STORM WRECKS MANY SHIPS

Word Lacking on Georgia-Brazil Flyer

Body Lashed to Rigging Only Clue to Fate of Missing Crew Of Schooner Found Upside Down

OLD HOME TOWN

Mrs. Margaret Massengale, secretary to Omar Burckett, deputy oil and gas supervisor with office at the chamber of commerce, has learned that advertising in the Cisco Daily News gets results. She put an advertisement in the classified column Thursday for someone to care for her baby during working hours, and the chamber of commerce telephone began ringing, as a result, shortly after the paper came from the press and calls continued until after the office was closed. Then again Friday, applicants for the job began ringing at opening up time, and continued to call throughout the morning. She got results. Encouraged by Mrs. Massengale's success, J. B. Chandler, manager of the Bankhead Poultry Producers' association decided to put in an advertisement. Here is what he wanted, and he hopes to get just as much success as Mrs. Massengale:

SHIPS UNABLE TO SEE PLANE GOING SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Although ten vessels of the United States Shipping Board were strung along the route to be followed by Paul Redfern, Georgia to Brazil flyer, none had sighted his plane today. Hydrographic experts figured today that if Redfern has good luck, he should strike the northern coast of South America some time this afternoon.

GIVES VETS WELL

A village for convalescent members of the American Legion is to be erected in the Kerville Hills of Texas. Costs are to be paid for by an oil well given to the vets by T. G. Shaw, once a doughboy and now a millionaire.

BERTAUD AWAITS WIND FOR FLIGHT TO ROME

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 26.—A fairly strong west wind, enough to enable them to get the heavy ship into the air, was all that pilots Lloyd W. Bertaud and James DeWitte III were waiting for. Weather conditions over the Atlantic were reported satisfactory. Bertaud and Hill, veteran air mail pilots, both expressed confidence that they will make Rome in about 45 hours or less.

HAWAII FLIES BEING SOUGHT IN INTERIOR

HONOLULU, Aug. 26.—Search for the missing Hawaii flyers extended to the far side of the islands today. The mine sweepers Pelican and Sunbird were steaming toward Kaula Nihoa, which lies 500 miles west of the island of Oahu. The Wildgoose and the Ortolan were dispatched to the southwest corner of the island of Hawaii. Eight submarines cruised the area southwest of Oahu and Maui.

Recurrent reports that residents between Kineo and Hana on the island of Maui had heard the drone of a propeller had induced a searching party of 40 men to comb the sparsely settled and precipitous country in that section.

PLANE NOW AWAITS FLIGHT AROUND WORLD

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, Aug. 26.—Edward S. Schlee, Detroit oil magnate, and William S. Brock, pilot, hopped off from here at 4:20 a. m. eastern standard time today in their Simson-Detroit monoplane, Pride of Detroit for Harbor Grace. As soon as they are favored with good weather they will hop off in an effort to circle the globe in record time.

OKLAHOMA AIR RACE POSTPONED BY PHILLIPS

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Aug. 26.—Frank Phillips, wealthy oil promoter, one of the backers of the Woolaroc, Oakland to Hawaii Dole entry, today postponed indefinitely his national $25,000 air contest scheduled to be held here in October. Tragic consequences of the Dole air derby were given as the reason for postponement.

ABILENE WINS SUIT OVER BUILDING LAKE

ABILENE, Aug. 26.—A case which has been in litigation four years and which is regarded as having important bearing on construction of reservoirs by municipalities was disposed of in the county court here Thursday morning when a jury rendered a verdict in favor of the city of Abilene wherein D. McMahan, a farmer living below Lake Abilene was plaintiff. McMahan sued for $1,000 damages, alleging the construction of the dam at Lake Abilene caused his property to decrease in value, and that should the dam break a vast volume of water would be suddenly released and would flow down the valley, inundating his land.

DALLAS FIRE PUTS ROOMERS INTO STREET

DALLAS, Aug. 26.—Fifteen persons, guest of a local rooming house, narrowly escaped death by burning early today when fire of unknown origin raged the 21-room structure and drove the occupants into the street scantily clad. A. C. Henry, telegraph operator, carried his paralyzed father-in-law to safety after both had been trapped by the blaze. Elsel Marion, 21, leaped from her bedroom window after battering the glass with a chair. She was only slightly injured. Guests of the rooming house lost all their possessions except Henry's mother who found $75 in her smouldering purse.

