OLD HOME TOWN

About ten of the 70 guarantors of the forthcoming chautauque have failed to get their tickets for distribution. J. T. Elliott, in charge of the ticket sale, said Saturday. He asked that these guarantors call at the Corner drug store and receive them early this week, so that they can dispose of them before the programs begin next week. Sale of tickets has been satisfactory, thus far, Mr. Elliott said, and it is expected that this week will see all of those guaranteed sold. Each of the 70 guarantors has put up his check for $25 to cover the tickets taken out for sale.

Chief Brown of the Coleman police department headed a party of several Coleman city officials and business men on a fishing trip to Lake Cisco Friday. The chief's party was said to have caught several fish of good size and to have had a very enjoyable time.

Frank Leffer of Leffer's Studio, says business is mighty good with him. Speaking of pictures of oil development recently taken by him, he said that he had double duplicate orders of that work. This with local business is causing him to work until late at night to keep up. "No slump here," said Mr. Leffer.

GREEN LEAD OVER ELLIOTT IS WIDENING

Ed Green widened his margin considerably over J. T. Elliott during the last week in the John William Butts chapter American Legion popularity contest. Green now has 37,441 votes, while Elliott has but 30,478, the latest count by K. H. Pittard, assisted by A. C. Vaughan and Troy Powell, revealed. These two appeared to be dividing the vote, and unless a radical change comes soon, one or the other will get a free trip to Europe as a reward for his popularity.

Following is the standing:

Ed Green	37,441
J. T. Elliott	30,478
Cal Hutton	5,836
Crisler Paschall	3,673
J. T. Maddux	4,062

Rotary Officers Take Posts Soon

New officers of the Cisco Rotary club are preparing to take office shortly after July 1, following their recent election. The president-elect, A. B. O'Flaherty, is compiling a list of committees to carry on the regular work of the club during the forthcoming term, and will have them ready for announcement shortly after taking office, it is said.

At the meeting this last week, E. P. Crawford presided. Mrs. Henry House sang two songs, Mrs. Miss of Dallas sang and responded to the chorus, and Miss Irene White, newly elected pianist for the next six months, played. Forster Wright and Leon Maner made the short talks, quoting articles they had read recently in "The Rotarian."

"Girl in Red" Pleases Crowd

A fair-sized audience saw the second presentation of "The Girl in Red" under auspices of the Cisco chapter of the Eastern Star Friday night, and applauded Mrs. J. W. Triplett and Harry V. Niemo, in the elderly character parts and Miss Blanche McClinton in the juvenile roles, all of whom did their parts with the finish of professionals. Others in the cast lent their efforts toward making it a most successful musical comedy. Specially noted were particularly well staged, using some of the best talent in Cisco.

Temple Bus Kills One, Injures Two

WACO, June 11.—Mrs. A. H. Beals of Ennis was instantly killed here today when the automobile in which she and her husband and daughter, Elizabeth, were riding was struck by a Waco Temple bus. Beals and his daughter were taken to a hospital.

CARPENTERS VERY SCARCE IN CISCO NOW

Carpenters have been hard to obtain in Cisco for the last several weeks due to the immense amount of construction going on at this time. Every carpenter who could be hired was placed on the works at the Lake Cisco bathing beach during the last two weeks in an effort to get the pool and bath house in condition for opening this Sunday. Meanwhile, work was starting on the new dormitory at Randolph college, and many new residences were going up over the city. The result is that persons needing the services of one or more carpenters have had to plead for their services or do without. It is expected, however, that completion of the Lake Cisco bathing beach will ease the situation somewhat, so that a half dozen or more new houses in contemplation can be put under construction.

INJUNCTIONS STOP ALBANY WATER RUIN

AUSTIN, June 11.—Injunctions against eight oil companies preventing them from polluting the watershed from which the Albany water supply is obtained, were issued by Judge Richard Dyess of Shackelford county, according to information received today by Will J. Tucker, game, fish and oyster commissioner.

FLYERS PLACE WREATH UPON GERMAN GRAVE

BERLIN, June 11.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine today placed a wreath upon the grave of Captain von Richtshofen, Germany's great war ace and leader of the German flying squadron known as the "Flying Circus." The Americans were accompanied only by Colonel Conner, military attaché of the United States embassy and Ministerial Director Brandenburg, federal chief of Germany's air commerce. The wreath was tied with an American flag and white ribbon marked "Homage."

