Old Home Town

Miss Mary Hamfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamfield of Cisco, who is attending Kidd-Key college and Conservatory at Sherman, has been elected one of the six girls to be known as "college favorites" and whose pictures will appear in the college annual as such. She belongs to several clubs and is vice-president of the Players club. She is otherwise very active in college work.

Cisco delegates to the convention of the Order of the Eastern Star have returned home from Mineral Wells where the meeting was held. Three of the delegates were awarded certificates for perfection after they went before the examining board and were given letters in the secret work of the order. They were Mesdames Bob Smart, J. B. Farmer and Coe McLeRoy. They had spent six months in their O. E. S. study club learning the work. Other Ciscoans who attended the convention were Mesdames N. A. Brown, H. O. Westerland, W. D. Brechen, J. Q. Prickett, W. H. Lindsay of Shreveport, La., and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lindsay.

Constable C. S. Looney and C. O. Pass returned Saturday from Poyte, Odessa, and other points in West Texas after making a 700 mile trip to locate a man who had removed a mortgaged automobile from this county without permission. The man was found and placed under arrest, the constable said. "I never saw so much sand at one time," he asserted, referring to the roads in that section of Texas just made populous through rich oil strikes. "The sand was so deep in spots a car could hardly run through it."

The next Cisco football game will be against Ranger on Armistice Day, a glance at the schedule indicates. The Lobos will rest this week and following the Armistice day battle will meet Eastland November 18. This is the last regularly scheduled game before the Lobos meet Abilene at Abilene November 25. This week's games bring Abilene to Eastland and San Angelo to Ranger. Abilene, which now looms as the most formidable opponent of the Lobos this year, will have to play three straight conference games between now and the Lobos battle, taking on Eastland, Breckenridge, and San Angelo in the order named.

Cranfill and Reynolds, oil operators with headquarters in Cisco, struck it rich again last week when they drilled in their No. 16, M. L. Smith in the Grosvenor pool of Brown county. The well came in for a flush production of 20 barrels an hour. The Smith lease already had considerable production. It is located southeast of Grosvenor and northeast of the Fry pool, and is known to some as the Rosenfield pool. The sand was topped at 1335 feet and the drill was still in sand when it was stopped at 1359 feet. The new producer, coming on the heels of a giant gusher brought in by Cranfill & Reynolds in Winkler county a week ago puts this company on the oil map in large letters.

Cisco golfers will go to Albany today where for the fifth time this season they will meet the Albany country club team in matched play. Four times the teams have met with each winning one time and tying the other two. Today's battle should settle the argument, it is believed.

Bailey of Texas, chief counsel for Owens, in his cross-examination secured admission from practically all that they had received personal letters from Justice Reilly asking them to testify for him. CISCO BABIES SCORE HIGH IN CONTEST HERE

The baby show division of the Cisco Flower show, held Saturday afternoon, attracted 80 entrants and was, according to the nurses in charge, one of the most successful events of its kind ever held in Texas. No scores lower than 70 were made by any of the babies, while most of them scored between 90 and 100. This, the nurses said, was the best record of any such shows they had ever attended.

Considerable confusion existed at the time the awards were made, and an accurate list of the prize winners was not kept, particularly in the beauty division. Ribbons were awarded these winners, but the prizes have not yet been distributed. As a result, Mrs. Lory Boyd, 701 West Eighteenth street, asked that mothers whose babies won ribbons in the beauty contest call at her home and receive the prizes this Sunday.

Mrs. Grace Ashbaugh, national field representative for the American Red Cross, was in Cisco Saturday conferring with local officials of the organization regarding holding the annual Red Cross roll call in Cisco. She is expected to return here Wednesday or Thursday to complete the organization by naming a local chairman and assisting her to organize for the roll call. Eastland county's quota this year is 250 members at $1 each, and Cisco's quota is 150. Half the funds thus raised will go into the treasury of the local chapter, and the remainder to the national Red Cross.

Mrs. Ashbaugh called attention to the fact that it was not only the 17 million dollars raised by the people for disaster work in the Mississippi flood situation that made the work of rehabilitation possible to avoid pestilence and fever which always follow disaster and to bring the people through safely but it was that part of the annual memberships which go to the national organization at regular roll call time that makes it possible to man such undertakings and see that 1000 cents of every contributed dollar goes direct to the beneficiaries.

