkey area, said spring rains have provided the "green stuff" needed when wild turkeys turn from the mast crop. He said turkeys are laying in his area with a few setting.

Game Warden Adolph Heep of Fredericksburg said his observations indicated the best stock of wild turkey in Gillespie County, "in six or seven years."

Game Warden Jack Gregory of Kerrville, county seat of Kerr County which harvested approximately 1,000 turkey gobblers last fall, said prospects were "good." But everybody emphasized that "everything depends on what happens during the delicate hatching and growing season."

AUSTIN - House and Senate wrestled this week with a new kind of appropriation bill - one that undertook to budget not only the state's general revenue fund, but also the all other sources such as federal aid and direct income such as highway taxes and college fees. Last week a joint conference committee agreed on the total of expenditures for the next two years: $1,194,266,221. It was higher than the amount set by either House or Senate in their appropriation bills. The general revenue figure was put at $166,569,347. Previous appropriation bills have dealt only with this fund. Appropriations as set by the committee were estimated to be within the revenue that the state will receive during the coming biennium, thus it would call for no new taxation. The bill provides $180 a year pay increase for state employees and up to $300 a year pay hikes for university and college teachers.

The House has backed up Representative Max C. Smith of San Marcos, chairman of the appropriations committee, in his statement that under House rules no other appropriation bill may be acted upon until the general appropriation measure is passed by both houses. That rule stymied public school teachers, who have been pressing hard for action on a measure that would give them salary increases of $600 per year. Charles Tennyson, secretary of Texas State Teachers Association, says that no smaller amount will be acceptable to the teachers. It is provided in a bill by Representative Lamar Zivley of Temple. The administration is supporting a measure by Representative Joe Kilgore of McAllen to up the teachers' salaries by $450 per year. In an attempt to woo the teachers, Kilgore changed the figure in his bill from $240. A third bill by Representative Floyd Bradshaw of Weatherford would raise the salaries of beginning teachers by $600 per year, but the increase of older and more experienced teachers would be lower. Twelve hundred teachers were in the gallery when the House appropriations committee held a hearing on the teachers pay bills. At the hearing, R. L. Proffer of Denison, president of the teachers association, said, "If we don't do something constructive for the teachers in the immediate future, our whole education system is going to pot." Kilgore warned the House that "it will require the biggest tax bill in the history of this Legislature if the school folks get a $600 per year general raise with state funds."

The Legislature, meanwhile, seemed little inclined to pass new tax bills. Hearings continued on a proposal to raise $84 million a year by increased taxes on oil, gas, beer, and various natural resources, and by placing new taxes on chemical industries and presently untaxed resources. Passage of this omnibus bill is considered very doubtful. Other tax propositions are dead or dying. The House revenue and taxation committee killed a two per cent levy on merchandise sales. A new tax bill on natural gas pipelines is comatose in the committee, with no hearing set. A one-cent increase in the gasoline tax is in the same condition. Letting bills die in committee is the way the Legislature gets rid of most of them. At every session, more bills are introduced than the members can possibly consider, much less debate and either pass or defeat. Thus it was that a house committee gave an overdose of sleeping powders to a bill by Representative Maury Maverick of San Antonio to regulate lobbyists. The bill would force members of the "third house" to register, tell whom they represent and how, and list their expenses. The committee heard arguments for and against the bill, then sent it to a sub-committee, from whence it is not likely to emerge. A fight was promised by labor organizations against a bill by Representative W. H. Abington to rewrite the workmen's compensation laws. The Texas Federation of Labor, the Texas CIO and the rail brotherhoods contend that the bill would reduce partial disability benefits for many workers and exclude others from benefits for which they are now eligible. Industry spokesmen said they might not support the bill in its present revised form, although they favored it as originally written. The bill has been passed by a committee. Texas Manufacturers Association entertained members of the Legislature during Texas Industrial Week at a dinner where the main speaker was Clarence Manion of South Bend, Ind., former dean of Notre Dame law school. Manion spoke of the "evil concentration of power in the executive branch of our federal government." He urged that this power be broken up and returned to the states and to the local communities within the states.

Land Commissioner Bascom Giles pledged a "fight to the last" on any amendment to the Veterans Land Program which would take away from the veteran mineral rights he now owns. Veterans now receive, in land purchases under the program, a minimum of 50 per cent of the oil rights, Giles said, and every fourth veteran who has purchased property is ahead of his payments because of revenue from mineral development. Legal action will be taken against distributors of Communist propaganda in Texas if they can be arrested, said Attorney General John Ben Shepperd. Shepperd disclosed that one of his assistants went to New York for the purpose of conferring with the attorney general of that state in an attempt to apprehend the persons who mailed Red leaflets to Texans recently. SHORT SNORTS: There was a birthday Sunday at the Confederate Home for one of the only four surviving veterans of the Confederate Army. He is Thomas Evans Riddle, who was at Gettysburg. He is now 107 years old. Passed by the House was a bill freeing radio and television stations from liability for what is said over the stations, except by their own employees. The State School for the Blind is now part of the Texas Education System and is no longer under the jurisdiction of the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools. A law providing for the change was signed by the governor.

