Bran to Control Grasshoppers Suggested by Varnell as Hordes of Insects Infest Cisco Fields

Farmers of the area surrounding Cisco have reported millions of grasshoppers infesting their fields this spring with the result that they are expecting much damage to growing crops as soon as the young hoppers get a little larger. As a means of coping with the situation, E. H. Varnell, Cisco vocational agriculture expert has given out a formula for poisoning grasshoppers which he declares has been very effective elsewhere. The following directions are given for mixing an amount sufficient to poison five acres:

Wheat bran (avoid shorts), 20 pounds.
White arsenic (or Paris green), one pound.
Amyl acetate, one ounce.
Cane molasses (avoid cane syrup), two quarts.
Water in quantity as suggested below.

DR. GRAHAM GIVES TALK ON FIRST AID

An address by Dr. E. L. Graham on first aid with special emphasis on blood fusions featured the meeting of the Men's Safety Council of the West Texas Utilities company Wednesday night. Dr. Graham commended the company on its activities in seeking to prevent accidents, and said that this was in line with view of the medical profession which had rather generally disapproved the attempt to cure it. He emphasized that in cases where the accident victim appears colorless and weak, he should be allowed to rest and placed in wraps to foster heat. In such cases, a doctor should be rushed to the victim instead of the victim to the doctor.

Lindbergh Hopes For Regular Air Service

PARIS, France, May 26.—A regular air service between France and the United States was the hope expressed by Captain Charles A. Lindbergh today in a speech at the city hall where a program in his honor was being given. "I am unable to express my appreciation of the honors you have conferred upon me and my country," he declared in a speech replying to the address of welcome. "I have but one desire, and that is that my flight may prove the forerunner of such a service. My desire, I am sure, would have been the greatest desire of Captains Nungesser and Goll."

Lindbergh's speech, delivered in his usual manner, appeared to make a deep impression on his hearers because of its evident sincerity.

Preceding the program at the city hall, the wild enthusiasm of the French people for Lindbergh took the form of a remarkable demonstration of reverence for a hero. Thousands upon thousands of Frenchmen donned their hats and lined the Champs Elysee as Captain Lindbergh and Ambassador Herriek, in company with the president of the municipal council, rode in an open automobile to the city hall where Lindbergh was given the freedom of the city.

At 10:10 this morning Lindbergh arrived at the home of Marshal Foch to pay his respects. He was warmly greeted by Marshal Foch and the entire Foch family. The marshal wore his American Cross of Honor for the occasion.

"I congratulate you on showing that a young man can do when he organizes well to accomplish what he sets out to do," Marshal Foch said.

Lindbergh whispered aside to a correspondent: "Foch is certainly a grand old man."

After the conversation with the French war leader, Lindbergh left for the triumphant procession to the city hall, whose massive central gates were opened as a mark of special tribute to him.

Lindbergh has proved a puzzle to the French in regard to his drinking habits. Although at least two bottles of wine and champagne have been on the table before him at various luncheons and dinners given him, Captain Lindbergh has confined his drinking to mineral water and milk. Still, he says he is not a prohibitionist.

After his visit with Marshal Foch, Lindbergh went to see Field Marshal Joffre and again he was greeted not only by the field marshal but by the entire family of Joffre. "I never can forget my visit to the United States in 1917," said "Papa" Joffre, "and to have it returned by you touches me profoundly. The entire French nation is happy and proud of your success."

Apparently deeply moved by the suffering he witnessed, Captain Lindbergh later visited Invalides hospital where he was cheered by many injured war veterans.

Lindbergh will probably tune up his motor tomorrow for a flight over Paris. Saturday he will probably fly to Brussels, and from there hop to London.

'LEGGERS' INCOME TAXES

It may not be literally true, as the waggish Will Rogers remarks, that "we ought to have our national debt paid in a couple of years now," since the supreme court has ruled that bootleggers must pay an income tax. The industry isn't quite big enough for that yet. Bootleggers, too, are notoriously slippery. A good many of them will continue to evade their civic duty in this matter, along with quite a few citizens of more respectable occupations. A bootlegger may have a natural penchant for thrift, and may insist on working in his occasional fines, bribes and miscellaneous subsidies and legal costs as legitimate expenses, with a little added for good measure. Uncle Sam will help him as much as possible, though, to do his duty, even to the extent of treating his income tax report as confidential. The treasury department, it appears, does not blab to the department of justice in such matters. The internal revenue office ignores the prohibition enforcement branch. Uncle obeys the scriptural injunction and doesn't let his right hand know what his left hand is doing, or his right eye see what his left eye beholds. One eye may glare at the wrong-doer and the other wink at him. Well, the bootleggers ought to pay as well as honest men. Taxes from their unholy gains may be used to good purposes. And now that this principle is established, we may look to see income taxes collected from bank robbers, house burglars and highwaymen.

