OLD HOME TOWN

Sheriff Carl Adams of Brownwood notified Cisco police Sunday night that a 1927 model Ford touring car had been stolen there, and he requested that the officers look out for the car. It bore state highway license No. A11-980.

The following card has been received from Rev. B. C. Boney, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who is on his way to New York to sail for Ostend, Belgium, to attend the Rotary International convention. The card, which is postmarked "Niagara Falls" and bears a picture of the Horse Shoe Falls as seen from Table Rock, Canada: "Mrs. Boney and I have had a good trip to here. I spoke and sang at Park college Wednesday, spent yesterday in Chicago and will go to New York tomorrow. Expect to see Dr. Roberts there and sail on May 25."

GOVERNOR IN REBUKE OVER DALLIANCE

AUSTIN, May 23.—Governor Dan Moody today addressed a joint session of the Texas legislature when he urged speed on the part of the lawmakers in enacting legislation, and pleaded for action on the civil service and highway bills especially.

"The legislature has been in extra session for two weeks now, but the appropriations bill has not yet reached the free conference committee," he said, indicating his impatience at the delay. He urged that the appropriation measures be gotten out of the way at once so that other major problems can be taken up.

"The prison commission should be given plenary power to conduct the affairs of the penitentiary system," he declared. He denied that he was an advocate of relocation of the prison, but urged that this question be left to the prison board for solution.

SUBMARINES BEST DEFENSE FOR AMERICA

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1927, by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, R. I., May 23.—The submarine is the best naval weapon devised for the protection of the United States in the event of another war.

This statement was made today by Admiral William S. Sims in an exclusive interview in his home in Newport. As he talked, Narragansett Bay, a stone's throw from his home, was alive with ships preparing to resist the attempt of an "enemy" armada to land troops on the New England coast as part of the annual Army-Navy maneuvers to test the defensive strength of the North Atlantic coastline.

Admiral Sims was commander-in-chief of the United States naval forces operating in European waters during the war and is regarded as an authority on naval affairs.

"The most impregnable defense of the United States has against attack by any foreign power is distance," said Admiral Sims. "The enemy would have to come 3,000 miles to attack us and when it got within reach it would have no naval base to fall back upon—no place where ships could put in to be refueled and reconditioned.

"The submarine has clipped the wings of sea power and has made it a difficult matter for any foreign power to traverse such a great distance as entirely across the Atlantic and attack our shores.

"A fleet of submarines could split such an attacking fleet and with the aid of airplanes, virtually insure the safety of our shores from attack.

"The submarine and aircraft are our two principal defensive weapons. Battleships are of very secondary importance. They are no longer a guarantee of safety. They are fine targets for bombing airplanes. We must now depend upon submarines, aircraft and mines."

Asked how he regarded the policy of the United States as to submarines, the admiral replied that it was very good.

"During the war Germany and the Allies had better submarines than we had but now the United States is building better submarines than they are," he said.

"Germany did marvelous things during the war with its 500-ton submarines. Now we have 3,000-ton submarines that can steam faster than 95 per cent of the vessels at sea. These big submarines are fast in action, hard to detect, are safe and seaworthy and capable of carrying enough oil to go around the world without being refueled."

Admiral Sims predicted that the nations of the world will never outlaw the submarine. If they did, he said, Great Britain would automatically and unquestionably be complete mistress of the seas because of British superiority in other fighting craft and naval bases. This situation other nations will not stand for, he said, adding that the naval strategy of the next war will concern itself largely to assuring ample supplies of petroleum because of its need not only for surface craft but for the submarine.

PARIS, May 23.—Capt. Charles Lindbergh, still amazed at the future his flight across the Atlantic has aroused, had one thing on his mind today—the condition of his plane. He feared souvenir hunters had torn his plane to pieces and his anxiety was as great as if it had been a human companion on the flight. He arose at 9 o'clock this morning, and after he had breakfast he fought his way through a great crowd of admirers to Le Bourget field where he examined "The Spirit of St. Louis." He found it not damaged as much as he had feared.

He was driven to the presidential palace where President Doumergue decorated him with the ribbon and cross as a knight of the Legion of Honor, one of the highest honors France can bestow on a foreigner. It was with embarrassment that he received the honor.

