Old Home Town

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Jones and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cornelson and daughter, Eileen, and Superintendent and Mrs. Felix Smith of San Angelo attended the Cisco-San Angelo football game here Saturday and while here were taken to Lake Cisco by C. A. Farquhar and while here expressed wonderment at the size of the dam and the swimming pool. Other visitors to the game from out of town included A. W. Balfanz and Ralph and Doris Balfanz and Frank Barney of Abilene.

Several members of the Abilene high school football team, including LeVurle Andrus, former Cisco, Wooten, an end, Smith and Sellers, backfield men were here Saturday to see the Cisco-San Angelo football game. Andrus was accompanied by his father. The former Lobo end expressed keen disappointment that he had been banished from district football for the current year by the district committee at its meeting at Eastland Friday night.

"We're coming to Cisco strong," declared Editor B. A. Butler of the Breckenridge American Saturday night in a telephone conversation regarding the Cisco-Breckenridge football game scheduled for next Saturday. "While nobody in Breckenridge believes our team will win the district championship, it is now apparent that Shetwell is doing great things with the Buckaroos and they now appear headed for a place far higher in the district race than was anticipated."

Nat Terry is rejoicing over the arrival of the first grandchild, an eight pound girl born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Terry at Wichita Falls. Both the mother and child are reported as resting well. Mr. Terry was formerly of Cisco.

G. B. Lambeth of East Texas, traveling evangelist of the Church of Christ, is visiting his nephew of near Dothan. He came to this section in search of health and is reported as improving rapidly now. He says he is ready for work and will "go anywhere and preach the gospel."

The Lee Auto Supply company is completing improvements made to the front of the building, including building of a new concrete driveway into the filling station portion of the building.

Says the Village Wag: "Parents have been raising Cain about their flapper daughters staying out at night, but it was really not the flappers' fault. There was no public time piece to tell them when it was time to go home. Now since the Daily News has its clock in view of the public, considerable improvement has already been noticed."

J. H. Morgan, former superintendent of Cisco public schools, telegraphed the Daily News Saturday complaining that his Daily News was not reaching him by mail. He took occasion to send the score of the Breckenridge (San Antonio) high and Corpus Christi football game which was 25 to 0 in favor of the former.

Among the many out of town persons here Saturday for the Cisco-San Angelo football game was R. D. Green, superintendent of schools at Abilene. Mr. Green has been at the head of the Abilene schools for a number of years, and previously was superintendent of the Cisco public schools.

Allen Thinks Cal Will be Drafted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas, still believes President Coolidge will be drafted for the nomination next year "unless he does something about it." Allen made this statement today in the face of the president's recent verbal spanking of Senator Fess. "I am equally guilty with Senator Fess in believing that the president should be nominated," Allen said.

PRESIDENT IN CONFERENCES ON PROPOSALS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Agriculture relief legislation today overshadowed even tax reduction legislation. While the insurgent block on capitol hill studied variations plans in the hope of drafting a new farm bill, President Coolidge and his cabinet advisers were reported giving the subject serious consideration. The outcome is expected to be introduction of two new farm bills as soon as congress reconvenes.

It was said the president feels the necessity of agriculture legislation and that he is now willing to go much further to provide relief than he was a year ago. He is still opposed to the equalization fee on constitutional grounds. The insurgents after a series of minor conferences will meet Monday morning to discuss the outlook for legislative farm relief. One plan is fostered by Smith W. Brookhart, republican of Iowa, who would eliminate the equalization fee but would compel the government to stand the losses of a federal export corporation, intended to buy the surplus crops with the intention of selling them abroad. The Brookhart bill would have the farmers pay the bill. The insurgents, however, would not be willing to drop the equalization fee which featured the McNary-Haugen bill unless a substitute plan is certain to dispose of surpluses.

Haley Big Star of Day as Cisco Wins First Class A Battle From San Angelo Before Large Crowd

The high school football coaches of the Oil Belt district who saw Saturday's Cisco-San Angelo football battle, today join in saying that old refrain. "And I wish that boy was mine." The boy referred to is none other than Red Haley, big San Angelo fullback who, in defeat, was the most outstanding player on the gridiron here Saturday afternoon. Cisco high won the game 34 to 0. It is true, but the big boy of the flaming locks stands out in relief as the hero of the day. With the Lobo attack sweeping through the remainder of his team, Haley never faltered. He just kept on making bruising tackle after tackle and appealing to his team mates to make a more determined stand. This boy, who it is said played his first football last season and knew so little about the game that he asked his coach what those white lines across the field were for, backed up his own line yesterday like a veteran of many years. More than one Big Dan Lobo came out of the game well shaken up by the tackling terror, and there was nothing but praise for his work.

San Angelo flashed its greatest power in the first quarter. In that period the Lobos were able to make large gains out in the middle of the field, and three times worked the ball down within a few yards of the goal line. But the San Angelo line held stubbornly in defense of its goal, and each time the Lobos failed to take the ball over. The fourth time the ball was worked down near the goal line, Hayes, plunging quarterback, carried the ball over. The Bobcats continued to hold steadily during the first part of the second quarter, but Hayes and Little got away for long runs which resulted in two or more touchdowns, bringing the score to 21 to 0 at the half. In the latter half, the Bobcats weakened somewhat and although Coach Chapman played a second string backfield most of the time, two more touchdowns were put over, one by Boon and the other by Stovall.

Attorney General Rules Law Violated by Girls' Training School Head at Gainesville

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—The attorney general's department in an opinion to the board of control today held Mrs. Minnie Witherspoon, a teacher in the State Girls' Training school at Gainesville was related to Mrs. Agnes Stevens, head of the school, within the third degree of consanguinity and therefore was within the provisions of the anti-nepotism law. This apparently sustained charges that Mrs. Stevens had employed a relative at the school in violation of the state laws. The board of control recently held an inquiry at the school, and the attorney general's ruling will enable the board to make a speedy announcement of decision in the case, it was said.

Cisco Float and Decorated Auto In Ranger Parade Attract Much Favorable Attention to Dam City

The Cisco float and the Class B.K.'s club decorated automobile in the parade at the Ranger Jubilee Saturday afternoon attracted much of his eligibility card signed this year, and he will be on the sideline until he can clear up the matter. Ezzeil was also challenged and will be out until he can establish positive proof of his age. Bill Johnson was the only Eastland player brought into doubt, but after his transfer from Stephenville was introduced, his eligibility was established. An attempt was made to prove eligibility of three of the four Ranger players most recently brought into doubt, with the result that one, David Whitehead, was approved. The Short twins, Homer and Victor, one a backfield man and the other a line star, were disqualified until they are able to establish proof as to their age prior to 1919 on September 1 of which year their eligibility cards show them to have been 12 years of age, making them 20 this year on that date and therefore ineligible. A sworn statement from a physician and a family Bible were introduced to show the boys were born September 1, 1907. The various organizations had representatives; there were sixteen business floats, eight bands, thirteen decorated automobiles, five pep squads, three comics and a large number of additional automobiles carrying visitors and notables in the parade. The procession was twelve blocks long and took considerable time to pass a given point. A huge crowd witnessed the procession and examined for the football game and other events of the afternoon and night.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD'S LOVE—Nay in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.—Romans 8:37-39.

TRUST NOT YOUR ENEMY

One way in which King Solomon showed his wisdom was in refusing to harbor his enemies. His method of relieving the situation was rather drastic, according to the code of today, for he ruthlessly put them to death.

But in Solomon's time a king had to be a king. If he didn't dispose of his enemies—his enemies disposed of him. Anyone who harbors an enemy is foolish. There are better things to harbor than enemies.

The president of a certain university was visited one day by a man employed by the school. "Mr. President," said the man bluntly, "I don't approve of your methods. I am going to have you ousted if I can."

"Go to it!" replied the president cheerfully. Now that president had it in his power to remove that man, at least he could have had his entourage stopped which might have caused the man to quit; but the president wouldn't do that.

"No," he said, "that would be using my official power to defend myself personally," which showed a fine spirit but poor judgment.

So the president let his enemy stay on, and the man schemed and contrived and pulled wires until the first thing the president knew the skids had been put under him and he was out.

Self defense is recognized by law as a fundamental principle. An enemy in one's household, an enemy in one's business, an enemy anywhere in one's life is an adverse influence to be reckoned with. Sometimes one can remove one's enemy. And sometimes the only thing one can do is to remove oneself, pack up and get out, and seek a pasture without snakes in its grass or wolves in its timber.

more than 100 Americans had sought liquor permits at that very convenient place. District Committee Ousts Many Ineligibles

Big Dam Chatter

"The Old Town is Full, Full to the Brim," said a headline in the Ranger Times Friday. True, brother, true, if one is to take the war whoops heard in the Ghobson hotel during the Jubilee as an indication. But to quote the headline further: "Many lucky ones have accommodations, others are seeking them." Ditto for this, too. Most of those we saw were "lucky" but we also ran across plenty of others looking for "accommodations" which for the most part did not seem hard to find.