WEARINESS

Tiredness seems to be a national vice. The most energetic of nations is coming to be the weariest, if you can believe what people say about themselves. Many wear themselves out by working too much on one thing. They are not using up all their energy, but are over-exerting one set of muscles or faculties. That leaves them dull and stale. Many wear themselves out by trying to ride two horses at once—carry two jobs or burdens, keeping their minds on both all the time. In this case, they may be using up all their energy—but not constructively. They are exhausting their nerve energy in the pulling and hauling and general cross-purposes of the two conflicting jobs. Others, with no more natural energy, keep busily occupied all the time, with two or three or half a dozen different jobs or interests, and thrive under the load. What is the difference? Probably this—that these persons have the knack of applying their minds to one thing at a time, then turning to another thing and switching their whole attention to it, always using a fresh set of ideas and interests, and never letting the other interest intrude. Blessed is the man or woman with enough mental flexibility to do this. It's mostly the mutual interference and cross-circuiting of different interests or tasks that produces nervous breakdowns.

CHEERFUL STOCK MARKET

The stock market is not an infallible barometer, but it is right oftener than wrong, because it is mostly optimistic. This may be the case at present, in spite of many factors in the business situation that ordinarily would be considered threatening. A leading business analyst speaks of the Mississippi flood, the coal strike, the grain market troubles, the financial crisis in Japan and the unsettled controversy with Mexico, any one of which in former years would have caused hesitation and depression in American business. Today, indeed, there is some nervousness and uncertainty; but as statistics show, there is no concrete evidence of a slump. These disturbances are declared to be "almost without effect," inasmuch as "car loadings, bank clearings and postal receipts all reflect a fairly steady gain in the volume of trade." This gain is not steady, but the trend is upward. The stock market, the expert concludes, "reflects the ascending curve that the statistics describe." Business men, so far this year, have been rather "bearish" while the stock market has been "bullish." It is time to rake up once more the famous dictum of J. P. Morgan, the elder, about "not being a bear on the United States of America," and apply it not to the stock speculators as did he, but to the rank and file of American business men. Few of them will say that business is really bad, but too many of them are afraid it is going to be bad. It will not be unless their pessimism makes it so.

Human Interest Editorials

By WICKES WAMBOLDT

NOT FUNNY NOW

What has become of the funny drunk? It is not so many years ago that a large collection of stories could be heard from every direction about the comical things the intoxicated or semi-intoxicated man did. The mazy man used to be a stock comely character. His antics produced about as many laughs as anything. The actor who could cleverly take off the man in his cups developed a household of mirth. The first time I saw Charlie Chaplin he was playing the part of an obfuscated person in "A London Music Hall," and he was a scream. But the comedian today playing a tipsy part does not get the laughs he once got. Somehow or other he isn't so funny to the audience as he used to be. Today folks don't joke so much about the chap who is lit up. Folks don't find the drunken man humorous any more. When they think of a drunk they think of a tragedy.

Today the drunken man is a menace. He is more dangerous than ridiculous. He is more a figure to inspire terror than laughter. There always was the type of man who was to be feared when he was under the influence of liquor, but nowadays all pickled men seem to fall in that category. When a man gets primed these days, instead of getting out on the roof and dancing a jig he takes an axe and tries to knock somebody's brains out. Instead of putting his dripping umbrella in bed and standing himself up in the bathtub and singing "It Ain't Going to Rain No More," he gets a 44 and shoots his wife and children to death. That is because the liquor that men in our country now drink is the kind that makes them fiendishly crazy. In the frontier days the bootlegger sold stuff to the Indian that made the Indian a red devil. They called that mixture firewater. Let a redskin get tanked up on that and he would attack the United States army with one hand tied behind him. When the Indian was full he was not funny. He was a cross between a rattlesnake and a Bengal tiger with odds in his favor. The early settlers shivered at the thought of a drunken Indian. Today about the only kind of whisky that can be secured in this country is the kind that made a bad red man out of a good red man, and which makes a bad white man out of a good white man.

DINNER STORIES.

Overwhelming Logic "Sir, I have no home," began the tramp, "and—" "No taxes to pay, no rent, no coal bills, no worry over the rise in dairy products. Permit me to congratulate you and—" "I have no job and—" "Lucky man! No danger of being fired." "But I am serious. I have no money and—" "No temptation to spend it foolishly. Why, you are a veritable child of fortune. Good bye."