At times of great national calamities everyone hears of the work of the organization but as example of what continues as almost daily routine Mrs. Ashbaugh cited seventeen other disasters occurring at the same time as that of the Mississippi disaster for which no national appeal was made. "Perhaps the greatest work of the Red Cross lies in its first chartered obligation to exercise men of which there are still 30,000 in government hospitals. Three hundred and thirty-nine chapters in Texas are following such programs and in addition to this hospital work 75,000 cases are handled monthly through the national organization. Other services include first aid, life saving, the work of public health nurses in waging the war against disease and volunteer service which includes the work for the blind. In all these activities Texas takes a leading part."

WEIGHTY FOOTBALL PROBLEMS

Two things have received special comment so far this year in the football situation. One is that the present season started off with less talk about individual stars than usual. The idea of putting less emphasis on stars and more on teams was to check the professionalizing of college players and to discourage commercialism.

all follow their teams about the country by the train-load. The exodus from the home school on several week-ends during the fall means a lot of absences from classes and quite a disruption of studious habits. The president of the University of Michigan has suggested as a remedy for this the development of two varsity teams, one of which can play at home while the other is playing abroad.

BAPTISTS OPEN MAGNIFICENT NEW CHURCH BUILDING

Thousands Inspect Structure For First Time and Praise It; Formal Opening is Scheduled For Today

The magnificent new building just completed by the congregation of the First Baptist church was opened with a reception to the public Friday evening as a prelude to formal opening of the building for this Sunday. While it was impossible to make any accurate estimate of the number of callers during the evening, it was declared that several thousand persons went through the building during the evening and late into the night. All those who viewed the interior of the handsome structure for the first time were unstinted in their praise of the building, both for the beauty of its workmanship and materials, and for the complete and efficient arrangement of the various departments.

The building is to be used for church services the first time this Sunday morning, and in the evening all other churches of the city will disband so that their congregations can be present. Special music has been arranged for both hours, with the programs as follows:

Guests who called at the reception Friday evening were received at the door by Rev. and Mrs. Acker C. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. R. Q. Lee, Mrs. J. W. Manell, J. E. Spencer, Mrs. J. T. Berry and others. Ushers then conducted the visitors in groups along a regularly established route through the building for an inspection of the various rooms and their equipment. Punch was served in the basement, and many returned to the auditorium for a social gathering. At each department, the superintendent greeted the visitors, and music was furnished by the pianist of each department.

Visitors were conducted first to the young people's department where pupils of 17 to 24 are instructed with Mrs. A. C. Miller as superintendent, assisted by five teachers. The department has a suite of five rooms, seated with imported bentwood chairs, class tables for teachers and secretaries, piano, charts and maps for teaching. From there the group went to the library which is seated with 250 opera chairs. From there the groups went to the auditorium through the vestibule. The auditorium is seated with quarter-sawn red gum pews, stained with walnut. It was very beautiful, with the simple decorations of flowers being placed throughout. The choir has 32 upholstered opera chairs, and a grand piano. Back of the choir is the baptistry behind a colonnade of birchwood stained in walnut. The platform is covered with a tuque rug. The pulpit platform is furnished with a seven-piece pulpit set consisting of three upholstered chairs, a pulpit stand, two flower pedestals and a communion table.

From the auditorium, the visitors were conducted to the junior department, of which Mrs. R. R. Asberry is superintendent, assisted by a secretary, pianist, chorister and twelve teachers. Twelve rooms accommodate the children who range from 9 to 12 years in age. The rooms are equipped with chairs suitable to the age of the children. Each room has a class table for handwork, a blackboard and tackboard.

The pastor's study was found to be equipped with desk, table, chairs and four section bookcases. In the same suite is the Sunday school superintendents' conference room equipped with table, chairs and rug.

The intermediate department, ranging from 13 to 16 years, has Charles T. Bates as superintendent, assisted by the general corps of officers and twelve teachers. From there the visitors went to the basement where the primary department, children of 6, 7 and 8 years of age, is under superintendency of Mrs. L. J. Leach, a corps of general officers, and nine teachers. In the kitchen the visitors were served punch, and from there they went on down the corridor to the library which has a capacity of 200 feet of shelves. It is planned to make this a library of general helpfulness to the community, it was declared. Across the corridor was shown the organ motor room, built in the hope that some day the church will have a large pipe organ.