WATER SESSION OUTLOOK NOW IS DOUBTFUL

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—Possibility of a special session of the legislature to consider revision of water rights laws faded out almost completely today when Senator A. E. Wood of Granger, administration floor leader, said he does not believe a session will be called and expressed opinion that it "could do no good." The faction which has intimidated a request for a session (West Texas water interests as represented by a meeting in Abilene) could hardly hope for any benefit from such a session since any law that might be passed—granting it would be favorable to those interests in the future—could do them no good as far as present problems are concerned. "Any legislation could not interfere with permits or rights already in possession of any given firm or individual," Senator Wood said.

Moody Seeks Return of Accused Texans

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—Governor Dan Moody today issued a requisition on the governor of Oklahoma for return to this state of J. L. Cunningham and Manuel Lewis. Cunningham and Lewis are wanted in Wheeler county on indictment charging them with robbing M. A. Webb July 24, 1927. The men are under arrest at Shawnee, Okla.

Complete Decision in Stuckey Divorce Case Clears Conflicting Reports Received by Cisecoans

Following conflicting reports regarding the outcome of the divorce suit of Rev. and Mrs. Lewis N. Stuckey published in the Cisco Daily News and other papers of the state, a true copy of the decision of District Judge W. E. Gee at Amarillo, who heard the case, has been supplied by S. A. L. Morgan, of Amarillo, attorney for Mr. Stuckey. In a letter accompanying the copy of the judicial decision, Mr. Morgan takes exceptions to an article in the Cisco Daily News last Sunday which quoted a telegram received by a Ciseco woman purporting to come from Mrs. Stuckey, and also quoted an article which appeared in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. The telegram and newspaper article indicated that "The divorce had been granted Mrs. Stuckey and went into details as to a settlement, all of which, the attorney's letter declared, is false. The letter also states that Mr. Stuckey has caused a libel suit to be filed against the Fort Worth Star-Telegram for publication of the article reprinted in the Cisco Daily News, which at that time did not know the article was in error. In answer to the article, the petition in the libel suit against the Fort Worth paper was quoted as follows:

"The statements contained in the above mentioned purported news dispatch... were wholly false, libelous and in all things untrue; that said purported dispatch was wholly untrue and that each and every statement therein contained was untrue and constituted a malicious libel against the plaintiff in this; that in truth and in fact the plaintiff (L. N. Stuckey) did not in open court withdraw the charges therefor made by him against his wife... but, on the contrary, on the trial of said cause did introduce testimony, both parol and written, in support of his charges that his wife had had improper relations with an Abilene business man; that said purported news dispatch published and circulated by the defendant through the above mentioned newspaper as aforesaid was further false and untrue in this, that no divorce was granted Mrs. Stuckey on her petition which charged plaintiff with cruel treatment, and the said Mrs. Stuckey was not given permanent custody of the minor child of plaintiff and defendant and no order was entered by the court at the trial of said cause granting alimony to said Mrs. Stuckey; that... in truth and in fact the decree of the court was that the marriage relation between the plaintiff and the defendant be dissolved and that they be divorced one from the other, and no decree was entered in favor of Mrs. Stuckey against the plaintiff except a judgment disposing of the community estate as per the tender and offer of this plaintiff in his pleadings."

Notations on the docket in the Stuckey case were quoted by Attorney Morgan as follows: "8-16-27. Both parties granted leave to amend and to withdraw all pleadings heretofore filed. "8-16-27. Both parties granted to public trial and request court to hear case in chambers without stenographic report of testimony, and each party waives the right to be present in person or by counsel while the other is introducing testimony. "8-16-27. Upon full hearing of the evidence, it is ordered that the marriage relation heretofore existing between the parties be dissolved, and that the property settlement made by the parties be ratified, as per decree signed by the court and filed heretofore."

