MORE PURCHASING POWER

The basic tenet of Communism, which Marx argued and developed in elaborate detail in Das Kapital, is that capitalism exploits the masses for the benefit of the few, and that increasing industrialization under capitalism would inevitably lead to more exploitation coupled with a steady decline in living standards.

The exploitation theory, of course, is still one of the big talking points of the Communists, just as it was at the time of the Russian revolution. It is repeated ad nauseum in the Soviet press and on the Soviet radio. The prime target and example is always the United States.

Consumer Demand Continues Growth In 1954

A review of the 1954 trends in the six major business activities reveals wide differences in the direction and amount of change. Consumer expenditures and construction were moving sharply upward. The rate of inventory accumulation by business, and government expenditures for national security — showed a pronounced downward movement.

The two remaining components — business expenditures for new productive equipment and government expenditures other than for national security — declined slightly.

Thus 1954 has been an adjustment period; government reduced its defense outlays and business decided to reduce its inventories.

Do It Yourself It's Easy to Grow Plants With Scientific Seed Box. Includes diagram of the seed box and descriptive text.

Inexpensive Equipment Will Insure Ample Light and Water to Your Plants and Protect Them From Disease.

Scientific researchers who have studied the problem of starting seeds in an indoor box, found the chief reasons for failure to be too much or too little water, the development of fungus disease, a lack of light. Research found means to prevent all these troubles, if you wish to use them.

Begin with a proper seed box, such as a standard "flat" which measures about 15x24 inches, and 3 in. deep. Use a smaller box if you wish, but not less than 2 inches deep. Each plant needs eight cubic inches of soil to grow without a check.

This box may be equipped for one of two methods of automatic watering. First is the wick method, for which a hole is bored in the center of the box, through which a piece of clothes line six inches long, or a similar piece of fibre glass wicking, can be passed. The upper end is shredded and imbedded in the soil, and the lower end drops into a pan below. As long as there is water in the pan, it will be drawn up to the soil, which will thus be constantly moist yet never overwatered.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

AND NEWS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Wrester Class Has Special Monday Night

The monthly meeting of the Wrester Class of the First Baptist Church was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. H. H. Mason, 1502 Leggett.

W. V. Gardenhire opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Crowover gave the devotion from Exodus 24. Mrs. W. H. Casey presided over a short business session and Mrs. Robast dismissed the group with a prayer.

A social hour followed and games were played under the leadership of Mrs. Pearl Trapp and Mrs. Virgil Wagley. As refreshment plates containing pie, coffee and tea were passed, the group sang the birthday song to Mrs. H. Underwood, and Mrs. Williams who were celebrating their birthday. The plates passed to the honorees contained a lighted candle.

Those present were Mesdames H. Underwood, R. I. Greer, W. H. Bussey, A. N. Crowover, W. V. Gardenhire, J. L. Ricks, Virgil Wagley, Pearl Trapp, H. C. Johnson, R. H. Williams, R. L. Laughter, and the teacher, Mrs. Ruby Carter.

Snider, Elorine Crowder, Tommie Boyett, Mrs. Carlton Holder, Mrs. Betty Bishop, Mrs. Kenneth York, Mrs. J. M. Tennyson, the employees of Mott's Variety Store and the hostess, Mrs. Crowder.

SNOW BANK—It looks as if model Bobby Thompson is peeking out from behind a snowbank in New York. She's wearing a white fox hat with muff and stole to match. The diamond flowers on a satin stem accent the odd design that may have been made for a snow maid.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE—Part of 500 unmarried Buddhist monks marched through the streets in Seoul, Korea, to protest against the married monks in the temples. The bachelors want their married associates to give up either the temples or their wives and start their religious lives anew. These determined demonstrators had a short clash with the police.

Mr. Williams Talks At Federation Meet

Charles Williams, teacher of Driver Education at Cisco High school, was the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the City Federation of Women's Clubs held Monday afternoon, January 10, at the Clubhouse.

Mr. Williams gave an informal talk on the advantage of the program for schools. Following his remarks, Mr. Williams answered the questions of those present.

Mrs. Don Choate, president, presided over a short business session. Letters were read and a list of officers for the next year was submitted by the nominating committee. The names will be voted on at the next meeting.

The meeting was dismissed in regular form.

Loacan Is Wed To Abilene Man Jan. 3

Dixie Stringfellow of Cisco became the bride of James E. Wilson of Abilene in ceremonies performed January 3 in Abilene. The couple are making their home at 1903 Victory in Abilene.

Mrs. Wilson was honored at a miscellaneous come and go bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Pearl Crowder Monday evening, January 10, with Mrs. Kerby Thetford serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. Kenneth York presided at a guest book and refreshments of hot chocolate and cake with favors of small bags of rice were served.

Those calling or sending gifts during the evening were Mrs. George Watts, Mrs. Chester Melton, Mrs. Paul Wright, Mrs. A. W.

UofT Scientists Begin Fish Study

AUSTIN Jan. 11.—University of Texas scientists are trying to find out why moving fish from one Texas fresh-water stream to another can kill it.

The problem has more than sports or academic interest because one of the most accurate ways to tell if a stream is polluted is to place fish in it and see if they live—accurate, that is, unless the fish die from a non-pollutive cause.

"There are chemicals in our fresh water which apparently cause a fish to die when it is moved from a water body in one part of the state to a water body in another part," Dr. Clark Hubbs, zoologist said.

"There may be only one chemical causing it. Anyway, a fish in water having either an excess or absence of that unknown factor finds the condition necessary for life," he added.

Many sportmen know to compensate for the change by moving some of the stream bed water with a fish when they change it to a "show" pool, but the method isn't fool-proof and doesn't solve the pollution-test problem, Dr. Hubbs pointed out.

Dr. Hubbs has collected analyses of the state's major streams, listing every significant chemical in them.

He plans to vary the amount of each known chemical in test waters containing live fish and, by the process of elimination, find the substance which prevents "fish moving" and ruins pollution tests.

Dr. W. H. R. Shaw is assisting Dr. Hubbs in chemical aspects of the projects and Graduate Students Walter E. Fosberg and Robert Kirk Strawn, both of Austin, also are working on it.

Future Harvest Of Waterfowl Is Being Considered

AUSTIN, Jan. 11. — As the smoke begins clearing away from the 1954 waterfowl season, talks are being readied in Washington looking ahead to future harvests.

And the Executive Secretary of the Texas Game and Fish Commission will take part in Capitol discussions January 13 and 14 which will be conducted by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

The Executive Secretary will represent, among other agencies, the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners, of which he is president.

The Washington session will be presided over by John Farley, chief of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

The Executive Secretary said a prominent part in the two-day program will be taken by the representatives of the different flyways. The flyway contributions to the affair will be funneled through the National Flyway Council, of which the Executive Secretary is a former chairman.

"The Washington conference is another one in the series to coordinate the efforts of the State, National and International agencies toward refining waterfowl management procedures," said the Executive Secretary.

"Plans already laid at previous sessions, since the flyway council program was inaugurated, are expected to be broadened. And we will go ahead in the effort to put the states' effort behind the Federal program. Thus manpower and know-how all along the line will be harnessed up to get the job done."

The Executive Secretary said the comparatively new joint program between the Federal agency and the state groups, as combined in the Flyway Councils, already has shown progress through standardized procedures and, in some cases, improved regulations.
