East Texas Fox Hunters Organize Association

The first big hunt of the Neches River Fox Hunters Association was staged last week a few miles northeast of Weches at Diboll front, which lasted Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. Prominent fox hunters of Houston, Anderson and Cherokee counties participated in the hunt. Between sixty and seventy fox hounds were used, and they made the "welkin ring" with their music.

The Association was organized at this hunt with the following officers and directors: Holland Scarborough of Augusta, President. C. B. Keeland, of this city, secretary and treasurer. The board of directors consist of G. B. Bice, of Houston county, Lee Wilson of Cherokee county, and Eddie Bassett of Anderson county. The membership is composed of hunters from these three countries.

Paradoxical as it may sound, the Association proposes to protect the fox instead of harming him. Strict rules forbid any member from killing a fox and imposes a heavy fine upon such offending member if he is unable to replace the fox so killed. The members get their fun out of the chase.

The next big hunt will be staged somewhere in Houston county after the first full moon in December.

Grapeland Boy is Now Wireless Operator

From a late issue of the Radio World we take the following item. The L. W. Meriwether referred to is none other than Lewis Keen, son of the late Dr. L. Meriwether, who was born and reared in Grapeland:

The steamer "Pan-America" is equipped with the latest type of arc transmitter, having a range up to 5,000 miles, and, in addition, a one-kilowatt Navy standard spark-transmitter with a transmitting range up to 1,500 miles. This is the steamer that carried Secretary of State Hughes to the Brazilian Exposition. The chief wireless operator, L. K. Meriwether, and his assistants have the distinction of being the first in the history of radio to hear messages through the most powerful receiving apparatus ever installed on a merchant vessel.

Two Teachers Added to the Grapeland School

To relieve the crowded condition of the school, the trustees have added two teachers, Miss Eva Gene Murchison taking the second grade, and Mrs. F. M. Boone the fourth grade. ## School Mass Meeting Held; Bond Issue Favored

The people of the Grapeland Independent School District met in mass meeting at the Star Theatre last Thursday night to discuss serious problems now confronting the school.

To remedy the present crowded condition at the building, it was decided to employ two additional teachers and their salaries to be paid by popular subscription. These teachers have already been employed by the board.

The meeting was largely attended and was representative of the entire district. The proposition of raising our present tax of 50c to $1.00 was discussed thoroughly, as was also voting bonds to build and equip an adequate high school building. Both propositions met with enthusiasm and all present went on record as favoring it.

A citizens committee of seven members was appointed to work in conjunction with the school board to devise plans and ascertain probable cost of the building. When the matter is thrashed out the board will call an election.

Our Rights

The Constitution of the United States guarantees to each certain fundamental rights. Those rights are to be exercised within the boundaries fixed by law.

No man can assume to be the law in the exercise of his rights. No man has liberty except the liberty that is guaranteed to him by law while he is within the confines of absolute obedience to law. When he steps beyond the confines of law he ceases to have rights except the right of a fair and impartial trial by an impartial jury.

We seem to have forgotten the Constitution and have entered upon a policy of abuse of the rights guaranteed to us under the Constitution.

The Constitution guarantees to us the right of free speech. That means the right of appeal, of petition, of protest, of trial, and of constructive amendment to the Constitution according to the rules of law. No government, civil or military, can deny us the right to petition, to plead, or to protest.

This provision of the Constitution is abused today. The term,

"Free Speech" is interpreted to mean unbridled license to talk.

There is a vast difference between speech and talk. There is a vast difference between petition and unguarded, treasonable, and blasphemous utterances. We do not need any more free speech. We need fair argument, honest statements, and truthful utterances.

The Constitution guarantees to us a free press. That means the right to own and to publish the news if published accurately, truthfully and fairly.

It means a press beyond the dictation of any power be it political, military, or financial. We need under that right a fair press, an honest press, a truthful press, an accurate press, an unbiased press, and a press that recognizes that the reportorial and news columns belong to the public in which utterances be fairly, accurately, and truthfully reported.