Lumber Interests Beat Murphree

HOUSTON, Aug. 26.—The antagonism of southern lumber interests and the fact that his opponent had built a machine as ruthless and as powerful as Tammany Hall defeated him, Governor Dennis Murphree, of Mississippi declared here today in referring to the recent gubernatorial campaign in Mississippi. Governor Murphree, who stopped here for a few minutes while enroute to the California coast, declared his successful opponent, Theodore Bilbo, had strong financial backing from the lumber interests who were antagonistic to a state tax favored by Murphree.

RESCUERS TO SINK SHAFT TO SAVE MAN

AUBURN, Mass., Aug. 26.—In a frantic battle with death, rescuers decided today to sink a shaft and tunnel to the side of Fred Leonard, 37, who was buried alive in the cave-in of a new well at his place near Alpine Way. Under an arch of broken timbers that held back the dirt, Leonard spoke plainly through a fire hose that had been let down to give him air. Physicians ordered him to keep silent in order to conserve his strength. Torn and injured, the body of the victim was held by the dirt and stones, but his head was in an open space beneath the timbers.

MISSING WIFE TELLS HUSBY TO SHUT UP

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 26.—Mrs. T. J. Gibbons and infant daughter, Margery, survivor of seven babies accidentally poisoned last spring in Columbus Memorial hospital in Chicago, were found living in an apartment here today. Mrs. Gibbons' mother also was found living at the same apartment. T. J. Gibbons, whose search for his wife and baby led him to San Antonio, Texas, was notified by telegram. "I cannot understand this search for me," Mrs. Gibbons said. "I have not written my husband for some time because I have been sick. I have wired him to come up here and get a job and quit running around and talking so much."

Ill Feeling Flares Up at Conference

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Ill feeling on French occupation of the Rhineland flared up at today's session of the inter-parliamentary union. The heated discussion began when Senator McNaughten of Belgium proposed a resolution deploring Germany's violation of Belgian neutrality. When heat of this subject had cooled somewhat, Dr. Walter Shuckling arose and declared: "We are of the opinion that the Locarno treaty give us the right to demand evacuation of the Rhineland." The American delegates to the conference privately expressed regret that such controversial matters had been brought up.

Jimmy Sleeping Late Puzzles Germany

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York promises to become a national hero in Germany by virtue of nothing more than his late sleeping hours and his free and easy manners. He is today about the most puzzling character in Germany. The German people, accustomed to stiff formalities of their own officials, are unable to understand the informality of the mayor of the world's greatest city.

Stanford's Subject Devil's Bid for Man

It is announced that Rev. F. T. Stanford pastor of the First Methodist church will speak Sunday night on "The Devil's Bid for A Man." He says, "The devil is making a strong bid for the men of the community and not only for the men but the women and the young men and women. If the minister does not have the courage to warn, then who will?"

NEW FOUNDLAND, Aug. 26.—Twenty-five fishing vessels were reported destroyed today as the result of a storm which swept down at Bona Vista. The body of a sailor lashed to the rigging was the only clue to the fate of the schooner Laughlin found bottom up in Placentia Bay. The schooner Noal foundered on St. John's one man being washed overboard and five other members of the crew being driven twenty miles to sea in a dory. The quiet reached the coast completely exhausted today. Another tragedy was indicated when wreckage of the schooner Dowden was picked up in the channel.

From 3 to 5 o'clock a class in interior decorating will be held by Mr. Loewe, assisted by V. L. Emmons of Abilene, with members of the Cisco high school home economics class.

Johnson of Arlington, Henry G. Bowden and Dean Colby Hall of T. C. U. An orchestra from the university furnished music.

Stanford's Subject Devil's Bid for Man

It is announced that Rev. F. T. Stanford pastor of the First Methodist church will speak Sunday night on "The Devil's Bid for A Man." He says, "The devil is making a strong bid for the men of the community and not only for the men but the women and the young men and women. If the minister does not have the courage to warn, then who will?"