The crowds about the American embassy, hoping to catch a glimpse of "Charlot" are never ending, and everywhere there are cries of "Charlot Vive Amerique," for that was the cry of admiration that was up when their own "Charlot" Nungesser took off on his flight, which apparently has ended in death.

A grin of boyish satisfaction spread over Lindbergh's face as he saw his plane. Hardly able to hide his concern, he hastily went from one part of the plane to another. "There is less damage than I feared," he said with an attempt to hide his relief. The seals were left on his gasoline tanks just as they were placed there in New York. They will be opened later to determine how much fuel was used.

Photographers and a swarm of autograph hunters swooped down on him. He good naturedly signed his name on every book presented to him, until the crowd began to get too large, when he was almost dragged from the crowd to keep his appointment with the president in the Palace Elysee. He was flanked by Ambassador Herrick and Consul Whitehouse when he stepped before the president to have the medal pinned on his left breast. "This is a small token of French esteem and of our admiration for you," said President Doumergue. "I want you to take a message to your mother for me. Tell her she has a wonderful son who has won the admiration of all the French people." Lindbergh blushed, the blush of a very embarrassed young man. He stammered and his throat seemed dry.

"Thank you very much. I'll be glad to deliver the message to mother," gasped Lindbergh.

LINDBERGH HAILED AS GREATEST OF DIPLOMATS.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Along with the congressional medal and other medals that will likely be pinned on Capt. "Slim" Lindbergh's broad breast when he returns, there should be another recognizing him as the ace of American diplomats. Washington was pretty well agreed on that and it was stated that in his only old flying unit he has done more than all the French coasted diplomats in the world could have done to restore Franco-American cordiality. It is no times in recent years there has been anxiety over the trend of Franco-American relations. Starting with the senate's failure to ratify the Versailles treaty and other efforts to adjust the war debt, there has been continued dickering between Washington and Paris, which has been more serious at times than the government prepared to admit.

MOTHER GOES ON TEACHING CHEMISTRY.

DETROIT, May 23.—Mrs. Evangelina Lindbergh is conducting her chemistry class today in Cass high school as if her son had not electrified the world. Her only regret was that her son was unable to hear her voice when he talked to her over radiophone from Paris yesterday.

SOLAR WEATHER

The weather certainly has been abnormal this spring, mostly in the matter of rainfall. There was the great, continuous downpour in the Mississippi valley, leading to the disastrous flood. There have been heavy rains in other portions of the country, particularly the east and the Great Lakes region.

EDUCATE OR PERISH

"In a democracy like ours," says Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, "where the people's judgment is the final decision, we must educate those who govern unless we want to be governed by the uneducated."

Ernest R. Ball is ushered into the other world by the strains of "Mother Machree" sung at his funeral and most everywhere else. Little he'll reck who writes his country's laws.

PRINCES OF SWAT

Old methods of discipline have vanished from American schools. The master's rod is a mere tradition. Verbal correction is usually as far as scholastic authority goes, and there is little enough of that.

Pola Negri, famous movie actress, is now a Russian princess. At least, she has married a "Russian prince."

COMFORT AND THRIFT

Yes, the American people are well off. In 1921 the average income in this country "per person gainfully employed" was $1,537. It has increased every year since, and last year reached the respectable figure of $2,010.

THE MAGIC BOX

Not long ago Thomas A. Edison was quoted as saying that radio in its present stage of development is not worth listening to. Perhaps I should feel that way, too, were I in the business of manufacturing phonographs.

Not worth listening to! What is worth listening to if radio isn't? If lectures, songs, speeches, sermons, orchestras, bands, instrumental and vocal solos, duos, trios, sextets, duets, etc., are worth listening to, then radio is worth listening to.

And radio is in its infancy. Radio has not yet cut its milk teeth. It has not yet discarded the bottle. Not only has the half not been told, Radio is going to revolutionize, or better say, evolve into the world.

It won't be long before one can plug into an electric light socket anywhere and bring in wonderful programs day or night, winter or summer, rain or shine, no static, no distortion, no interference—programs from the uttermost parts of the earth.

Bellamy's wild prophecy in "Looking Backward" about punching a button and having the room flooded with song, lecture, band concert or orchestral selection is all but literally true now. It will be true within half a decade.