Heard after the Eastland-Ranger game: "Gosh, gosh! I'm going to move to Cisco?"

Out of the gloom of defeat Friday afternoon there arose one ray of hope for the defeated Bulldogs. "We lost our first game last year, but went ahead and won the district championship anyway," was the prevailing topic of conversation among Ranger fans. That seemed to be the one thought animating the Bull's populace, a fact that bores ill for Abilene this week when Ranger goes there for a game.

Last year, it will be recalled, Ranger lost its opening class A game to Stephenville, and it was that same Bull Johnson who was largely responsible, just as he was at Ranger Friday. The black-headed youth, then making his first bid for fame in Oil Belt athletics, did spectacular passing in that battle and one of his pellets fell into the arms of the diminutive Little, now wearing the spangles of the Lobos, and the little fellow made the touchdown. Friday it was but slightly different. Johnson tossed a couple of passes to Osburn and Smith, but finally plunged over the line himself to make the touchdown.

From now on the question will be: "Can Ranger repeat its feat of last season?" It is probable that a special train will carry the Bulldog fans to Abilene next Friday when that question will be largely answered. There are many Ranger fans who believe so strongly in Coach Blair Cherry that they believe their "wonder coach" can win a district championship in spite of the severe handicaps his team is forced to play under this year, including the loss of some dozen stars and defeat in the first game of the year. There are some who believe it can be done, but until the feat is accomplished, we must say we have our doubts.

We may be telling some of the coaching secrets that should not be spilled to an eager world, but it at least gives the victorious coach's idea as to how he won the Eastland-Ranger game of Friday. "I do not mean to disparage the ability of the boy for his coaching," Coach Dave Pena of Eastland said Friday night, "but I must confess I figured out the Ranger weakness and took advantage of it today. I picked on Hammet, Ranger quarter, as the victim, relying on the old maxim that you can take a boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of a boy. In other words, Hammet playing his first year with Ranger, had no previous experience except that at Desdemona where I figured it wasn't that he received sufficient instruction in breaking up passes. It was impossible for Coach Cherry to instill into him this early in the year sufficient knowledge of defense against passes to make him effective against Bill Johnson's passes. Therefore, we centered our passing attack on territory defended by Hammet, and if you recall the passes sufficiently, you will remember that practically every one of our successful passes was made into his territory."

That defeat which Breckenridge handed Merkel Friday afternoon, 44 to 0, brings little comfort to the Cisco Lobos who will meet Breckenridge high next Saturday here in the second Class A game of the season. It is reported here that Breckenridge used second and third team men against the visitors for three quarters of the game, and that the youngsters ran roughshod over the Eddie Collins (upper center) is slated to go released by Washington. Joe Harris (right) has quit Pittsburgh. Ty Cobb (lower left) is through with the game forever. team which the Lobos played here recently. Breckenridge seems to be advancing rapidly under the tutelage of Coach P. E. Shotwell. Those of us who had considered the Breckenridge showing against Eastland as indifferent may have to revise our ideas following the defeat Eastland handed the much-touted Ranger Bulldogs. In fact, the walloping Breckenridge gave San Angelo the same week it played Eastland should have caused many to pause and wonder, and now that the team that Breckenridge tied has beaten one of the big three of the conference, Buckaroo stock has taken a precipitate rise in value. Reports from Breckenridge state that "shoot" has been pointing his men against Cisco for the last week, and Lobos should be on guard against one of those surprises for which Breckenridge has been famous in the past.

At least, the dope should cut out any of the 50-point money which Ranger supporters are said to have offered on the Bulldogs Friday without being called. This business of giving points is always poor business, to our notion, because in football upsets have such a habit of occurring that it might be said that a season without an upset is an upset, indeed. That's what makes football the grand sport that it is. The underdog always has a chance.

Goodbye Bobbed Hair Is Edict in England

SHEFFIELD, Eng., Oct. 22.—Is it goodbye to the shingle, the bob, and the Eton crop—as English girls call it.

J. S. Gregson, master of the Incorporated Guild of Hairdressers and Wigmakers in England, says: "Yes." Speaking at the annual conference of the Guild, he said: "I am certain that the heads of beautiful long hair which is a woman's crowning glory will once more be seen in our midst. Long hair can modify features and heads and can even assert itself upon personalities. I defy anyone to do that with the deadly monotonous shingled head of today."

REISELT KEEPS CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Otto Reiset of Philadelphia retained the world's three-cushion billiard championship by defeating Gus Coakley, Detroit, at the Penn A. C., 300 to 238, and breaking his own records for a 300-point match.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Old Pop Time, greatest slugger of 'em all, is battling for nearly 1,000 this season.

He has piled up his heaviest casualty list in the history of the major leagues. His victims include: Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, Zack Wheat and Joe Harris. All of them have played their last game in big-time company. There aren't many veterans left in the National Nuisance now.

GRIDIRON WONDER TO PLAY AGAIN

Despite reports of serious accident to knee, which was thought to have ended his playing days, it's now announced that Red Grange hasn't been hurt seriously and will be able to continue his professional football engagements.

When next year rolls around, Herb Pennock, the Yankee's slick southpaw, will be one of the oldest, if not the oldest star of the American league. Of course, there's Bob Shawkey, too, but Bob isn't twirling regularly these days.

In the National league of Grover Cleveland Alexander apparently is destined to go on forever. Grover will just about hog the limelight in 1928, especially in view of the fact that his companion veteran, Walter Johnson, has quit Washington and is going to operate the Newark club in the International league.

Of course, Benzy Bancroft doesn't date back to the Johnson-

Alexander days, but when you come to look at it, he's rather aged from a baseball point of view. And his longevity is all the more remarkable when you stop to consider that he's an infielder—and generally infielders are short-lived.

The game's going to lose a lot of its dash and ogle with the passing of these nationally known figures. Baseball can't very well stand the loss, at one fell swoop, of such men as Cobb, Speaker, Collins, Wheat, Johnson and Harris.

Who's going to replace them? That's what the magnates, as well as the fans, would like to know.

They don't seem to grow Cobb and Johnsons these days!

Four Artists To Be in Eastland

Four of the great musical artists of the world will be presented in concert this season at the Eastland high school auditorium in a course of concerts arranged with a view of giving to people of this vicinity a number of entertainments which will be of an unusually enjoyable order. The first of the series, a program of Spanish and English songs, will be given by Jose Mojica, popular young tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera, whose "Spanish Hour" in costume, which is a part of his novel program, has delighted many hearers in all parts of the United States. Senor Mojica will sing in Eastland Friday night, October 28th.

The second concert of the series by Francis MacMillen, eminent American violinist, will give an opportunity to hear a real Stradivarius violin played by a master.

The third concert of the group, March 7, will be given by Alberto Salvi, the world's greatest harpist, and Laura Townsley McCoy, soprano, in a joint program.

CISCO ROAD BUILDING

THROCKMORTON, Oct. 22.—The Cisco and Northeastern is rapidly building into Throckmorton. About nine miles of dump has been completed. Five crews are at work between Woodson and Throckmorton and six crews between Breckenridge and Woodson. Contracts have been let for all bridge work on the road. The contractors began work on one of the bridges this week.

EASTLAND IN BIG UPSET TO DOWN RANGER

The greatest upset in Oil Belt district football in several years occurred Friday afternoon when Eastland high school completely smothered the Ranger attack and after nearly four quarters of intensive effort finally succeeded in putting over a touchdown and kicking goal for a score of 7 to 0. The game was the big feature of the Ranger Jubilee and Homecoming and was attended by a crowd estimate at 8,000 persons. Many from Cisco were among those who attended.

Eastland, which had made a rather indifferent showing against Breckenridge recently, appeared like an entirely different team Friday. Coach Dave Pena had injected high life into his attack, which had wavered in the Breckenridge game, while the defensive wall played an even greater game than it did against the Buckaroo team when it prevented a single score to be made against it. Ranger, on the other hand, had been touted to win the game, and those gentlemen who cared to risk their shoddy reputations to have found few takers of even 50 point money. The Bulldogs were sluggish, were stopped at every attempt to break through the Eastland line, and could do nothing with an aerial attack.

Bull Johnson, who last year as a member of the Stephenville high team, was instrumental in leading Ranger to its only defeat of the year, again did that trick when with his excellent passing and final plunge over the line in the last few minutes of the final quarter made the lone touchdown of the game. Johnson was the offensive star for Eastland throughout the contest, ripping through or around the Bulldog line frequently. He was closely seconded by Osburn and Overly.

