PANHANDLE OIL PRICES.

The Federal Trade commission has reported that the physical properties of the oil in the Texas Panhandle field were responsible for the decline in the prices for that oil in the latter part of 1927. It found that the sulphur content and other ingredients increased the expense of transportation and that many companies were without facilities for successfully handling that kind of oil. This finding applied to the oil produced in the six counties of Hutchinson, Carson, Gray, Wheeler, Moore and Potter.

A matter in which many independent producers are even more interested now is: What was responsible for the decrease in prices in all other Texas oil fields in 1927? There is a strong feeling that it was not due to over-production, as has been charged.

CUTTING GAS RATES.

Brownwood is temporarily at least, profiting by the fight between three gas companies, all of which have franchises for selling gas in the city. The highest rate charged is 65 cents a 1,000 cubic feet, made by the company that holds the first franchise granted and that has the most extensive city coverage, the lowest price is 25 cents.

This brings up the question: What is a reasonable price for gas to consumers? At Austin, A. T. Kneis, general manager of the local gas company, which buys its gas from a large gas corporation, has offered to supply the state institutions gas at 20 cents a 1,000 cubic feet, explaining that natural gas in the quantities figured can be supplied at that price. Austin citizens are to pay more than three times that price for gas in their homes, besides service charge of 50 cents a month for each consumer.

ORDERS BUS FARES REDUCED.

Travelers between Dallas and San Antonio were recently surprised to find bus fares raised from $6.75 to $9.50, and from Dallas to Austin hoisted from $4.50 to $6.75, this action followed a consolidation of competing lines. When the motor transportation division of the railroad commission heard of this unauthorized advance in rates the operating bus line was ordered to restore the former prices. This is merely an illustration of what unregulated monopolies may do for the public.

STATE HIGHWAY BALANCE.

A recently published report that the state highway department had on hand a cash balance of only $377,167 created a near panic in highway construction camps, but the panic was relieved when it was announced that in some way a figure six was dropped in transmission to some papers, the cash balance being $6,377,167. This is to be a year of highway building in Texas, with special attention given to bridges connecting the roadways.

BIG PAVING JOB.

Within the next two weeks work is to begin on a $4,000,000 road improvement program in Hidalgo county to cover more than half the county with a network of paved roads. A force of 400 or 500 men will be used in the work.

ORIENT WOULD MOVE OFFICES.

San Angelo will vigorously oppose the removal of the Orient railway's Texas offices from that point to Wichita, Kansas, as proposed by the president of the company to the Texas railroad commission on the grounds of economizing operating expenses. San Angelo seems to have something of a "vested right" to retain these offices and can be depended on to claim that right.

SEEKS TOMATO TARIFF.

Some time ago mention was made in this column of the shipments of tomatoes into Texas from Mexico in competition with the Texas crop. Tomato growers along the Texas side of the Rio Grande valley last year were confronted with the ruinous prices at which the Mexican crop was sold. The tomato acreage in Mexico is being increased and as a consequence the Texas growers are seeking prompt action from the tariff commission to avert financial tragedy.

HOT MINERAL WELLS.

One result of oil development in Texas has been the discovery of hot mineral waters in many parts of the state. These waters all have medicinal properties that are proving valuable for medical baths and to take internally for numerous physical ailments. In some places health resorts are being developed— notably at Brownwood, where from a quarter of a half million dollars is to be spent. At other places, where the chemical analysis appears to justify the expenditure, determined efforts will be made toward health resort development. The wonderful Texas

Cisco Defeats Ranger in Championship Game

LOCALS TO GO INTO DISTRICT CONTEST NEXT

Superior team-work and field goal shooting won the Class A championship of Eastland county for the Cisco Lobos Tuesday night for the fifth consecutive year. The Lobos defeated the Ranger Bulldogs by a score of 28 to 15 before a crowd that packed the new Breckenridge gymnasium.

The game was fast and the large number of personal fouls by the Lobos, with which both teams were battling. The Lobos made 18 fouls while the Bulldogs made 13. The Lobos again showed a weakness in throwing the free tosses, making only eight out of 16 attempts. The Bulldogs made 11 out of 23 attempts at the free tosses. B. Pippin and Hammett, centers for the Lobos and Bulldogs, respectively, tied for the high point honors with nine points each. Pippin made four field goals while Hammett made only one. Hammett was throwing his free throws with deadly accuracy, making seven out of his eight attempts. Keyes and Van Horn were next with five points each. H. Pippin and Little, alternating at forwards both played a good game. Smith played a great game at guard and scored four points. The Lobos played a great defensive game holding the Bulldogs to two field goals. However, in doing this they made many personal fouls that gave the Bulldogs the free throws where they made 11 points, due largely to Hammett's accurate throwing. Glenn and Hammett, of the Bulldogs, both played a good game defensively but were forced from the game on account of four personal fouls. Smith, Keyes and H. Pippin, for the Lobos, all left the game for the same reason. In the last few minutes of the game Coach Goughly sent in an entirely second team.