Rather Barber Here Than Farm in East Texas, Ciscoan Says

Frank Hays and family have returned from a two weeks' visit with his father at Emory, near Greenville, in northeast Texas. Mr. Hays said he found crops in that section of the state looking good, although very late. He said, however, West Texas looked much better to him, and that although his father offered to give him a 100-acre farm to come back there and live, he chose to continue his work as a barber in Cisco.

Big Time Expected at Lake Bathing Beach Today as Kiddies Take Water for First Time; Plenty of Music Due

Despite the fact that the big swimming pool will not be ready for use by the general public today, with only the shallow kiddies' pool available, a large crowd is expected at Lake Cisco Bathing Beach this afternoon for a band concert and kiddies' swim. The Cisco High Lobo band will play, beginning at 3 o'clock, for the benefit of the crowds expected to visit the huge pool for the first Sunday before the first 100 feet is opened, while the kiddies' pool will be open for the free use of every child who brings his own bathing suit. The pool has been filled with water for two days, and is ready for the first little swimmer today.

Cisco Women to Be Shown How to Get Best Results From Any Refrigerator Here on Tuesday

Proper placing of food in a refrigerator to get the maximum of results will be taught the women of Cisco Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock at the chamber of commerce when Mrs. Henry D. Linzua, national representative of the American Refrigeration corporation, will give a demonstration. Every woman or man in Cisco is invited to receive the instruction without charge, it is said.

O. J. Russell, manager of the Cisco Ice company, under whose auspices the demonstration will be given, said Saturday that despite the fact that artificially frozen ice has been in use for years, it was not until recent years that a scientific study of ice and the best methods of handling it was undertaken. Research has shown, he said, that there are colder spots in refrigerators, and spots less cold. Some foods require the minimum temperature, while others require the maximum permitted in the refrigerator in order to keep the longest. Proper refrigeration is dependent on a knowledge of where these colder and warmer spots are, and placing the food accordingly, Mr. Russell said. Mrs. Linzua will show these spots in a practical demonstration, he added.

Similarly, there are certain places in refrigerators where an article of food can be placed without giving its odor to other articles in the ice box, while the same food, if placed somewhere else, would damage all the other projects, Mr. Russell continued. By means of a glass-backed refrigerator, and other small pin wheels, Mrs. Linzua will show the air currents inside a refrigerator, so as to be of practical help to housewives. Other points of interest will be brought out by the lecturer, assisted by Miss Ingovar Leighton, head of the home economics department at Cisco high school.

BUSINESS MEN AT AUSTIN IN LABOR TRIAL

AUSTIN, June 11.—In order to determine whether there is sufficient evidence to warrant filing of criminal charges against Austin business men for alleged violation of the labor law, an inquiry will be held before Justice of the Peace Frank Tammhill next Tuesday, it was learned today from Charles McKamey, state labor commissioner. "Sensational evidence is expected to be brought out during the inquiry," McKamey said. "We have received many complaints recently that women are forced to work more than 8 hours a day in Austin stores. Two Austin hotel managers have boasted they could not be convicted because of political alliances." McKamey said.

$300,000,000 TAX CUT NOW THOUGHT SURE

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A tax cut of at least $300,000,000 at the next session of congress was assured today. This was the belief of congressional leaders following President Coolidge's speech to the government's business organization last night during which he predicted the government would have a surplus of $500,000,000 at the close of the fiscal year June 30. The president warned congress not to size up the surplus as an opportunity for a spending orgy.

WEDDINGTON GASSER BLOWS OUT INTO AIR

Dyer Brothers of Ranger, drilling on the R. F. Weddington lease, 12 miles northwest of Cisco for the Transcontinental Oil company, have brought in a big gasser. The gas, which came at a volume of 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 cubic feet daily, was altogether unexpected. The drillers were after the oil sand which is producing in the No. 1 Dyer of Moody and Adams two locations to the east. The gas pressure was of sufficient force to blow the five-inch tools from the hole and against the crown block. The drill then fell down through the collar and stuck 19 feet in the ground.

The gas sand was just entered at a depth of 3,865 feet. Efforts are now being made to set by the gas pressure so that drilling may be continued to a depth of 3,865 feet where the oil producing formation is expected to be encountered.

The log of this well and that of the discovery well of Moody and Adams on the Dyer lease are said to be almost identical with the exception that the Weddington well is slightly higher in elevation. The production in the Moody-Adams well is coming from a depth slightly under 3,800 feet.

Owners of the big gas well are very confident of securing a big oil well when they have drilled to the depth at which the oil sand may be expected.