The Constitution guarantees to us the right of amending the Constitution. But it must be amended according to the Constitution's rule for amending it.

The Constitution must be respected, obeyed and followed if this government is to stand.

What An Education Does— Discovers, Disciplines, Develops

Said Spencer: "To prepare us for complete living is the function which education has to discharge. The two ancient types of education are to be combined into symmetrical development. The Greek idea was purely cultural, its objects the perfection of human nature, and its studies the classics, history, music, art, and the sciences. The Roman idea was professional, its scope the round of industrial lore and its purpose to prepare for earning a livelihood and getting on in the world. Neither view is wholly correct; the truth lies near the golden mean, and upon this our energies should converge.

"Education discovers. It is a Columbus sailing uncharted seas to discover not continents, but continent-makers. It is said that seven new citizens are every minute born into the English-speaking world. Their immaturity and their ignorance are linked with their possibility, their potentiality for good or evil; and the supreme problem of society, state and church, is to guide these infant feet in right paths. Education here steps in and discovers what the child is, whether of one or of five talents; what he can be, tho he have but one talent; and what he can do. For there is something each person can do better than anything else, and there is somewhere and somewhen that he can do this better than anybody else.

"Education disciplines. It takes raw material and hammers it into value. One writer says a boy is like a hundred weight of good iron. In ordinary form it is worth $1.00; carbonized into steel it is worth $2.00; made into inch screws, worth $100; drawn into fine wire, worth $500; in fine needles, worth $1000; in smallest watch screws, worth $300,000; and in the finest hair springs, worth $1,500,000—sixty times the value of an equal weight in gold! How much pounding and polishing is necessary; how much of genuine discipline!

"Education develops. But remember there are two kinds of instruction; one of which merely imparts information; and one which inspires the pupil. So education really gives one the use of himself; it enables him to call into play any one of all or all of his powers as needed; and it trains and qualifies him for the most effective use."—From Rutherfordton (N. C.) Sun.

Honest and Policy

The maxim that "honesty is the best policy" certainly did not originate in the mind of an idealist, however useful as a moral force it may be. But Archbishop Whately's remark, that honesty is the best policy, but he who is honest for that reason is not an honest man, seems unjustifiably harsh. Honesty is the result of education and training rather than of instinct. The self-protective instinct in the untrained human being is usually stronger than the instinct to tell the truth, and it is hardly fair to assume that only those exceptional persons who from earliest childhood follow the instinct to tell the truth, no matter how much it hurts, are honest. People acquire honesty as they grow older partly from a subconscious rather than a conscious recognition that it usually pays to be honest, partly from the strengthening through education of the understanding that not to be honest derogates from a man's dignity and self respect. A tradition of honesty in families is one of the strong impelling forces for honesty. Whatever the motive that impels a man to be honest, whether it is a policy or a desire to preserve his self-respect or a desire not to fall short of family tradition, the fact of his honesty is all that is important. No man can be persistently honest without gaining in fineness of perception as well as in strength of

THE MESSENGER'S AMERICANIZATION SERIES

Loyalty to Democratic Standards

Nothing is easier than to blame others if anything is wrong, or to leave the task to others if something a little exacting needs to be done. This is proverbially true with respect to the duties of citizenship, and in the least backward democracies, notwithstanding all national foundations have been shaken during the war, it is still a common thing for citizens to regard the civic error or obligation as that of "the other fellow." With all the deep and vital lessons of the war apparently less effective than might be expected, and with public schools weakened and, in scores of communities, closed for lack of teachers, the ordinary patriotic American finds himself wondering what will arouse the nation to grapple with the problems of to-day, and to see that the children are properly educated to cope with the questions of to-morrow.

