TOURISTS IN ATLANTA

What a fine, long motor highway will do for a city, when that city takes advantage of its opportunity, may be seen in the experience of Atlanta, Ga., with the Appalachian Scenic highway, which runs from the Gulf of Mexico to the St. Lawrence river, following the crest of the Appalachian mountains. That highway is still new and little known, compared with the older national routes. But it is attracting traffic faster, perhaps, than any of the others ever did. That is due largely to the effective publicity given it by enterprising cities along the route, especially Atlanta. One of Atlanta's inspired achievements was the organization of a "motorcade" of 100 cars, which started from the Georgia capital on September 5 and paraded pleasantly and impressively to Quebec, taking nine days for the trip and being welcomed and entertained on a grand scale at every stopping place. Millions heard about the "ASH" and its attractions from that pilgrimage, and were not allowed to forget that Atlanta was on the route. Atlanta's former average of "foreign cars" was 600 a month. For the last six months she has been getting 45,000 tourist cars a month. What that means in increased business, stimulation and growth may easily be imagined.

Human Interest Editorials

By WICKES WAMBOLDT

FINANCIAL INDIGESTION

A man walking down the street met a friend strolling along. "How are you feeling?" asked the friend. "Not much," replied the man. "I'm depressed. I bought a piece of real estate last year that I shouldn't have bought; and I got to pay fifteen thousand dollars on it today." "Oh!" said the friend. "You have a complaint that is rather common nowadays, the second-payment blues."

SCHOOL DRESSES

The Hungarian government has started regulating the attire of school girls. The regulation applies particularly to night school students. All girls in the country from 14 to 18 years old, attending the night schools, must wear skirts falling not less than four inches below the knees. They are not allowed to wear low-necked dresses, nor short sleeves, nor silk nor flesh colored stockings. There is one bit of constructive style in the orders issued. Skirts must be blue, and pleated. Government regulation of feminine styles has been tried at various times, in various countries, but seldom with entire success. Few governments would have the nerve to try it in this age of feminine freedom. The authorities in Budapest may possibly get away with it, but what would happen if this precedent were followed in Washington? There would probably be a change in governmental complexion.

RECEIVERSHIP FEES

One of the notable innovations in American court procedure lately is the adoption of a standard scale for receivership fees. The Interstate Commerce commission some time ago expressed its concern over the high cost of railroad reorganizations, and suggested that in most cases receiverships were needlessly expensive. The same situation has prevailed in other lines of business. The result has been especially unfortunate in the last year or two, because of the large number of corporations thrown into receiverships for reorganization. As a judge who has handled many such cases remarks, receivers are entitled to proper compensation for their services; but the trouble is that "services which are available every day at very modest rates become extremely valuable the minute they are rendered by receivers."

FOILING LOAN SHARKS

The Santa Fe railroad is getting after the loan sharks in the territory covered by its system. Its concern is the protection of its own employes, but incidentally it is performing a fine public service. "The loan shark," says a secretary-treasurer of the line, "is the worst enemy of the salaried man. The employe needs a little money, perhaps to carry him over till pay day, perhaps to pay for a new baby, or a job of dentistry. Rather than face the self-imposed humiliation of going to an accredited company and borrowing the money, where some influential friend's name would be accepted as security, he goes to the loan shark. The loan is usually small, but the interest rates are unbearable." Cases have been discovered in which the interest for a short-time loan ran up to 150 or 200 percent of the principal. Often the victim is driven to borrow again, signing new notes, to pay for the exorbitant interest. And thus the indebtedness may continue increasing in spite of payments. A man may pay $15 or $20 on a $10 loan and still owe the principal. This sort of thing, the railroad is determined, must stop among its employes. It is trying to teach them to borrow, when they have to borrow small sums, only from recognized banks, which use legitimate methods and charge legitimate interest. It has suspended an old rule by which an employe was dismissed if his pay was garnished twice, because of the discovery that many loan companies resorted needlessly to this method of collection. Its own coun-

SIBLEY POOL EXTENDED BY NEW GASSER

The Sibley pool has been extended three quarters of the Duffer well of Dick Barkley which has come in for 15,000,000 feet of gas and 75 barrels of oil a day. Although the new producer is on the Duffer land, it is approximately three miles south of the Gholson pool, which was discovered on the Duffer 10 months ago by John M. Gholson and associates. The new well broadens out the Sibley pool greatly and will stimulate interest in that area where several big wells—notably a 2,200-barrel well by the Mook-Texas and a 1,500-barrel well by the States—were brought in some months ago. The Sibley pool is about ten miles east of Eastland, in the vicinity of Staff. J. E. Lewis of Eastland, has brought in a shallow gasser on the Johnson farm, three miles north of Eastland. It is making 2,000,000 feet of gas at 1,700 feet.

DALLAS FAIR TO BE OPENED ON SATURDAY

DALLAS, Oct. 5.—The biggest state fair in America will open to an audience of 1,000,000 people here Saturday.

The 100 acre tract on which is housed the mammoth exhibit halls of the State fair of Texas, the auditorium, the stadium, the race track, the amusement features and countless other features of this greatest of all fairs was teeming with thousands of agricultural exhibitors today as the finishing touches were made.

The immense size of the fair plant can be judged from the fact that the buildings on the fair grounds are valued at $2,000,000. Trains from all corners of the state will begin arriving here tomorrow and all next week as thousands of Texans turn out to see the spectacle.

For 15 days the cream of Texas will be on display. Entries in nearly every department exceed previous records, Roy Ripard, fair secretary, said today. Not only agriculture is represented, but the immense manufacturers building will display every form of article manufactured in Texas.

