Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

AUSTIN—Before leaving Austin, the legislators said to each other, "Goodbye, see you at the special session."

It is expected that Governor Shivers will call them back when the courts make a final decision on the natural gas tax.

If the tax is upheld, the state will have available the money that has been piling up since the tax was passed by the previous legislature, plus a monthly return of some $1 million.

Governor Shivers has predicted that the court test will come to an end in the Fall.

Reviewing the session, Governor Shivers commended the legislators as a hard-working lot who had put through about 75 to 85 per cent of the program he requested.

He thus revised upward a previous estimate that only a small fraction of his program was completed.

Lawmakers deserve praise, the governor said, for passing some legislation and for defeating other bills.

It was well, he thought, that no new taxes were passed, no expensive state services were inaugurated, and no punitive measures were taken against either labor or management.

As to legislation passed, the governor thought these measures were good:

Authorizing new tuberculosis hospitals at San Antonio and Harlingen; setting up a stronger water conservation program; establishing a state toll road authority; increasing the pay of state employees $180 per year; toning down the auto safety inspection law; providing three-day jail sentences for driving while intoxicated; and taking steps to study the deal with alcoholism.

The chief executive also thought favorably of these proposed constitutional amendments, to be voted on by the people in November next year:

Permitting Texans in the armed services to vote; authorizing use of a surplus in the Confederate Pension fund for state buildings; boosting the ceiling on state welfare expenditures from $35 million to $42 million; and permitting women to serve on juries.

There were several of the governor's proposals that the legislature failed to put into effect, including: Revising the election code; congressional and judicial redistricting; raising the money for road building; financing new buildings at Southwestern Medical School at Dallas, the University of Texas cancer research hospital and dental school, the deaf school and the prison system; and providing public school teachers a salary raise.

Increasing the teachers' pay was the hottest and most controversial issue of the session.

Teachers asked for $600 per year additional salary — they got nothing, although a compromise, had they accepted it, would have given them $306.

"It wasn't so much the money," the teachers' spokesmen explained. "It was the principle of the thing."

They said that administration leaders never considered any way of financing the pay increase except by hiking local property taxes.

School people also balked at the administration's insistence that state payments to school supervisors and counsellors be eliminated.

A statement was issued by the Texas State Teachers Association to the effect that it "should not be and has not been in the position of being willing to cripple or sacrifice its school program for the conditional promise of a small salary increase when the principles involved were so far-reaching."

The association said it would continue its fight for salary raises at the next session and pointed out that a special session could be called to deal specifically with this problem.

In addition to the proposed constitutional amendments listed above, these additional ones were passed by the Legislature and will be submitted to the people:

Increasing the pay of elected state officials, including members of the Legislature; giving precinct, county, and district office two-year terms instead of one-year terms; permitting teaching retirement system and state employe retirement system credits to be transferred; forbidding the state to assume any debt on bonds issued to build toll roads; allowing state and local government workers to go under the federal social security plan; and authorizing counties under 10,000 population to keep separate tax assessor-collectors by local option.

Some of these issues are controversial — you'll be hearing more about them as election time approaches.

As the session ended, Governor Shivers' desk piled up with bills passed and sent to him for his signature. He signed 25 of them in one day. These included provisions to:

Permit courts to order compulsory hospitalization of those who use narcotics except under a doctor's order.

Give the University of Texas regents power to lease land on the Southwestern Medical School campus to private research agencies.

Hike from $150 to $200 per month the Confederate pension of Walter W. Williams and his wife, who live near Franklin. Williams is one of the only two Confederate veterans living in Texas.

Set aside $30,000 to prosecute the Rio Grande water fess with New Mexico.

Give state and local government workers 15 days annual military leave for National Guard or reserve training without loss of vacation time or salary. Members of the Legislature are excepted.

If Governor Shivers and Lieutenant Governor Ben Ramsey should both leave the state at the same time, the acting governor will be Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton.

BUY BUDDY POPPIES IN CISCO SATURDAY, JUNE 6

Sponsored by the Cisco Post 3359, VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS

BUDDY POPPIES SYMBOL OF A NATION'S DEVOTION

Emblem of the dead and dying on the fields of Flanders in 1918, the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy has been glorified by the American people as their "Flower of Remembrance."

