TEXAS

By WILL H. MAYES, Austin.

TEXAS FROST DAMAGE—Texas is so large, with such a varied climate, that it is impossible to even approximate the damage from the last cold spells. In the Panhandle, where the cold was most severe, planting was not far enough advanced to do much damage. Perhaps the fruit and truck crop of the entire state was damaged 30 per cent, but much of the truck can be replanted. Much cotton will have to be replanted, but the loss to cotton will be merely in seed and labor of replanting, as the season is still early enough for planting. The snow and rain were blessings to most sections and more than offset whatever damage the state as a whole may have suffered from the cold.

LIGHT LIVESTOCK LOSSES—First reports as to the loss of sheep and goats from the cold were much exaggerated, though some flocks that had been sheared and were without shed protection suffered severely. Very few cattle died from the cold. Altogether, the losses were much lighter than was expected, due largely to the splendid condition of the livestock at the time of the cold spell. Texas pastures were much better at this season of the year.

WICHITA CLOTHING PLANT—Wichita Falls is to have a $200,000 clothing factory to manufacture shirts, pants, overalls and play clothes for children. Work is to begin in fifteen days. The president of the company, speaking of the enterprise, said: "Texas was selected as the location of the new factory because of the possibilities offered for developing the business and its proximity to the source of our raw material. We hope to build the largest garment manufacturing business in the South."

WANTS RACING PROTECTED—The Texas Thoroughbred Horse Breeder's association is going to ask the next legislature to pass a bill for state control of horse racing, hoping thereby to secure uniform rules governing all race tracks, to free racing meets from objectionable gambling and other practices that brought horse racing in Texas into bad repute. There are several million dollars invested in thoroughbred horses in Texas, and breeding and training thoroughbreds would become one of the great industries of the state, in the opinion of the association, with proper breed protection of the race track. It is pointed out that racing contests are as essential to an interest in and the development of fine horses as athletic contests are to the development of athletes. Texas has the climate, the natural pastures and the altitude for producing the fastest horses, horses with the best bones and lungs—and with the race track safeguarded from irregularities by state control, many of the leading breeders of the country would establish ranches and stables and do their winter training in this state. Horsemen believe that with the needed legal protection of a kind now guaranteed in many states, the industry would soon be increased tenfold and Texas would be supplying the country with its fastest thoroughbreds.

OKLAHOMA COMING—The chairman of the Oklahoma Democratic committee says more than 5000 Oklahomans will attend the National Democratic convention at Houston. Four hundred are coming from the town of Seminole. Most of the 5000 will travel to Houston in automobiles, using their own camping equipment, and asking only for camping space and facilities. From all over the country great motorcades will be headed for Texas in June, and Texas should be ready for them. Thousands of these visitors will be prospective and will locate in the state if they are favorably impressed.

MOODY'S MUSICAL MOOD—Governor Moody, in proclaiming May 4 to 12 as Music Week in Texas, indulges in poetical sentiment, and says: "Though music every one may neighbor. It is a common language between rich and poor, between cultured and uncultured, between native and foreign tongues. It can cause a wave of harmony to sweep over any gathering of people and its blessings should be extended to all the people. 'One has said: 'Music washes away from the soul the dust of every-day life.'"

STUDENTS' UNION SUBSCRIPTION—Passing the $100,000 goal for the students of the University of Texas as their part of the $1,000,000 fund to be raised for the new union buildings, they have asked to raise $150,000, maintaining $250,000 in state. The half has been raised will be Board of Regents of the structures, it is being shown

Cisco Folks Sell 3 Cars of Hogs

RECEIPTS FOR THREE MONTHS ARE $29,000

That Cisco Cooperative Livestock association is still functioning and proving a blessing to the farmers of the Cisco country was demonstrated anew with the receipt of the return sales of the last shipment of livestock shipped Tuesday from Cisco to the Fort Worth market. The net receipts from this shipment were $7,522.33, and came from three cars of hogs of 333 head, and one car of cattle of 47 head. The net receipts from the hogs amounted to $5,398.89; and the net receipts from the cattle were $2,123.44. Checks covering the net sales of this livestock is now in the First National bank at Cisco, and each of the individual shippers are being paid their pro rata part of this fund through the bank. With the proceeds of this shipment shipped by farmers in the Cisco country so far this year have reached the neat sum of $29,032.33. This money has been distributed among a large number of farmers. These sales demonstrates the value of cooperative marketing. Had these individuals shipped as such, the transportation charges would have been so heavy that the marketing would have been unprofitable. To have disposed of their livestock to local buyers would have proven equally unprofitable. By marketing cooperatively transportation charges are less and easily met, enabling the shippers to reap all the profits from the sale.

