TEXAS

By WILL H. MAYES, Austin.

INDUSTRIES COMING SOUTH.

Those who watch the trend of industry and business have noticed the rather rapid movement of industries to the South. Most of this has been from the New England states to the South Atlantic coast states in the past decade, but gradually the trend has been westward until Texas is the State upon which the eyes of industrial managers are now fixed. In the cotton industry the census bureau found in November, 1927, that about half of the 36,000,000 spindles in place were in the North and half in the South, with at least a million of the northern spindles idle. These idle spindles probably will never be started again, since that is about the ratio at which they wear out and would have to be replaced with new spindles. The Atlantic coast states having already more than a reasonable quota of operating mills and the spindles of the North becoming inoperative at the rate of a million a year, Texas can well afford to engage in textile mill building at the rate of a million spindles a year to replace those disappearing annually in the North, since the demand for cotton goods remains about normal.

PINK BOLL WORM FIGHT.

Congress has appropriated $200,000 for immediate use in the pink boll worm fight in Texas, and there will be as little delay as possible in starting the campaign. Representative Claude Hudspeth stated in a report that the federal government does not establish non-cotton zones, but only ratifies what the states do. Therefore there need be no fears as to any hasty or radical action in establishing such zones. In the event such action becomes necessary, it has been the custom for the federal government to pay one-third of any losses, the state one-third, and the other third to be borne by owners of the lands in the zone area.

MEXICAN LABOR NOT INCLUDED.

It now seems reasonably certain that whatever action may be taken as to the Box bill it will be so amended as not to restrict Mexican seasonal labor from coming into this country. It was this feature of the bill that caused so much anxiety and worry to Texas agriculturists and stock growers who are so largely dependent on Mexican labor. The compromise was brought about largely through the activity of regional and local chambers of commerce, with the active assistance of several Texas members of Congress.

CISCO'S NEW HOTEL.

Cisco will be as proud as the proudest when its $400,000 hotel is completed and will have a right to be proud for such hotels are not built without much local effort and city pride, and usually, as with Cisco, only when its public spirited citizens are interested enough to take nice blocks of stock subscriptions. The new seven-story hotel may be put down as Cisco's first notable achievement of the new year.

DALLAS TRADE TRIP.

The Dallas "Good Will Tour" next month is to be a "de luxe" affair and is to include stops at 93 cities all the way from Mt. Pleasant to New Orleans and back, over all diverse routes. These trade processions are getting to be elaborate and extensive affairs, but are worth all they cost in creating mutual understandings and in keeping the trippers informed about the territory into which their trade extends.

AMARILLO'S BEAUTY PROGRAM.

Amarillo is going in for a city beautification. It will employ both a city forester and a landscape gardener, both of whom will co-operate with the city park commission and the city beautification committee in making Amarillo a "city beautiful." It is gratifying when a city like Amarillo, whose citizens are presumed to keep their minds fixed all the time on money-making and city growth, shows interest in its own attractiveness to the extent of employing experts to devote their entire time to city beautification.

LEADS IN GASOLINE OUTPUT.

Texas leads all other states as a petroleum refining center, and last year completed more new plant construction than any other state. This means that Texas continues to lead in the production of gasoline and all the other principal products from crude oil except fuel, in which California leads.

DOUBLING POWER PLANT.

To meet the increasing demand for power the Central power plant at New Braunfels will be doubled in capacity and will spend $1,500,000 this year to make it an 80,000 horse power plant.

THE WEATHER.

East Texas—Foggy and Thursday cloudy; occasional rains. West Texas—Partly cloudy; occasional rains in southeast portion.

COAL MINERS TOLD TO TAKE CASE IN COURT

WASHINGTON, March 7.—John L. Lewis, international head of the United Coal Mine Workers, told the senate interstate commerce committee, which is investigating the coal strike, that President Coolidge in 1925 refused to intervene to compel the soft coal operators to live up to the Jacksonville agreement. He urged them to take their troubles to the courts instead.

