UNDERWATER TREASURE

The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

ONE OF THE most unusual events we've ever attended was a barbecue last Friday night in a cow pasture four miles north of Clyde. It was a barbecue to celebrate the completion of an oil well, and a former Cisco man is a partner in the well.

Many of you will remember Frank Peebles, who grew up in Cisco and graduated from CHS in 1925. His dad was John Peebles, who lost his life in a nitroglycerin factory explosion near Lake Bernie here in 1919.

THE NEW OIL well and the barbecue provided the climax of the Peebles story. So, to start back at the beginning, Frank came up the hard way. He has worked hard for everything he has. After his dad died, he helped support himself from boyhood. At the age of 10, he was a western union boy in Cisco. He worked at odd jobs while he was in high school.

After leaving school, Frank was a professional boxer for some three years until he got his nose cracked up to the point where he had to quit. Then, he started roughnecking and worked in oil fields all over the country.

BY THE TIME World War II came along, Frank was in Hobbs, New Mexico, in the oil well supply business. Here he met Ned Butler, former All-American basketball player at Tulsa University. Together they enlisted in the Air Force and were assigned to the Hobbs Air Base — Frank was a boxing coach and Ned as a basketball coach.

After the war, Frank married (in 1947) and was with Larkin Packer Company for several years at Wichita Falls. He had always wanted to be a drilling contractor.

One day recently, he was in Abilene. He started to get in his car to leave, but decided to drop into a newstand first. There, he ran into Ned Butler — his wartime friend — again. Ned, who has been doing well in the construction business in Snyder, asked about everything.

Talking, Frank mentioned his desire to buy a drilling rig. Ned said he'd be a partner. So they bought one and started drilling up in Jack County.

FINISHING A contract there, Frank ran into A. T. Halbert of Stamford. Halbert had a lease on part of the Dyer Ranch north of Clyde. He'd farm-out the lease to Frank and Ned. Frank took the deal.

As many another Texas wildcat has been drilled, Frank started selling interests in the well to get expense money.

They traded Roy Parnell, Wichita Falls trucking contractor, a sixteenth interest to haul the equipment to the location. Roy had done this many times before, but had never hit oil.

Frank Melton, West Texas Chamber of Commerce staff member in Abilene and Frank's neighbor, took a sixteenth for $1,000 — his first venture in oil. Louis Gribble of the Big State Tool Company, Abilene, took a sixteenth in return for furnishing equipment and testing work. Dr. J. C. Duff of Anton paid $1,000 for a sixteenth interest.

Frank had two other sixteenth shares he planned to sell, but just didn't have time to get out and make the sales.

DRILLING STARTED in May on the Butler and Peebles at No. 1 A. E. Dyer Heirs. At 1,682 feet they topped the Cook sand. Drilling another five feet, a drill stem test was run. The well flowed oil. They set pipe and completed. The potential test said the well was good for 205 barrels per day — good oil and flowing.

Success on the first venture is not always the story of the wildcatter, but it's not uncommon. Frank ran into Col. A. E. Dyer of the big ranch. They decided on a celebration barbecue. Col. Dyer killed seven Angus yearlings. Three hundred people were invited and they all came.

Frank told W. J. Armstrong to bring anybody he wanted to bring. And Mr. WJA invited us. Mr. Karl Armstrong and Mr. H. H. Davis of Cisco also were there. John Maloney, the writer; Tommy Shedd, his assistant; and Randy Steffen, the artist, accompanied us.

It was a grand party.

Accident Occurs Near Family Home

Two sisters, nine and 11 years of age, lost their lives in a drowning accident in a stock tank on their father's farm some 11 miles south of Cisco shortly before noon Monday.

Dead were Gwendolyn and Jeanette Gerhardt, only daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Gerhardt, who live on Rising Star, Rt. 1. The drownings occurred at about 11 a. m. in a tank less than 75 yards from the family home.