The Lobos took the lead in the first part of the game and were never pressed. The score at the

CARS COLLIDE, RELATIVE OF R. Q. LEE HURT

The news reached here this morning of a fatal accident on the Dallas-Fort Worth pike in which C. R. Baxendale was killed and Marshall Cook sustained a fractured skull. Both were from Strawn. The accident occurred shortly after 12 o'clock this morning, one mile west of Arlington, when the Strawn coupe collided with a truck. Cook is a brother-in-law of R. Q. Lee of Cisco. Mr. Las was not here when the news reached Cisco, as he left Tuesday on the noon train for Dallas to attend the banquet given in honor of J. L. Lancaster, president of the Texas & Pacific railroad, by the Dallas chamber of commerce.

Edward Lee stated that Mr. Cook was expected in Cisco yesterday, but was unable to keep his appointment for some reason. Presuming Mr. Lee would hear of the accident Edward stated he did not wire his father.

Baxendale was pinned beneath the car and his head was crushed. His body is being held at the Moore Funeral Home at Arlington pending funeral arrangements. Cook was taken to a private residence. He was not thought to be fatally injured. The coupe was headed toward Fort Worth, and the cement truck was going toward Dallas. Cook and Baxendale were alone in the car.

Presbyterians Enjoy Fellowship Banquet

At the annual fellowship supper for the officers of the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening, Circle Two of the ladies' auxiliary furnished one of the most enjoyable feasts that the officers have yet enjoyed, according to those present. Rev. B. C. Boney presided at the joint meeting of the two boards, and inspirational talks were heard from Dr. W. P. Lee, E. P. Crawford, H. C. Henderson, and others, with a general view of the work for the future by the minister. The two groups then went to their respective rooms for meeting, and the board of deacons elected H. C. Henderson as chairman for the year, and also re-elected him treasurer. The session formulated plans for districting the membership for more effective work, in which each elder has his special task, and arrangements for entertaining Port Worth Presbytery in April, and securing an able evangelist for a series of meetings some time soon were discussed. The finance committee, headed by T. C. Williams, met afterwards to prepare the church budget for the year beginning April 1. A fellowship supper for the entire membership at a date to be named soon was put under way.

FLIRTING WITH TEXAS.

Colorado is making advances toward Texas with a view to getting the two states to cooperate in an advertising movement to present Colorado as a summer resort and Texas as a winter resort. Since Texas has a climate that delights tourists either in winter or summer and has attractions of a kind that Colorado can not offer, it is likely that each state will continue to handle its own publicity campaign.

BLACKS FIND NOVEL WAYS EVADING LAW

Having been tipped off that contraband beverages, of alcoholic content in sufficient volume to produce intoxication, were being disposed in Cisco's darktown district, local police started a raid in that quarter Tuesday night. The raid resulted in the discovery of 12 gallons of beer in bulk, and 60 bottles of the amber liquid, neatly bottled and capped, ready for thirsty customers. The liquid was poured out, but no arrests were made, for thereby hangs another tale.

The dusky dispensers of the illicit brew have learned a new device to evade the watchful eye of the minions of the law. The house in which the beer was found was uninhabited, and none could be found who would admit that the vacant building was in his possession. "This is a late method the negroes have adopted," police said. "They use a vacant house in which to store their wet goods, and when a customer thirsty enough to make a purchase comes along, some one disappears and the required fluid is procured. But when a raid is staged you can't find a single negro who will claim the beverage, or to be the tenant of the house in which the contraband is cached."

RANGER, Feb. 8.—The first meeting of the newly organized Ranger Rifle club or volunteer police force, will be held at the range Wednesday afternoon. LOCAL LIONS WILL ASSIST BAIRD CLUB

An interesting session of the Cisco Lions club featured the weekly luncheon today at the Rotary-Lions club rooms, when there were interesting and constructive talks made by member Lions.

A hotel committee consisting of E. O. Elliott, K. H. Pritchard and Nick Miller was appointed at the luncheon today and instructed to get out this afternoon and assist the other committees in collecting the small balance of Cisco's quota for the new hotel.

J. T. Elliott, in behalf of the local post of the American legion, made an interesting talk in which he urged that the Cisco Lions lend their cooperation in putting over the legion community banquet, which will be held at the banquet hall of the Presbyterian church on the evening of February 14.

Mrs. Fred Moeckelick was an interesting visitor and favored the Lions with a delightful reading. Other visitors were Mr. Baldrige, Glenn Little and Joe Burnham.

Local Art Club Sponsoring Movie

The First Industrial Arts club is sponsoring the movie "Quality Street," in which Marian Davies is starring. This splendid picture is highly recommended for its interest and entertaining features, and of course everybody knows the charming Miss Davies as one of the most talented artists of Hollywood. The receipts from this show on next Friday at the Palace theater should be heavy, since the Arts club is to receive a heavy percentage for its building fund. Remember the date, the place, the picture, and the cause, and arrange to help the club members in swelling their club house fund.

DRYS NOT TO RETURN FUND FROM KRESGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The anti-saloon league has no intention of returning to Sebastian S. Kresge, multi-millionaire prohibitionist, the half million dollars he donated recently for propaganda work, according to F. Scott McBride, league head.

GILBERT WILL BE LEADER IN LEGION OFFICE

A most enthusiastic meeting of the American Legion post Tuesday evening was reported by those present. Definite plans were completed for the Legion Valentine Community banquet to be held in the banquet room in the basement of the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening, February 14, at 7 o'clock in addition to General Mark McGee, past state commander, who will be present and install the incoming officers with the flag ceremony. National Committeeman Ben Dean has accepted and will take part in the ceremony. It is expected that the keynote speaker will be announced tomorrow. Several leaders of national and international reputation have been invited and indications are that one or more will be present.