The encampment today is in charge of the women who are observing "women's day" featured by talks and music by the women. BIG NEWS HEREAFTER

What will be the big news in future years? What kind of events will be considered of most importance? Here is a surprising prophecy made by the Rev. Charles T. Hull, rector of an Episcopal church in Chicago: Stories of science and religion will occupy the front pages of the future and will be given streamer headlines. It is inevitable. Evidently, too, he doesn't mean news of warfare between science and religion. These two things he regards as the great constructive forces of civilization. Human interest, and therefore printed news, he says, at the present time deals very largely with "the faults of others," and is destructive or at least non-constructive. But human interest "is turning slowly but surely from the consideration of such things to an interest in the things that have made others achieve and succeed." The wish may be father to the thought. On the other hand, the reverend seer may read the future truly. Science already is crowding more and more onto the front page, as men of brains, learning and initiative acquire for mankind new power over natural forces and new means of health, ease and progress. Religion, unfortunately in these latter days, has "hit the front page" oftener in connection with religious strife than anything else. Yet, religion, properly considered, and kept to its own field, is the greatest, most constructive force of all, with the most power over human destiny. With religion and science respecting each other's field, and cooperating instead of fighting, what could the race not achieve!

THE WHITE HOUSE ROOF

The white house, now about ready for occupancy again, has a roof garden. This is one of the improvements made in connection with putting on a new, strong roof to replace the old, shaky one. And it is a fine idea. The president and his wife can retire there now on hot evenings to cool off. Children can play there. Entertainments can be given there. Visitors can walk there and see the surrounding scenery from a good vantage point. May it serve as a model for similar improvements on other buildings, in the capital and elsewhere. Since the time when Babylon's most conspicuous feature was "hanginy gardens," cities have never made adequate use of roof gardens. Half the space in most business sections and thickly populated residence sections is wasted. The roof area is as useful as any equal area elsewhere, and really more so in congested districts, because besides providing moore room it gives people a chance to let the sun shine on them.

RATTLESNAKE CLUBS

College students are great organizers, and their organizations usually don't mean a whole lot, but there is something fascinating in the "Den of Rattlers" formed by a group of nature students in the State College of Pennsylvania. To be eligible, a candidate must have eaten rattlesnake meat. The club started auspiciously with thirty members, most of them women, who earned their eligibility by catching, dressing, cooking and eating rattlesnakes in the course of their nature study outings. The membership now represents ten states. There will probably be clubs organized elsewhere to spread this tempting ceremony. And that will be a good thing. One may or may not have a taste for rattlesnake, roasted or fricaseed, but it is not on record that eating rattlesnakes ever killed anybody, and a zealous expansion of the new college cult would eliminate a great many unnecessary rattlesnakes.

ALIMONY FOR HUSBANDS

Judge William H. Smathers of Atlantic City has won considerable fame and hundreds of complimentary letters by announcing, in the domestic relations court, that childless women seeking alimony need expect no sympathy from him. Now he goes further. Within five years, he prophesies, men in poor health may expect the payment of alimony from wives who desert them. This is reversing the situation with a vengeance. "Women have equal rights with men today in industry," he explains. "The day has passed when a woman can expect sympathy in court just because she is a woman." Not really "passed," but evidently passing, at least as far as judges are concerned. Juries are a different matter. Fair women, weeping discreetly, may long keep courts from losing their gallantry.

MONT BLANC AS USUAL

All's well that ends well. Peace may now settle over the Alps. It has been discovered, after much uproar, that the mountain to be named "Mount Benito Mussolini" is not the famous Mont Blanc, at all, but another, and lower, peak of the same group, and one that lies wholly within Italy. So now the French may forget their indignation and tourists may cease to worry about scrambling geographical names. Mont Blanc is still Mont Blanc.

THE LATIN-AMERICAN BANKER

The United States, it appears, in spite of unsatisfactory relations with some parts of Latin-America, has become the banker for that great, rapidly developing group of countries. Traditionally England is their banker, providing the funds for industrial and commercial expansion and reaping the benefits not only in interest but in financial control and commercial good will. The last few years have changed that. The United States has lent its Latin neighbors nearly as much money in seven years as England has in one hundred years. The total is a little more than a billion and a half, which is not much compared with the vast sums lent to Europe, but is large for the New World countries. It is a good investment, too, according to G. Butler Sherwell, Georgetown University economist. The high interest rates and large discounts bring up the net return often to 8 or 9 per cent. As for security, there is little question of that, because Latin-America sells us more than it buys from us and so has the money to pay. We buy largely raw materials, needed in our manufactures. That very fact invites comparison again with our European loans. How can they be secure, as long as we sell Europe more than we buy from her? The economist may be right in pronouncing Latin-America the safest foreign investment field in the world. It is also the most strategic place for Americans to lend such money as they don't want to use at home.