The two girls, along with a friend, Alice Ruth Stroebel and their two smaller brothers, James and Johnnie, Jr., had gone to the tank to wade in the shallow water. Apparently Jeanette stepped into water over her head and became strangled. Gwendolyn, the younger of the two, went to her sister's aid.

The Stroebel girl ran to the Gerhardt home for help. Mrs. Gerhardt, in the house with another son, Larry, was the first to hear the news of her daughter's danger. She called to Bill Ramsey, a farm hand who was working nearby. He ran to the tank to attempt the rescue.

He plunged into the water fully clothed and located Gwendolyn, floating face down just under the surface of the water. He removed her from the water and began artificial respiration. Jeanette was not in sight.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Gerhardt started for help. She first got in a pickup truck, but found that it had a flat tire. She got in the family car and went to the field where Mr. Gerhardt was working with a combine. The field was located about a mile from the Gerhardt home.

With a neighbor, Hamp Kornegay, the parents rushed to the scene of the accident. Gerhardt began giving artificial respiration to Gwendolyn, while Ramsey and Kornegay dived for Jeanette.

Kornegay discovered Jeanette's body in 12 feet of water, and brought her to the surface. It was estimated that she had been under water for 30 minutes.

The two were loaded into a car to be brought to Graham Hospital here. As they enter the city limits their car broke down. They hailed Mrs. Ray Royall, who had been to the hospital, and transferred the girls to the Royall car.

Physicians began working immediately on the two girls and an emergency call went out to the Cisco Volunteer Fire Department for resuscitator equipment. They entered the hospital at 11:35 a. m. Jeanette was pronounced dead at 1:30 p. m. and Gwendolyn at 2:10 p. m. Doctors reported a faint pulse in Gwendolyn, but more than two hours of work failed to add to the spark.