Men's class will meet in the main auditorium.

Box and Pie Supper By Dothan Boys and Girls Club Tonight
The Daily News is requested to announce that there will be a box and pie supper at the Dothan school house tonight, for the benefit of the boys and girls club of that school. The proceeds of this supper will be added to a fund to defray the expenses of the club members who will attend the farmers short course at College Station in July. Cisco people are cordially requested by Miss Ruth Ramey to attend this entertainment, and assist the club members to attend the short course.

In this movement as over Texas is even exceeding the expectations of the committee in charge of raising the funds.

WASHINGTON BOYS GETTING HORNED TOADS

Young Milburn McCarty, son of Judge and Mrs. Milburn McCarty of Eastland, who is one of the senate pages, is getting quite a bit of publicity as well as being honored by distinguished people at the nation's capital. The Dallas News carried a recent story from its Washington correspondent regarding this Eastland county boy when he was a dinner guest of Vice President Dawes. Incidentally this young man is putting Texas on the map in a rather substantial manner by introducing a product of West Texas in Washington. "At the Dawes dinner," the report says, "This youthful Texan was called on by the host to make a response. He did it with true Texas confidence. Mayor Jimmie Walker of New York, said the Texas youth was born to the job. But he remained for the discovery of a horned frog, said to have lived for 31 years in the corner stone of the court house of young McCarty's home town, to furnish him an opportunity of proving the importance of that part of Texas. The horned toad story was printed through the east with almost as much liberality as an up-to-date murder trial, but many were skeptical, some even insisting that frogs didn't have horns. McCarty stood on his intimate acquaintance with everything that Texas in Eastland county in thereabouts and in order to make good his assertions of such embellishments sent a hurry-up order home for a few specimens. A dozen or more were shipped there by express. Not only did the truth about the Texas product appear but there was created an immediate frog market. All his boy friends wanted one and McCarty has a few of his stock remaining, not counting the increase on one toad family, which was discovered a few days ago."

RESURRECTION WILL BE DISCUSSED BY PASTOR

H. F. Peiman, pastor of the Lutheran church, announces as his topic for Sunday night, "The Resurrection From the Dead." In this sermon he promises to answer the question, "Does Scripture teach a millennium or is this an idle dream of those who do not know scripture?" There is a great division in the Christian church as to whether or not scripture teaches a millennium, and a still greater division on what constitutes the millennium. In this, like all other doctrines, the Lutheran church takes only scripture for its guide. And on the basis of scripture this question will also be answered Sunday night," the pastor said.

There's a Time for Everything, and Now is the Time for the Spic New Straw; Get Yours--Don't Break Law

Well, it's time for the new straw hat! Every season has its duties and responsibilities. It has its garb and is befitting the kind of mood necessary for the mental attitude required for the proper functioning in the performance of those duties.

Life and its accomplishments are mostly matters of psychology and mental attitude, scientists tell us. If one is to play golf, it has been recognized that one must dress for golf if the greatest reaction is to be obtained. The oil man crosses the part; the tennis player, the football player, the baseball player, the soldier, the sailor, the minister, the mechanic, the nurse, the poet, the artist—in fact all distinctive groups of human activities—dress, the part and exude a peculiar atmosphere all their own. So marked is this distinction that any one who has observed his fellowman can almost invariably pick out the different pursuants by the dress or air of the individual under consideration. It has even been said that different colors have a vast influence on the temperament and even bodily health of the person wearing them. It is known that green is cool, yellow is restful, red is warm and so on, while certain shades of grey tend to make one melancholy. So much for that.

Spring is the season for beginning new plans. Since it is a season of beginning, its visions and ideals are dependent largely on hope and optimism. A man must be imbued with an unquestionable belief in his ability to put it over if he is to succeed. Then, let's dress the part. Spring is the dress-up season because it gives hope and a willingness to strive. Be, get into your straw. A man must be imbued with spring suit, shirt and tie, as well. The Daily News has been wearing its straw for several days and there is no earthly reason for the backward guys to hesitate longer. Let's dress the part, for there is lots to hope for and lots of striving necessary to attain it.

