Saints preserve us! They've done it again. Due to the oversight of some un-informed government disciple women have been okayed to enter Texas A&M.

We used to have nightmares of such goings on, but never did we believe that anyone in his right mind, let alone a district judge, would have the lack of foresight to OK such a project.

What we can't understand is, just whatheck would a girl get by going there anyway?

It would be one improvement in that the Aggie table manners would probably take on new additions, but as far as some female taking up engineering and agriculture at A&M, we can't see it.

If the boy wants to go to a coed school there are plenty around and the same goes for girls.

Such a move would also cost the taxpayers of this state quite a wad of greenbacks, too. Inasmuch as no self-respecting girl would live in one of the dorms that are there now it would call for additional dormitory space to be built. You know—one with plenty of frills, private baths and lacy curtains.

It doesn't take much for an old hard-nosed boy to get by to live in, but our females are a little bit more picayunish, I'm afraid.

If this suit does go on through the Supreme Court we hope the next thing they will do is change the name of the place to sumpin like Texas State University, for the Texas A&M that most of us know and love will have died forever.

Sure do have short summers up in this part of the country!

We found that we weren't the only people that got fooled by the "summer" days we had last week. We were thinking seriously about running a story in this week's paper entitled "Spring Has Sprung."

But, like lots of other plans, sorta got fouled up along about Saturday when the bottom fell out and it even snowed again.

Shooting the breeze late Saturday night a couple of localities told us of the weather here this time in 1957. Seems like one of the worst snows in quite a while fell then and about 100 cars and passengers were stranded in Friona for a couple of days due to the deep drifts and blowing snow.

This "East Texas weather" we've had the last few weeks really kept everyone close to the house. Heard of a number of farmers that tried to get in the fields Friday and ended up walking back to the house for another tractor.

One tale told of a man going to a field with his truck, only to get that stuck, returned for a tractor, and ended up walking out a second time. From the way we heard it the vehicles may still be out there this time next week.

Another Friona farmer stuck his head in the door today and offered to trade a horse-collar for a slicker. Says he thought both were useless, but figured a man might need a slicker pretty bad these days.

An old professor of ours once told us that "Those that can't learn teach."

This old saying of his returned with force to us last week after an embarrassing debacle of erswhile "photography" which we tried at the Senior Play.

Violating the first rule which says—familiarize yourself thoroughly with the camera before using—we borrowed Alen Stewart's camera and saluted forth.

Now right here we'd like to point out that we did accomplish the impossible. You aren't supposed to be able to get the film in those things backwards but somehow we managed to do it—the result—16 pictures of "nothing."

As a part-time project we have been trying to show three Friona high school boys how to take pictures, and when they learned about their teacher's photography efforts they really had a laugh.

Somehow we didn't figure it was so funny.

We try to steer away from using our small two-year-old, or any member of our immediate family in this column, but Monday young D. F. accomplished something which struck us as extremely amusing.

The spouse had borrowed the family car to go get a supply of milk at Mar's Dairy. Shirley got out and left David in the car as the mud was pretty deep. She also left the keys in the car.

Coming back to the car she found he had punched down all the locks on our Chevy, locking her out in the mud.

Rushing around the car to find an open door was fruitless, he hadn't missed a lock.

Although aided by two men who worked at the dairy and a passer-by, Shirley's efforts (Continued on last page)

Chiefs Win Second At Crosbyton Meet

Friona High School's track team brought home second place ribbons from an annual Crosbyton Jaycee High School Track Meet last Saturday. Members of the 440-yard relay team brought home a handsome silver and black trophy for their efforts as they racked up first place in that event as did J. W. Baxter in the high jump event.

Local Resident Injured In Crash

Larry Burns, 19, who up until recently lived in Friona while working with the Santa Fe Railroad was still in "poor" condition in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo Wednesday.

Burns and eight other persons were injured in a head-on crash last Friday night on Western Avenue in Amarillo.

The crash, according to officers, luckily claimed no lives although two of the victims are still on a critical list.

Burns is suffering from face and leg lacerations and other possible injuries.

Trebelaires Present Program

At the Tuesday evening meeting of the Modern Study Club, the program was presented by the Trebelaires under the direction of Mrs. Eva Miller. The decorations were purple and white spring flowers interspersed with musical symbols of white.

The quotation used was "Prayers—sweet and dainty. Music must take rank as the highest of the fine arts—as the one which more than any other ministers to human welfare." The invocation was given by Rhea Foster.

"Texas in Song" was the title of the program. The first number was a special arrangement featuring J. B. Douglas as the girls sang "Never Ask a Man If He's from Texas." During the presentation of "Take Me Back to My Boots and Saddle," Kitty Black rode an improvised horse. "Tumbling Tumbleweed" was presented as a melody around a camp fire.

This was followed by two folk songs, "Whoa, Mule" and "Don't Caught A Rabbit." As "Easter Parade" was presented, Robbie Osborn escorted Betty Agee as she paraded in her Easter costume. "Deep in the Heart of Texas" was presented as an audience participation number. Then "Put Your Little Foot" was presented.