The sentence was reversed and remanded at a former sitting. The death sentence of Lawrence Davenport, negro, who slew O. F. Foster when the latter attempted to prevent him from attacking a girl companion after the negro had robbed Foster, was affirmed by the criminal appellate court.

WARSAW, March 7.—Anti-Semitic riots became serious in Lemberg today, when 100 persons were injured, many seriously. ## Star Lobo Sick; Was Left Behind

The Big Dam Lobo basketball team's chance in the state championship tournament received a severe blow when Bill Smith, star guard, was left behind when the team left today for the tournament, because of a case of influenza. There is a chance that Smith will get in the game when the Loboes meet Lubbock Friday evening at 4 o'clock. Coach Goughly announced, but the doctor has ordered him to stay in bed today and tomorrow. If sufficient improvement is shown in that time he will be permitted to go to Austin and participate in the games played by the Loboes. The Loboes will work out on the gym floor of the Fort Worth recreation hall this afternoon and will arrive in Austin tomorrow morning. They will get a chance Thursday to work out on the university gym, where all tournament games will be played.

Children's Home Head In Cisco

Rev. W. A. Nicholas, superintendent of the West Texas Children's Aid and Welfare association, with headquarters at Abilene, was in the city today in the interests of the association. He stated that the purposes of the association is to seek homeless and destitute children and become their friend and protector. The association undertakes to find homes for its charges in Christian families. R. Q. Lee of this city, is a member of the advisory board.

FORT WORTH MAN KIDDED IN CRASH

FORT WORTH, March 7.—O. H. Day, Jr., 24 Fort Worth, was almost instantly killed and J. T. Richeson, also of Fort Worth, was injured when they were returning from a party in the city. The car, which was returning from a party in the city, was struck by a truck three miles south of Alvarado about 11 o'clock Tuesday night and rolled off an embankment.

FOUR KILLED IN CRASH AT R. R. CROSSING

BILLVILLE, March 7.—Two men and two children were killed here in a crossing collision between a light coupe and a Santa Fe freight extra at Sanders Crossing on the main Houston-Hempstead highway late yesterday.

Mrs. Charles E. Brown, 20, driver of the coupe, Myrtle E. Sanders, 4, her sister; Jeanette Krueger, 4, a neighbor, and Hattie McDonald, an aged negro, were the victims. The accident occurred almost directly in front of the Sanders home, where the daughter, Mrs. Brown, had been visiting for several weeks.

LOOKING INTO REASONS FOR SCHOOL CRASH

BRECKENRIDGE, March 7.—A meeting between authorities of the local school system and representatives of the architect and contracting firms which had charge of the construction of the building was held Tuesday afternoon to determine upon a plan to prevent a repetition of the tragedy which yesterday took the life of 7-year-old Ione Culpepper, ward school pupil, when the plaster and metal ceiling of a room in the east ward school building here, fell. A teacher, Mrs. L. W. Hartsfield, and another girl student, were less seriously injured in the accident. W. G. Clarkson of Fort Worth, architect for the building, stated that the accident was the first of its character in his knowledge. He communicated with the contractors immediately after being informed of the tragedy and directed representatives of the firms to meet with himself and the school board here. The building was constructed in 1921 under the same contract with the high school and junior high school buildings. Superintendent L. T. Cook, who arrived from Boston, where he had been attending a meeting of the department of superintendents of the N. E. A. about an hour after the accident, today announced that the building would be closed indefinitely. No plans have been made for accommodation of the classes as yet.

CHISHOLM HELD WAITING ACTION OF GRAND JURY

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 7.—In the county jail here under the alias of George Smith to prevent other prisoners from doing him possible harm, George Chisholm, the father who drowned two of his three children because his common law wife nagged him about them, today awaited action of the grand jury which next week will be asked to indict him on two charges of murder.

Chisholm was brought to the county jail from Indiana Harbor today after pleading not guilty when arraigned yesterday on the murder charges, following his confession he shoved his sons, George, Jr., 9, and Edgar, 7, into the water of the Indiana Harbor ship canal after attaching a piece of railroad rail to their bodies with wire.