Blaming It on Eve "One day," said a story teller, "at the close of a hot day, Adam was returning with his hoe on his shoulder from a hard day's labor to his humble cottage. Maybe it was a cave. That doesn't matter, for it was a humble abode. Young

Another Mrs. Malaprop "My niece is quite theatrical," remarked old Mrs. Blunderby. "Next week she is taking part in a Shakespeare play at college." "Which of the plays is it?" her caller asked. "Edith mentioned the name of it, but I'm not sure whether it's 'If You Like it That Way, or 'Nothing Much Doing.'"

Amusements CHARGED BY THREE LIONS WHILE FILMING "GORILLA HUNT" Although Ben Burbridge went into Africa to photograph and capture live gorillas because the thrill of lion and elephant hunting had pulled upon him, the dare-devil of "The Gorilla Hunt," appearing tomorrow at the Palace theater, freely admits that one of his closest calls and most hair-raising adventures involved three of the big cats of which he has killed over a score. While on safari in the Belgian Congo, Burbridge's men were troubled by lions in the vicinity. A petra was shot and stalked out securely about fifty feet away from a thorn blind. The hunter then awaited the hour before dawn when lions feed. Impatient of the delay, Burbridge swept from behind the blind in the twilight dusk of earliest dawn. And he will never forget what he saw. Three full grown lions were peering into his face from a distance of ten feet away. They had dragged the zebra's carcass to within the very shadow of the thorn blind. The hunter fired, but in the bad light only wounded one of the beasts. All three bounded away and turned some fifty feet distant. Burbridge shot again—and missed. Another bullet creased one of the beast's side. Then all three charged! Not to be further misled by the uncertain light, Burbridge waited until the beasts were within a few feet, and then pulled the trigger. His gun was empty. Even the tanned gorilla hunter admits the situation to be fairly thrilling. What happened? Oh, yes—Burbridge's gunbarrel, a bad marksman fired and wounded one lion. It stopped short. A second, disconcerted, leaped clear over Burbridge's head. The third bounded off into the jungle. Later "The Gorilla Hunt" man killed all three.

Cisco Bathing Beach Being Pushed to Completion

Hope to Open First 300 Feet on June 5; Pleasure Resort Will Include Many Unusual Features

A half a hundred men and a hundred head of horses and mules are feverishly working night and day in an effort to complete Cisco's mammoth bathing beach in time for opening of the first section of the project on Sunday, June 5. So tremendous is the undertaking, however, those in charge have hesitated to fix a definite opening date finally, fearing that even the large number of workers employed may not be able to complete the first portion up that time. However, Contractor C. H. Van Eman has said that unless weather conditions should interfere, he will have the first 300 feet of the swimming pool ready for use of the thousands of persons from all West Texas expected to be present for the event.

Rapid progress has been made on the project since work began May 1. Thousands of cubic yards of dirt have been moved from the area just below Williamson dam, and concrete floor for nearly 200 feet of the pool has already been poured. Some of the walls in this section are yet to be constructed, but the greatest task in the construction work is moving the dirt, huge mounds of which were thrown up during the construction of the dam. Rapid progress has also been made on the bath house, a two-story structure 52x100 feet in dimensions. It is hoped to have the roof and second floor completed by Saturday night or at least have them far enough along for a private dance to be held on that date.

Plans of the Cisco Amusement company, franchise holders for all amusements and concessions at the lake, as now being carried out, are expected to give Cisco and West Texas the finest bathing resort north of the Gulf of Mexico. The mammoth bathing beach, when completed, will be 267 feet wide, the full length of the spillway of Williamson dam and 700 feet long, an area as large as three city blocks. Depth of the water will range from 18 inches in the kiddies' pool to 15 feet at the extreme eastern end of the pool where fancy diving can be enjoyed. The pool will be entirely of concrete, but will contain one distinct feature contained by no other artificial bathing resort in the state. An island, containing large walnut, pecan, elm, hackberry and oak trees and covering an entire acre, will be located in the middle of the pool. It will be covered in sand and furnish a shady and pleasant retreat for the bathers. A hand stand will be

$25,000 PRIZE FOR HAWAII FLIGHT PUT UP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—James D. Hale, millionaire Hawaiian pineapple king, today offered a prize of $25,000 for the first aviator to make a non-stop flight from the Pacific coast to Hawaii.

The dam will shade much of the beach during the afternoon, while trees on the island will afford a morning sun break.