Message of Peace Brought Home From Europe by America's Aerial Diplomat as Nation Pays Big Tribute

The voice of America's greatest aerial hero was wafted on the wings of the ether Saturday from Washington to Cisco, and as a result, many Ciscoans with radio sets heard the gallant young Col. Charles A. Lindbergh make his reply to the greatest reception ever accorded a living man. Young Lindbergh lived up to his reputation for brevity of speech, and one minute after Ciscoans who were closely listening in heard the snap of the distinguished service cross as it was pinned on the hero's breast, the speech of the young trans-Atlantic flyer was concluded. The youth, in what sounded to be a wavering voice, spoke to a hundred thousand or more persons, telling them that in every point hied thousands gave vent to an expression of friendship to America, and asked him to deliver their message of peace and good will to his country.

The entire ceremony at Washington, D. C., was broadcast over the radio, including the speech of President Coolidge, and was re-amplified by other stations which relayed the reports here.

HERO COMES HOME AMID PLAUDITS OF THOUSANDS

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Charles Lindbergh came home today. The youth who fired the imagination of the world by his courageous single handed flight to Paris and then held on to it by a remarkable exhibition of modesty, strode down the gangplank of the United States Cruiser Memphis today in the greatest reception ever given a man in America. Three weeks ago, this youth was practically unknown. But today, he had a warship to bring him home. He had other warships escorting him off the Potomac. He saw 100 airplanes cutting capers in the air above him. He heard a quarter of a million people roar in his honor. He kept the president of the United States waiting 10 minutes in a boiling sun for his appearance.

Back Just as He Went. No president, no prince, no potentate ever received such a reception as that today. To all appearances, it was the same "Slim" Lindbergh that came to Washington today that left three weeks ago. He didn't wear his oily old suit, nor did he wear his brand new colonel's uniform that a naval destroyer hurried to deliver to him at sea yesterday so that he might be in proper attire. He returned as he left, a private citizen, anxious to get along with his flying. Tonight, with his mother, he was home guest at a reception by the president, and at which the president took a seat in the background.

It lacked a few minutes to noon when the long gray snout of the Memphis poked its way out of the fog and to a dock at the navy yard. It had sailed majestically up the Potomac river, whose banks were blackened with people; 50,000 were in the square about Washington monument, another 100,000 lined Pennsylvania, and countless thousands of others packed other streets and roofs.

Old Pennsylvania avenue was ablaze with color. "Slim" stood with Admiral Burrage on the cruiser. He appeared non-plussed at what he was doing. Several times, in tears, he raised his hand in a sort of salute, but most of the time he jut looked, and the wonder of it was written in his face. He stood there until the bump of the ship against the dock told him he was at home at last. Simultaneously a white house automobile drew alongside and out stepped his mother. There was a two-minute meeting of mother and son in a cabin alone, before they went ashore.

Thousands at Ceremony. The automobile bearing mother and son swung into the glittering avenue at a smart pace. A mile away was the treasury, and just beyond, the monument grounds. It was negotiated in 25 minutes, and as the cavalcade turned into the national theater grounds, there was such a spectacle as no man will witness again. Upwards of 100,000 persons were packed between the Washington monument and the hastily constructed stand. The president was waiting, and around him were his cabinet, members of the supreme court, and members of congress, the ranking figures of the army and navy, diplomats of many countries and everybody else who had "pull" enough to get in the stands.

Lindbergh stepped from the car and assisted his mother to the ground, while from the throats of that great multitude came a roar that echoed from the nearby hills of Virginia. The president and his party rose, and then there was much handshaking.

The president then paid his tribute to the youth who was obviously embarrassed and full of awe. The president reviewed his birth of a "sneak known for his deeds of adventure and exploration" and mentioned that his mother had "permitted neither money nor fame to interfere with her fidelity to her duties" as a school teacher. He reviewed Lindbergh's record, pointing out he was too young to enter the world war at the time, but studied aviation in state universities and army schools until army officers, making official reports, used such phrases concerning him as "intelligent," "industrious," "energetic," "dependable," "purposeful," "alert," "modest," "congenial," etc., ending with the prophecy that he would "successfully complete everything he undertakes."

The president then told of the remarkable New York to Paris flight in which he made the 3,500 miles in 33½ hours, and finally, as he planned the decoration on asserted: "And now, my fellow citizens, this young man has returned. He is here. He has brought his unsullied fame home. It is our great privilege to welcome him back to his native land on behalf of his countrymen, who have a deep affection for him, and have been thrilled by his splendid achievement, a colonel of our republic, a conqueror of the air and strengthener of the ties which bind us to our sister nations across the sea, and as president of the United States, I bestow the Distinguished Flying Cross as symbol of appreciation for what he is and what he has done, upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh."