Human Interest Editorials

By WICKES WAMBOLDT

WHY IS IT?

Why is it that over ninety per cent of the crooks who rob the United States mails are captured and sent to prison when not over 10 per cent of those who commit crimes against municipalities, counties and states are ever caught? The answer is simple. Men who comprise Uncle Sam's postoffice inspectors know their business. They are trained criminal hunters. They are professional fact finders, and once they start on a trail they never drop the case. Men who have robbed the United States mails have had the bracelets snapped onto their wrists twenty years after the commission of robbery. Uncle Sam's postoffice inspectors are not tied up and gagged up by political tape; changes in administration are nothing to them; they are hired for what they know and what they can do; politicians cannot pay political debts with post-office inspectors' jobs.

But the situation is very different in town and county and state. The jobs of chief of police, captain of detectives and sheriff of the county may be handed out to men whose experience in criminology does not extend beyond fighting the chicken-eating hawk, reading water-meters, or collecting street car fares. The police force often is made up of men no better trained than their chief, the detectives may know no more than their captain, and the deputies be no better than the sheriff.

In chasing the criminal in town, county and state, if frequently is not a question of the blind being sent to catch the blind, but of the blind being sent to catch the argus-eyed, for criminals know the ways of the police detectives, and sheriffs, but too frequently the police, detectives and sheriffs, know not the ways of the criminal. And quite likely when there is a change of administration, out go the guardians of the law, who at public expense have perhaps gained some knowledge of their work, and in comes a fresh batch of greenhorns.

When a city employs an engineer, when a county selects a surveyor, or when a state appoints someone to direct highway construction, men are chosen who know their business; but when men are appointed to maintain law and order and to bring offenders to book, the idea too often is that any old somebody will do. A sheriff is a sheriff, a policeman a policeman and a detective a detective. What's the matter with you anyway?

So long as incompetents and raw recruits are given the responsibility of running down and corralling been-witted, fearless lawbreakers, the criminal will continue to have the laugh on the country. If there is one thing that every county should have it is a smart, capable sheriff. If there are two things that every city should have they are a keen, expert chief of police and a shrewd, experienced captain of detectives.

Rising Star Team On Grid Monday

RISING STAR, Aug. 26.—The shrill toot of the whistle and the thud of pigskin will be heard again next Monday afternoon when the Rising Star Wildcats take the field for two weeks of training before the opening of the football season.

Coch Williams issues a call for every man who wants to try for the team this year to report at Wildcat park Monday afternoon and be ready for work. The first weeks work will be light, and will consist mostly of limbering up exercises with a little signal work thrown in. The next week will see some real work and scrimmages will likely be held every day. The park has recently been plowed and graded up and with the recent rain the ground should be in fine shape.

Regulars expected to report Monday include a number of letter men from last year who will be a great help in training the "rookies." Several new men are expected to try for the team this year and Mr. Williams is anxious that they all be out Monday afternoon.

SCOUTS HOLDING CAMPS

Pipe 115 Years Old Found at Slaton

SLATON, Aug. 26.—A pipe estimated to be 115 years old and still retaining a strong tobacco odor is owned by Joe Oehlein of Slaton. Oehlein found the pipe 10 years ago under a vacant house here. Near it were found four bottles containing opium or morphine. The pipe is made of meerschaum, and Oehlein has been offered as much as $50 for it.

The bowl is decorated with carvings of a horse leaping over a fallen tree and an Indian wicwam. The date "1812" appears on the bottom of the bowl.

RANGER GRID STARS BEGIN WORK MONDAY

RANGER, Aug. 25.—Blair Cherry, high school athletic coach, returned last night from South Bend, Indiana, where he has been attending Knute Rockne's coaching school.

