

The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

THE BIGGEST OWL we ever was shot and brought to town Thursday by Jim White, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. White. Jim and his dad were fishing in a tank at the Harrell Hill place, where he lives, and Jim took a .22 rifle for a brief hunt. He saw the owl in a tree and shot same. The owl measured four and a half inches from wing tip to wing tip, and claws big enough to carry chickens.

When shown the owl and we expressed an interest in it because we have heard about the owl of Mr. R. H. (Pete) Dunn, who was hunting crows in his pecan orchard with the use of a stuffed crow. Mr. RHD takes the stuffed crow out to the orchard in pecan season. The crows are thrown around to fight the owl, and the owl picks them off.

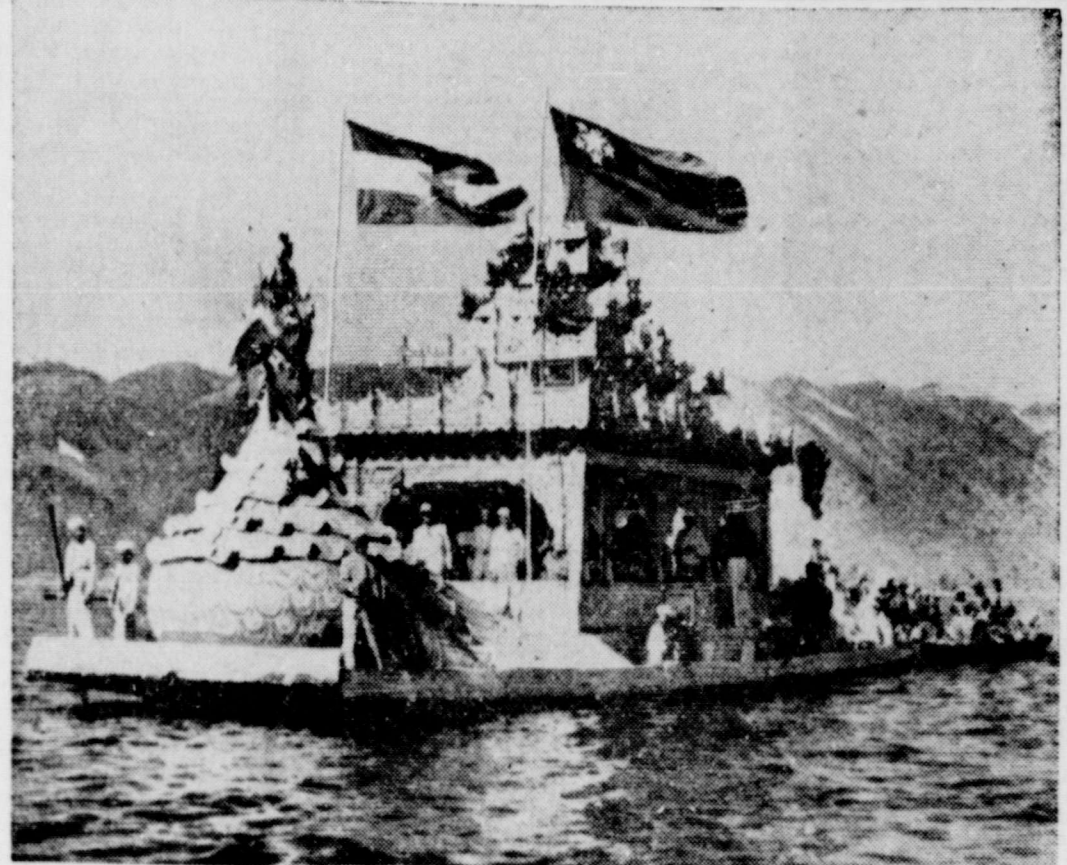

Ordinarily, you can't get within a mile of a crow. They're suspicious of everything and everything. And they eat papershell like nobody's business. They seem to dislike owls and to charge them even if they have to go near people. I took the owl that Jim shot and put it in a box. Mr. E. L. Graham, the Legion commander, is due to leave early today for some business. So we took the box full of owl out to the house and he agreed to deliver it to a taxidermist there today. And, if all goes well, I'll have a stuffed owl to put in my pecan orchard this next week, thanks to Jim and J. D. White and E. L. Jackson.

Incidentally, this particular owl is a nest nearby that had three eggs in it. Jim said the eggs were about as big as hen eggs.

THE BIRTHDAY Calendars are being delivered by the salesmen of them. The calendar project was a joint project of the Cisco Lions Club and the Band Parents Association. The calendars contain a lot of birthdays and anniversaries of all folks.

If you didn't get your calendar and if you ordered one, stand firm it will be delivered, we're armed. They didn't have any, so you won't be able to buy one unless you ordered it last week.

MR. A. R. WESTFALL owes me a soda to five people so he lost his house key the other day and told us to run an ad that he'd give a soda to the first person who found the key. Somebody found the key at the Post Office and hung it near the general delivery window. Five people called to tell me about it. I went to the Post Office where it was before I got down to the Post Office to pick it up.