The final number was a presentation of "Eyes of Texas." Each of the girls singing was dressed in a spring print blouse and skirt and held a Texas University banner. Osborn, dressed in a white uniform, portrayed the part of a TU football player. The program ended with this quotation, "The sun has ris and the sun has set, and here we is in Texas yet."

Accompanists were Pat Foster and Judy Smith. Singing with the Trebelaires were Phila May and Lila Gay Buske, Kitty Black, Betty Agee, Luellen McLean, Lavon Fleming, Jacqueline Magness, Nelda Douglas, Eva Nell Thomas, Luann Hardesty, Nancy Outland, and Linda Gee.

Special guests besides those on the program were Odie Claborn, a new member of the club, and Mesdames G. B. Buske, A. L. Black, Reeta Agee, Jim McLean, Raymond Fleming, H. T. Magness, J. B. Douglas, and Ralph Smith. There were also 31 members of the club present.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Decima Beene, Vera Bainum, and Fay Reeve.

Election Tuesday

Polls Open at 8

Tuesday, April 1, the citizens of Friona will have the opportunity of choosing men who will represent them at the commissioner's table in the City Hall for the next two years.

This election, which is doubly important, is coupled with an important decision of whether or not the city wants to go to a council-manager form of city government, with 5 men as councilmen or stay as a home rule city, with 3 commissioners.

The Star urges that whatever your personal whims may be, you think seriously on this decision and then go down to the City Hall and cast your vote. No matter what you do—go vote. This election must be a fair representation of what you, the citizens want, for your city.

Although taking neither side in the commissioner-mayor race the Star wants you to know that it is overwhelmingly in favor of adopting the council-manager form of city government.

Your choice for Mayor and commissioners we will know next Tuesday night.

We have always rather admired a man who has enough of his city and home at heart who will run for a city office. There is no reimbursement except the satisfaction of knowing he is doing his part in helping his city. Usually the move costs a man his valuable time, and often costly criticism and harsh words.

Tuesday the polls will open at 8 a. m. at the City Hall for citizens to cast their ballots for a mayor and two city commissioners.

In addition to the offices named above citizens will also vote whether or not to change the city charter from that of a "home rule" government, composed of a mayor and two commissioners, to that of a council-manager, composed of a mayor and four councilmen on the council and this council, in turn, naming a city manager to run the affairs of the city. The latter election was brought about by a petition, signed by over 150 citizens, which was presented to the commissioners at their last meeting.

Three incumbents, Mayor A. W. Anthony Sr., Granville McFarland and Oscar Baxter, are running for re-election to office.

Three new faces, this year, on the city political scene include Raymond Fleming running for mayor, Eddie Meil, commissioner, and Glenn Reeve, commissioner.

Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. Nelson Welch will serve as presiding judge at the polls aided by George M. Baker, judge, and Mrs. O. F. Lange and Mrs. Dan Ethridge, clerks.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin and children were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Martin and children.

Saturday evening guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ricker were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Edelman, Billy and Judy, and Mr. and Mrs. Coy Patton.

Names of the endmen for the Friona Lions Club Minstrel were announced this week by Lion President Andy Hurst.

The eight "starring" Lions, who will carry the load during this year's side-splitting affair, include Joe "Mustard" Ferrell, Pete "Persimmon" Buske, Hank "Dollar Bill" Outland, Dean "Snow Ball" Awtrey, Charles "Hacksaw" Allen, Kenneth "Navy Bean" Williams, Kenneth "Lightning" Thompson and Hollis "Egg Plant" Horton.

Cast members for specialty acts and other black face entertainers have not been announced as yet as "Boss Lion" Hurst claimed this may be too much to shock the people with at one time.

Tickets for the gala affair go on sale Thursday with each member of the Lions Club having some of the ducats available. Price of admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The minstrel is slated for Friday night, April 11, in the FHS auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fleming and Lavon left Wednesday afternoon for Albuquerque after receiving a call that Mrs. Fleming's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ben Beal of that city, had died that morning.

Mrs. Beal had been a long-time resident of Melrose and Curry County before moving to Albuquerque four years ago. Immediate survivors besides her husband, are a son Joe Tom, who is serving with the armed forces in Seoul, Korea; two daughters, Jane Ann of the home and Mrs. Daryl Harrell of Portales;

in & around FRIONA WITH JUNE

A letter was just now handed to this writer and the content of it is a cause for concern of many parents of children who attend school at Friona. Perhaps it would be well for each of us who received one to sit down and give it some serious consideration. Just in case you didn't receive one like it, we are reprinting part of it below:

It reads, "Dear Parents: We were elected to the nominating committee of the Parent-Teachers Association to nominate officers of the 1958-59 year and have found ourselves faced with the IMPOSSIBLE task of persuading parents to serve as officers of this organization. "If we are to continue to have a Parent-Teachers Association

This was followed by three questions: (1) Do you want P-TA? (2) Do you attend meetings, or will you? (3) Are you willing to be an officer? Then a request was made that the questions be answered and the sheets of paper be returned to the principals of the different schools at once.

Vegetable Acreage Doubles in 1958

It has been pointed out numerous times by writers in Farm and Home that multiplying several times the acreage in the Parmer County area usually devoted to vegetables would not produce a significant change in the overall crop-acre picture.