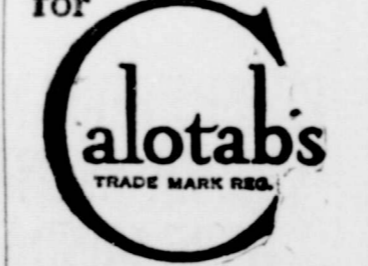

Cherry issued the call for football players to appear Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the high school building when equipment will be issued and the candidates will start the long and tedious grind of getting into condition for football. The coach is somewhat reticent about giving his opinion of the prospects until he has seen what his squad looks like and how it takes to training. His only comment being that he thought he had some promising material and would do his best to make a football team out of it.

PRESS WELDS GREATER INFLUENCE THAN PULPIT

ENNIS, Aug. 26.—The press wields greater influence than the pulpit, in the opinion of members of the Ennis W. C. T. U. In a general discussion here the organization decided that newspapers reach more people, reach them oftener and give both sides of the question, leaving the reader to form his own conclusions.

ALBATROSS IS LIVING PLANE SAYS OBSERVER

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—The albatross is a living airplane, according to George Finlay Simmons, curator of the Cleveland, Ohio, Natural History Museum, who is here visiting his brother, Assistant Attorney General D. A. Simmons.

G. F. Simmons recently returned from a 22 months cruise to Africa and South America collecting bird specimens for the Cleveland museum.

"We had lots of time to study birds in flight," said Simmons. "The albatross is like a living monoplane. He takes off by stretching his immense wings out to full length. They remain open. He doesn't flap them to get off but merely uses them like the elevators on a plane.

"He propels himself over the water with his feet until he has sufficient speed to rise. The albatross will glide in the air for hours without once flapping his wings.

"I believe there is a slight wing movement. It is not a flapping of the wings up and down but probably a hitching forward of first one shoulder and then the other. This gives propulsion like a skater gets by shifting weight. Unless there is some such movement, it is unexplainable how the albatross can rise without wing flapping, as I have repeatedly seen them do."

Simmons formerly was a zoology instructor at the University of Texas, and later head of bird investigations for the Texas game department.

TEN MILLIONS SPENT UPON TELEPHONES

The total expenditures of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company in Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas for the second quarter of the year was over ten million dollars, according to Phillip Pettit manager of the telephone company.

"More than five and one-half million dollars of this amount," Mr. Pettit said, "were spent on new additions to the plant, that is, on new lines, switchboard equipment and buildings."

"It is interesting to note that the expense of the entire Bell system for the same period was in excess of $118,000,000. More than $74,000,000 of this amount went into new equipment."

AUGUST BRINGS MORE TOURISTS TO TEXAS

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—August is the tourist month in Texas. More people visit the state capitol and climb to the top of the dome in August than any other month. In early August, tourists are en route from north Texas to the coast. Later in the month they return. More than half the women visitors to the dome wear knickerbockers. Half of them combine high heel slippers with the costume.

SEES HOPE

The second generation will gather the benefits of prohibition, although the present generation may not. That is the view of Mrs. Margaret Winttingham, member of the British Parliament, now on a tour of the United States studying economic conditions.

Mrs. Dorothy Caruso, widow of the famous tenor, and Alexander P. Moore, widower of Lillian Russell, sun themselves on the beach at Lido, Venice, garbed in the fashionable pajamas. Their engagement has been announced.

EASTLAND HAS HUGE TACKLE FOR SURPRISE

EASTLAND, Aug. 26.—Two years ago, there was a husky young chap named Jimmy Mathews, who played tackle on the Eastland eleven. He played such a smashing game that he was given all-State mention.

That, as was remarked just previous, was two years ago. And now the scene Jimmy Mathews, who looks like the Dallas Fair—"bigger and better than ever before," is coming out for the team again.

Mathews is five feet, seven inches in height and weighs almost 200 hundred pounds. From this description you might judge that he is fat, but you are all wrong. It is brawn and bone. His legs are about the dimensions of a healthy railroad crosstie—and about as strong. His head, like that of a professional wrestler, sets down on his shoulders. Just imagine a ball of beef and bone and you can picture the poly-poly but powerful build of young Mathews.