The new colonel arose. The reputation he had gained for brevity of speech was not sacrificed. He said: "On the evening of May 21 I arrived at Le Bourget. I spent a week in Paris. A day in Belgium, and some days in London. At every meeting I attended I was requested to bring home a message to you. It was always the same. 'You have seen the affection of the people of Europe for the people of America demonstrated to you. I thank you.' And he said down:

In an instant, fearful perhaps of a mob scene which might sweep the stand, the president, Mrs. Lindbergh and her son left immediately for the temporary white house where a crowd of thousands of persons shouted "We want Lindy" until the president and Lindbergh appeared on an upper balcony and waved.

LINDBERGH GETS 520-FOOT TELEGRAM

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A batch of 52,000 telegrams addressed to "Col. Charles A. Lindbergh," was delivered to the white house Saturday in one load. A dozen messenger boys carried the messages, one of which was 520 feet long. It came from Minneapolis and was signed by 17,000 persons.

LINDBERGH TO FLY IN AMPHIBIAN PLANE

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Colonel Lindbergh will fly to New York in a naval Amphibian plane Monday, landing at quarantine about 10 a. m. Eastern standard time. Capt. Richard Blythe of New York, a personal friend of the trans-Atlantic hero, announced today. Lindbergh will leave Washington early Monday morning. The exact time has not been set.

Human Interest Editorials

By WICKES WAMBOLDT

Some time ago a well known clergyman made a moral slip, and a commentator observed, "that goes to show that ministers are human just like the rest of us."

Of course ministers are human, or they should be; unfortunately some of them are not; some seem to be neither male nor female but ministerial. But the ministers who can do the most for his congregation and for everyone else with whom he comes in contact is the truly human minister—the man who has seen life, lived life, and who knows what life is, the man who not only can feel for you but with you.

What better thing could be said of any man than that he is truly human, that he understands how human beings think, how they feel, how they come to their conclusions, how they suffer, how they love, how they hate, where they get their happiness and where they get their misery.

No man should be allowed to go into the ministry, no man or woman should be allowed to take up social service work, who is not human, extremely human. That is why so much religious and social effort comes to naught—because unhuman (not inhuman) persons are given the work to do—persons who are not developed along human lines—persons who are not experienced in the ways of the human being, who do not know him in all of his phases.

The job of gaining confidence, of winning intelligent influence, of reaching souls, cannot be done by a shallow-pated, superficial, inexperienced somebody. Trite minds, narrow mentalities, limited perspectives, cannot engage in such occupations with success. What can a dried up old maid of either sex know of the trials and temptations of full blooded red blooded persons?

Before a man goes into the ministry, or any sort of religious work, before a woman takes up social service work, he or she should go into some humanizing line of endeavor; peddling books for a season or two would help.

A pessimistic man said to me, "If I were in trouble I would go to a gambler for help before I would go to a minister. I would go to a bootlegger before I'd go to a church." That man evidently had come in contact with some unhuman minister and some unhuman church. He had brushed up against folks representing great works who knew life only by theory, if they knew it at all, whose experience had not been such as to broaden and deepen them.

Some folks are naturally human, and catch the idea quickly; others never will be human in this world.

DINNER STORIES.

Did you ever get up in a terrible hurry in the morning, rush out without breakfast or even a shave, and then find the clock was fast, and you had a quarter of an hour to wait for your train? No? Well, Johnson did one morning.

Instead of grumbling, however, he turned into a barber's shop. "Shave, please," he cried, "and hurry."

"Nice day for the big race, sir," began the barber leisurely, but Johnson cut him short. "Get a jerk into it, man!" he said. "I've got to catch the nine fifteen."

But the barber wasn't to be rattled. He went on slowly lathering, till Johnson's self control left him.

"Hold that brush still, man!" he yelled. The barber looked at him perplexedly.

"Hold it still!" he repeated, "and I'll waggle my head!"

"Tell the janitor to put up notices that no book agents are to be admitted to the building," said the publisher. "But you have just advertised for agents to sell our new work," protested the secretary. "Of course, I want to try the applicants out. If a man could be stopped by a little thing like that, what good would he be to us?"

A visitor being shown through an English insane asylum noticed one of the inmates, an American, who was jabbering senselessly and covering his cell with diagrams.

"What a pathetic case!" he remarked.