The bath house will be modern in every respect. Bath houses in use at other points were inspected by Engineer George Franklin before he drew the plans for the Cisco structure, and every convenience possible was provided. The lower floor is built into sections, one for the men and one for the women, and locker rooms have been provided for 1000 at a time, one-half the number provided for at Fort Worth's new $2,000,000 resort at Lake Worth. It is expected, however, that this capacity will have to be doubled at an early date. The upper floor will all be one single room. A maple floor has been placed there making it ideal for dancing and roller skating. The walls are glassed in on every side, making the hall cool for summer use and available for gatherings in the winter. It will be the largest convention hall in Cisco. A 12-foot porch the entire length of the building, facing the bathing beach, will be made into a dining hall capable of seating 200 guests at one time. Cool breezes from lake Cisco and the Big Sandy canyon will sweep the length of the open air dining room, music will float across the beach from the green-covered island or from the dance floor inside, while the bathing beauties of West Texas will be on constant view. A specialty of sea foods will be served at the dining room. In case of extra large conventions, these can be served in the convention and dance room.

Surroundings of the bathing beach are now in course of being beautified. It is almost too late in the season to expect much lawn to be grown, but the ground will be leveled off and landscaped in preparation for what is expected to be the most beautiful spot in West Texas within the next year or two. The area to the southwest of the bathing beach, in the corner formed by Williamson dam and the south rim of the Big Sandy canyon, is being leveled off to a gradual slope to provide a lawn for use of visitors. Picnic lunches can be spread there, and an ideal spot for children to play will be provided. Descending the steep canyon sides at both the south and north ends of Williamson Dam, winding roads will be cut out of the rocks, leading the thrill of mountain driving to those who use these roads. The present road leading to the bathing beach by way of the city zoo is to be improved. Board walks for pedestrians will be provided at the dam, while arrangements are now being made for installation of an electric elevator leading from the top of the bridge over the dam to the bathing beach, 125 feet below and serving all levels of the hollow-constructed dam. The interior of the dam will probably be cut into concession booths of various kinds.

Those who do not care for water sports but are peculiarly inclined will find Lake Cisco a veritable fisherman's paradise. The lake has been stocked by state and government officials and was opened to public fishing only this month. Huge bass weighing as high as 13 pounds have been caught from all parts of the state have acclaimed it as the best fishing spot they have yet found. In addition there are bream, crappie, rainbow trout, various kinds of perch and catfish. A whole car load of row boats has just been received and put into use at the lake for fishermen, while a fleet of motor boats and the large boat, "City of Cisco," afford pleasure rides. Other boats will be added as the demand arises.

It is expected that before this summer is out many small summer cottages will have been built along the fringe of Lake Cisco, both by Ciscoans who desire a summer home and by sportsmen who want to have a cabin of their own for use on week end excursions or vacation trips. Negotiations are now under way for building a 50-room summer hotel on the north shore of the lake, and indications now are that Lake Cisco and its numerous allied pleasure facilities, will be populated by thousands of visitors from near and far away places.

TOGO RAY IN JAIL AFTER TRIAL WAIVED

ATLANTA, May 25.—Togo Ray, charged with robbery with firearms in connection with the looting of the First State bank of Ocala March 28, waived examining trial and was remanded to jail without bond. Togo has admitted complicity in the robbery.

Ray was arrested at Durant, Okla. Sheriff O'Bar brought him here from Durant. His lawyer, Aubrey Ray of Stamford, in a signed statement, confessed to robbing the bank, and named Togo as the youth who aided him.

J. R. Black, district attorney, will ask the grand jury to indict the Rays, when the grand jury convenes Friday. It is probable that the trials will be held next week, as it is the last week of the June term of the 104th district court.

Pie Supper Tonight at Bedford School

The boys and girls of Bedford school will hold a pie sale at the Bedford school house Thursday night, and the boys and girls of Indian will conduct a similar affair at the Indian school, Jones Saturday night. Funds derived from the pie will be used to defray the expenses of two or more delegates from each school to the short course at A. & M. college, says Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent. A large turnout from Cisco is expected on both occasions, and those going can get in touch with Henry Drown, chairman of the trade extension committee, or J. E. T. Peters, secretary of the Cisco chamber of commerce. Both schools are in Cisco's trade territory and not less than 100 people should attend each of the sales and thus encourage the progressive boys and girls of the two communities.

Texas' History Under Six Flags Unequaled by That of Any Other State; Important Events Retold

The history of Texas is not only glorious but is most unique. Few countries and no other state since the days when Nero ruled Rome, have given allegiance to six flags.

1684. Texas' history begins in 1684 when La Salle was granted permission by Louis XIV, king of France, to establish a colony at the mouth of the great river—the Mississippi.