Landing Fields Commercial Necessities

The country has recently witnessed one of the greatest and most interesting developments in the history of the World—the use of the Air in radio. As important and as interesting as this development has been, it will not compare in either importance or in interest with the development that is about to take place, and is now actually taking place—the use of the Air as a highway for both travel and commerce. It cannot be denied that the affairs of mankind are moving faster and transportation is no exception to the rule, especially the transportation of urgent mail and express. The Air Mail and Air Express services now provide the swiftest system of transportation available for buying, selling and shipping of merchandise, and the progressive business man, one to whom time is valuable and opportunities mean money, will receive his quotations and order his merchandise by Air Mail, and receive and ship an urgently needed portion of it by Air Mail and Air Express. Only lethargy and lack of knowledge can hold back commercial Air Transport in this country, and even then it cannot hold it back for long. Air Transport is PROGRESS. Nothing can stop it!

Very few people appreciate the advantages of using the Air Mail in business. Fewer still understand where the Air Express may be used to a decided advantage. Merchandise of nearly every description is now being handled by Air, both Mail and Express. Air Mail has brought Chicago one day nearer the Atlantic Seaboard, the Pacific Coast two days, Texas about the same, and intermediate points in proportion. So far as express is concerned the American Railway Express delivers the express to the air field to be loaded in the plane, and at the point of destination again picks up the package and attempts to deliver every such parcel to the address within a half hour after its arrival. Exactly the same time-saving efficiency that speeds the Air Mail applies to the Air Express. The American Railway Express has contracted with the Air Mail contract lines to carry urgent express matter by Air in the same planes that carry the Air Mail.

Transport lines now in actual operation, and the new lines to be put in operation shortly in the South, it is possible to save or gain time by using Air Mail or Air Express to practically any place in the United States, and soon in Canada, not only to cities touched by air lines, but through a combination of air and rail hauls to points not themselves directly on the air lines. It is not necessary for an industry or an individual to be located directly on an Air Line to benefit by it. Air Transport of both Mail and Express is not a thing of the future; as many people may suppose—because of the lack of proper available information on the subject; but it is here TODAY; ready to serve all those to whom the saving of time is of value in a business or in a personal transaction. Time is valuable. To mankind it represents LIFE, in business time represents MONEY. Money may be saved or earned by the gaining or saving of time. Time and money may both be saved by making a more complete use of the Air, one of God's greatest gifts to man. And before the cities of America can profit from Air Transportation, they must first establish modern Landing Fields!

FRANKSTON, March 7.—The Frankston high school building was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock with a loss of $40,000. Insurance of $30,000 was carried. None of the pupils were injured.

Big Dam Fighting Loboes Gone to State Meet; Have Chance to Play Forest High, Old Grid Foe

Goughly's team of star basketball players left this morning for Austin to participate in the tournament for the state championship. The Cisco Loboes will meet the Lubbock High school basketball team in the first round of the University interscholastic league tournament at 4 o'clock Friday evening. The winner of this game will meet Forest Avenue High school of Dallas at 10 o'clock Friday night. Forest drew a bye in the first round and does not play until the second round. Last season the Loboes defeated the Lubbock team in the A. A. U. tournament held in Cisco. If the Loboes win over Lubbock they will be meeting Forest for the first time that the two schools ever met in a basketball contest. Football fans still remember the great 13 to 13 tie game that the Loboes played Forest in 1925 at the Fair park stadium in Dallas, when the Loboes came from behind to tie the score in one of the greatest uphill fights ever seen in Dallas. These fans also remember the 7 to 0 game won by the Forest boys the following week after the Loboes had played three grueling contests in eight days and had been given the right to go to the finals, but had to play Forest again in a semi-final game when Waco protested Beaumont and was upheld in the protest. If the Loboes meet Forest there will be only one Lobo on the basketball team who took part in these memorable games, but all the team saw and remembers the contest. Lubbock defeated Falls in the finals of their district and defeated the strong Canyon team in their bi-district elimination. Lubbock is coached by Dell Morgan, former Austin College star and team-mate of Coach "Crip" Goughly of the Loboes. Schedule of Games. A dispatch from Austin, giving details of the tournament follows: "Byes" were drawn Tuesday by Forest Avenue High school, Dallas and Temple High school, among the 14 interscholastic basketball teams to compete for the state championship in the annual two-day tournament beginning Friday morning, the University interscholastic league announced Tuesday. Forest will meet the winner of the Lubbock-Cisco match and Temple the survivor of the El Paso-San Saba contest. Friday's pairings: 10 a. m.—Wichita Falls-McKinney. 11 a. m.—Beaumont-Athens. 2 p. m.—Corpus Christi-Yancey. 3 p. m.—Austin - Brackenridge (San Antonio). 4 p. m.—Lubbock-Cisco. 7 p. m.—Temple vs. Winner of San Saba-El Paso round. 8 p. m.—Winner of Wichita Falls-McKinney plays winner of Beaumont-Athens. 9 p. m.—Winner of Corpus Christi-Yancey plays winner of Austin-Brackenridge (San Antonio). 10 p. m.—Forest (Dallas) plays winner of Lubbock-Cisco.