Walsler Pleads Insanity in Murder Trial

Plunges to Death

Two Are Hurt When Scaffold Falls

A RISKY EXPERIMENT

What do you think of Judge Lindsey's companionate marriage plan?

Perhaps you have not analyzed the judge's proposition. Here it is in a compact: In speaking of companionate marriage, Judge Lindsey declares that he is not advocating a new institution, but is merely giving a name to one that already exists—the judge is referring to the couples who now marry just to be together and who do not want or have children; such a state of matrimony he labels "companionate marriage."

Judge Lindsey would recognize and encourage companionate (childless) marriage as a distinctive type of wedlock; he would give it specific legal status through having laws passed (1st) to legalize birth control and make its methods available to everyone; (2nd) to permit childless couples through joint request to have their marital bonds severed without fees; (3rd) to abolish all childless couples save in existing sharply be- and the marriage with gaining. If a couple in companionate marriage should have a child, then the alliance would automatically fall into the class of "family marriage," the obligations of which could not be dodged nor its bonds so easily dissolved.

Judge Lindsey contends that companionate marriage is quite different from trial marriage. In trial marriage, he avers, the contracting parties enter into the state with the idea of impermanency; while in the companionate they unite with the purpose of remaining together.

It is Judge Lindsey's idea that his plan of companionate marriage would permit young couples who now cannot afford marriage to live together legally, and continue school work, without assuming the present marital responsibilities and facing the problem of having children until they are wanted and can be properly cared for.

The judge affirms that a well shaped-up companionate marriage law would reduce restlessness and high tension of the sexes—would diminish misconduct, prevent lives from becoming wrecked through mistaking one thing for another, and halt the game of the gold-digger wife. Maybe so.

But on the face of things it might appear that the indiscriminate broadcasting of satisfactory contraceptive methods would advance moral laxity; and that to get out of as it is to get do would marry with the notion of abandoning their tired of them; and that any hasty marriage and hasty ermine our social structure. mind is capable of anticipies which will arise in any to tell if Judge Lindsey's companionate scheme would work would be to try it. If it should fail there might be the devil to pay. And the devil seldom fails to collect his debts.

MORE INTERESTING THAN WAR

Henry Kittredge Norton, author of "Back of War," points out in that book that there are at least 23 causes of war. Five of these are primitive and have been more or less eliminated. They are plunder, land, conquest, honor and revenge. Another five are social and are still very active forces in the world. They are dynastic ambitions, racial rivalry, religious intolerance, patriotism and nationalism. A third group is composed of economic causes, which are far from a permanent, peaceful solution. They are food supply, surplus population, trade, colonies and imperialism. The last eight causes he calls political. They are national unity, national prestige, internal unrest, foreign intrigue, armaments, alliances and treaties, diplomacy, propaganda. It will be seen that some of the items in these different groups overlap. Very few of them can be brought to any simple solution merely by signatures on dotted lines. To win through them to peace will require much determination, hard study, a good deal of give and take between nations, an earnest seeking after genuine mutual understanding, recognition of a slowly dawning truth that the best good of any people cannot be attained at the expense of any other people. Getting at world peace by eliminating or harmonizing these 23 possible causes of war ought to be more attractive to thinking beings than warfare. Here are problems for minds to tackle, for faith and courage and vision. Would not exercising these human qualities be more satisfactory than firing guns or pouring deadly chemicals all over the landscape?

"KICKING" A BAD HABIT

A lot of people "kick" just from force of habit. Few people at home are as polite to each other as they are when out in company. Few citizens will praise our institutions and industries to each other as they would to a foreigner. We have many persons in public and private life who howl about the telephone company and complain that it is the "richest corporation in the world." They fail to tell the other side of the story; that it is owned by nearly 400,000 individual American stockholders; that its wealth is merely in the aggregate of the capital required to furnish a national and an international telephone service; that its actual earnings on each dollar invested are very modest and would be considered entirely too meager by the average storekeeper or industry doing business on a small scale; that American telephone rates are so much cheaper and the service is so much better than in other countries that there is really no comparison; that there are some 18,000,000 telephones in use in the United States, which is many times more than are used by all the rest of the nations in the world combined; that service such as the American people enjoy could not be rendered by an unconnected group of individual companies using different types of equipment and methods of operation. It is always well to consider the other side of the picture when kicking about the size of the telephone or any other industry, when such industry is required to render a universal service in every nook and corner of a country as large as ours.