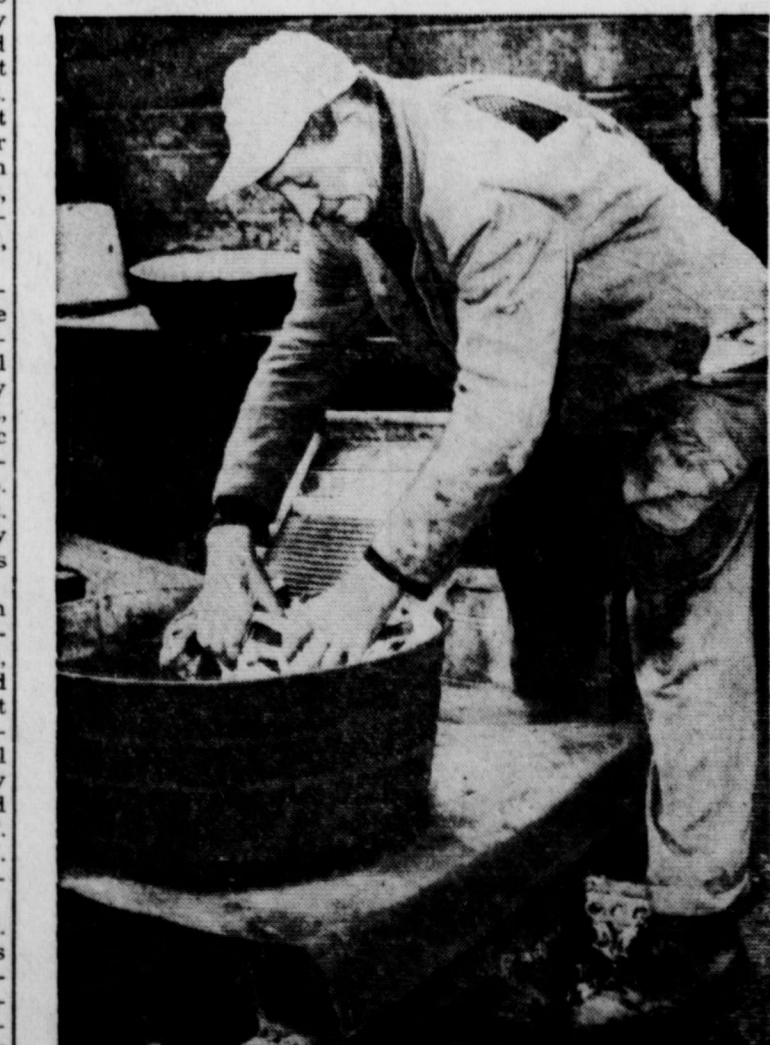

Jeanette was born on December 5, 1941, and Gwendolyn was born on December 1, 1943. Both girls had lived on the Gerhardt farm all their lives. The farm was homesteaded by their grandfather in the early 1900s.

A short funeral service has been planned for 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at Higginbotham Funeral Chapel in Rising Star. Following that service the bodies will be brought to Cisco where services will be held at 4 p. m. at Grace Lutheran Church, where they had attended services for several years. The Rev. James F. Hennig, pastor, will conduct the final rites. Burial will be in the Lutheran Cemetery located near Romney. Higginbotham Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

In addition to their parents and their three small brothers, they are survived by their paternal grandmother, Mrs. John Gerhardt, Sr., who lived in the same house with her granddaughters. She was not at home when the accident occurred.

CURTIS IN HOSPITAL

Henry H. Curtis, Justice of the peace, was a patient at the Graham Hospital today. He became ill Sunday while attending church and was taken to the hospital. His condition was described as satisfactory.

HEALTH TALKS

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

If life insurance statistics are any indication, Jack Spratt probably outlived his wife. Studies of the last twenty-five years or so have exploded several notions. First to go was that the hale, hearty, stout man was a good insurance risk. Now it is known that excess weight not only reduces the life span in general but actually sets the stage for disease.

The patient who is too fat (obese) is likely to fall heir to heart or kidney disease, diabetes, or high blood pressure. In addition, because of his appearance he may develop an inferiority complex, a serious personality problem, or mental disease. Why, then, is it so hard for him to stick to a diet even when he realizes the odds he's up against, medically speaking? Some scientists believe that overeating is a way of finding satisfaction denied in other ways. Others think there must be something in the heredity or physical make-up of the obese person that makes him store fat more easily. Regardless of the exact cause, authorities agree that 85 per cent of the estimated 15,000,000 Americans who are overweight get that way because the body takes in more food than it can spend in energy. Even if the "glands" are to blame, the patient usually overeats.

Diet, therefore, is the most important part of treatment. Physicians recommend more liberal diets today in the hope that patients will follow them better. Medically supervised diets usually allow more food than those patients may dream up for themselves. Exercise has a limited place in weight reduction; it is

Attorney General John Ben Shepperd wants to oust from Texas the "communist-dominated" International Fur and Leather Workers Union of the U. S. and Canada.

Shepperd asked for an injunction against the union and its agent, Emanuel Coutlakis, on the grounds that they had not registered with the Texas secretary of state.

Coutlakis, the attorney general said, has been attempting to organize the workers of a tanning company of San Antonio. In line with Shepperd's request, District Judge Charles O. Betts issued a temporary restraining order.

SHORT SNORTS: Frank D. useful mostly for keeping good muscle tone. Reducing pills may or may not be a part of treatment. The doctor will not prescribe them if he feels that because of individual circumstances they may be harmful. The doctor can prescribe a diet, help change bad eating habits, and perhaps help readjust an unfavorable emotional or mental outlook so that the patient won't be so badly tempted to overeat. However, the main responsibility for reducing lies with the patient, his family, and friends.

Corn Builds Farm Soil When Properly Managed

Hammer mower and mulch planter at work in a fall seeded ryegrass cover-crop. No plowing or cultivation.

Corn is often considered to be a soil-depleting crop; and usually so classified in agricultural programs. Prof. Melsted of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station in CROPS & SOILS shows us that this is "dead wrong."