In these circumstances especial interest, naturally and properly, attaches to those who took part in the war. They have undergone tests, they have been awakened, presumably they care what is done in their home democracy, and for its future. So, when it developed that the demobilized millions of American soldiers and sailors were to be united in a permanent organization, persons concerned for the welfare of the United States began to ask themselves how these active, forceful young men would exercise the immense power likely to be wielded by so great a union as theirs promised to be. Would they be steady? This was one of the first questions. There has not yet been very much to show how they will make their influence felt in the affairs of the nation, but what there has been is mainly, of the sort to give assurance. The few dignified public utterances of the man they have placed at their head have the right ring. It is evidently his purpose to build the mighty structure of the American Legion on broad lines and on a high plane. The importance of so doing is clearly beyond estimation, for this body of young men represents no section of the nation—but the entire republic.

And what of the other millions of citizens? Perhaps they have had less in their experience to awaken them to the needs of the time than have the men who have been actually in the war, but there seem to be enough, both of promise of progress and of cause for precaution, to interest any fairly intelligent member of a democracy. The entry of women as a great factor in national political affairs, and the advent of national constitution prohibition, to mention nothing else, ought to inspire every well meaning possessor of a vote to useful participation in the government of his country. As for the other side of the picture, much is heard, and ought to be heard, about the more striking manifestations of ignorance, misconception, and disloyalty, and of their possible remedy. There is, however, just as much need of reform among the idly neglectful, and among the well-dressed, comparatively well mannered, apparently harmless people, who by secret, underhand, and wholly selfish means, impair the integrity of individuals and pervert the machinery of government.

American Legion to Stage Fiddlers' Convention

Probably the "feature of all features" of the Grapeland Fair to be held October 27-28 will be the Fiddlers' Convention and contest which will be under the auspices of Jas. O. Ritchey Post 215 American Legion. Expert fiddlers from all over Texas are expected and cordially invited to attend and compete for the honors. In addition to the cash prizes, each prize winning contestant will have his expenses paid to and from the convention. Contestants desiring to be enrolled as members of this convention should get in touch with G. E. Darsey, Jr., Post Commander American Legion of Grapeland. Get your fiddle and come on.

Shorter Term Threatened To Texas Country Schools

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 9.—"A half-million Texas children must attend school one or two months less this year due to decrease of state school funds, according to county superintendents in all sections of the state," said Peyton Irving, Jr., managing editor of the Texas School Journal. "Most of these, who will have less than a six months term, live in the country or in small towns.

"Schools will be open fewer months. Fewer teachers will be employed. Teachers will be paid less per month as well and for fewer months. One hundred Walker County schools will be shorter and seventy-five teachers have had their pay cut, according to Superintendent J. C. Thomas. In Montague County forty-two schools will be shorter, and 124 teachers get less pay for shorter time, says Superintendent R. C. Poteet. Seventy-nine Wharton County schools will have shorter terms and ninety teachers will be paid less, writes Superintendent Elizabeth McIver.

"The only relief possible, according to the superintendents, is an emergency appropriation by legislature available for this year, a suggestion understood to have the approval of the governor and many legislators. The constitution commands a six months term. Legislature alone can see that the command is obeyed. If its members observe their obligations promptly in January, the disaster threatening Texas children will be avoided."

Household Hints

A good way to remove a cork from the inside of a bottle is to double a rather strong cord, drop the loop end into the neck, turn the bottle upside down and then draw out the cork.

Do not soak shoes in water in trying to silence their squeak. To do so will only make the soles squeak louder after they dry. The best remedy is to place the shoes in a flat pan that contains sufficient linseed oil to almost cover the soles. Allow them to remain over night. Thoroughly dry them out before attempting to wear them.

Use the white of an egg instead of water in preparing a mustard plaster and plaster will not blister the skin.

Unless meat is very stale can you always tell whether it is fresh or hot? Fresh meat always looks firm and has a certain amount of elasticity. Stale meat is flabby in appearance and leaves imprint of the finger when touched.

and the good medicine it was, I had been having a tired feeling when I'd get up in the morning. I would be stiff and sore, and had a slimy, bad taste in my mouth, but didn't think so much of it till I began to feel stupid and didn't feel like eating—then I knew I needed medicine. It was then I began Black-Draught, and I felt all made over, ready for any kind of work, ready to eat and sleep. So, for any return of this trouble, I take Black-Draught, and for 25 years it has been my medicine, and I wouldn't be without it at all. My work is constant. I am on my feet a lot. I am out of doors, and fresh air and Black-Draught are all the medicines I need. I recommend it to others for I know it is good."