PECAN TREES BEING PLACED IN ADDITION

Breededale addition to the city of Cisco is this week having the foundation laid for permanent beautification in the setting out of 400 pecan trees along the curbs on all streets. This addition has been surveyed and the streets laid out, some of them being graded, according to information reaching the Daily News. The trees, which are being set out under the personal supervision of A. I. Fabis, of the Breewood nursery, are four years old and range in height from 4 to 7 feet. Mr. Fabis says, they will average five feet, and there should be practically no loss from dead trees, as Mr. Fabis is an expert in this line. He was formerly with the United States department of agriculture on pecans.

This is a step that should make that one of the most popular sections of the city later, and one that should find emulation elsewhere over the city. Pecans are a hardy tree, and their growth should be encouraged, as they furnish the finest of nuts in America.

The conference also elected Norman Harper, Dave Metz, Frank Sloan, L. C. McKnight and N. G. Price as members to the vacancies on the board of stewards. Four additional trustees for the church property were elected in the persons of John Ward, Ross Elliott, A. H. Miller and E. J. Benson. These and the old members, consisting of Jesse R. The McCord building, directly across the street, will also be completed soon, and will be occupied by the A-P store. This is also a brick and tile structure. When these buildings are completed, north Main is going to have a pulling power. The Piggy-Wiggy and Kohlman Variety store moved into new buildings in that section of town about the first of the year. It is understood that two more buildings may be erected on north Main soon.

MEXICAN RECONSTRUCTION

Mexico is said to be in a bad way financially. That is why Ambassador Morrow hurried back from Cuba instead of remaining through the Pan-American conference. It is thought that he may be able to do something about it. Mexican business is in bad shape, and the government is threatened with bankruptcy. The two go naturally together. If business were good, the government could raise money. If the government had money, it could help business. The obvious recourse is a government loan, to start with, in order to save national credit. After that, loans or investments to stimulate Mexican business. The ambassador is in his element in such matters, and should be able to help Mexico if anybody can. It may be said that the country's present plight is largely the result of a Mexican attitude toward foreign investments which was regarded as hostile and even confiscatory. Thus oil and mining operations, conducted mainly by foreigners, have been slowed down for some time, paralyzing business generally. It may be said, too, that the Mexican governmental attitude toward the church has increased the paralysis by creating a religious deadlock where there should be cooperation. If Mexico ever did intend confiscation, of which there is some doubt, she has made ample amends recently by court decisions and national laws safeguarding foreign property rights. As for the religious warfare, that is Mexico's own business, for her government and people to work out as best they may. The United States has nothing to gain, and much to lose, by Mexican depression and bankruptcy. Mexican prosperity would add to the prosperity of our own people. Neighborliness and sound business principles both demand whatever help this country can give. We have been pouring billions into Europe; why not help along Mexican reconstruction, too?

TALKERS AND LISTENERS

Conversation may be lost as an art, but talk certainly has come into its own. A writer in the Kansas City Post blames this on the multiplicity of newspapers and magazines. Everybody reads them and becomes so primed with news and information and conversational ideas that he just must chatter about them to everybody else. Naturally, in this mood, everybody refuses to listen to anybody else. This is a dreadful situation, but it may have its beneficial effects. "Good listeners," says the Post, "are so rare today that when you meet one and notice that he pays strict attention, you are embarrassed. The novelty of being listened to causes you to wonder whether you are saying anything worth while." If that is the general reaction, then there is a way to silence your talkative friend. Start listening to him so attentively that he is startled into silence himself.

Well, anyway, when American marines are told to do anything they go and do it.

ANOTHER COAL INQUIRY

It looks as if there is going to be another investigation of the bituminous coal industry. The senate is all set for ordering one. It might be better if congress, instead of establishing another fact-finding body, would do something about the matter through immediate, direct action. The history of the American soft coal industry has been not only one strike after another, but one governmental inquiry after another. And nothing has ever been accomplished beyond gathering facts and suggesting remedies that nobody paid any attention to. The last investigation, ordered during the Harding administration, was a very competent and thorough one. There doesn't seem to be anything really new in the present situation. The general facts of the coal industry, economic and human, are accessible in convenient form. It would save time and trouble, and might conceivably lead to action, if the lawmakers at Washington would simply read that last report.

be performed. Much of man's food will be synthetic, and vitalized by radiations. Nutrition will be an exact science. There will be little manual labor. Travel by air will be safe and speedy. Population will be decentralized. Physical presence will not be necessary at meetings; "selective visual and audible communication" will replace it. There will be new forces discovered and used. Human relations will improve more in this next century than they have improved in the last 19 centuries. There will be an end of mutual destruction. There will be larger appreciation of the human soul and God. All this is encouraging, though the idea of massless meetings may dismay our Rotarians and other gregarious groups. Here is portrayed a new Age of Gold. Optimists will agree that it is coming; but is 100 years enough time? When that box is opened in 2028, will our grandchildren and great-grandchildren wonder at the prophetic acumen of this generation, or wonder at our simplicity.