Down the corridor to the left, the visitors went to the beginners' department where children of 4 to 5 years of age are superintended by Mrs. G. B. Langston, assisted by general officers and four teachers. The children have kindergarten chairs and tables of suitable size for the children.

Then came the cradle roll room, of which Mrs. E. J. Poe is superintendent, assisted by Mrs. E. H. Varnell and two other helpers. Baby chairs and tables furnish this room, and two baby cots showed their use with two babies asleep in them. Across the corridor was the mother's room with Mrs. K. H.

Richardson as teacher. Then came the ladies' parlor, where the T. E. L. class, taught by Miss Cora Harris, meets and where also the Women's Missionary society will gather under the presidency of Mrs. C. H. Van Eman. Finally there was the banquet room, which will also serve as the class room for the Men's Bible class and the assembly room for the adult department superintended by Asa Skiles.

FILLING A PRESCRIPTION

Is one of the most exacting duties ever presented to a human being. It requires the closest co-ordination of mental process, eyesight, and muscular activity.

Our prescription room is separated from all outside activities by partitions which exclude interruptions but admit light and air. It is clean, roomy, convenient, and flooded with light, permitting our three registered pharmacists to prepare the medicines upon which health, and often life itself, depend under conditions as nearly ideal as can be arranged.

A prescription which bears our label is a prescription which will do what the doctor expects it to do.

'BIG PARADE' HERE TUESDAY AT PALACE

The motion picture of the year. "The Big Parade" opens Tuesday for three days at the Palace theater. Wonderful, remarkable, extraordinary, thrilling—superlatives that have been used so often in connection with other pictures can hardly do justice to it. "The Big Parade" is a war picture. War scenes have been done before, but they were futile compared to these. There is comedy and there is pathos—you live with the characters, you suffer with them, you laugh with them—and you love them.

King Vidor, the director, covers himself with glory. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer can stand up and point with pride. During the intermission last night an audience of screen celebrities kept repeating over and over again, "Did you ever see anything like it? Isn't it tremendous?"

John Gilbert, Tom O'Brien and Neil Dane are the three modern musketeers—buddies who go over the top together. Gilbert, the rich man's son, O'Brien, the former bar tender, and Dane, the lanky steam fitter. They arrive in France, and there Gilbert meets Melisande, played by Renee Adoree. And Renee Adoree acts like she's never acted before. The love scenes between the French girl and the American doughboy are poignantly, tenderly beautiful.

War. Mud. Trenches. Shell holes. Machine gun nests. Swarming thousands advancing on the enemy. Fire, poison gas, a human cyclone. Laurence Stallings wrote the story and he knows war. It's startlingly, dramatically real and convincing.

It's a picture you will never forget. You'll lighthearted moment and you'll weep. The acting is superb. The direction is flawless. The comedy bits and the sub-titles are sparkling. Gilbert was excellent in "The Merry Widow." But will you see him in this one.

Neil Dane and O'Brien—cursing, fighting and grinning—they are the spirit of the one who fought and died.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1927 by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 2

What does a bid of one club indicate? A bid of one club is a contract to take in two combined hands seven of the thirteen tricks. Of these seven tricks the club bidder should have the expectancy of at least four. As there are thirteen tricks in all, and as the club bidder has indicated by his bid that he expects to take four tricks in his own hand if clubs are trumps, there are nine tricks remaining to be won by the three other players. Each of these three players is, on average, entitled to one-third thereof, or to three tricks. These three tricks are the so-called "Average Expectancy of Support" and constitute the basis of every modern bid.

Every original bid should include two elements: First, two quick tricks against any bid the opponents may make; second, the possibility of at least four tricks provided trump is the suit named in the original bid. These two elements are important for two reasons: First, when a bid is made, the bidder never knows whether or not he and his partner will win the final declaration. For that reason he must be just as well prepared to defend as to attack. Hence the necessity for sure tricks, that is, tricks which will win against any declaration. Second, the bidder must always be prepared to play the declaration at the bid first named by him. He must, therefore, have a suit that will take at least four tricks if it is trump, for he can, on the average, expect only three tricks from his partner. For that reason he must have length (at least four cards) as well as high cards to justify an original bid.

When a player as dealer bids one club, he tells his partner that he either has two sure tricks in the club suit (at least four cards) or one trick in the club suit and one trick in an outside suit. For example:

MAIL YOUR PROPOSITION IDEA URGED

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 29. — "Ask the solicitor to mail his proposition" is the advice being given by Texas real estate boards in an effort to prevent the state getting a "black eye" through hand or lot swindles.