However, the fact that vegetable acreage may well double and possibly triple itself in the area this year has an important impact on a small group of farmers and may well point the way to big changes in the over-all pattern for agriculture in years to come.

A planting-time survey taken by Farm and Home this week indicates that there will be a definite trend to increased acreage for all vegetables grown in the area in 1958.

The Friona area, which began about a decade ago as a potato deal, is now branching out to include five—and possibly six—vegetables. Bovina appears due an excellent chance to have its first shed and, consequently, its first significant vegetable planting.

The Lariat potato shed will go ahead with another year of about normal planting, and several farmers in the Lariat-West Camp-Farwell area will diversify and swell the acreage total with individually handled deals of their own.

Prospects for a shed in Bovina are described as "very good" following a meeting Friday night between interested farmers and businessmen and representatives of a Laredo concern that is considering the Bovina location.

Gateway packers seek a 600-acre cantaloupe deal at Bovina, and 49 farmers have tentatively agreed to plant 20 acres apiece to make the goal seem attainable. About 75 attended the meeting.

Gateway's talks indicate they may build a shed and get things underway soon if interest holds up. They already are located at Lockney and Levelland on the Plains.

A tomato deal is being talked by Gateway also, though this project is not as far along as the one on cantaloupes.

Friona Growers and Shippers, which did close to a half million dollars worth of vegetable business last year, is getting ready to branch out again. Originally a potato shed, they took on carrots for the first time last year and did well with them.

They are coming back with potatoes and carrots as "basics" to the deal, but are adding 6,000 square feet and additional machinery to make possible a diversification of their business.

Kenneth Neill, manager, says there probably will be somewhere between 50 and 60 acres of onions and 25 to 30 acres of bell peppers and about 75 acres of cabbage tacked on to the deal this year.

Lettuce is also being tossed about, and because some Friona growers already have tried the leafy vegetable, it may come through too, but to date, lettuce is just a "talker."

All vegetable men are moaning about the weather. The damp, cold spell has mixed early planting plans and given them the early season jitters. They can take some consolation in that most growers the country over are having wet weather problems too, but that's not helping much.

They'd rather be out in their fields setting onions and planting potatoes.

Around Friona there have been about 125 acres of spuds planted, says Neill. There are only nine acres of onions out so far. Open weather will bring the first of the carrot planting, which usually trails on into July to catch a long marketing season.

Neill fears the weather will delay the potato crop in the South, especially Alabama, and cause local growers trouble. The South usually beats the High Plains to market, but a delay there could mean the deals would collide and force prices down. There will be about 550 acres of potatoes at Friona this year.

Friona growers are worried about their onion sets, which have been on hand two weeks but haven't been put into the ground on account of the weather.

Of carrots, Neill frankly states, "I think we're over-doing carrots this year. People will have to learn you can give away carrots just the same as any other vegetable."

Carrots stole the show on the High Plains last year when they sold well all year long and turned out to be good money makers for most farmers who raised them.

Pre-season interest on carrots ran very high. "I was getting about two calls a day the first of the year from farmers who wanted to grow carrots," Neill says, although the rush of interest has trailed off now.

Still, there will be about 500 acres of carrots in the Friona deal this year, which is close to double the 1957 acreage.

The High Plains are fast on their way to becoming the nation's leading producing area for carrots. Previously, this honor has gone first to California, and second to the lower Rio Grande Valley. The High Plains have now about come abreast of the South Texas area, and could, in a few years, pass California.

About future prospects, though, Neill has this to say: "One big trouble with our part of the country is that we haven't been quality conscious."

He remembers that as a grower, he was more interested in tonnage than anything else, and that is natural. "But now that I'm in on processing and marketing too, I sure see how quality is important to everybody," he says.

The bell peppers, which will be grown by four or five Friona farmers, and the cabbage are being added to expand marketing prospects for the shed and also to spread the risk of raising vegetables over a broader base.

For example, practically no vegetable is profitable year after year. It will average out that way, but big profits in one year are often followed by complete market washouts.

With a deal of five vegetable crops, farmers might find two crops "hitting," two "missing" and one doing "so-so," which will help to smooth out the peaks and valleys in operations. But that shouldn't be figured on at all.

And, by having more than just potatoes or carrots to offer, Friona Growers and Shippers will make more deals with brokers who want "mixed" orders that include these other vegetables.

Near Farwell the Fords, which include Euvon and J. T. Ford, brothers, and J. T.'s sons, Burl and Doyle, are coming back strong in the onion business. They are trying hard to get 100 acres set this week but are having little cooperation from the weather.

"We sure need some pretty weather," says J. T. They have had 100 hands at work putting out sets, but the weather has made it hard to keep field crews "and they're sure expensive to feed, too," Ford says.

The Fords are coming out with an across-the-board planting of grinos. Last year they split their 80-acre planting into both grinos and Spanish sweets. They have invested money in an onion grader of their own and this part of the onion processing will be done by them instead of at a Hereford shed this year. They do plan to market their crop through a Hereford dealer, however.

It's way too early to make rash predictions about crop prospects for any of the High Plains vegetables, but J. T. says, "I don't see how we could keep from having a shortage of onions this year."