A SITING OF STORIES

What is humor? How would you define a thing that impresses you as funny? What is funny? Why is funny? Why will one burst into hilarity and be tickled all over about something which upon analysis is tragic?

One day a bishop told this story to a group of ecclesiastics. "Late one night I was driving along a lonely road, when a man jumped from behind a tree, thrust a revolver into my face, ordered me to halt and throw up my hands. 'I asked the man what he wanted. He said he wanted my money. 'Have you fallen so low as to rob a man of God?' I inquired indignantly. 'The fellow asked me who I was. I told him. Immediately he began to apologize. 'Lord a mercy, Bishop!' he said. 'I wouldn't stop you if I had knew it was you. I wouldn't harm a hair of your head, Bishop, or bother anything you've got.' Why, Bishop I belong to your church!"

As the bishop concluded his story the clergymen set up a hearty laugh. After the mirth had died down, one of the ministers matched the bishop's yarn with this one: "I had gotten off the train at a small town where I was to hold a revival. A bear-eyed, besotted, ragged specimen of humanity with a breath which smelled like an over-heated automobile radiator in winter-time, stepped up and asked if I wouldn't let him carry my grip. I didn't relish being seen going down the street with such a looking character; but I thought that was a chance to let a needy fellowman make a quarter. So I handed him the grip. 'As we walked toward the boarding house where I was to stop, the man began to make conversation, in the course of which he addressed me by name. 'Do you know me?' I asked in surprise. 'Sure I do,' he said cordially, 'you converted me.' 'Incongruity, you say. I laugh at the ridiculous inconsistencies of those situations. Absurdity is one of the commonest sources of humor. At times life would be impossible were it not for our ability to comprehend and appreciate the absurd. The power to see the absurd thing as absurd, saved this man's life: 'The man was dying with a rising in his throat. He was bidding the members of his household a last farewell. One by one they shook hands with him, pressed their handkerchiefs to their eyes, and left the room. The man's pet ape which had been watching the scene ambled over to the dresser, snatched a handkerchief, put it to one eye, loped over to the bed, and stuck out a paw. The preposterous sight threw the dying man into a fit of laughter, the rising in his throat broke, and he got well."

Men are traditionally sear in these quadrennial years of feminine ascendancy, when the hunter becomes the hunted. They may be more so now than ever before. The whole tendency of recent decades, whether due to economic conditions or the war or the divorce courts or whatever, seems to be make men whoop-shy. But what's the matter with the girls? Are they growing just as searier? Or merely more cautious—looking before they leap? Life insurance figures show we're getting healthier every year, yet the agents keep right on coming around to sell us insurance policies. No, it wasn't Helen's face that launched a thousand ships. It was an admiral's tongue. We have a good supply of the most beautiful hardy roses, suited to this section of the state. Clyde Nursery, Clyde, Texas. 2511f

Letters to the Editor

TRIBUTE TO "TWO JOHNS"

ditor Cisco News: Last year the writer had occasion to speak of the death of Two Uncle Jimmies—Uncle Jimmie Montgomery and Uncle Jimmie Daniels—two of the old landmarks of Eastland county, Iowa, occurring within two days of the deaths of "two Johns"—John Broyles and John Surles—two more of our landmarks and most esteemed citizens.

The writer conversed with both frequently—talked to them a few days before their sudden deaths, almost invariably scriptural copies were on their minds, which seemed to be uppermost in their minds. Both held to a faith in God's word—neither expressing fear of the future.

Both of these splendid gentlemen were human, as all are, and were fallible, but rested their hope upon the grace and mercy of a loving Savior, who overcame death, that great enemy, and they believed, by His power, to overcome death, even as He did, believing He promised: "If ye be faithful unto death I will give thee a crown of life."

Both of these Johns, having lived among us for forty or more years, were for all that persons of the welfare of the country, and both left a void hard to fill. May their lives be an inspiration to others to live as they did, and die as they died, in "hope of a better resurrection." To the surviving widows and children this should be as the "balm of Gilead" to their wounded spirits.

How rapidly are these stalwarts passing! We do not know, but hope to greet them in another time of which it is said: "There shall be no more sorrow—no more aging; no more tears; no more death."

—A FRIEND OF BOTH

Texas Play Named For Nation Contest

DENTON, Feb. 8.—"A Night in New France," a play by Professor William Dyer Moore, director of the department of comparative literature at the College of Industrial Arts, has been selected by the Dallas Little Theater to represent Texas in the National Drama League contest which is being conducted by Longmans-Greene, publishers. Drama league centers were fixed in each state to which plays should be sent, and the Dallas Little Theater was the center for Texas. Professor Moore's play, which was judged the most worthy of representing Texas, is a historical romance. Plays will be sent to the national headquarters where the prize-winner will be selected.

College Students In Pancake Night

DENTON, Feb. 8.—Pancake Night was observed by the College of Industrial Arts Saturday, February 4, not only on the campus but by ex-students over the state. Reminiscences of the early days of the college were brought out in speeches of faculty members who belonged to the original faculty, and table singing composed the programs in the dining halls.

Talks by President L. H. Hubbard and Dean E. V. White were the features of the radio program broadcast from station W. F. A. at Dallas. Vocal selections were given by Miss Stella Lea Owsley and the vested choir of the college.