The building is two stories and is of brick, the architecture being of the Spanish type. There are 18 rooms for patients. Each room has telephone and radio. One remarkable detail is that when a patient signals for a nurse, the time the signal is given is automatically registered, through a clock arrangement. Formal opening of the hospital is planned for Sunday and the public is invited to visit the building at that time.

Negro Voting Action Hangs Fire

MOODY SAYS ACT WAS TO PREVENT VOTE

AUSTIN, March 7.—The possibility of another meeting of the state Democratic executive committee, as suggested Tuesday by Governor Moody to take some cognizance of the law aimed to bar negro voting in primaries, remained undecided Tuesday night in the absence of Chairman D. W. Wilcox from Georgetown.

The possible second meeting of the committee before the primary conventions would afford opportunity for the committee to reconsider, "if it cares to," the criticized resolution adopted at the recent meeting, prescribing adoption of the Democratic pledge by precinct and county conventions as a prerequisite for participation in them, the governor said.

Wilcox had gone to Cameron and could not be reached for a statement as to whether the committee will meet again.

Necessity of Meeting Cited.

The statute passed by the Fortieth Legislature to supplant the one ruled unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court, "had no other purpose than to exclude negroes from Democratic primaries," Governor Moody said.

Since the committee at its recent meeting here took no steps to enforce the law, "it is altogether possible" that it will be necessary for the committee to meet prior to the primaries," he said, adding that "it can at that time consider, or reconsider, the resolution which has been the subject of criticism."

As passed by the committee, the controversial resolution was aimed to prohibit "bolting" of dissatisfied voters from the party ranks. Little mention was made of the negro voting angle. The new law empowered the executive committee to fix qualifications for membership in a political party. It replaces the one declared unconstitutional in a negro's appeal from El Paso, attacking the former law barring negro voting.

Statement by Governor

"The statute passed by the last legislature was introduced by Senator Lewis of Navasota at my request in order that the Democratic party might be able to exclude negroes from Democratic primaries. The statute had no other purpose. It is a principle of law that a political party is a voluntary organization and that the party as such has the power to control the qualifications of its own members if a statute has been enacted providing the necessary machinery or committee to act.

"Under the act passed by the last session of the legislature a primary election is not an election.

"It is altogether possible since no action was taken by the committee under this statute, that it will be necessary for it to meet prior to the primaries, and if it does hold such a meeting, it can at that time consider, or reconsider, the resolution which has been the subject of criticism."

Cisco's Big Dam and the Loboos Continue to Feature in Hotel Names Offered by News Readers

Here are more names suggested for Cisco's new $400,500 hotel. If the committee can't find a suitable name from the hundreds that have been suggested by Daily News readers, it will be a hard-boiled committee and one hard to please.

It should be borne in mind by those who offer suggestions that the $10 will go to the person who first suggests the name selected by the committee. That being true it is useless to send in a name that has already been suggested. Look over the list daily and think up a name that has not already appeared among the many. It will be noted that the same name has been suggested by several persons, but only one of them has a chance at the prize money. Today's list follows:

OIL INDUSTRY HEARING SET BY RAIL BODY

AUSTIN, Mar. 7.—With a view of solving the problem which now confronts the oil industry in Texas largely brought about by overproduction, the railroad commission announced it will hold a hearing March 10.