"If the proposition is legitimate, it can be sent through the mail," said Charles Bush of the San Antonio real estate board. "If it is such that the solicitor is not willing to have it pass through the mails, it should be avoided."

Land sellers have become adepts in staying within the liberal truth yet creating a false impression, the realtors say. They cite the instance of a "business lot in a Rio Grande Valley town." The purchaser thinking of the Lower Rio Grande Valley found what he got was a mountain lot suitable for goats in the hill part of West Texas.

"Gifts" of lots to those picked to "boost" them to others is also being combated by the realtors. The donor, they say, is required to pay adequately for title examination, improvements and such things.

Tombstone Stolen From San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 29. — A small white Italian marble monument, stolen from John Hagel

The theft of the slab—the most unusual ever known here—was reported Thursday. The monument was only about two feet high and eighteen inches wide, set very thick and not very heavy. It was lifted from its base, which was left surrounded by many other stones, some of them huge monuments that would require a black and tacks and a truck to move.

CROSS PLAINS TEST HAS REMARKABLE SAND RECORD

BAUM WELL IN 65 FEET PURE OIL STRATUM

CROSS PLAINS, Oct. 29.—Competition by the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. of another substantial producer in outside territory on the T. E. Baum lease in the new Cross Plains field, dividing one of the most remarkable sand records, so far reported in the new territory, has featured the week's development in that area and probably discloses information that will prove of great importance to future development in broadening the territory.

The new well topped the sand at 168 feet and drilled 32 feet of the top sand to 1700 where a break of two feet of shale was logged, to the top of the second sand at 1702, and drilling pure sand to 1735, giving the well a total record of 65 feet of pure sand.

The usual sand record totals about 35 feet in most wells and the heavier body found in this instance is accepted as favorable to the territory still further out in a north-easterly direction.

In this instance, however, the entire body of sand was unusually hard and despite apparent perfect saturation over its entire thickness it has so far yielded its production slowly and is swabbing only about 50 barrels natural. Preparations are now under way to give this well a shot and there seems no question but that this record of production will be greatly increased.

Other wells still further out in the same section are also nearing pay depth and development is expected to offer much interest in that quarter during the coming week.

Two of these important tests are being drilled by L. G. Bradstreet on Walter land in untested territory to the east of the Prairie completion, and with one of these wells drilling at 1425 feet on Wednesday and the other at 1150 feet. It is but a matter of a few days until the value of the new lead will be further proven.

In the same vicinity the test of the Mook Texas company and M. E. Wakefield on the E. E. Baum land, has abandoned a fishing job at 500 feet and has skidded the machine thirty feet and is now rigging up prospecting to span a new hole.

Good progress is reported on all drilling wells along the west edge of the territory in the vicinity of the recent extension brought by the Navarro well on the Bennett and Booth land, but none have reached pay depth during the present week. In that section Shaw & Rathke are at 1290 feet on an offset to the Navarro well, and the Prairie Oil & Gas company is down 600 feet on the Ida Wells No. 2, offsetting the Navarro well to the north and drilling is under way at 500 feet on No. 2 of the same lease, a location that offsets the Shaw & Rathke test.

Final outcome of the test of the Skelly Oil Co. on the A. W. Orvell land a quarter mile in outside territory to the south of the east extension remains to be proven, as no definite nature of the output is available. This well found the sand at regular depth, and logged 90 feet of pay, but the sand was extremely hard and gave but little production and a ten quart shot, followed by a shot of 100 quarts has been used, and the well is still cleaning out after the last shot.

A nice volume of oil is reported standing in the hole but the shot has apparently not shattered the hard sand to the extent expected, and a small pump seems about the most that can be expected.

The new field now has a total of 34 producing wells scattered over an approximate two miles of territory with the structure undefined except for a short distance at the southwest edge where breaks in the elevation of the sand indicate an outline of the producing horizon.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

CHAPTER I
Years Ago

"Enrique de Solano y Vasquez, on behalf of my sovereign lord, Philip, King of Spain, do hereby claim these lands and waters as his, to the glory of God and the crown of Castile."

This leader from Old Spain, resplendent in gold lace and handsome surfit, sat astride his horse, holding his mighty sword aloft by the blade with point downward so that it gave the effect of a cross.