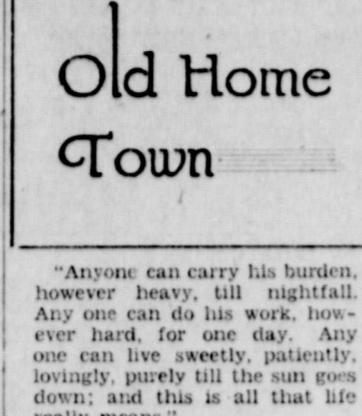

CARD OF THANKS

It is with the deepest gratitude and thankfulness in our hearts that we try to express our appreciation to the many friends who so tenderly offered condolence in the hour of our greatest sorrow, the death of our dear husband and father. To all who tendered floral tributes, we offer our sincere thanks. Mrs. J. N. Broyles and Family.

Strong the Family Praise!

Houston, Texas.—"I wish to say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been a blessing to our family, especially in one daughter's case. She was in a serious condition with woman's weakness and just about past going when we decided to try one more remedy we had heard of—the 'Favorite Prescription.' Well, a few bottles of this helped her so she has never had any more trouble of the kind. So it is no wonder that we have depended wholly upon this one remedy ever since for all such ailments."—Mrs. Emma Allen, 313 Hogan St. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Old Home Town

"Anyone can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall. Any one can do his work, however hard, for one day. Any one can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely till the sun goes down; and this is all that life really means." What in the weather line could be more delightful than that we have been enjoying in this section for the past few days? It's glorious. More rain would be welcomed, but it has been said that when a country gets to the point where it just has to have rain, it comes. The Cisco Country hasn't reached that point yet. Farmers are preparing their ground for the 1928 crop, grain is up and looking well, hens are laying, hogs are fattening, trade is brisk in Cisco, and we have much to be thankful for.

NEW DRILLING MAY INCREASE BIG COOK POOL

ALBANY, Feb. 8.—Oil operators are watching developments in the Cook pool, east of Albany, in Shackelford county, with much interest, when the Cook A-1-62, a semi-wildcat test, is being drilled. This well is about one and one-half miles directly north of the Cook pool proper, which is reported to be logging about the same as other wells drilled in the proven producing area. It is now down to 1963 feet with the pay expected in the neighborhood of 1,200 feet. It is being drilled by Garrison for Roesser & Pendleton and the Marland company jointly. If it should come in as a good well it will mean an extension of the producing area one and one-half miles to the north, or a distance approximately as long as the present pool is wide.

ALBANY, Feb. 8.—Oil operators are watching developments in the Cook pool, east of Albany, in Shackelford county, with much interest, when the Cook A-1-62, a semi-wildcat test, is being drilled. This well is about one and one-half miles directly north of the Cook pool proper, which is reported to be logging about the same as other wells drilled in the proven producing area. It is now down to 1963 feet with the pay expected in the neighborhood of 1,200 feet. It is being drilled by Garrison for Roesser & Pendleton and the Marland company jointly. If it should come in as a good well it will mean an extension of the producing area one and one-half miles to the north, or a distance approximately as long as the present pool is wide.

Chancellor's Memoirs of How Kaiser Planned to Flee From Germany; "Let Wilson Hang"

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—Wilhelm's formula for saving his throne and Germany from revolution during the critical days of November, 1918 was to "let President Wilson go hang, and do business only with England," reveals Philipp Scheidemann in his new memoirs. Scheidemann, the first chancellor of the German republic, had unparalleled opportunity to observe at first hand the historical events attendant upon the birth of the new state, and his memoirs are created with fresh contributions to the chronicle of the times.

Among the disclosures Scheidemann makes is the fact that up until the last moment the Kaiser promised on his word that he would not flee. When he finally appeared at the border of Holland, the Dutch guards were astonished and confused.

Describing how Prince Max of Baden went to the Kaiser and told him he should abdicate at once and not leave Berlin, Scheidemann relates:

Kaiser's Advice

"Prince Max's heart knocked in his breast as he went to tell the Kaiser under no circumstances to stir from Berlin. He said to His Majesty 'We are faced with the necessity of making the most critical decisions.' The Kaiser replied 'Ach nonsense! If you only do what I advise you to do everything will be all right. What had he advised? That Wilson should go hang, and Germany start negotiations with England.'

"We have heard and read that the King of England tried to protect the Kaiser from being given up to the Entente. This presupposes that the king knew that the delivery of the Kaiser would be one of the peace conditions. The king of England is said to have requested the Queen of Holland to give the Kaiser refuge in case of emergency.

"The fact is that days before the flight of the Kaiser, a Dutch adjutant general was at general headquarters without anybody there knowing what he was there for. I have been assured that the Dutch General van Heutsz was sent on behalf of Queen Wilhelmine of Holland to Hindenburg, and afterward negotiated with the Kaiser for a long time.

"The Kaiser finally took the Dutch general's hand and promised him not to flee. He said he would go back to Berlin, and leading his troops would put the revolution down.

"As the Kaiser nevertheless on November ninth stood in application at the Dutch border, thumped and begged for admission, the Dutch government is astonished and confused in the extreme.

Flight Planned

"Every probability speaks for the fact that the flight had been carefully prepared for days and doubtless the Kaiser had considered his plans to escape long before Prince Max of Baden asked him not to leave Berlin.