The specific propositions to be considered are:

First, the exact situation of the oil industry in the state today; second, the necessary remedy and the method of applying it; third, the discussion of any other matters that may be helpful in dealing with existing conditions and the conservation of oil resources.

"The practically unanimous judgment of all concerned is that this situation is the result of over production of crude oil, beginning with the bringing in of the Seminole field in Oklahoma, and augmented by the addition of the Yates, Hendrick and other pools in West Texas."

"Prices in crude oil have steadily declined as the flush of production has gone on the market. Daily the construction of additional storage is being made by large and small companies at great economic waste."

Leap Year Supper Planned by Girls

FORT WORTH, March 7.—The first leap year en masse attack of Texas Christian university co-eds upon the battle front of boydom at the university will take place March 14 when a girl-dating supper will be given in the cafeteria.

While there is no doubt that many individual leap-year campaigns have already been waged, the supper will mark the first concerted attack at the college. The dormitory girls will have the privilege and obligation of "collaring" such members of the stronger sex as they may choose and take them to the supper.

For advance information, no hint of resistance is being planned by the defense. Indications are that if "woman haters" exist here, their aversions will be completely mollified ere long.

Loco Weed Big Menace to Stockmen

MARFA, Mar. 7.—A meeting of ranchmen from Presidio, Jeff Davis and Brewster counties was held here for the purpose of determining upon methods of controlling loco poisoning of livestock in this section and for the laying of plans for the establishment of a laboratory in the Big Bend district to study the problem. A tentative budget was worked out which will be presented to the state legislature for its approval.

The loco evil in this section has become alarming. A survey made by 28 ranchmen last year in the counties of Jeff Davis, Presidio and Brewster showed a loss of $300,000 from the loco weed. In the opinion of prominent ranchmen, the loco weed is the greatest menace to the cattle industry in this section.

JOHNNY REBEL PRAISES HOME FOR VETERANS

Mr. Mitchell said: "The Confederate home is the proper place for old veterans of the Lost Cause. We have all the privileges and most of the luxuries. Under the able and efficient management of Supt. A. W. Taber the home is better managed than ever in its history. There is hardly an inmate of the home that is not the personal friend of Superintendent Taber. He is most solicitous for the welfare of the old soldiers. My daughter, Mrs. Dr. Gibson, of Lufkin, has impounded me often to make my home with her, and she is amply able to take care of me, but I prefer the Confederate home and expect to spend the remainder of my life among my "old comrades." Mr. Mitchell concluded.

No Cotton for Brewster County

Commission Took No Final Action At Tuesday Meeting; Brewster's One Plantation Badly Infected

AUSTIN, March 7.—Quasi-quarantine regulations for seven Texas counties newly infested with pink boll worms were recommended late Tuesday by the State Pink Boll Worm commission which announced it would continue its executive session into today.

The commission said no noncotton zone should be declared except over Brewster county, among the original seven counties which have been embattled with the pest for years.

"In this county the commission finds that there is but a single plantation and that badly infested and regulations can not be provided to cope with the situation there," the statement said.

Data to Moody Today Complete recommendations will be made to Governor Moody Wednesday.

The body's decision to begin no sweeping noncotton procedure this year was believed to obviate the need for a $10,000,000 federal appropriation, which George B. Terrell, state agricultural commissioner, had requested in the event such drastic measures were found necessary.

After the governor is given the full report, he probably by proclamation will request the commissioner of agriculture to put into effect the desired restrictions, which among other things would require fumigation of lint, the crushing of seed and would prevent the shipment of infested cotton into "clean areas."

Belief was that the meeting dispipated the possibility of a special legislative session to appropriate money for combating the worms and paying damages to farmers in the event they were ordered to discontinue growing cotton.