"Yes," replied the superintendent. "He tried to explain to some Englishmen what waffles were."

BEAUTY.

I know a woman fair beyond all dreams of mine.

Though from her eyes the fires of youth no longer shine.

Though in her midnight hair pale strands of silver gleam.

She yet is beautiful beyond my fairest dream.

Youth's heritage is mine—youth's nerve and glow have I.

And love with golden treasure has not passed me by.

Yet I—I know more pain than she despite her years.

For she with faith looks up and bravely smiles through tears.

EIGHT SEEKING JOB AS COACH FOR ABILENE

ABILENE, June 11.—Eight applications for the position of head coach of Abilene high school athletics, already received, will be considered next Thursday evening by the city school board's athletic committee, headed by Lester Ellis.

Mr. Ellis said that he believed a man to fill the place left vacant by Lee Jones' resignation will be selected at that time. If the man selected is under contract for the coming year Joe Gilson, assistant coach under Lee Jones, may have charge of the squads for the coming season. Mr. Ellis expressed the opinion that a man who can take charge in September will be selected and added that one of the best men available will be chosen as the Eagle men coach.

COLONY

Several of the Colony young people attended the annual club encampment at Eastland June 3 and 4. It was decided at the encampment that Truman Hagar and Elmer Maddling would be the boys to represent Colony at the A. & M. short course in July. The girl representatives have not been chosen yet.

Mrs. June Pearson of Ranger entertained some of her former Colony pupils with a party at her home Monday night. After a number of games a delicious punch and cake course was enjoyed by Misses Lella, Esther and Leota Dean, Orie Frasier, Inez and Pauline Pickett, Messrs. George Stuart, Cole Walker, Joe Stuart, Truman Dean, and F. A. Dean and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson.

Mrs. George Ownby of Denison spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Leonard of Colony.

Fry Unable to Attend Meet Here, But Supports Move

ABILENE, June 11.—George W. Fry, general manager of the West Texas Utilities company, left Friday morning for Battle Creek, Mich., for six weeks hospital treatment. Mr. Fry will therefore not be able to attend the first quarterly meeting of the new board of directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce at Cisco on next Monday—and is very sorry he cannot be on hand. He is a director.

"I want to say to the board," he said, "that as a citizen of West Texas, recognizing the paramount position of agriculture in its life, I believe that utilization of stored waters of West Texas rivers for irrigation and municipal uses is of far greater importance than utilization for power development. I am completely in accord with the proposed resolution of the board of directors asking the state of Texas to make that a fixed governmental policy."

Studebaker Victoria Has Beauty, Comfort

Designed for those who desire motor cars of individuality and distinction the Studebaker Custom Victoria is being shown in two attractive combinations of color, each of which adds custom charm to the custom line of this four passenger car. The first of these is a combination of Kinick green, Tucki gray and a deep lustrous black. The second is a chic blending of Hopi drab and Coatan green. Both are of lasting duo-tone leaguers and both bespeak the dignified luxury of the full-vision steel body.

The exterior beauty of the Custom Victoria is matched by luxurious interior, upholstered in fine mohair with broadline trim, Butler finish hardware and lacquered mouldings. There is ample room for four passengers on the broad, deeply upholstered seats. A handy package compartment behind the driver and liberal space beneath the sloping rear deck provide plenty of room for packages and luggage.

Make your own test and see how CHRYSLER "60" differs from any other six of its price

Get behind the wheel—and Chrysler "60" will give you 60 miles and more an hour as long as you care to have it with an ease and lack of effort that can only be described as typically Chrysler.

At high speed, step on the brake—the same simple, safe and sure hydraulic four-wheel brake as on the higher-priced Chrysler "70" or Imperial "80"—and the "60" will gently glide to rest or give you a split-second full-stop for the emergency.

Test Chrysler "60" any way you will. For ease of performance and riding, ease of control and handling, there's no getting away from the fact that the six-cylinder Chrysler "60"—with seven-bearing crankshaft, invarstrut pistons, manifold heat control, impulse neutralizer, oil filter, air cleaner, full pressure lubrication, road levelizers and many other features—is obviously unapproachable value in its price class.

We invite you to drive the "60" and note its outstanding differences on the road. Experience its superiorities and never again will you be content with any car offering less in performance at such price.

Chrysler "60" prices—Touring Car $1075; Club Coupe, $1125; Coach $1145; Roadster (with rumble seat) $1175; Coupe (with rumble seat) $1245; Sedan, $1245.