"At that time the Kaiser saw three routes before him. The first one had been shown him by General Groener and other high officers. It was that he should go to the trenches and wait for a bullet.

"That was too dangerous for him, and he rejected the idea. The second was the one about which he had talked with the Dutch General Heutsz, namely that he should lead the troops back to Berlin against the discontented people. He probably had seriously considered this as possible until General Groener told him the army will certainly let itself be led back home quietly and in order by its commanding generals, but not under the leadership of His Majesty.

"Wilhelm then chose the way which seemed least dangerous to him and best corresponded to his heroic nature. He fled!

"INTOLERANCE" LAST THEME OF DR. J. H. SURLES

Characteristic of his life, the last theme upon which the mind of the late Dr. J. H. Surles dwelt before his untimely and tragic death January 31, when he was killed by being struck by a tourist car in front of his home on the Bankhead highway, was a plea against intolerance. Tolerance was one of Dr. Surles' most estimable virtues. We knew him well and intimately, and never knew him to condemn or criticize a man for his beliefs in politics, religion or any other position, no matter how much in opposition these opinions were to those he entertained. He could discuss impassively with his conversational adversary, and at the same time reflect the sweet amenities of love and tolerance, so it is but natural that one of his last public utterances should be in opposition to intolerance.

There is no virtue that should be more assiduously cultivated than that of tolerance, and no fault so inexcusable as that of intolerance. Dr. Surles faithfully reflected his character in the following communication sent to the Baird Star the day he was killed, which is here reproduced, and which the Daily News commends to its readers as an inspiration to higher and nobler thoughts.

Intolerance

Intolerance is a yawning chasm which stands between civilization and the brotherhood of man. The bitterest intolerance centers around racial, religious and economic prejudices and differences.

"How long, my God, how long, before we poor mortals will realize that there is enough food and clothing for us all during our sojourn by the wayside of life, and understand the folly of fighting each other because we are not all of the same religious and racial tendency. Our allotted time upon this earth is but a fleeting moment. Like a lighted candle, we shine for a moment, flicker and go out. Why not so live during this brief sojourn, that when the Great Creator draws up and bids us to take a rifle, we will be ready to fold our earthly tents and silently follow without FEAR?

"I am hoping that I will find when I get to Heaven, no Gentiles or Jews, Catholics or Protestants, Germans, Englishmen or Frenchmen. I am hoping that I will find there only human souls unmarked by race, creed or color. "Would it not be a good idea to begin now to lay aside our intolerance and remove these petty differences so we will not be utterly strangers when we meet on that eternal?"

Mute Many Years Panic at Speaking

DENVER, Feb. 8.—For 17 years Francis E. Cook was mute. He was struck "dumb" in a severe electrical storm while on a fishing trip near Vancouver, B. C.

Last week Cook became almost panic stricken when he heard his own voice murmuring "Thank you" to a friend.

Continuing to practice articulation, Cook is now able to speak short sentences and it is believed he will fully recover the use of his vocal chords.

Recovery of his speech is attributed by Cook to a long series of ultra-violet ray treatments.

MUST RELEASE OHIO YOUTH IN KANSAS PRISON

By International News Service. LANSING, Kansas, Feb. 8.—An 18-year-old Ohio boy, convicted of murdering a chum in this state, in 1924, has been such a problem for Kansas authorities that his release from further punishment is believed likely.

Harold Bowsler, at the age of 15, left his home at Circleville, Ohio, presumably to "see the world." Reaching Barton county, in central Kansas, the Ohio youth engaged in a fist fight with a "touring companion" on the Santa Fe railroad's right-of-way.

Killed By Train
Bowsler hit his friend, knocking him directly in the path of an approaching train. The boy was run over and killed. A jury in the Kansas county decided the Ohioan had knocked the other lad in front of the train purposely.

Today the state penitentiary holds Bowsler without legal right. Originally sentenced to a state industrial school, the Buckeye youth caused officials of the school so much trouble that he was transferred to the state reformatory. From the latter institution, he was brought to the penitentiary here, without even the formality of a sentence. This move was followed by a sanity hearing, at which Bowsler was declared insane, thus giving the state legal right to confine him in the insanity ward of the penitentiary.

Pronounced Sane

Recently, however, the state sanity board called Bowsler before it and after a careful examination, the youth was pronounced perfectly sane.

Now, Bowsler, 18 years of age, is to be sent back to the industrial school, and is being held in the penitentiary here without sentence and thus illegally. The matter has been placed before the state board of administration.

Bowsler asks that he be freed, and it is the belief of many that the penal doors will swing wide open in acquiescence, to his wish.

JONES LEADS WEST TEXAS IN GINNINGS

ABILENE, Feb. 8.—The Texas cotton crop ginned prior to January 15, amounted to 4,131,239 bales, against 5,171,443 on the same date in 1926. The figures released by the bureau of the census are substantially a "clean-up" for the year; and they show that Texas ginned 1,000,000 bales less in 1927 than the year before.