TURN TO PAGE 8, COLUMN 2

Short Twins and Hubbard Ruled Out at Ranger; Andrus Put Off Abilene Team; Jobe Now in Doubt

The ineligibility axe fell heavily at Eastland Friday night when the district interscholastic league committee met and considered evidence concerning doubtful players on all teams in the district. When the meeting had adjourned, it was found that Breckenridge was the only school which had escaped the inquiry. Three men had been ousted from the Ranger team which had already lost heavily through ineligibility; Bull Johnson of Eastland was ruled entirely eligible; all San Angelo players, including Red Haley, star fullback, who had been questioned, were ruled eligible for competition; four Abilene men were ruled off the team until further proof is presented; and two Cisco players were placed. In doubt. Most of those declared ineligible will have opportunity to present further proof if such is available, but until such proof is favorably acted upon they are unable to play.

Following rulings on the questionable players, the committee discussed the question of tie games, and finally decided to adopt the rule used by the state league of officials in deciding inter-district games, awarding the game to the team which penetrates the opposing side's 20-yard zone the greatest number of times. Breckenridge opposed application of the rule to the Breckenridge-Eastland game which had resulted in a tie. It was asserted that it would be unfair to enact a rule which would be retroactive. After extended discussion, it was decided not to take action on this phase of the matter awaiting developments in the district race which might make a ruling unnecessary.

In taking up the question of ineligible, the committee called Abilene first. Farris was ruled ineligible until he is able to prove he is not above the prescribed age limit of 20 years. LeVurie Andrus, former Cisco high school player who has been counted on heavily by Abilene to hold down an end position, was likewise ruled out until he can clear up the charge that he has already played four years of football. On his 1924 eligibility blank, Andrus is said to have stated he played with Gorman in 1923, which fact would indicate he had played four years of football. Black was ruled eligible, but another Abilene man whose parents are separated was questioned and ruled out until the matter of his legal residence is ruled upon. Britton, star from Stephenville upon whom the Eagles have been basing much of their hopes for a district championship, appeared before the committee with his father, and was heard for two hours. At the conclusion, however, he was ruled ineligible by unanimous vote of the committee.

No members of the Breckenridge team were found questionable and the committee then discussed the Cisco team. Ernest Jobe's eligibility was challenged on the basis of his eligibility card signed this year, and he will be on the sideline until he can clear up the matter. Ezzeil was also challenged and will be out until he can establish positive proof of his age.

Bill Johnson was the only Eastland player brought into doubt, but after his transfer from Stephenville was introduced, his eligibility was established. An attempt was made to prove eligibility of three of the four Ranger players most recently brought into doubt, with the result that one, David Whitehall, was approved. The Short twins, Homer and Victor, one a backfield man and the other a line star, were disqualified until they are able to establish proof as to their age prior to 1919 on September 1 of which year their eligibility cards show them to have been 12 years of age, making them 20 this year on that date and therefore ineligible. A sworn statement from a physician and a family Bible were introduced to show the boys were born September 5, 1907, which would have made them eligible. However, neither of these had been recorded and had no weight with the committee. Seth Hubbard of Ranger was ruled out because of his age.

All the San Angelo players whose eligibility had been questioned because they did not have proper transfer at the time of the recent Breckenridge game were ruled eligible for participation. These included Red Haley, halfback as one of the greatest fullbacks in the district this season.

MAN WITHOUT A BASEBALL COUNTRY

Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, subject of one of the most baffling baseball problems in years, frankly admits being a "man without a baseball country."

Conceded to be one of the three premier outfielders of the major leagues, Cuyler was relegated into boxscore obscurity last season, when he was fined and benched by Manager Dome Bush of the Pittsburgh team. Indifferent playing was given as the official explanation for his suspension, but many ugly rumors followed in its wake, none of which were confirmed.

Day in and day out, Kiki warmed the bench. Even during the World's Series, when his services were obviously needed, Manager Bush doggedly refused to call upon him to fill a menacing gap.

Kiki won't be with Pittsburgh next year. That's a certainty. But directors-in-chief of the disappointing Pirate team, from President Dreyfus down to Manager Bush, mysteriously refuse to divulge their plans. As for Kiki, he admits being in the dark.

"I don't know what it's all about," he says. "I'm like the guy without a country—as far as baseball is concerned."

Boy's Picture To Decorate New Stamp

BUCHAREST, Oct. 22.—The Queen Mother, Helen of Rumania, has just made the selection of the photograph of her little son, the boy-king, Mihai I, to be used for the new stamp soon to be printed. She hesitated for some time. The collection was a large one. One photograph showed the little boy serious and pensive; another showed his eyes bright and alert; and still another, happy and smiling. It is the latter that Queen Helen has chosen, a little bust portrait with Mihai wearing a white silk blouse, low collar and white tie. He is smiling.

Total gross and net balances to the credit of all funds are as follows:

Year ending August 31, 1927, $13,726,450, with outstanding warrants amounting to the approximate sum of $3,621,869.

Some of the important funds show the following balances at close of fiscal year ending August 31, 1926, and August 31, 1927, with the estimated amounts of outstanding warrants and estimated balances:

Fund Bal 1926 Bal 1927
Gen. revenue $7,514,576 $3,592,087

Av. school 1,639,987 1,839,286
State highway 687,168 6,362,879

Special game 212,410 415,469
Fed. vocation 25,769 19,867

Univ. of Texas 34,032 96,818
Univ. of Texas fee 27,569 33,493

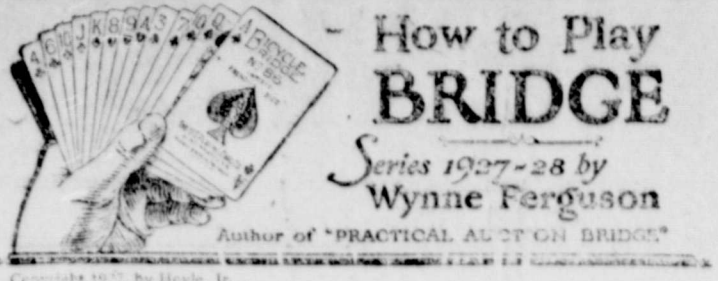

Perm. univ. 265,484 64,218
Univ. of Texas med. br. 43,477 17,777

Conf. pension 276,083 288,205
State tax book 58,306 355,628

This shows that the general revenue fund August 31, 1926, had to its credit about four million dollars more than the amount shown for the year ending August 31, 1927.

However, the state's finances are in a healthy condition, Hatcher said, for the reason that no appropriations need be made out of the general revenue to supply the public schools with funds because the gasoline tax now being collected will amount to nearly twenty million dollars a year, one-fourth of which goes to the school fund, adding between four and a half and five million dollars to this fund.

How to Play BRIDGE Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL ALICE ON BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 1

It is really surprising what simple mistakes often are made by players who think they play a pretty fair game. Here are several examples that the writer noticed in a recent game:

Clubs—J, 7, 6, 3, 2
Diamonds—K, 7, 6, 3, 2
Spades—J, 10, 8

♠ dealt, bid one spade, A and Y passed and B bid two hearts. Z bid two spades, all passed and A opened the ten of hearts. Z's proper play, of course, is the king of hearts in dummy. B must either win in this trick with the ace or allow the king to hold. If he wins the trick, Z must win the next two heart tricks, for he holds the queen nine of hearts over B's jack. If B should fail to play the ace, Z must win one more trick with the queen of hearts. In either event, therefore, by playing the king of hearts at trick one, Z is sure of two tricks, no matter how B plays. In the actual play, however, Z made a serious mistake. When the ten of hearts was led, he played the ten of hearts from Y's hand and B also played low. Z was thus forced to win the trick with the queen and B now held the ace jack of hearts over Y's king and was, therefore, assured of two tricks. In this hand, however, were not over. After winning the first sort trick with the queen, he led a low diamond and won the trick in Y's hand with the king. He now had two possible is playing the hand, spades are trumped and Y's hand is in the lead. He has two possible finesses, one in clubs and one in spades. If he leads the jack of clubs, he is sure of the balance of the tricks for if B covers with the king, Z will play his ace and put Y's hand again in the lead with the ten of clubs. He can then finesse the spades. If B doesn't cover the jack of clubs, Z should then play the low spade and finesse the queen. He should then play first the ace of clubs and then a small club and trump in Y's hand. He can then trump a heart, and the ace of spades and his clubs are good. Played in either of these ways,

Y-Z can win all of the tricks.

Suppose, however, that Z at trick one takes the spade finesse before the club finesse. He will win, of course, but how can he get Y's hand in again to make the club finesse? He would thus have to lose a club trick and win one less trick than if he had first taken the club finesse.

There are numberless hands where these principles should be applied, so study them carefully and if you thoroughly understand them you will win many a game and rubber that you could not win otherwise.

HIGHWAY CASE TAKEN FROM JURY BY JUDGE

EASTLAND, Oct. 22.—Judge Elza Reed of the 88th district court before whom a motion for a change of venue offered by the defendants in the cases of Eastland county vs. Smith Bros., contractors on Eastland county road, is being heard, withdrew the case from the jury and will pass on it himself.

The motion alleges that the defendants cannot get a fair and impartial trial in Eastland county because of prejudices alleged to exist against the road contractors. Plaintiffs objected to the hearing being put before a jury. The defendants insisted, however, and a jury was ordered. The defense had spent two days or more putting on testimony before the jury.