The Rio Grande and Winter Garden areas of South Texas have been hard hit by bad weather and so has the North Texas area north of Dallas. These are all big onion producing areas.

Onions did fair to poor on the Plains last year and many went unharvested. The Fords say the only thing that saved their crop was their big volume, which justified harvesting even at sagging market prices.

Speculators, who note that it is characteristic for a vegetable to come back strong after a weak year, say this may be an "it" year for onions.

Also in the Farwell area, Charles and Frank Seale are understood to be planting 20 acres of onions. They will move these through a Muleshoe shed.

At Lariat, Buck Gregory is about all set for another potato season. The sandier soils to the south make a big difference in how early farming operations can start after rainfall.

Gregory and his neighbors already have 150 of their planned 275 acres planted. This early start is often important.

"Right now market prospects for potatoes look good," says Gregory. "If it were six weeks later and the markets look like they do now, I'd say prospects were extra good," he adds, indicating that it's too early to make forecasts.

Gregory believes that the over-all acreage of potatoes in all the nation's producing areas is about the same, but that the carry-over supply from last year's crop is smaller than usual and stocks are dwindling, which always forces prices upward.

Gregory operates the Lariat shed primarily for himself, although he usually has about three or four neighbors who join in on spud raising. This year there are three.

Gregory has 53 acres of potatoes planted in deep sandy land just north of the sandhill belt across the line in New Mexico. He bought the Pendergrass farm south of Texico and is anxious to find out how potatoes make out in that very loose soil.

LETTER To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Having done a lot of work on proposed farm programs during 1957 and past years to bring about better prices for farm products, I was interested in the heading "New Look Farm Program FB Aim" in your last issue.

I was especially interested in the $2.18 for milo, but when I took the average of 1956, 1957, and 1958 prices for grain, I found that to be $1.81. Ninety per cent of that as the support price for 1959 would be $1.62 or .56 cents short of the figure suggested. This amount is also needed by the grain sorghum

These hands at the Friona Growers and Shippers shed have practically nothing to do as they await the coming of open weather. The warehouse is fairly bulging with seed potatoes, which will have to be cut and hauled to the fields for planting.

Farmers Still Sweat Pre-Irrigation Quiz

Whether or not to pre-irrigate is still a big question in the minds of many farmers of the area, reports County Agent Joe Jones this week.

He says that the best way to determine whether pre-irrigation is needed is to use a soil auger or post hole digger or some other means of getting to the bottom of the soil to see how wet the field is.

"We have not had enough moisture through the fall and winter months to bring the land up to field capacity, especially where there was no reserve moisture in the soil."

"However, where land was irrigated last fall it should have a good moisture supply available for planting and early season growth," he says.

Jones adds it doesn't seem like a good idea to ever plant a crop without the soil reserve being filled to capacity when the farmer has an irrigation well to cure this condition, but that irrigating the land tends to cool it off and:

"This late it might be a good idea to weigh the value of a higher soil temperature against another one or two inches of moisture in your soil."

Soil temperature in the spring is a critical element in cotton planting. Also irrigating now could leave soils too wet for planting at normal dates if more rain should come. Warm soil temperatures tend to cut down on seedling diseases that hold young cotton plants back much of the time.

The county agent suggests, "If cotton land is to be pre-watered, it would be a good idea to rush water through on most lands and try to put on light applications instead of the old 'soak' method we have been employing during the drouth years."

He points out that many farmers have been putting on from eight to 12 inches of water when pre-irrigating in years past. To help estimate what's happening, the county agent says, "Keep in mind that a well pumping 900 gallons per minute is putting out two acre-inches per hour. This is enough water to cover one acre two inches deep."

Some farmers who plan to pre-irrigate are taking every other row in order to put on a little less water. This could prove to be a good idea if water applied in every row cannot be controlled, believes Jones. Shorter runs will in most instances give a better control over the water applied.

A chart for estimating soil moisture by feel can be obtained from the agent's office in Farwell.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

The quail, pheasants, doves, rabbits and other wildlife grown on farms and ranches provide most of our hunting. Even much big game such as deer, antelope, and wild turkey come from privately owned land.

Most of our wildlife crop is grown and harvested on land used mainly for cultivated crops and livestock. This means that farmers and ranchers are the key to abundant wildlife. Much of our fishing also is affected by the way farmers and ranchers manage their land.

Farms and ranches make up 60 percent of the land in the United States. Most of this land is in soil conservation districts. These districts are run by farmers under state law. Altogether, more than 85 percent of our hunting land is privately owned or controlled.

The land use decisions of farmers and ranchers can cause an abundance or a scarcity of wildlife.

The Soil Conservation Service, as part of its assistance to soil conservation districts, helps individual land operators apply many soil and water conservation practices that increase wildlife.

The Soil Conservation District is making potted Arizona Cypress seedlings available again this year. The cost to you is 30 cents each. Those who are interested should make application as soon as possible at Steve Messenger's office in the Mabry building in Friona, at the county agent's office in Farwell, or at the Soil Conservation Service office in Friona. Delivery date will be around May 1.