There is now evidence that, with adapted hybrid seed, adequate fertilization, and the right kind of management, corn may well be one of the farmer's most profitable soil-building crops. But — and here comes the rub — we may have to modify our cultural practices to accomplish this. Prof. Melsted shows how soil fertility, soil organic matter, and soil tilth may be maintained under a system of continuous corn culture. The principal reason for our thinking that continuous corn or the corn-soybean rotation, is bad for the soil comes from our management of such rotations. Exploitive agriculture and low fertilization are the explanation. Under these practices the fertile Midwest prairie soils have lost their organic matter and have eroded badly.

Nitrogen is the only soil nutrient in which one has the choice of supplying it as a fertilizer or through the growth of legumes, and the problem really becomes this: Can continuous corn and commercial nitrogen do as much as a legume crop in a rotation to build up our soils?

The more organic matter the soil loses the poorer its physical properties become and the lower its productive capacity without fertilizers. Legume residues will form more soil organic matter than either straw or stover. However, if nitrogen is added to the straw and stover as they are returned to the soil, these residues can form as much soil organic matter as the legume.

When the "no-cultivation" practices used with such crops are imposed upon the corn crop, it too may become a builder of soil tilth. Where sufficient moisture is present in the soil, the growing of a legume, grass, or small grain between the corn rows and the growing of fall cover crops seeded in the corn early in the fall provide excellent erosion and weed control, lessen the need for excessive cultivation, and greatly increase the amount of residues available for conversion to soil organic matter.

After all, there is nothing inherent in the corn plant that makes it "hard" on the soil. Lack of adequate fertilization, failure to maintain organic matter in the soil, and excess cultivation practices are responsible for the deleterious action of corn on soils. When properly managed and adequately fertilized, corn may well be a most profitable soil-building crop.

Miss Lovell Paul Becomes Bride Of Mr. Phillips In Ceremony On Sunday

On Sunday afternoon, June 7, Miss Lovell June Paul, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Paul, became the bride of Richard Phillips of Eastland, son of Mrs. James Still of Eastland, in a double ring ceremony at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Eastland. The Rev. Arthur E. Hartwell officiated.

The church was decorated with arrangements of white gladiolus and stock at the center of the altar and the standard candelabra on either side. Other decorations were altar vases of gladiolus and stock and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace and nylon tulle over taffeta fashioned with a strapless bodice with a lace fitted jacket which buttoned down the front with lace covered buttons. Lace over the hips formed a buffont skirt.

Her veil of imported French illusion was attached to a cap of lace over satin trimmed with pearls. She carried an arrangement of gardenias and stepenotis atop a white satin prayer book.

Miss Louise Terry of Ft. Worth was maid of honor and Misses Jean Tierney of Fort Worth and Carolyn Crofts and Anita Carlin of Cisco were bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of rose antique chrysom in waltz length fashioned with a fitted bodice with portrait neckline and bracelet length shirred sleeves. The skirts were fashioned with tucks. Their waists were marked with velvet sashes. They wore roses circular veils, caught at the sides with pearls, and carried cascade bouquets of rose asters. The maid of honor carried a cascade of wine asters.

John Herman Caskey of Lubbock served the groom as best man and Thomas Taylor of Quanah, Roy Boyd of Houston, and Blair Paul, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Cynthia Smith, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She was dressed in a dress of pink chambray with white nylon pinafore. She carried a basket of baby bonnet asters.

The bride's mother was dressed in blue antique taffeta trimmed in rhinestones with pink accessories and pink sweetheart rose corsage. She wore a pink ribbon hat. The groom's mother was dressed in pink sarysa dress with bolero and trimmed in braid and rhinestones. She wore white accessories, a gardenia corsage, and a white lace hat.

Miss Jane Huestis played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Bill Russ who sang "O Perfect Love," by Barnby and "I Will Sing New Songs of Gladness," by Dvorak.