Ginnings for this section of West Texas show Jones county far in the lead, Runnels second, Haskell third and Taylor fourth. The next four counties, in the order of ginnings, are Knox, Dawson, Lubbock and Fisher. Figures for these eight counties:

County	1927	1926
Jones	61,755	82,160
Runnels	53,708	62,034
Haskell	47,747	48,332
Taylor	41,856	52,353
Knox	41,131	40,138
Dawson	37,730	36,171
Lubbock	37,231	59,814
Fisher	32,072	46,954

It is worth noting that the four top counties named—Jones, Runnels, Haskell and Taylor—between them ginned 205,066 bales, or five per cent of the entire crop of Texas. Ellis county led the state, with

RCA-Radiola 17

Require Neither Batteries Nor Battery Eliminators

It operates directly from the lighting socket by means of the new "AC" Radiotrons. That is one of the reasons why Radiola 17 is the year's outstanding achievement in radio. Simplicity of operation, sturdy construction and excellent tone quality are outstanding features of this new receiver. Tuning is accomplished entirely by one knob. In addition there is only a volume control to regulate the output and a switch to turn the current on and off.

In Radiola 17, the owner finds all of the refinements that recent developments have contributed to the radio art. Its compact cabinet, beautifully finished in mahogany, contains all the mechanism necessary for operation. Over the tuning control, there is a small electric light which not only illuminates the station selector but also serves as an indicator that the current is on or off.

WINKLER WELL FLOWS AT 425 BARREL RATE

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 8.—The addition of two producers in eastern Pecos county by the Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental Oil companies and the opening of Atlantic No. 1 E. Hendrick in Winkler county maintaining over night a flow averaging 425 barrels hourly, were West Texas Permian Basin oil highlights Tuesday.

In Pecos county, Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental Nos. 11-B and 20-B Yates flowed 440 and 300 barrels hourly, respectively, drilling at 1,370 and 1,296 feet.

Both are in section 61, block 194, G. C. & S. P. Railway Co. survey.

Henshaw Oil corporation has announced it will measure Wednesday its No. 1 Currier in section 74, block 2, C. C. S. D. & R. G. N. G. Railway company survey, Pecos county, for abandonment at 2,500 feet.

Completion of its 10-inch 72-mile pipe line from Winkler county to its tank farm at Midland accounted for Atlantic's opening of its No. 1-E Hendrick, which on two 2-inch chokes had been averaging 7,900 barrels daily since it came in ten days ago at a total depth of 2,793 feet.

It is in the northwest quarter of section 41, block B-5, public school lands.

Amerasia No. 1, Walton, section 48, block 26, promising a two and one-half mile extension of the Hendrick pool, had drilled to 2,418 feet without change.

The topping northwest through Stamford will be for 16 miles or to Stamford, when 22 more miles out of Hamlin are to be started.

BROWNWOOD, Feb. 7.—L. C. Boynton, owner of the Comanche County Curios, the roadside farm at which thousands of tourists have noted the great collection of queer shaped stones, fossils and Indian relics between Comanche and Blanket, who came to a Brownwood hospital last week, is in the hands of the physicians for the first time in his life of four score years.

Mr. Boynton was eighty years old last May. Two or three weeks ago his arm, shoulder and side became infected from a boil on his arm, and he went to a physician at Blanket for treatment. That was his first time ever to go to a doctor or to have a doctor called for him. The Blanket doctor sent him to the hospital here. He is now getting along nicely and expects to be able to return home in a week or so.

Mr. Boynton came to Texas, locating in Comanche county, between 55 and 60 years ago. He was born in New York state, where he grew to young manhood, and comes of a family noted for hardiness and longevity.

He has always lived a very active and vigorous life, and that applies mentally as well as physically. When a doctor called on him at the hospital the day after the doctor had performed an operation, when there should have been coming from the bed, one would think, only some groans or some comments on his afflictions, there came this question:

"What effect, if any, will bringing the national convention to Houston have—will it help the wets or the dries, if either?"

And then just as his special nurse was shading the electric light and getting ready to tuck him in for the night he let it be known that he had often studied—and was studying—certain things about electricity. For instance, just exactly what was it that produced the white glow in the bulb, and why wouldn't it continue to glow if the bulb were cracked? he wanted to know.

TO TRY FOR LONG RECORD AIR FLIGHT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8.—The flights preliminary to an attempt to break the world's record for continuous flying, originally scheduled to be made Tuesday afternoon at the Municipal Airport by Al Henley and Joe Hart, Oklahoma aviators, will be made today if piston rings, ordered from New York, arrive in time to complete overhaul.

The engine in the Ryan monoplane with which the aviators will make the flight, will have been overhauled completely before the test flights, which will be made to adjust the weight of the load and determine the length of the runway necessary are made. Mechanics worked last night to complete the work in time for the test today.

The flights which probably will be made today will be made with the plane loaded with sandbags equivalent in weight to the load of gasoline the plane will carry.

Action in Water Fight is Delayed

BRADY, Feb. 8.—Action on the Colorado river controversy again was deferred Tuesday by the Brady chamber of commerce directors, to whom the question had been referred after the meeting held here last Friday and at which Messrs. W. D. Ross, engineer for the Brownwood Irrigation district, and Hilton Burks, secretary of the Brownwood chamber of commerce, presented the terms of the proposed compromise.

The directors voted unanimously to await the report of the committee appointed by the West Texas chamber of commerce to study the settlement and which will convene in Fort Worth February 13. While most favorably impressed with the presentation of the compromise agreement, the directors desired to have the fullest possible information in all phases of the question before committing themselves to a definite stand.