The experiment area consisted of Pullman clay loam. A pre-plant irrigation of six inches and three subsequent irrigations of three inches each were applied. A total of 17.4 inches of rainfall occurred between April 1 and October 1, so a total of 32.4 inches of water could be considered available during the growing season.

Renner number 1 had 53.56 percent oil, 24.44 percent protein, rated good in seed quality and the seed were of tan color. Some of the experimental varieties give indications of even better sesame becoming available in the future.

Renner number 1 semi-shattering sesame led all released varieties with a yield of 1335.5 pounds per acre in the 1957 variety test at the High Plains station of the Texas Research Foundation at Halfway. Renner number 1 is still considered the best for commercial planting in the High Plains area. In Texas, 95 percent of the commercial planting is Renner number 1.

The sesame test included fifty varieties of which nine were released and forty-one experimental strains. In the semi-shattering released varieties, K9 had a yield of 1218.88, Early Russian 1155 and K10 totaled 1127.21 pounds per acre. Six unreleased varieties ranked high in yields among the tests conducted.

Renner number 15 was the highest yielding combine or non-shattering type sesame. The yield of 924 pounds per acre is not considered high enough to recommend for any but trial planting in this area. More research is necessary before a non-shattering type will be available for commercial planting.

The planting rate was 1 1/2 pounds of seed per acre. Thirty pounds of nitrogen and 88 pounds of P205 per acre were applied at planting time with 50 pounds of nitrogen sidedressed July 18. Each variety was planted in single row plots 20 ft. long and each plot was replicated four times.

The experiment area consisted of Pullman clay loam. A pre-plant irrigation of six inches and three subsequent irrigations of three inches each were applied. A total of 17.4 inches of rainfall occurred between April 1 and October 1, so a total of 32.4 inches of water could be considered available during the growing season.

May Re-Open Reserve

The chairman of the county ASC committee, Roy Euler, reports that most farmers who wanted to take part in the 1958 acreage reserve, but could not file signed agreements because of fund limitations, will apparently be able to sign up at the county office in the near future.

Both the senate and the house of representatives have approved a supplemental appropriation of 250 million dollars to provide for additional participation. This will bring the total to 750 million for 1958.

Because agreement on some detailed program provisions must still be reached in house-senate conference, congressional action on the supplemental appropriation is not yet complete. Preliminary steps have been taken by the state ASC committee to prepare the way for immediate action when the supplemental funds are authorized.

In addition to farmers who have already filed signed agreements, which were in general covered by the initial appropriation for the acreage reserve, other farmers will be in position to take part in the program. These include those whose names are on the waiting list at the county office, and possibly others where there is evidence that they made an attempt to participate during the sign-up period.

Public notice will be given when the county ASC office is ready to sign additional acreage reserve agreements.

of the present cotton situation and the prospect for passage of needed legislation at this session of congress.

When asked about the 1958 crop, Edelman replied, "The possibility of passing any legislation which would increase allotments for 1958 seems very remote."

He further states, "Work toward a program for 1959 which will protect and improve the producer's income, make cotton competitive with synthetic fibers and foreign cotton production regain foreign markets, and reduce present CCC stocks, and return the handling of cotton to private industry was outlined by the ACPA board."

The long-range program proposed by the ACPA would provide for a domestic and export allotment for the producer. All cotton would sell on the world market. The producer would receive a production payment on his domestic allotment to bring that portion of his production to 90 percent of parity.

On his export allotment he would receive the world price for his cotton. As compared to a 100-acre allotment under the present program, a producer would have an 86-acre domestic allotment and a 36-acre export allotment. The income of the producer would be increased $2,460 for the production of 16 acres more cotton.

The ACPA has been working closely with the National Commodity Conference Organization and is in full accord with the feed grain and wheat programs now before congress, says Edelman.

'Chief' Crim Predicts Summer Dry Spell

As the sun poked its way above the horizon to give the necessary timing for a ritual Indian forecast of coming weather, the wind shifted for a moment to come out of the west-northwest, which gave J. W. Crim the clue to coming rain.

After studying the gusty wind, which kept shifting about as though Mother Nature herself couldn't decide what to do, Crim leaned back on his heels and allowed as how "the wind must have forgotten how to blow out of the west."

The sun never got started Saturday morning. Before it was more than halfway showing, the top edge began to disappear behind a bank of pale clouds.

Crim gave a shrug of his shoulders as he made the official forecast: "Since the wind is out of the west a little, we should have a better year than last, but those northerly gusts tell me to look out for a duster this summer. Tell the folks to keep their irrigation motors greased, 'cause there'll be a dry spell in June or July."

When the fire was first lit, for several minutes it rose straight up, and then wavered a little, seeming reluctant to go in any set direction for any length of time. The piled-up planks gave no black, boiling smoke, and at times the blue-gray of the smoke faded into the budding day.

Family and friends joined Crim in greeting the sun of this spring morning.

The group was happy, with several youngsters poking the fire and generally "helping." Several faces present last year were not able to make the outing this time.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Johnson (Lois Crim), were in Dallas; Max Crim and family were unable to leave Ft. Jackson, S. C.; and Weldon Crim was in Germany awaiting transportation. He will be homeward bound March 26, and will arrive in the states April 6.