When the defense had rested on its motion, counsel for the plaintiff offered a motion to withdraw the case from the jury and for a pre-emptory instruction from the court. Judge Reed granted the motion as to withdrawing the case from the jury, but overruled that portion pertaining to the pre-emptory instructions.

The case is now in progress before the court, the jury having been discharged.

LARGEST BATH HOUSE PLAN FOR CORPUS

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 22.—Plans have been completed for the erection here of one of the largest bath houses, pavilion and apartment structures in the United States, according to announcement made by Norman Collins, president of the North Beach Bath House company, Inc. The new beach pleasure resort will be located on the present site of the company's property at North Beach.

Plans call for a bath house with a capacity of 5000 persons at one time. The second floor will be used as a theater and dance hall. Adjoining this will be a three-story apartment building with 100 rooms. All buildings will be of Spanish type of architecture. A board walk half a mile in length will be built along the edge of the water. The estimate cost of the project is placed at $500,000.

Contrary to the general belief that Indians are without sentiment and lack the kinder feelings of humanity, David I. Bushnell, of the Smithsonian Institution, asserts that they often subject themselves to many kinds of self-inflicted pain to prove their agony at the death of a loved one, such as bespunging their bodies with white clay, cutting out pieces of their skin and flesh, passing arrows through their skin, and walking barefoot on the march.

FIVE NEW WELLS SPUDDING IN CROSS PLAINS FIELD

Orrell Test, Although Proving Big Disappointment, Extends Productive Area Great Distance; Other Activity

CROSS PLAINS, Oct. 22.—Completions have failed to score the expected points of interest over the week in the new Cross Plains field, but with five new locations spudding and an additional number of wells drilling, the territory has lost nothing in point of development over previous weeks.

Some disappointment has been registered over the outcome of the Skelly Oil company test on the A. W. Orrell land a quarter mile in outside territory, where a probable ten barrel well is being completed, but a heavy body of sand was found at exactly the proper depth, and when fully analyzed the result of the test appears likely to prove a big extension of territory with the light production of the present well accounted for by a "freak" hard spot in the sand; a condition that is found common in that territory.

This test topped the pay at 1643 feet and drilled 30 feet of hard but pure sand to 1673 feet. Allowing for surface elevation this sand record conforms perfectly with the heavy producers in the proven areas to the northwest.

The sand was apparently well saturated with oil but due to the extremely hard nature of the pay it gave up practically no oil while being drilled, but on Wednesday of the week after a shot had been used about 200 feet of oil was standing in the hole while the well was being cleaned out, proving the concept of structure regardless of the volume of production that develops from the present well.

A full mile to the north and testing outside territory in that direction the Prairie Oil & Gas company is at 1200 feet on a location in the northeast corner of the T. E. Baum tract, and offsetting this operation to the north the Mook Texas company and Wakefield are drilling up a better lot at 500 feet, on their location in the southeast corner of the E. E. Baum land. Two of the new locations of the week are offset to the east of these drilling wells and are both being drilled by J. G. Bradstreet on No. 2 and No. 3 locations on the Waller land, in outside territory due north of Bradstreet's extension discovery on the same lease. No. 2 of these wells is at 500 feet and No. 3 is down 400 feet.

An interesting feature of development in that quarter is the discovery of a promising sand at 617 to 655 feet in the Prairie well, and though not of sufficient quantity to promise commercial production the entire stratum carried oil and is leading to much speculation on the prospects for the development of another shallow field further out in the territory in that direction.

The same sand was also found in the old original discovery well of the field with a similar showing of oil but has not been found in other wells. This is perhaps accounted for by the fact that this location is almost directly east of the discovery and all other development has been to the south of this line. An approximate half mile of territory divides this location from the old discovery well, giving an apparent equal distance that is underlain by this shallow sand. The other tests of the group mentioned in that vicinity are now near this depth and are being watched closely for the showing from this pay, this interest especially centers around Bradstreet's Waller No. 3 located 600 feet to the northeast of the Prairie well in an absolutely virgin area.

This run of development leading out to the northeast from the proven field is also being watched in volume with new work that has opened up at the extreme west edge of the field in the vicinity of the recent extension of the Navarro Oil company in the northeast corner of the Bennett and Booth land.

Offsetting the Navarro well to the east, Shaw & Rathke have moved in rotary tools to a location on the Miller land and are now drilling at 500 feet, offsetting this location to the north the Prairie Oil & Gas company is spudding a location on the Ida Webb tract, and further to the west on the same tract these owners are spudding an offset to the Navarro producer.

At the extreme southwest edge of the field, Brown & Co. Inc., are now drilling a delayed offset to the original discovery well of that territory, located to the west of the discovery and leading a location distance into outside territory. This well is now drilling at 600 feet. Other locations scattered over territory edging the field continue to follow the apparent intention of all lease owners to test out the territory, rather than develop inside locations that are largely proven.

'THE DUMP' AT EL PASO GIVEN NAME BY FIGHT

EL PASO, Oct. 22.—Through a series of newspaper stories a saloon at El Paso's new "hole in the wall" has been named "The Dump."

The "hole in the wall" is a five minutes ride from El Paso's business district. One steps across the international line, on dry land, into Mexico. It is not an official port and, therefore, the line may be crossed all night, drinkers returning to El Paso as long as they are not aliens. The official port closes at 9 o'clock.

Deputy Constable Juan Escobedo went to the saloon and had a fight. He declared in interviews with the newspapers next day that the saloon was "a dump."

Manuel Mangula, owner, at first denied the accusation that his establishment was a dump.

The result was that the place went on the boom, El Pasoans going down to see if it really were a "dump."

Mangula, taking advantage of the front page advertising, officially named his place "The Dump."

Now as a result of the widespread publicity, the place is crowded nightly. It consists of a great building of sheet iron with sawdust on the floor. Tables are set around and folks sit down and drink beer and the best of wines and liquors. "The Dump" prospers.

Blanton Attacks U. S. Efficiency Bureau as Inefficient; Local Congressman Hits Waste of Funds

LEGION MEN BOUGHT ODD SOUVENIRS

By ALICE LANGELEIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 22. — Cocktail shakers, hip flasks, liquor glasses, shakers and all other contrivances for mixing cocktails and other drinks were the main purchases of the American Legionnaires during their recent stay in the French capital. A spirit case, looking like a richly bound book and bearing the title "The Spirit of Our Ancestors" also met with considerable success. There was also a big run on little statuettes of Napoleon in his characteristic attitude, with one hand under his waistcoat, and almost as many of Jeanne d'Arc were bought. The thing that astonished the French merchants was the large quantity of French automobile horns carried away by the American veterans. The little mascot, the petit doll, called "Alfred," also made a big appeal to the men.

But if the Americans took away a large number of souvenirs, there were a few of them who left some behind them. One was Dr. A. P. Millmore, of Cottonwood, Minn., who increased the gold reserve of the Bank of France to the tune of 415 gold francs.

The cashier could hardly believe his eyes when Dr. Millmore strolled in the bank one morning and produced the sparkling gold coins. The doctor says he found them while clearing up his estate in Minnesota, and his guess is that they were brought to America by some immigrant from France many years ago.

Another Legionnaire from Illinois left a little souvenir of a real American greenback behind him. "Here are five good dollars," he said to his hotel proprietor where he had been well taken care of during his sojourn in Paris. "I want to reserve that same room during our next convention so take this money."

"Certainly, I shall be delighted," replied the hotel keeper, "at what date, please?"

"That will be in 1937!"

After a little hesitation, the money was accepted just the same and the Legionnaire went away in full confidence.

The committee of the American Legion which undertook to help put the French people in touch with certain veterans they had known during the war, received many amusing inquiries. The following letter was among them: "Monsieur the Director: "I am taking advantage of your kind offer to ask you if an American soldier who lived with my parents a short time before the Armistice is in the group of Legionnaires. I have corresponded with him a little but for the moment I have completely forgotten his name, but I am sure it will be easy for you to find him, for he is not very tall and he comes from Texas."

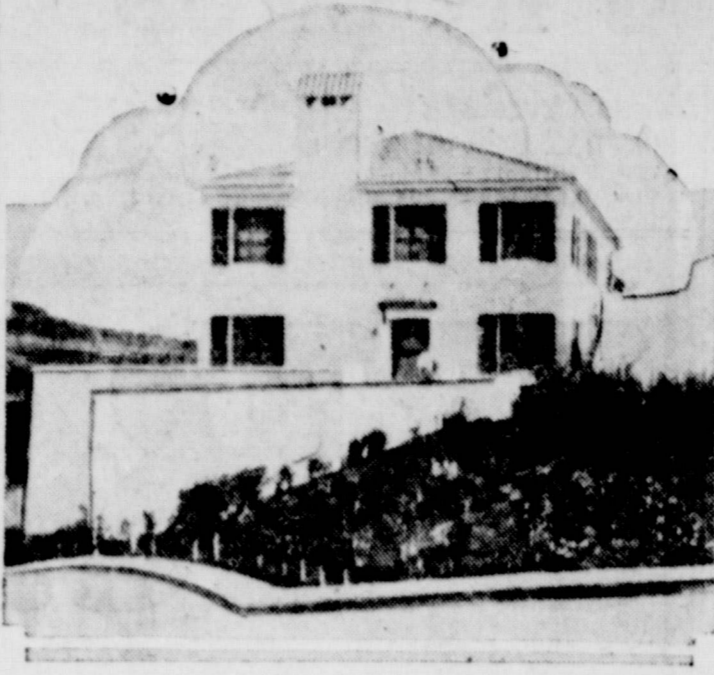

In spite of this description, the American was not discovered.