Personal Opinions

By W. H. ALBURN.

CLEAN YOUTH

Here's a blast of youth about our young people from Chas. S. Osborn, former governor of Michigan, who "has gone to places and seen things" from his childhood up, and knows how to tell about it. These youngsters, he says, who are supposed to be "bound for hell in a handbasket," are better than those who were despised of half a century ago, and turned out all right. "I have seven children and twelve grandchildren, and they are my intimate friends. All of them are so much better than I was that I am ashamed of the memory. They have young friends, and they are as fine as my own. They come to live with me and camp with me, and live every phase of life with me, and I know them and the God in them. In no previous age were young people so clean-looking and beautiful and wholesome as now."

FREE VERSE DIES

A glance at the new poetry in the Literary Digest and other reviews, and current magazines generally, reveals hardly a trace of free verse. Three or four years ago the magazines were full of formless poetry. It was going to triumph over the old verse. Already it has gone, and why? Because it lacked the essential elements of poetry, rhythm and beauty. The best of it possessed some of these qualities. But mostly the free verse poets, ignoring them, wrote in an unpoetic, merely fresh prose. Rhythm is not essential, though often an added beauty. So the old-fashioned standard was right. Poetry is song. It must have a singing quality. Free verse struts and squawks.

ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS

The National Crime commission discovers some interesting facts regarding American failures to catch and punish offenders against the law. Some of our cities do fairly well in arresting criminals. But most of them don't. New York makes arrests in only 14 per cent of her burglaries, and St. Louis in only 8 per cent of burglaries and 11 per cent of robberies. England and Wales make arrests varying from 3 per cent in burglary cases to 80 per cent in robberies and 5100 per cent in manslaughter. New York convicts 20 per cent of those arrested for felonies. Cleveland convicts 10 per cent of all criminal cases. St. Louis convicts in only 4 per cent of forgery cases and 2 per cent of larceny cases. England and Wales show convictions ranging from 35 per cent in manslaughter cases to 100 per cent for forgery. Canada convicts 72 per cent of all arrested.

JUNKING WARSHIPS

Somebody repeats again the familiar misstatement that the United States was "cheated by Great Britain" in the late naval reduction party, and scrapped more tonnage than Britain did. So the facts may as well be dragged out again. After the armistice Uncle Sam kept his fighting fleet intact, while Britain started right in junking warships. She destroyed virtually 1,500,000 tons. Then, when she signed the disarmament treaty, she destroyed also, in accordance with that agreement, 473,000 tons of modern dreadnaughts and 334,000 tons of

5,000 CHICKS AT CROSS PLAINS HATCHERY
CROSS PLAINS, April 20.—Porter J. Davis operates a big hatchery and poultry farm just south of town, and he has around 5,000 small chicks now in his yards, from frying size down. It is an interesting picture to view such a large flock of baby chicks—all solid white.
Mr. Davis started his hatchery here on a small scale about two years ago, and is doing a good business, doing custom hatching and selling baby chicks and fryers. The poultry industry here has shown a marked increase in recent years. The turkey business is proving to be a profitable one and should be encouraged, too.

"I found Cardui to be an excellent tonic. After I had taken it a few weeks, I began to pick up and to gain in weight and strength.

WATER SOURCES ARE TO BE EXAMINED

BROWNWOOD, April 20. — An inspection of water sources in the northern part of Brown county, to determine whether or not these streams are polluted and unsanitary, will be made just as soon as a representative of the state sanitary department of Austin, arrives, it was announced today by Thomas B. Bailey, city health doctor.

A probe into alleged unsanitary conditions existing in the numerous oil camps in the county, is also to be made, Dr. Bailey said. If the inspection proves that the streams are polluted and of unsanitary conditions, rigid laws will be enforced compelling extreme health measures be taken by individuals living near the streams to prevent it from further contamination, it was said.

Lone Star Gas Co.'s 3,500-foot Gas Pipe-Line Suspension Bridge Across Red River

BRIDGING THE GAP

Between the Gas Fields and Your City---To Serve You!

LONE STAR GAS COMPANY is a producer, purchaser, pipe line transporter and wholesaler of natural gas. It bridges the gap between the gas fields and your local gas company's city distribution lines, and thus serves you by backing up the service of your local company.