J. W. Crim has been forecasting the weather in this manner over 30 years. His father and grandfather before him carried on the family tradition, and the originator of the practice, rumored to be an Indian witch-doctor, has long since faded into antiquity.

Friends say that in past years, Crim's forecast has never been known to be wrong.

Location can mean the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful garden, says E. G. Hancock, extension horticulturist. The ideal site would be a level, well-drained, sunny spot with deep, rich friable sandy loam soil, free from rocks and debris, he adds.

Corn, Milo Alike In Many Respects

Even though considerable difficulty was encountered in raising corn on the High Plains last year, quite a few area farmers are figuring to plant it again this spring.

Farmers having such plans should keep in mind, says County Agent Joe Jones, that corn requires about the same fertilizer and water as grain sorghum.

But it's different in some important respects, too. It will need to be planted much earlier. Most farmers feel corn should be planted as early as possible yet still be reasonably safe from late frosts. Getting corn off early seems to help get away from lodging caused by the Southwestern corn borer.

"I don't think you can figure on many more pounds, if any, of corn per acre than you can grain sorghum," believes the agent. "It will likely use a little more water and, like grain sorghum, will respond well to fertilizer."

"Side dressing corn or grain sorghum gives good results when applied before or at the 10-leaf stage. A good practice on either is to apply fertilizer before or at planting time and side dress by the time either has reached the 10-leaf stage."

A summary of the 1957 Texas corn performances put out by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station shows that Texas 28-36 and 30 should perform well on the High Plains when irrigated. These are all three yellow hybrids.

Among the white hybrids are TRF3 and Texas 17W that should perform well under dry land conditions, while Asgrow 101W and Texas 17W should do well under irrigation. Good yields from DeKalb and Texas 26 have also been reported from farmers in the county.

One thing to remember in planning corn production, warns Jones, is that research shows it is a waste of money to try to poison corn ear worms that get into the swirl and later into the ears. "It just won't get the job done and pay off," says Jones.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Your county president, Gilbert Kaltwasser, was guest speaker at Olton last week. The occasion was a kickoff breakfast for their Community Farm Bureau Membership Drive. He was accompanied by Mose Glasscock, director from Farwell.

This reminds us to remind you of the names of other directors of Parmer County Farm Bureau. Besides the two mentioned above they are Jack Patterson, vice-president; Dennis Williams, chairman of the commodities committee; Donald Christian, member of the legislative and resolutions committee; Roy V. Miller, secretary-treasurer and member of the service committee; L. F. Bruns; John Range, member of service committee; J. D. White, member of membership committee; John Henderson and Ernest Anthony; and H. P. Hamilton, chairman of the legislative and resolutions committee.

The Weed Committee met a few days ago and reorganized. They elected Raymond Schuler chairman for another year, and Vernon Symcox is secretary. Other members of the committee are V. F. Wilcox, R. D. Dale, Rheinhold Steinbock, A. R. McCutchan, Joe Jesko and Guy Schlabs. Vocational Agriculture instructors from most of the schools cooperate, also.

Although Farm Bureau does not have all the answers to obstacles to the successful future of Agriculture, we believe it is the best tool you have to use in that direction. If you are not a member, it will be that much better if you join, because it will then have one more opinion to consider on each objective sought. You may have the answer the membership is looking for.

Consider this: A prudent man forsooth the evil, and hideth himself; but the simple pass on, and are punished. Proverbs 27:12

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

To those of you who may be reading this column for the first time, we offer this explanation. Last week we began a series of recipes which were originally printed in the Parent's Magazine. These recipes are the favorites of the Mrs. America state contest winners.

From California, which is the home state of Mrs. Ronald Dessy, comes a recipe for a French main dish.

French Vietriole

3 tablespoons butter
1 1/4 pounds ground round steak
2 eggs
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
4 green onions, finely chopped
1/2 cup milk
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 package precooked rice
Melt butter in skillet. Combine remaining ingredients, mix well and form into 4 thick patties. Cook over very low heat for about fifteen minutes. Meanwhile cook rice according to directions on package.

When Vietriole is done, remove from skillet and quickly brown cooked rice in remaining drippings. Add more butter if desired. The rice will absorb the flavor of the meat. Makes 4 servings.

Mrs. Victor E. Hollar's favorite recipe is for Hamburger Enchiladas. She says this adaptation of the Mexican dish so popular in Colorado is quicker to fix, less greasy, and not so "hot" as usually served.

Hamburger Enchiladas
1 1/4 lbs. ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon garlic salt
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 teaspoon ground red pepper
1 teaspoon salt
2 cans tomato paste
1 cup water
1 twelve-ounce can mixed vegetable juices
2 one pound cans kidney beans
2 dozen frozen tortillas
hot fat
1/2 lb. Cheddar cheese, shredded
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 head lettuce, shredded
Brown hamburger in large skillet. Add onion, garlic salt, chili powder, red pepper, and salt. Mix well. Add tomato paste, water, mixed vegetable juices, and kidney beans. Cook over low heat 45 minutes. Dip each tortilla in hot fat just long enough to soften it.