In appearance, he resembles Corteseglia, former S. M. U. star, who was famous as the bull of the campus, the burly wop, the fat wop and other pet nicknames by followers of the football. And Mathews is fast. In fact, there were only two men on the team who could outrun him two years ago.

He played tackle for the Mavericks in 1925 and was one of the biggest factors in their 27-to-3 victory over Breckenridge and their 25-to-0 win over Ranger.

Photographer Ran, and Leopard Sprang

HOUSTON, Aug. 26.—Francis Miller, photographer for the Houston Press, probably owes his life to the cool nerve of Hans Nagel, keeper of the municipal zoo, and a buggy whip. Miller entered the arena at the zoo to take pictures of two leopards doing tricks. He was accompanied by Nagel and Tom Bayler, Nagel's assistant.

In his haste to cross the arena to "shoot" a picture, Miller broke into a trot. The flash of a running man caused one of the leopards to spring. As the animal leaped, Nagel sprang beneath the hurtling beast, striking at it with his whip. The leopard's leap was deflected and it fell to the ground.

Miller started running around the arena. The leopard gave pursuit.

"Don't run," yelled Nagel. Miller halted. So did the leopard. Nagel quickly drove the animal back to its perch.

"Never run from a cat—it's plain suicide," Nagel cautioned.

SHORT SKIRT AIDS IN CAPTURE OF THEIF

DALLAS, Aug. 26.—Short skirts enable milady to run faster, and this fact enabled Miss Florence Lewis to save herself $53. A boy snatched Miss Lewis' purse while she was walking in the business district here. She chased the lad a block. The lad, realizing he was about to be overtaken, threw the purse to the sidewalk and escaped. He failed to get the $53 the purse contained.

McLENNAN CO. WILL EMPLOY WOLF TRAPPER

WACO, Aug. 26.—McLennan county will employ a wolf trapper for the next 12 months in an effort to rid the county of wolves, which have made deep inroads into the poultry and livestock of the county. The county commission voted $900 for wolf control work which will be added to $900 raised by private subscription and a similar amount to be received from the state. Wolves have been steadily increasing in number in this and surrounding counties, according to reports of farmers.

WACO PLANS GOLF MEET

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Louise Snoddy of Scranton, A. Warren won the consolation in the contest of Mrs. Lloyd Winston. The hostess served from salad and sandwiches to the following guests: Mrs. George P. Floyd, Bill Hutton, Bob Smart, A. H. Richardson, Tom Whitehead, and the hostess.

AMUSEMENTS

TWELVE MILES OUT

Eating six breakfasts a day was John Gilbert's rather painful duty recently. He wasn't on a diet—he was doing it solely in the name of art. It's no small sized breakfast that he was called upon to consume, either—but a regular sailor-man's breakfast of cereal, bacon and eggs, flapjacks and coffee. This breakfast is part of the scene in "Twelve Miles Out," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new sea adventure play coming to the Palace Sunday and Monday. Much of the dramatic action depends on his assimilation of the breakfast, while Joan Crawford, who plays opposite him in the scene, has no appetite. Hence the different scenes, including close-ups called for breakfast after breakfast—until Gilbert says he'll never look at bacon and eggs again.

Third of Texas Cars Break Light Law

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—W. B. Schultz, engineer of the headlight division of the state highway department, has made a test showing approximately one third of the cars in the state are violating state lighting laws. The test was made in Austin. Of 500 cars observed, 364 had perfect equipment. On 174 the tail light was out. Eighteen had only one headlight burning. Four trucks carried no tail light.

3 CONVICTS ESCAPE; SHERIFF GETS THEM

CROCKETT, Aug. 26.—Three convicts overpowered their guard at Eastham State farm on Thursday and escaped.

The men took the guard's car and arms, consisting of a six-shooter and two high-powered rifles. Sheriff Jim Hazlett was notified of the escape, and with Deputy Jim Henry met the convicts on the outskirts of Crockett. On being ordered to surrender, one of the men raised a rifle. Sheriff Hazlett opened fire, striking one of the men in the right arm. The convicts then surrendered. Two were placed in jail and the wounded man was taken to Cedars hospital for treatment.