More and more things will be on the air and can be captured from the air. Vision by radio is already an established fact. Soon a man will be able to sit in his home in San Francisco and see things happening in New York City.

DINNER STORIES

Anyhow, Who Was She? They were going through the Art Institute. Presently they came to a hall before a statue sculpture.

"That," he said, "is a statue of Francesca da Rimini, executed by Rodin."

"The wretch! Was he humping her?"

"Now You Tell One!" They tell me it gets pretty cold up here in the winter.

"Yeah it does. You know that statue of Lincoln, standing up in the park with his hand on a little negro's head? Well, just winter it so cold that he stuck his hand in his pocket to warm it."

Harold Reagan Weds

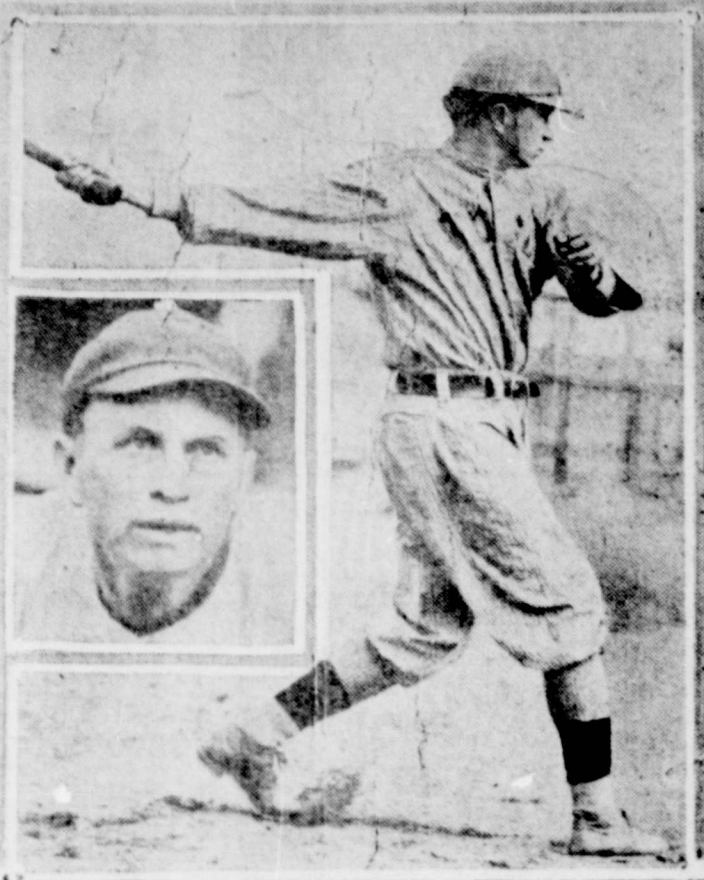

The following from the Stephenville Tribune is of interest here: the bridegroom being the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reagan:

"Miss Nellie Gray and Harold Reagan of Cisco were quietly married on Saturday evening, May 7, in the parlors of the Baptist parsonage, the impressive ceremony being read by Rev. C. B. Calpeper, pastor of the First Baptist church. The wedding service was attended by the bride's sister, Mrs. Harvey Boyd, her friend, Mrs. Eliza Eligs, and the pastor's family. The wedding came as a great surprise to her friends in this city who had been expecting the marriage to take place at an early date, but were not aware that it would occur so soon. Miss Nellie is quite popular among a large circle of friends who wish her much happiness in her newly wedded life. She is the beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gray of this city. Her entire life has been spent here. She received her education in the Stephenville public schools. Her parents, City Secretary and Mrs. Gray, are among the oldest residents of the city and are highly respected citizens. Mrs. Reagan will remain in Stephenville attending to the duties of her father's office until he is fully recovered and able to resume his duties. Afterwards she will go to Cisco to be with her husband, who holds a responsible position in that city."

Call 377-376 for Fresh Groceries

The popularity of our "order-by-phone" delivery of groceries and all good things to eat is in the fact that we make special effort to select only the best, knowing from experience that there is loss of time, good-will and patronage in return or exchange of goods.

When you order by phone feel assured that the potatoes, tomatoes, lettuce, eggs, celery, oranges, lemons, carrots, radishes, cabbage, butter or cakes you want will be selected as carefully as were you personally making choice.