Indians Celebrate Winter's Festival

BATAVIA N. Y., Feb. 7.—Among the faithful followers of Ganeyido, the latter day prophet of the Senecas, on the little Tonawanda Indian reservation 12 miles northwest of here, the celebration of Ganayasta, the mid-winter festival and the most elaborate of the several thanksgiving ceremonies of the red man's year, is taking place.

According to ancient custom and legends that have been handed down from the day when the shadow of the Iroquois long house covered the eastern United States the celebration must take place while "Niskowukine Sadogosa" rides the skies, opening nine days after the appearance of the moon of mid-winter.

STATE DENIES SANTA FE CUT COLEMAN OUT

AUSTIN, Feb. 8.—The Gulf Colorado and Santa Fe railroad can not stop running through Coleman with its San Angelo-Brownwood train leaving San Angelo at 5 p. m., Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith said Tuesday, and the commission has not intimated any approval of that proposal.

Coleman is a county seat town and entitled to the train, which cuts off at Coleman Junction and runs over a 5-mile branch to Coleman, he said.

Commissioner Smith announced, however, that a hearing will be held Wednesday, February 15, on the Santa Fe's proposal to discontinue Sunday "mixed" trains between Honey Grove and Ladonia, Sealy and Matagorda and Lometa and Eden. E. F. Adams, general passenger agent for the Santa Fe, was here Monday conferring with the commission. He was told, however, Commissioner Smith said that Coleman can not be eliminated from the San Angelo-Brownwood schedule.

notwithstanding reports that the commission was agreeable. Adams said automobile traffic was cutting off the Sunday train revenue, and that the proposal to take off Coleman was to speed up the schedule from West Texas.

"STRONG MAN" IS TO WRESTLE BIG BULGARIAN

BRECKENRIDGE, Feb. 8.—Enthused by the unexpectedly large crowd of wrestling fans who shout their approval during last Friday night's mat show at the city hall auditorium, the athletic committee of Bernice Giles Post, No. 191, American Legion, is planning on bringing to this city Fritz Steinbach, "Iowa strong man" for coming Friday night's main event against Nick Velcoff, the 225-pound Bulgarian who was awarded the decision over Zea Davis last week. According to many of the fans who sat at the ringside during the Velcoff-

Davis affair the Bulgarian, who had some 20 pounds advantage over Davis, resorted to the use of several "strange" holds while both men were down on the mat, and at such times when it was hardly possible for the referee or the audience to clearly see what was taking place. Immediately after the match was over, several fans went to the promoter and explained to him about the unfair methods employed by Velcoff, when it was apparent that the Bulgarian was in danger of losing the decision. Upon hearing these reports Promoter Hansen decided to send for a man who was well versed in the rough and tumble end of the mat game, and one who is capable of defending himself against Velcoff's onslaughts.

Such a man is Steinhach. In Hansen's estimation, Fritz will fill the bill to the dot, for he is known throughout the entire country as one of the foremost rough and tumble artists wherever he goes.

S.M.U. PLAYERS DELIGHT MANY WITH OPERAS

The Southern Methodist University Glee and Choral club left Tuesday morning for Sweetwater where it presented the musical drama Ruth. They are gone but they left hundreds of warm friends in Cisco. Nothing but praise is heard on the streets for the individuals of the cast and the two programs presented Sunday and Monday evenings. The biblical opera, "Esther," presented Monday evening was beautiful, impressive and spiritually uplifting. The part of Esther, sung by Grace Mallard, and L. E. Shackelford, bass, as Ahasuerus, king of Persia, interpreted their parts to the praise of all. Haman, Mordchai and Zeresh demonstrated unusual ability in portraying the story of the contest between Haman and Mordchai. The entire performance is said to have been far above that of any heard here by any college group or other amateur performers. The choir of the First Methodist church and the Senior department of the First Methodist Sunday school is to be congratulated on bringing to Cisco this large organization of fifty-three people; too, for the first time present biblical operas and biblical musical dramas in Cisco. The productions were under the direction of J. Abner Sage, head of the voice department of the School of Music and the director of church music in the School of Theology, and Fluke Miles, assistant dramatic coach and business manager.

end of the first quarter was 6 to 3; at the half the score was 12 to 3. The Lobos did some of their best work in the third quarter and ran the score up to 21 while the Bulldogs could make only 4 points. This game gives the Lobos the right to play Kokomo for the county championship. Kokomo won the Class C championship and defeated Carbon, winners of Class B, made up of the smaller towns, by a decisive score, for the right to play the Class A winner. This play-off has not been arranged but will probably take place this weekend. The winner will then represent the county at the district tournament which will be played in Breckenridge next week. The large crowd witnessing last night's game in Breckenridge emphasizes the need of an adequate gym for Cisco. The Breckenridge gym will seat about 700 people and it was packed for the game last night. Had the game been

Extension Is Seen In Vet Insurance

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Sentiment has developed in the house veterans' committee in favor of giving more than 3,000,000 World War veterans another chance to take out government insurance.

Hearings will be started tomorrow on a bill to reopen for one year the time for conversion of government policies, and Chairman Johnson predicted today the measure would be passed without serious opposition.

When the time for conversion of government policies closed last July only 640,000 of the 4,000,000 men who served in the war had converted their policies.