Symbolical of LONE STAR GAS SERVICE is the 3,500-foot suspension bridge shown above, that was built at great cost to carry LONE STAR's large Southern Oklahoma pipe lines across the Red River, near Byers, Texas.

The erecting of this gas pipe line bridge to make a dangerous river crossing safe—and the erecting of a similar bridge 2,100 feet in length across the Brazos River near Granbury to carry our main pipe lines from West Texas—are merely typical of the length to which LONE STAR GAS COMPANY goes to insure continuous gas service to dozens of communities dependent on its lines for natural gas.

"Bridging the gap"—yes, this may well be applied to LONE STAR GAS COMPANY's entire function of delivering natural gas from many gas fields to many distant communities. It embraces not only mile after mile of main pipe lines, but large compressor stations costing millions of dollars, and a trained and experienced organization.

We want the gas consumers we serve—three-quarters of a million people—to know that while LONE STAR SERVICE may be in the background and seldom seen by our customers, we're always on the job, working to deliver to each community a constant supply of gas—winter and summer, in good weather and bad.

UNCLE SAM WILKINS,

COUNTY-WIDE BOYS CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED

Boys' club work is now available to all farm boys of the county through plans being worked out by J. C. Patterson, county agent. Heretofore boys 4-H clubs have been organized each spring in approximately ten rural schools with club training and advantages available only to boys attending those schools. In this manner less than ten per cent of farm boys have had opportunity to take part in organized club activities.

In order that every farm boy may have the privilege of membership in Boys' Agricultural clubs, a county wide club is being organized to which every boy who lives on a farm, and is between 10 and 20 years of age, is eligible for membership. All that is necessary for enrollment is to fill in the application blank which appears in this paper today, or write the county agent for regular application blank. Membership in the 1928 clubs close the first of May, so applications must be received before that date.

The boy wishing to become a club member selects some one or more of the standard club projects, such as livestock, field crops or poultry, and cares for the project until September or until the job has been completed. Record books are provided for each productive project, which are to be kept up to date at all times and returned for inspection at time of the annual club camp, June 1 and 2, and then again in the fall after the project has been completed.

There are a number of valuable awards for club members who make the best records in their work. At the annual club camp members are selected to attend the A & M. College short course in July; usually two members are awarded this trip, with expenses paid by their own club. Those from each club who make the best showing in the various contests get this trip and represent the county in similar contests held at the short course. Then there is the educational encampment at the Dallas fair to which four or five boys are sent with their expenses paid. Official club pins are awarded all members who complete their project and submit an acceptable record book. Liberal premiums are awarded at the county fair for club entries and various other premiums are offered to encourage good work.

Standard club projects are listed below. Any member may select one or more of these projects:
Dairy Records—Keep a complete record on one to five milk cows being milked on the home farm. Record to show amount of milk and butterfat produced; amount and cost of feed used and returns from sale of dairy products.
Jersey Heifer—Select a registered Jersey heifer calf, raise to maturity and breed to a circle bull; keep record of feed costs.
Registered Gilt—Select a registered sow pig, raise to maturity, then breed to registered male; keep cost records.
Market Pig—Pig to be fattened

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP IN COUNTY WIDE BOYS' CLUB

I hereby make application for membership in the Eastland county-wide Boy's Agricultural Club, with this project:

(Write here name of standard project which you choose)

I shall endeavor to follow all instructions, abide by rules, keep a complete record, and report on same at the end of the club year.

Clara Bow Stars In Red Hair At Palace Sunday

Three of the greatest names in motion pictures were joined to produce the new Clara Bow comedy, "Red Hair," for Paramount. Clara Bow is the star; Elinor Glyn, the author, and Clarence Badger, the director. Their previous picture together was "It." The combination which produced "Red Hair," the picture which will be shown at the Palace theater for two days, beginning next Sunday, is known the world over.

Clara Bow is known as the reigning flapper of the screen; Elinor Glyn is famous for her novels and theories of love, and Clarence Badger was responsible for the direction of "It" and many other Paramount comedies.

"Red Hair" is the story of a manufacturer whose mad flirtations with three elderly gentlemen caused lots of trouble when the right young man came along. The "right young man" in this case is Lane Chandler and the three "musketeers" are Lawrence Grant, William Austin and Claude King.