Another federal bureau has fallen under the ban of Blanton, according to a story in the Washington Herald recently.

The following is the story: "Bureau of Efficiency! It ought to be called the Bureau of Inefficiency. I shall offer a resolution in the next congress abolishing the organization!"

Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas, erstwhile valiant defender of the organization headed by Herbert D. Brown, pounded his office table with a heavy fist yesterday afternoon as he poured verbal broadsides one after the other into the Bureau of Efficiency.

"The way the bureau is being operated now is nothing less than a waste of public funds," Blanton declared. "When the organization was created, several years ago, it was intended to limit its activities entirely to Federal Bureaus and departments, of which there are more than one hundred.

Warns Them All
"During the past several months, however, this purpose has been entirely neglected, while the bureau's highly trained experts spend their time prying into District affairs, over which they have absolutely no jurisdiction. There was a time when I thought the bureau was doing good work—but that time has passed. In my opinion, it is now the most inefficient organization in the world."

His efforts in the next congress will be directed toward a "complete housecleaning" of the present personnel and the formation of another bureau to attend strictly to federal affairs and leave the district alone.

Police Methods
"In addition to inefficiency and usurpation of powers of District officials, Blanton charged bureau investigators with using 'intimidation' and 'police methods' in questioning District employees in question of their departments. He backs this last charge with reports from employees of former Traffic Director Yedridge's office, declaring Kerlin and Wilson, bureau experts, used 'insulting, intimidating and inefficient' methods in their investigation of the 'traffic light scandal.'"

Herbert D. Brown was described by Blanton as a "czar" who virtually "forces the bureau's recommendations down the District Commissioners' throats."

One recent action of the bureau which especially has aroused Blanton's ire, is the rendering of a legal opinion that hotels have the right to rent space in the public streets adjoining their establishments to taxi companies for cab stands.

His Taxi Monopoly
"We'll see whether the bureau is going to control the streets here," Blanton declared. "I will fight harder than ever in the next congress to keep the 'taxi monopoly' from crowding citizens off the streets and the 'hotel ring' from profiting on space that belongs to the taxpayers."

Chairman Brown appeared highly disturbed over the Blanton charges yesterday afternoon when a Washington Herald reporter attempted to interview him. "I refuse to make a statement," he declared.

as he hung up the telephone receiver. Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty also declined to express an opinion, as did also Lieut. Mina C. Van Winkle of the Women's bureau. Mrs. Van Winkle recently scored heavily the bureau's recommendation that children under 17 years of age be removed from the care of the House of Detention.

Has Other Foes
Representative Blanton is not alone in his opinion of the Bureau of Efficiency. Attacks against the acts and methods of the bureau have raged on the floor of congress on several occasions, springing both from members of congress and from organizations within the district. One of the most recent of such moves was started by the district convention of the American Legion in August, this year, when it passed a resolution to abolish the bureau by a vote of 65 to 3.

The custom of wearing orange blossoms in the bridal veil is believed to have originated at the time a French nobleman in the Spanish court bribed the royal gardener's daughter, in love with a man too poor to marry, to secure for him a small plant of a jealously guarded orange tree for his own garden. Rejoicing over the fact that the bride enabled her to marry, the bride entwined orange blossoms in her hair.

$25,000,000 IN INDIAN ESTATE IN COURT FIGHT

OKMULGEE, Okla., Oct. 22.—Tragedy and grievous death in a crab setting of 40 years formed the background for an Indian estate tangle, which has caused 60 attorneys to appear before a federal referee to determine the rightful heirs of oil lease lands valued at $25,000,000.

It is over a 100 acre tract of land in northwest Creek county, in section 27-17-7, between Drumright and Shamrock, that heirs of Ullie Eagle, Creek girl, are now battling.

Ullie Eagle, enrolled as a Creek, died a violent death in 1902. Dave Eagle, father of Ullie, was shot and killed in 1890, when Oklahoma county was nothing but unimproved prairie land. Tochee, widowed mother of Ullie, maintained the Oklahoma county homestead with her son but tired of the struggle, and March 6, 1894 died, leaving Ullie, then about 4 years old, to the care of an Indian woman, called Sella, said to have been Tochee's grandmother.

When the last roll was made of the Creek people, Ullie was registered with Sella. Later, Sella died and the little brown skinned orphan girl, who had been shifted from one home to another, was rescued by Paro Bear and his wife, Hocton or Hanna, who had no children. They agreed to raise the child as their own.

Late on Sunday in the summer of 1902, little Ullie and Hanna were found hanged in their little log cabin near where the postoffice of Tuskegee now stands. Neighbors were skeptical and relatives of Hanna demanded a federal investigation. Paro Bear was questioned but the theory of murder and suicide persisted.

Both bodies were dressed neatly and revealed no marks of violence, except the faint rope around the necks. Paro Bear was released for want of sufficient evidence.

He returned to his old home in Oklahoma territory and a few years later murdered Jack Larney. For this crime, he was found guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to prison.

Dark, grim walls and long days of solitude took their toll and Bear died in prison before completing a heavy sentence. Another link in the kinship chain was removed.

Discovery of oil in great quantities on the land was the signal for a mad scramble for the property, and alleged relatives of the child who was hanged were resurrected from all parts of the Creek nation. Several hundred have presented claims as heirs to the property.

In the past five years, lawsuit after lawsuit has been filed and fought in courts at Okmulgee and Sapulpa, but the dispute over ownership of the Eagle estate still is unsettled.

It is the opinion of attorneys that the wrangle over sudden riches is far from completed. To date, none of the kinsman has benefited from the estate, as the earnings are held in trust by the government.

Jumbled records of early day Indian rolls may play a part in delaying a final settlement of the case. Three months of digging into history and revelations of the genealogy of Ullie, Hanna and Bear is in prospect for the federal government.

Girl Shows Broadway How to Make Art Pay

Young Star's Success Proves Women Know What Public Wants

BY SHIRLEY KIRKE

International Illustrated News Staff Correspc.

Chalk up another triumph for the supposedly inferior sex over the boastful male!

For years the "wise" showmen of Broadway have claimed that art doesn't pay—that the public wants trash, sex and hokum—that the worth-while things of the theatre are box-office failures.

Eva Le Gallienne always thought Broadway was wrong. The daughter of the noted poet, Richard Le Gallienne, she has gravitated naturally toward the better things in the world of art. When she took up a stage career, she identified herself only with first-class productions.

Emerging rapidly as a star, and with the promise of many profitable engagements ahead of her as her services always were in demand, Miss Le Gallienne eventually found herself able to realize her dreams.

She took possession of an old theatre, far from the white light belt, and installed her own company.

Last year, when she announced her repertoire of plays, the "wise" producers laughed up their sleeves and predicted quick failure.

"Too highbrow," they chuckled. But they soon found out they were mistaken—just as mistaken as they were in the case of another woman who had faith, Anne Nichols.

The public wasn't slow in responding. And Broadway discovered there was a large patronage for plays of the better class. And that theatregoers didn't mind traveling far from the lobster belt to see these productions.

And now—naturally—Broadway thinks Eva Le Gallienne is a "smart" manager!

All the producers who were laughing at her last year, are now going around and saying that great old Broadway line: "I told you so!"

ARCTIC YIELDS RARE SPECIMENS FOR SCIENTISTS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21.—Without a guide, having only maps and a compass to guide them, and enduring untold hardships hardly believable an expedition led by Reinhold L. Fricke, taxidermist of the Carnegie Museum of this city, returned recently from a trip into the sparsely populated country of Northern Alberta, Canada, which lies along the Great Slave Lake, bringing back with them 300 mounted rare birds, 50 mounted small animals and 15 sets of rare eggs. This collection, said to be the only one of its kind in this country, has been added to the Museum.

3,000 Mile Trip

The expedition, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Raup, botanists of the University of Pittsburgh, Miss Katherine Raup and Fricke began their rather unusual trip last May from Port Smith, Alberta. Their almost three thousand mile trip was made by boat, canoe and train, Fricke said.

Fricke explained in order to procure his specimens he had to work fast, as the birds had already begun migrating from the lake when the party arrived. He said he was forced to work from 5 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 at night to be able to shoot and mount his bird-skins and pelts.