Session Talk Still-While the West Texas chamber of commerce, in a meeting at Colorado, Texas, resolved that the governor should convene such a session in the event planting was prohibited or congress failed to set aside money for eradication, the request probably will not be pushed, due to the turn of affairs, it was learned.

Homer D. Wade, manager of the chamber, said a call was suggested only in the event of revolutionary action or shortage of even a relatively small amount of funds necessary for regulated zones. The state press has provided $200,000 a year for the biennium. Commissioner Terrell announced some time ago that he believed the affair could be handled with about that amount.

Counties reported newly infested are: Ector, Martin, Midland, Howard, Dawson, Andrews and Glasscock. Gaines originally was listed among them, but later investigations proved that not the case, Terrell said.

Originally infested area: El Paso, Hudspeth, Presidio, Brewster, Ward, Reeves and Pecos counties.

A. L. Marriott, chairman of the federal horticultural board, had recommended in a letter to Governor Moody that planting be prohibited in Brewster county.

He also proposed that the regulation be continued in the old infested area and put on in the new but that notice be given that a noncotton zone will be established as to this area as soon as a plan for adequate compensation of farmers is provided for—such plan to cover both the cost of any planting which may have been done prior to its approval as well as any loss due to substitution of other crops.

Marriott pointed out that the federal government is more inclined to give aid where eradication and not control is the objective.

"Adequate compensation of farmers means heavy cost," he said, "and in my judgment should be looked upon as largely a national obligation." The effort is fundamentally for the protection of the entire cotton belt. "I am positive, furthermore, that all the cotton states will approve, if not demand, an immediate effort to eradicate the pests in these new areas and will join in securing the necessary federal action."

FREAK PLANS TO COPE WITH FLOOD WATERS

KANSAS CITY, March 7.—If congress fails to find a suitable plan for control of the devastating Mississippi Valley floods among those now under consideration, it might be well to turn to the Missouri Association of Highway Engineers. At a recent meeting of the organization here, many unique ideas for control of excess waters in the stream were presented.

One of the plans provided for an elaborate system of steam pipes, to be laid in the bed of the Mississippi throughout the danger zone. These, the originator believes could be employed during flood times to boil and evaporate the water, passing it off into harmless clouds of steam. Another suggestion included the installation of gigantic pumps along the river front, and a mammoth pipe line extending to the Gulf of Mexico. The pumps would be utilized to force surplus waters from the valley into the gulf.

One of the most novel plans urged that large ocean steamers be anchored in the middle of the Mississippi, and their propellers set at full speed to set up currents to expedite the flow of congested waters.

Oil-Electric Locomotives Win Increasing Favor in Industry

THE American Rolling Mill Company and the Donner Steel Company have each ordered an oil-electric locomotive for switching service in their yards. The Donner Steel Company will use its 60-ton oil-electric locomotive at its plant in Buffalo, N. Y.; and the American Rolling Mill Company will put its 100-ton oil-electric locomotive in service at its plant in Middletown, Ohio. A few months ago the American Rolling Mill Company bought a 60-ton oil-electric locomotive for yard work in its plant at Ashland, Ky., and the second order for a larger unit is the outcome of the excellent showing made by the 60-ton machine.

The freight-handling yard of a steel plant or rolling mill calls for continual movement on the part of locomotives engaged in shifting loaded and unloaded cars and in making up out-going trains or in breaking up arriving ones laden with essential supplies. The locomotives must start, stop, and reverse their direction at frequent intervals, and this imposes operating stresses that induce heavy maintenance charges, not to mention a very wasteful consumption of fuel when the work is done by steam locomotives.

The oil-electric locomotive is especially well fitted for duty of this sort, because it uses fuel only when in motion, and it can exert its full power at all speeds. That is to say, it is able to overcome the inertia of heavy dead loads in starting trains, and once in motion it can pick up speed rapidly. Furthermore, the oil-electric locomotive can run in either direction with equal efficiency and speed.

The primary source of power in these locomotives is one or more 300-hhp. Ingersoll-Rand oil engines—the Ingersoll locomotive being equipped with two of these engines. The engines drive General Electric generators which furnish current to operate the four motors geared to the driving wheels. In fact, all the wheels are driving wheels, and every pound of an oil-electric locomotive's total weight is effective in giving the locomotive its grip on the rails.