Mart Paper Pays High Tribute to Youngblood as He Prepares to Leave There for Cisco

High tribute is paid J. J. Youngblood, new superintendent of Cisco public schools, in an article appearing in the Mart Herald of recent date, in which his forthcoming departure from Mart is mentioned with regret. Mr. Youngblood has been superintendent of the Mart schools for several years, but comes to Cisco July 1 to make his home.

Following is the article: "With the close of the 1927 high school commencement program, Mart is doubtless seeing in action for the last time in that capacity, J. J. Youngblood, one of the most popular public school superintendents that has ever served in Texas. That fact has been the only element of sadness to an otherwise happy commencement, although it is believed a worthy and capable successor has been secured in the person of Supt. E. R. Howard, who is to come from Bartlett in July.

"Naturally, Mr. Youngblood has made many warm friends during his term of service here, being loved and esteemed by young and old, who regret to part with him, but rejoice in his success and promotion, which his recent call to Cisco is recognized as being.

"No more universally popular man has ever lived in Mart than Supt. Youngblood, who was principal of Mart high school before the world war, leaving the school room to serve his country with distinction, winning a commission as lieutenant in the ranks of Uncle Sam's Infantry. Following the war he returned to his chosen profession, and prior to his election as superintendent of schools at Mart, he served as principal at Taylor and San Angelo.

"He has the honor of being a personal friend of Governor Dan Moody, dating from their personal touch in the same home when they lived in Taylor. "Not only has Supt. Youngblood qualified as an efficient school man, but as an all round citizen he will pass muster anywhere. He shirks no civic duty, having rendered community service whenever called upon, holding membership while here in the local commercial organization, Lions club, Y.M.C.A., Masonic lodges and Methodist church. He has been the beloved teacher of a Bible class in his church and upon many occasions acceptably filled the pulpit in the absence of the pastor. As a conscientious, cultured christian layman of pleasing personality, he is exceptionally fitted as a leader and exponent of the highest type, whose services are in demand and will be appreciated wherever he goes.

"Mart vouches for him and commends him to Cisco and to the world on all parts of the ground. In terms of service, which is the true standard, Youngblood is one of the greatest among us, for his influence will live through the years to come in the lives of the generation he has served here so faithfully."

Queen Praises Chinaware

How the king and queen of England are used for "testimonial" advertising and publicity by the smart manufacturers and dealers of England is demonstrated by a clipping received by Charles G. Gray, Cisco hardware dealer, from the Staffordshire Sentinel, published in England. The clipping tells of a visit of their majesties to the exhibit of J. and G. Meakin, Ltd., at the British Industries Fair in March, and carries the queen's comments on the chinaware. Here is the article:

During the visit of their majesties the king and queen to the British Industries Fair, White City, London, on Friday last, the queen, accompanied by Col. Claude Taylor and other officials of the department of overseas trade, entered the stand of J. and G. Meakin, Ltd., of Hanley. One of the first things which caught her majesty's eye was the firm's trademark, "Sol," bearing the words "J. and G. Meakin, England," which prompted the question, "where are your works?" On receiving the answer, the queen replied, "oh, yes, of course, Hanley, Stoke-on-Trent." This seemed to remind her majesty of her visits there. An official of the department of overseas trade who accompanied the party, remarked, "Arnold Bennett's Five Towns."

The queen graciously commented on the admirable display of J. and G. Meakin goods, closely examined the texture of several pieces, and made complimentary reference to the quality of the productions. With uncanny prescience, her majesty astounded the Meakin staff by singling out "Zinnia" pattern, which has already proved to be the firm's best seller in Great Britain among the 1927 patterns, and "Academy," which in 1926 was overwhelmingly the biggest seller among their dinner and tea ware patterns, not only in this country, but throughout the world. The queen described both patterns as "charming." It has frequently been asserted that the queen is particularly well versed in pottery and in pottery decoration, and this is one more proof of it.

During the tour of the princess royal on Saturday, her royal highness halted at the J. and G. Meakin display of pottery, and commented on the excellent general effect, singling out in particular the "La Leria" pattern—a new treatment in dinner ware, which is finding special favor among many china stores in the country.

CROSS PLAINS SHIPS THREE CARS OF GRAIN

CROSS PLAINS, June 11.—Threshing of the 1927 grain crop is now under way and the first three cars of 1927 wheat were shipped from Cross Plains by S. F. Bond early this week. Yields are reported below normal on the fields threshed to date, due to lack of rainfall early in May which reduced the length of the heads, but later rains rounded out the grain which is of excellent quality, wheat testing an average of 60 pounds.