Wicked Mosquitoes

Long head nets had to be worn during the day to guard against the voraciousness of mosquitoes that infest that country in the summer and whose size, Fricke said he has never seen before, the insects being larger than the famous New Jersey breed.

Black flies are also plentiful, Fricke asserted and swam in such numbers that some times they obliterated the sun. "The mercury sometimes reached 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

The Great Slave Lake district, is sparsely inhabited, according to Fricke. Indians are the only natives. This country boasts of a weekly train. Gasoline costs $2 a gallon and "fags" are sold at 50¢ a package. The days are 20 hours long in summer.

Gorman Man Beaten By Two Assailants

GORMAN, Oct. 22.—W. P. Todd, who operates a hand laundry here was severely beaten up by two unknown men whom he avoike to find in his room. They demanded money from him and when he told them he had none they proceeded to give him a severe beating. He had to have medical attention after they had done their work. He does not know the men and it was so dark and he has no idea what they look like. The same night some young girls were chased home by a preacher who ran them home. They also do not know the ones who did it but the officers are working on both cases.

C. O. Pass Employees Fighting To Keep From Second Helping of Beans In Annual Automobile Sales Contest

Another "turkey and bean" luncheon is to be held this year with C. O. Pass Chevrolet company employees eating either the turkey or the beans, depending on their sales between now and October 31. The company is now in a contest with the Capitol Motor company and the Wright Chevrolet company of Abilene, and the company selling the most cars will feast at the expense of the other. The winners will eat turkey while the losers will eat beans. Last year the C. O. Pass employees had to eat beans while the Gray Chevrolet company of Rising Star feasted on turkey at their expense. The local salesmen expect it to be different this year.

Following is the menu for the bean part of the banquet:

- Bean Cocktail, Chili, Billie, Bean, Purée, a la Jackson (plain bean soup), Choice of: Oven baked beans, without pork, oven baked beans, without tomato sauce, oven baked beans, without pork and tomato sauce, oven baked beans, without pork, tomato sauce or chili sauce, Choice of: String bean salad or kidney bean salad without dressing, Succotash, without corn, Navy bean sundae, Jelly beans, Spring water, bean life fluid, feed ten without tea, Decorations: Kentucky wonder bean vines, mingled with catalpa bean designs, Favors, bean bags, bean shooters, Mexican jumping beans, Music, song, "Where Has My Lima Bean?"

AFECTIONATE NOW — BUT WAIT!

HATCHERIES TO SEND OUT FINGERLINGS

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—Four state fish hatcheries now in operation will begin distribution of "fingerlings" or small fish during the last week in October. Will J. Tucker, game, fish and oyster commissioner, said today.

Delivery of fingerlings to appl-counts for stocking pools and streams in all sections of the state will be by motor truck at the state's expense, except in cases where applicants visit the hatcheries themselves. Distribution of bass is made only in the spring.

While the work of distributing small fish from the Dallas, Tyler, Kerrville and Cisco hatcheries is under way, workmen will be engaged in stocking the new Wichita Falls hatchery, just being completed, with brood fish caught in Lake Kemp and Dispersion Lake about 25 miles southwest of Wichita Falls.

The new hatchery will be stocked with the same species of fish as the others, including broom, war-mouth bass, rock bass, large mouth black bass, a few Kentucky bass, catfish, crappie, channel cat and blue catfish.

each of whom made excellent runs. Eastland was the aggressor throughout the contest, as is shown by the fact that the Mavericks scored 17 first downs to Ranger's three. The defense, led by Jimmy King, was superb, and Ranger could do nothing against it, and each time it obtained the ball was forced to kick.

Eastland fought steadily throughout the battle to advance within scoring distance and at one time in the third quarter got within one yard of the goal line on a 20-yard run by Osburn. Two bucks failed to take the ball over, and an incomplete pass went over the goal line, giving Ranger the ball.

The scoring drive began just before the game ended. Eastland gained possession of the ball on Ranger's 40 yard line to begin the touchdown drive. Osburn ran the line for four yards and a pass, Johnson to Vaughn, netted 15 yards and a first down. And on another pass, Johnson to Osburn, gained 14 yards. Osburn made a sensational catch of the pigskin to complete the mess. Johnson and Osburn gained five yards through the line and then Johnson went over for the touchdown. He added the extra point.

The line up follows:

Ranger	Position	Eastland
Trammell	Left End	Vaughn
V. Short	Left Guard	Mackell
Bohanon	Center	Thompson
Tackett	Right Guard	Dabney
T. Hinman	Right Tackle	J. King
D. Whitehall	Right End	Foster
Reeves	Quarter	Overby
Hammitt	Left Half	Osborne
H. Short	Right Half	G. C. Smith
G. Hinman	Fullback	Johnson

Eastland pulled an iron man stunt in winning the game as Coach Dave Penn did not make a substitution during the fray.

Substitutions—Ranger: Hamilton for H. Short; McLaughlin for Trammell; Blackmon for D. Whitehall; Trammell for Tackett; D. Whitehall for H. Short; Nourse for Trammell; Tully for Nourse; Hamilton for Trammell; Bumper for Mitchell.

First downs—Ranger three, Eastland 17.

Passes—Ranger attempted four, completed one for nine yards, two incomplete, one intercepted. Eastland attempted 16, completed eight for 101 yards.

Penalties—Ranger five for 30 yards; Eastland eight for 80 yards. Officials—Sweeney (Bethany), referee; Minton (Indiana), umpire; Curtis (Texas), head linesman; Fouts (Baylor), field judge.

SON OF DEAF MUTES PROVE PUZZLE TO ALL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 22.—"Psychological deafness" is an unusual case which investigators at school No. 9 here are attempting to unravel in their experiments with William Tladis, six year old child who can apparently neither hear nor speak.

The boy was brought here by his parents, who are both deaf mutes, and who employ the sign language.

Because of his youth, the child could not be sent to the Indiana school for the deaf, and he was brought to public school No. 9, where a class called "a typical B" is maintained for subnormal students.

Young Tladis never has spoken a word, his parents said, nor has he ever given an indication that he heard anything that was going on. He was brought here in the hope that he could be taught through lip reading or other methods.

The teachers, however, made discoveries which pointed to the conclusion that the child is neither deaf nor dumb. According to the theory investigators are trying to prove, Tladis has never learned to hear or to interpret the waves which to other persons are sound. Experiments are being carried out on the basis of a belief that once the self imposed veil of silence is broken, the child will be normal.

SPEECHES OF WALES SHOW VERSATILITY

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Prince of Wales is introduced to the literary world as one of Britain's most versatile orators in a volume of his speeches made between the years 1912 and 1926. The volume is published at 85, and all profits accruing therefrom will be devoted to the various charities in which the Prince is interested.

Though unkind critics will in all probability retort that the majority of the Prince's speeches are prepared for him, the book reveals the Prince as an orator of wide vision, a master of tactful phraseology, a deep thinker, a keen observer, a verbal architect, with the right word for every occasion, according to English literary critics.

"Sympathy, appreciation and insight are the predominant notes of this interesting book of speeches delivered in all parts of the world," remarks the Daily Express.

The volume reveals that the Prince made his first public speech at the age of seventeen, when he was invested as Prince of Wales at Carnarvon Castle. His first speech was brief, and was as follows: "I will never forget the day as long as I live... one which brought you a new friend. He is, it is true, a young friend, but I have great examples before me. I hope to do my duty to my King, to Wales, and to you all."

Since the conclusion of the world war the Prince has delivered hundreds of speeches, in places as wide apart as London, Melbourne, Washington and Montreal, where he spoke in both English and French.

Each acre will produce a crop of upwards of $500 in value it is estimated.

Eight thousand acres of the valuable land are awaiting reclamation, it is said.

Boris, Bachelor King, Is Also Teetotaler

SOPHIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 22.—Little Bulgaria boasts of the only teetotaler-king in all of Europe. King Boris, young and still unmarried, never touches a drop of alcohol.

When a very small child, and not yet heir to the throne, His Majesty was greatly affected by a death brawl between two Bulgarian officers under the influence of liquor. He resolved at that moment never to drink and has kept his word. More than that, he hopes that his royal example will, in time, bring about a "dry" army in Bulgaria.

First Methodist Church WELCOME! STRANGER AND VISITOR!

THE MODERN TELEPHONE EXCHANGE HAS GROWN FROM HUMBLE BEGINNING

The new building of the New York Telephone Company in New York City to house eight large central offices—the first telephone exchange opened in Boston in 1877.

It is a far cry from the first telephone exchanges were as near the roof of the buildings in which they were located as possible, for at that time all circuits entered the buildings which served as exchanges by way of the roof. A frame structure which was subject to damage from weather conditions was erected on the roof to support the wires, and during the first two years of the telephone's commercial existence very few poles were erected, most of the wires being strung on rooftops and walls.