A reception was held at the home of bride's parents at 708 Ave. I, following the ceremony. The house was decorated with baskets of gladiolus and stock in front of the mantel. The table was laid with a white cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of gladiolus and stock with tall silver candlesticks on either side. Also on the table was the three tiered wedding cake.

The couple were assisted in receiving by their parents, the bridesmaids, and the maid of honor.

Mrs. John Shertzer ledeled the punch and Mrs. J. J. Porter cut the wedding cake. Mrs. Jack McWhorter presided at the bride's book. Music was furnished at the reception by Miss Jane Huestis at the piano and Mona Lee Cluck at the violin.

Members of the house party were Misses Sally Gallagher, Virginia Weiser, Laura Lou Morris, Bernice Ann McCrea, Betty Lou Brogdon, Janet Ferguson, and Mesdames Bob Thurston, Fred Scott, Sutton Crofts, Ernest Lennon, Don Choate, and Hal Lavery.

This bride chose a navy blue foille suit with navy and white straw hat and white accessories for traveling. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Phillips attended at N. W. C. and received degrees at North Texas State College. The bride is a member of Kappa Theta Pi and the groom of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Following a wedding trip to Monterey, Mexico, the couple will be at home in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Bosworth have returned from a vacation trip to Corpus Christi and Eagle Mountain.

OES Chapter Installs New Officers In Rites Held Saturday Night

Mrs. Lorena Thompson was installed as worthy matron and H. L. Thompson as worthy patron of the Cisco Chapter 461 of the Order of Eastern Star in impressive ceremonies held at the Masonic Hall Saturday evening, June 6, at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Parmer, past matron, opened the meeting. The hall was decorated with baskets of gladiolus and cut garden flowers. On each side of the pedestal at the star points was a crystal bowl of flowers in the colors appropriate to each station.

The presentation of the Bible was given by Gatha Sue and Linda Thompson, children of the worthy matron and worthy patron. The officers were dressed alike in formal dresses in lavender foille and white lace and white foille and lace. Each wore a corsage presented them by the worthy matron.

Other officers installed with Mrs. Thompson and Mr. Thompson were Hazel Turknett, associate matron; Grover McGowen, associate patron; Irene Britain, secretary; Mary Emma Brown, treasurer; Bernice Gorr, conductress; Minnie Baum, associate conductress; Meda Strawn, chaplain; Annie McGowen, marshal; Eugene Cotton, organist; Virgie Redwine, Ada; Norma Cooper, Ruth; Pearl Trapp, Esther; Eula Smallwood, Martha; and Martha Moad, Electa.

Statewide Meet Of Credit Groups Planned At A&M

COLLEGE STATION, June 9.—A statewide meeting of the Production Credit Associations of Texas will be held at Texas A. and M. College, August 9 to 12, according to an announcement by Charles N. Shephardson, dean of agriculture.

The meeting will be sponsored jointly by the School of Agriculture of the state, and the Houston Production Credit Corporation. About 275 persons are expected, consisting principally of farmers and ranchmen who are serving as the officers and directors of the Associations.

Members of the college staff will present economic information relating to agricultural finance and discuss sound farm and ranch management practices as the basis for successful production loans. Representatives of the associations will devote some time to a discussion of their own practices and problems.

"It is the policy of the college to provide all interested groups of farmers and ranchmen of the state with information on economic as well as production matters," said Dean Shephardson. "This conference is being jointly sponsored by the School of Agriculture in accordance with that policy.

"Production costs in agriculture have increased greatly since the war. Short term debts are now more than 250 percent higher than they were seven years ago. These borrowings are used mainly to buy machinery, livestock, fertilizer, feed and other production goods. With prices of agricultural commodities declining much more rapidly than production costs, it is increasingly important that all farmers examine their credit and management practices," concluded Dean Shephardson.