Wheat is threshing from 10 to 12 bushels per acre and oats are averaging about 30 bushels, with 40 bushels as the best yield so far reported.

Rainfall for the year to date is below normal, but local showers over the week have generally supplied sufficient moisture for cotton and feed crops, but corn now showing an excellent growth must have immediate rain to mature.

Cotton acreage in Callahan county is estimated 15 per cent less than last year, and in most instances is up to a perfect stand, well cultivated and making a splendid growth.

DE-URBANIZING AMERICA

The small town finds electric power a strong ally. As the evolution of industry turns into a new and brighter phase, factories are released from concentration in densely populated urban centers. To a substantial extent this has been made possible by the transmission of electric power from advantageously located generating stations, efficiently operated and adequate in capacity, to communities for miles around; sometimes bringing electric service for the first time; sometimes replacing inadequate local plants.

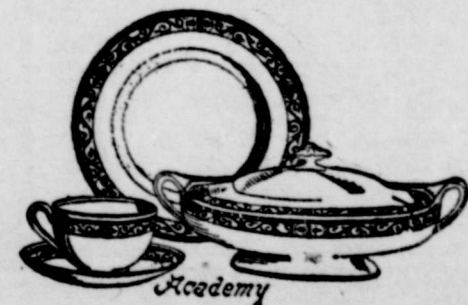

With the assurance to the small community of ample and economical power, industry is enabled to realize the advantages of better and cheaper living conditions for workers, and in many cases closer proximity to raw materials and markets.

Development of the local demand immediately available—the grist mill, grain elevator, waterworks system, street lighting—justifies the initial investment by the utility company, which thereafter co-operates with the community in building up local industries and attracting new ones.

In this kind of healthy development, apparent throughout America, the West Texas Utilities Company is one of the most active participants.

New Grass Roots Oil Sand Near Cross Plains

Mile Extension Given Field When Andy Foster Well Comes in; Harris Shallow Pool Lease Setting Record

CROSS PLAINS, June 11.—An other promising important discovery of "grass roots" oil that is holding much attention was made early this week in the A. H. Voltz tract on the Andy Foster trap, 5 miles southwest of Cross Plains. The "grass roots" sand was found at 370 feet, with a nice show of oil, but while preparing to test out the sand the open hole above caved in, burying the bailer and the test was was lost. The machine was immediately skidded 25 feet and a new hole is now drilling at about 200 feet. An additional string of pipe will be used in the new hole that will assure a thorough test when the sand is reached.

Initial showing however as compared with wells in both the Cross Plains and Burkett "grass roots" fields seem to indicate that commercial production will be developed. The location is more than a mile west of the farthest outpost of the Cross Plains shallow field, and more than two miles north of the Burkett "grass roots" area.

Harris Lease a Wonder
In the Burkett section seven miles southwest of Cross Plains a new high mark of development has been attained by the Amerasia Petroleum company on the Harris lease, where a single property now has a total of 193 producing "grass roots" wells.

In addition to the 193 producers, twenty drilling operations on this property, edging one side of the pool, have been abandoned dry, but of the wells that came in producers none have been abandoned and the discovery well is almost three years old.

The pay is found at an average depth of 350 feet and the productive part of the sand varies from 6 to 15 feet in thickness.

About 1200 acres out of a total of 5,000 acres controlled by this owner have been explored, and despite curtailment of development, two spindlers are now constantly busy with new drilling and as high as five spindler machines were used on the property prior to the cut in price of crude. Average drilling time on these wells is about six days, including rigging up three and drilling and putting the well on the pump. Flush production of a number of these wells has gauged above 50 barrels, and the lease has averaged between 100 and 1200 barrels daily output, but since the cut in crude prices production is being curtailed by reducing the pumping to a limit of eight hours daily and general production has been reduced about 30 per cent by the shorter hours of operation.

A total of four central power stations are used to pump the entire property and except in drilling operations, electric power is used exclusively to drive all machinery.

Record Number of Employees
An average of more than twenty men are regularly employed to operate this lease, yet the deepest well on the property has a total depth of but 400 feet. This is claimed to be a record for magnitude of operations in a "grass roots" sand.

The Harris lease was originally owned by Crabb, McNeel and Tom Bryant of Cross Plains, and was purchased by the Amerasia company early in 1923 after about 20 producing wells had been drilled on the property. Other production adjacent of other ownership gives the pool a total of about 200 wells with but one edge of the pool apparently defined.