Drain on paper towel. Place two tablespoons meat and bean mixture on each enchilada. Sprinkle with part of the cheese, onion, and lettuce. Roll and place in shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with remaining cheese and pour 1 cup of the meat and bean sauce over all.
Bake in moderate oven 15 minutes. Serve enchiladas with additional sauce, cheese, onion, and lettuce. Makes eight servings.

Here is the favorite recipe of Mrs. Leonard Horner, who was Mrs. Connecticut.

Orange Raisin Cake

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 eggs
1/2 cup shortening
1 unpeeled orange, diced
1 cup blond seedless raisins
1 cup sugar
1 cup sour milk
Sift flour, soda, salt, and baking powder into mixing bowl. Place eggs, shortening, orange, raisins, sugar, and sour milk in electric blender. Blend until orange is well cut, about 30 seconds.

Pour orange mixture over flour and stir lightly until flour

Coming up next week will be Old Fashioned Brown Beef Stew, Corn Fritters, and French Silk Chocolate Pie. These recipes are from Delaware, Florida, and Georgia.

Thanks to Mrs. Alvin Krieger of Farwell for her suggestion regarding the use of 1/2 cup milk in the Coconut Pineapple Coffee Cake recipe we printed a few weeks ago. The recipe called for 1/3 cup milk, but the extra amount makes a softer, more pliable dough instead of a stiffer one.

We also appreciate her compliment as well as all the others we have received on the same recipe. The only complaint we have heard was that it was too dry and stiff.

THE PARMER FARMER

by W. H. Graham Jr.

Can we believe it? Is this really West Texas and Eastern New Mexico? We haven't had a bonafide, old-fashioned sand-storm this year!

Even the old timers are hard pressed to remember a spring that has gotten started as has this one of 1958, with no dusters on the books and things so wet it isn't likely much would blow around even if the wind did get up out of the southwest for a day or two.

This is anything but normal. Maybe moisture is coming back to "normal," but it sure isn't "normal" for the High Plains to have such a clean late winter and early spring.

The weather is up to something pretty sneaky, we can count on that. Our personal prediction is that considerable violent weather is in store for the Plains this year.

We had our share last spring and summer, you may recall, when there was the largest number of tornadoes reported in history. We predict another season of turbulent weather, and suggest, just as a hunch, that this is THE year to soak some money, which is probably already borrowed, into some crop insurance.

The kind of clouds that have been hanging around of late look pretty suspicious. Give us a few hot, sultry days to stir them up and we will probably have lots of fireworks.

Actually, tornadoes do very little crop damage themselves. But the hail and driving rains and strong winds that accompany them push crop losses into the millions every once in a while.

Some other folks agree with us that we're headed for a tornado-laden season. We know of at least two people who are in the storm cellar business, and are taking things pretty seriously.

Shatterproof or combine-type sesame is more than just a conversation piece. It's here, and will be released in sufficient quantity this year to supply the anticipated demand.

Farmers are cautioned about going whole-hog on this new variety, however. The folks who developed it (Texas Research Foundation) suggest only trial plantings this year so that farmers can see themselves what possibilities are.

The old standard semi-shattering varieties still yield significantly more seed under normal conditions and probably will remain the standby of sesame growers for at least a few years, reports indicate.

Anyway, it's interesting to see this new variety be introduced commercially. Our irrigated High Plains can really eat up anything that fits into mechanization.

How long will it be before than 20-acre lake on your farm will be something you'll be bragging about instead of trying to overlook whenever you show someone the place?

Well, that may be quite a few years off, but we think it's coming. It's got to be in the cards when you figure up all the angles. First, we will, sooner or later, deplete our water resources, even though they are tremendous.

Second, the natural recharge that our reservoir gets annually from natural causes is too insignificant to be of immediate economic value.

Third, there is no natural drainage system developed by Mother Nature for the High Plains, so it happens that whenever it rains, excess water more or less just stands around in "puddles" which are our playa lakes, instead of running off in a big river like it does in most sections of the world.

So, if a farmer wants more water, where will he go? To the lake on his own farm, of course. Some of the water he will pump directly from the lake to his cropland during the growing season.

But the biggest part of the water he will return to the underground sands by means of dual-purpose wells. This has been established as a simple and practical practice by numerous experiments.

In fact, tests have shown that water returned to the reservoir for all practical purposes "stacks up" and can be withdrawn relatively easily when the well is pumped again.

Farmers will not be faced with the prospect of draining lakes underground only to have the water move off laterally to be lost or, at best, to be used by a neighboring landowner. Movement of the water in the formation is far too slow to allow this to be a big worry in this practice.

Little Johnny, an avid fan of TV, saw snow for the first time. "Look, Ma," he shouted excitedly, "see what DUZ is doing now!"

THE BULWARK OF A COMMUNITY IS ITS CHURCHES

REDEEMED BY THE BLOOD

"The Blood of Jesus Christ his son cleanseth us from all sin." I John 1:7.