AMUSEMENTS

"Passion," Big Production, With Famous Continental Star

The most recent of super-film play, "Passion," which opens an engagement at the Star Theatre tomorrow evening, is said to mark a new epoch in motion pictures. "Passion" is an intimate version of the story of a little French milliner who rose to a position commanding a king and effecting the destinies of a nation. It is presented as an Associated First National attraction and it comes to this city with an actual record for establishing new ideals for screen production. Aside from its reputed new technical perfections there is a depth of panoramic perspective hitherto unknown to the silversheet and instanced by the passion of huge mobs rising in their might to overthrow the mighty, and of which there have been plenty of demonstrations lately in the form of strikes and rebellions. One of the big scenes in this photodramatic spectacle is the storming of a mammoth barricaded prison by a mob of 5,000 impassioned citizens, all of which becomes doubly impressive and realistic through the stereoscopic character of the new photography which displaces the flat photography that so often makes the illusion difficult. By this system are picturized not only shadows and reflections, but bodies and scenes which seem endowed with their true dimensions, it is said. This novelty

Richard Lloyd Jones tells How To Play The Game

IN the closing game of a minor league two teams were contesting for the pennant. The bleachers were crowded with rival fans. The score was 5 to 4. The team at bats was four. The last half of the 9th inning was in play. There were two out, three men on bases, their best batter up. He found the ball and sent it far afield. The race of the bases started. The left fielder ran desperately to get the ball. He met it in the tall grass close to the far fence as the batter was on his way home, the three base runners before him. Into the tall grass the ball and the fielder fell. The grandstand rose; a hush held them. "Did he catch it?" was the thought on thousands of tongues. Out from the tall grass into which he had stumbled the fielder rose, holding high the ball. A mighty cheer arose. The four runners had touched home plate without a score. The fielder who held the ball had given his team the pennant. The cheers continued, wave after wave of cheers,—until,—the fielder lowered his hand that held the ball and raised the other hand in protest, dropped his head with humiliation and shook it "no." At once the thousand eyes upon him read the sign. The ball fell to earth, not into his hands. In his race in the high grass he had stumbled where instantly he could put his hand upon it. No one but himself and his God saw it. One never-to-be-detected falsehood would give his team the victory for which through all the long hot summer they had battled. Temptation spurred him but in the nobler sober second thought, conscience triumphed and HE PLAYED THE GAME ON THE SQUARE. Victory was turned into defeat. But only for the moment. The hush that came over the grandstand, as they comprehended the act, first broke into cheers for the real winners,—and then,—the finer conscience and the true sportsmanship that the player had expressed possessed his disappointed rooters. They found that VICTORY was not wrapped up in the pennant. The pennant at best was but a rag of a thing. The real victory was in playing the game on the square. And both the contending fans broke out in a cheer such as few diamond heroes have ever heard. The fielder came in, and as he came his head lifted from its depressed pose and he faced the throng,— THEIR HERO. The great American game is a builder of men. It is not the exhibition games that count the most. It is the game that is staged in the school ground and in the vacant lot that serves us best. The real game is played on the diamond that is not encircled by banner-bearing bleachers. The real game is played not on fields where all eyes may see. The real game is played in the far out field, in the uncut grass where ball and player meet unseen. He who can find victory there has learned the lesson of life that the great American game has to teach. He is the player who is a MAN.

within itself should mark a distinct novelty which will arouse wide interest since the progress of the cinema development is being so closely watched by interested millions of devotees.