From the beginning, La Salle was unfortunate. His first mishap came when the Spanish captured the most important ship in his fleet of four vessels—his store ship. High wind and wave carried his vessel—the pilot ship—past the mouth of the Mississippi to the low-lying shores of Matagorda bay. Undaunted when the captain of one of his ships became discouraged and returned to France, and his fourth vessel wrecked during a cruise in the rough waters, La Salle established two camps, one on the shores of Matagorda bay, the other on the present site of Indianola, and then set to work to build a fort.

Frequent raids by Indians caused La Salle to construct another stronghold at Matagorda and the river nearby was named "Las Vaehes" (Cov river) because of the large herds of buffalo which came there for water.

Isolation from the rest of the world caused internal strife in the colony.

About the first of March, 1687, La Salle's nephew was murdered and when the valiant explorer and dreamer went out to seek his kinsman, he too, was slain. This was March 16, 1687.

La Salle's dream of colonizing Louisiana was not realized, but he unknowingly became the discoverer of Texas. And above La Salle's fort at Matagorda flew the lilies of France.

Advised that France had, by force, taken some of her possessions, particularly this vast area now known as Texas, Spain sent Capt. Alonso De Leon to find and kill La Salle and wreck his colony.

Captain De Leon found the colony abandoned and also learned from the Indians that La Salle had been dead two years.

De Leon named the country Texas, meaning in the Comanche Indian tongue "friends."

Soon Franciscan priests from the monastery of St. Francis at Zacatecas, Mexico, pledged to poverty and self-denial, undertook the work, under the direction of Spain, to convert the savages to the Catholic religion.

Gentle but firm, these priests exercised a strange fascination over the Indians, and as a result, between 1714 and 1718, missions were built at Victoria, St. Augustine, Nacogdoches and Goliad.

1703. The mission Alamo, built on the Rio Grande in 1703, was removed to San Antonio in 1718 and in 1744 was rebuilt on the site where it now stands—Alamo Plaza, San Antonio.

During the 60-year period it took to complete Mission San Jose, the work on which was started in 1718. Missions Concepcion and St. Francis de la Espada and San Fernando Cathedral were built.

The Spanish were thrifty—home-builders—and because of their progressiveness, San Antonio became well known and almost everyone who had business in Texas or Mexico traveled the old San Antonio highway.

Nearly everyone has read of Jean Lafitte, pirate lord, who sailed the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, and who fought gallantly under General Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans. He was granted a full pardon by the United States government because of his patriotism and bravery. He had been convicted of smuggling in Louisiana and up and down the Texas coast.

1816. Hungry for romance, and more adventure, this picturesque pirate fitted out a schooner in 1816 and sailed for Galveston Island, where he established a miniature kingdom, which became the rendezvous for adventurers from all lands.

Lafitte was adored by everyone and lived in great style in a richly furnished home known as the "Red House." Here loot was divided among his freebooters and council's of war held.

Thousands of stories have been written about this handsome black-haired, broad-shouldered, bejeweled roamer of the seas.

1824. Mexico became an independent nation in 1824, but in the meantime Moses Austin, hailing from Missouri, began the establishment of a colony in Texas. He was aided by a friend, Baron de Bastrop, formerly a Prussian army officer, but then in the service of Mexico. Moses Austin died before his colony was founded, however. He left to Stephen, his 28-year-old son, the duty of carrying out this project.

Stephen chose the rich lands lying between the Colorado and Brazos rivers and allotted 640 acres to each married colonist, 140 acres to each child and 80 acres to the owners of each slave. They were to be free from taxation for six years.

High courage and hospitality abounded and the colony thrived.

The town San Felipe de Austin, became known far and near, as a place of prosperity.

The government then decreed that Texas become united with Coahuila and that Saitillo be fixed as the capital. Mexico saw Americans daily drawing nearer the Rio Grande—saw this alien people settling upon productive lands and paying no taxes. Consequently, a hatred toward the United States, which wished to annex Texas, started to grow.

1830. Then Santa Anna came upon the scene. He possessed great love for the Texans and was elected president of Mexico. He seemed quite friendly—so friendly, in fact, that it was deemed a good time to appeal to him for a separation of Texas from Coahuila.

A convention was held at San Felipe de Austin in April, 1835. Among the delegates were Sam Houston, David G. Burnett, who later became the first president of the Republic of Texas, Erasmo Seguin, Milam H. Wharton and Branch T. Archer.

A constitution was framed and a memorial written. Stephen Austin carried these to the Mexican congress. But Santa Anna was shut up in his country home, where he was making plans to become dictator.