ROTARY CLUB PAYS TRIBUTE TO DR. GRAHAM AT WEEKLY MEET

Rotarians paid tribute to Dr. E. L. Graham at their regular meeting at the Hotel Victor Coffee Shop Thursday. Dr. Graham has been a member of the Cisco club since 1921 and has a record of 34 years in the club without missing a meeting.

Dr. Graham's record of attendance is one of the best in Rotary International. The program was arranged by Rotarian Haywood Cabaness, who acted as master of ceremonies. The program for the meeting was supposed to be arranged by Dr. Graham, but at the last minute the entertainers he had asked to appear notified him that they would be unable to be at the meeting. Dr. Graham asked Rotarian Cabaness to help arrange a program for the meeting, and Cabaness arranged the surprise tribute.

Seven members of the club paid tribute to Dr. Graham as a citizen, a friend, a humanitarian and a Rotarian. Making short talks were Cabaness, O. J. Russell, Roscoe Ponsler, Bill Hogue, G. C. Rosenthal, Leon Maner and Anton White. Each told of some experience in the Doctor's life that established him as a valuable member of the club, and a beloved citizen of the community.

Dr. Graham has been a resident of Cisco since 1919. He is a native of McGregor and a graduate of the University of Texas school of medicine. Following his graduation he entered the Army during World War I and served in Europe.

Immediately following his discharge he came to Cisco and opened offices in the Judia Building. A short time later he moved to the Huey Building and maintained an office until he obtained possession of the hospital in Humbletown, which he now operates.

At the conclusion of the program he was given a bouquet of red roses. Visitors at the meeting were Rotarians Charlie Hagler of Breckenridge, Homer Hunter of East Dallas, C. G. Witten of Abilene, A. G. Harker of Abilene and Ben Hamner of Eastland. Guests were Bill Kendall of Cisco and the Rev. Bosmans of Ranger.

Data Is Needed In Preliminary Work

Engineer Homer Hunter of Dallas was here today to obtain engineering data needed in the preliminary planning of Cisco water system improvements, Mayor G. C. Rosenthal reported. Mr. Hunter has been working with the city for several years.

Mr. Hunter is preparing estimates needed in connection with a proposal to build a dam on Battle Creek, northwest of town, and impound water to be pumped by pipeline to Lake Cisco. The City Commission has entered into agreement with Dallas bond companies for a program that would refinance the bonded debt and provide new money for water development and system improvements.

The engineer was obtaining data on the water system and expects to have a work crew here next week for needed information on the proposed Battle Creek lake site and pipeline right-of-way, Mr. Rosenthal said.

The mayor reported that considerable interest was being expressed by citizens of Cisco in the water project. An election on the proposition of issuing revenue bonds for the improvements is expected to be held in April or early May.

By refinancing its bonded debt, the City of Cisco would be freed of a bankruptcy decree under which it has been operating since the depression days. Before new money could be obtained through bond sales, it would be necessary to obtain release from the bankruptcy decree, Mr. Rosenthal added.

Engineering estimates and considerable preliminary data will be needed before the project is submitted to the citizens in an election, Mr. Rosenthal said. The Hunter company prepared a water resources survey for the city several years ago. The survey showed that a small dam and a pipe line would provide Lake Cisco with an additional one million gallons of water daily.

Wranglers Will Play Howard Payne Quintet

The Cisco Junior College Wranglers end their regular schedule tonight when they meet the Howard Payne "B" team at the community gym at 8 p. m.

CIVIL DEFENSE AND DISASTER PREPAREDNESS COURSE IS HELD

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 18. — "Inherent in the ability of a nation to survive is the 'come-back capability' of its people everywhere." William L. McGill, state Coordinator of Civil Defense and Disaster relief told students and instructors at the Texas Rescue Training School here this week.

He spoke at the opening of a one-week session, with 38 representatives on hand from a dozen different cities and several major industrial plants. The school is being conducted by the firemen's training division of the Texas Engineering Extension Service.

"Every recognized service in civil defense and disaster preparedness," Mr. McGill said, "is now organized and functioning on the state level. The services of government on every level must be brought into a highly coordinated and integrated organization capable of mobilizing the full force of government, working with maximum effectiveness as a team."

"Three steps are involved," he continued, "in the development of any adequate plan for civil defense and disaster relief. These are — the cooperation of local governmental agencies in a functioning, effective organization; the support of that governmental organization by trained and dedicated men and women serving as volunteer auxiliaries to the regular forces of government; and the encouragement of the people of our entire community to become trained to cope adequately and effectively with such crises as future time may bring."

Mr. McGill underscored that outline of action with the revelation that major disasters have struck in 252 of Texas 254 counties in the last nine years — "major disasters which have killed 970 of our people, injured 5,262 more, destroyed 91,585 buildings and homes, and affected 83,327 families in our state alone."

The state CD director had high praise for Col. H. R. Brayton of the Extension Service, who will supervise the rescue school as he has the Firemen's Training School for the past 25 years. He paid tribute also to Mrs. Grace Martin of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, who is state coordinator for women's activities in civil defense.