The cast in "Passion" is headed by Pola Negri, the famous Continental star, and her portrayal of the leading character is said to set a new high mark in motion picture artistry.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY for 1922

If industry is to be revived, we need the alien mob to work the mines, and do the rest of the toil that must be done. Therefore we should let the aliens in. "If we want the wheels of prosperity to turn, we should keep the American workman free from competition from Europe. Therefore we should keep aliens out." "If happiness is to come to the land we must seek an educated citizenship. Therefore we should have a strict educational test for the alien." "If we want peace on earth, we should safeguard our shore against intrusion from cunning agitators found among these highly educated but destitute foreigners. Therefore we should admit only workers who are built for work." Try these recipes for political speeches from your cart tail. Any one of them will get a round of applause. You can always fool the fellow who knows only "We, Us & Company" and never thinks of You.

poem by UNCLE JOHN

The dreamy eyes that used to haunt me, have ceased to thrill my time-worn heart; no optic artist now can daunt me, no matter how she acts the part. I've lost the keen appreciation that lurks within the youthful breast; I still have spells of palpitation, but that's because I don't digest.

I hate to own that I'm a cynic,—that I have old and crusty grown, but I can pass the eye-brow clinic, the same as if I'd turned to stone. There's nothing to the pensive languish that Maude turns on at sweet sixteen,—and still, it used to cause me anguish, when I was callow, fresh, and green. I've reached the age of sere and yellow; I've grown to be a sort of crank. You know the years will gird a fellow like iron hoops around a tank. I envy not the mushy youngster that flounders in romantic stage. I'd rather be a whiskered songster, and smear my dope on printed page.

For your Uncle John.

Mrs. Lively, Over 100 Years Old, Died Last Thursday

Mrs. Jane Lively, who died Thursday October 5, 1922 at the home of her son F. A. Lively, near Lovelady, was buried Friday afternoon in the Lively community, about six miles north of Grapeland. Mrs. Lively was one of the oldest living residents of Houston County. She was born in July, 1822, and on her last birthday was 100 years old. She was born in Tennessee and came to Texas in 1850, and has since been a resident of this county.

She was the mother of fourteen children, eight of whom are living, as follows: Taylor Lively, Volga; Boge Lively, Anderson County; Mrs. Jim Herod, Grapeland; Sam Lively and J. F. Lively, Palestine; M. L. Lively, Memphis, Texas; F. A. Lively, Lovelady; George Lively, Elkhart.

Feeding Father

We know the latest diet rules and raise the children by them; they keep ma slim and Susan plump, but father will not try them. Man wants but little here below nor wants that little long, but pa wants coffee twice a day and wants that coffee strong. We know that fruits are good for pa, we steam them, boil them, bake them, we cook them fifty-seven ways but can't make father take them. We serve him eggs in many styles, we scramble, poach and beat them; they must be fried like tough rawhide, or father will not eat them. The heathful greens and stringless beans his palate do not tickle, but he will shout for sauer kraut, nine wienies and a pickle. He's busting all nutrition rules in spirit and in letter, he wants fried spuds three times a day, the greasier the better. If pa still stubbornly persists Dame Nature's wrath to brave, we fear, by gum, that he will come to an untimely grave. Just how he'll fare when over there and what he'll chew we know not. How will he eat celestial meat, without a soggy doughnut? Above the choir they'll hear our sire; above its loud hosanna; he'll criticize the lack of pies and kick about the manna.—Bob Adams,

Ladies, let Clewis have your old winter coat suit, waist and skirt dyed.

FARMS—BANKS

The successful farm is as closely allied with a bank as with the stock or seed it proposed to increase to a profit.

As an example, take sheep. It has been many years since the British learned from the Romans the art of spinning wool.

It was in 1609 that the first sheep into the U. S. were landed at Jamestown, Va., and almost two centuries later, 1792, that the first carding machine was invented.

Progress has been fast since then. Today—one of the biggest woolen manufacturers progress $70,000,000 yards of fabric each year, and its assets are $130,000,000. When that much money is involved—banking is a part of it.

In our humble way, this bank is vital in the industrial progress of the world—and you—Mr. Farmer—have a hand, no matter what commodity you cultivate or produce.