Clara Bow entered the movies by way of a beauty contest which she entered and then forgot until she was called to be judged. Harrison Fisher, Neysa McMein and Howard Chandler Christy pronounced her one of the most attractive girls in the state of New York.

ADVISORY OIL COMMITTEE TO BE CHOSEN AT FORT WORTH
FORT WORTH, April 20. — An advisory committee to direct the operation of oil from the Hendricks pool in Winkler county will be appointed at a special meeting of operators in Fort Worth Saturday.

Call for the meeting was issued Wednesday by R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission.

The final order of the railroad commission, putting a curfew on program and operation into effect in Winkler county, is expected to follow early next week.

An umpire probably will be named to carry out the orders of the commission and advisory committee once the proration formally is put into effect.

for slaughter and may be scrub, grade or pure bred. Feed protein supplement with grain ration. Keep record on monthly weight and feed used. Pig must have been farrowed between January 1 and June 1, 1928.

Baby Beef—Fatten a good feeder calf, using balanced ration; weigh every month; keep feeding records.

Miscellaneous Projects—Frequently a boy wishes to become a club member and desires to use some other than the standard projects listed above. If such project has merit and promises a profitable return and will demonstrate some advanced farm practice, request for it will be given due consideration.

Queen Marie Loses Out in Plan to Form Her Own "League of Queens"

Four queens! A good hand to hold—whether in poker or international politics.

That was the well-formulated plan of Queen Marie of Roumania until fate forced her to accept defeat.

Early in her married career as the consort of the late King Ferdinand, Marie of Roumania visualized her three happy daughters grown to womanhood as wives of Balkan kings.

The nightly bedtime tales she recited to her attentive wide-eyed children as they cuddled against her in the romantic tower of her Carpathian mountain palace, had the moral of peace—the happy time when there would no longer be terrible and costly wars.

The oldest child, Marie, fulfilled the first step in the royal plan when she was married to King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

Following closely came the love match that made Elizabeth, Queen Marie's second daughter, the royal mate of George II, King of Greece.

Success, it seemed, was to reward the plans of the Roumanian monarch. But one link was open, and one daughter—Eleana—the most beautiful of the three princesses, was coming of age to complete the chain of queens.

Greece, Yugoslavia and Roumania, the three most powerful of the Balkan states, were now united in matrimony by their rulers. Proud, indeed, and very happy was the beautiful queen mother as she surveyed the "League of Queens" developing under her direction in Eastern Europe's war-torn peninsula.

Diplomatic gossip began to unite the youngest Roumanian princess with Boris, the bachelor King of Bulgaria.

Denials came from the palace in Bucharest, but they were feeble in their tenor. It was assured, so European diplomats thought, that Eleana would marry Boris of Bulgaria, and so complete the royal hand of four Balkan queens—a mother and three daughters.

It was a brilliant plan to present as a means of formulating peace in the Balkans. The League of Nations at Geneva watched with curious eyes the progress of Marie's royal matings.

But then, just as this League of Queens appeared to be reaching the perfection so keenly desired, old man fate stepped in to cause a royal crash that echoed over Europe.

A revolt occurred in Greece. Civil war prevailed, and when the smoke had cleared away young King George and his Roumanian wife Elizabeth were on a boat straggling up the Black Sea as exiles.

That was the first hitch. The second came when Boris of Bulgaria refused to give up his bachelor state. He made it plain that when he married, his bride would be of his own choice. Diplomacy, leagues and politics would not enter into the queenly selection. His marriage would be only for love.

As a last blow at the "League of Queens," King Ferdinand of Roumania died and his grandson, the infant King Michael, was raised to the throne.

Queen Marie herself became only a member of the Regency formed to act as the baby monarch's advisory council. Of her three daughters, Eleana is still single, and Elizabeth remains in exile, an ex-queen. Only Marie retains her throne as the wife of the Yugoslavian ruler.

Thus only one of the four to make up Marie's League of Queens remains in power, and the dream of the Balkan queen fades into bitter disappointment.

HICKMAN POOL GETS TWO NEW OIL PRODUCERS

Two new wells have been added to the Hickman pool this week by the drilling in of the Midland Oil Co. and Gulf Production Co. Butler No. 2 and the Phillips Petroleum Co. Hickman No. 11. The Midland and Gulf Co.'s well extends the pool one location to the northeast and offsets the same company's No. 1 Butler to the north. The top of the sand was reached at 1241 and drilled through at 1275. The well is reported as making 165 barrels following a shot.