Nowadays, in the larger communities, telephone wires are in underground cables, and instead of entering the central offices by way of the roof they pass into cable vaults without being exposed to the vagaries of the weather and emerge in what is known as the terminal room on their way to the switchboard.

A striking example of the evolution of the telephone exchange building is the new building now being completed in New York City by the New York Telephone Company. This building will house the largest telephone exchange in the world. It will provide office space and room for eight full size central offices capable of serving 120,000 stations in the downtown section. In fact, it will house more telephone equipment than is found in some entire European countries. Along its walls and through its floors will course the greatest quantity of telephone wiring ever assembled in one building. There will be more than 168,000 miles of wire, or enough to encircle the globe nearly seven times. Besides being 20 floors in height above the ground, there are five floors below the street level, and in the sub-basements will converge a total of more than 400 lead covered cables, containing 693,000 separate wires.

New Textbook Scandal Nipped

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—What at first appeared to develop into a textbook scandal was narrowly averted today when charges were made to the textbook commission that a member of the lower house of the legislature had been employed by the American Book company and whose name was not listed among their employees when the list was filed with the state board of education. Investigation revealed the man in question had terminated his connection with the company more than year ago, and therefore should not be listed. The member was H. D. Brown, chairman of the house committee.

Among the quaint wedding customs still observed in parts of the British Isles is the practice of tying a basket of stones on the bridegroom's back with a rope which the bride cuts, symbolizing relieving him of his burdens.

99 YEARS FOR CONATSER IS JURY VERDICT

ANSON, Oct. 22.—Lloyd Conatser, 19, charged jointly with Joyce Sheppard with killing two law officers of Fisher county last August and tried here on a charge of venue, Saturday was found guilty and sentenced to 99 years in the state penitentiary.

The jury was out 66 minutes. Seven ballots were taken, two of the jurors voting for the death penalty.

Conatser and Sheppard are accused together with killing Sheriff "Bob" Smith and Deputy Jake Evans. They are charged in separate indictments with shooting of each officer. Sheppard is to go to trial here next Wednesday morning.

Prosecution and defense closed argument Saturday. Mrs. Bob Smith, widow of the dead sheriff and mother of a baby born shortly after her husband was slain, sat in the courtroom as District Attorney Clem Calhoun made a plea that the jury assess the death penalty. Tears rolled down her cheeks as Calhoun talked. She hugged her baby tightly.

Attorney J. F. Cunningham, chief counsel for the defense, pleaded that Conatser was a victim of circumstances. He insisted that Conatser was "an innocent bystander; that he entered the automobile with Joyce Sheppard after Sheriff Bob Smith and Deputy Owens had served a warrant on him, charging theft of a bale of cotton. Sheppard, who is to be tried later in the same case was classed in Fisher county as a "cotton picker," although he was known also as proprietor of a dance hall by the side of the road and in which he was arrested just a few minutes before the sheriff and his deputy was slain.

Conatser took the stand in his own defense late Friday. He denied a statement previously attributed to him and supposedly signed by him in which complicity in the killings was admitted.

Sheriff O'Bar of Taylor county testified that Conatser made the statement voluntarily, although Conatser claimed otherwise. Conatser said on the stand that he had been terrified into making a confession.

It was contended by counsel for Conatser that he was bullied into the "confession" by Fred Wgaley, Abilene deputy sheriff, who, Conatser said, represented himself as an "avenging brother" of Smith, and threatened the prisoner.

Monk Collapses During Address

HOLYOKE, Mass., Oct. 22.—Brother Andre Bessette, who is credited with curing many invalids, rested Saturday in the seclusion of the Passionate Monastery at West Springfield after collapsing from exhaustion as he arose to address nearly 1,000 crippled and maimed persons who had gathered to hear the 82-year-old brother in a hotel ballroom here.

Tired by his ministrations during the day, Brother Andre—to whose little gray chapel on the slopes of Mount Royal in Montreal tens of thousands have traveled seeking cure for their illnesses—had been warned by physicians that it was inadvisable for him to deliver an address Friday night. But the brother of St. Joseph's oratory said he was unwilling to disappoint those who had gathered.

PRIZE MONEY ALL GONE

CALEXICO, Cal., Oct. 22.—Martin Jensen, winner of the $10,000 prize in the Dole-Hawaii flight, admitted here that his rewards had dwindled to a ukulele and a bar pin, after his expenses, navigator and backers had been paid. Jensen, who is here in the interests of safe aviation under the auspices of the American Aeronautical association, said that the surviving bar pin was given him by the governor of Hawaii at the end of his successful flight and the ukulele by its manufacturer, whose advertising plate it bore.

Fabrics for Fall Very Important

Perhaps never before have fabrics played such an important role as this season. Velvet...supple and sheer...in rich plain tones...or in printed design...the popular "faconne" leads all other fabrics.

Satin is a second favorite with both sides of the material used for contrast effects. Then there are the gorgeous metal fabrics and a wonderful assortment of beautiful novelty fabrics in both silk and wool. A clever designer or home-sewer can evolve a wonderful creation with a few yards of silk or velvet and metal fabric...for a mere fraction of the cost of a ready-made garment of the same type.

WAVES OF HAND TO PULL MUSIC OUT OF THE AIR

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Demonstrated here before an enthusiastically applauding audience including Albert Einstein and Gerhart Hauptmann, "Ether Waves," an instrument producing music by waves of the hand backward and forward before a highly sensitized metal pole and brass ring, has given rise to predictions that it will supplant the piano, violin, and even the orchestra.

The "Ether Waves" instrument, invention of Professor Leo Theremin of the State Physico-Technical Institute of Leningrad, may be played without practice by any person with the least musical talent. By a simple movement of the hands, the operator "pulls out of the air" a tone which rivals that of a hand of stringed instruments.

Like Singing of Wires. In principle, the "Ether Waves" constitutes a perfected and refined application to a musical instrument of the well-known fact that electric waves "sing" when an alternating current is passed through them. Professor Theremin's explanation of this principle is a remarkable instrument may cause a great revolution in the musical world as did the invention of the gramophone.

plains, declare many of Berlin's first musical critics. Resembling the polished box of a portable radio receiving set, the instrument is about a yard long, a foot deep and two feet high. Within the box is an amide battery, used to produce an alternating current which, passing through a set of radio tubes, creates in the two antennae an electromagnetic field. The antennae consist of a metal rod attached to the upper right hand corner of the box, and a brass ring attached to the lower left hand corner.

singing note of poignant quality could be heard throughout the room. The professor extended his left hand toward the brass ring and the volume of sound increased. Running the Scale. Moving his left hand towards the professor maintained a succession of crescendos and diminuendos, while with his right hand approaching and retreating from the metal rod he played the scales from the lowest discernible bass to the highest notes on the register. Even in the extremes of the scale the tone, comparable to that of a cello or of an organ pipe raised to a hitherto unattained degree of musical purity and strength, preserved its quality.

The professor apologized and explained that he was a poor musician, but when he played the "Mignon" of Scriabin, the audience applauded with fervor usually reserved for virtuosos.

After playing the "Ether Waves" alone, Professor Theremin switched on a coordinated instrument for the production of "color music" so synchronized with the "Ether Waves" that each graduation of tone produced a gradation of colored light, flooding the stage in polychromatic surges ranging from deep blue for the bass to flaming red for the treble.

Clerks' Union Asks For Contempt Writ

HOUSTON, Oct. 22.—An application for citation for contempt was filed in federal court today against J. H. Lull, vice president and general manager of the Southern Pacific railway. The application was filed by attorneys representing the association of clerical employees after permission had been granted by Judge Hutcheson on application of officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. The petition stated an injunction granted the brotherhood August 2 had been violated. It was claimed the railroad was showing favoritism to the company union which has no dues or entrance fees.

Judge Ponders Oil Case Move

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—While the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial was in recess, Justice Siddons meditated today over the question of admitting into evidence the testimony the oil trust

The defense is fighting admission of the senate testimony on the grounds that the law provides that testimony given before a senate committee shall not be used against the witness in any trial other than that of perjury.

TWO Commander roadsters were started at the Atlantic City Speedway October 6, 1927, under supervision of the American Automobile Association. Not one, but both of them, established new stock car records for 1000 miles, for 12 hours and for 24 hours. Neither of them required any mechanical attention during the entire run. After finishing the 24-hour grind the winning Commander sputtered 15 miles at 82.62 miles an hour.

The Commander now holds all stock car records for periods up to 24 hours and distances up to 1000 miles.

Hubbard-Shepherd Wedding Most Brilliant of Season

OF A SOCIAL NATURE

HUBBARD-SHEPHERD

Friday night at seven fifteen o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, Miss Julia Shepherd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Leftwich Shepherd, became the bride of Ford Hubbard, son of Mrs. and Mrs. E. M. Hubbard of New York City. The church, decorated in a color scheme of pink and green made an effective setting for the ceremony. Two archways of greenery and roses covered the altar with stately cathedral tapers standing on each side. Huge wood ferns formed the background, with smalls intertwining the organ pipes above. The chancel rail was banked with ferns and baskets of pink Killarney roses with white tulip bows.