A letter which Austin had written to Texas while in Mexico was seized as a treasonable document and he was jailed for two years, after which he was allowed to return to Texas.

The situation was gloomy. Indeed, as Mexico had forbidden Americans to either locate in Texas or trade there, criminals and disabled and diseased soldiers from the Mexican army were sent to Texas to settle. A strict military rule was enforced at the point of a bayonet.

1835. In September, Texans sounded the call for the war of independence and men poured in from every quarter to rally around the banner of Austin, Houston, Bowie, Travis, Crockett, Fannin, Milam, Burleson, "Deaf" Smith, Rusk, Wharton and others whose names live in Texas history.

Sam Houston was made commander-in-chief of the Texas army to be raised.

On March 6, 2,500 Mexicans, led by the colorful General Santa Anna, stormed the Alamo and after a terrific struggle, now celebrated in song and story, the Alamo fell—the valiant Texans were butchered. Not a man was left to tell the tale. Thermopylae had its messenger of defeat; the Alamo had none.

The massacre was announced by Mrs. Charles Dickinson, wife of an officer. She, her child, two Mexican women and a negro servant, made their escape from the immortal fort shortly before the battle began.

1836. The General Convention met at Washington on the Brazos river, and David G. Burnett was elected president of Texas; Lorenzo de Zavala, vice president; Thomas J. Rusk, secretary of state, and general of the Texas army.

Believing that Houston was in his power when he learned that he and the Texas with his army of 700 were encamped within a mile of each other near the banks of the Buffalo Bayou Santa Anna left his main army at the Brazos, and with more than 1,000 men marched to Harrisburg, which he looted and burned and planned to continue the pursuit of the government to Galveston.

This was Houston's big moment. The first that Santa Anna knew of the nearness of the Americans was when fire belched from the twin cannon, the gift of Cincinnati to the republic and when he heard the battle cry "Remember the Alamo! Remember Goliad!"

Escape for the Mexicans was impossible. "Deaf" Smith had burned Vince's bridge, cutting off the only avenue of escape.

The Mexicans lost 632 killed and 208 wounded. More than 700 were captured and among these was Santa Anna, who was captured by Captain Karnes.

Sam Houston was lying under a tree when the Mexican general was brought before him.

By way of parenthesis, it might be well to add at this juncture that a grave carved from this old tree was recently presented to the Scottish Rite bodies of Texas in semi-annual reunion at Dallas and was placed in the archives of the Scottish Rite Cathedral at Dallas.

Santa Anna's sword is now in possession of Margaret Belle Houston, a granddaughter of Sam Houston.

Santa Anna was released after a treaty was made between President Burnett and himself.

The independence of Texas was achieved.

The choice of the state seal makes an interesting story. When the Declaration of Independence was signed at San Felipe, brass buttons which he cut from Governor Smith used one of the his military coat. It was a five-point star encircled by oak leaves and became the official signet of the Republic.

As a result of the general election in September, 1836, General

Houston was elected president; Mirabeau B. Lamar, vice president; Stephen F. Austin, secretary of state, and Albert Sidney Johnson, brilliant young West Pointer, secretary of war.

1837. Congress met at Houston in May on the site now occupied by the Rice hotel.

The Texas Republic was recognized in England, France, Holland and Belgium.

The trials and tribulations of Texas and Texans were many and serious, but nevertheless the republic grew.

1839. After much juggling around the capital was finally located at Austin in 1839 and Lamar succeeded Houston as president in 1841.

Santa Anna, in the meantime, had returned to power in Mexico and immediately declared war against Texas.

An armistice was signed in 1843.

1843. Immigrants from France and Germany poured in and Texas again prospered.

In 1844, Anson Jones was elected president and Dr. Ashbel Smith, secretary of state. Smith later represented Texas at the courts of England and France.

The Lone Star State flag was furled in 1845 when Texas was admitted to the Union. J. Pinckney Henderson was elected governor. Sam Houston and Thos. J. Rusk were elected to the United States senate.

Following a dispute over the Texas boundary, came the Mexican war. The Americans were successful at Brownsville, Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma. General Taylor outwitted Santa Anna, commander in chief of the Mexican army at Monterrey and the war ended when the City of Mexico was taken by General Winfield Scott.

Mexico's claim on Texas was abandoned when a treaty with the United States was signed in 1848. And then came the rift between the North and South. Two sections of the states differed on the question of state's rights.

When Abraham Lincoln was elected president in 1860, Texas with the other southern states withdrew from the union and in January, 1861, Texas voted herself out of the union.