It was a reverential and epoch-making moment, that 27th day of June, 1776, when San Francisco was thus founded by the romantic Spaniards.

The officers were men of the highest rank, courageous adventurers who could surmount appalling obstacles without fear of disaster or suffering. Their cavalcade came through the virgin wilderness of California with a small band of Franciscan Padres, muleteers, Mission Indians, a few belongings, a handful of settlers, many provisions and plenty head of cattle. They were intent upon reaching the shores of Monterey Bay and erecting a Mission there, but good fortune led them to another harbor of far greater magnificence and splendor and on its shores they began to build Old San Francisco.

A glorious hill site rising from the glittering ocean below! All though leagues away from their naive land the Spaniards felt at home. California was theirs by right of discovery and possession. They had braved cruel hardships to gain her shores and were proud of their victorious conquest. The vast expanse of the Pacific had formerly been known to them as their own "Spanish Lake" and it would bring friends, commerce and prosperity to their very gates.

When the last echo of Enrique de Solano y Vasquez's words had died away in the vast stillness he slowly lowered his great sword and proudly read the Spanish inscription wrought in gold upon the ornate bill:

"Vasquez
Ad majorem Dei gloriam
Vasquez, Vasquez, vindictam!"

In the language of his new country it translated to:

"Vasquez
For the greater glory of God
A Vasquez avenges a Vasquez."

Quickly dismounting, Vasquez plunged his sword's long blade into the earth with a flourish that would have killed the most powerful foe. Immediately the officers, soldiers and settlers dropped to their knees. The Padres raised reverent hands in benediction, hats were swept off and every head was bowed in prayer.

The setting sun added its warm blessing and then disappeared on its trip around the world. But it could not take away the glory or the importance of the day. The history of California had become a vital part of the history of civilization. Enrique de Solano y Vasquez had established the Presidio of San Francisco.

In those care-free days from 1776 to 1848 no one did any more work than was pleasing. The women were exceptionally lovely and there was never any cause for slander that could smirch their good names. The men were bold, proud, temperamental and gracefully idle.

Life was just one glorious procession of love making, gaiety, visiting and cordial hospitality and the house of Vasquez was the most favored social center of all the aristocrats.

The picturesque hacienda, a huge, rambling, vine covered structure, was on a hill that topped the vast estate. All the dreamy, indolent charm of Spain had been born again in its colorful architecture and romantic surroundings.

The adventurous soul of the first Vasquez had long since passed on and a dignified headstone, in the private burial plot adjoining the

FIRST TEXAS GAS WAS MADE FROM RESIN

HOUSTON, Oct. 29.—Gas men have been digging into their histories for the first public utility in Texas incidental to the convention of the Southwest Division, Natural Gas Department, American Gas Association here October 31 to November 2. Gas made of resin and sold at $7 a thousand cubic feet by a plant at San Antonio, established in 1890, seems to have been the first public utility of this state.

Application to build this plant was made to the city in 1858, long before the trains came in. The plant was actually started in 1890.

The gas works at that time consisted of a set of retorts heated by a furnace which distilled resin to make a gas for illuminating purposes. The resin was brought down by ship from the Port of Indianola, which was wiped out by a storm many years ago. The resin was hauled overland to San Antonio by ox wagons. The gas made then was considered the best illuminant that could be had.

Later on the works was changed into a coal gas plant and coal from Pennsylvania was brought by ship to Indianola, and then hauled overland by ox team to San Antonio. After the railroads came, the price of gas was reduced from $7 a thousand cubic feet to $5 a thousand.

A parallel between this early beginning and the present status of the gas industry in the southwest will be drawn in papers before the convention. Modern machinery, chemistry, and the initiative of efficient private management have made possible the present development of the gas industry in Texas, according to the experts who will attend the convention.

NEW CYLINDER HEAD IS MARVEL OF EFFICIENCY

The whispering quiet and smooth operation with which the new G-M-R cylinder head has endowed the engine of the Oakland All-American Six, is a tribute to the tireless research workers who are striving constantly to bring the automobile to its ultimate peak of perfection. The G-M-R cylinder head, which is an exclusive feature of the Oakland All-American Six, was developed during several years of painstaking experimental work by General Motors Research engineers. Their goal was an engine head that would provide economically and with ordinary insulation the silent power and performance previously believed obtainable only with high test fuel and hand-made laboratory engines.