One thing is strangely missing from the fair this year, despite the efforts of fair officials. That is the Texas longhorn cattle, for years the best known product of the state.

In fact, the longhorn bordered on extinction until recently when the government searched the west Texas plains for the best available specimens.

Fair officials were unable to locate any desirable specimens for exhibit at the fair. Like a three ring circus, entertainment features at the 1927 fair surpass any of the past.

Horse racing will be revived on a larger scale than ever. Purse totaling $30,000 have been posted for the running races.

The musical hit "Countess Maritza" will be presented in the fair park auditorium with the original New York cast.

Fearless Woman Carries on Work of Exploration

By ELMER CLARK International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent

New York (I-I-N).—Decorated by the King of Belgium for her courageous work in penetrating African forests after the death of her husband in the midst of her trip, Mrs. Mary Le Jobe Akeley, widow of the famous explorer, Carl Akeley, is to be further honored.

She has been appointed by the trustees of the American Museum of Natural History to assist in the development of Mr. Akeley's plan for a great African Hall for that institution.

For seven and a half months of hunting and collecting in Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika, Mrs. Akeley was her husband's constant companion and confidante.

With Mr. Akeley's unexpected death, Kivu, the volcanic region of the Belgian Congo, Mrs. Akeley suddenly found herself the head of the expedition.

Determined that her husband's work should not be left unfinished, she remained for seven weeks in her isolated camp, 800 miles by motor and 100 miles on foot from their base in Nairobi.

In recognition of her heroic completion of the Congo expedition, Mrs. Akeley upon her return to Belgium last March was decorated by King Albert with the Cross of the Knight of the Order of the Crown.

Her knowledge of her husband's aims and purposes and her experience in Africa make Mrs. Akeley's aid very important in the carrying out of Carl Akeley's plans for a museum exhibit which will record in permanent and artistic form the rapidly disappearing wild life of Africa.

Big Dam Chatter

Fluctuations in the Oil Belt football "market" are just about as violent this fall as have been the ups and downs of the cotton quotations.

At the beginning of the training season, Ranger was most favored to win the district championship, with Abilene ranked second and Cisco third.

Then came the series of announcements of ineligible Ranger men, together with reports of a giant machine being built at Abilene by Coach Dewey Mayhew.

But a kaleidoscopic change has taken place in the last few days. Despite the fact that the Cisco Lobos walloped the heavier El Paso Tigers, Ranger once more looms as a favorite to win the district championship.

Abilene, on the other hand, is still a question mark. The Eagles' showing against Anson, a class B team, was not at all impressive.

Those who saw Abilene and Ranger play have been frank to guess that Ranger could beat Abilene at least four touchdowns at this stage of the season.

However, it must be remembered that Anson won the unofficial class B title of the state last season and is still probably the leading team of its rank in the state.

Therefore, Abilene's showing against so strong a contender could not be expected to be so sensational as that of Cisco and Ranger which took on weaker teams for their early season games.

Then, too, Abilene has a habit of developing slowly but surely as the season progresses, and by the time the class A season is well under way, the comparative strength of the leading teams may again be changed.

Coch W. B. Chapman has among his prized possessions a sheaf of telegrams of encouragement and congratulations he received at El Paso last Saturday during or after the Cisco-El Paso football game.

One signed by "Bill and Chief," alias Billy Ricks and Howard Brown at S. M. U., Dallas, read: "We can't be those but are betting on those Lobos."

J. H. Morgan wired from San Antonio: "My heart and thoughts are with you. Stay in there and fight, fight, fight!"

One message signed "Doc Hale," said: "Accept congratulations for yourself and your men."

K. H. Pittard of the Lions club wired: "Lions club congratulates you and your men."

"All Cisco and the Cisco Ice company in particular are sure proud of all the Big Dam Lobos," said another messenger.

signed by O. J. Russell, P. W. Campbell, O. B. Tunnell and "All the bunch." The Favorite wired: "Compliments and good wishes. We knew you would do it."

Mrs. James Bates, mother of one of the boys, sent this encouragement: "Stay in there and fight, boys, I'm for you."

Another, signed by "Miki and Chickie Mayer" said: "All Cisco celebrating. All played keen game."

Those who accompanied the Lobos to El Paso Saturday for the game remarked on the effects the high altitude of El Paso had on the effectiveness of the Lobos.

The rare atmosphere worked a handicap on the boys, it was said, although the spectators hardly noticed the change.

Members of the squad complained, particularly in the last quarter, that the atmosphere affected their ears, eyes and noses, interfering somewhat with their play.

COURT, JOSE PLANS NOW BEING STUDIED EASTLAND, Oct. 5.—Frank O. Wittichell of Lang & Wittichell, architects of Dallas, who have the contract for drawing plans for the new Eastland county courthouse, was in Eastland Monday with temporary plans to exhibit to the county commissioners.

While these plans were gone over by the court and a number of the county officers they were not adopted by the court. The court, however, made a number of suggestions as to the plans, which, when they have been made may make the plans acceptable to the court.

You Need Never Change Your Oil if You Own a Buick

Last year Buick said: "Change your oil only four times a year." Buick tests at the great Proving Ground of General Motors at that time had shown that oil changes would never be necessary, with the Oil Filter to remove impurities, and with the Crankcase Ventilator, Thermostatic Circulation Control and Automatic Heat Control to prevent oil dilution.

Now, more than a year has passed, and Buick owners in every section of the world—under every climatic condition—have also proved that you never need change your oil if you own a Buick—replenishment and inspection of the Buick Oil Filter only are required.