Down through the years, ever since 1922 to be exact, the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy has given to all patriotic citizens—rich and poor alike—their chance to honor the dead by helping the living.

The annual sale of Buddy Poppies serves two great purposes. It fosters the beautiful custom of wearing these little flowers, once each year, in mute salute to the memory of America's honored dead; it provides the funds that are required to serve the daily personal needs of the nation's disabled and needy veterans, and their dependents.

There are millions of unfortunate veterans—as well as widows and orphans and dependent parents—who are unable to qualify for government aid.

Why? Mainly because the government itself—in time of war—has never been able to maintain accurate records on the physical welfare of each individual in uniform.

Through no fault of their own, these veterans—many of them the victims of the lingering effects of exposure, shock and malnutrition—are unable to qualify for help from their government because their service records fail to confirm the origin of their ailments.

Your support of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies makes it possible for the Veterans of Foreign Wars to maintain its great, nationwide program of free rehabilitation service to the millions of needy veterans.

Every dime or dollar which you may give in exchange for a Buddy Poppy goes into a special sacred fund—one that will be spent for nothing but the relief and rehabilitation of America's disabled veterans, and their needy loved ones.

Remember the dead who are buried near the battlefields where they died, or in our cemeteries here at home. Let's do them honor by helping the living!

For hospital entertainment, for needy veterans and service patients.

For the aid, relief and comfort of disabled and needy veterans, their dependents, or their widows and orphans.

For rehabilitation, welfare and service work, including liaison service with the Veterans Administration.

For maintenance or expansion of the V.F.W. National Home for widows and orphans of veterans at Easton Rapids, Mich.

For acquisition, improvement and maintenance of burial plots and the decoration of graves of veterans and servicemen.

For necessary expenses for military funerals of deceased veterans.

Remove all branches growing where leaves join the main stem of staked tomatoes.

Tomatoes on Fence Yield Most Food for Space Used

Tomato plants, pruned to a single stem and supported on stakes, picket fence or trellis can give a larger yield per square foot of space occupied than any other vegetable.

They deserve a gardener's best care, and this should begin by planting them properly after all danger of frost is over. Do not let high temperatures before frost has ended persuade you to take a chance, from which there is nothing to be gained and much to be lost.

Even a severe chill may set your plants back and delay the harvest. Two varieties should always be grown, one early and one late. An early hybrid variety will give a heavy yield in midsummer for salad use. Heavier yields lasting until late fall are given by plants which take longer to mature.

Stocky plants are the best to buy, rather than older, taller and more spindly specimens. Plants grown to a single stem may be set 12 inches apart. The support to which they are tied must be stout and strongly anchored, to resist wind.

A single stem plant may be twisted around a stout cord, which is tied at top and bottom. In tying a plant to its support, use a strip of cloth, or a large, soft cord which will not cut, looped loosely around the stem.

Plants may be pruned with two stems, in which case set them 21 inches apart. Select one side branch starting 10 inches above the surface and allow it to grow as the second stem, pruning off all its side branches.

Pruning requires regular attention. The plant starts with a central stem or leader. When the first blossoms appear, at each joint made by a leaf with the stem, a branch begins to grow. To prune the plant these side shoots are removed before they are four inches long.

No other leaves should be pruned from tomato plants; and so-called determinate varieties should not be staked and pruned. Fruits need the shade furnished by leaves to avoid sunburn. To make the first blossoms set fruit, spray them with a hormone sold for that purpose.

Tomato roots spread widely just below the soil surface so cultivation should never be deep enough to disturb them. An abundant supply of water is required, and lack of it causes decayed spots on the fruit opposite the stem, called blossom-end rot. Moisture is conserved by applying a mulch of lawn clippings, six inches thick, all along the tomato row.

If you are a smoker, wash your hands thoroughly before handling tomato plants, and do not touch tobacco until your work with them is finished.

Tobacco may have a disease which can be transmitted to the tomato plants. The same precautions should be taken whether fruit is picked, or any work is done with the tomatoes.

These two plants are distant relatives, and not only share the same disease, but are attacked by the same kind of worm, a green horn monster, which fortunately is easily seen, and killed before he can do much damage.