Cisco Loboos, Caught Napping in First Few Minutes, Snap Into It and Hand Buckaroos Heavy Defeat

Cisco Big Dam Loboos were caught napping here Saturday afternoon. A bewildering forward passing attack unleashed on them right at the beginning of the first quarter caught them unawares. Perhaps it was a touch of over-confidence, that psychological disease feared by every football coach of the land; or maybe the Loboos were just caught off guard. But at any rate, Breckenridge Buckaroos put a touchdown across the Cisco goal line in a hurry and gave Lobo fans an exposure to the well known Ranger Blues for a few minutes. But after that touchdown was scored against them, the Loboos appeared to wake up. Perhaps it was just as good as monkey glands. Little, Keyes, Boon and Eddleman began a slashing attack that withered away the stalwart Breckenridge defense, and from that point onward the Loboos were the masters of the situation. The result was a 53 to 6 score in favor of Cisco.

Some of the blame for the Breckenridge score might be placed on the shoulders of the diminutive Little. The Lobo back appeared to get confused in the first few minutes of play and instead of taking his specified place in the "box formation" defense formed by his comrades against forward passes, he went to his usual place in a diamond formation, which students of the game know left a wide territory unprotected. It was in this unprotected section that the Breckenridge passes were completed. But the little man did not err long. Enraged by the Breckenridge score, he immediately led his teammates into such an attack that the Buckaroos fell before it. He returned the kick off 25 yards and soon, with the able assistance of Gooder Keyes, carried the ball down the field to a point from which Eddleman bucked the ball over for the first Cisco touchdown. From then on, Little was the man of the hour. This elusive back ran 10 to 20 yards at a clip through the Breckenridge line, and twice ran back kick offs for touchdowns, one a distance of 80 yards and the other 55 yards. The Buckaroos were unable to stop his whirlwind dash type of running, and once he got past the line of scrimmage he was good for long gains.

Gooder Keyes closely pressed Little for the day's honors. This lightweight quarterback, improving as he has done in every game this season, has developed a method of dodging through the very center of the line and getting away for long gains. He made numerous runs of 15 yards, and made his touchdown on an 18-yard run through tackle. He ran his team from quarter in a remarkably cool headed manner, and so far as could be judged by the observer, made no serious errors in generalship during the battle. He ran excellent interference.

Boon looked at his best for this season and hit the line with surprising power. He was an important unit in the Lobo interference which assisted Little and Keyes to make their huge gains. Eddleman, who at times this season has given promise of rivaling Ernie Wilson in plowing through the line, seemed to have an off day. He did not hit with his accustomed power and Coach Chapman had him replaced. Later in the game Eddleman went back in at tackle, indicating, possibly, some of the coach's strategy in the forthcoming Abilene game when the heaviest line possible will be necessary to hold the Eagles. Odie Stovall, who is fast changing from an indifferent player to one of potential starring qualities, made such a showing Saturday that he may replace Eddleman at fullback in the Eagle game.

Little Curly Kellogg, champion hard luck player, got into the game in the latter half and convinced some of those who have been skeptical regarding him that he can carry the ball many yards when the occasion arises. There has never been any criticism of this boy's generalship in running the team, and his long runs of Saturday showed him in a new role as a consistent ball carrier. Cotton, who also got in the game in the last half, played an excellent game, making long runs, and twice he went across the green and white line for touchdowns.

The Lobo line was a fighting one from start to finish. Captain Bill Smith led his team into action with his own terrific tackling and blocking. Ed Bates looked at his best in tackling, and was ever on the alert, making several recoveries of fumbles at crucial times. Big Pat Stratton was in there fighting and divided his time with McCaries and Joe Lee Moore. Caldwell was another fighting lineman that helped to stop the Buckaroo rush. Sheriff Miller was a power in the line. At ends, Brit Phippen played his usual excellent game and received one pass for a touchdown, while at the other end Raymond Meadows gave evidence of being very capable in filling the shoes of Jenkins. He tackled hard and was ever alert to break up passes or get down under punts.

For Breckenridge, Wetzel, triple threat man who could pass, run and kick and didn't hesitate to do any one of these things at any time, was the outstanding player until he was forced out with an injury. He had an able ball totter in Woodward, a rangy fellow who could sidestep and who was a wow at receiving passes. Captain Granberry at end was a most dangerous man, and he did much of the tackling for his team.