M. C. McBride from the Federal CD training facility at Olney, Md., is serving as technical advisor throughout the week's work of this first class. Full-time defense workers from Dallas, Houston and A. and M. College are acting as instructors.

All-day and some night sessions will be held in Disaster Village, an area where a "street of ruin" has been carefully laid out. One, two and three-story structures have been erected to resemble bombed-out buildings with broken gas and water mains and hot power lines.

SMILE OF TRIUMPH

A RADIANT SMILE OF TRIUMPH spreads across the happy face of Manuel Greigo as he tries out his new artificial limbs at the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children at Dallas. The 13-year-old San Antonio boy lost both legs in a rock quarry accident last year and doctors were dubious whether Manuel could wear artificial limbs, since the amputations were almost at the hip line. Another great triumph was scored last week at the hospital when the homeless boy found he could walk again. At the left, Manuel is shown as he entered the Masonic-sponsored hospital last September and being received by Mrs. Alma Power, superintendent. At the right he wears a proud smile for John McKee, president, and Aaher Mintz, secretary of the Scottish Rite Hospital.

Plant Food Saves Work, Ups Yield and Quality

Placement method of applying plant food is favorite for row crops.

By increasing their use of fertilizer, farmers have reduced their cost of production. Home gardeners can do the same, saving both money and work. Fertile soil gives heavier yields, requiring a smaller area to produce the needed amount of vegetables, for example. Well fed crops mature faster and excel in tenderness and flavor. They also resist the attacks of insects and diseases far better than ill nourished plants.

Less seed to sow, less time to sow it, less work to care for the plants it produces, all result from an adequate use of plant foods. Plant food mixtures containing all the elements needed by plants, are better for the amateur, than attempting to analyze his soil and apply precisely what it seems to need. For a garden of 1,000 square feet a balanced commercial plant food use of six pounds per 100 square feet takes only 60 pounds. It would require 2,612 pounds to fertilize an acre at this rate and there might be few farm crops on which such heavy feeding would pay. But this feeding would raise even poor soil in a home vegetable or flower garden to good fertility. In most cases 3 or 4 pounds of plant food per 100 square feet should be applied at planting time. The method used depends on the acidity of the soil. In neutral soils plant food may be spread evenly over the garden area and spaded in. This method should be followed in preparing flower borders and beds, including flowering bulbs. In the vegetable garden the same method may be followed, but for row crops many prefer to apply plant food in bands on either side of the row. First stretch a line to mark the drill in which the seed will be sown. On either side a few inches away make a trench 4 inches deep or so, and in each trench pour half a pint of plant food for each 25 feet of row. Cover this with soil and proceed with soil sowing. The trench, or placement, method should always be used where there is reason to suspect acidity. Acidity is easily corrected by applying limestone. Potatoes and watermelons prefer slightly acid soil, but most vegetables grow well in neutral soil. Beets, asparagus, cauliflower, muskmelons, parsnip and spinach all demand a neutral soil for best results. Having applied four pounds of plant food to each 100 square feet before planting the garden, the remaining two pounds is reserved for use as the crop matures. It can be applied dry as a side dressing, or in liquid form. Soluble plant foods are useful for feeding growing crops, because of the ease with which they can be applied. By using a siphoning device they can be mixed with the hose water, diluted sufficiently as to avoid burning green leaves. It has been proved that plant leaves will absorb plant food and what does not fall on the leaves will reach the ground and sink in to where the roots can get it.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

The tests of truth and relevancy which courts apply are stricter than those which we use in daily life. As a rule we don't put a man under oath. We don't cross-examine him if his story fails to hang together. We don't jail or fine him if he lies to us. But we do these things in court.

Why is that? Because we think each thing that takes place in a courtroom is important. Your property, your personal or civil rights — even your family's welfare or your life or liberty — may rest upon the truth of testimony in court.

Eager as courts are for facts, their tests fall short of those of science. When a scientist doubts the outcome of an experiment, he need not rely upon somebody else's word. He just repeats the experiment in question.

But not so in court. The acts told of in courts cannot be lived over again, for the court to see first hand. For example, you cannot bring back and ask a dead man whether he signed a will or whether the accused killed a man. We cannot re-do a murder; we can only get the witnesses to tell what they know first hand.

To protect each party, there are at least two safeguards: (1) we put the witness under oath on pain of penalties for lying; and (2) we cross-examine the witness.

Lawyers may seem always to be objecting to testimony. They have a duty to their clients and the court, to see that the judge and jury hear only what is true and relevant under the law.

If a lawyer protests, the judge may rule out some kinds of facts and tell the jury to ignore them. Sometimes too, some facts seriously break the rules of evidence. Then the judge declares a "mistrial" and orders a new trial.

He does this when the testimony is so unfair as to put the rights of the accused in danger. He does this also to protect the public.

The "pit of eternal fire" is the crater of the volcano Kilauea, in Hawaii.