Six Doctors Are Awarded Courses Of Special Study

Continuing its professional education program which has already trained many workers with the handicapped, the Texas Society for Crippled Children, the Easter Seal Society, has awarded scholarships to six Texas doctors, according to Martin M. Ricker, executive director.

The $500 scholarships will cover their tuition and expense while attending a two-week course in the technique of early diagnosis of cerebral palsy by Dr. Meyer A. Perlstein, one of the nation's leading authorities on cerebral palsy. The course, is being held at Cook Graduate School of Medicine, Chicago, and will begin June 15.

Scholarship winners are: E. H. Kent, M. D., Orange; O. P. Sanders, M. D., Dallas; Harold Bevil, M. D., Beaumont; R. H. Jordan, M. D., Dallas; J. E. Rorie, M. D., Texarkana.

Their specialized studies will make possible the expansion of important services to cerebral palsied children in Texas.

Austin Attorney Heads State Bar

AUSTIN, June 9.—Everett L. Looney, Austin attorney, has been elected president of the State Bar of Texas in a statewide election just completed among the state's 11,300 lawyers. R. V. Nichols of Fort Worth was elected vice-president.

Looney is currently serving as vice-president and Nichols on the organization's board of directors. They will begin one-year terms in their new offices at the close of the 1953 State Bar convention in Fort Worth on July Fourth.

Results of the mail balloting were announced by current President J. Glenn Turner, Dallas.

Also elected were five new directors, each for three-year terms, for five of the state's congressional districts. They are Ben L. Parten Sr., Franklin, 6th congressional district; W. C. McClain, Conroe, 7th district; E. M. Dodson, Marlin, 11th; Lloyd A. Wicks Sr., Ralls, 19th; and A. P. Allison, Kerrville, 21st.

Two directors were returned to office for new terms. They are R. L. Dillard Jr., Dallas, 5th Congressional district, and Joe A. Keith, Sherman, 4th district. Both were serving appointive terms to fill vacancies on the board of directors and were eligible to run for three-year terms.

Looney's opponent in the presidential race was coultter T. Hoppess of Bryan. Other candidates in the race for vice-president were William N. Bonner of Houston and Odrian A. Spears of San Antonio.

Mrs. H. G. Winn of Houston is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. E. E. Kean, who is ill.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

June is traditionally the month for weddings, and many couples will be taking marriage vows within the next few weeks. But the act of marrying another person does not give you the authorization to take control of his property.

Generally speaking, each spouse has the right to control and dispose of his or her own separate property. The separate property of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired by either after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Aside from the ordinary community estate, there is a class of property known as the wife's "special community," which includes all the income from her separate real property, and probably the interest on bonds or notes, and dividends on stocks owned in her separate right. While the husband may have similar assets, the law accords them no particular distinction from ordinary community property.

Although the history of the matter is somewhat confusing, it appears that under present day law the husband has control of ordinary community property; but control of the wife's special property is reserved to her.

Certain restrictions are imposed upon both husband and wife in exercising such control. For instance, the husband cannot legally dispose of community property in such a way as to defraud the wife, nor can he sell the homestead without her signature and acknowledgment. And the wife's sale or mortgage of her separate real estate, stocks or bonds is not valid unless her husband joins with her in the transaction — he must sign and execute the necessary legal papers along with her.

There are laws exempting the wife's separate and special community property from liability for debts incurred by the husband. Such liability is restricted to his separate property and the

Beef Production Course Planned

COLLEGE STATION, June 9.—A short course in beef cattle problems will be held at Texas A. and M. College during the week of August 17.

The course is designed for both commercial cattlemen and purebred breeders and will cover the various phases of breeding, feeding, management and disease and parasite control, with emphasis on some of the newer developments in the field of beef cattle husbandry. Work with various breeds of beef cattle will be included and practice sessions will be provided.

Nationally known persons in the beef cattle field will be brought in on the program as well as staff members of the Animal Husbandry Department.