The two oil-electric locomotives for the steel companies mentioned are the joint products of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, the General Electric Company, and the American Locomotive Company.

STYLE HINTS

By ALICE LANGELIER International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, March 7.—Evening headwear now being shown in Paris for spring and summer evenings is elaborate and dignified for both long and short locks.

For the hair which is worn with the knot low on the neck, there is one made of two pleated fans of the material which makes the dress, the fans being on either side of the chignon and with a gold or silver tassel hanging from each one.

Still another headdress to be worn with the low knot consists of a circular piece of material fitting around the knot. It is heavily beaded.

Inasmuch as very few Parisiennes have taken to long hair the designers are obliged to provide them with headgear suitable for short. It took them much longer than the American to decide to bob, and now that they have done it, they seem loathe to change. For, in spite of what many people think, French women are conservative in their styles, and according to the fashion leaders, very often lag behind their American cousins.

A new headress for short locks consists of a roll of velvet outlined with a row of cut crystals. It fits tightly about the head. With it comes a little chin-strap made of a chain of crystals.

Another charming headress for short hair comes in the shape of a cap made by winding long braids of silver or gold lame round and round the head. Still another is made of net which fits very close to the head and has a little ruffle all around, edged with gold braid. Like the little caps of the Middle Ages is one in fine pearl lattice work moulding the head in most becoming manner.

JULES VERNE NO TRAVELER;

author of the celebrated "Around the World in 80 Days," whose centenary is now being commemorated in France, did no traveling to speak of. Like many other Frenchmen he was a great home-body and preferred his little old town of Amiens to any place he ever wrote about.

Up at five every morning, Verne wrote his mysterious tales until 10, then strolled along the boulevards talking with friends until midday. His afternoons were consecrated to reading and music which he adored. He took great interest in the national school of music which was just then beginning at Amiens and attended every concert, good, bad or indifferent that was given in the place.

Good luck came to him with "Around the World in 80 Days" and "Michel Strogoff" which held the board for long seasons at the Chatelet theater in Paris. Each representation netted him 600 francs, about $100 in those days and a very large sum. But in spite of his change in fortune, he did not change his habits and went on living in his economical manner.

His one luxury was his subscription to the theater of Amiens, and he left it regularly at 10 o'clock, no matter if it was in the very middle of the act, for his habit of early retiring was adamant.

Delightful entertainer of children he was always actively interested in their education and was a most helpful member of the Amiens hospital.

Justice North of The Rio Canadian

"Justice north of the Canadian," as it is administered, was seen by a party of Cisco folk who attended court at Pampa, Texas, the first of the week, consisting of J. W. Tripitt, J. Lee Cearley, L. A. White and Newton Mahaney. Craving the pardon of the court in advance, and disclaiming any idea of contempt of court, Postmaster Tripitt related the judicial proceedings as seen by the Cisco attendees:

The Court—"Mr. Clerk, call the jurors."

Clerk—"Hiram Bradberry!" (A hand popped up). "I am here as a substitute juror for Hiram Bradberry," declared Onus Askins.

Clerk—"Charley Oliver!" (Another hand raised toward the ceiling). "I am substituting for Charley," said Baldy Oliver. This proceeding continued through the reading of the jury list, with a few of the regular panel responding according to the names drawn by the jury commission.

The Court—"This is a case of the State of Texas vs. Bill Stovall, charged with the manufacture and sale of liquors capable of producing intoxication; known in local circles as roasting ear juice, mountain dew and certain other euphousous monikers. The defendant will approach the bar of the court!"

Defendant—"From the rear of the court room?" "You want me?"

The Court—"Yes. Do you want a suspended sentence?"

Defendant at bar—"Yes."

The Court—"Have you an attorney?"

Defendant—"No, sir."

The Court—"All right. Take your seat. The court will appoint a lawyer, J. Lee Cearley, to defend you, and we will fix it up. Take your seat."