One of Austin's bright minds came up with some new definitions this week: "An economist - a man who tells you what to do with the money you would not have if you had followed his proposals" - and a statistician - "A character who can draw a mathematically precise line from an unwarranted assumption to a foregone conclusion" - and an expert - "Someone who can take something you already knew and make it sound confusing."

For the Men Who Succeed -

... and for those who will some day succeed them, our suggestion is that they invest part of their earnings in real estate. Wise investments in real properties have yielded fortunes to many people. And those who succeed in this ventures never gamble on the title. They buy only quality abstracts made by those who have themselves invested wisely — in their plant — in their personnel — and in their responsibility to the public.

HEALTH TALKS

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

It has been estimated that in the average American family of five, one member will spend four days in a hospital during the course of a year.

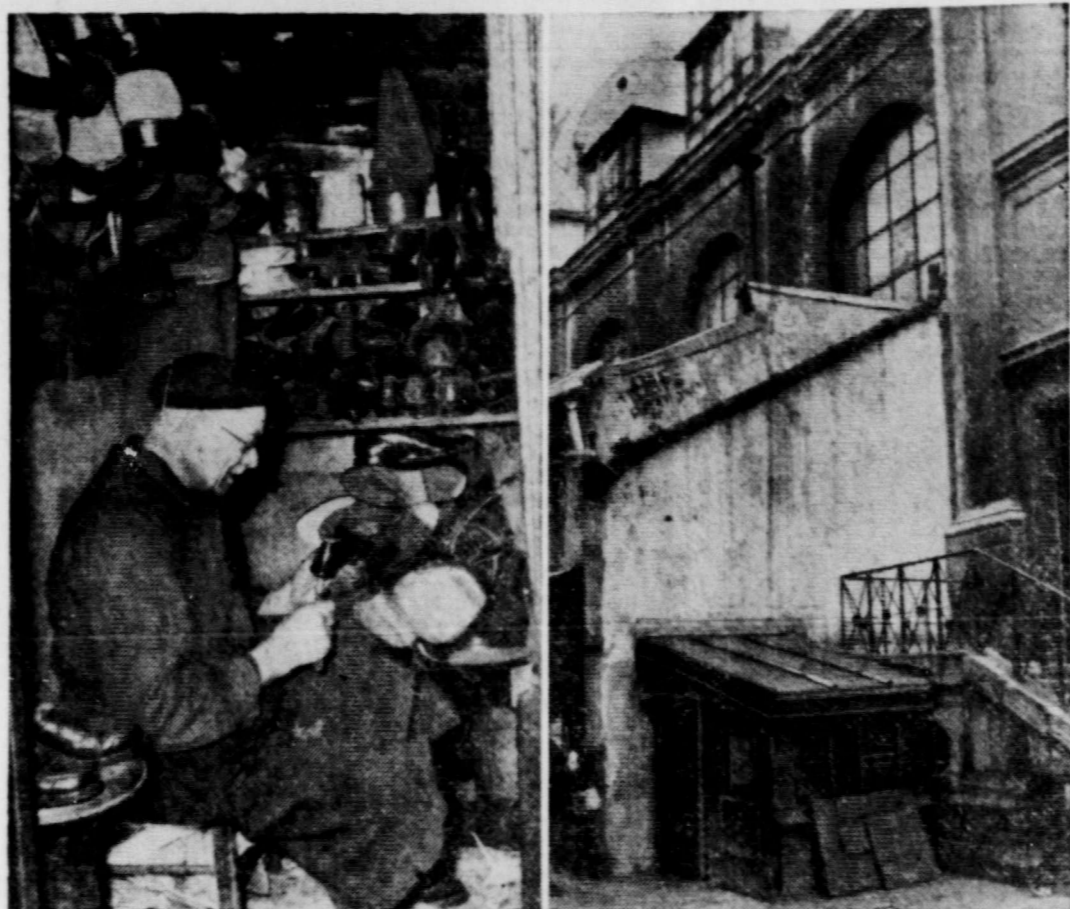

Most people are only vaguely aware that the hospital has other jobs to do than to care for the sick.

The roles citizens play in relation to hospitals are varied. First, of course, they are patients. Next, they contribute to financial support of these institutions in ways other than paying bills.

Therefore, it can be seen that the hospital is not a highly impersonal business run by "someone else."

Hospitals admit their dependence, not only on public support but on sister hospitals in the local area as well.