General Sam Houston was opposed to secession. Although opposed to a split with the federal government his sympathies were with Texas. He died July 26, 1863, with the knowledge that one of his sons had entered the Confederate army and had fought valiantly with nearly 90,000 Texas soldiers who fought under the stars and bars for Lee and the Confederacy.

1865. Texas again changed flags April 9, 1865, when Gen. Robert E. Lee yielded Southland warrior, surrendered at Appomattox Court House in Virginia to Gen. U. S. Grant.

Over the state house at Austin now flies the stars and stripes.

Togo Ray Confesses He Took Part in Daring Ovalo Robbery and Spent Night Here While Officers Searched

A Cisco man, Togo Ray, has confessed to helping rob the First State bank of Ovalo March 26, according to dispatches received here Tuesday from Abilene where he is being held in custody. Ray was taken into custody at Durant, Okla., after his cousin, Aubrey Ray 20, of Stamford, had confessed taking part in the robbery with him, the dispatches stated. Evidence pointing to the pair was uncovered in a liquor raid in Callahan county, it was said. In his statement, Togo Ray admitted that he spent Saturday night in Cisco following the robbery, having eluded officers who pursued his car as far as Baird and then lost his trail. Aubrey went on to Stamford and spent the night at his home, the statement added.

New Texas Air Mail Seems Sure

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Establishment of two additional air mail routes in Texas and the extension of the present Chicago-Fort Worth-Dallas service to a north-south schedule is being considered by Postmaster General New. The change would give overnight service from Texas to Chicago and place air mail in New York the following afternoon.

The postmaster general announced Monday he was considering calling for bids on services between Dallas, Waco, Austin and San Antonio, a distance of approximately 200 miles. Extension of the service from San Antonio to Laredo on the Mexican border also is being considered. Bids for a route between Dallas, Houston and Galveston probably will be called for at the same time.

Lighting of the airway between Chicago and Dallas is to be under taken by the commerce department this summer.

an automobile were nearing Ovalo. They saw the bank's advertisement on a roadside sign board, and immediately decided to rob it. While 1,000 posses were scouring the hills east of Ovalo they were peacefully sleeping further up in the hills beside a sodan which Aubrey says he himself stole in Lampasas. Sunday afternoon Ray accompanied officers to the mountain country east of Ovalo and showed them where he had hid a part of the loot. A bag containing about $250 in silver was recovered. Aubrey says he spent the rest.

Ray's confession was made in writing to J. R. Black of the district attorney. He later made a confession to a news reporter.

Charges of robbery have been filed in the case, officers said Monday night. A warrant for Ray's companion's arrest was forwarded to Durant officers.

Revised Merger Plan to Be Submitted

NEW YORK, May 25.—A revised plan for the Southwestern railroad merger will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which last week rejected the original Loree proposal, it was announced Monday at the office of Lenora F. Loree, chairman of the Kansas City Southern, which was to be the nucleus of the consolidation. It was stated that "there is every reason to believe that a plan can be evolved that will be satisfactory to the commission," and that no time will be lost in working up such a plan.

Mr. Loree, who returned to New York, discussed the proposed merger plan with S. W. Moore, general counsel for the Kansas City Southern and with bankers interested in the project. After the conference it was declared that no definite conclusion as to the procedure to be followed had yet been reached.

MOODY URGES BAUMES LAW USE IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, May 24.—Changes in the penal code that will make Texas laws similar to the new Baumes law of New York, which has caused an exodus of habitual criminals from the state, were asked for Monday by a message from Governor Dan Moody, read in person to the legislature.

The changes asked for would make a second conviction for a misdemeanor punishable by double the penalty for a first conviction and a third conviction would be punishable up to four times the original. On a second conviction would be punishable by a life sentence. On a third conviction for a crime for which the alternate penalty is death, life imprisonment shall be the lightest punishment possible.

BREAK COMES AS RESULT OF POLICE RAID

LONDON, May 24.—Great Britain has decided to sever diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and terminate the Anglo-Russian trade agreement. It was announced by Premier Baldwin this afternoon. The premier's announcement was made during a statement on the police raid on headquarters of the Soviet Trade Legation and Avros, Ltd., the private Russian trading company in England. The premier said the legation was used habitually as a clearing house for permissive correspondence. The police discovered a photostatic room in the Soviet house, occupied by a clerk known to be intimately connected with Russian secret service, the premier added. This photostatic room talked exactly with the description given the police, and was used to make copies of international papers.

The premier said the Soviet could not avoid responsibility for documents seized. One contained instructions to American communists for dissemination of communist propaganda in America. Another gave directions from the International of Trade Unions to communist organizations in Great Britain and America, and all were of recent date. The premier indicated the government will give parliament a chance to confirm the decision of the cabinet. There can be but little doubt that the government decision will have the support of the house.