As the guests assembled Mrs. Allison of Brownwood rendered an organ prelude. The church was darkened and Mrs. John Ducker, a recent bride, wearing her bridal gown of white satin, lighted the tapers which cast a soft glow over the setting. John Ducker accompanied by Miss Mary Gresham at the piano, sang, "Entire." Another organ selection followed this number. Then Mr. Ducker sang the hymn, "Holy Matrimony," accompanied by Mrs. Allison at the organ, the latter also playing the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as the processional.

The groomsmen, Garland Shepherd and R. A. Shepherd, of San Antonio, brothers of the bride, Odwin Cate, K. P. Hart and C. B. Williams were the first to enter, walking one by one down opposite aisles.

They were followed by the maids of honor, Miss Madeline Shepherd, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid, Miss Laura Murchison of San Antonio. Both were dressed in rose de style gowns of rose taffeta, trimmed with pearls and rhinestones.

Misses Helen Keough and Helen Clayton, bridesmaids, dressed in pink taffeta gowns of the same style, followed.

The matrons of honor, Mesdames P. A. Myers and C. B. Williams, wearing gowns of the directoire mode of pale pink velvet trimmed with pearls and rhinestones, were the next to enter.

All carried arm bouquets of pink Killarney roses and sweet peas.

Master Bobby Shepherd, nephew of the bride, dressed in a white satin suit, acted as ring bearer. Little Mary Ann Simon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Simon and little Corinne Ann Eszen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Eszen were flower girls. They were dressed in pink taffeta frocks with ruffled skirts and carried baskets of rose petals.

The bride, accompanied by her father, was met by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. P. A. Meyers who had entered from the vestry room and were awaiting them at the altar. The Rev. Mr. A. C. Miller of the First Baptist church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. B. C. Boney of the First Presbyterian church, performed the impressive rite ceremony.

Mendelssohn's recessional was played while the wedding party left the church.

The bride was gorgeously gowned in white satin dress of bouffant style, trimmed with rhinestones and pearls and a flounce of real lace around the hem. Her veil of tulle was fastened in place by a bandeau of rhinestones and dotted the entire length by small clusters of orange blossoms. She wore white satin slippers and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of butterfly roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Tradition says every bride must wear, "Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue." True to this, the bride wore something old, the bracelet worn by her grandmother at her wedding in '62.

Mrs. Hubbard, a charming member of the younger set, is a graduate of the State Teachers' college, Huntsville, Texas and did graduate work at the University of Texas where she was a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. She is president of the local Pan Hellenic association.

Mr. Hubbard is a graduate of Colgate and Harvard universities and is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

The bride's table was covered with a Richlieu lace cover over rose satin. Streamers of fern were draped from the chandelier to the corners of the table, in the center of the table was the bride's cake of three tiers decorated with a miniature bride and groom. On each side of the cake were burning tapers in tall silver candlesticks. The guests were served ice cream and cake by Mesdames Yancey McCreia, Edward Lee, and Misses Helen Williamson and Esther Hale.

The guests registered in the bride's book, presided over by Mrs. Norman Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard left for an extended trip in New York after which they will reside in Brownwood, Texas.

MCCREA-JONES
The following account of the wedding of Marshall S. McCreia, son of Mrs. L. H. McCreia of Cisco, and Miss Elizabeth Jones, a teacher in the Cisco high school last year, is of interest to their friends here. It appeared in the Coleman Democrat-Voice:

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Elizabeth Jones of this place and Mr. Marshall S. McCreia of Fort Worth. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Jones, last Saturday afternoon by Dr. B. D. Kennedy, the beautiful ring ceremony being used. The attendants were Miss Ellen Jones, sister of the bride and Mr. Luther McCreia, brother of the groom.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Yancey McCreia sang "Because," accompanied by Mrs. R. V. Wood, who also played the wedding march from Lohengrin. The bride was beautiful in gold embroidered beige crepe-velvet with gold lace hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of sweet-heart roses.

Miss Ellen Jones, the bridesmaid, was gowned in a combination of rose chiffon and velvet with hat to match, her bouquet was of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Yancey McCreia was attired in embroidered blue velvet. Mrs. Wood in navy blue crepe romaine, their corsages were pink roses.

An informal reception followed the wedding.

Lacey ferns formed the background for numerous baskets of beautiful pink roses. Pink and white tapers arranged in silver holders shed a mellow light over all. A refreshment course of pink frosted ice cream and individual angel food cake was served. The wedding party and guests, Mr. McCreia, a young man of splendid integrity and business ability, is connected with an oil company operating out of Ft. Worth. The bride is a graduate of Daniel Baker college. She has taught Spanish in the Cisco high school the past three years and won many friends by her sweet womanly graces. After a short bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. McCreia will make their home in Ft. Worth.

Out of town guests for the McCreia-Jones wedding, included, Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Gentry of Tyler, Miss Ellen Jones, who is teaching in Mineola, Mrs. Silliman Evans and little son from Ft. Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Yancey McCreia, Mrs. L. H. McCreia and Luther McCreia of Cisco.

The back-breaking wash-board, tub, boiler and wringer are as obsolete as the Dodo. A cross-country trip by covered wagon is as much to be thought of as to handle the family wash by old fashioned methods.

This is the age of labor-saving mechanics, and the family laundry should rank first as demanding attention. Man no longer mows the lawn with hand scythe nor cultivates his fields with a hand-plow so why should he expect his wife to spend hours over a wash tub each week?

Surpassing Its Own World Record

In developing the Pontiac Six, Oakland set out to produce the finest six-cylinder car ever offered in the low-priced field. When presented, the car won immediate and nationwide public acceptance, sales during 1926 exceeding the highest previous mark ever attained by a new make of car during its first year.

Yet, so pronounced has been the satisfaction of Pontiac Six owners, that Pontiac Six sales have already passed the 120,000 mark for 1927.

Oakland views with justifiable pride the implicit confidence and trust the public has bestowed on Pontiac Six. And Oakland pledges its word that this brilliant car shall always represent supreme value in the low-priced six-cylinder field.

LOBOES WIN FIRST CLASS A BATTLE HERE

five touchdowns. In the latter part of the game he surprised the fans with some long distance passing which, although they were incomplete, showed he has considerable ability along this line. Few passes attempted by either side were effective Saturday, with most of the gains made around or through the line.

H. Phippen, crack Lobo halfback, did not star as usual. He is not in the best physical condition, and is being kept out of the thick of the battle until he is in better shape. His passing was not necessary in the Saturday melee, and he was not sent back in after the half.

Little, the sensational broken field runner, got loose on several occasions. He made several runs of 20 to 30 yards, and once got away with a 60-yard return of a punt for a touchdown, but the play was brought back for penalty. For the first time this season, time out was called for Little in this game, but he went on fighting.

On defense, stars for Cisco were Sheriff Miller at guard and Britt Phippen, both of whom made savage tackles. Caldwell and Slation, with Smith at center, likewise played great football.

in previous games. When in that first quarter the Lobos were unable to buck across the line and lost the ball on downs three consecutive times. It was evident something was wrong. The boys had a lot of speed in midfield but, like the team of last year, lacked the punch at the critical moment. Some of the so-called second string men, among them Ollie Stovall, did display such punch, and it may come about that Stovall will be the dynamite for emergency use when line battles are in order.

The first touchdown came in the first quarter as a pass was explained. Keyes taking the ball over. The second came in the second quarter. Little made a 25 yard run around left end, and Keyes made another first down pass over the goal line which was incomplete, but the ball was punned, and a being incomplete. San Angelo kicked to midfield. Keyes ripped off 10 yards and then ran 29 yards around left end for touchdown. Little kicked goal. The third score came after a series of breaks. After a touchback, it was San Angelo's ball on its own 20-yard line. A fumble lost 10 yards. San Angelo got off a bad kick to its own 20-yard line, but Cisco was off-side. On the next attempt, Little received the punt and ran 50 yards across the goal line, but Cisco was again off-side and the play did not count. The next punt was blocked and Cisco recovered on San Angelo's 35-yard line. Little made 30 yards through right tackle, and after Eddleman bucked the line twice, Keyes took the ball over for touchdown.

New Rule Invoked
The fourth touchdown came after application of the new rule regarding fumbled kicks. Stovall punted and then recovered the ball and ran across the goal line after the San Angelo safety man had fumbled the punt. However, under the new rule, it was Cisco's ball at the point of recovery. On the next play Boon broke loose for a 25-yard run through left tackle, scoring the touchdown. Bedford missed a place kick for point after touchdown, his first miss of the year.

For the final marker, Cisco worked the ball down the field to San Angelo's 10-yard line where Eddleman fumbled. San Angelo recovering. San Angelo got off a bad kick, high in the air, and lost a yard on the punt. Cisco recovering on the 10-yard line Stovall soon carried the ball over, and Keyes kicked goal.