During the days that Charles I reigned in England it was thought when a person was sick that to draw off some of his blood would help to make him well again. Those who did get well did so in spite of what was done. For we know now that life itself is in the blood. As we read the Bible we find that God taught that in Old Testament times as well as in the New Testament there are some who would take the Blood of Jesus away from our salvation today. They will be found as foolish as those who drew it away from a body thinking it would heal the sick. Life Spiritual is in the blood of Jesus Christ who died on the cross and thus shed his blood for us. "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission." Thus say the Scriptures. When a soul is saved the blood of Jesus, which was never contaminated with sin because he was sinless, is applied by the Holy Spirit to the person and as the Bible says it springs up in him a fountain of everlasting life. Let us be sure that our sins are cleansed in the blood of Jesus.

IN AND AROUND—

A called meeting has been planned for April 3 at 4 p. m. to determine the future of Parent-Teachers work here in our community. Those on the nominating committee are Juanda Jarrell, Thelma Coffey, and Lorraine Welch.

Are we interested in the welfare of our children? Do we have the faintest notion of the purpose of the Parent-Teachers Association? Maybe we have just let ourselves get involved in too many other activities.

Whatever our excuses are, are they really reasons for our indifference? Some may question the indifference. Maybe lack of interest would more nearly express our feeling toward the organization. At any rate, something is definitely wrong and unless we as a community want the work here to come to an end, it is time we did something.

In spite of all the "soupy" weather we have had, there are a few indications of spring around town. The yellow jonquils and various colors of pansies, which are bloomed out in the flower bed at the Dan Ethridge home, haven't let the damp weather affect them too much.

Then we noticed mustard and maybe some other kind of early greens growing profusely in the garden plot on the south side of the Baker Garage at the Hub. Some of the mustard appeared to be blooming and none of it seemed any the worse after our prolonged wet spell.

It has been said on numerous occasions that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Perhaps we should keep this in mind and begin making plans for an active campaign against the mosquitoes that will be with us this summer.

Since we have started irrigating here, East Texas mosquitoes do not have anything on West Texas mosquitoes. Since our fellow Texans in other sections of the state do a pretty good job combatting these insects, it might be wise for us to start taking lessons.

If we did nothing now except clear all premises of rubbish and low spots where water can stand to form places for the mosquitoes, our time would be well spent. Then we would have the added benefit of a cleaner, neater looking town and countryside.

Reports from the north central and northwest parts of the county indicate that wheat prospects are better than they have been in a number of years. There are numerous acres of dryland wheat that look as well as the irrigated fields near them.

This is a good indication that plentiful moisture has been received since the wheat was drilled last fall. Thirty years ago wheat farmers used to say, "Wheat that will hide a rabbit at Easter time, will make 40 bushels per acre." Using that as a measuring stick this year, we will surely have lots of 40 bushel wheat.

W. H. Dean of Hale Center, who has farming interests here, was a visitor in the Star office one day last week. It always gives us pleasure to have visitors from neighboring counties, especially when they become subscribers to the Star.

We do have some household files in stock now. Since our supply has been exhausted, we have had several calls for them. They are very pretty and make practical shower gifts and come in colors to match any kitchen.

Mrs. Keith Maricle from Frederick, Okla., spent last week visiting her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Precure and family. Another guest in the Precure home the last of the week was Fred Spangler from San Antonio.

Mrs. H. T. Magness and Jacquelyn spent last weekend visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Gibson, who are parents of Mrs. Magness.

Mrs. H. T. Magness spent Saturday in Lubbock visiting Denise, Marjore, and Clifton Magness.

Correction: The March 13th article should have read "Immaculate Conception of Mary" instead of "Jesus." The doctrine is as follows: "According to Roman Catholic dogma, she (Mary) was conceived free from taint of original sin; this is the doctrine of Immaculate Conception, as it was defined by Pope Pius IX."

World Book Encyclopedia Subject: Mary, The Virgin.

Hereditary Depravity
The doctrine of inherited sin (called "hereditary depravity") is taught by Catholics and most Protestant bodies. It is not taught in the scriptures, as we shall see in a later article.

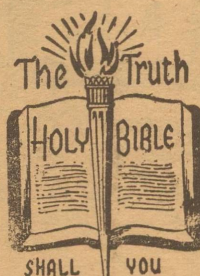

Mary's Offspring
The following scripture shows Jesus had brothers and sisters: "Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary, and his brethren James and Joseph and Simon and Jude? And his sisters, are they not all with us?" (Matthew 13:55-56; Mark 6:3.)

From Roman Catholic Translation of the New Testament, Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Edition.

Effects To Offspring
If the doctrine of "Hereditary Depravity" were true and Mary was born without the taint of this original sin, so called, neither Jesus nor any of his brothers or sisters could have inherited this sin from her. According to this doctrine, God would have raised up a seed, through the brothers and sisters of Jesus, different to all the rest of mankind; not inheriting the taint of Adam's sin. REMEMBER, THE BASIC DOCTRINE THAT INFANTS ARE BORN IN SIN IS FALSE, CONSEQUENTLY ALL THE DOCTRINES GROWING OUT OF IT ARE LIKEWISE FALSE.

Finally Shirley remembered that station wagons have a rear entrance. Fortunately it wasn't locked so she made an unceremonious entrance through the rear of the car, all much to D. F.'s disgust.

Better luck next time, son.