The Breckenridge touchdown came in the first few minutes of play. On the first play after kick off Wetzel passed to Wesner for 20 yards. Later an exchange of punts resulted in Cisco getting the ball on its own 20-yard line. Granberry received a Cisco fumble on the Loboos' 34-yard line and two passes, one from Wetzel to Woodward and the other from Wetzel to Granberry took the ball over the goal line.

Eddleman made the first Lobo touchdown by a split buck after runs by Keyes and Little and bucks by Boon and Eddleman had placed the ball in scoring position. The second touchdown came after Cisco had gotten the ball on its own 45-yard line after an exchange of punts. A 15-yard penalty, and runs by Little put the ball on the Buckaroo 10-yard marker, from which Boon went over for touchdown through a wide hole opened by Bates. On the kickoff, Little, helped through the broken field by perfect interference, ran 80 yards for a touchdown, and Smith kicked goal, one of the two flaps this feat was performed. Shortly afterwards, Bates recovered the ball and ran for a touchdown. B. Phippen had tackled a Breckenridge man on the latter's 10-yard line after he received a punt. The touchdown was ruled out, however, and Smith kicked a field goal, bringing the score to 22 to 6. The final touchdown of the half came when

FIRST PHOTO OF RUTH ELDER'S HUBBY

Keyes made an 18-yard run through the line. Odie Stovall helped work the ball down near the goal line for the first score of the second half, after Little had intercepted a pass and had been downed on Breckenridge's 25-yard line. Cotton took the ball over for touchdown. Little returned a kick 55 yards for touchdown, and Kellogg looked likely to do the same trick when he returned the kickoff 22 yards. Bedford also got off a 25-yard run. Cotton made the next touchdown with a buck through line, and soon afterwards a 22-yard pass to B. Phippen scored the final touchdown and goal was kicked, bringing the score to 33 to 6. When the game ended, Cisco had the ball near the goal line, ready to score again.

Beat Abilene!
That's the cry that should go up all over Eastland county from now to Thanksgiving, the close of the district race. For by its showing against Ranger Friday afternoon Abilene became the great obstacle in the path of all teams seeking the title. If Eastland is to be Oil Belt champion, somebody must beat Abilene. If Breckenridge is to be district champion, Abilene must be beaten. If Cisco is to be champion, then Abilene must be beaten. And it is to be hoped that some Eastland county team wins the championship.

It is not alone home pride that should prompt a united cry from the Oil district of "Beat Abilene!" It is for the good of Oil Belt football that this should be done. Should Abilene win the district title this season, then it is unlikely that any team can stop the Eagles hereafter. Abilene, being a much larger city than Cisco, Eastland, Breckenridge or Ranger would be able to draw football players from the entire belt, provided it could have the glimmer of a district championship about it. Let Abilene once get started, and it will be hard to wrest the championship away from it again. Interest in Oil Belt football would dwindle as a result, and the quality of the game as played in this section would no doubt suffer. Then for self-preservation, it is for "brotherly love," teams in this section should unite in cry: "Beat Abilene!"

Those Ciscoans who went to Abilene Friday for the Ranger-Abilene game found an Eagle team of big fellows out there toying with the Bulldogs. They were men of uniformly large size with no fat but plenty of bone and muscle. The Eagle line was strong as concrete and Ranger could do little with it. The best the Bulldogs could do was attempt end runs and aerial plays. In addition to having size and weight, those Abilene boys also knew how to run interference, which contributed considerably to the score.

Goodson Sellers was without doubt the best man on the field Friday. That boy has speed. He could run around or through the Ranger line just as he pleased, and he had a good stealer that helped him dodge many a Bulldog tackler. He was far above Smith as a ball carrier, and our observation was that Smith has been greatly over-rated, although he is a powerful back. The big boy is still slow in getting started, just as he was last season, and the Lobos should be able to stop him. But that man Sellers! Cisco must stop him—else!

It was surprising the number of Ciscoans who found important engagements in Abilene Friday afternoon, but were able to get through with their business in time for the game. Many of those seen during the morning who said they would be unable to go, were seen at the football field, have yielded to the urge at the last minute. Among those seen at the game were: Judge J. G. Shepherd, P. W. Campbell, Ray Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. K. N. Greer, J. E. T. Peters, Hayden Cooper, J. T. Piggens, Carl Lowrey, Troy Dowell, J. T. Elliott, E. O. Elliott, Eldon Purvis, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Doonan.