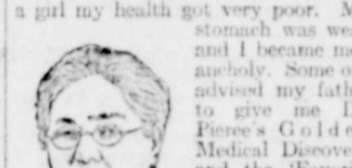

The Phillips well offsets the Butler No. 1 to the south. In this well the top of the sand was reached at 1250 and was still in the sand at 1275. A natural flow of 150 barrels is reported and preparations being made to shoot.

Around Sipe Springs interest is said to be picking up with the Mont-Tex people erecting a standard derrick over their shallow test in the middle of the Goss tract and also building a rig on the Cooper place northwest of Sipe Springs. Several contracts are said to be in the making and considerable drilling is anticipated.

GIANT SHIPS SOON WILL BE TOURING WORLD

CLEVELAND, April 20. — Rigid dreadnaught dirigibles, with a flying radius of 10,000 miles will be traveling across oceans and continents with passengers, was the prediction of V. R. Jacobs, Akron dirigible expert, in describing two giant airships which are to be constructed for the United States navy.

Jacobs forecast that dirigibles will be the major means of transportation, with airplanes feeding airliners as buses now feed the railway lines.

"The two dirigibles are wanted by the navy," Jacobs explained, "to take the place of cruisers and destroyers in scouting the seas. An airship with two airplanes, which can be carried on the dirigible, can scan 700,000 square miles in 24 hours, doing the work of half a dozen cruisers and destroyers. The new navy dirigibles will dwarf the Los Angeles. Each will be two and one-half times as large as the biggest airship now in existence.

"They will carry in addition to two or three airplanes, 28,000 pounds of water, 9,000 pounds of oil, 152,000 gallons of gasoline and a crew of 35 men and ten officers.

"The dirigibles will have a cruising capacity of from 8,500 to 10,000 miles and will be equipped with every safety device known to science.

"The United States has a monopoly on helium gas. Contrary to popular belief, there is in this country sufficient helium gas to supply all the dirigibles that will be built in this country for many years."

FORD AIRPLANE ON EXHIBITION AT AIR SHOW

DETROIT, April 20.—The Ford tri-motored metal monoplane, built for Commander Richard E. Byrd's proposed expedition to the South Pole, to begin next September, is one of the exhibits at the first All-American Aircraft Show, being held here this week.

The huge craft in which Byrd, with Bennett, who accompanied him on his North Pole flight two years ago, and Bernt Balchen, who was a member of the Byrd trans-Atlantic flight last summer, hope to circle the South Pole, is an exhibit of the airplane division of the Ford Motor company. Companion exhibits of the same company are the famous "Josephine Ford" Fokker plane in which the North Pole flight was made, and an antiquated Blériot monoplane of the type in which Heriot made his historic flight across the English channel, back in 1909.

The new Antarctic plane was completed only about a month ago, but already in trial flights it has made several enviable records. Early this week the plane returned to the Ford Airport here after a flight of more than 4,000 miles to the northern tip of Reindeer Lake in Northern Manitoba. A tail wind on this leg of the flight assisted the big plane to establish a new speed record for airplane flights between those two points.

The plane and its crew spent several days in the country north of Le Pas, testing the plane's skis in landing and taking off on rough ice and snow and also testing the cruising and maneuvering ability of the plane in temperatures far below zero. In several of the tests the temperature was 40 degrees below zero, yet the plane and her motors performed as satisfactorily as in more temperate climates. At no time during the severe test flights did the crew experience any engine troubles or unforeseen difficulties with landing or operating gear.

While this plane was built especially for the Byrd South Pole flight, its construction is the same as that of the standard Ford tri-motored monoplanes. Balchen, Bennett and Russell reported upon their return that they had not found it necessary to make any adjustments of capuretors or other items of the engine equipment to compensate for the low temperatures in which the test flights were made.

The plane, with the present fuel tanks, has a cruising radius of more than 2,900 miles. It is this plane in which Byrd expects to make the dash from his southernmost base to the South Pole and return. Two other planes, a Belanca and a single-motored Fokker, will also accompany the expedition.

Rescuers are shown searching the ruins for victims of the West Plains, Mo., dance explosion in which 32 lives were lost and 23 injured. (International Newsreel).