To keep wheels turning, we should work together, whether it be savings, checking, loans or investments.

Guaranty State Bank

U. M. BROCK, Cashier.

Tells Bankers of Rural Needs.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., manager of the War Finance Corp., told ten thousand national bankers at New York last week that our Federal Reserves system should be built up to properly care for agricultural and live stock needs.

Europe Bad for Business

Three of the biggest American insurance companies have given up all of their business in Europe. Before the war it amounted to a billion dollars. The reason given is that they believe Europe will be a hopeless field for business for years to come. High taxes, high prices, and unfair laws are cited. The companies will still do business in England, however.

The Fastest Traveler

The famous French aviator, Sadi Lecointe, has traveled faster than any other person on earth. In a recent flight in France he broke all records for speed by flying at the rate of 213 miles an hour, or more than three and one-half miles a minute.

Excellent Chance at Fairs To Study Good Live Stock

Exhibits of improved live stock and poultry at county and State fairs this year promise to be unusually interesting. In practically all parts of the country excellent live-stock exhibits are to be attractive features of fairs. The attention which breeders and farmers have been giving to good live stock, combined with good feed and care, have resulted in some exceptionally well-bred and well-fitted animals.

In encouraging farmers to take advantage of the opportunities which fairs and live-stock exhibits give for observing improved live stock and poultry the Department of Agriculture places emphasis on the following points: Live-stock displays afford an opportunity to study breeds and types and to see a large number of good animals. In the case of meat animals the size, conformation, and uniformity are worthy of special study in view of increasing tendency to raise purebred and high-grade stock as market animals as well as for breeding.

Farmers attending live-stock displays obtain useful information by meeting others who are interested in superior breeding and feeding methods. Besides the ideas exchanged and information gained, new enthusiasm for the work is a common result. Animals and poultry may be purchased at most fairs, though as a rule it is more satisfactory for a farmer to purchase animals at the home of the breeder than to buy fitted animals at fairs. Animals that have been prepared for exhibition usually are priced higher than unfitted ones of similar quality and breeding.

A Real Job for Our Statesman

How can the American farmer and miner be made permanently prosperous? Not by a tariff on the importation of commodities like wheat, corn, cotton and copper, of which America has a vast exportable surplus. It can be done either by an enormous increase in the foreign demand, a demand sufficiently strong to absorb the surplus at high prices, or by cutting down production until a shortage drives the price up.

A drastic increase in the world price of our surplus products requires a fully pacified, tranquil and harmonious Europe plus a decreased birth rate and an increasing standard of living in Asia. To bring about such a condition will require years.

Reduction in the output of our primary industries will require national and state regulation on such a scale that the result will be equivalent to state socialism.

Russia tried that experiment with disastrous results.

Hence it should be the object of our statesmen, having grasped the nature of the fundamental economic problem, to widen the international markets for the output of American farms and mines by taking the initiative in every feasible effort to pacify the hysterical world. When the farmer and the miner are prosperous, the problem of the industrial worker will be solved.—September SUNSET.

Grapeland shipped two carloads of fat hogs to Houston the other day. Small favors thankfully received, for we remember that Grapeland shipped a solid trainload of hogs to Fort Worth two or three years ago. And if Houston will warm up to Grapeland right, we believe Grapeland will do as well by Houston.—Houston Post.

We ought to reduce county expenses in most of our counties, but it ought to be done by better business management and not by doing away with constructive agencies such as the county demonstration agent, home demonstration agent, and public welfare officer, or by decreasing the efficiency of the county superintendent of schools. Better business methods in the various county offices would often greatly reduce expenses. There is almost no excuse for paying a man a good salary as county treasurer when a bank can be bonded and handle the funds without expense to the county. Again, it is a waste of money to put up expensive buildings and hire a management for a poor house with only 15 or 20 inmates. Several counties should unite and have one poor house and one management for the whole group of counties, thereby saving much money.—The Progressive Farmer.