This now makes favorable comparison both in area and production with the extensive Cross Plains "grass roots" pool about 3 miles to the northeast. Settled production varies from five to twelve barrels per well in the more than 400 wells that produce in the two pools from this "grass roots" pay, and the oil is of average 34 gravity.

POOR FISH! MOST OF THEM MEET TRAGEDY

By J. C. BURR
Game, Fish and Oyster Department, Austin

AUSTIN, June 11.—How long a fish will live in Texas streams depends on the skill of fishermen. Few fish die of old age; they are mostly caught young. The tragedy is abated only when "they are not biting." The undersize bass is a victim of hasty strikes at a supposed bug or fly, and all fish, one way or another, meet an untimely end from the standpoint of the fish.

But it's great sport to take them, and when an angler's reputation is at stake, there is a temptation to carry home 50 or 100, even if they are short, and before they have reached the age of reproduction.

Prior to a year ago the state had only one hatchery, located at Dallas, which sent out annually 100,000 to 250,000 young fish since the time of its construction in 1915, but practically all were sent to lakes and private ponds. Last year, with two hatcheries added, a few fish were sent to streams and creeks. This year the applications for fish include a greater number of streams.

That so few applications are made for fish to be placed in streams is due to the belief that they would soon be caught out by an irresponsible public. That is perhaps the greatest difficulty to a successful stocking of the fishing streams which were once the angler's delight.

The commission, with four hatcheries now in operation, hopes to send out from one half to a million fish annually. They must, of course, be allowed to reach maturity and reproduce which will require at least a year. Observance of the fishing laws is imperative, and 100 per cent cooperation by the public is essential to the success of this important enterprise of the state.

Eleven inches for bass and seven inches for white perch and croppies are the lawful lengths.

Distribution of bass from the Tyler hatchery began this week, with Commissioner Will J. Tucker on the ground in close touch with the work.

Wool cloth contains about 25 threads down and 25 across to the inch, so that a square yard is composed of 1,800 threads, each a yard long. Linen and cotton goods have 80 to 100 threads each way to the inch. Thus a single handkerchief may contain 2,400 strands each 15 inches long, or 1,000 yards of cotton thread. A shirt represents about three miles of thread.

A GREATER TELEPHONE SYSTEM FOR TEXAS

HOME IS AS NEAR AS THE NEAREST TELEPHONE

On Your Vacation Remember Those At Home

It is in the evening when twilight creeps over the landscape, in that calm interval between strenuous day and festive night, that thoughts of home come to us. Back there amid the familiar scenes, engaged in their accustomed duties—maybe you feel a little conscience-stricken in your vacation freedom. Cheer up and cheer them up—telephone. Reduced rates on station-to-station calls start at 7 p. m.

Go to the telephone and give the operator the name of your home town and your home telephone number. And for your convenience you can have the call charged to your home telephone.

TOURING

If you plan to tour this summer, remember that hotel accommodations are limited. Be sure of a place to sleep—call ahead and make reservations.

You can do this economically by using station-to-station service and placing your call during the evening reduced rate periods—after 7 p. m.

Just give the telephone number, or, if you don't know it, the name of the hotel in your next stopping place.

More Service

The talking period for trans-Atlantic telephone service has been extended four hours. You can now talk to London from 5:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., Central Standard Time.

PROGRESS

The Bell Telephone Laboratories, located in New York City, are a part of the Bell System. In these laboratories, scientists and engineers work on problems of perfecting telephone apparatus, enabling the Bell System to give the best and most economical telephone service in the world. The convenient desk stand instrument, and, more recently, the dial telephone, are products of these laboratories.

The Southwestern Company, as one of the Associated Companies of the Bell System, receives the benefits of all inventions and improvements in telephone equipment and methods produced in the Bell Laboratories.

Like Soldiers On Guard

To telephone people in the business of providing telephone service, most days and nights pass without event—giving telephone service, maintaining telephone lines becomes a matter of well-trained habit. But suddenly danger looms and this habit of telephone service rises to courageous endurance. During the recent floods, telephone service was maintained throughout the inundated areas after other means of communication had been cut off.

Forgetful of self, operators and linemen continued at their posts, and their untiring efforts helped to relieve the suffering and distress of the flooded areas.

With Lon Carter, well known comedian, playing the role of the confidential secretary in "The Firefly," the success of this popular comic opera is assured for the season. The music throughout the comedy is exceptionally well chosen and gracefully executed. Every member of the company is gifted vocally, and the strains are tuneful as well as catching. The selections are interwoven with amusing situations and clever dialogue. The plot is centered about the