AMERICAN POLICY UPHOLD, KELLOGG SAYS OF ACTION WASHINGTON, May 24.—Official Washington was deeply interested today in action of Great Britain in breaking off diplomatic and trade relations with Soviet Russia. Secretary of State Kellogg and other officials considered the break as justifying the policy long held by the United States of non-intercourse with Russia. This policy was originally laid down by Secretary of State Hughes.

BLIMP TORN TO SHREDS BY TEXAS MISHAP

SAN ANTONIO, May 24.—The army airship TC-10-243 tore herself in two Monday and crashed to the ground in a mass of wreckage as she was attempting to take the air for a flight to her home hangar, Scott Field, at Belleville, Ill., after successfully participating in last week's army maneuvers here.

No one was injured, but little of the ship can be salvaged. Only the fact that she was filled with helium and could not explode saved her crew of seven men from death.

The crash came as the ship was preparing to leave the hangar. She was moving away from the building itself across a long deck in front of the entrance when the crash came. A cable, dragging to the rear of the ship caught in a submerged trackway used in towing such craft in and out of the hangar and jerked the tail of the ship downwards and to the rear. Before the ship's two powerful motors could be shut off the fouled cable jerked loose, tearing a great section from the rear of the envelope and stripping off the rudders.

Three Safes Robbed By Eastland Yeggs

EASTLAND, May 23.—Three safe robberies occurred in Eastland Friday night. At Castleberry's feed store, approximately $250—about equally divided between cash and checks—was obtained. At the Motor Specialty garage, a safe was wrecked but the robbers had their labor in vain as it was empty.

At the Gulf Refining company's wholesale office, a safe which had not been repaired since it was robbed several weeks ago was opened and 15 cents was obtained. Eight pounds were not taken by the robbers.

PUTNAM FIRE CALLS CISCO FIREMEN OUT

Cisco firemen Monday night responded to a call from Putnam where a fire was threatening to destroy much of the business section. The alarm was received here at 9:30 o'clock and seven firemen, in charge of G. P. Rainbolt responded immediately, making the trip in 17 minutes. The fire destroyed a broad sheet iron building, one occupied by Julian's garage, and the other two housing a barber shop and a cafe. Several automobiles in the garage were destroyed.

The Putnam firemen had a hose playing on the fire when the Ciscoans arrived and the fire was soon extinguished. However, considerable water was used in the effort, seriously affecting the water supply of the town which is unusually low at this time.

Seven officers of the Colony boys and girls club attended the meeting for the officers of the clubs at the Eastland chamber of commerce Saturday afternoon. The meeting opened with a number of songs which were led by two of the club song leaders. After the songs the boys and girls planned the stunts for the encampment to be held on June 3 and 4 at Eastland. Each club will present some stunt pertaining to club work. When the business was completed the boys and girls, led by Miss Ruth Ramsey and J. C. Patterson, marched to the Coca Cola bottling works where they spent a pleasant half hour observing how the drinks were made and bottled. It was the first time several of them had ever visited a bottling works, and therefore it was very interesting, especially so, because the employees of the works kindly explained anything that could not be readily understood. Before they left they refreshed themselves with ice cold soda pop. Those from Colony who attended were Mesdames C. H. RELIABLE FOR ECZEMA, PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES

The many people here who have gotten such wonderful results from Black and White Ointment, and Skin Soap, for pimples, blotches, bumps, "breaking out," eczema, rash, itching, etc., are proving their gratitude by giving them the most wholehearted and enthusiastic word-of-mouth publicity ever known.

The fact that Black and White Ointment and Skin Soap are already selling at the phenomenal and unheard-of rate of more than two million packages a year, proves louder than words how dependable they are to people who have never before been able to get relief from their skin troubles by using anything else.

Black and White Ointment, and Skin Soap, are economically priced in liberal size packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.

About ten o'clock Monday evening fire was discovered in the Julian garage and in a few minutes it looked as though the whole town was doomed, the garage being in the southeast corner of the square and the wind blowing from the southeast. But the new waterworks and heavy electric engines at the lake furnished the water and power and saved the town. The volunteer fire department worked heroically throwing water on the adjacent buildings, saving them, but there was no chance for the garage. The Cisco and Baird fire departments were notified and in just 17 minutes the welcome music of the Cisco siren was heard. Soon Mr. Julian's loss was heavy, including several cars and all equipment by a line of cars that had just started out to find the fire, but insurance