Pinkie Alsbrook, former Cisco High Lobo sensation, appeared to reach his stride for the first time this season Friday when he put over two of the Texas A. & M. college touchdowns against Texas Tech at Lubbock. The final score in the game was 47 to 6 for the Angies. The Record-Telegram, referring to Pinkie's playing, said: "Pinkie Alsbrook, former Cisco high star, played a stellar game and carried the ball across the Tech goal line for two touchdowns." One of these came after the former Lobo had received a forward pass and run 11 yards to the goal line. Alsbrook has been in poor condition most of the season, due to early injuries, but it looks as if he can be expected to star regularly from now on out.

The Texas A. & M. team is being watched intently this season by E. H. Varnell for two reasons. One is that Varnell is a graduate of Dana Bilde's institution, and the other is that he has a brother-playing fullback on the team.

Wright-McClung Wedding First in New Church

MANY FRIENDS PRESENT FOR PRETTY EVENT

At high noon Friday, the wedding of Miss Quonanza McClung of Cisco to James A. Wright of Eastland was impressively solemnized at the First Baptist church. Rev. Charles S. McClung of Wichita Falls, uncle of the bride, said the ring ceremony, with Rev. Acker C. Miller, pastor of the church, assisting. The wedding song "At Dawn" was sung by Prof. Thomas Reid, accompanied by Miss Velma Ruth Walters. Miss Walters also played Mendelssohn's "Priest March" for the processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for the recessional. This wedding was unique in that it was the first of any kind held in the handsome new Baptist church, and marked the opening of this edifice in a very attractive way. The auditorium was beautifully decorated with ferns, pot plants and cut flowers, carrying out the color scheme of pink and green. The bride entered on the arm of her father, George McClung who gave her in marriage. She was beautiful in a dress of cream silk lace over pale green satin with rhinestones and carried an arm bouquet of pink Killarney roses and sweet peas. Miss Blanche Shear, maid of honor, wore a delicate cream georgette dress, carrying an arm bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Freda Mae Abbott, Inez LaRogue, Glen Richardson, Lavada Lowmy and Ruby Grace Gray, wore dresses of pinkish hue. The flower girl, little Miss Talmadge Carter, dressed in opal georgette, scattered rose petals in the path of the bride. The

REBEKAH HONOR BRIDE

Members of the Good Will Rebekah lodge gave Mrs. A. W. Jordan, a recent bride, who was Miss Thelma Goodman before her marriage, a surprise after their regular meeting Thursday night. After an enjoyable business session of the lodge, Mrs. W. S. Jarrett, Noble Grand, announced that since it was so near Halloween a little Halloween party had been planned and for everyone to go to the dining room of the hall. The dining room was artistically decorated in Halloween decorations. The room was dark except the light from the witch's fire where she had the fortunes boiling in a big black pot. Everyone was given a fortune from the witch's pot, telling where to find their treasure. The hidden treasures were Halloween favors. Mrs. Jordan's treasure was the key to the "real treasure chest" and directions attached that the chest was hidden behind a certain curtain in the dining room. Mrs. Ben Krauskopf drew the curtain and revealed the "treasure chest" guarded by two buccanniers, dressed in true pirate fashion with long knives held between their teeth. The pirates, Misses Ruth Jensen and Opal Hale, presented the chest to the bride, who unlocked it to find many attractive and useful gifts. The pirates led her to a table in the center of the room and uncovered a beautiful wedding cake, presented by Mrs. M. G. Mixon and Mrs. J. B. Mashburn, which was decorated with a bride and groom stepping from beneath the wedding bells. The cutting of the cake caused much merriment as it contained the ring, thimble, dime, penny, button, needle, pin and fortunes. Refreshments of Dixie cups were served to Mesdames G. P. Rainbolt, W. S. Jarrett, John Jensen, M. G. Mixon, John Kleiner, Leslie Garrett, Moyer, W. S. DeRossett, Leora Rea, J. B. Mashburn, F. M. Kyle, Zedie King, Ben Krauskopf, Robert Harper, L. A. Krueger, Lee Burkitt, Effie Mayhew and the honoree, Mrs. A. W. Jordan; Misses Ruth Jensen, Opal Hale, Faye and Ruth Mixon, Bessie Threft, Blanche Smith, Cies Wright, Letta Enger, Lona V.
